Shaykh: So the first opinion is disliked for removing Najāsah and it’s fine for everything else, that’s Abū Hanīfah and the Hanbalī scholars, so the Hanābilah. The second was that it’s fine for both, and that’s the Maliki opinion. And the third was that it’s best to not use it for removing Najāsah, but it’s fine for Wudū’ and ghusl, and that’s the opinion of the Shāfi’iyyāh. And the fourth is that it’s Makrūh for both, and that’s one of the opinions in the Hanbalī madhab and that was Ibn Taymiyyāh’s opinion, and another one is that it’s haram for removing Najāsah, and that’s one of the Hanbalī opinions. And the seventh opinion is that it’s actually mustahab to with both, so I missed that opinion, that it’s recommended to do Wudū’ and ghusl with both, and that was ibn al-Zaghuni, so he was from the Hanbalī scholars. And the last opinion is that ghusl is Makrūh, and Wudū’ is fine.

Student: If ibn al-Zāghūnī said it was recommended for both, then who was the one that said it was haram?

Shaykh: That’s one of the Hanbalī opinions.

Student: Like a different guy, do you have his name?

Shaykh: Generally, with a lot of times they won’t say. The scholars in the Madhab will say “Our madhab has 3 opinions, this is there”

Student: Was the last opinion also from the Hanbalī scholars?

Shaykh: It’s from the Hanbalī scholars, but it’s also Ibn ‘Abbās(رضي الله عنهما)’s opinion.

Student: Two guys from the same madhab said the exact opposite? One said both are haram and one said both are recommended.

Other Student: Yeah, like we were just talking about, you hear that a lot, with the Hanbalī madhab, you’ll hear it a lot, you’ll have 3 different opinions on the same topic, maybe more sometimes, 6-7 opinions.

Shaykh: That’s like kind of also important to use in our daily life when someone says, you know the Shaykh told me, if the ‘ulema’ of the salaf on 1 topic might have 7 opinions and we know only one of them might be right, then really what does it matter what soe guy tells us, we should always go back to the evidence, because that’s the only thing that means anything to us.

Student: So if you don't mind, can you give me the steps of the gradings of the Hadith?

Shaykh: For their authenticity?

Student: Yeah.

Shaykh: Generally, it would go, that's again that depends on who it is, but generally if you want to look at the most of what it is used, it would be: Sahih, then Sahih li-Ghayrihi, so meaning that there's more than 1 chain for it, but each chain is Hassan but if you put them together it's Sahih, so that's the second level generally. Third, they'll say Hassan, what that would mean is that, you all know how a Hadith is narrated, so they'll have a chain, from this guy, heard it from this guy, heard it from this guy, so Hassan would be, each person is acceptable, they're not liars, they're not Kuffar, they don't have bad memory, those types of things, and they're trustworthy to narrate the Hadith, but their memory isn't to the level of people who rarely ever made mistakes with their Hadith, so those are what they would call Hassan, And then after that would be Hassan li-Ghayrihi, so meaning there's slight weakness in it, but there's more than 1, and they strengthen each other, so one of the chains has someone who's trustworthy, he wasn't a liar, he was Salih and everything, but he had kind of a weak memory, so we wouldn't accept it on its own, but there's another guy who also had a kind of a weak memory, he said the same thing, so we would say, we'll put them together, it's unlikely that they made that mistake, so that would be the next level. And then after that would be Da'if, so meaning there's a weakness in it, and then Da'if has many categories which, some of it is based on, does this Hadith contradict another Hadith, is there a liar in the Hadith.

Student: But once it's Da'if, Khalās.

Shaykh: Once it's Da'if, we don't use it for anything.

Student: So Hassan li-ghayrihi is like the bottom of acceptance?

Shaykh: Yeah, it's the lowest acceptable thing.

Student: So you can still use it.

Shaykh: You can still use it, unless say there was another authentic Hadith that completely contradicted it, then we would say, well how can we accept these ones that are weak, even if they are together, when there is a Hadith which there is no dispute on that says the complete opposite, then it would be some discussion on that.

So there's 8 opinions you wrote down, and we went over them a few times, and we mentioned the evidences on the topic, there's the Hadith of 'Alī where the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) made Wudū', there's the Hadith of Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) about if someone has fevers, that you cool them with it. There's a Hadith of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), his roof being open and Jibrīl(عليه السلام) washing out his chest with it, and then there's also the argument that mā' zamzam, and everyone accepts the idea that it is water that's blessed because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said that it's food for someone who needs food, and it's medicine for someone who needs medicine, so we know that it is better, so they say, the argument is that if we're using to clean ourselves from Najāsah and to wash Najāsah, we're putting this water down or we're not giving it the respect that it deserves, so that's the argument that they use, if they say it's haram or that it's Makrūh, so all of those things are the evidences on the topic. And then there's a Hadith from Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that i didn't mention that he said, he's talking about ma' zamzam, he said:

He said that "I do not permit someone using mā' zamzam to make ghusl, but to drink it or to use Wudū' is fine"

And that's from Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) and it's an authentic Hadith from him as well that he said that, so that's pretty all the evidences on the topic, so what do you guys would think is the strongest from all the discussion.

Student: I think it's used for everything, that's what I think is strongest, just for the fact that they seem like there's one Hadith seeing the Rasūl(صلى الله عليه وسلم) make Wudū', so that covers one section, the other one is cleaning is hard, so that means there was I guess maybe some impurity and is hard at one point. The other one is when someone has a flew, they're not in the cleanest condition, like they're not taking care of themselves, so if you're cleaning somebody with the flew or using it to cool them, I wouldn't say dirty, but they're not exactly the cleanest person, they're sick, so I don't know, I have no idea Ya'nī, I'm curious to see what your opinion is, and is there an opinion made by some 'ulema' which one is the strongest.

Shaykh: I mean each one of these, they think that's the strongest opinion right?

Student: Sah, but has the 'Ulemā' of this century, maybe all agreed on 1 or no.

Shaykh: No.

Student: So it's just whoever's opinion is...

Shaykh: Yeah, so that's why it's kind of important to have an idea to how to look at the evidences, so say there's a scholar that you trust 100%, he says something, but say there's another scholar you trust as well and he says the complete opposite, well now what do we do?

Student: But you said those 3 were authentic, right? About cleansing the heart...

Shaykh: All those Ahādīth, yeah they are authentic.

Student: All 3 are authentic, well yeah that's my opinion, I don't know, you can use zamzam for everything.

Other Student: I think you can use it for everything, but it's better to not use it for cleaning Najāsah, you can still, but it's just disliked.

Student: So when you say Najāsah, are you talking about a person's body or you talking about cleaning a washroom?

Shaykh: Any impurity, so if there was Najāsah on you, on your clothing, in your house, on the street, in the masjid someone went to the washroom, like here, that type of thing.

Student: Oh okay, well I don't know, but I guess it's the same.

Shaykh: In the end, it's the same thing, right?

Student: I think it's fine to use it for everything, but it's better not to use it for cleaning Najāsah, you can still, but it's better not too.

Other Student: I think it can be used for everything for the reason that the Hadīth is obviously talking about drinking and using it for Wudū', and if it's haram to use it for other things, the Prophet (ﷺ) would've specified that, because if you want to make something haram, where is the evidence for it, so there's no evidence for it being haram, or even Makrūh.

Shaykh: Exactly, yeah.

Student: So is there any evidence, no?

Shaykh: The evidence they use is that it's Ihānah for it...

Student: So it's just a 'aqlī/logic thing.

Shaykh: Yeah, and there's nothing clear for it, no.

Student: So that's what I think, you can use it for everything, so what do you think now?

Shaykh: Myself, I lean towards that it's for everything, the only difference I would make is say you're in your house, and your kid went to the washroom, and he said "Get me some ma' zamzam", I'm going to clean my bathroom with it, you know what I mean that's kind of different, because why...

Student: Why specify the ma' zamzam to clean with it.

Shaykh: If you just happened to have some, and you use it, I don't see any problem with that, but if there's some indication that it's being done purposely to put it down, or you don't even need too, like why are you using it, there's a short supply of it, you know people bring it from different countries.

Student: But what if you're there?

Shaykh: If you're there and that's where you get your water, there's no reason to not use it.

Student: That's kind of what I meant, I don't see it wrong to clean my body, but I'm not going to clean the toilet.

Shaykh: Because it does give you that kind of, why are you using someone blessed for something that you can use anything else for.

Student: You know, a lot of people use the logic, like even with the Qur'ān, some guy told me the Qur'ān should not be in the lower shelf, it shouldn't be below the waist, I was like okay what's the basis for that?

Shaykh: If you built a shelf now and you said, here's the Qur'ān shelf by the floor, then I'd say what's wrong with you, you're picking the bottom shelf just for Qur'āns? There's something wrong there, as opposed to the shelf is here, there's a bottom shelf, we'll put Qur'āns on the bottom shelf too, that type of thing, same thing with this.

Student: That's exactly what you mean by the ma' zamzam too.

Shaykh: Yeah, like you have all the water in the world, you're picking only ma' zamzam only to clean your bathroom, something is not right there. Even though it's Halāl, it's not giving it the kind of the respect it deserves.

Student: Since you mentioned the talk about the Qur'ān, is it permissible to put the Qur'ān on the floor, I'm not talking about a Najis floor, I'm talking about, I'm sitting down right now, I don't know I have to get up to turn something off, can I put it on the floor?

Shaykh: You can, as long as it is not being done in a way to disrespect it, or that the more respect you can give it, the better, but it's not to the point where if say I saw you do that, I would say he's disrespecting the Qur'ān, he would just happen to be sitting on the floor, he needed to grab something.

Student: I just see some people while they're reading, they're going to make sujud, they just put it on the floor.

Shaykh: Yeah, there's nothing wrong with that, that's fine.

Student: That's what I mean, he's gonna get up, then he's gonna take the Qur'ān and close it and then put it over there and then come all the way back to Sujūd, you know what I mean.

Shaykh: But say you were leaving the Masjid, now I want to put the Qur'ān right in the middle of the Masjid and leave, that's kind of a different issue. It depends on the context on how it's being done.

So we have the evidence, and some of the earlier 'ulema', what they've said, so myself it seems the Mālikiyyāh in this topic is the strongest, you can use it freely.

So next the author says Altered Water or changed water or mā' al-mutaghayir, he says:

This involves water whose form has been altered because of its being in a place for a long period of time, or because of the place in which it is located, or because of its being mixed with a substance that cannot be completely removed from it (i.e. water mixed with algae, tree leaves, and so on). The scholars agree that this type of water falls under the heading of mutlaq water.

Then he says:

The rationale is simple: everything that falls under the general term of water, without any further specifications (or conditions), is considered pure, for the Qur'ān says:

قَلَمْ تَجِدُوا مَاءً قَتَبِمَمُوءًا صَعِيدًا طَيِّبًا

Or "...and if you find not water, then go to make tayammum with clean, high ground..." so meaning that the ground is Tāhir.

So this is what he uses, do you understand how he used that Ayah to show that changed water can be used for Wudū' or for ghusl?

Student: So any natural substance, anything from the Earth that's mixed with water is still pure?

Shaykh: What he's saying, so he's saying if the water changes, so say there's a pond, so the water's just sitting there, there's no flowing water coming in and out to clean it and stuff, and it's just sitting there, and say algae will start to grow on it, or leaves in it from trees that are around and stuff like that, he's saying that this is, even though it's not regular water, it might smell different, it might taste different, it looks different, that this is still allowed to use, but then he used this verse:

Or that "if you don't find water, then you perform tayammum from a clean, high Earth", do you understand how that was used?

Student: Yes, but let's say I go to a pond, and there's 2 ponds right beside me, one of them has leaves, algae, dirt, like volcanic ash, just a bunch of stuff from the Earth. And then the other pond is clean but it has bird faeces in it or something or duck faeces, so how does that work with that, because it is natural but it's not natural at the same time.

Shaykh: First, understand, if this verse doesn't talk about changed water, if you don't find water, go to this, so anything that's water is Tāhir unless it has, you know from other evidences, it has Najāsah in it, if it becomes Najis we can't use it, Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) didn't say: "Falam Tajidu Mā'an Rākidan" or "Mā'an Jāriyan" he didn't say "If you don't find flowing water" or "if you don't find seawater", He just said "if you don't find water", so it's general. So if someone said to me, you can't use this water, you have to make tayammum, and he said, well because this water has leaves in it or anything he would say. I would say, we'll use it, Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) said if we don't find any water, then we make tayammum. This is still water, it might smell different, it might taste different, I might feel gross using it even, I mean I don't want to use slimy water or whatever, but it's still water as long as we still say that this substance here in this bowl or in this lake or whatever it is is water, that we can use it, unless there is Najāsah in it or something, so that's how the ayah is used, Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) used the word "ma'" 'Āman(general) or Mutlaqan, he didn't use any characteristics for us to say that, you know we can only use this type of water, so that is how He used the verse.

Student: Sorry I don't mean to be annoying, but this is what I mean about Najāsah, like is Najāsah from just a human being or can it be from an animal, well I know that Najāsah can come from an animal like a dog for instance, but all water has some kind of living creature in it, so let's say you're about to do Wudū', and like a bird flies over it and just poops in the water, isn't this Najāsah?

Shaykh: We'll go in very detail once we get to, there's a chapter on Najāsah, but the shortest answer is that most of the scholars say that any animal that you can eat if it's slaughtered that any waste that comes from it is considered Tāhir, so I mean obviously if it got on myself, I'll still wash it because it's gross, but it's not Najis though, so I can pray in it and there's nothing wrong with it. Say, there's an animal that's considered Najis and it crapped in the water, then we'll go into you know, but if the water was changed by the Najasah, then you couldn't use it as opposed to if it was Tāhir though.

Student: So if an animal that we can eat after being slaughtered, its waste is still considered Tāhir?

Shaykh: Most of the scholars say that, some even go further and they say, the waste from any animal except humans is considered Tāhir, but Inshā'Allāh we'll get into that when we get into the chapters on Najasah.

Student: Isn't one of the conditions for Wudū' is that "La ta'ma lah, wala rā'iha wala mutaghayyir lawnahu"

Shaykh: No.

Student: It's not one of the conditions?

Shaykh: Not with Tāhir substances, so what we say is that if the water has changed with Najāsah, so if Najāsah goes in it and it changes the smell, the taste or the colour, we can't use it.

Student: Or even if it doesn't [change colour]?

Shaykh: If it doesn't, that's a whole different issue, say you had there's a lake, and someone urinated in it on the other side, that doesn't affect the water. It has to change, but with Tāhir, like leaves or dirt or whatever it is, anything that is considered Tāhir, the only time we can't use it is if we don't call it water anymore, say you had your bath 50% full of water, and then you took ink and you pour it to the point, as long as it's still, where you'd stay this is water with ink in it, you can use it, if you say, no this is ink now, you can't use it anymore. It's ink with water, it's watery ink, as opposed to inky water, I mean which comes down to, there's a judgement call there, but the point is, since Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) permitted us to use any type of water for Wudū' and for Ghusl and for removing Najāsah, then as long as it's considered water and it's not Najas, then we can still use it. So the changing of the taste, and the smell, and the colour, that's with Najāsah.

So that is what the author mentioned, there are a few more evidences, they are very short and we'll stop, that also they show that water if it's changed or if it has mixed things in it that are Tāhir, then it's still permissible to use.

The first Hadīth is from 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that he said:

بينما رجل واقف بعرفة إذ وقع عن راحلته فوقصته أو قال فأوقصته قال النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم اغسلوه بماء وسدر

Or the Hadīth from 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that he said:

"There was a man standing at 'Arafah with the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and he fell off his riding animal, and then it stopped on him, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to wash him with water and with sidr", so Sidr is a type of tree, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) here, we know if a person dies, from the rights of a muslim is to wash him and perform ghusl for him, but here the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) told the Sahābah to mix Sidr with the water, so obviously that would change the water, so the fact that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) told the Sahābah to do this with this other Sahābī, it shows that if water changes a bit or if it has something mixed with it, or if it's Tāhir, it doesn't affect the Tahārah of the water, you can still use it.

There's a Hadīth from Umm 'Atiyyah al-Ansāriyyah, that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم)'s daughters, one of his daughters died, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) came to the women that were washing her and he said:

اغسلنها ثلاثا أو خمسا أو أكثر من ذلك إن رأيتهن ذلك ، بماء وسدر ، واجعلن في الآخرة كافورا أو شيئا من كافور

Or the Hadīth of umm 'Atiyyah al-Ansāriyyah, that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), his daughter died, he told the woman that was washing her to wash her 3 or 5 times or even more, with water and Sidr[that type of tree], and in the last time that they wash her, to put some Kafūr in it, Kafūr is camphor, it's like a type of flower or a bark of a tree, I'm not sure, but to put some of this in the last time that they wash her, so here again it was related to washing a dead person, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) permitted using this water that's mixed with other things, and we know it would change it, because the point of it was to make it smell nice, so we know that the water would've changed, so these evidences prove that if you're anywhere, whether it's in your house and there's a smell coming from your sink, something is mixed with the water, you can still use it for wudu', and same thing, some people nowadays, they'd say that the water you get from the sinks, you can't use for wudu' because it's mixed with Chlorine and it's mixed with other agents that kill gems, and they add fluorite to it for your teeth, and your bones and stuff like this, so some scholars would've said you shouldn't use this water, because it's not pure water, but we can see from this, these evidences, the Ayah in the Qur'an and the 2 Ahadith, that water if it's mixed with something that's Tahir, it doesn't affect the use of it, especially people hunting or camping, or if you live on a farm where it's well-water, and well-water always has a, even feels like a slimy almost or you can feel it on your skin, we know from these evidences, that there's no problem from making wudu' from that, Insha'Allah we'll stop there.

My dear brothers, I just want to say that we are all learning together. Please look at me as a little brother of yours who is learning the Basics of Islām. I only want you all to benefit from the words of the Scholars, my words carry no weight at all, if I ever give my own opinion AstaghfirAllāh, then do not take it into consideration whatsoever. Also, if I give any advice because of my love for you, please remember that this is only my opinion, and I can be wrong.

Imām Ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) narrated in his book "al-Jarh wal-Ta'deel" from Ibn al-Mubārak(رحمه الله); That a man said to him: Give me some advice, so Ibn al-Mubārak(رحمه الله) replied: {Know your place}.

Moreover, there's no need to ask for permission to share/copy any of my posts, please share all the knowledge around without quoting my name, may Allāh reward you all.

My final advice to everyone is seek knowledge through a Shaykh, not solely base your knowledge from FB posts, I will be mostly focusing on studying/memorising, however I will always love to share what the great Scholars have said. Develop a spirit of tolerance, even if you see someone post a weak Hadīth which some Shaykhs believe to be Sahīh, it's ignorance to condemn and rebuke them, rather Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) says to tell them that "Such Hadīth" has the following defects, and Inshā'Allāh you can reach a good conclusion with proof. Bārak Allāhu feekum 😊

This is the #Transcript of the Commentary on the Chapter of Hajj (1/27) from Al-Rawdh al-Murbi' by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

This lesson was held on 9/11/1421AH:

Bismillāhi al-Rahmānī al-Rahīm, our lesson today is a summarised Sharh of al-Rawdh al-Murbi' by al-Shaykh Mansūr ibn Yūnus al-Bahhūtī, who passed away in the year 1051AH, and this book is a commentary for "Zād al-Mustaqni'" by al-Shaykh Yūsuf al-Hajjāwī, who passed away in the year 960AH.

We have decided to choose "Kitāb al-Manāsik" from this book because of the nearness of Hajj, and it's known that this book is written according to the Fiqh of Ahmad's Madhab, and the purpose isn't to read this book for mere blessings, or merely go across the issues, like the people at Hajj around the valley of Muhassīr, rather we will go through these matters, and precisely determine what it has from correctness, and we'll clarify what it has from mistakes, and we will mention the evidences for every issue with the might of Allāh(جل وعلا), so the student can understand the proof, so that he knows the islamic matters with its proof, because zealously is abhorred, and all of the 4 Imāms abhor zealously, and some of the Scholars have gathered their statements in poetry, so he said:

Shaykh Muḥammād Saʿīd Saqar al-Madanī put together the words of the 4 Imāms condemning blind following in poetry, so he said:

"And the Guided Imāms of Knowledge say, do not act upon***our words, without a valid text to support it

This is proof that we must take from the Hadīth***And that is how it was in the past and present

The Imām, Abū Hanīfah said***It cannot be for anyone who has Islām

To take my words so that it falls in opposition***to the Hadīth and the Chosen Book

And Mālik, the Imām of the land of Migration***He said while pointing towards the chamber cells

Every speech has within it what's accepted***and within it is what's rejected except for the words of the Messenger

And al-Shāfiʿī said, if you see***my words opposing what you have narrated

Of the Hadīths, then throw at the wall***the statements of mine which go against the reports

And Ahmad said to them, do not write***what I say, rather search for the origins of that

So listen to the statements of the 4 Imāms of Guidance***And act upon it, for there is much benefit in it

To silence those who have fanaticism***And the fair-minded hold tightly onto the Prophet صلى الله عليه وسلم

And we have chosen this book based upon the request/desirability of most of the brothers present here, and because the Majority are in the medium level or above the medium level in Talab al-ilm. [pursuit of knowledge]

So that is why we don't advise the beginner to get into the Madhabs at first, especially reading these books which its terms require explanation and clarification, and sometimes some of its words/terms would have more resemblance than a puzzle, but rather he should read from "Umdat al-Qārī" and from "Bulūgh al-Marām" and take from what the report has alluded too, and there's nothing wrong if he's shown that this is the Madhab of such & such, and this is the Madhab of such & such, and that such & such has used this as proof, and the other used this, and the most correct is this & that, to the extent where his mind & understanding doesn't get confused, because he won't be able to comprehend that this is the Madhab of such & such, and this is the other Madhab.

Then comparing between the Madhāhib, then saying what's most correct afterwards, because this would dissipate his mind, and he won't be able to acquire knowledge at its full value, so that's why when the layman asks for a Fatwa, there's nothing wrong with giving him a Fatwa with what you see as most correct, in accordance to Allāh's statement: {So ask the people of remembrance if you do not know}, so whenever a Scholar or a Student of Knowledge is asked, then he replies with what he believes is most correct, however it would be more preferable for this Muftī [i.e. The one giving the Fatwa] to mention his proof, so if the layman is able to memorise the evidences with the Fatwa, then this is good, and if he's not able too, then it's completely fine if he memorises the saying of a Scholar which is based upon proof.

And for this reason, most of the issues mentioned in al-Rawdh al-Murbi' is based upon proof, especially in the rulings of Hajj and 'Umrah, so sometimes he would mention the ruling and its proof, and sometimes he would mention the ruling & its reasoning, and this reasoning is two types:

The first type: It could be correct

The second type: It could be wrong, and its author is not deprived from rewards, because "If a judge passes judgment and strives to reach the right conclusion and gets it right, he will have two rewards; if he strives to reach the right conclusion but gets it wrong, he will still have one reward."

If it is said: Why isn't this reading done from the text of al-Bukhārī, or from al-Muntaqah, or from al-Muharrār, or from Bulūgh al-Marām?

The response to this: Is that we have previously commented upon all of these books, we have explained the chapter of Hajj from al-Bukhārī many times, and we have explained Bulūgh al-Marām completely several times also, and it's also available, and we have previously commented upon al-Muharrār, as we have previously commented upon the Jāmi' of Abī 'Īsa (رحمه الله) in "al-Hajj", all of these books, with the praise of Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) have already been commented upon.

And we have chosen this book because of the desirability of the brothers as we have previously mentioned, and based upon the Tafsīl[details] in these matters, and knowing most of the rulings of Hajj, so that we know what proofs are authentic & what isn't authentic, and consequently we will be able to differentiate between the right & the wrong.

What's abhorred is if a person reads the sayings of men without examining it, and without knowing what's right from what's wrong, then this is abhorred, infact it is prohibited upon the slave to read the likes of these books without knowing the authentic of it from its weakness, and he accepts the sayings of men as if it's the sayings of the messenger of Allāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم)

Beware O person, stay away from whims***and blind following the opinions of men and emulating (them).

And do not openly display zealousness to the Madhāhib***turning your back on the Sunnah of Ahmadi (i.e. the Prophet).

Moreover, the purpose from reading this book is also raising ignorance off ourselves, so if the slave decides to perform Hajj, then learning the rulings of Manāsik[Hajj] is Fard 'Ayn, and if he isn't deciding to perform Hajj, and he has already performed Hajj previously, then learning the Ahkām[rulings & regulations] in his case is recommended.

Knowledge has from it what's Fard 'Ayn, and from it what's Fard Kifāyah, and from it what's recommended, and these recommended acts, when a person wants to start doing it, it becomes from the individual obligations in his case.

Learning the rulings of transaction is from the collective obligations, however if a person intends to buy & sell, then learning it in his case is from the individual obligations, so that he won't fall into Ribā (usury), and so he doesn't fall into the selling of ignorance, or into the selling of fraud, and similar to that.

Learning the rulings of Manāsik[Hajj] is from the collective obligations, if a slave is deciding to go to Hajj, whether male or female, then learning these rulings becomes an individual obligation.

And there are things which are Individual obligations in all cases, because it's repetitive like Salāh & Siyām, it's from the unconditional individual obligations, as for Zakāt: Whoever is able to make money, then learning the rulings of Zakāt and the portion that must be paid is from the individual obligations. And as for Hajj, if he intends to perform the obligatory Hajj, then learning these rulings is from the individual obligations.

The second point - To be aware of an important issue:

That you find from some people that if they memorise an issue of knowledge, they think they have memorised all of knowledge, so he goes out to argue, heated debates, mockery of others, belittling them & ridiculing them, or that they don't know as much as he knows, or they don't understand as much as he understands, or they don't memorise as much as he memorises, or they don't look at things the way he does, and this is an enormous disease which a slave could be inflicted with, he might perceive it or not, but regardless it's an enormous disease, and that's why the Salaf used to abhor the one who memorises an issue and makes it out to be as if all of knowledge is within that issue.

So when we learn these rulings of Hajj, we might take some comparative law amongst the Madhabs and mention what's most correct, and this doesn't mean that what I mention as being most correct is the truth, I could consider something more correct while someone else would differ with me, and others might say something is more correct, and I could say he's mistaken.

So the issues are divided into the following categories:

1. The issues that the Muslims have unanimously agreed upon, and this consensus is clear cut, there's no dispute in this, such as the obligation of Hajj, this is from the clear cut matters, such as standing at 'Arafah, this is from the clear cut matters, there is no problem in affirming this & mententioning a consensus upon it, and arguing on behalf of it, because it is from what's known in the religion by necessity.

2. Issues that the Scholars have agreed upon, however it's a speculative consensus, so the general masses are obliged to adhere to this speculative consensus, however this doesn't mean that the Mujtahideen among the Imāms and the Scholars who are firmly grounded in knowledge do not regulate the position of agreement or the position of dispute, and this doesn't mean that if someone performs Ijtihād in an issue among the issues, that we wave in his face the sword of the speculative consensus, rather it's obliged upon us to give everyone his rightful position, and this is why Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) denounced whoever claimed a consensus in the likes of these issues, and he says: "And what does he know, perhaps they differed, and whoever claims a consensus, has certainly lied". And Ibn Qudāmah(رحمه الله) did what's best, when he would comment on the likes of these issues: "We do not know of any difference of opinion in this matter" and "this is something which I haven't memorised any difference of opinion from any scholar", he safeguards what might be possible to mention a difference of opinion in the issue, he says: "I do not know any difference of opinion", or he attributes the statement to someone else, for e.g. He'll say: "Ibn al-Mundhir mentioned a consensus", "Ibn Qudāmah mentioned a consensus", so that he's safeguarded from disavowal by this statement, because many speculative consensus's are not established, and most of the time, these quoted consensus's are attached under a general topic, then you would find a difference from Abī Hanīfah(رحمه الله), or a narration from Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), or from Imām Dāwūd al-Dhāhirī(رحمه الله), or from Imām Abī Muḥammād ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), because what's correct is that the consensus is established with Imām ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), because he's a major Imām, and a Jurist, even if he is rebuked for abandoning Qiyās[analogy], and going into exaggeration in taking by the apparent[of the texts], he is still an Imām, Muḥaddith, Faqīh.

3. The differed upon matters, and the proofs are clear in it, then in this case, we must take the proofs without attacking others, and without impugning their feelings, statements and opinions, a person puts forth his opinion and says: "This is what appears to me" or "This is most correct", meaning: in my view, and it doesn't mean that if it's most correct in his view, that it's the truth in all cases, because he could make mistakes in using the proof, such as if the Ḥadīth [he used] was weak, and he could be mistaken in applying the proof in a [certain] reality, and there could be a stronger proof than his proof in the matter, so a person must safeguard himself in the likes of these issues.

4. The matters where there is no proof in it, rather it is based upon reasoning, then this is more lenient than what came before it, and imposing an opinion in the likes of these issues is ignorance. Blind ignorance is to impose your opinion upon others, especially in these matters, a person is not prevented from saying what he views is most correct, and he is not prevented from performing Ijtihād if he was suitable for performing Ijtihād, however he's prevented from making himself a custodian in the religion, and a custodian in determining the rulings and matters of Ijtihād! And a student receives such etiquettes from his teacher, if he sees from his teacher, calling others innovators and deviant, he will obtain this etiquette, and this is why you can know a student by his teacher, from his sharpness, his Fiqh, by his understanding, by his manners and etiquettes, so it's necessary to take these matters into consideration, and these are important etiquettes for the student of knowledge to know and be aware of.

The author, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him said: {Kitāb al-Manāsik}.

Many of the Fuqahā' refer to Kitāb al-Hajj as Kitāb al-Manāsik, with what is has from "al-Nasīkah", which is the sacrifice, and it's said that it's from "al-Tanassūk" which is worship, and a group of scholars say "Kitāb al-Hajj" and there is no problem in that if the meaning was known, and everyone can have their own way.

And Hajj is one of the pillars of Islām which the Muslims have agreed upon, and it is the 5th pillar from the pillars of Islām in most of the Ahādīth, as that has been mentioned in the Ṣaḥīḥayn and others from the Ḥadīth of ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "And [due] to Allah from the people is a pilgrimage to the House - for whoever is able to find thereto a way. But whoever disbelieves - then indeed, Allah is free from need of the worlds."

Allāh's statement: "But whoever disbelieves", it is said: by the abandonment of Hajj, and this is the Madhab of 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb(رضي الله عنه), and ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), and a narration from Ahmad(رحمه الله), and the Madhab of Ṣa'd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), and a group from the Māliki Fuqahā', and it is one of the two statements from ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه).

So based upon this saying: The one who intentionally abandons Hajj without an excuse would become a Kāfir, by the general meaning of the verse where Allah says: "But whoever disbelieves", and Kufr here: is Major disbelief which takes one outside the fold of Islām.

And several scholars have held the view, and it is one of the two narrations from Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله): That whoever abandons anything from the Pillars of Islām, then he's a Kāfir, so whoever abandons Ṣalāh, then he's a Kāfir, and this is agreed upon by the Ṣaḥābah, and this Ijmā' has been mentioned by Ishāq(رحمه الله), and Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) says: "Whoever abandons Zakāt, then he's a Kāfir", and this is a saying from a group of scholars, and they used the Ḥadīth of Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه) as proof: "those amongst the Arabs who wanted to become apostates became apostates", for their rejeotance of Zakāt, and he also called the abandoner of Siyām & Hajj a Kāfir.

And some of the scholars said: he doesn't disbelieve except by abandoning the Shahādātayn and the Ṣalāh, because of the Ijmā' regarding that, but as for the abstainer of Zakāt, whoever doesn't fight over that, and the abandoner of Siyām and Hajj, then they do not disbelieve, because when the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) mentioned the abstainer of Zakāt, and the Ḥadīth is in Muslim, he said: “and he whether his path is to take him to Paradise or to Hell”, because if he was a Kāfir, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) wouldn’t have said “Either takes him towards Jannāh or takes him towards the Hellfire”, because the Kāfir will not smell the fragrance of Paradise, and this is the view of the Majority of the Scholars[that the abandoner of Hajj is not a Kāfir].

And those that do not make Takfīr upon the abandoner of Hajj, say that if the abandoner of Zakāt didn’t disbelieve, then it would be more deserving for the abandoner of Hajj to not disbelieve, and they responded to this verse: “But whoever disbelieves”, they said: Whoever says that Hajj is not compulsory, then this is the Kāfir, and this is proven from ibn ‘Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that he said this statement, when he said: “[And whoever disbelieved], meaning: he claimed that it’s not compulsory”

And a group of scholars said: “But whoever disbelieves” meaning: Whoever claims that it’s decidable between doing it and leaving it, then this is the Kāfir, and as for whoever denies the obligation of Hajj, then he’s a Kāfir by Ijmā’, even if he performed Hajj.

{Kitāb al-Manāsik}: The plural of “Mansik” and “Mansak”, and it is worship, and “al-Tanassūk” is worship, however this phrase is commonly referred to the acts of worship at Hajj, and that is because of its many types, and because it is accompanied with al-nusuk which is al-Dhabihah [sacrifice], as Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: “Say, “Indeed, my prayer, my rites of sacrifice[nusukī], my living and my dying are for Allah , Lord of the worlds.”, Nusukī meaning Thabahī(my sacrifice), and because of this, the Muslims have agreed that whoever sacrifices to idols, or the Jinn, then he’s a Kāfir, because sacrificing is an act of worship, and averting an act of worship to other than Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) is Kufr.

The author(رحمه الله) says: {And al-Mansik by principle is al-Nasikah which is al-Dhabihah(sacrifice)} meaning, wherein a person gets closer to his Lord, The Majestic & Most High. [جل وعلا]

And al-Hajj is said: “Most famously with a Fatha on the ح” and a group [of scholars] said with a Kasrah, what’s most common is with a Fatha, and it’s valid to place a kasrah on its “ism”[super-noun], so if the “Source” is intended, what’s most common is the Fatha, and the most used among the Linguists, and this is opposite to the month “Dhīl-Hijjāh”, so it’s with a Kasra on the ح which is most common as well, and it’s also allowed to say it with a Fatha, so the First is most commonly said with a Fatha & it’s permissible to say it with a Kasrah, and the Second is most commonly said with a Kasrah and it’s permissible to say it with a Fatha, and “al-Hajj” with a Fatha is easier for the utterance of the tongue, and the month “Dhīl-Hijjāh” with a Kasrah is easier for the tongue to pronounce as well.[pronunciation لفظ]

The author says: {Al-Hajj was obligated on the 9th year AH} and this is the view of a group of Scholars, and it’s the saying of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) in a narration, and this issue is one of which the scholars differed upon, when was al-Hajj obligated? So it’s said: It was obligated on the 6th year AH, and it’s said: It was obligated on the 10th year AH, and it’s said other than that.

And what’s most apparent, and Allāh(جل وعلا) knows best, is that al-Hajj was obligated on the 9th year AH, and on this year Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه) performed Hajj and ‘Alī(رضي الله عنه) was with him, with the muslims, and in the 10th year AH, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) performed Hajj, and it’s not proven from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) that he performed Hajj [twice] after the Hijrah, and the reported Hadīths that mention him performing Hajj twice after the Hijrah are all Munkar[Denounced], Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله), Ahmad(رحمه الله), al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) and a group among the Muhadithīn have absolutely certified its Nakārah[discrepancy].

The authors statement: {Al-Hajj linguistically refers to al-Qasd(intent)}, Intent; meaning: Towards who you are exalting, and it’s referred to ‘amal(action), especially that the Hajj is a ‘Amal(action), and even though the phrases that are subject to defining it linguistically is used more than its islamic meaning, it could accompany that [meaning] and more, as it’s mentioned regarding the Salāh linguistically as du’ā.

The author said: {In the Sharī’ah, it means intending to go to Makkāh for a specific deed}, and if the author restricted that, as to say: “Intended Makkāh in worshipping Allāh(جل وعلا) in a specified action” it would be preferred, because if it’s said that the definition of Hajj according to the Sharī’ah is: Intending Makkāh for a specified action, the businessmen & other than them can be entered into that, who do not want [to perform] Hajj, because the ‘Amal includes business/trade and other than it, so if he said “in worship to Allāh” it would be certainly understood that it’s talking about the Hajj which has the performance of ritual rites, especially that most of the actions in Hajj are rituals, so it is done in obedience to al-Rahmān, and in humiliation to the Shaytān.

So the definition of Hajj in the Sharī’ah: Intending Makkāh in the worship of Allāh(جل وعلا) by performing specified acts, therefore it includes the Islamic & Linguistic meaning, so it is having the intent in worshipping Allāh(جل وعلا) by performing specified acts, and we’ve previously mentioned that Hajj in the language is Al-Qasd[intent – going towards].

The author’s saying: “At a specific time”, so if the day of ‘Arafah has passed, Hajj is surpassed, and the most common Hajj: [is in] Shawwāl, Dhul-Qa’dah and the first 10 days of Dhil-Hijjāh, so if the day of ‘Arafah has passed, Hajj is surpassed, because al-Hajj is ‘Arafah, and whoever enters into Hajj on the night of ‘Arafah, his Hajj is accepted as long as the day of sacrifice hasn’t come yet.

Then the author began explaining al-‘Umrah in the language, so he said: “Linguistically, it is al-Ziyārah(visitation)”, because he visited the Ka’bah, and al-‘Umrah is also referred to the Minor Hajj, and that is because the ‘Umrah imitates Hajj in al-Ihrām[clothing], Tawāf, Sa’ī, shaving or trimming, and ‘Umrah is entered into Hajj until the day of Judgement.

The author's saying: "And according to the Sharī'ah, it is visiting the Ka'bah for a specific reason", and if he said "In worship to Allāh (جَل وَعَلَا), visiting the Ka'bah for a specific reason", this would be better, and more "Ashmal"[exclusive] than the author's definition.

He says: {for a specific reason}, the intention of entering into al-Nusuk is a pillar from the pillars of Hajj & 'Umrah, and some people do not distinguish between the intention of entering into the Nusuk and Ihrām, so they consider this as this & this as this[i.e. Both the same], and this is wrong, because if a person wore his Ihrām and didn't intend to enter into the Nusuk, then slept, and his friends circulated him, so he made Tawāf & Saī while he was asleep, or lost consciousness[i.e. Fainted], his Hajj & 'Umrah wouldn't be accepted according to Consensus, without any difference of opinion in this issue, because he didn't intend to enter in the Nusuk, so he must make his intention to enter into al-Nusuk, and this is opposed to al-Talbiyah, even if the Talbiyah is embodied with the intention of entering into the Nusuk, except that the Talbiyah isn't a condition for the validity of Hajj or 'Umrah, and the place for intention is in the heart, and uttering the Nusuk is prescribed, as though he says "Labayka 'Umrah", or says "Labayk Hajjan", or says "Labayk Hajjan wa 'Umrah", so whoever says "Labayka 'Umrah", then this is the one performing 'Umrah or al-Tamattu', and whoever says "Labayka Hajjan", then this is one performing Hajj on its own, and whoever says "Labayka 'Umrah wa Hajjan", then this is the one performing both 'Umrah & Hajj, as for the saying of some people for the one doing 'Umrah who says: "Labayka 'Umrah Mutamati'an Bihā ila al-Hajj", then this isn't correct, and there's no basis for this, the Hadīth of 'Ā'isha (رضي الله عنها) in the Sahīhayn is explicit in the matter that when she mentioned the Muttamati'eena, she said: "Ahlū bi-'Umratin", and she didn't say "Ahlū bi-'Umratin Muttamati'eena bihā ila al-Hajj", the meaning of this is the objective[main goal], but as for its utterance, there's no basis for it, however whenever he says: "O Allāh I intend to do 'Umrah or O Allāh I intend to do Hajj on its own", this is a Bid'ah, it has been narrated in the Sahīhayn from 'Ā'isha (رضي الله عنها) that the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Whoever innovates in our matter what is not from it, then it's rejected", and al-Bid'ah: It is an innovation in the religion without proof, and it's not proven from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم), nor any of the Sahābah, nor the Imāms of the Tābi'eena that they used to say: "O Allāh, I intend to do such and such", rather they used to chant[Talbiyah] "Labayka 'Umrah or Labayka Hajjan or Labayka 'Umrah wa Hajjan" without the utterance of this intention "O Allāh I intend to do such and such", as for the utterance of the intention in Salāh and other than that, then this is Bid'ah in all cases, such as him saying: "O Allāh, verily this Salāh is for You" or "O Allāh I have intended al-Salāh", "O Allah this 4 rak'at is for you, so accept it", this is all Bid'ah, and it's not proven to utter anything among the deeds except at Hajj or 'Umrah, without him saying: "O Allāh I intend to..."

The author said: {And they are both Compulsory} i.e. Al-Hajj & 'Umrah, as for the obligation of Hajj, there's no dispute regarding this among the Muslims, and there's no dispute among the Scholars that Hajj is one of the Pillars of Islām, as the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Islām is built upon 5, bearing witness that there is no deity worthy of worship except Allāh, and that Muḥammād is the Messenger of Allāh, and establishing the Salāh, and giving Zakāh, and Fasting Ramadān, and performing Hajj around the Ka'bah", and this is all agreed upon from the Hadīth of 'Omar (رضي الله عنه), but as for the obligation of 'Umrah, there's a difference of opinion in that:

The first saying: That 'Umrah is Compulsory, and this is the most common view in the Madhab of Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله), and it is one of the 2 sayings from Al-Shāfi'i (رحمه الله), and it is the Madhab of Mālik (رحمه الله), and they used as proof, Allāh's statement: "And complete the Hajj and 'Umrah for Allah", and they also used the general evidences as proof in this topic, such as the saying of the Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم): "Perform Hajj for your father & 'Umrah", And the wording of 'Umrah is narrated from the Hadīth of Ibn 'Omar when Jibrīl (عليه السلام) came to the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) when he said: "Islām is to bear witness that there's no deity worthy of worship except Allāh, and that Muḥammād is the Messenger of Allāh, & establishing the Salāh, & giving Zakāh, and Fasting Ramadān, and performing Hajj around the Ka'bah and perform 'UMRAH", this is addition is found in al-Dāraqutnī (رحمه الله), and he authenticated it.

The second saying in the matter: That 'Umrah is not obligatory, and Allāh's statement: "And complete the Hajj and 'Umrah for Allah", there's no proof from the verse regarding the obligation of Hajj nor 'Umrah, rather the verse is simply alluding towards the obligation of completion, nothing else, and the obligation of Hajj is taken from other proofs, as for this proof, there's no Hujjāh in it.

And as for the addition: {And to perform Hajj and 'Umrah}, then it is anomalous [not authentic], the Hadīth has been narrated from several authorities in Muslim and others without this addition, and as for the Hadīth of Abī Razīn al-'Uqaylī, when he came to the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم), he said: {Verily, my father is an elderly man, he's not able to perform Hajj or 'Umrah}, so he(the Prophet) replied: "Perform Hajj & 'Umrah on behalf of your father", what's meant by this is doing it on his behalf, the Hadīth doesn't mean it's obligatory to do 'Umrah, rather it's permissible to do it on behalf of your father for Hajj or 'Umrah. And the view of 'Umrah not being obligatory is a narration from Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله), and it is the Madhab of Abī Hanīfah (رحمه الله), a statement from the Shāfi'iyyāh, and that was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله).

And likewise, 'Umrah is not obliged upon the inhabitants of Makkāh, as it has been narrated from ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنهما), 'Attā (رحمه الله), and a group of Scholars, even though ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنهما) is among those who obligate 'Umrah, except that he doesn't obligate it, in 1 of the 2 narrations [from him], upon the inhabitants of Makkāh.

The author, may Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him, says: {And by the Hadīth of 'Ā'isha (رضي الله عنها), she said: O Messenger of Allāh, do women have any Jihād, so he(the Prophet) replied: "Yes, they have a Jihād which involves no fighting, performing Hajj and 'Umrah"}

And this report was narrated by Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله) and Ibn Mājah (رحمه الله) from the chain of Muḥammād ibn Fudayl, from Ḥabīb ibn Abī 'Umrah, from 'Ā'isha bint Talha, from 'Ā'isha the mother of the believers, from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم).

The evidential viewpoint from this Hadīth is the Prophet's saying: "They have a Jihād", so this is a proof regarding the obligation of Hajj and 'Umrah at least once in a lifetime.

However, the authenticity of the addition 'Umrah is questionable, the Hadīth has been narrated by Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh from the chain of Khālid and 'Abd al-Wāhid, from Ḥabīb ibn Abī 'Umrah, from 'Ā'isha bint Talha, from 'Ā'isha the mother of the believers, she said: "O Messenger of Allāh: We see that Jihād is the greatest of deeds, shall we not perform Jihād? So he(the Prophet) replied: "For you, the greatest Jihād is Hajj Mabṛūr", and al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) also narrated it from the chain of Sufyān, from Mu'āwiyah ibn Ishāq, from 'Ā'isha bint Talha, and there's nothing from these narrations that mention 'Umrah, so it is not memorised.

And there is a narration from Jābir which is attributed to the Messenger, when he asked the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) about 'Umrah: Is it compulsory? So he(the Prophet) replied: "No, but to perform 'Umrah is better for you", however this report is defected, and it's not authentic as raised to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), what's correct is that it's authentic upon Jābir(رضي الله عنه).

And they also said: By principle, it's not compulsory, because these narrations are weak, and we have previously responded against those who considered it obligatory.

The author, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him said: {And if that is confirmed for the women, then it would be more deserving for the men}, meaning: If the obligation of 'Umrah is affirmed upon the women, then it would be more deserving [to be obligatory] for the men, however it can be said: The affirmation of that upon women isn't correct, because the addition of 'Umrah is Shatha (weak), and by principle it's not obligatory (unless proven with an authentic text), so it's not permissible to leave the principle except with clear proof. And 'Umrah is included within Hajj till the day of judgement, so whoever performs hajj, it's as if he's performed 'umrah, and even if we said that 'umrah is obligatory, the 'Umrah of the Mutamatti' completes the (required) 'Umrah in Islam.

The author, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him, says: {If that is established}, meaning: If the obligation of Hajj and 'Umrah is established, "then it's obligatory upon the Muslim", because the Hajj of a Kāfir is not accepted, and this is from what the Muslims have agreed upon, the Muslims have agreed that the Hajj of a Kāfir is not accepted, so if a Kāfir performs Hajj, then enters into Islām after he finishes from Hajj, it won't suffice the Hajj of Islām by the agreement of the Scholars, and a consensus has been mentioned by several Scholars.

Then the author said: {The free person}, he excluded from that, the slave, i.e. the one who is owned/possessed; Hajj is not obligatory upon him, however it's accepted from him, and does it suffice him from the Hajj of Islām or not? 2 opinions amongst the Scholars, the author, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him, will allude towards them, and we'll mention both sides.

The author's saying: {the sane person}, he excluded from that: The insane person, because there is no Takleef(moral obligation) upon him, the pen has been lifted off him, and the pen has been lifted off 3 people: "From the sleeper until he wakes up, and from the child until he matures, and from the insane until he wakes up" i.e. Becomes sane.

The author's saying: {the capable person}, what is meant by capable here is the one who has the ability, and the capability can be the provisions and ride[for travelling], regardless if he owns or rents it, and the ability of riding, then this provisions has details attached to it:

So it's stipulated to be that it is what is sufficient for his needs and the needs of his family, and the author will mention all of this soon, and we'll elaborate on inshā'Allāh, and the proof for that in general is Allāh's statement: "And [due] to Allah from the people is a pilgrimage to the House(i.e. Ka'bah) – for whoever is able to find thereto a way (i.e. Sabeelah)"

And the Scholars differed regarding the Tafsīr of al-Sabeel, so it was said: It is the provisions and ride for travelling, and we'll come to it inshā'Allāh, and on top of that, the ability to ride, and having a Mahram for the woman.

The author's saying: {Once in his lifetime}, Ibn al-Mundhir(رحمه الله), ibn 'Abdīl Barr(رحمه الله), Abū al-Wazīr(رحمه الله) and others have mentioned a Consensus that Hajj is not obligatory upon a Muslim man, except once in a lifetime, and the woman is just like the man [regarding that], and if it is done more than once, then it is voluntary, and doing them both voluntarily is prescribed, based upon the Hadīth of 'Āsim ibn Abī al-Najūd, from Shaqīq, from 'Abdullāh, that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Perform Hajj and 'Umrah consecutively, for they remove poverty and sin as the blacksmith removes impurity from iron and gold", and in the Sahīhayn from the authority of Abī Hurayrah, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Making 'Umrah is an expiation for the sins committed between it and the previous 'Umrah", even the Major Sins according to the opinion of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), and according to the Majority of the Scholars, it's confined to the Minor Sins, "and Hajj Mabṛūr doesn't have any recompense except for Jannāh", and it's also narrated in the Sahīhayn from the Hadīth of Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Whoever performs Hajj, and doesn't do shameless deeds, nor transgresses, he returns back like the day his mother gave birth to him".

The author, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him, said: {Based upon the Prophet's saying: "Hajj is [only obligatory] once, whatever is performed beyond that, then he is volunteering", narrated by Ahmad & others}.

And this Hadīth was narrated by Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله), al-Dārimī(رحمه الله), al-Dāraqtunī(رحمه الله), and al-Hākim(رحمه الله) from the chain of al-Zuhri, from Abī Sinān al-Du'alī, from ibn 'Abbās, and the report has been narrated in Sahīh Muslim from the chain of al-Rabī' ibn Muslim, from Muḥammād ibn Ziyād, from Abī Hurayrah, that he said: The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) delivered to us a sermon, and said: "O people, Allāh has obligated upon you Hajj, so perform Hajj", so a man said: Every year O messenger of Allāh? So he(the Prophet) remained silent until he said it 3 times, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "If I said yes, it would be obligatory[every year], and you wouldn't be able to do so", meaning: You won't be able to perform Hajj every year, however Allāh(جل وعلا) is the all-Wise, he places the matters in its right place, He is Merciful with his servants, He didn't prescribe them to perform Hajj every year, but rather legislated it once in a lifetime, and this is from the goodness of the religion of Islām, "Allāh doesn't burden a soul with what it can't bear"

The author says: {So Islām and sanity are both conditions for it to be obligatory and valid}, meaning: It's not obligatory upon the Original Kāfir, and this is according to all Scholars, just as it isn't obligatory upon the Apostate according to all the Scholars as well.

The author said: {Reaching maturity and freedom are both conditions for it to be obligatory and completion, falling beneath validity}, meaning: It's not obligatory upon the Child, because he is not morally obligated, however if he performs Hajj, it's accepted from him, however it doesn't complete the Hajj of Islām, as is the statement of the Majority of the Scholars.

The author said: {And capability is a condition for it to be obligatory, falling beneath validity}, wherein if an elderly man or sick person performs Hajj, it will suffice, so whoever was able to do so, then it's obligatory upon him, and whoever isn't able to do so, then it's not obligatory upon him, however if the one who is not capable performs Hajj, it will suffice him, infact an Agreement of all Scholars has been mentioned by several Scholars that the Hajj is sufficient for an incapable person if he was able to take a great deal of courage for himself.

The author, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him, said: {So whoever has the conditions fulfilled, it's obligatory upon him to go perform Sa'i immediately, and he's sinful if he delays it without an excuse, based upon the Prophet's saying: "Rush towards Hajj, i.e. The obligatory one, verily none of you knows what will happen to him", narrated by Ahmad}.

And this Hadīth is narrated by Ahmad(رحمه الله), Ibn Mājah(رحمه الله), and in the chain is Ismā'īl ibn Khalīfah al-'Absī, he has a weak memory, and it has also been narrated by Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) and Ahmad(رحمه الله) from the chain of Abī Safwān, from ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), and it was authenticated by al-Hākim(رحمه الله), but Abū Zur'ah(رحمه الله) said about Abū Safwān: "I do not know of him".

And the Imāms, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon them, differed regarding Hajj, is it to be done immediately or can it be delayed? There are 2 sayings from the scholars regarding that:

The first saying: That Hajj is to be done immediately, and this is the Madhab of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), because laxation/delayment doesn't have a fixed time period which could be regulated, and until when is the deadline for this delayment? And because it's obligatory, so if the conditions of its obligation & acceptance have been met, it's obliged upon him to perform Sa'i towards that, in obedience to the command of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) and the command of His Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said, as we have previously mentioned in the Hadīth of Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه): "Verily Allāh has obligated Hajj upon you, so perform Hajj", and this is a command, and commands are taken as obligatory, and there's no dispute in this, and it is upon immediacy as long as there is no proof which contradicts that, and based upon this, a group of Scholars held this view, among them is Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), and it's a saying in the Fiqh of al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله), and Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) mentioned that this was held by the majority of the Scholars.

The second saying: That Hajj is to be done in laxation, even if he was able to perform Hajj, because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) performed Hajj in the 10th year AH, and Hajj was obligated in the 9th year AH.

In response to this, it could be said: That the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) didn't perform Hajj because of an excuse, until the Ka'bah was cleansed from Shirk & Mushrikin, and because when the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) sent Abā Bakr and 'Alī, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) be pleased with them, he ordered them to announce to the people: "That no Mushrik can perform Hajj after this year, and no naked person can perform Tawāf around the Ka'bah", and as for whoever possesses provisions and a ride, and he has the ability, then it's obligatory upon him to rush forth.

And because if it's said that it's done in laxation, then what is the regulation for this laxation? If he reaches 16 years old, or 17 years old, when is the deadline for this laxation? So there would be widening without any regulation, however a person might refrain from Hajj because of the inability to find righteous friends who he can perform Hajj with, this might be an excuse among the excuses, or he cannot find someone to teach him, guide him, and explain to him the rulings of Hajj, this might be an excuse among the excuses, as for whoever possesses provisions and a ride [for travelling] and the conditions have been fulfilled, and there's no Sharī prevention, then this person is sinful for delaying Hajj.

And because based upon this saying that it's upon laxation, and we said that the abandoner of Hajj is a Kāfir, based upon 1 of the 2 sayings as we have previously mentioned, when does he become a disbeliever?! So if he reaches 15 or 16 years old and didn't perform Hajj, then died, shall we say that he's a Kāfir while his conditions [for Hajj] have been met? Or do we say that he's not a disbeliever? And that is why the proofs of those who say that it's to be done immediately is strong, and this was supported by Imām Abū Muḥammād ibn Hazm(رحمه الله تعالى).

The author, may Allāh have mercy upon him says: {If he is no longer a slave, as in a slave who was freed during the state of Ihrām...}. We will stop here, and continue that tomorrow Inshā'Allāh.

[Questions]:

The brother asks that there's a brother who doesn't pray and he performed hajj at a particular time, will his Hajj be valid?

Answer: We would say, did he pray at Hajj or not? If he prayed at Hajj, then he has entered into Islām and become a Muslim and his Hajj is valid. And if he abandoned Salāh afterwards, we would call him a disbeliever, however if he returns back to Islām, his deeds would return back to him.

This is according to the most correct opinion amongst the scholars, because Allah said "And whoever of you turns away from his religion(to disbelief) and dies while being a disbeliever"

The meaning of this Āyah is that if he returns back to Islām, his deeds will return back to him, and the deeds aren't nullified except if he died upon disbelief, and this is one of the two sayings from Imam Ahmad, and that was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh.

Question: What if he prayed after he entered into the Manāsik of Hajj?

Answer: In reality it is considered that he entered, especially since a group of scholars view that the abandoner of Salāh is a Hypocrite, he is not considered on the level of a Mushrik & similar to that, and based upon this, Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) views that he inherits and is inherited from, because he is considered on the level of a Hypocrite.

Question: What is the ruling on a child performing Hajj for someone else?

Answer: This will come shortly inshā'Allāh & we'll clarify it, and that whoever is not obliged to perform Hajj, he won't suffice the Hajj of other than him, wherein if a slave or child performs Hajj for someone else, it won't suffice the Hajj of that person, because he is not morally obligated, and this is the opinion of the Majority of the Scholars, and we'll mention all of this soon inshā'Allāh, we haven't come to it yet. We will talk about the issue of whether the Hajj of a child is accepted or not, the majority of the scholars prohibit it, however there's a saying from Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) that the Hajj of a child is accepted, because there's no proof prohibiting him, and the Hajj of a slave is accepted, because he's a person, who's morally obligated like the rest of people, it's accepted from him. However the Majority of the Scholars use as proof the statement of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه): "Memorise from me and do not say ibn 'Abbās said: Any child who performs Hajj, then reached maturity, must perform another Hajj, and any slave who performs Hajj, then is freed, must perform another Hajj", inshā'Allāh we'll discuss that, and the differences and the arguments of that.

Questioner; Regarding the general statement of 'Abdullah ibn Shaqeeq al-'Uqayli that the Sahabah didn't view anything abandoning as Kufr, except for Salah...?

Answer: The Scholars have also unanimously agreed that the abandoner of Jins al-'Amal [the manifest obligatory actions in Islam] in all cases is a Kāfir, a consensus has been mentioned by Al-Ajurri(رحمه الله) in "al-Sharī'ah", and a consensus was mentioned regarding that by Imām Ibn Battāh(رحمه الله), and several scholars have mentioned a consensus, all of these scholars said that the one who abandons Jins al-'Amal is a Kāfir unrestrictedly. There are things, a person becomes a disbeliever by mere speech, a person can become a disbeliever by mere actions, a person can become a disbeliever by mere belief, so when a person denies an agreed upon matter or permits an agreed upon matter [being Harām], then he becomes a disbeliever according to all scholars. Disbelief can occur from denial, it could occur from belief, such as believing that the judgement of other than the Prophet is greater than the judgement of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم). And disbelief can occur from actions, such as prostrating to a grave or idols, performing Tawāf around the graves, and disbelief can occur from speech, such as insulting Allāh(سبحانه) and the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم), explicit mocking of the religion. And disbelief can consist of what has previously been mentioned, and Disbelief can occur from mere abandonment, such as abandoning the ruling of what Allāh has revealed, abandoning Salāh completely, abandoning Jins al-'Amal completely, these are all types of Kufr according to the Scholars, and as for Hajj and Zakāt and Siyām, then there's a difference as we have previously mentioned. As for making the saying of 'Abdullāh ibn Shāqīq al-'Uqaylī(رحمه الله) "The companions of the Prophet did not see an action that was Kufr other than Salāh" as a textual evidence to say that the abandoner of such and such & the abandoner of such and such, except what is mentioned in the Hadīth, then this is not correct.

Another Answer: We are talking about the aspects of Fiqh, we're not speaking about the aspects of other matters such as the 'Aqīdah of a man etc...The truth is accepted from whoever came with it, if the truth came from an Ash'arī, a non-Ash'arī, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) accepted the truth from a Jew, "O Muhammad, Allah holds the heavens on one Finger, the earth on one Finger, the mountains on one Finger, the trees on one Finger, and all creatures on one Finger, and He [i.e. Allah] says, (I am Sovereign)", the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) laughed/smiled in approval of the saying of the Rabbi.

The Hadīth is agreed upon in its authenticity from the Hadīth of ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه), we don't ask about the 'Aqīdah of the person in the likes of these issues, and the people still remain benefitting from those who have mistakes in the 'Aqīdah aspects, the people right now like investigators upon some of the books that are ascribed to the Madhab al-Ash'arī, reading their books, relying upon it, and looking into it, while being cautious from what they affirm that goes against the 'Aqīdah of Ahlāl Sunnāh wal-Jamā'ah, the people are still reading the books of al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) while he is upon the Madhab al-Ash'arī (in certain issues), and the people are dependant of the books of Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) in Hadīth and Fiqh and other than that, while he has many interpretations in the names and attributes of Allāh(جل وعلا), while I do not see that al-Hāfidh ibn Hajar(رحمه الله) is Ash'arī.

It's correct that Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) has mistakes where he agreed with the Madhab of the Ashā'irah, however this doesn't mean that everyone who made a mistake in the names and attributes of Allāh(جل وعلا) is classified among the Ashā'irah, we say that he's Ash'arī in the topic of the names and attributes, but as for saying Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) is completely an Ash'arī, then this is not correct, this is not correct, because he responded against the Ashā'irah in many issues, he responded against the Ashā'irah on the topic of Āhād Hadīths, he responded against the Ashā'irah on many matters, so he's not an Ash'arī in every aspect, yes it's correct that he agreed with the Ashā'irah on the Names and Attributes, but to classify him as an Ash'arī in the names and attributes of Allāh(جل وعلا), this can be acceptable, as for labelling him an Ash'arī in every aspect, or labelling Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) an Ash'arī in every aspect, this is not correct. Then afterwards arranging on top of that, (saying) it's not allowed to benefit from his books, this is not correct, we know about the mistakes of al-Hāfidh al-Nawawī(رحمه الله), the mistakes of al-'Izz ibn 'Abd al-Salām(رحمه الله), the mistakes of al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr(رحمه الله), yet the people are still benefiting from their books, while warning against what they have which goes against what Ahlāl Sunnāh wal-Jamā'ah are upon.

Even greater than these, ibn Hajr al-Makkī, the author of the book “al-Zawājir”, he has many mistakes in Tawhīd al-ilāhiyyāh, and in Tawhīd al-Asmā' wal-Sifāt, he even has mistakes in Tawhīd al-Rubūbiyyāh, and with all that, the people are still benefitting from his books, some of the Scholars such as Shaykh Ibn Sahnān when he spoke about him in “al-Durar al-Saniyyāh”, he said: “May Allah deal with him accordingly/fairly”, infact some people refrain from sending Allāh's mercy upon him, and in “al-Durar” when he was asked about him in some places of al-Durar, he said: “His books can be benefitted from, and what he mentions about the Major Sins and other than that, while warning against the other matters”, so Ahlāl Sunnāh wal-Jamā'ah are in-between the distorted sects, (like those) that say everyone who makes a mistake, it's incumbent to put aside his mistakes(i.e. ignore it), or (those who say) we won't accept from (anyone) except an infallible man, like the Rāfidah, this is what's intended ya'nī.

This is a really detailed article about the Murji'ah, and it will prove that many modern day "Salafī's" are infact upon the Madhab of the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah, it will outline the main deviances of the Murji'ah of our time with proof, and give a good explanation on who are these Murji'ah, beneficial background information and many narrations from the Salaf regarding them and their evil. I have translated the article from the Lectures of Shaykh Turkī(الله حفظه) while adding some additional notes, May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) make it beneficial to those who read it.

Now, just to give you all a brief summary of some of the characteristics and deviances of the Murji'ah of our time, you must know that the Murji'ah of our time have many characteristics which agree with the Khawārij of the past, among the biggest trait they have taken is "Being soft with the Kuffār and harsh against the Muslims", such as crying day and night for the Mushrikīn and Apostates, while speaking against & condemning the Muwāhhideen and the best of the Muslims with the worst of names and labels. They apply the verses that were revealed upon the Kuffār over the Muslims, and they have even gone further than the Khawārij of the past and applied the Verses upon the Muslims over the Kuffār.

The Murji'ah of our time deny the Ijmā' of the Muslims frequently, such as the following Consensus's of the Scholars, and try their best to distort the statements of the Scholars and even lie against them to correct their beliefs, among the consensus's that they go against and distort are:

- 1) The consensus of the Salaf regarding the one who replaces the Shari'ah of Allāh with man-made laws; Believing that legislating manmade laws, complete abstinence from ruling by the Shari'ah, or resisting to rule by the Shari'ah, seeking judgement from Tāghūt, are all just minor Kufr, that do not exit the doer from the religion of Islām, except with Istihlāl. Istihlāl is to believe his sin to be permissible. So they make the sins of major Kufr and major Shirk equal to lesser sins like adultery, drinking alcohol, etc., by placing the condition of Istihlāl on the major Kufr, which only exists as a condition for minor Kufr.
- 2) The consensus of the Salaf which was quoted by Imām Ibn Hajr(الله رحمه) in Fath al-Bārī & others regarding the Obligation of revolting against the Kāfir or Apostate ruler. Today they say, even if he's a Kāfir, do not revolt against him. Exaggerating the concept of excuse due to ignorance with regards to the rulers even if they pronounced their Istihlāl of their legislating man-made laws, they will always find an excuse for the rulers to go against the Consensus of the Ummāh. This point on revolting against the rulers will be discussed in further detail Inshā'Allāh.
- 3) The consensus of the Salaf which was quoted by Imām Ibn Rajab al-Hanbalī(الله رحمه) in Jāmi' al-'Ulūm wal-Hikam & others, the Ijmā' of the Salaf that being forced in harming other muslims such as killing them & similar to this isn't considered 'ikrah' [coercion]. Now, they have abolished this Ijmā' as well, and one of the worst crimes that certain groups amongst Murji'ah have made is justifying spying against the Muslimīn for the Kuffār and harming the Muslims to assist the Kuffār, and this is Apostasy from the religion, Walā Hawla Walā Quwata ilā Billāh.
- 4) The consensus of the Salaf in the Apostasy of supporting and assisting the Kuffār against the Muslims; Believing that major Walā' (alliance/friendship) with the Kuffār is not major Kufr, unless the person internalises a Kufr intention, such as wishing to aid the religion of Kufr, or to destroy Allāh's Religion, etc. So if one were to lead the crusade against Islām, head it, support it by wealth and blood, he would still be a Muslim, until he pronounces the internalised intentions of Kufr. So they do not make the act itself Kufr, until this innovated condition is proven.
- 5) They reject the consensus that was mentioned by Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh(الله رحمه) pertaining the permissibility of attacking the enemies/criminals who take innocents as human shields. Burdening, i.e. making it extremely difficult and condemning the Muwāhhideen, saying such and such is completely Harām etc...They also innovate false conditions to defend Muslim Land, such as saying "You must have permission from the ruler".

What is the secret behind why the Murji'ah have been welcomed by the Scholars and the Masses? Ibn Kathīr(الله رحمه) narrates from the path of Ibn 'Asākir(الله رحمه) in al-Bidāyah wal-Nihāyah(10/276) that Al-Ma'mūn asked what is Irjā'? Al-Nadr Ibn Shumayl(الله رحمه) who is one of the Imāms of the Muslims replied: "Irjā' is a religion that agree's with the rulers, they gain from the Dunyā with it, and lose from their religion", he (i.e. The ruler Al-Ma'mūn) said "you have stated the truth". That's why the Murji'ah are widespread in gatherings & the mosques, because the rulers love them, so don't be surprised if you see the official stance of the governments & their opinions in agreement with the Murji'ah.

- Why were they called Murji'ah, it's because they went too extreme in hope, unlike the Khawārij who went too extreme in fear. As Imām Ibn al-Qayyim(الله رحمه) said: "Verily the Muslim is like a Bird, his head is Mahabbāh (Love of Allāh), and one of his wings is fear (i.e. From Allāh and his punishments), and the other wing is hope (i.e. Hope of the forgiveness/pardoning of Allāh and hope of what Allāh has promised for the believers, righteous etc..)". So we do not give dominance to one wing over the other, because a bird cannot fly with 1 wing, the Khawārij know that Allāh is severe in punishment, yet they forgot that Allāh is the most merciful and most forgiving, whereas in opposition to them, the Murji'ah took "The Most Merciful and Forgiving" and abandoned "Severe in Punishment", but Ahl al-Sunnah wal-Jamā'ah are balanced in the middle, they took both matters together, they know that Allāh is severe in Punishment and know that Allāh is the most merciful and forgiving. So this is one of the reasons why they were called Murji'ah, however this is the weaker view.

The correct reason why they were called Murji'ah is because Irijā' in the Arabic Language means To Delay/Postpone, as Allāh said about Fir'awn and his: "They said, "Postpone [the matter of] him and his brother and send among the cities gatherers" [7:111], they are referring to Mūsa(عليه السلام) and his brother Hārūn(عليه السلام). And Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) says: "And [there are] others {deferred} until the command of Allah - whether He will punish them or whether He will forgive them. And Allah is Knowing and Wise." [9:106]

So Irijā' means to delay/postpone, and the Reason why they were called "Murji'ah" is because they postponed/separated actions to be from Ēmān, and they didn't include Actios within the reality of Ēmān, and the Murji'ah divided into 5 deviant sects:

1) Murji'at al-Fuqahā', these are the least in deviation, they defined Ēmān as Speech & Belief, however they agree with Ahlal Sunnah in making Takfīr upon whoever commits a nullifier of Islām, how so? According to Ahlal Sunnah, whenever a Muslim falls into a nullifier of Islām, they make Takfīr upon him with the correct guidelines in the Sharī'ah based upon that nullifier he committed. As for Murji'at al-Fuqahā', they make Takfīr upon him as well, however they don't make Takfīr upon him because he committed that nullifier, rather they say, this act of Kufr which this individual committed indicates the Kufr within his Heart, so the end result, they made Takfīr upon whoever committed an act of Kufr, but they based this upon the Kufr within his Heart, because this act of kufr shows to us that he is a Kāfir in his heart, even if he claimed otherwise.

Important Note about Murji'at al-Fuqahā': Whoever says "Musayhif" (i.e. Little Mus-haf, it's sort of a belittling way of saying Mus-haf) or "Musayjid" (i.e. Little Masjid, it's sort of a belittling way of saying Masjid), has disbelieved according to the Hanafī's (the majority of whom are from the Murji'at al-Fuqahā'). Also whoever prays intentionally without Wudū' has disbelieved according to the Hanafī's, so they included nullifiers of Islām that the Majority of the Scholars didn't include as nullifiers.

So even though they were mistaken in defining Ēmān, except that it comes to applying it upon the incidents, realities and specific individuals, they agree with Ahlal sunnah wal-Jamā'ah, unlike the Murji'ah of our time who do not make Takfīr upon whoever commits an act of Kufr, unless he believes that act to be permissible in his heart, and the Murji'at al-Fuqahā' applied the rulings of Takfīr upon individuals correctly, unlike the Irijā' of going into exaggeration in completely separating between "general" and applying it "specifically" upon the individuals, so those people who say this is Kufr in "general", but don't apply it upon anyone, so they see the act as Kufr, but don't see anyone as a Kāfir, whereas by principle in the Clear Major Kufr and Clear Major Shirk, the ruling is applied upon the individual according to the correct guidelines of Ahlal Sunnah wal-Jamā'ah. Unlike the Unclear Matters that require removal of misconceptions until the ruling is applied upon the individual, but due to this Irijā', they do not differentiate between the two and consider everything "unclear" or even if it's clear cut, they still won't apply it, especially on the rulers, wherein millions of excuses are made.

We have the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah who are two types:

2) The first type: Jahmiyyah, the Salaf refer to them as the Ghulāt among the Murji'ah, how do these Jahmiyyah define Ēmān? They say "Ēmān is acquaintance(ma'rifah)", whoever knows Allāh (in his heart), he's a believer. Whatever he does of the Mukaffirāt or Nawāqidh al-Islam [Nullifiers of Islām], he's still a believer, the most important thing is to know Allāh to become a believer. The Shaykh of this misguided sect is "al-Jahm ibn Safwān", these Jahmiyyah say this corrupt statement pertaining Ēmān. What is given off from their corrupt statement is that Iblīs is not a Kāfir, because Iblīs as some of our contemporary Mashāyikh have said: "If Iblīs had a state today, we would find from the Murji'ah of our time who would place a patch for him(i.e. Cover his Kufr), and affiliate him to Islam". How so? Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said about Iblīs: {He said,"My Lord, then reprieve me until the Day they are resurrected."} [15:36].

So Iblīs believes in the Rubūbiyyāh of Allāh, he believes in day of resurrection, calls upon Allāh without an intermediary. Therefore Iblīs believed in some of the matters, however he disbelieved due to his rejection and arrogance.

But based upon the view of the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah, i.e. the Jahmiyyah, their speech necessitates that Iblīs didn't disbelieve. And their speech also necessitates that Fir'awn and his nation are from the people of Ēmān, because Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said about them:

{And they rejected them, while their [inner] selves were convinced thereof, out of injustice and haughtiness. So see how was the end of the corrupters.} [27:14].

So Fir'awn and his people, when they rejected (the truth) by their speech and actions, but deep down in their hearts, they recognise true Ēmān and affirm it.

So what necessitates from the speech of the Jahmiyyāh is that Fir'awn is a Believer, their speech also necessitates affirming Ēmān for the Jews, as Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said:

{Those to whom We gave the Scripture know him as they know their own sons. But indeed, a party of them conceal the truth while they know [it].} [2:146]

Meaning, the Jews know that the Prophet Muhammad(صلى الله عليه وسلم) is upon The Haqq and Sidq, however they went against him. So it's necessary for the Jahmiyyah to affirm Ēmān for the Jews, and likewise affirm Ēmān for the Mushrikin! As Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said:

So based upon the words of the Jahmiyyāh, that the Mushrikīn who the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) fought are considered from the people of Ēmān. They must also affirm the Ēmān of Abū Tālib because he said: “And I know that your Dīn (i.e. Muḥammad) is from the best religions out there”

So the speech of the Jahmiyyah necessitates affirming Ēmān for all those we mentioned, and that is why large numbers from the Scholars of the Salaf made Takfir upon Ghulāt al-Murji’ah, among those who were from them, Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal, Imam Wakī Ibn al-Jarrāh(رحمه الله) who is the Shaykh of Imām al-Shāfi’i(رحمه الله) & Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), also Imām Nāfi(رحمه الله) and Imām Abū ‘Ubayd(رحمه الله), and many others, they made Takfir upon the Ghulāt al-Murji’ah, the Jahmiyyāh.

3) The second type: After the Jahmiyyah [who we just mentioned], from the Ghulāt al-Murji’ah, we have the Ghulāt al-Murji’ah from the Ashā’irah and Mātūrīdiyyah and those who adopted their statements. How do they define Ēmān? They say: “Ēmān is Tasdīq(affirmation in the heart alone)”, so a person doesn’t become a Kāfir unless he declares it Halāl from his heart or rejects it in his heart, as for other than that, no matter how many nullifiers and acts of kufr he commits, he won’t disbelieve. This is according to the Ghulāt al-Murji’ah from the Ashā’irah and Mātūrīdiyyah etc...

4) The Karrāmiyyāh, and these people have the most absurd kind of falsehood, they say Ēmān is “Speech alone” even if he doesn’t believe in his heart or do actions by his limbs, and this necessitates calling the Munāfiqīn “Believers” since they say on their tongues what is not in their hearts, and this absolutely falsifies the Madhab of the Karrāmiyyāh, so unlike the Ghulāt al-Murji’ah who say “Ēmān is only in the heart”, the Karrāmiyyāh say “Ēmān is only on the tongue”, so those Hypocrites who openly claim to be Muslims are True Believers according to them, because whatever is on the heart doesn’t effect Ēmān at all.

5) The most evil and filthiest type of Murji’ah are the Murji’ah of our time, because they claim to follow the Madhab of the Salaf, claiming their Ijrā’ is the same methodology as the Salaf, deceiving the general masses, whereas in reality, they have the beliefs of the Ghulāt al-Murji’ah, so these people are the filthiest of sects, why? Because they teach and deceive people in the name of the Salaf, we’ll prove this:

This book (i.e. That the shaykh displays) is published and written by “The counsel of Senior Scholars” the Lajnah al-Dā’imah (i.e. The Standing Committee) not the “Khawarij” or “Takfeeri’s” [like they call us], this book is for “The counsel of Senior Scholars”, the title of the book is “Al-Tah’tīr min al-Ijrā’ wa Ba’dh al-Kutub al-Dā’iyat ilayh”, i.e. “Warning against Ijrā’ and some of the books that call towards it”, I will mention 1 scenario: On page 26, they mentioned the books of ‘Alī al-Halabī who is among the heads of the murji’ah of our time, they wrote an introduction, then said about this Murji’ who claims to be a Salafi, they mention:

1. “The author based it (i.e. His book) upon the Madhab of the false innovated Murji’ah, who restrict Kufr to Juhūd (denial), Takthīb (belying) and Istihlāl al-Qalbī (declaring it lawful in the heart)”.

2. “Distorting the words of Ibn Kathīr(رحمه الله) in al-Bidāyah wal-Nihāyah, where he (i.e. ‘Alī al-Halabī) mentioned in his Hāshiyah (i.e. Footnotes) on page 15, quoting Ibn Kathīr (incorrectly) that Gengis Khān claimed that the Yāsiq is from Allāh, and this is the reason why they disbelieved!”, so this is the reason why the Tatār disbelieved according to this Murji’, he falsely attributes this to Ibn Kathīr(رحمه الله) that this Yāsiq (i.e. The Kufr constitution they ruled by in contradiction to the Qur’ān and Sunnah) comes from Allāh, so the Murji’ah today come along and say “He doesn’t disbelieve for ruling by man-made laws unless he says this constitution is from Allāh”, and this is from the most absurd kind of falsehood. And the Counsel of Senior Scholars continued to say: “And when we returned back to the quoted area, what he attributed to Ibn Kathīr(رحمه الله) is not present!”

3. “Distorting the words of Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyah, where he attributed to him, in his so called book, that replacing the hukm (of Allāh) is not Kufr according to Shaykh al-Islām, except if it was from acquaintance, belief in the heart, and Istihlāl (declaring it lawful); and this is pure distortion of the words of Shakh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله), for he is a spreader of the madhab of the Salaf, Ahl al-Sunnah wal-Jamā’ah. And their Madhab (i.e. Regarding ‘Alī al-Halabī’s statement) as it was previously mentioned, that truly this is the Madhab of the Murji’ah!”

4. “Distorting the meaning of the words from the respected Shaykh Muḥammad Ibn Ibrāhīm in his book (Tahkīm al-Qawānīn al-Wad’iyyah), where he claimed (i.e. ‘Alī al-Halabī) in his so called compiled book, that the Shaykh (i.e. Muḥammad Ibn Ibrāhīm who was the Muftī of Bilād al-Haramayn of the past) stipulates Istihlāl al-Qalbī (i.e. Declaring it lawful in the heart), despite the words of the Shaykh being clear like the clearness of the Sun in his titled Risālah (where he followed) upon the path of Ahl al-Sunnah wal-Jamā’ah”.

~ End Quote from “al-Lajnah al-Dā’imah” (i.e. the Fatwas of the Standing Committee for Scholarly Research and Issuing Fatwas), the ones who certified and approved of this Fatwā were: Shaykh ‘Abdullāh Ibn ‘Abdul Rahmān al-Ghadayyān, Shaykh Bakr Ibn ‘Abdul ‘Azīz Ibn ‘Abdullāh Abū Zayd, Shaykh Sālih Ibn Fawzān al-Fawzān, and the Head (of the standing committee) is Shaykh ‘Abdul ‘Azīz Ibn ‘Abdillāh Ibn Muḥammad Āl al-Shaykh.

So these murji’ah, what do they do? They adorn themselves with the adornment of the Salaf al-Sālih falsely and deceitfully, then they say and consolidate the madhab of the Ghulāt al-Murji’ah, who Imam al-Dhahabi described him as by saying: “Ghulāt al-Murji’ah, Ghulāt al-Jahmiyyah, Ghulāt al-Karrāmiyyāh, they were unsettled by the Dunyā, and they became disbelievers”, this is what he says in his time, so then what about during our time where Fitān is unsettled, where people are deaf, dumb and blind.

So we now say, what is ur proof O speaker [i.e. Shaykh referring to himself] to attribute them to the madhab of the Murji'ah, they say they are from the salaf, and they say that they're spreading the madhab of the Salaf, so how can you claim that they are from the Murji'ah?

When they come and claim that we are from the Khawārij, we ask them for proof and mention to them the Usūl of the Khawārij (i.e. What is the Usūl of the Khawārij, prove we are from them). And we say to them if they refused or remained stubborn or acted arrogantly, we say to them what 'Omar ibn 'Abdūl 'Azīz (رحمه الله) said, when he was informed about some of the Khawārij he said: "Come to us, so we can have a debate with you", so whoever claims that we are from the Khawārij, we say to him, come to us and have a debate. So you can prove that we say and go by the Usūl [Principles] of the Khawārij, which they cannot prove.

However, we are able to prove with clear-cut undoubtable displayable evidence that they are from the Murji'ah, because the Murji'ah have 1 "Asl" [Principle], whoever says it, then he's a Murji'! And it is separating actions from "Ēmān", and shortly it will be proven that many of those who call themselves "Salafi" are infact upon the Madhab of the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah, since they say about the nullifiers of Islām "He only disbelieves if he makes it Halāl in his heart", this person has excluded "actions" from Ēmān and Kufr!

Now, we say these [people] are Murji'ah, what is the proof for that? We will come to the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah, the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah who the head of them is Bishr al-Marīsī, they call them the Murji'ah al-Marīsiyyah, and the Murji'ah of our time are the closest in resemblance to the Murji'ah al-Marīsiyyah. They say "Nobody disbelieves except if he made Istihlāl or Jahada [denied the text]", according to who? The Murji'ah al-Marīsiyyah..

1. Let us come towards these [modern day murji'ah], these people, some of them in definition and consolidation agree with the Salaf al-Sālih, so they define Ēmān as "Belief, Speech, and Actions", some of the Murji'ah of our time give this definition, from the aspect of Talbīs [Deception] and Tadrīs [Mixing Truth with Falsehood].

2. And some of them in (defining it) agree with the Murji'ah al-Fuqahā', they say "Ēmān is belief and speech, and actions aren't included within Ēmān".

3. And a third type of the Murji'ah of our time even in consolidation(i.e. Ta'sīl), they agree with the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah, so he defines Ēmān that it's "Affirmation in the Heart alone", such as 'Abdul 'Aziz al-Rayyis, and he quotes the statements of 'Alī al-Halabī, who we mentioned earlier that the "Counsel of Senior Scholars" responded against. He says in some of his books, whoever prostrates to Budha or an idol or to the sun or the moon or the cross, if it was for worldly gain and intent, he doesn't disbelieve, except if he makes it Halāl to do so in his heart (i.e. Istihlāl). This is the 'Aqīdah of Jahm ibn Safwān, infact al-Jahm ibn Safwān makes Takfir upon such a person, however he says: "This person didn't do this, except that he doesn't know about Allāh in his heart", even al-Marīsī disagrees with them, so they surpassed their [Ghulāt Murji'ah] shaykhs. Likewise this claimer (i.e. Al-Rayyis) says, that "Whoever kills one of the prophets of Allāh, he doesn't disbelieve except after all the conditions are fulfilled", and he mentions conditions which Allāh has never sent any proof for down. Ponder over this, whoever kills one of the Prophets of Allāh! This is how far they reached [in their Irjā'].

So the main point is that the Murji'ah of our time are of various types in definition and a consolidation, however in {application}, ALL of them agree with the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah.

Let us come to give 1 example, by examples, the statement will be clarified. Right now, when we say to them, define Ēmān to us, they say "Belief, Speech and Actions", and what is Kufr? Kufr is the opposite of Ēmān. So kufr would be, if he defined Ēmān like this according to Ahl al-Sunnah wal-Jamā'ah, Major Kufr that takes one outside the fold of Islam can be by "Belief, Speech and Action", however during examination, investigation and precise scrutiny, it becomes clear that they restrict all the Mukaffirāt [Acts and Speech of Major Kufr] to Istihlāl [declaring lawful what's Harām] and Juhūd [denying] which both deal with the heart.

For e.g. We'll say to him, what do you say about the one who insults Allāh (جل وعلا) and His Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم), he will say "Kafir", so we'll say to him, why did you make Takfir upon him? He would say "I do not make Takfir upon him, unless he declares it lawful to insult Allāh (جل وعلا) and the Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم)", so if you ask them "Is it Kufr to ally with the Kuffār against the Muslims?", they will say "It's only Kufr if he believes it's Halāl in his heart or 'loves' the religion of the Kuffār", so in reality he doesn't make Takfir solely on the act or the saying (actions and speech), but he rather makes Takfir due to I'tiqād (belief) and Juhūd (denial) which are limited/restricted to the heart. This is how the Early Ghulāt al-Murji'ah would do, they wouldn't make Takfir upon anyone, except if he did Istihlāl or Juhūd.

So just to explain it more and more, there are Nawāqidh al-Ēmān (Nullifiers of faith) and there are Nawāqis al-Ēmān (Shortcomings of Faith), there are Mukaffirāt and there are Kabā'ir. And the Judgement upon these two matters, you have the Khawārij, and in contradiction to them, you have the Murji'ah, and in the middle you have Ahl al-Sunnah wal-Jamā'ah.

1) The Khawārij make Takfir upon the one who commits Major Sins and Nullifiers of Islām, they make Takfir upon them all, and they do not differentiate between the two, whether they made Istihlāl or not, all of them are declared Kuffār.

2) And in opposition to the Madhab of the Khawārij, the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah do not make Takfir upon the one who commits Major Sins and Nullifiers of Islām, unless they made Istihlāl or Juhūd [rejection/denial].

3) Ahlal Sunnah wal-Jamā'ah differentiate between the two matters:

1. With regards to Nawāqidh al-Islām, Ahlal Sunnah make Takfīr upon whoever commits a Nullifier of Islām according to the Guidelines of the Sharī'ah, whether he made Istihlāl or didn't make Istihlāl.

2. As for the Major Sins, then Ahlal Sunnah do not make Takfīr upon the one who commits major sins, except if he makes Istihlāl.

Now, we say to the Murji'ah of our time, what is the difference between the Major Sin and the Nullifier? And I asked this question to many of the Murji'ah, and they weren't able to answer it. Since you guys stipulate Istihlāl al-Qalbī for the nullifier and major sin, and by this it becomes apparent, that the only Nullifier for you is the Istihlāl al-Qalbī [declaring it lawful in the heart], and not insulting Allāh and the Messenger, or prostrating to an idol or shirk in Allāh etc...But rather it's declaring lawful these matters [i.e. nullifiers].

Therefore, the Murji'ah do not have anything that is from the Nullifiers of Islām, except for the Nawāqidh that are related to the Heart, which is "Juhūd" [i.e. Denial of the text] "Takthīb" [i.e. Belying the Qur'ān and Sunnāh] and "Istihlāl" [i.e. Declaring lawful what's been made Harām].

This is the short summary pertaining to the Madhab of the Murji'ah of our time, they say "We are upon the Madhab of Ahlal Sunnah wal-Jamā'ah", we tell them "What's the difference between the Kabīrah (Major Sin) and the Nāqidh (Nullifier of Islam)?"

You guys say, if a person who commits a Major Sin, he doesn't disbelieve unless he makes Istihlāl, and we agree with you in this. Then when we come towards the Nullifier [of Islam], you guys also say he doesn't disbelieve unless he makes Istihlāl, therefore you have made the Nawāqidh [Nullifiers of Islam] like the Kabā'ir [Major Sins], which doesn't take one outside the fold of Islam, except with "Belief in the heart"

That is why you find them doing explanations on books that talk about Apostasy and the Murtaddīn, and the Nawāqidh al-Islām such as the Risālah [Treatise] of Shaykh al-Mujaddīd Muhammad ibn 'Abdul Wahhāb(رحمه الله). The murji'ah of our time dedicate themselves to quickly explain these Nawāqidh, why? This is not a Sharh [Explanation], rather it is restricting and placing constraints and obstacles, which no Hujjah or Proof has been sent by Allah, in relation to those Nawāqidh, therefore they are from the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah.

Likewise, whenever the Murji'ah of our times are asked about Takfīr upon the Tawāghūt, Mushrikīn and Murtaddīn, they say "Allāh won't ask you about it on the day of judgement" or "you are not responsible for them, you have nothing to do with them", whereas Shaykh Muhammad Ibn 'Abdul Wahhāb(رحمه الله) refutes this misconception of the Murji'ah.

Al-Shaykh al-Mujaddīd Muḥammād ibn 'Abdīl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) says as it's also mentioned in al-Durar al-Saniyyāh, the second volume, page 119, he says giving advice to his followers and students, so he says "Allāh Allāh my brothers, regarding the foundation of your religion"

Ponder over this, the foundation of your religion, it's not a command from the Furū'(branches) and it's not a command from the Mustahabbāt or recommendations, he says:

"Allāh Allāh my brothers, regarding the foundation of your religion, bottom to head, firstly & lastly, and it is to bear witness that there's no deity worthy of worship except Allāh and to know its meanings and to love its people and to make them your brothers, even if they were far away from you, and to hate the Tawāghūt and disbelieve in the Tāghūt and to hate whoever loves them or argues on their behalf and doesn't disbelieve in them or says, what do I have to do with them, or says Allāh hasn't made me responsible for them, then this person has lied against Allāh & fabricated a big lie, rather Allāh has obligated upon him to disbelieve in them"

How many of the Murji'ah of our time say these words today, so he says "What do I have to do with them", "Allāh hasn't made me responsible for them", "Is Allāh going to ask you on the day of judgement why you didn't make takfeer upon Fulān & Fulānah?", so Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) says generally about those that say "What do I have to do with them, Allāh hasn't made me responsible for them, then this person has lied against Allāh and fabricated a big lie, rather Allāh has obligated upon him to disbelieve in them"

I'll show you all something of what the Salaf have said about the Murji'ah, there is so much quotes from them, but here is a few for you guys to understand the reality of the Murji'ah and be warned from them, even though most of these statements of the Salaf are directed to the least harmful Murji'ah, whom are the Murji'at al-Fuqahā', so imagine the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah, and imagine the Murji'ah of our time.

It has been narrated from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), which was reported by Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) on the Authority of Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Two groups in my Ummāh have no Share in Islām, the Murji'ah and the Qadariyyah", and the chain of narration has been spoken [negatively] about.

Imām al-Tabarānī(رحمه الله) and others reported on the authority of Mu'adh ibn Jabal(رضي الله عنه), that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "A warning against the Murji'ah has come from the tongue of 70 Prophets", and likewise the chain has been spoken [negatively] about.

Imām al-Tabarānī(رحمه الله) and others also narrated, which Al-Albānī(رحمه الله) mentioned in "Al-Silsalati al-Sahīhah", and al-Albānī said "Its chain is strong", that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Two groups of my Ummah will not come to me at the pond, the Qadariyyah and the Murji'ah"

Sa'īd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), this righteous Imām, who is the student of Ibn 'Abbas(رضي الله عنهما), he passed away 95 AH, and all these quotes that you're going to see here was narrated by Imām al-Lālakā'ī(رحمه الله), Imam Ibn Battah(رحمه الله), Imam 'Abdillāh ibn al-Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) and others:

Sa'īd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) said: "The Murji'ah are the Jews of the Qiblah", and once Sa'īd Ibn Jubayr was asked about the Murji'ah, so he replied: "The Jews!", he's speaking about the Murji'ah.

Imām Abū Ja'far Muhammad Ibn 'Alī ibn al-Hussein(رحمه الله) said: "There is nothing in day or night more similar to the Jews than the Murji'ah"

And I say the basis for the Salaf comparing the Murji'ah to the Jews, is for several reasons, and the most prominent reason, is that the Jews said about the ruling of other than Allah was "Kufr duna Kufr" (i.e. Minor Kufr). You might ask, where is the proof for that?

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said in Āli 'Imrān: "Do you not consider, [O Muhammad], those who were given a portion of the Scripture? They are invited to the Scripture of Allah that it should arbitrate between them; then a party of them turns away, and they are refusing." [3:23]

What was their proof and justification for doing so? Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) says: "And they say, "Never will the Fire touch us, except for a few days." Say, "Have you taken a covenant with Allah ? For Allah will never break His covenant. Or do you say about Allah that which you do not know?" [2:80]

So based upon this, they say it's Kufr Dūna Kufr, because the one who commits Major Sins will not eternally abide in the hellfire. So the Jews were the first ones to say that the ruling of other than what Allah revealed (in all of its forms) was Kufr Dūna Kufr.

Likewise, it has been narrated from Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), that he said to one of his students (i.e. Ayyūb): "Did I not see you with Talq?!", he replied: "Yes, what's wrong with him?", he (i.e. Sa'īd ibn Jubayr) said: "Do not sit with him, for verily he is a Murji'"

Do you guys know who Talq is? He is Talq Ibn Habīb, Ayyūb said: "I did not see anyone who worships Allāh more than him, or someone who is more obedient to his parents (than him)", this is Talq ibn Habīb, yet the Imām warned from him because of his Irjā'.

Likewise Dhar Ibn 'Abdillāh al-Hamadānī who I spoke about in the previous lesson, he is from the Murji'ah, yet he revolted against al-Hajjāj with those who revolted [against al-Hajjāj], and on top of that, he gave Salām to Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), yet he didn't respond to his Salāms because of his Irjā'.

Imām Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله) who passed away in the year 96AH, he says: "The Fitna of the Murji'ah is greater than the Fitna of the Azāriqah", and he says: "I fear for the Fitna of the Murji'ah upon the religion of Islām more than the Azāriqah"

Do you guys know who are the Azāriqah? The Azāriqah are the worst sects of the Khawārij, they are the followers of Nāfi' ibn al-Azraq al-Khārījī, they are the most extreme sect among the Khawārij, yet Imām Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī see's that the Fitna of the Murji'ah is greater than the Fitna of the Azāriqah.

And Likewise, Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله) says "The Khawārij according to me are more excused than the Murji'ah"

Therefore, do not become amazed when you know and realise that Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) the author of the "Sahīh", he says: "I wrote from 1,000 Scholars, I did not write except from whoever says Ēmān is Speech and Actions, and I did not write from whoever says that Ēmān is Speech without Action".

Ya'ni, even the Murji'at al-Fuqahā' [The least deviant Murji' sect], Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) did not narrate Hadīth from them, however you will find him narrating from in his "Sahīh" which is the most Authentic Book after the Book of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), he narrated from who? He narrated from 'Imrān Ibn Hittān al-Khārījī, and 'Imrān ibn Hittān isn't from the laymen of the Khawārij, he is not a "nobody" from the Khawārij, rather he is as al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) said in Hidāyat al-Sārī in the introduction of Fath al-Bārī, he says about him: "He is from the heads of the Khawārij, their Muftī, their Judge, and their poet", this is 'Imrān Ibn Hittān, yet despite this, Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) narrated from him in his book "al-Sahīh", yet he didn't narrate from anyone among the Murji'ah.

So ponder over the situation and reality of the Salaf, and their comparison between the Manhaj of the Khawārij, despite its misguidance and corruption, compared to the Manhaj of the Murji'ah.

Likewise, from the sayings that have been narrated from the great Imām Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله), is that he said to one of his students (i.e. Maymūn ibn Abī Hamzah), he said to him: "Do not invite this cursed one to enter upon me, since he has spoken Irjā'", Who does he intend by this? He intends Hammād Ibn Abī Sulaymān. Do you guys know who is Hammād? He is the Shaykh of Imām Abū Hanīfah al-Nu'mān(رحمه الله), Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله) says about him (i.e. Hammād): "Do not invite this cursed one to enter upon me, since he has spoken Irjā'", Ya'ni when he adopted the Madhab of the Murji'ah.

Likewise, Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله) says, when some of his students asked him (i.e. Abū Hamza al-Tammār), he said to him: "Who are the Murji'ah", he (i.e. Ibrāhīm) replied: "Awā! Roll up this speech, for I fear upon the Millāh (i.e. Religion) from them, I fear for them (i.e. Their evil) upon the Ummah of the Muslimin, their evil is so much! So you must be warned from them.”

I say, May Allāh have mercy upon him, so imagine if he lived in our times and saw their immense great evil widespread everywhere, Walā Hawla Walā Quwata ilā Billāh.

Likewise Imām Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله) says: “The Murji'ah left the religion flimsier than a very thin garment”, so these are some of the statements of Imām Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله).

Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) was asked about a man who is upon the Madhab of the Murji'ah, so he (i.e. Mālik) said: “Do not marry (anyone) to him” i.e. if he comes to ask for your daughters or sisters hand or those who you are guardians over, “Then do not marry (anyone) to him”, as the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: “If a person with good character and Dīn comes to you, then marry him” (note: Hadīth has been criticised and weakened by several Muhaddīthīn), so Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), the Imām of Dār al-Hijrah [i.e. Al-Madīnah] isn't pleased with his character or Dīn [i.e. The Murji'].

Likewise, Imām Sufyān ibn 'Uyaynah(رحمه الله), who passed away in the year 199AH said: “As for the Murji'ah who say that Ēmān is without action...”, ponder over these [words], he's speaking about the Murji'at al-Fuqahā' [That say Ēmān is belief and speech, excluding only action], and not the Ghulat al-Murji'ah [Who say Ēmān is only belief, excluding speech and action], he (i.e. Sufyān Ibn 'Uyaynah) says: “As for the Murji'ah who say that Ēmān is without action, then do not marry them, and do not eat with them, and do not drink with them, and do not associate with them, and do not pray with them, and do not pray upon them”.

That is why when the Janāzah [Funeral Prayer] was held for one of the Imāms who adopted the [‘Aqidah] of Irjā', who is Mus'ar ibn Kidār, the narrator said: “I did not see in it [i.e. the funeral prayer] Sufyān al-Thawrī or Sharīk ibn 'Abdillāh al-Qādhī (the judge)”, they did not used to pray over the Murji'ah just as they did not used to respond to their Salāms as it has been shown from the actions of Sa'd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), and likewise Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله), when Ibrāhīm al-Taymī passed by him and gave him Salāms, he (i.e. Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī) didn't respond to his Salāms due to his Irjā'. So Sufyān Ibn 'Uyaynah(رحمه الله) orders to exile those Murji'ah.

Likewise, Imām Sufyān al-Thawrī(رحمه الله), a student of his (i.e. Muhammad Ibn Yūsuf) came to him, he entered upon his Shaykh, i.e. Sufyān al-Thawrī(رحمه الله), this mountain and Imām in Knowledge! He came to him with the Mushaf in his lap, and he is going past the pages of the Mushaf and is reading from it, and he says: “There is no one further away from this (i.e. the Qur'ān) than the Murji'ah”, Ya'nī don't tell me this and that deviant sect, the most furthest deviant sect from the book of Allah is the Murji'ah, this is not my statement or the statement of Fulān and Fulān, but rather it's the statement of the outstanding masters of the Scholars from the Salaf of the Ummāh.

And this Imām al-A'mash(رحمه الله), i.e. Sulaymān ibn Mahrān, he takes an oath and says: “By Allāh, in who there's no deity worthy of worship except him, I did not see anyone more evil than the Murji'ah”, who is the one taking the oath? Imām Sulaymān ibn Mahrān (i.e. Al-A'mash) who the Imām have agreed upon narrating from him, and many Imāms of Hadīth were students of his, some of whom we mentioned previously such as Sufyān al-Thawrī(رحمه الله).

And this Imām al-Mughīrah al-Tabbī(رحمه الله), he also takes an oath and says: “By Allāh, in who there's no deity worthy of worship except him, the Murji'ah and the evil of the Murji'ah for this religion is greater than the evil of the Fussāq”. Ponder over most of the Fussāq and sinners today, how they love the people of Haqq and they love the Haqq, even though they aren't portrayed to be among the people of the Haqq. Just as it has been said: “I love the Righteous, but I'm not from them”, so Imām al-Mughīrah(رحمه الله) says: The Fitna of the Murji'ah is more severe than the Fitna of the Fussāq upon this religion (i.e. Islām).

Likewise, Imām al-Awzā'ī(رحمه الله) narrates from Imām al-Zuhrī(رحمه الله) that he said: “I did not see from the people of desires an evil like the Murji'ah”, and likewise Imām al-Awzā'ī(رحمه الله) narrates from Imām Yahyā Ibn Abī Kathīr(رحمه الله) and Qatādah ibn Da'ām al-Sadūsī(رحمه الله), that they both said: “There's nothing more evil upon this Ummāh according to them (i.e. Salaf) than the Murji'ah”.

So these are the sayings of the Imāms of the Salaf, where they have agreed upon maligning Irjā' and its people. And as we mentioned, some of them did not used to pray over them, infact some of them did not accept the Shahādah (testimony) of a Murji', such as Sharīk al-Qādhī(رحمه الله), and some of them did not used to speak to the Murji'ah, that was mentioned by Imām Hishām ibn 'Ammār(رحمه الله), he said: “I met Shihāb (i.e. Ibn Khirāsh al-Shaybānī who is one of the Imāms), and I wanted him to speak with me...”, so what did the Imām Shihāb(رحمه الله) say? He told him: “As long as you're not a Qadarī or Murji', I would speak to you, otherwise I wouldn't”, Imām Hishām(رحمه الله) said: “I have nothing to do with these (2 sects) at all”.

So the Salaf used to ask their students on their stance on the Murji'ah and the Qadariyyah, he said: “if you were Qadarī or Murji', I wouldn't speak to you, however if you were not (from amongst them) I would (speak to you)”, so this is the stance/position of the Salaf, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) be pleased with them.

Imām al-Zuhrī(رحمه الله) said: “No deviance was innovated after the advent of Islam more harmful to its people than Irjā'”

This Imām Abū Ishāq al-Sabī'ī(رحمه الله) says to some of his students, when some of them came to him after they were with one of the Murji'ah which we spoke about (i.e. Hammād Ibn Abī Sulaymān), he (i.e. Abū Ishāq al-Sabī'ī) said: “What did the brother of the Murji'ah say to you?”..

Likewise, what the Salaf used to do, on top of not praying over the Murji'ah is that, listen to this position/stance and be aware, from this Imām al-Jalīl who is Imām ‘Abdul Razzāq al-San’ānī(رحمه الله), the author of the Kitāb “al-Musannaf” in Hadīth. While some of his students were in his gathering, this Imām was informed about some news that ‘Abdul Majīd passed away, so Imām ‘Abdul Razzāq(رحمه الله) said: “Alhamdulillah to the one (i.e. Allāh) who has finished the Ummah of Islām from this Murji’”, do you guys know who ‘Abdul Majīd is? He is the son of ‘Abdul ‘Azīz Ibn Abī Rāwīd, he was despite his Irjā’ from those that worshipped Allāh(جل وعلا) the most and from the sincere pious masters (i.e. Zāhid), they would give preference to him in “Zuhd” over Imām al-Wakī’ ibn al-Jarrāh(رحمه الله).

Imām al-Dhahabī(رحمه الله) says, “Yet despite this, Imām Wakī’ was given precedence in al-Zuhd because of his authority (i.e. Great Status) in the sunnah”, he was given precedence over ‘Abdul Majīd ibn ‘Abdul ‘Azīz despite his (great) Zuhd due to his Irjā’, because he’s a Murji’ he was postponed, and that “Sunni” was given precedence.

So this is some of the sayings of the Salaf regarding Irjā’ and the Murji’ah, and Alhamdulillah with the blessing and permission of Allāh, I was able to debate some of the Murji’ah, the Sūfiyyāh, Ibādiyyah, Ashā’irah, even some of the Rāfidah and Jews, and I did not see any weaker Hujjah being used as proof for their Madhab than the Murji’ah. I swear by Allāh that their madhab is weaker than the spider web!

Now, we’ll mention an important point which a group of Murji’ah in our times call the believers Khawārij for, and it’s the issue of “Are those who rebel against the Ruler from the Khawarij?”

The issue of revolting against the unjust ruler is something the people of Ahlus-Sunnah have differed over, the revolt against a Muslim ruler, not against a {Kāfir} ruler, it’s consensus that you can revolt against him [the ruler that disbelieves] this consensus was mentioned by several Scholars, and amongst those who mentioned it was Al-Qādhī ‘Iyādh(رحمه الله), Al-Hāfidh Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله), Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) and many others, May Allāh(جل وعلا) have Mercy on them.

A group of the companions of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), revolted against the rulers of their time, Talhā Ibn ‘Ubaydullāh(رضي الله عنه) rebelled against the ruler and he is one of the 10 that received the promise of attaining Jannāh in their lifetime. Al-Zubayr Ibn Al-‘Awwām(رضي الله عنه) rose against the ruler and he is also one of the 10 who gained the promise of Jannāh in their lifetime.

The mother of the believers ‘Ā’isha(رضي الله عنها) spoke against the rulers, and it is narrate that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said in [Sunan] al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) that she will be his wife in Jannāh.

Al-Hussein Ibn ‘Alī(رضي الله عنه) rebelled against Yazīd and he and his brothers are the leaders of the youth in Jannāh, Mu’āwiyah Ibn Abī Sufyān(رضي الله عنه), rebelled against the ruler, Al-Nu’mān Bashīr rebelled against the Ummayyads, may Allah be pleased with him.

Several Companions of the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), rebelled against the ruler of their time, has anyone said that they are Khawārij? Will you keep in mind that they received the glad tidings of Jannāh, has anyone said anything about them? Will someone dare to say anything about them? As they are the people of truth and refuge in Allah is sought by them. They are the dogs of hellfire? Will someone dare to say that?

The Tābi’in (successors) revolted against the rulers, a group of the Tābi’in revolted against the ruler of their time, amongst them was ‘Abdullāh(رحمه الله), a son of a man who was washed by the angels, who on the night of his marriage, he was with his wife when the he heard the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) saying “..O horse riders of Allāh! Rise on your horses..” he went out from his wife and did not wash himself, and he was killed in the battle, and the angels washed him between the heaven and the earth, his son ‘Abdullāh(رحمه الله) revolted against the Ummayyads.

‘Abdullāh Ibn al-Zubayr(رضي الله عنه) also rebelled against the Ummayyad King. Just as the people of Madīnah came out against their ruler, as well as the people of Al-Basra rebelled against their rulers, as told by Al-Hāfidh Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله), the jurist of Al-Basra revolted against the rulers, the Imām Al-Sha’bī(رحمه الله) rebelled, Imām Ibn Abī Nītūr(رحمه الله) revolted, the Imām Sa’īd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) rebelled and others amongst them rebelled against the rulers of their time, he came out and supported those who rebelled against the ‘Abbāsids, with money and young people.

The Imām Abū Hanīfah Al-Nu’mān(رحمه الله), he said regarding those who got killed by revolting against ‘Abbāsids such as Al-Mansūr Abī Ja’far, he (i.e. Abū Hanīfah) said {“..It is like they got shot on the day of Badr..”} he [also] said {“..Woe to me that I wasn’t in his place..”}. The same applies to Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), when he was asked about the permissibility of revolting against Al-Mansūr in 145H he allowed the revolt, they told him {“..We pledged allegiance, we have alliance to our neck with him [the ruler]..”}, He [Imām Mālik] said “..rather you were forced, and there is no allegiance on the forced one...”. Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) gave a legal opinion on this matter, the same for Imām al-Shāfi’ī(رحمه الله) in his old school of law, he sees the permissibility to revolt against a tyrannical ruler.

Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), which many of the contemporary speak about and try to include him in their beliefs and fundamentals, they say that they are part of the Hanbalī school of thought, the Imām Ahmad – may Allah have Mercy on him – in his time Imām Ahmad Ibn Nasr al-Khuzā’ī(رحمه الله) الله) rebelled against the ruler of his time, he rebelled with the sword and fought till he was killed. When they killed Imām Ahmad Ibn Nasr al-Khuzāʿī(رحمه الله) as mentioned by Imām Ibn Kathīr in Al-Bidāyah Wa-Nihāyah, “Imām Ahmad wept over him, and it was very sad for him, and this made him sad for a long time..”, and he said {“..may Allāh have Mercy upon him, he certainly fought with his soul in the path of Allāh..”}.

Ponder over the lessons of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) about rebelling against the ruler in his time, he said {“..may Allāh have Mercy upon him, he certainly fought with his soul in the path of Allāh..”}, are they capable of this those who join falsehood and wrong inside the school of law of Imām Ahmad today? Are they able to say those who rebel against one of these rulers, are they able to say of the rebellion said “..may Allāh have Mercy upon him, he certainly fought with his soul in the path of Allāh..”, or do they say, “..they are lost..”, “..they are amongst the dogs of the hellfire..”, and “..If it was not the fear of receiving the reproach of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), I would have killed them..”, so weigh between the two types of law. Fiqh of the Salaf, and Fiqh of the Khalaf [which joins falsehood and wrong inside the Fiqh of Salaf].

If you join a people who have honour we say, [poem] You are right but what a bad childbirth, and the sermon on which it is based is not evident, and the children sermon have monopolised it. So here is the case of Imām Ahmad, and there is cases of others in the Ummah, Imām Abū Al-'Arab Al-Tamīmī(رحمه الله), rebelled against the ruler of his time, in the Islamic Maghrib, he is the author of the book “Al-Mihān”, he died in the year 333AH, but before that Imām Al-Jadda(رحمه الله) rebelled against the rulers of his time. And amongst them we see the permissibility of rising against the unjust ruler is the Imām Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), he did an explanation in his book ‘Al-Fisal Fil-Milal wa-Nihal’, others who see the permissibility in Islām – Imām Al-Ghazzālī(رحمه الله) who died in 505AH, Imām Ibn Al-Jawzī(رحمه الله) amongst the Hanābilah and Ibn Al-Razil(رحمه الله), Imām Ibn ‘Aqīl(رحمه الله) who is from the Hanābilah and other than them amongst the ‘Ulemā’ of Islām see the permissibility of revolting against a Fāsiq (corrupt) ruler.

So no one who rebel against any ruler at any time is considered a Khawārij, this is not the criterion to judge an individual if he is part of a school of Khawārij or not. This is not the way of the people of Sunnah and consensus and this is not the criterion that was known at the time of the Salaf, May Allāh be pleased with them all.

Therefore a Sunnī can revolt against the ruler and the innovator, as well as the Shī’a can revolt against the ruler, the Khawārij rebelled against the ruler and even the Murji’ah rebelled. Some Murji’ah that were contemporary to the Salaf as Dharr Al-Hamadānī, the Scholars [of the Salaf] warned against him, Saʿīd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) did not give Salāms to him because of his Irjā’, he warned against him because of his Irjā’.

The Imām Ibrāhīm Al-Nakhaʿī(رحمه الله), was an Imām who rebelled against Al-Hajjāj and also warned against Dharr Al-Hamadānī because of his Irjā’, and yet he saw permissibility to affiliate with the Murji’ah in rebelling against Al-Hajjāj by the sword, this is the Murji’ah that were contemporary to the Salaf and this shows that anyone who rise against the ruler is not qualified as what? As being part of the Khawārij. You will find a democrat revolting, a secular rebel, a communist, rises against the ruler, the secularist revolts also, these people are disbelievers, so are they fitting the legal condition of a Khawārij?

No one who rebels against the ruler is considered a part of the Khawārij but it is essential that he adheres to the principles of the Khawārij that was mentioned to you in this lesson, for which I ask Allah – The Exalted and Glorified - to bless and it is through this you will find that the accusation is invalid and it would be fair to say regarding the Murji’ah affiliated {“They are the Murji’ah with the rulers and the Sultān and Khawārij with the preachers and Mujāhidīn”}

CONCLUSION:

So this is basically what you need to know about the Murji’ah of our time, and their false beliefs which they attribute towards our beloved Salaf, whereas our beloved Salaf are free from their evil. What’s astonishing is that you’ll find many characteristics of the Khawārij apply in accordance upon the contemporary Murji’ah when dealing with preachers and Mujāhidīn, and they are Murji’ah when dealing with the rulers and Sultān. As for the Murji’ah of our time, they have limited all nullifiers of Islām to “Belief in the heart alone”, so there’s absolutely no difference between a person who commits a Nullifier of Islām or a Major Sin, both remain in the fold of Islām, unless he believes it to be permissible in the heart, and this is the Madhab of the Ghulāt al-Murji’ah, may Allāh guide us.

The Prophet's statement: "Whoever Allāh wants good for, He gives him Fiqh (i.e. Understanding) in the religion"

Knowledge (i.e. 'ilm) is not what's intended, but rather Foresight (i.e. Basīrah), for verily a slave (of Allāh) could be given knowledge, and not be given Basīrah, and "al-Basīrah" is to differentiate between Haqq (Truth) and Bātil (Falsehood), and al-Basīrah must be acquainted with knowledge, however it is not tied together, he could be a 'Ālim (Scholar) without Basīrah.

A big disease in the heart is speaking day & night against the Muwahrhīdeen while remaining silent about US puppets and the Tawāghīt, infact making excuses for them and considering those "Murtaddīn" as {brothers}, while the "Muwahhīdīn" are automatically labelled as "Khawārij" {without evidence} and "Rebellious" {Even though evidence suggests otherwise}.

Mistakes are present without a doubt, however when the issue deals with Ēmān and Kufr Bit-Tāghūt, how can you focus on {Mistakes/Sins}, without uttering a word against the {Kufr} and {Apostasy} on the other side of the spectrum, infact if you were sincere in {Excusing} their clear-cut Apostasy, why don't you speak about their {Clear Deviance} and their "mistakes" {Just Once} like you do with the others {Day/Night}!?

One of the first things Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl حفظه الله did after being released was raising awareness for other brothers/sisters, speaking against the Tawāghūt, and waking up others by reminding them about the Ummah. I remember when his followers were so few, but with sincerity, look what Allāh has made him to be today, Allāh has accepted Imām Anwar رحمه الله and given us another rare gem in the west ♥ Wallāhi this is all the plan of Allāh, He has everything under control.

#Good_Hadīth A brother asked me about this Hadīth, and there has been dispute about it, so I just wanted to share this with everyone for the greater benefit Inshā'Allāh ☺

Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) wrote a beautiful response to this, and just to summarise it, he said that Ibn al-Jawzī(رحمه الله) went into exaggeration when he included it among the fabricated Hadīths;

It was considered Sahīh by Ibn Hibbān, al-Mundhirī, Imām Ibn 'Abdul Hādī, and Ibn Kathīr, but those who weakened it said it's an isolated narration (i.e. Tafarrud) of Muhammad Ibn Humayr, who al-Fasawī said "he's not that strong"

- However, Yahya Ibn Maīn said: "Trustworthy"

- Ahmad Ibn Hanbal said: "I do not know except good (from him)"

- Imām al-Nasāī said: "There's nothing wrong with him"

Shaykh al-'Alwān says it's "Jayyid" (i.e. Good - Not at the high level of Sahīh), and it's accepted for several reasons:

1. That Imām al-Nasāī(رحمه الله) reported it, and he didn't defect it, and he narrated it in "al-Mukhtārah", i.e. The selected/chosen Hadīths and Authenticated it.

2. That the Hadīth is not from the Usūl al-Ahkām (i.e. rulings that deal with Halāl/Harām etc...)

3. That the Tafarrūd (isolated narration) of a Truthful narrator (i.e. Sadūq) in a Hadīth is accepted, if there's some indication that points towards his precision, and the Tafarrud of Muhammad Ibn Humayr is from this (kind of isolated narration), and there have been supportive narrations narrated from the Hadīth of al-Mughīrah Ibn Shu'bah, Ibn Mas'ūd and 'Alī Ibn Abī Tālib which none of are authentic.

So the Hadīth is Acceptable, however there's an addition that's added in al-Tabarānī by Muhammad Ibn Ibrāhīm, he added onto the Hadīth "and Qul Huwa Allāhu Ahad"

^ That addition is rejected, Muhammad Ibn Ibrāhīm was weakened by Ibn 'Adī in "al-Kāmil" (7/547), and Ibn al-Jawzī in "al-Du'afā' wal-Matrūkīn" (3/38), and al-Hāfidh Ibn Hajr in "al-Lisān" (6/100).

Likewise, Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) and Shaykh Nāsir al-Dīn al-Albānī(رحمه الله) rejected this addition, I hope this helps, Bārak Allāhu feekum :))

Look at the dogs of the Media, instead of speaking against the real criminals, they speak against "rebels", this has been the case ever since, may Allāh destroy them. The world is turning a blind eye to the crimes of the Kuffār, infact they are supporting it! When will the Muslims wake up!

Putin will be remembered as the person to liberate the syrian city of "Halab" from all hospitals! Ofcourse with the help of his buddy Recep Tayyib Erdoğan, may Allāh curse him, who is building stronger relations than ever with the US and Russia.

Ohh, and how can I forget Saudi Arabia, the so called "rulers of the Sharī'ah" that go to the UN to forbid/abolish Islamic Principles of fighting against Kuffār (like Bashār), and openly allow Ribā banks throughout the country, having Tāghūt courts that don't rule by the Qur'ān and Sunnah, giving precedence to a Saudi Mushrik over a non-Saudi Sunnī because of "citizenship", form alliances with the Biggest Criminals, ally with them and assist them to invade Muslim Lands, let alone all their other crimes of imprisoning the Sincere Scholars, leaving behind those who are too scared to utter the Haqq.

Even if someone refrains from making Takfīr upon the clear Kufr of the Tawāghūt, atleast be honest when you say "They are not Kāfir, however they are oppressors", 99% of people who say this are insincere, and the reason is because you will find them defending these "oppressors" day and night, without uttering a word against them, infact they call whoever speaks against the rulers as "Khawārij", "Extreme", "Jāhil", "Go study Dīn", "Whoever revolts against the rulers are Khawārij, you must obey them and listen to them". SubhānAllāh, listen to the words of Allāh when it comes to defending "Oppressors"!

{\"My Lord, for the favor You bestowed upon me, I will never be an assistant to the criminals\"}

{And do not argue on behalf of those who deceive themselves}

{And do not be for the deceitful an advocate.}

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) guide us all and allow us to follow the Qur'ān with a sincere heart, not with our desires.

"said: "It could be said that it's Sahīh (رحمه الله)An Imām of the Salaf Yahya Ibn Sa'īd al-Qattān responded against al-Qattān by saying: "Rather it is Munkar (رحمه الله)However Imām al-Dhahabī (rejected), 'Abdul Rahmān (Ibn Thābit) was weakened by (Yahya) Ibn Ma'īn in the Riwāyah of 'Uthmān, and [Imām] Ahmad said: His Hadīths are rejected, and al-Nasā'ī said: He's not that strong, "!?and Makhūl would do Tadrīs, so where is the Authenticity to it

So the narrator 'Abdul Rahmān Ibn Thābit Ibn Thawbān is differed upon, some Imāms Authenticated him, while others weakened him, and he made Taffarud (singular narration), and Shaykh Khālid al-Hāyek has written a very detailed long article rejecting the Hadīth, and said what's correct is that it's Mursal from al-Hassan al-Basrī, and 'Abdul Rahmān mistakenly mixed up two chains together. Also Imām Ibn Kathīr mentioned in his Tafsīr (1/465): "This is a Hassan (sound) Mursal (narration) from .\"al-Hassan al-Basrī

There's also a difference of opinion regarding the Mursal narrations of al-Hassan al-Basrī, Imām Ahmad and Ibn Sīrīn rejected his narrations saying he narrates from everyone (weak and strong), however Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān says the Mursal Narrations of al-Hassan are strong and he only narrates from trustworthy narrators and Hufādh, so if we see a chain of narration that's authentic to al-Hassan al-Basrī and he narrates it as a Mursal report (i.e. to the Prophet), we would view it Sahīh as long as the text (of the Hadīth) agrees with the other Authentic Hadīths, however ,(رحمه الله)the Mursal reports of al-Hassan are not on the same level as Sa'īd Ibn al-Musayyib

The Mursal narrations of al-Hassan al-Basrī were accepted by the Imāms such as Yahya Ibn Sa'īd .al-Qattān, 'Alī Ibn al-Madīnī, Abī Zur'at al-Rāzī and others

Yahya Ibn Sa'īd al-Qattān and Abī Zur'at al-Rāzī said: "We did not see any weak Hadīths that al- \"except 1 or 2 Hadīths (صلی الله علیه وسلم)Hassan al-Basrī narrated to the Prophet

And this is known through investigation and deep scrutiny of his Mursal narrations, it doesn't mean all Mursal narrations are outright accepted, rather they are still to be judged accordingly and need to be looked at, there are {Sahīh} and {Weak} Mursal, but in this case, the Mursal is {Sahīh} and the

.Matn (Text) of the Hadīth agrees with the other Ahādīth

So in the end, this is solely speaking about the Hadith in terms of its Isnād (or Sanad - means the .(same thing), not its meaning (the meaning is correct

And I believe this Hadīth to be sound and acceptable from the Mursal narrations of al-Hassan al-said in his Tafsīr (1/465) "This is a Hassan (sound) Mursal (رحمه الله)as Ibn Kathīr (رحمه الله)Basrī .knows best (سبحانه وتعالى)(narration) from al-Hassan al-Basrī", and Allāh

"Only a Judge can make Takfīr upon an individual, because he is the one who carries out the punishment on him"

This statement is so corrupt!! Yes, it's true that the leader of the Muslims carries out the punishment of Allāh upon an individual, however there are other matters that are obligatory for the general muslims to apply, such as whether he gives Salāms to this "individual" or not, or whether he sends mercy upon this "individual" when he dies or not, or whether he inherits from this "individual" or not, or whether he prays Janāzah over him or not, or whether he marries his daughter to him or not? Is this only exclusive to the Judges? No one prays upon the deceased except the Judges? No one can send mercy upon the dead except for the Judges? It really sounds absurd saying this...

Rather Takfir is obligatory upon all Muslims, if you adopt the view that Tārik al-Salāh [Abandoner of Salāh] is a Kāfir, then you "as a general layman" make Takfīr upon him, and you don't give Salāms to him, and you don't marry your daughter to him, and you don't send Allāh's mercy and forgiveness upon him, and you don't pray Janāzah over him, so this deals with all the Muslims, what's exclusive to the Judge is carrying out the punishment of Allāh upon him.

Also some people go into extremes of saying "This is Kufr" but don't see anyone as a Kāfir! And this is false because when someone commits a clear Nullifier of Islām, he becomes an "apostate", and there's a whole chapter on Tawbah (Repentance) of a Muslim that apostates, so therefore he's considered a Kāfir in the eyes of the "Laymen" too. This is actually an argument used against those who apply the principle of "Excused due to ignorance" upon every matter, without separating between clear/unclear. Because what's the point of him doing "Tawbah" from his Nullifier if he "never" left Islām and "was excused due to ignorance".

However I didn't want to get into the excuse of ignorance topic as that is something else which has been discussed, and I truly believe that by principle, whoever worships other than Allāh is a Mushrik (I can't say "whoever worships OTHER than Allāh is committing Shirk" but he's still a muslim ☺), and whoever is in the lands of the Muslims and declares alcohol to be Halāl or rejects any clear matter known in the religion by necessity, he's a Kāfir by principle, and the evidences regarding this are immensely strong. As for the Scholars that say "Whoever worships other than Allāh is committing Shirk, however he's not a Mushrik", till this day I can't understand this statement, and if you gather the statements of the Scholars, you will see that by principle "Kufr" is not applied upon the individuals in the Unclear Matters.

In the end, we're all learning and our aim should be to humbly seek more knowledge, however if someone is from the people of innovation, then it's an obligation to speak against him to warn the masses unlike those who claim "it's backbiting", such as those who limit the nullifiers of Islām to belief in the heart alone, meaning he doesn't disbelieve unless he makes Istihlāl or rejects the text, so there's no difference between a "Nullifier" of "Major Sin" for these deviants, because they both limit them to "belief in the heart" for a person to disbelieve. This is why we call many modern day Salafī's as Murji'ah, even if they define Ēmān as "Belief, Speech and Actions", when it comes to Kufr which is the opposite of Ēmān, everything is limited to the "heart alone", so speech and actions of Kufr alone are just like Major Sins according to them, only disbelieve through Istihlāl (declaring it lawful) or Juhūd (rejecting the text). If you ask them "Is it Kufr to ally with the Kuffār against the Muslims?", they will say "It's only Kufr if he believes it's Halāl in his heart or 'loves' the religion of the Kuffār".

As for whoever falls into the misconception of excuse of ignorance in certain issues, they are not Murji'ah whatsoever, rather Kufr for them is "Belief, Speech and Actions", however they simply differ with other Scholars in "establishing the Hujjah" before making Takfīr in certain issues of speech, actions and beliefs.

What is the secret behind why the Murji'ah have been welcomed by the Scholars and the Masses? Ibn Kathīr(رحمه الله) narrates from the path of Ibn 'Asākir(رحمه الله) in al-Bidāyah wal-Nihāyah(10/276) that Al-Ma'mūn asked what is Irjā'? Al-Nadhr Ibn Shumayl(رحمه الله) who is one of the Imāms of the Muslims replied: "Irjā' is a religion that agree's with the rulers, they gain from the Dunyā with it, and lose from their religion", he (i.e. The ruler Al-Ma'mūn) said "you have stated the truth". That's why the Murji'ah are widespread in gatherings & the mosques, because the rulers love them, so don't be surprised if you see the official stance of the governments & their opinions in agreement with the Murji'ah.

Lol I met a little cute kid today, and I was just having some fun with him, speaking with him and telling him that he's amazing etc...Anyways, so I went to make wudū', and the kid came up to me, and out of nowhere he says "You're beautiful", it kinda surprised me lol, but I told him, "Nah, you're more beautiful, you're the best!!", so he says to me "I very very very very very very very love you" 😊😊😊 Anyways, I told him let's go inside the Masjid, and I sat down, and the kid sits down on my lap and asks me to give him some massage, so I made him feel comfortable while we listened to the speaker give a beneficial reminder about death. And after Salāh, I went to sit down next to some brothers, and this kid sits down right next to me as well, and he gives me a couple kisses on the cheek out of nowhere 😊 And the funny part is that the brothers were noticing this & told me "You're always hanging around with this kid aren't you", I'm like "This is the first time I ever see him" 😊😊😊, and they were astonished coz the kid kept looking at me. SubhānAllāh, I'm like some things cannot be explained, Allāh has united our hearts together, so he loves me :)

Ruling by other than what Allāh revealed;

Shaykh Haytham asked our Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir Al-'Alwān about those who rule by other than sharī'ah.

Shaykh Sulaymān said ignorance of ruling by other than what Allāh revealed is not an excuse in our times and he mentioned that the reason for this is because those who rule with other than the Sharī'ah, kill, imprison and wage war against those who demand that they rule with the Sharī'ah.

If you want to see whether you are sincere in following the Haqq, look at the opinions and positions you hold before & after. Do you change your opinions as the wind blows? Or do you hold onto your opinions that are based upon firmly established principles you've learnt? Ask yourself whether you are following the proof from the Qur'ān and Sunnāh or blind following the statements of others.

Note: I'm not referring to those who sincerely change their view on an issue based upon weighing between the evidences, however I'm specifying those who blindly follow others without returning back to the evidences.

I'll say this clearly, the Righteous Monotheists that have held onto the same Methodology for decades are well-known and they have been upon the truth since day 1, I can say that without any doubt or hesitation, and Alhamdulillah that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has explicitly shown who went down the wrong path and fell into distortions, and some even into Apostasy, may Allāh protect us.

However, brothers and sisters must understand that nobody is infallible, even the Righteous. Yes, show your love and support to the Sincere Steadfast Muslimīn, however this doesn't mean you leave behind the evidences from the Qur'ān and Sunnāh for your love for so and so. We are people of proof, not narrow-minded blind followers who denounce others that may disagree with us.

For instance, holding a different opinion to your beloved Shaykh doesn't mean you are against the Shaykh you love, rather you can sincerely believe that in this issue, he gave a Fatwa based upon a weak Hadīth.

And just a final point, some brothers and sisters, may Allāh forgive them, completely reject a Scholar based upon an opinion he holds in a particular issue, such as {Excuse of Ignorance} or being unaware of the correct situation of the Muslims, and this is ignorance to say the least. We must remember that we're living in a time full of misconceptions and not everyone sees things the same way you do, so let's atleast have that respect for those who differ with us and develop a spirit of tolerance, building a strong sense of understanding.

Hold onto the Righteous Scholars, but that should not prevent you from taking the Haqq from whoever says it, especially if his 'Aqīdah is of Ahl al Sunnah, whether you disagree with him in certain issues or not, that's irrelevant. To outright reject a person that doesn't fit into your narrow-minded criterion is not the correct way to go about it. This is obviously excluding the deviant Murji'ah or those who openly have hatred to the Muslims.

That's all I wanted to share, this is advice for myself before anyone in having sincerity in what we do, May Allāh جل وعلا give us all Ikhlās in what we do and keep our hearts firm upon the Haqq, free from any kind of Shirk or Bid'ah. What I mentioned was simply my own opinion, I can be completely wrong, and Allāh knows best 😊

Very Important point about Takfir in the Unclear Matters, Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr says both views in this issue are Correct: #Detailed_Translation

“Al-Majd(رحمه الله) said: "And what's correct is that every Bid'ah in which we made Takfir upon the caller to it, then we make Tafsīq [i.e. Call a Fāsiq] the blind follower regarding it, such as whoever says that the Qur'ān is created, or that Allāh's knowledge is created, or that His Names are created, or that He won't be seen in the Hereafter, or He insults the Sahābah out of devoutness, or that Ēmān is solely belief in the heart and what's similar to that, so whoever knows about any of these Innovations, and calls to it and debates on behalf of it, then he is judged with Kufr, [Imām] Ahmad has mentioned this in several places" [End Quote].

And Shaykh Abā Butayn(رحمه الله) has mentioned the difference of opinion between these two views in "al-Durar" and "al-Intisār", and what's correct is joining between the two depending upon the different times, and Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله) in the beginning of his Treatise "al-Tisṭiyyah", when he discussed with some Scholars from the people of desires and innovation during his time, and their arrogance became displayable to him, he (i.e. Ibn Taymiyyah) said to them while raising his voice, he said: "O Zanādiqah (heretics), and O Kuffār (disbelievers), and O Murtaddīn (apostates)", refer to Kashf al-Shubhatayn page 32.

And in the refutation against al-Bakrī, he (i.e. Ibn Taymiyyah) said to some of their Scholars and Judges: "According to me, you are ignorant and do not disbelieve" [End Quote] or something similar to that.

And Arrogance is two types:

1. Explicitly showing Arrogance.
2. A counterpart to the one showing Arrogance: And it is whoever's misconception isn't acceptable, and it has no share/place to be taken into consideration.”

Sharh (explanation) of Shaykh al-'Allāmah 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله):

“Al-Majd said”: He is the Grandfather of Ibn Taymiyyah.

“And what's correct is that every Bid'ah in which we made Takfir upon the caller to it, then we make Tafsīq [i.e. Call a Fāsiq] the blind follower”: This is according to the Hanābilah.

“Such as whoever says that the Qur'ān is created”: This is an example, whoever says that the Qur'ān is created, then the caller to it becomes a Kāfir, and the blind follower becomes a Fāsiq, this is upon the Madhab of the Hanābilah, as it was stated by al-Majd(رحمه الله).

“Or that Allāh's knowledge is created”: This is a second example, whoever says Allāh's knowledge is created, the one who calls to it becomes a Kāfir, and the blind follower becomes a Fāsiq.

“Or that His Names are created, or that He won't be seen in the Hereafter”: In this, the caller to it becomes a Kāfir, and the blind follower becomes a Fāsiq, this is the words of al-Majd(رحمه الله) who mentions it from the Hanābilah, and this is their Madhab in the Unclear Matters, however we will shortly come to [the issue] of punishments and scolding Inshā'Allāh.

“Or He insults the Sahābah out of devoutness”: Such as the Khawārij who insult them out of [mistaken] devoutness, unlike whoever insults the Sahābah out of rage/hatred, among those who insult the Sahābah out of hatred, such as the Secularists, Modernists, these people insult the Sahābah out of hatred and enmity, the Rāfidah insult them out of enmity, this is different (i.e. Clear Major Kufr, not Unclear Matter).

“Or that Ēmān is solely belief in the heart and what's similar to that”: The Jahmiyyāh, Mātūrūdiyyāh and Ashā'irah say that Ēmān is solely belief in the heart, and they do not stipulate speech (within Ēmān), as for Murji'at al-Fuqahā', they say it's the actions of the heart and speech of the tongue, but as for Ahlāl Sunnāh wal-Jamā'ah, then it is speech, action and belief in the heart, the actions of the heart and the limbs.

“So whoever knows about any of these Innovations, and calls to it and debates on behalf of it, then he is judged with Kufr”: This is the words of the Hanābilah, they say that whoever knows of these matters and calls towards it, and debates on behalf of it, is a Kāfir despite the fact that it's from the Unclear Matters.

“Ahmad has mentioned this in several places”: A person might say, how could a doubt arise right now, he would say the Madhab of the Hanābilah in the Unclear Matters is unlike how you have determined (i.e. What the Shaykh mentioned) in the Unclear Matters, (i.e.), that it's necessary to understand the Hujjah, and right here there's no stipulation of understanding the Hujjah? He said, if he knows about it and calls towards it, this person is judged with Kufr, he's judged with Kufr, it was mentioned by Ahmad in several places.

“And Shaykh Abā Butayn(رحمه الله) has mentioned the difference of opinion between these two views in "al-Durar" and "al-Intisār””: As for Ibn Taymiyyah, he views that he doesn't become a Kāfir in it, even if he was a caller to it and debated on behalf of it, Ibn Taymiyyah disagreed with his Grandfather (al-Majd) in this issue.

Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) says No [he doesn't disbelieve] in the Unclear Matters, even if he calls towards it and debates, he isn't ruled with Kufr until he acts arrogantly [to the text], and these [other Scholars - i.e. Hanābilah] didn't stipulate 'Understanding the Hujjah'.

As for what is correct, the Tarjih [saying what's most correct] will come to you, and what's correct according to us, is that both of them (i.e. Both views) are correct, however it is applied upon two separate times, as for a time where the Sunnāh is widespread and powerful, and it is Apparent and Strong, and that whoever says [anything] from these matters and calls towards it and debates (on behalf of it) is ruled with Kufr.

But if the time was a time where ignorance is widespread, a time period of ignorance such as the era of Ibn Taymiyyah, the era of A'immat al-Da'wah, then for these people, No, it's different.

“And what's correct is joining between the two depending upon the different times”: Therefore, what's correct, we stated what's correct (according to us), we made a mistake in this word, and we must not say "us", I apologise, what I intended to say was "What's correct according to me in this issue", and we are nothing for us to say "according to us", and so that you all know, a person should not say "according to us" as a means of exaltation, this is a caution for you and me.

Therefore, I say what's correct according to me in this issue is that it differs depending upon the two times, as for the time of Imām Ahmad, because the Sunnah became predominant after the Sunnah was spread and became powerful, and the time of Imām Mālik, the time of Ibn 'Omar (etc), there's a difference, if the time was a time where the Sunnāh is powerful and exalted and apparent and widespread, then in this case, No [excuse], as it was mentioned by al-Majd(رحمه الله), and as it was said by [Imām] Ahmad(رحمه الله).

And if the time was a time where ignorance has the upper-hand, [like] the time of Ibn Taymiyyah and A'immat al-Da'wah, so this must require a person to act arrogantly [in order for him to disbelieve], I hope that you have understood this issue.

“And what's correct”: This is my preference between the two matters.

“And Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله) in the beginning of his Treatise "al-Tis'iniyyah", when he discussed with some Scholars from the people of desires and innovation during his time, and their arrogance became displayable to him, he (i.e. Ibn Taymiyyah) said to them while raising his voice, he said: "O Zanādiqah (heretics), and O Kuffār (disbelievers), and O Murtaddīn (apostates)””:

This is Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله), we brought this text so that no one can say that Ibn Taymiyyah didn't make Takfīr upon the people of desires and innovation, No [that's not the case whatsoever], he made Takfīr upon some of them, for when got imprisoned in Egypt and discussing with some of them, and the discussion prolonged, and he received (questions) and gave (responses), he (i.e. Ibn Taymiyyah) said to them "Yā Kuffār (O disbelievers), Yā Zanādiqah (O heretics), Yā Murtaddīn (O apostates)", this is referring to specific individuals, he's addressing specific individuals (Mu'ayyīneen), "Yā" is calling to them.

And these [people he made Takfīr upon] were a group from the Ashā'irah who were Judges, they imprisoned him and debated him, and he debated them and wrote to him, and they wrote to him, so when their arrogance became displayable, and that they understood the Hujjah, however they showed arrogance, he performed Takfīr upon them.

So whoever displays arrogance (to the text), enough we're finished, if a person displays arrogance in the Unclear Matters, he becomes a Kāfir.

And here we said in the Unclear Matters, he doesn't become a Kāfir until he understands the Hujjah and the Misconception is removed, then he displays arrogance, so if arrogance is shown, arrogance is clear from him, because this issue is Ijtihādiyyah, so he doesn't become a Kāfir, because the people may differ, so if his arrogance is displayed to you, his arrogance might not be displayed for someone else, the issue is Ijtihādiyyah.

If you see a man from the people of innovation, and it's clear to you that he is dipped with hypocrisy and that he's a Munāfiq, and that he's a person of whims who argues arrogantly, not following the Haqq, if you have evidence for that, so whenever his arrogance is displayed to you, he becomes a Kāfir, you have the right to make Takfīr upon him, because right now, that's enough, he has acted arrogantly, the prevention removed the misconception, and the issue is not that he has a misconception with him, rather he displayed arrogance.

If we brought this text, I say it once more, and it is available in "al-Tis'niyyah", al-Fātawah al-Kubrah by Ibn Taymiyyah, he addressed people and made Takfīr upon them individually, he gave them 3 titles, "Zanādiqah, Kuffār, Murtaddīn"

How many types remain with us? One remains, he (i.e. Ibn Taymiyyah) said this to people who were from the Ashā'irah.

So that it isn't said that Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله) didn't perform Takfīr upon the Ashā'irah, rather he made Takfīr upon the specific individuals from them once their arrogance was shown.

“And in the refutation against al-Bakrī, he (i.e. Ibn Taymiyyah) said to some of their Scholars and Judges: "According to me, you are ignorant and do not disbelieve" [End Quote] or something similar to that”:

Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله) in the refutation against the Bakriyyīn, he said to their Scholars and Judges, according to me, you do not disbelieve because you are ignorant, these [people] didn't display arrogance, but those before them did display arrogance, therefore Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله) differentiates in the issue, and he doesn't perform Takfīr [upon anyone] in the Unclear Matters, except if he displays arrogance, and displaying arrogance is a proof that he doesn't have a misconception, rather he has arrogance.

As for a person who you feel that he wants goodness, and strives for goodness, and strives to learn what Allāh and His Messenger want, this [person] isn't called Arrogant, but as for a person who you can feel from him and know about his arrogance, if it's ambiguous to you, you should be careful (stay safe), so (if) you say "I don't know if he's Arrogant or not", in this situation, you should remain on the safe side in withholding from performing Takfīr.

“A counterpart to the one showing Arrogance: And it is whoever's misconception isn't acceptable, and it has no share/place to be taken into consideration.”: This [person] is considered arrogant in the Unclear Matters.

Explicitly Showing Arrogance.

And a counterpart to the one showing Arrogance is the one who throws at you a misconception, however it has no share/place to be taken into consideration.

Do we make Takfīr upon Democracy and its people?

Shaykh al-'Allāmah 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) said:

And Kufr Bit-Tāghūt consists of 5 things:

1. Believing in the falsehood of worshipping the Tāghūt.
2. Abandoning it.
3. Hating the Tāghūt and having enmity to it. And 'This is pertaining to the Tāghūt'

And we have two things pertaining to the people of the Tāghūt.

4. Hating the people of the Tāghūt
5. Making Takfīr upon the people of the Tāghūt.

For instance, Democracy is a Tāghūt, for us to disbelieve in Democracy, we must first believe in the Falsehood of Democracy, and this is the speech of the heart, then abandoning it, then hating it and wishing for its removal and showing enmity to it, and this is the actions of the heart, then hating the people of Democracy, then performing Takfīr upon them.

Question: Is Ruling by other than what Allâh has revealed from the Clear or Unclear Matters?

Shaykh al-'Allâmah 'Alî al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) responded by saying:

Ruling by other than what Allâh has revealed is from the Clear Matters, because the issue deals with Major Shirk, the Lawgiver is a Clear Matter which deals with Shirk, and passing a judgement is a Clear Matter which deals with Shirk, and Legislation is a Clear Matter which deals with Shirk.

Question: Whoever sees someone eating during the day of Ramadân, whether forgetfully or unknowingly, is it obligatory to rebuke him or not?

Shaykh Sulaymân Ibn Nâsir al-'Alwân(حفظه الله) said: There are various opinions:

- 1) That rebuking is Wājib [Obligatory], because he saw Munkar.
- 2) That he doesn't rebuke him, because Allâh has fed him and given him drink [i.e. due to his forgetfulness or ignorance]
- 3) It has been said that there is Tafsîl [i.e. Needs to be elaborated on]: So if he was eating or drinking in the presence of others, then he's to be rebuked, so that nobody has a bad assumption of him, and if he was alone, leave him, and this is a Strong view.

#Sharh_Sufficiency_In_Creed

By Shaykh al-'Allāmah 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله)

- Lesson 2

The Author says:

He is described by what He has attributed to Himself in His Magnificent Book and upon the tongue of His honourable Prophet. We are obligated to believe in and to welcome with submission and acceptance everything that is mentioned in the Qur'ān or that which is authentically reported on the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) concerning Allāh's Attributes. And we must abandon opposing it [which is done] by Radd [rejection], Ta'wīl [Distorted Misinterpretation], Tashbīh [Comparison] and Tamthīl [Representation].

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah 'Alī al-Khudayr (حفظه الله):

The second point dealing with the topics in the introduction:

It is to display the approach of the Salaf and the best generations in dealing with the Āyāt and Ahādīth on the Attributes of Allāh, and it begins with the statement of the author: "He is described by what He has attributed to Himself in His Magnificent Book - till the end of the words of al-Shāfi'i"

A brief summary for these words:

- 1) That the approach of the Salaf in regards to the Attributes of Allāh is that they describe Allāh with what He described himself with, whether that Attribute was from the Qur'ān or what has been affirmed from the Sunnah.
- 2) That they [i.e. The Salaf] believe in it, and the author mentioned the ruling of believing in it and that it's Wājib [Obligatory], so he said: "We are obligated to believe in it".
- 3) To welcome it with Submission and Acceptance. And Submission: Is Compliance and what's against it is to abandon it. And Acceptance: and what's against it is to oppose it.
- 4) Abandon confronting the Ahādīth and Āyāt on the Attributes [of Allāh], i.e. Abandoning [any] Objections.

And abandoning would be for 5 matters which "the author pointed out towards":

- A) It is al-Radd: What's intended is Rejecting and Belying/Denying.
- B) al-Ta'wīl: What's intended is to divert it from its apparent/outward [meaning], and [diverting it] from its linguistic meaning.
- C) al-Tashbīh: Which is to say that the attributes of Allāh is "similar" to so and so, of [something] which is well-known amongst people.
- D) Abandoning Tamthīl [Representation] of the Attributes: i.e. It cannot be said that the Attributes of Allāh is "like" so and so, and the difference between al-Tashbīh and al-Tamthīl is:

That al-Tashbīh is comparing the Attributes, as in to make it "similar" to so and so, i.e. That there is some type of comparison/similarity between the Attributes of Allāh and the Attributes of the Creation.

As for al-Tamīl: It is to say that the Attributes of Allāh are "like" so and so exactly, and the "Likeliness" is to be "like it" in all aspects.

But as for al-Tashbīh, it would be "like it" in some [Attributes] besides others.

- E) Not asking about the "how" concerning the attributes of Allāh, the Mighty and Majestic.

This is the approach of the Salaf in dealing with the Attributes of Allāh, and it is an agreed upon approach by the Salaf, and it is the same [approach] with every Attribute from the Attributes of Allāh, and the 4 matters [i.e. A,B,C,D] that we previously mentioned applies to it before [also applying] this type [i.e. E].

#Sharh_Sufficiency_In_Creed

By Shaykh al-'Allāmah 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله):

- Lesson 1

The Author says:

Bismillāhi al-Rahmāni al-Rahīm, All praise is due to Allāh, the One praised in every tongue [i.e. Language], the One worshipped in every era. There is not a place that is free of His Knowledge nor does one affair preoccupy Him over another. He is far beyond any equals and rivals, as well as being free of any wife or children. His Decree is carried out in all of His servants. No intellect can derive an example of Him with its pondering, nor can any heart attempt to depict Him.

{There is nothing whatsoever like him [in comparison]. And He is the All-Hearer, the All-Seer} [1].

To Him belong the best of Names and the most honourable of Attributes.

{The Most Gracious [Allāh] rose over the Throne [in a manner that suits His majesty]. To Him belongs all that is in the heavens and all that is on the Earth, and all that is between them, and all that is under the soil. And if you speak aloud, then verily, He knows the secret and that which is yet more hidden. Allāh! None has the right to be sorshipped except Him. To him belong the best of Names} [2].

His Knowledge encompasses everything. He subjugates all creatures by His Honour and Rule. And His knowledge and mercy engulf everything.

{He [Allāh] knows what happens to them [His creatures] on this world, and what will happen to them [in the Hereafter] but they will never encompass anything of His knowledge} [3].

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله):

The author, may Allāh have mercy upon him began the introduction by the "Basmalah" and "al-Hamd" and "al-Thanā" upon Allāh by mentioning some of His Names and Qualities.

So he began with the Basmalah, and beginning with it is a Sunnah, following the example of the beginning of the Qur'ān wherein Allāh began al-Fātiha by "Bismillāhi al-Rahmāni al-Rahīm", and also following the example of the book of the Prophet of Allāh Sulaymān(عليه الصلاة والسلام): {And indeed it reads: Bismillāhi al-Rahmāni al-Rahīm} [4].

And the third proof is what has been confirmed in the "Sahīh" from the Hadīth of Abī Sufyān [5] when the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) wrote a letter to Herackle, he began it with "Bismillāhi al-Rahmāni al-Rahīm". This is what pertains to the Basmalah.

As for Praising Him, beginning with it is a Sunnah, and from the guidance of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) is that when he would begin the Sermon, he would Praise Allāh and extol Him, as that has been narrated in [Sahīh] Muslim, it was mentioned by Jābir [6].

As for the Hadīth: {Every matter of importance that isn't begun with Praise to Allāh, then it is severed (from any blessing)} and in a narration: {amputated}, this Hadīth is Weak, for it is Mursal from the Hadīth of al-Zuhrī, and Abū Dāwūd has alluded towards its weakness in "al-Sunan" in the chapter of Ādāb in the beginning. This is what pertains to Praising Him.

Then the Author mentioned praises upon Allāh, Glorified be He, by mentioning some of His names and attributes, and that was done in two ways:

1 - Extolling Allāh(عز وجل) by mentioning the Affirmed Attributes, and the Affirmed Names, so he mentioned the attribute of Knowledge, Subjugation, Mercy and Wisdom.

2 - Extolling Allāh by mentioning the disowned attributes which embodies perfection, so he declared Allāh to be free from resemblance [to anything], having equals, and [declaring Him free] from a wife and child, and he declared Him free from having someone like Him, or that the people know about how His attributes work. This is what pertains to the author's opening introduction.

And what is observable from this prologue [i.e. Opening Statement of the Author] is that it consists of most types of Sharī prologues, and it is 3 types:

- A) Beginning with al-Basmalah
- B) Beginning with Praising Him
- C) Beginning with Extolling Allāh

And there remains one more type which the author didn't mention, and it is the type of mentioning the Āyāt from the Qur'ān in the prologue, which is reciting the 3 verses on Taqwa, and it's what's known as "Khutbat al-Hājah" [i.e. The first 3 Āyāt that are recited in the beginning of the Khutbah], and from the observable writings of the author is that there's nothing wrong with mentioning these different types of prologues together, or most of them.

- [1] Sūrat al-Shūrah (verse 11)
  - [2] Sūrat Taha (verse 5-7)
  - [3] Sūrat Taha (verse 110)
  - [4] Sūrat al-Naml (verse 30)
  - [5] It was narrated by al-Bukhārī in his "Sahīh" (7) and Muslim in his "Sahīh" (1773)
  - [6] Sahīh Muslim (1973)

I will be going through the book "Lum'at al-l'tiqād" by Imām Ibn Qudāmah al-Maqdisī(رحمه الله) which explains the 'Aqīdah of Ahl al-Sunnah wal-Jamā'ah based upon the methodology of the Salaf in how they affirmed the Names and Attributes of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), unlike the way of the deviant sects such as the Jahmiyyah, Ashā'irah, Mu'tazilah, Kullābiyyah, Khawārij and others.

The Sharh will be by Shaykh al-'Allāmah 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله), who is one of the most knowledgeable Scholars living today in 'Aqīdah, and one of the close friends of Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله), may Allāh free all the 'Ulemā' and keep them steadfast and give us the permission to share some of their books and audios that are filled with remarkable Benefits. You will find many lengthy books written by the Shaykh, but unfortunately it's all in Arabic.

I will begin by sharing the Prologue of the Book and the Sharh of the Shaykh right away under the following Hashtag for convenience:

Washing the beard in wudū' is not a Sunnah, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and none of the Sahābah did it, that's why Imām Ahmad Ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) said: "Washing the beard - i.e. during wudū' - is not from the Sunnah"

~ It was quoted from him by Imām Ibn Qudāmah(رحمه الله) in al-Mughnī (1/87).

There's also nothing authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding running the fingers through the beard, however it's proven on the Sahābah and Salaf that they would run their fingers through the beard while washing the face, not after wiping the {head}!

Shaykh 'Abdul 'Azīz al-Tarēf(حفظه الله) says running the fingers through the beard is authentic from these companions and he doesn't know anyone who opposed them:

- 1) 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in "al-Musanaf" Hadīth #99.
- 2) 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in "al-Musanaf" Hadīth #100.
- 3) Anas Ibn Mālik(رضي الله عنه), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in "al-Musanaf" Hadīth #101.

4) Abī al-Mūsa al-Ash'arī(رضي الله عنه), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in "al-Tafsīr" (8/174).

But it's also narrated from some of the Sahābah that they would not run their fingers through their beard, and just leave it untouched, such as 'Alī Ibn Abī Tālib(رضي الله عنه).

~ Refer to Musannaf ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) Hadīth #71.

So there's nothing wrong with running your hands through your beard in wudū', infact the Majority of Scholars have said it's Prescribed, and it's also authentic from the Tābi'een such as:

1) 'Ubayd Ibn 'Umayr(رحمه الله) who is one of the Major Tābi'een, it was narrated by Imām Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr (8/173).

2) Mujāhid Ibn Jabar(رحمه الله), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in "al-Musannaf" Hadīth #107.

3) 'Attā' Ibn Abī Rabāh(رحمه الله), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in "al-Musannaf" Hadīth #129.

4) Muhammad Ibn Sīrīn(رحمه الله), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in "al-Musannaf" Hadīth #108

5) Saīd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in "al-Musannaf" Hadīth #103.

Wiping the beard with the [washing of the] face is authentic from:

1) 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), it was narrated by Ibn al-Mundhir(رحمه الله) in "al-Awsat" Hadīth #365

2) Al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr (8/166).

3) Ibn al-Hanafiyyah(رحمه الله), it was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in "al-Musannaf" Hadīth #119.

This post was just to show that it's prescribed to run the hands through the beard when washing the face during wudū', however it's not a Sunnah to Wash the beard.

These are the books that Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) recommends for the student of knowledge to read, continuously revise and scrutinize:

1) All the books of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh's and his student Ibn al-Qayyim, may Allāh have mercy upon them both; For it is based upon the Fiqh of the Qur'ān and Sunnah, and it is what the Salafī Manhaj is based upon/referred back too.

2) All the books of al-Hāfidh al-Dhahabī, may Allāh have mercy upon him, for he is a Muhaqqiq, Scrutiniser [of Hadīth] and [outstanding] Publisher.

3) All the books of al-Hāfidh Ibn Rajab, may Allāh have mercy upon him, especially (Fath al-Bārī) and (Sharh al-'Ilal) and (Jāmi' al-'Ulūm) and (al-Qawā'id); For it contains benefits which isn't present elsewhere.

4) (Fath al-Bārī) by al-Hāfidh Ibn Hajr, may Allāh have mercy upon him; For it is not only a Sharh for [Sahīh] al-Bukhārī alone, rather it is a Sharh for all books of (Sihāh) and (Sunan) and (Masānid), and it is what's referred back too for the Shurrāh of Hadīth that came after him.

5) All the books of A'immat al-Da'wah al-Najdiyyah, may Allāh have mercy upon them, especially (al-Durar al-Saniyyah), for it is exactly what its name says it is (i.e. Al-Durar al-Saniyyah: meaning "the radiant pearls")

— أحسنُ اللهَ خلاصَه —

ثاني عشر: الجُمُعُ بينَ الفقهيْنِ:
فعلى الطالبِ بعدَ أن يفقهَ الشرعَ أن يفقهَ الواقعَ؛ لتكبيفه شرعًا ومعرفةً حكمه، فيطلُعَ على المذاهبِ المعاصرةِ العقديةِ والفكريةِ، ويعرفَ النوازلَ الفقهيةَ، ويراجعَ كتبَ الموسوعاتِ الحديثةِ، ويتابعَ الأحداثَ، ويكونَ معتدلًا في هذا؛ بحيثَ لا يطغى عليه.

ثالثَ عشر: من تصدَّرَ مبكرًا فاته علمٌ كثيرٌ؛
فليحرصِ الطالبُ على التمكنِ من العلمِ قبلَ أن يتصدَّرَ للتدريسِ، وليواصلِ الطلبَ حتى بعدَ جلوسه للتعليمِ؛
كما قال الإمامُ أحمدُ: (من المحبرةِ إلى المقبرة).

رابعَ عشر: أدبُ الطلبِ:
على الطالبِ التحليَ بآدابِ الطلبِ في نفسه ومعَ مشايخه وأقرانه وتلاميذه وغيرهم، وقد ألَّفَ العلماءُ في هذا مؤلفاتٍ كثيرةً قديمةً ومعاصرةً يحسنُ الرجوعُ إليها.

فهذه مؤلفاتُ أنصَحَ طلبةَ العلمِ بقراءتها وتكرارِ النظرِ فيها ومراجعتها دائنًا:

1) جميعُ مؤلفاتِ شيخِ الإسلامِ ابنِ تيميةَ وتلميذه ابنِ القيمِ رحمَهما اللهُ؛ فإنها مبنيةٌ على فقهِ الكتابِ والسنةِ، وهي عمدةُ المنهجِ السلفيِّ.

3) جميعُ مؤلفاتِ الحافظِ ابنِ رجبٍ رحمَه اللهُ، وخاصةً (فتحَ الباري) و(شرحَ العللِ) و(جامعَ العلومِ) و(القواعدُ)؛
ففيها من الفوائدِ ما ليس في غيرها.

4) (فتحُ الباري) للحافظِ ابنِ حجرٍ رحمَه اللهُ؛ فهو ليسَ شرَحًا للبخاري فقط، بل هو شرحٌ لعامةِ كتبِ الصحاحِ والسننِ والمسانيدِ، وهو عمدةُ شَرَّاحِ الحديثِ بعده.

5) جميعُ مؤلفاتِ أئمةِ الدعوةِ النجديةِ رحمَهم اللهُ، وخاصةً (الدررَ السَّنيَّةُ)؛ فهي كاسمِها.

6) جميعُ مؤلفاتِ الشيخِ عبدِ الرحمنِ المعلميِّ رحمَه اللهُ -ذهبيِّ العصرِ-، خاصةً (التنكيلُ) و(الأنوارُ الكاشفة).

7) حاشيةُ الشيخِ عبدِ الرحمنِ بنِ قاسمٍ رحمَه اللهُ على (الروضِ المربعِ)؛ فهي من أجودِ ما كُتِبَ في الفقهِ، وفيها من النكتِ والنفائسِ والفوائدِ ما لا يوجدُ في غيرها.

8) جميعُ مؤلفاتِ الشيخِ بكرٍ أبو زيدٍ رحمَه اللهُ؛ فهو من أجودِ المعاصرينَ تأليفًا وتحريزًا للمسائلِ وأغزرهم فائدةً.

9) وأما ما كتبه المعاصرونَ في (مصطلحِ الحديثِ) فمن أحسنِها مؤلفاتُ الشيخِ طارقِ بنِ عوضِ اللّهِ؛ فهو محقِّقٌ في هذ الفنِّ، وكتبه قيمةً، وشرَّحه للنخبةِ من أجودِ الشروحِ.

How true is what's been said that Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) made Takfīr upon al-Hajjāj?

Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) responded by saying:

That was mentioned by Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) in "al-Taḥthīb" (2/211) in the biography of al-Hajjāj, so he said:

"A group of Scholars made Takfīr upon him, among them Sa'īd Ibn Jubayr, al-Nakha'ī, Mujāhid, 'Āsim ibn Abī al-Najūd, al-Sha'bī and others" [End Quote].

And Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) narrated in his book "al-Ēmān" (page 32) with an Authentic chain to al-Sha'bī, he said: "I testify that he [i.e. Al-Hajjāj] is a believer in the Tāghūt, a disbeliever in Allāh" [End Quote].

And he [i.e. Ibn Abī Shaybah] also narrated in his book "al-Ēmān" (page 32) with an Authentic chain to al-Nakhaṭī, he said: "It's astonishing how our brothers in 'Irāq call al-Hajjāj a believer" [End Quote].

#Summarised from my previous posts in the past where Shaykh 'Abdul 'Azīz al-Rājihī spoke about {voting} during Mursī's elections:

- Voting for the constitution is not permissible, it's Harām, and whoever votes must make {Tawbah}, and must proclaim disavowal from it and its people.

- The constitution is a constitution of Kufr, it's [full of] Kufr and a Tāghūt, so it's not permissible to vote for it.

Caller: But some of them claim that there is Maslahah [Benefit] in [voting], so how do we respond against this?

Shaykh: What is the Maslahah [Benefit]? What is the Maslahah???

Caller: They say the Maslahah of restoring stability in the country.

Shaykh: Restoring stability to the country cannot be done except by committing Kufr?!! The stability of the country is restored through ruling by the Sharī'ah, what has the revolution right now stood up for, it has stood up to remove a regime of Kufr to replace it with another regime of Kufr, so what's the benefit [in this], it remains just as how it was to begin with.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) give us the permission to share this beneficial knowledge for the english speakers to benefit from. He also has other benefits which I might share dealing with narrations in Seerah etc...

200. Sūrat al-Kahf can be read on the day or night of Jum'ah, or Saturday, or Sunday, and whoever reads it will have a light that will stretch between him and the ancient house [i.e. Ka'bah], and it has been proven from Abī Sa'īd(رضي الله عنه) from the chain of Abī Hāshim from Abī Mijlāz from Qays ibn 'Ubād from Abī Sa'īd al-Khudrī(رضي الله عنه), that he said:

{Whoever recites Sūrat al-Kahf, a light will stretch between him and the ancient house},

And this chain is #Authentic towards Abī Sa'īd, and it takes the ruling of being Marfū' [raised to the Prophet], and many great Imāms have narrated from Hāshim, among them Shu'bah, Sufyān and others from the Hufādh.

Al-Hāfidh al-'Irāqī said in his "Alfiyyah": {What has been narrated from a Sahābī wherein it cannot be said by his own opinion, it takes the ruling of being Marfū', upon the one who speaks about the occurrences such as what is to come [in the future], so the judgement for this being raised [to the Prophet] is firmly established}

So it takes the ruling of being Marfū', and there's no place to perform Ijtihād in it, and it's on the same level as saying: "The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said", therefore whoever recites Sūrat al-Kahf unrestrictedly, on any day of the week, on any of the nights, even if he read it daily, that would be recommended, a light would stretch between you and the ancient house.

And this Hadīth was narrated by Hushaym ibn Bashīr as it's recorded in [Sunan] al-Dārimī in opposition to what Shu'bah and Sufyān narrated [i.e. They didn't mention "Friday"], so he [i.e. Hushaym] mentioned it with the phrase, whoever recites Sūrat al-Kahf on the "night of Jum'ah", and it has been differed upon on Hushaym, and the narrations of Shu'bah and Sufyān [that don't mention "Friday"] are more Authentic than the narration of Hushaym.

And it was narrated by Hammād ibn Nu'aym al-Khuzā'ī as it has been reported in [Mustadrak] al-Hākim, so he mentioned it [i.e. The Hadīth], "Whoever recites Sūrat al-Kahf on the day of Jum'ah" and likewise he attributed it to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and this [Narration] is #Defective due to 2 defects:

The First Defect: What's correct is that it's Mawqūf upon Abī Sa'īd and as we previously stated it takes the ruling of being Marfū'.

The Second Defect: That he mentioned it with the phrase "al-Jum'ah", and Nu'aym ibn Hammād al-Khuzā'ī has a poor memory.

Imām Yahya ibn Maʿīn(رحمه الله تعالى) said regarding him: "He's trustworthy in his religion, weak in his memory",

And Imām al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله تعالى) said regarding him: "He has made too many singular narrations disagreeing with the well-known Imāms, so he reached a stage where his reports/narrations are not used as proof"

IT'S NOT ALLOWED TO TOUCH A WOMAN IN RUQYA

"Likewise, some of those who do Ruqyā have become lenient, he places his hands upon the woman, and this is Harām and isn't permissible, and it's not allowed for a man to touch a woman that isn't lawful for him, and whenever a Rāqī is found placing his hand on a woman, it's compulsory to condemn him and prevent him from doing Ruqyā, except if he repented, and it's not permissible for a man to place his hand upon a woman. Many of those who do Ruqyā have been seduced by the women due to sitting with them and doing Ruqyā on them, and some of the women sit down and don't understand, some women don't understand, she thinks this is from the consequences of the Ruqyā, that even some of the women after making her Tawbah and she admits to this, that some of those who do Ruqyā had illicit unlawful relations with her, she thinks this is from the end-result of the necessity of Ruqyā until she is discharged [from the symptoms and evil effects]..."

Noble Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله تعالى):

What is the ruling on sending Allāh's mercy and forgiveness upon the deceased innovator?

Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said:

Bismillāhi al-Rahmānī al-Rahīm

The deceased innovator whose Bid'ah doesn't take him outside the fold of Islām, he takes the same ruling as the rest of the Muslims, Salāh is prescribed upon him, and it's not mandatory upon everyone, and he is to be asked for Allāh's forgiveness, mercy and pleasure.

And I do not know anyone from Ahl al-Sunnah who said that it's not allowed to ask Allāh's mercy and forgiveness upon the people of innovation in all cases, for this is the saying of the Khawārij al-Māriqīn [i.e. Those who have left the correct understanding of Islām and the Prophet's Manhaj], and the people of misguidance who have distorted from the Truth.

And the comprehensive principle regarding this is that everyone who says: Lā ilāha ilā Allāh and testified that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allāh, and we do not know of any clear Kufr from him, then he's to be prayed upon and be asked for Allāh's forgiveness, for when Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) prohibited making Istighfār for the Mushrikīn in His statement: {It is not for the Prophet and those who have believed to ask forgiveness for the polytheists, even if they were relatives} this is an evidence regarding the permissibility of making Istighfār for the people of innovation and sinners who are counted among the people of the Qiblah.

And some of the people have assumed that the refraining of some Imāms of the Salaf from performing Salāh upon them is an evidence that it's not allowed to ask Allāh's mercy upon them, and this is from the fabricated assumptions which contradicts the Qur'ān, Sunnah and Consensus.

For the muslims in the east and the west have remained praying upon everyone who displays his Islām, who isn't known to have Hypocrisy or Apostasy. So whoever knows from him any of that [i.e. Hypocrisy or Apostasy], then it's forbidden to perform Salāh upon him.

And whoever doesn't know from him any of that [i.e. Hypocrisy and Apostasy], then it's not permissible to seek nearness to Allāh by abandoning Salāh upon him if there was no apparent Maslaha [Benefit/Interest] in doing so. For some Imāms of the Salaf would refrain from performing Salāh upon the people of desires/innovation and those who sin openly, so that the people of innovation can put a stop to their innovation, and the people of sins can put a stop to their desires, so it is from the aspect of denouncing Munkarāt [acts of evil], and achieving general Masālih [Benefits/Interests] for the muslims, and this is from the acceptable acts for the sake of Maslaha, and it has many equivalent examples in the Shari'ah.

For the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) abandoned Salāh upon the person who killed himself, it was narrated by Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) in his "Sahīh" (978).

And he abandoned Salāh upon the one who has Debt, but he didn't abandon the fulfilment [of the obligation of praying on him], and he said to the Muslims: {Perform Salāh upon your companion} it was narrated by Bukhārī (2298) and Muslim (1619).

And he abandoned Salāh upon the one who is dishonest in the war booty, it was narrated by Ahmad (4/286), Abū Dāwūd (2710), al-Nasāī (4/64), Ibn Mājah (2848), and there's a difference of opinion regarding the authenticity of its chain.

Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله) said in al-Fatāwah (24/286), "And whoever doesn't know of any hypocrisy from him, and he's a Muslim, it's permissible to make Istighfār for him and perform Salāh upon him, infact that is prescribed, and it's to be ordered as Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {and ask forgiveness for your sin and for the believing men and believing women}."

And he said in Minhāj al-Sunnah (5/235), "So every muslim who doesn't know that he's a Munāfiq, it's permissible to make Istighfār for him and perform Salāh upon him, even if he had Bid'ah or Fisq, however it's not compulsory upon everyone to pray over him. And if abandoning Salāh upon the caller towards Bid'ah, and the one who displays Fujūr [Indecent/Shameful acts], has a Maslaha in a way of deterring people [from such evil acts and innovation], then abstaining from performing Salāh would be prescribed for whoever's abandonment of Salāh would be effective as a deterrent [from his evil acts or innovation] by not praying upon him...}

And in general, Istighfār for the Mushrikīn and Kuffār is prohibited in the Shari'ah and the proofs for it are many, and this is from the agreed upon [matters].

And Istighfār upon whoever is besides these people [i.e. Kuffār] whom are from the Ahl al Qiblah is prescribed according to the agreement [of the Scholars], and nobody disagreed with that other than the Khawārij and Mu'tazilah, for the Khawārij were the first ones to make Takfīr upon Ahl al Qiblah because of sins, and they believe something which isn't a sin to be a sin, and they declare lawful the blood of the Muslims, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) gave a description of them by his statement: {They kill the people of Islām and leave alone the idolators} it was narrated by al-Bukhārī (3344) and Muslim (1064) from the Hadīth of Abī Sa'īd.

And the Mu'tazilah agree with the Khawārij that the people of Major sins will eternally abide in hell, and that it's forbidden to make Istighfār for them and ask for Allāh's mercy upon them.

And they [i.e. Mu'tazilah] disagree with them in regards to the ruling upon them in the Dunyā, so they are upon a level between two levels, so they are not believers which makes Istighfār prescribed for them, and neither are they Kuffār who will be removed far away [from Jannāh], and this is False due to many evidences, Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {and has made hateful to you Kufr [disbelief], Fusūq [Defiance] and 'Isyān [Disobedience]. Those are the [rightly] guided}, so Allāh has differentiated between Kufr and Fusūq and 'Isyān, and he made it three levels:

1. al-Kufr
2. Al-Fusūq which isn't Kufr.
3. Al-'Isyān which is a level beneath al-Fisq, so he is a disobedient sinner ('Āsi) and isn't a Fāsiq, and the Khawārij do not comprehend this reality, and they consider Fisq as Kufr.

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {And if two factions among the believers should fight, then make settlement between the two. But if one of them oppresses the other, then fight against the one that oppresses until it returns to the ordinance of Allah . And if it returns, then make settlement between them in justice and act justly. Indeed, Allah loves those who act justly. (9) The believers are but brothers, so make settlement between your brothers. And fear Allah that you may receive mercy (10) .}

So Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has described both fighting groups with Ēmān and Brotherhood, and he commanded reconciling between them, and this Āyah is among the best of which is used as proof against the Khawārij who make Takfīr upon Sins.

And Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {Indeed, Allah does not forgive association with Him, but He forgives what is less than that for whom He wills} So Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) made what is beneath Shirk as hanging under His will [i.e. Allāh can choose to punish him in the hellfire or forgive him], so he is not a Kāfir as the Khawārij claim.

And the Ahādīth on the Shafā'ah [Intercession] and taking out the Monotheist Sinners from the hellfire is Mutawātirah, and it is a fatal blow against the Madhab of the Khawārij and the people of Irjā'.

And in Sahīh Muslim (116) from the chain of Hammād ibn Zayd from Hajjāj al-Sawāf from Abī al-Zubayr from Jābir that al-Tufayl ibn 'Amr al-Dūsī came to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), so he said O Messenger of Allāh: {Do you need strong, fortified protection? The tribe of Daus had a fort in the pre-Islamic days. The Apostle (ﷺ) declined this offer, since it (the privilege of protecting the Holy Prophet) had already been reserved for the Ansar. When the Apostle (ﷺ) migrated to Medina, Tufail son of Amr also migrated to that place, and there also migrated along with him a man of his tribe. But the climate of Medina did not suit him, and he fell sick. He felt very uneasy. So he took hold of an iron head of an arrow and cut his finger-joints. The blood streamed forth from his hands, till he died. Tufail son of Amr saw him in a dream. His state was good and he saw him with his hands wrapped. He (Tufail) said to him: What treatment did your Allah accord to you? He replied. Allah granted me pardon for my migration to the Apostle (ﷺ): He (Tufail) again said: What is this that I see you wrapping up your hands? He replied: I was told (by Allah): We would not set right anything of yours which you damaged yourself. Tufail narrated this (dream) to the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ). Upon this he prayed: O Allah I grant pardon even to his hands}.

And this Hadīth is Sahīh, among the best of which is used as evidence against the Khawārij who make Takfīr upon the Kabā'ir [Major Sins] and the Murji'ah who say that sins won't cause any harm, and Allāh knows best.

What is the ruling on Abandoning Hajj?

Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said:

And Hajj is one of the pillars of Islām which the Muslims have agreed upon, and it is the 5th pillar from the pillars of Islām in most of the Ahādīth, as that has been mentioned in the Sahīhayn and others from the Hadīth of ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: “And [due] to Allah from the people is a pilgrimage to the House - for whoever is able to find thereto a way. But whoever disbelieves - then indeed, Allah is free from need of the worlds.”

Allāh's statement: “But whoever disbelieves”, it is said: by the abandonment of Hajj, and this is the Madhab of 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb(رضي الله عنه), and ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), and a narration from Ahmad(رحمه الله), and the Madhab of Sa'd ibn Jubayr(الله), and a group from the Māliki Fuqahā', and it is one of the two statements from ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه).

So based upon this saying: The one who intentionally abandons Hajj without an excuse would become a Kāfir, by the general meaning of the verse where Allah says: “But whoever disbelieves”, and Kufr here: is Major disbelief which takes one outside the fold of Islām.

And several scholars have held the view, and it is one of the two narrations from Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله): That whoever abandons anything from the Pillars of Islām, then he's a Kāfir, so whoever abandons Salāh, then he's a Kāfir, and this is agreed upon by the Sahābah, and this Ijmā' has been mentioned by Ishāq(الله), and Imām Ahmad(الله) says: “Whoever abandons Zakāt, then he's a Kāfir”, and this is a saying from a group of scholars, and they used the Hadīth of Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه) as proof: “those amongst the Arabs who wanted to become apostates became apostates”, for their rejeotance of Zakāt, and he also called the abandoner of Siyām & Hajj a Kāfir.

And some of the scholars said: he doesn't disbelieve except by abandoning the Shahādatayn and the Salāh, because of the Ijmā' regarding that, but as for the abstainer of Zakāt, whoever doesn't fight over that, and the abandoner of Siyām and Hajj, then they do not disbelieve, because when the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) mentioned the abstainer of Zakāt, and the Hadīth is in Muslim, he said: “and he sees whether his path is to take him to Paradise or to Hell”, because if he was a Kāfir, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) wouldn't have said “Either takes him towards Jannāh or takes him towards the Hellfire”, because the Kāfir will not smell the fragrance of Paradise, and this is the view of the Majority of the Scholars[that the abandoner of Hajj is not a Kāfir].

And those that do not make Takfīr upon the abandoner of Hajj, say that if the abandoner of Zakāt didn't disbelieve, then it would be more deserving for the abandoner of Hajj to not disbelieve, and they responded to this verse: “But whoever disbelieves”, they said: Whoever says that Hajj is not compulsory, then this is the Kāfir, and this is proven from ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that he said this statement, when he said: “[And whoever disbelieved], meaning: he claimed that it's not compulsory”

And a group of scholars said: “But whoever disbelieves” meaning: Whoever claims that it’s decidable between doing it and leaving it, then this is the Kāfir, and as for whoever denies the obligation of Hajj, then he’s a Kāfir by Ijmā’, even if he performed Hajj.

What is the ruling on the Ash'ariyyah of our time?

Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) responded by saying:

The Ash'ariyyah are two types:

1. Grave worshipping pagans, so these [Ash'ariyyah] are Mushrikīn.
2. Pure Ash'ariyyah, who do not have any kind of Major Shirk, so these [Ash'ariyyah] take same ruling as the Ashā'irah who preceded them.

And the Ashā'irah of the past are two types:

1. The First Ash'ariyyah, so these are Kullābiyyah, and they are an innovated sect, and are not made Takfīr upon.
2. The Second Ash'ariyyah, and they are not made Takfīr upon by the Majority of the Scholars due to Ta'wīl [Interpretation], and a few Scholars went towards making Takfīr upon them, such as Ibn Hazm, Ibn al-Jawzī, al-Dustī, and some of the Hanābilah, but what's correct is that it differs depending upon the time and place, so if it was a time of where the Sunnah is widespread and openly displayed, or a place where the Sunnah is clear and apparent, like in the time of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), Ahmad(رحمه الله), and al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله), then someone adopts al-Ash'ariyyah, then this person is a Kāfir, and if the time was a time of ignorance where Bid'ah is widespread and the Sunnah is Hidden, such as the time of Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله) and Muhammad Ibn 'Abdul Wahhāb(رحمه الله), then no Takfīr is made until the Misconception is removed and he acts arrogantly [in denying the text], and Allāh knows best.

Pay Attention: There's a group [of Scholars] who are from Ahl al Sunnah in general, however they agreed with the Ashā'irah [in certain issues], and their situation is unlike the situation of the Ashā'irah from giving precedence to the intellect over the text [Qur'ān & Sunnah], rather their situation is giving precedence to the Qur'ān and Sunnah and rejecting giving precedence to the intellect, such as the likes of al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله), Ibn Fūrak(رحمه الله) and similar to them, so what these [Scholars] fell into are called slips/mistakes, so whatever falsehood they have would be rejected, and their position would be preserved and their knowledge would be benefitted from.

#Linguistic_Benefit:

Shaykh Khālid al-Mardhī al-Ghāmīdī(حفظه الله) said:

It's not correct to say "Shirk in Tawhīd" and "Shirk in Tawhīd al-Rubūbiyyah" and "Shirk in Tawhīd al-Ulūhiyyah"

And what's correct is our statement "Shirk in al-Ulūhiyyah" and "Shirk in al-Rubūbiyyah"

And the reason for this: Is that Tawhīd opposes Shirk and cannot be joined together.

For Tawhīd isn't connected to Shirk, but rather it is connected to 'Ibādah, Ulūhiyyah and Rubūbiyyah.

But as for whoever singles out [Allāh in worship] and came with Tawhīd, it cannot be said that he has committed Shirk in his Tawhīd, rather he has committed Shirk in his 'Ibādah.

And it's correct to say "al-Kufr bit-Tawhīd" [i.e. Disbelief in Tawhīd - Not believing in Tawhīd]

This is advice for myself before anyone else. If we have a lot of free time, create the passion to memorise the Qur'ān and revise it. Listen to lessons and study Arabic/Deen, yes I know it requires much more effort than coming on Facebook to give your 2 cents, however this is what's best for you. If you have a friend who can motivate you, that would be great! Don't speak too much, .surround yourself with people who bring benefit for your Dunyā & Ākhirah

O Allāh, I seek refuge in you from knowledge that does not benefit. May Allāh allow us to make use .of our time and purify our intentions while learning the Deen

What is the ruling on taking photos and videos?

Shaykh Abū Umar(حفظه الله) responded by saying:

There's a big difference of opinion on this issue, can be summarized in the following:

1- Drawing objects with a soul is extremely prohibited and carries a severe punishment.

2- Making objects with a soul (teddy bears, statues/toys in the shape of animals, balloons in the shape of an animal, etc.) also prohibited. There may be an exception for dolls according to some scholars, and for educational purposes according to others.

3- Taking photos with a camera - this is where most of the dispute lies. Some totally prohibit it with the exception of necessity (ID, etc.), others allow it generally. Keeping these photos in an album or hanging them around the house is another issue and is prohibited. Some allow keeping them if they are hidden at all times.

4- Taking videos is allowed.

One of the most absurd things I heard on Saturday Night: "Khawārij Takfeeri's never smile"

Lol, seriously?! Just go check out the faces of the Shuhadā' and tell me which ones are {not} smiling :)

Question: Who are the Khawārij in our times that make Takfir upon Major Sins, and what are those Major sins?

Answer: The Khawārij Takfeeri's in our time make Takfir upon those that listen to Musiká and drink alcohol...

☹ Is this guy even living in the 21st century, not even the Hāzimī's make Takfir upon those who listen to Musiká or drink alcohol.

#Weak_Hadīth "The menstruating woman and the one who is in a state of impurity (Janābah) should not recite anything of the Qur'ān"

This Hadīth is well-known amongst the Fuqahā', and many of the Fuqahā' have acted upon it, and they believe it's Harām for the menstruating woman to recite the Qur'ān.

However what's correct is that this Report is #Munkar singular narration, and it was rejected by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), and he said: "Bātil", and Ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله), Ibn al-Qayyim(رحمه الله) and a group of Scholars have mentioned the consensus of the Hufādh regarding its weakness.

And whenever Ismā'il Ibn 'Ayyāsh narrates from other than the people of Shām, then his narrations are not accepted, so if he narrates from 'Irāqī's or Hijāzī's, then his Hadīth is #Weak, and the Shaykh he narrated this Hadīth from is Mūsa Ibn 'Uqba who is Hijāzī from al-Madīnah.

~ Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله).

Side Note: This is the strongest Hadīth used by the Majority of the Scholars to prohibit the person in Janābah from reciting the Qur'ān, however it's weak and there's many narrations of the Salaf testifying to this, infact a consensus, and Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) has written a 22 page book going through all the opinions and showing why the strongest opinion is that it's permissible to recite the Qur'ān in the state of Janābah, and Allāh(جل وعلا) knows best.

Something that annoys me:

1. Brothers on Haqq who only talk about 'Aqīdah.
2. Moderates who only talk about Fiqh.

If brothers on Haqq start learning Fiqh, they can bring moderates onto the correct 'Aqīdah by teaching them Fiqh & Tawhīd together, not just Tawhīd alone. Use Hikmah when giving da'wah, don't expect moderates to come onto the correct 'Aqīdah straight away. That will never happen except in rare circumstances. By the way, I'm not having a go at my brothers, I love you all for the sake of Allāh ☺ And I know that it's annoying when moderates only focus on Fiqh, ignoring Tawhīd and the Affairs of the Ummāh, but you must remain patient and make du'ā for them 🤲

150. The Hadīth of Abī Dhilāl from Anas: {Whoever sits in his Musallāh remembering Allah until the sun has risen, then he prays two Rak'ah, then for him is the reward like that of a Hajj and Umrah: 'Complete, complete, complete} This report is #Weak, infact I do not know of any difference of opinion amongst the Early Scholars regarding its #Weakness, rather the authenticating and strengthening of this Hadīth began in around the time of Imām al-Mundhirī, but as for whoever was before Imām al-Mundhirī, then nobody went towards [authenticating] it, and that's why Imām Abū 'Īsa [al-Tirmidhī] weakened it, and it was weakened by others from the Hufādh, and there's nothing authentic concerning this matter that he receives the reward of a Hajj and 'Umrah, complete, complete, complete, therefore it's not allowed to say that this restricted reward is in "al-Fadā'il" [virtuous deeds], even though the Salāh was included within the Main Hadīth [of the chapter], however the reward mentioned here isn't included part of the main Hadīth [of the chapter], and in the chapter is 2 Hadīths: The first Hadīth of Abī Dhar in [Sunan] al-Tirmidhī and he authenticated it, that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {Allāh, the most high said said: "Son of Adam: Perform four Rak'ah for Me in the beginning of the day it will suffice you for the latter part of it."}. This is the first proof, the Second: is the Hadīth of 'Amr ibn 'Absa in Sahīh al-Imām Muslim that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {Then pray Fajr and refrain from praying until the sun has risen, until it rises [10-20 mins after sunrise], then pray for Salāh is attended and witnessed (by the angels)}, so his saying: {then pray} i.e. After sunrise: {for Salāh is attended and witnessed (by the angels)}, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has shown that Salāh is prescribed after sunrise, therefore the Salāh is included within the Asl [main Hadīth of the chapter], and as for sitting down, then it has been affirmed in [Sahīh] Muslim, there's no problem about this, it has been narrated in Sahīh al-Imām Muslim from the Hadīth of Jābir ibn Samurah that he said: {When the Prophet prayed Fajr he would remain seated where he had prayed until the sun had risen} There's no problem regarding this, rather the discussion is only regarding the reward: {He will have like the reward of a Hajj and 'Umrah, complete, complete, complete}, then this report is #Weak, so thereupon we do not use it as proof, even if it was in al-Fadā'il [virtuous acts].

Dans les deux fatawa suivante, le sheikh Nasir al-Fahd - qu'Allah le rafermisse dans sa Foi et le libère - expose dans un premier temps les avis ayant existé sur le sujet, et dans la seconde, il donne son avis sur le sujet, et répond à ceux qui font le takfir de ceux qui voient l'excuse de l'ignorance, j'invite donc les lecteurs à lire les deux fatwas en entier afin de bien comprendre l'avis du sheikh.

Question 28

On le questionna : Pouvez-vous nous faire, qu'ALLAH vous préserve, un petit résumé sur la question du 'Udr Bil Jahl (excuse de l'ignorance) ?

Il répondit qu'ALLAH le préserve: Il existe trois avis différents au sujet de l'excuse de l'ignorance :

1- (Un avis) qui excuse pour ignorance de manière générale (mouttlaqan).

2- (Un avis) qui n'excuse pas pour ignorance concernant le tawhid (base/fondement de l'adoration) de manière générale, que ce soit dans l'appellation (le fait de l'appeler kâfir) dans ce monde (dounya) ou son houkm (jugement final) dans l'au-delà ; (c'est un avis) qui le considère comme méritant l'enfer éternel même si le message prophétique (ar-rissâla) ne lui est pas parvenue, et (ce point de vue) s'appuie sur le pacte initial (Mithâq).

3- (Le troisième avis) et il est le plus probable (proche du haqq) : il y a ce qui peut être excusé pour ignorance et ce qui ne peut pas l'être:

a) (l'ignorant) peut être excusé concernant les questions subtiles (massâ'il khafiyya) telles que (les questions liées) au qadr (destin), au îmân (foi), aux attributs (d'ALLAH 'azza a jal), ainsi que le houkm des œuvres pieuses autres que le tawhîd telles que la prière, la zakât, l'interdiction du vin, etc.

b) (l'ignorant) ne sera pas excusé dans le tawhîd d'adoration ('ibâda) comme l'invocation (dou'â), le sacrifice, le vœu etc.; car ceci est le fondement de l'islam et de la religion de tous les Messagers. Puis, celui qui ignore cela est soit :

- Un ignorant qui ne sera pas excusé dans ce monde et dans l'au-delà, dans le sens qu'il ira en enfer pour l'éternité qu'ALLAH nous en préserve, et c'est celui à qui la preuve (houjja) a été présentée par le biais du message prophétique. (Il n'est pas excusé pour ignorance), qu'il ait recherché (la vérité) ou qu'il s'en est détournée, qu'il ait compris la hujja/la rissâla ou pas.

- Un ignorant qui sera excusé dans l'au-delà sans pour autant l'être dans ce bas monde, et c'est celui à qui la preuve n'a pas été présentée comme celui qui a grandi dans le lointain désert ou dans les hautes montagnes, ou comme les gens de la fatra (qui n'ont pas reçu de message prophétique), etc. Celui-ci sera traité dans ce bas monde comme les polythéistes (mouchrikîne) ; quant à l'au-delà, son cas revient à ALLAH soubhânnah. Il est plus juste de dire que les gens comme lui seront mis à l'épreuve, Wallâhou a'lam.

Et dans une autre fatwa, sheikh Nasir al-Fahd clarifie sa position sur le udhr bi jahl et nous donne sa position quand à ceux qui voit udhr bi jahl:

Le fils du sheikh Nasir dit:

Le père (terme de respect) Nasir al-Fahd, m'a appelé mercredi.

Je lui ai alors demandé : l'excuse pour cause d'ignorance est -t-elle une innovation (bid'a) Et qu'elle est le jugement de celui qui excuse (l'ignorant)?

Il répondit : oui (l'excuse pour cause d'ignorance) est une innovation (bid'a), mais celui qui excuse l'ignorant n'est pas innovateur (mibtadi'), tant que les fondements sur lesquels il se base (pour justifier l'excuse pour cause d'ignorance) sont les fondements des gens de la sounna et du groupe (Ahlu sounna wal jama'a), celui qui est qualifié d'innovateur est celui qui diverge de l'un des principes majeurs des fondements ou qu'il réunisse en lui plusieurs fondements des innovateurs.

Je lui ai dit : as-tu vu celui qui rend mécréant pour cela (l'excuse pour cause d'ignorance) [il parle de ceux qui rendent mécréant ceux qui donne l'excuse de l'ignorance.], et argue en utilisant la règle (celui qui ne rend pas le mécréant, mécréant, à alors mécrut).

Il me répondit : il fait erreur; car il exclut le fondement même (de l'utilisation de cette règle) sans prendre en considération les empêchements.

Alors qu'exclure les conditions, les règles de bases, sans prendre en considération les empêchements, fait tomber (puis il cita une parole que je n'ai pas clairement compris, et j'avais honte de lui faire répéter).

Sheikh 'Ali ibn Khudayr al-Khudayr sur ceux qui donne l'excuse de l'ignorance (dans le shirk akbar).

Le cheikh 'Ali al Khudhayr - qu'Allah le libère - a dit concernant le jugement de celui qui excuse [par l'ignorance] (ndt: dans le shirk akbar):

Si il excuse par l'ignorance, car il ne fait pas de différence entre le "shirk" (ndt: donner un ou des associés à Allah) et la "mécréance" (ndt: reniement du Texte scriptuaire), et que l'ignorance, en tant que telle, est une excuse pour la mécréance, et donc une excuse pour le shirk (ndt: le sheikh ici parle du fait que celui qui ne fait aucune distinction entre le shirk et le kufr, excusera le shirk de la même manière qu'il excuse le kufr (reniement du texte) qui peut être excusé par l'ignorance dans certains cas), et qu'il est sur la voie de Ahl as-Sunna à propos de la foi (ndt: c'est à dire sur la définition de la foi), alors celui-là a commis une erreur et son jugement est celui du fautif parmi Ahl as-Sunna et on ne le déclare ni mécréant ni innovateur.

Si il excuse par l'ignorance le shirk tout en considérant que l'égorgement (pour autre qu'Allah), par exemple, ou autre parmi les actes d'adoration fait pour autre qu'Allah, est du shirk, et que l'égorgement pour autre qu'Allah est du shirk, et ceci dans l'absolu de l'acte (ndt: c'est à dire qu'il considère l'acte en lui même comme du shirk akbar de manière générale), et qu'il ne dit pas qu'il faut être convaincu [de la licéité de cet acte] ou qu'il faille regarder la 'aqîda [de celui qui commet cet acte], et que cette personne [qui excuse par l'ignorance] est sur la voie de Ahl as-Sunna à propos de la foi, qu'elle [la foi] est parole, acte, et croyance, alors celui-là s'est trompé comme celui qui précède (ndt: le 1er cas) et il y a en lui une des branches de l'innovation.

Si il excuse par l'ignorance le shirk mais qu'il prétend que l'égorgement, le vœu (an-nadhr), et ce qui s'en suit, pour autre qu'Allah, n'est pas du shirk, à moins que l'on soit convaincu qu'il y a un associé à Allah, ou que celui pour qui on égorge détient des pouvoirs, et autre, de la part d'Allah, ou il apparaît qu'il ne le déclare pas associateur à moins qu'il soit convaincu [de la licéité de cet acte], et ne le considère pas associateur dans l'absolu du (simple fait) de l'égorgement et de son acte, alors celui qui prétend cela est un murji<sup>2</sup> innovateur, et à plus forte raison si son avis sur la foi est qu'elle est parole et croyance, et que les actes et les obéissances [à Allah] ne sont pas pris en compte dans cette appellation ("foi"), et qu'il conditionne toute mécréance par la croyance, ou par le fait de rendre licite l'illicite (istihlâl), ou par ce qu'il y a dans le cœur.

Si il excuse par l'ignorance le shirk majeur (shirk akbar) et qu'il prétend que l'égorgement pour autre qu'Allah n'est pas du sirk à moins qu'il y ait conviction, mais que c'est tout de même un indice de (la présence du) shirk ou de la mécréance, et que celui qui prétend cela dit à propos de la foi qu'elle est connaissance, instruction et approbation, et qu'il ne fait pas de la croyance du cœur et de l'acte du cœur des éléments de la foi, alors celui-là est un jahmiyy mécréant innovateur égaré.

Remarque :

Il y a une différence entre l'excuse par l'ignorance dans le shirk majeur comme mentionné précédemment, et l'excuse par l'ignorance de la situation et de ses ambiguïtés.

Par exemple... lorsque quelqu'un excuse par l'ignorance dans le shirk et [considère] que toute personne qui égorge pour autre qu'Allah est associatrice même s'il est ignorant, mais que concernant un individu en particulier il ne fait pas l'excommunication (takfîr) à cause de ce shirk, non pas parce que ce dernier (celui qui a commis l'acte) est ignorant, mais parce qu'il ignore si il l'a commis ou pas.

Et si tu veux plus de détails concernant l'ignorance de la situation, alors réfère toi à la section concernant l'ignorance de la situation et ses ambiguïtés, et réexamine les derniers détails de Kitâb al-Haqâ<sup>2</sup>iq, ainsi que la question des manifestations (traits) des associateurs qui s'affilient aux gens de la qibla.

Qu'Allah te conforme et te raffermisse sur la croyance des gens de la Sunna et du Tawhîd.

149. It has been narrated from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to Fātimah when a 'Aqīqah was performed on behalf of al-Hassan: {O Fātimah, shave his head and give the weight of his hair in Sadaqah}, this Report is #Weak and nothing concerning this matter is Authentic from the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), thereupon it is not prescribed to get seek nearness [in worship] to Allāh by giving Sadaqah [on behalf of the child], but if he wants to give a general Sadaqah, then he will receive a reward for that, Allāh will give him in return what he gave out [in Sadaqah], but as for intending to give Sadaqah on behalf of the hair [of the child], then this requires proof, and the proof for this here is Weak and isn't authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

145. The Hadīth: {A sign of man's good observance of Islam (his piety) is to keep away from that which does not concern him} is #Defective, and its Defect is due to it being a Mursal report, it was narrated by Mālik from al-Zuhri from 'Alī ibn al-Hussein Zayn al-Ābidīn from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

حديث ( من حسن إسلام المرء تركه ما لا يعنيه ) معلول وعلته الإرسال رواه مالك عن الزهري عن علي بن

. الحسين زين العابدين عن النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم

Note: The Mursal narrations of 'Alī ibn al-Hussein - Zayn al-Ābidīn - were authenticated and used as proof by Imām al-Bukhārī, Imām Ahmad, Imām al-Dāraqutnī and others, but as for the Mursal narrations of al-Zuhrī, then they are weak according to the Majority of the Muhaddītheen.

#RePost Imām Anwar al-'Awlakī(رحمه الله) said:

Al-Makarrī, the classical Muslim historian. He said, and this was while the Muslim Towns were falling down, al-Makarrī says:

The Muslim Towns were being invaded by the crusaders one town after another, and they were falling one after another, and you can walk into the Mosques of Andalus, and you can hear nothing about what is happening to the Muslims!

فلا مذكر ولا داع

Nobody talks about it in the Khutbah, nobody talks about it in the lessons, nothing! The Scholars are talking about theoretical things and they are leaving the Ummāh, and the Ummāh is being betrayed and they are doing nothing!

Ibn Hazm al-Andalusī, the famous scholar from Andalus, was so frustrated and fed up with the situation of the scholars and the Imāms of al-Andalus, he said:

"Do not be deceived by these Fussāq (corrupt people)."

He called them Fussāq, corrupt. He said:

"Don't be deceived by these Fussāq who claim to be scholars while they are wearing the skins of sheep on hearts of wolves."

He said what are they doing? They are doing nothing for the Ummāh. The Ummāh is falling down, the Ummāh is being fought against, and the land of al-Andalus is being invaded, and they are talking about some other issues. You know, don't think that our religion is just, we talk about theoretical things and we stay away from what is happening to the Ummāh. That is why the Muslims in Spain, lost Spain.

143. The Hadīth of Ibn 'Abbās that the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {Whoever hears the call to prayer must answer, and whoever doesn't answer, then there is no Salāh for him, except for the one that has an excuse}, what's correct is that this Report is Mawqūf upon Ibn 'Abbās, and the Major Hufādh have preferred to be Mawqūf [i.e. Authentic from the Ibn 'Abbās, not the Prophet].

"(So We responded to him) and saved him from the distress. And thus do We save the believers" [21:88]

141. The Hadīth: {Whenever you go past the grave of a Mushrik, then give him the glad-tidings of hell}, the Later Scholars were misled by the outwardness of the chain, so they authenticated it, whereas the Early Scholars have unanimously agreed that it's not Authentic, except as a Mursal report [i.e. Weak], and that it's from the narrations of al-Zuhri from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم), and some of them mentioned it from al-Zuhri from Sālim from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم), and there's nowhere for Ibn 'Omar to be mentioned in this Report.

140. The Hadīth of 'Abbās al-Jushamī from Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه): {Thirty verses [i.e. Sūrat al-Mulk] which intercede's for a man until it makes him enter Jannāh}. This has a #Hidden_Defect which many people do not know about, and that is because Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) views that 'Abbās al-Jushamī didn't hear from Abū Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه), so this is from the Hidden Defects which is said about a Hadīth that it is Ma'lūl [Defective].

139. The Hadīth: {May Allāh(جل وعلا) have mercy upon the one who prays 4 Rak'ahs before 'Asr} This Hadīth comes from the narration of Muḥammad ibn Maymūn ibn Mahrawān from his grandfather from ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), and this report is defected, it has Tafarrūd, and Imām ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) has mentioned in al-'ilal from Abī Dāwūd al-Tiyālīsī(رحمه الله) that he said "Stay away from this". This was mentioned by Imām Abū Zur'at al-Rāzī(رحمه الله) and others from the Hufādh.

It has been narrated by al-Tirmidhī, Abū Dāwūd & a group of scholars from the narration of Abī Ishāq al-Sabī'ī from 'Āsim ibn Damrah from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) that he said: {The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) used to pray 4 [Rak'ahs] before 'Asr} This Hadīth is #Good, and 'Āsim ibn Damrah as Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) said in his Jāmi', he is Trustworthy among the Scholars of Hadīth and he has heard from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه), so this Hadīth is Good. Therefore praying 4 [Rak'ahs before 'Asr] is Authentic from the actions of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), not from his sayings.

It was narrated by Abū 'Īsa(رحمه الله) and he said this Hadīth is "Hassan Sahīh", but what's correct is that it's #Defective, it has a precisely minute hidden defect, and this defect is that it's not proven that 'Attā' heard from Zayd ibn Khālid al-Jahnī, and thereupon, Imām 'Alī Ibn al-Madīnī(رحمه الله) said: [The narration of] 'Attā' from Zayd ibn Khālid is Mursal [i.e. There's a break between the two].

#Transcribed from my beloved Shaykh al-'Allāmah Ahmad Ibn Mūsā Jibrīl(الله) about the story of the Necklace and Tawakkul:

Tawakkûl is putting your full trust in Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), you may go through dark tunnels in your life, that's part of life and a part of a believers life, you think they're dark, but Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) always chooses whats best for you خبر كلُّ أمره المؤمن إن أمره كله خير "its astonishing the matter of a believer, everything that happens to him is good" you may not know it, you may not see the wisdom of it in this life, you may later on see it, if you don't see it in this life you will see it in the life after, ibn Rajab(الله) mentioned this story of Qādīl Māristān, Qādīl Māristān(الله) said about himself "I was hungry one day in Makkah and i became hungry one day that i couldn't find anything to eat so i went walking around in Makkah, i found a pouch, a tightly tied pouch, i picked it up and brought it to my house, and then in my house when i untied it, i found a beautiful necklace of pearls, it's like i've never seen anything like it before, he went from a difficult time to the utmost of ease, but tawakkul didn't waver a tiny bit in his heart, full tawakkul on allah when he was walking around hungry and the same tawakkul now that he's a millionaire, it didn't last for long, the circumstance change but tawakkul remains firm, unwavering tawakkul, as soon as he walked in Makkâh, right after that he walked in Makkah he heard a old man calling out "I lost a necklace and i have 500 Dinâr reward for whoever brings me back the necklace" he said i called the old man, that was bad news for him, he thought he was a millionaire, he said i called the old man "come to my house, i think i have your pouch" so he told the old man describe the necklace for me, he said the old man did not only describe the necklace, but he described the pouch, and the string that was tied around the pouch and the number of pearls and the string that held the pearls together and every single detail about the necklace, so he said i gave him the necklace, it had to be him, no way he could have known all those details, and he handed me 500 Dinar, and just as i was about to take it, i thought to myself, he said I don't deserve this and I refused the reward, the man kept insisting on giving the reward and it was as if Abû Bakr(رحمه الله) wanted to keep his reliance on Allâh(سبحانه وتعالى) totally, refusing for the reward for something he felt he really didn't deserve, he didn't do nothing to deserve that money, so the old man took the reward and left.

Qādîl Māristān(رحمه الله), who's name is Abû Bakr, nickname Abû Bakr said I left Makkâh after that and i took the ocean and on the way the ship began to sink, all the money on board sunk and many of the passengers, most of them died, he said i seen a small raft while i was in the water, i held onto it and the wind kept blowing me and blowing me for such a long time, until i got to a occupied island, when i landed on the island, he said i immediately went to the masjid finding that theres no one there, so i began to recite Qur'ân, the people in the masjid, they came to me[stranger in town], they asked " could you teach us Qur'ân" [they've seen him reciting], "could you teach us Qur'ân", he said "Yes" then they began to overwhelm him with gifts, then he said i started seeing pages in the masjid so i began reading them, pages of the Qur'ân, they said "you even know how to read and write" he said " YES" they told him "Will you teach us and our children how to read and write" and they began to learn from him how to read and write, and also they showered him with gifts, then they told him one day, after being there for some time "We have this problem, we have this young orphan girl..She has recently been orphaned, her father died, we want you to marry her" This was a tactic they did to try keep him in town, and attached to the town so he will not think of ever leaving them, he resisted, he wasn't even thinking about marriage. But based on their insistence he said i agree to marry her, he married her. Ok, the night of the wedding, when they presented her to him, he said I looked at her and I was startled and astonished, and i was unable to raise my eyes off her neck, i seen the necklace i gave the oldman some time ago on her neck! This is a true & authentic story, he wasn't looking at his new brides face, even though she's mentioned as being one of the most beautiful women in that town, in that island, the relatives around him said, "You broke that orphans heart!" How could you look at the necklace and not at her? You're breaking her heart, it's like you're saying she's ugly by your looks, he said i began to tell them the story of how i found that necklace on her neck and how i returned it to some old man in makkah and how i left makkah and then the ship sunk and how i arrived to their island, i told them the whole details of the story, they began to shout and cry, La ilaha ila Allah, Allahu akbar, La ilaha ila allah, Allahu akbar, and the crowds in the town began to gather, he said "why are you people doing this? And why are you astonished?" They told him: The man you gave the necklace too is the father of this girl, and whats more astonishing than that, is we always used to hear him say "I never met a muslim on the face of this earth like the man who returned the necklace.. to me" and they said we always used to hear him make duaa "O Allah unite that man who returned the necklace with my daughter as her husband", he used to always ask Allah that he be the husband to his daughter and Allah answered his du'a.

This is what happens with tawakkul, during hard times, your tawakkul needs to go unwavering, and that light will reappear at the end of the tunnel, tawakkul is your source of ease and happiness, in both difficult and happy times. That's not the end of the story, look it, from tunnel to tunnel, you see the light, then you go into another tunnel, he said I lived with her a very nice life, and Allah blessed me with 2 children, tawakkul through ease and hardship, then she died, she died, his wife died, another hardship, so he said me and my sons inherited the necklace, then my 2 children died, another hardship but tawakkul is still there, he said then i sold the necklace for 100,000 Dinar, and thats where i got the wealth, he was explaining later on how he got the wealth he has "Wa man-yatiqillah yaj3al lahu makhraja" Whoever fears Allah, he keeps his duty to Allah, Allah will always find him a way out, from every single difficulty you can imagine "wa yarzuqhum min haythu la yahtasib" he will provide him from sources he could never imagine. It will come from sources you never even perceive, "Wa man yatawakkal 3ala Allahi fahuwa hasbu" Whoever puts his trust in Allah, he will be sufficient for him, whoever puts his trust in Allah, he will suffice him!

#Weak_Hadīth {Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) said, "Verily! The world is accursed and what it contains is accursed, except remembrance of Allah and what facilitates it, the scholar and the seeker of knowledge.}

~ Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله)

Note: Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz ibn Ibrāhīm al-Khudayr said this Hadīth was narrated by al-Tirmidhī & it is Mudtarib [Inconsistencies in the chain], it has 'Abdūl Rahmān ibn Thābit who Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله) said about him "He's not strong" & Yahyā ibn Ma'īn (رحمه الله) said "He is weak in Hadīth". Likewise, Al-Tirmidhī (رحمه الله) graded it "Hassan Gharīb", i.e. Weak.

points out that when Ahmad used "weak" hadīth, he never used erroneous (رحمه الله) Ibn al-Qayyim hadīth, munkar [rejected] hadīth or hadīth coming from completely non-acceptable sources; he would only use a strong kind of weak hadīth, which is similar to what was later called hassan and others, before the time of al-Tirmidhī (رحمه الله) According to Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyah (and Ahmad was before the time of al-Tirmidhī), in general, hadīth were divided into only two categories: Sahīh and Da'īf (weak). However, the Da'īf were of different levels. There were D'a'īf that were absolutely rejected and there were Da'īf that were close to but not to the level of Sahīh. This latter category could be accepted and acted upon. According to this theory, this stronger category of Da'īf is what is known today as hassan

:wrote (رحمه الله) Ibn Taymiyyah

Weak [among the early Scholars] were of two types: weak that cannot be used as evidence, and" this is weak in al-Tirmidhī's terminology, and weak that could be used as evidence, and this is hassan in al-Tirmidhī's terminology. This is similar to the case of two different leves of illness in Fiqh. One thoe of illness is where the person is considered to be on his deathbed and he is not allowed to give more than one-third of his wealth in charity. The other is where he is barely sick and may do what he wishes with all of his wealth. That is why one finds in Ahmad's and other jurists' statements that they are using weak hadīth as proofs. They use as evidence hadīth like those of 'Amr ibn Shu'ayb, Ibrāhīm al-Hujayrī and others. This is what those [early] scholars called weak while they are superior to many hassan hadīth. Infact, some scholars consider such hadīth to be ".Sahīh

Hence, Ahmad's statements cannot be used as evidence that Ahmad himself ever accepted or acted on the basis of what are today called weak hadīth. This opinion, therefore, was not unique to .Imām Ahmad. This was the way of all the early scholars, according to al-Shātibi

Whenever I go through a lesson, I put the dictionary from "almaany.com" aside the video on Youtube, and if there is any word that is new to me, I would search it up without the need of stopping the video.

There are many other dictionaries that are beneficial, and I have 2 personal ones, but this online one is so convenient and quick. If you keep doing this, you will see a big improvement in your Arabic!

126. The Hadīth: {Aftara 'Indakum al-Sā'imūn Wa Akala Ta'āmakum al-Abrāru Wa Sallat 'Alaykum al-Malā'ikah} and some people add: {Wa Thakarakum Allāhu Feeman 'Indahu} and there's no basis for this addition, the chain of this report seems to appear Authentic, Trustworthy [Narrator] from Trustworthy from Trustworthy from Trustworthy, and those who look towards the outwardness of the chains would authenticate it, and that's why it's highly possible that the Later Scholars have agreed upon Authenticating it, whereas it's a #Weak report. Ma'mar is Precise from the men of the "Jamā'ah", there is no problem in this, rather the problem is that he narrated it from Thābit al-Bunānī, and Thābit al-Bunānī is Trustworthy and Precise, there's no dispute regarding his status as an Imām, but whenever Ma'mar narrates from the people of 'Irāq, especially the Basrī's, and Thābit al-Bunānī is a Basrī, he would come up with Munkarāt and wonders, so this report is #Munkar and isn't Authentic, and it doesn't have an Authentic chain of narration, it was weakened by 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī(رحمه الله) and others from the Hufādh.

125. The Hadīth of Mu'qal from Abī al-Zubayr from Jābir: {The Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) forbade selling dogs and cats}, these two reports were #Weakened by several Hufādh, because it comes through the narration of Mu'qal ibn 'Ubaydillāh from Abī al-Zubayr, and it is more likely to have come from the Hadīths of Ibn Lahī'ah instead of Mu'qal ibn 'Ubaydillāh.

124. The well known Hadīth which mentions "Munkar wa Nakīr": {two black-blue angels come to him [in the grave], one called al-Munkar and the other called an-Nakeer, and they make him sit} was narrated by al-Tirmidhī, Ahmad and a group of Scholars, and al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله تعالى) said about this Hadīth, "Hassan Gharīb", and it was called "Gharīb" by several Scholars, however Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) was asked: Do you say "Munkar and Nakīr"? He replied: "Yes", it is like Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله تعالى) goes towards strengthening this Report and towards Authenticating it, and thereupon, several Scholars have attributed to him that he Authenticates the Hadīth, such as al-Safārīnī(رحمه الله) and a group of Scholars, because Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) was asked: Do you say Munkar and Nakīr? He replied: "Yes, I say Munkar and Nakīr".

105. The Hadīth of 'Abdul Razzāq, from Sufyān, from Khālid al-Haddā', from Abī Qulābah, from Abī Asmā' al-Rahabī, from Thawbān, that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {Three will fight one another for your treasure, each one of them the son of a caliph, but none of them will gain it. Then the black banners will come from the east, and they will kill you in an unprecedented manner." Then he mentioned something that I do not remember, then he said: "When you see them, then pledge your allegiance to them even if you have to crawl over the snow, for that is the caliph of Allah, Mahdi], and in this [chain], all the men of narrators are Hufādh, and all of them are Precise wherein none of them are differed upon, however Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله تعالى) rejected it, and that is because it comes from the narration of 'Abdul Razzāq from Sufyān in Makkāh, and whenever Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله تعالى) would denounce something from the Hadīths of 'Abdul Razzāq, he made it among his narrations from him [i.e. Sufyān] in Makkāh.

حديث عبد الرزاق ، عن سفيان ، عن خالٍ الجَدَّاء ، عن أبي قلابه ، عن أبي أسماء الرحبي ، عن ثوبان ، أنَّ النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم قال: (يَقْتِيلُ عِنْدَ كَثْرَتِكُمْ ثَلَاثَةَ كُلِّهِمْ ابْنُ خَلِيقَةٍ ، ثُمَّ لَا يَصِيرُ إِلَّا وَاحِدًا مِنْهُمْ ، ثُمَّ يُخْرِجُ الرِّائِبَاتِ الشُّؤْد مِنْ قِتْلِ الْمَشْرِقِ ، فَيَقْتُلُوْكُمْ قِتْلًا لَمْ يَقْتُلْهُ قَوْمٌ ، قال: وَذَكَرَ شَيْئًا تَسِيئَتُهُ قال: فَإِذَا رَأَيْتُمُوهُ فَبَايَعُوهُ وَلَوْ حَنْوًا عَلَى التَّلَجِ ، فَإِنَّهُ خَلِيقَةُ اللَّهِ الْمُهْدِيِّ)وهذا رجاله كلهم حُفَّاط ، وكلهم أنباء لا يُخْتَلَفُ فِي وَاحِدٍ مِنْهُمْ ، ولكن الإمام أحمد رحمه الله تعالى أنكره ، وذلك لِأَنَّهُ من رواية عبد الرزاق ، عن سفيان في مَكَّة ، وكان الإمام أحمد رحمه الله تعالى كلما استنكر شيئًا من أحاديث عبد الرزاق جعله من مروياته عنه في مكة .

Shaykh Muḥammād Saʿīd Saqar al-Madanī put together the words of the 4 Imāms condemning blind following in poetry, so he said:

"And the Guided Imāms of Knowledge say, do not act upon***our words, without a valid text to support it

This is proof that we must take from the Hadīth***And that is how it was in the past and present

The Imām, Abū Hanīfah said***It cannot be for anyone who has Islām

To take my words so that it falls in opposition***to the Hadīth and the Chosen Book

And Mālik, the Imām of the land of Migration***He said while pointing towards the chamber cells

Every speech has within it what's accepted***and within it is what's rejected except for the words of the Messenger

And al-Shāfiʿī said, if you see***my words opposing what you have narrated

Of the Hadīths, then throw at the wall***the statements of mine which go against the reports

And Ahmad said to them, do not write***what I say, rather search for the origins of that

A Shaykh who is very dear me, a man of wisdom and knowledge, I really miss him so much, may Allāh keep him steadfast and free him:

I remember when I went to my parents, I was quite confused as to what to do - and my mother she told me, she said, "Son, remember death only comes once in life."

And my father who is 84/85 years old and is technically blind said to me:

"Son, I would prefer to see you die in prison and that you are keeping to your principles and to what you believe in rather than for you to sell your soul and to be rejected by yourself first and foremost and of-course by your Lord."

Shaykh Sulaymaan Al 'Alwaan answers a question regarding the Murji'ah

Question:

As-Salaam Aleykom Shaykh, May Allah grant you good and a long life. A while ago when you spoke about takfeer, the mistakes that happens [when you apply it], and the outcome of it. And this scenario maybe happening, but because of this a new way [Manhaj] has appeared, that which we call irjaa of today. They have made the religion more softer than the clothes of Samir as mention by some of the Salaf. Can you give us more details about this or explain to us [Murjism] in general? Would you like to mention anything about that for us?

Answer:

Correct! When the Manhaj [Methodology] of Khawarij appeared, as an outcome of that, the Manhaj of Murji'a appeared, and Ahlu Sunnah is between the Khawarij and Murji'a.

The Khawarij make takfeer because of major sins, and Murji'a don't make takfeer on the Nawaqid [Nullifiers of Islam], and they restrict the nawaqid to [a persons] Juhood [denying] and making the Halal Haram and similar.

And Ahlu Sunnah is between these. So the one who commits a deed of Kufr and all the conditions are full field, and all the barriers are removed, and this is not required for all the nullifiers, because there are some that aren't in need of this [i.e to fulfill the conditions and remove the barriers]. So the ruling on such a person is clear, he committed an act that nullifies the principle of Iman.

And what is kufr? This is a speech, deed, belief that nullifies the principle of Iman, and can't exist together with Iman.

There has appeared as you have mentioned, groups that have approached these clear deeds like: Shirk with Allah Subhanahu Wata'ala, assisting the disbelievers against Muslims, replacing the Shariah, or changing the religion, making matters which are Haram by consensus Halal, making mockery of the religion, shirk to Allah, making tawaf around the graves, or making du'a to the dead and similar [to that], then he approaches these clear deeds of disbelief and restrict [the application] to Juhood [denying], Istihlaal [making it halal] or l'tiqaad [believing]. Ibn Taymiyyah called these people as mentioned in [his book] "as-Sarim al-Maslul" "al-Djahmiyyah al-Inaath"..

And they appeared as an outcome of the appearance of Khawarij, those who if they saw a big sin, they would declare him as a disbeliever and out of the fold of Islam, and they would make his blood and wealth Halal, and they have call the lands of Islam the land of war and disbelief.

Then appeared those who call the land of disbelief as the land of Kufr, but they call it the land of Islam; and they don't make takfeer upon the Kuffar. And Ahlu Sunnah is in the midst of these [two methodologies].

But the brothers question was about those who hasten in Takfeer, but without a doubt this [does not cause] less harm than that and this isn't worse than that. A person have to look upon the madhab of Ahlu Sunnah Wa'l Jama'ah and accept it clearly, because this is the religion of The Lord of the worlds. This isn't the religion of this one or that one.

And if this [the Understanding of Ahlu Sunnah] isn't delivered to the people, then the bad outcome will appear for the Muslim community. And what are this [that will come]. That which he is saying, people will think it's true, and what other are saying isn't true, and likewise.

After that the truth will be lost between these two astray and deviant groups. Khawarij went in extremism with regard to takfeer, and the Murji'a went in extremism with regard to Irjaa. Those [Khawarij] make takfeer because of sins, and these [Murji'ah] don't make takfeer upon Nullifies of Islam. Maybe some of them [Murji'ah] are trying to find excuses for the heads of Kufr, so the way of truth have been lost between them [Khawarij and Murji'ah].

And the fundamentals of Ahlu Sunnah is an obligation to accept clear, so the truth won't mix with falsehood.

Radwan Dakkak updated his status.

I felt that it's extremely necessary to share this before releasing the full-Sharh regarding the #Adab and how we deal with differences in Fiqh by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān:

"The second point - To be aware of an important issue:

That you find from some people that if they memorise an issue of knowledge, they think they have memorised all of knowledge, so he goes out to argue, heated debates, mockery of others, belittling them & ridiculing them, or that they don't know as much as he knows, or they don't understand as much as he understands, or they don't memorise as much as he memorises, or they don't look at things the way he does, and this is an enormous disease which a slave could be inflicted with, he might perceive it or not, but regardless it's an enormous disease, and that's why the Salaf used to abhor the one who memorises an issue and makes it out to be as if all of knowledge is within that issue.

So when we learn these rulings of Hajj, we might take some comparative law amongst the Madhabs and mention what's most correct, and this doesn't mean that what I mention as being most correct is the truth, I could consider something more correct while someone else would differ with me, and others might say something is more correct, and I could say he's mistaken.

So the issues are divided into the following categories:

1. The issues that the Muslims have unanimously agreed upon, and this consensus is clear cut, there's no dispute in this, such as the obligation of Hajj, this is from the clear cut matters, such as standing at 'Arafah, this is from the clear cut matters, there is no problem in affirming this & mentioning a consensus upon it, and arguing on behalf of it, because it is from what's known in the religion by necessity.

2. Issues that the Scholars have agreed upon, however it's a speculative consensus, so the general masses are obliged to adhere to this speculative consensus, however this doesn't mean that the Mujtahideen among the Imāms and the Scholars who are firmly grounded in knowledge do not regulate the position of agreement or the position of dispute, and this doesn't mean that if someone performs Ijtihād in an issue among the issues, that we wave in his face the sword of the speculative consensus, rather it's obliged upon us to give everyone his rightful position, and this is why Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) denounced whoever claimed a consensus in the likes of these issues, and he says: "And what does he know, perhaps they differed, and whoever claims a consensus, has certainly lied". And Ibn Qudāmah(رحمه الله) did what's best, when he would comment on the likes of these issues: "We do not know of any difference of opinion in this matter" and "this is something which I haven't memorised any difference of opinion from any scholar", he safeguards what might be possible to mention a difference of opinion in the issue, he says: "I do not know any difference of opinion", or he attributes the statement to someone else, for e.g. He'll say: "Ibn al-Mundhir mentioned a consensus", "Ibn Qudāmah mentioned a consensus", so that he's safeguarded from disavowal by this statement, because many speculative consensus's are not established, and most of the time, these quoted consensus's are attached under a general topic, then you would find a difference from Abī Hanīfah(رحمه الله), or a narration from Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), or from Imām Dāwūd al-Dhāhirī(رحمه الله), or from Imām Abī Muḥammad ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), because what's correct is that the consensus is established with Imām ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), because he's a major Imām, and a Jurist, even if he is rebuked for abandoning Qiyās[analogy], and going into exaggeration in taking by the apparent[of the texts], he is still an Imām, Muhaddith, Faqīh.

3. The differed upon matters, and the proofs are clear in it, then in this case, we must take the proofs without attacking others, and without impugning their feelings, statements and opinions, a person puts forth his opinion and says: "This is what appears to me" or "This is most correct", meaning: in my view, and it doesn't mean that if it's most correct in his view, that it's the truth in all cases, because he could make mistakes in using the proof, such as if the Hadith [he used] was weak, and he could be mistaken in applying the proof in a [certain] reality, and there could be a stronger proof than his proof in the matter, so a person must safeguard himself in the likes of these issues.

4. The matters where there is no proof in it, rather it is based upon reasoning, then this is more lenient than what came before it, and imposing an opinion in the likes of these issues is ignorance. Blind ignorance is to impose your opinion upon others, especially in these matters, a person is not prevented from saying what he views is most correct, and he is not prevented from performing Ijtihād if he was suitable for performing Ijtihād, however he's prevented from making himself a custodian in the religion, and a custodian in determining the rulings and matters of Ijtihād! And a student receives such etiquettes from his teacher, if he sees from his teacher, calling others innovators and deviant, he will obtain this etiquette, and this is why you can know a student by his teacher, from his sharpness, his Fiqh, by his understanding, by his manners and etiquettes, so it's necessary to take these matters into consideration, and these are important etiquettes for the student of knowledge to know and be aware of." [End Quote]

Brothers & Sisters, we must be humble when someone asks us a question, even though it may seem "stupid" or "rude" or about "a harām matter", you should never insult, curse or belittle them. This is not the da'wah of our beloved messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم)

While studying the Sharh of Sahīh al-Bukhārī from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), I would like to share some of the manners and Prophetic morals I have learnt from it, you're more than welcome to read it if you have time ☺

Now this hadīth I'm quoting is in the Musnad of Imām Ahmad and its chain is authentic from the hadīth of Abī Umāmah(رضي الله عنه), that a man came to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) in the presence of the Sahābah(رضوان الله تعالى عليهم), so the man said "O messenger of Allāh, allow me to commit zinā" and the Sahābah were troubled by what he said, so they said "go go" ya3nī get him away from us.

But the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) sat him down, and taught him politely & advised him ☺ So the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to him "Would you accept it for your mother[to commit zinā]" so he said No, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "And likewise the people will not accept it for their mothers", the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Would you accept it for your daughter" so he said No, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "And likewise the people will not accept it for their daughters", would you accept it for your sister? Would you accept it for you aunty[dad's side]? Would you accept it for your aunty[moms side]? So every time the man is saying No! So likewise the people do not accept it for these people[our sister & mothers etc...], so if you don't accept it for these people, how can you accept it to the daughters of others, and they don't accept this for their daughters, then the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) placed his hands on his chest and said "O Allāh, purify his heart, guard his private parts & forgive his sins" so the man did not ever return back to this [filthy act] which is zinā wal-iyāthubillāh.

Now the point of this story is to touch on something very important, which is the adab derived from it. This man asks about a matter which is prohibited by the consensus of the Ummāh & a matter which is hated and despised by all the Messengers sent by Allāh(جل وعلا) which is known by Fitrāh as being an evil thing, however the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) sat him down and taught him subhānAllāh - He did not belittle him, insult him or curse him because this is a time & place to learn, and then what would happen if you told him "May Allāh curse you, get away from us" what have we benefitted from that? He would most likely remain upon his Fujūr[indecent acts] & his sins and he would hate you and remain upon his sins, and we're in a need of giving people directions & to create awareness of our beautiful deen, not to deter people away from us by using filthy language, rude words, rude way in dealing with others.

Foul language doesn't support the truth, nor does it destroy falsehood, it just shows to the people that you have a bad character & sincere people respect a person with knowledge & character, not a person who gets angry & tries to force his opinion upon others by belittling them. Unfortunately when you read some books from the Scholars where they refute some deviant, they start off with "The heretic said, the Atheist said, the misguided innovator said" then he mentions the most disgusting language you would see in the language, belittling the other person physically without even refuting the arguments...

Brothers and sisters, if you are not able to refute the people of misguidance, give the opportunity to others, please do not result to swearing & be like them, especially filthy sects like the Rāfidah/Brelvī Sūfī's who will say a million F words because from the characteristics of Ahl al-Sunnāh is manners & justice, being fair. We are in the middle path, we drop all types of arrogance.

SubhānAllāh, some people will not be able to refute you, so they just claim you're misguided, you're khawārīj, you're this, you're that so the laymen will stay away from you - Because they don't have the required knowledge to refute you, so they will exaggerate the issue & claim its a huge matter, so the laymen might think it doesn't need a response, whereas in reality the person is unable to respond.

When people don't have a strong foundation and a solid argument argument to refute you, they will start raising their voice, start insulting you & cursing you, whereas we are not like them. Our Salaf taught us to say "I don't know" because if we speak without knowledge, they can easily refute us, and we will be shaming the truth from our ignorance.

And never force someone to follow the opinion of some Shaykh, you can't do this especially in matters where the great scholars differed, yes you can tell them, this is more correct, here are my evidences, and you should follow this. But to raise a sword upon him and say "Oi, you must do this" as if the Haq is solely with you...He will give you 100 questions to answer, but he can't even answer 1 question. I have so much things to say, but this post is pretty long.

So let's go back to the way of our beloved messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and respect the intellect of the people by giving clear proofs which back up what you say. May Allāh(جل وعلا) keep us firm upon this deen وصلى الله وسلم على سيدنا محمد وعلى اله وصحبه اجمعين #Re

My beloved brothers in Islām, get used to saying the best of words at all times. A quality of a believer is having {Gentleness} and {Kindness} to his Brother, especially in his speech, this is what brings 'Love' to one another:

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) says: {And tell My servants to say that which is best} [17:53].

وَقُلْ لِعِبَادِي يَقُولُوا الَّتِي هِيَ أَحْسَنُ ۚ ٥٣ الإسراء

One day, Al-'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) was asked, "are you bigger or the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم)?"

So he replied: "The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) is bigger than me, and I was born before him" 😊

So allow your tongue to get used to saying the best of words at all times, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) preserve you all, be {Nice} to each other, you don't even have to speak, give your brother a wonderful {Smile} to cheer him up, and not only are you cheering him up, pleasing Allāh by doing so, you are also giving Sadaqah, Allāhu Akbar, what a wonderful religion we have, 'Smiling' is Charity, so always smile :)

101. {Whoever performs Hajj for Allah's pleasure and does not have sexual relations with his wife, and does not do evil or sins then he will return (after Hajj free from all sins) as if he were born anew}, some people add onto the Hadīth an addition, they mention: {he returns back from his [previous] sins}, this addition is not in the Sahīhayn, not either of them, yes it has been narrated, however it is #Shātha [Weak], but its meaning is correct, however we are also in a state of worship by the wording of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and showing what he said and what he uttered and what he didn't utter.

99. The reported Hadīth where the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) was asked about the 'Aqīqah, so he replied: {Verily Allāh does not love al-'Uqūq and it is as if he disliked the word [al-'Aqīqah]}. This Hadīth is #Weak and isn't Authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and the authors of the Sunan have narrated from the narration of Qatādah from al-Hassan from Sumrah that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {Every boy is mortgaged by his 'Aqīqah}, so this is a proof of

97. The Hadīth of Abī Ishāq al-Sabīṭī, from al-Aswad, from Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها): {That the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would sleep in the state of Janābah without touching water}. The outwardness of the chain appears to be Authentic, and thereupon the Later Scholars have gone towards Authenticating it, and it was Authenticated by Ibn 'Abdīl Barr, al-Bayhaqī, Ibn Hazm in "al-Muhallāh", and it's highly likely that the Contemporary Later Scholars have agreed upon its Authenticity as well, whereas it's a Munkar Report according to the Agreement of the Hufādh, and no prominent Imām in Authenticating and Weakening has Authenticated it, rather it was Authenticated by the Later Scholars amongst whom we mentioned, but as for the Early Scholars such as Yahyā, Ahmad, 'Alī, al-Bukhārī, Muslim, al-Nasā'ī, al-Tirmidhī, Abī Dāwūd, and al-Dāraquṭnī: Then they have agreed upon the #Weakness of this Report, and the saying [pertaining this issue] belongs to them, and Abī Ishāq al-Sabīṭī made a mistake in it.

#Maslaha_Important Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) was asked: When some of them are handed over the leadership [i.e. Authority to rule], he prostrates to the grave of Atatürk, because it is a condition which isn't possible to step down upon in the constitution, and some people say it's permissible to prostrate to an idol in this situation, for the Maslahah [Interest] of the Ummāh, and likewise the members in the Jihādī Groups, such as Hamās and others, so what is the ruling pertaining such a statement, and what is the response to it?

Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) responded by saying: This is an enormously significant matter, and it's not permissible to commit Kufr whatsoever, except in the case of Ikrāh [Coercion] alone, as it's mentioned in the Āyah, and whoever goes forth into it [i.e. Kufr] while he isn't coerced, then upon him is the curse of Allāh, even if he intended good, considering that many of those who affiliate themselves to the Islamic Party have fallen into Kufr from many aspects by claiming Maslahah for Islām, such as the prostrating of this deviant person towards that Tāghūt - if it's proven - and such as taking an oath to respect the constitution, and Tahākum [seeking judgement] towards man-made laws, and abolishing al-Walā' wal-Barā' and other than that, so I'll mention two proofs in this topic, the First [of the two Proofs] is to show the Manhaj of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) pertaining the Maslahah of Da'wah, and the Second [Proof] is showing the ruling of whoever adopts a Manhaj contrary to his [the Prophet's] Manhaj.

As for the First [Proof]: It is the Makkāh Period, so from the well-known Mutawātir knowledge of what happened to the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and his Companions from trials and tribulations under the hands of the Kuffār, among them who were killed, and among them who were tortured, and among them who were confined/imprisoned, and among them who were driven out [of their homes] such as the migration to al-Habasha, and among them who were besieged such as the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and those with him in the mountain hide-out of Abī Tālib for 3 years, that they even ate trees, and other than that. And Makkāh was ruled by Abī Jahl and his companions, and they didn't want from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) that he worships their idols, rather what they simply wanted is for him to remain silent from insulting it and making Takfīr upon them and making Takfīr upon their forefathers and similar to that, and if they [i.e. kuffār] wanted to lower their positions for something like that [i.e. abstaining from Takfīr upon their idols and forefathers], they would be the quickest people to abandon it [i.e. their positions] and give his companions what they wish, infact it's narrated in the Seerah that they offered him [i.e. The Prophet] leadership, and the proof for this is Allāh's statement: {They wish that you would soften [in your position], so they would soften [toward you].}, except that the greater Maslahah [Interest] and the Trustworthy Handhold is holding onto Tawhīd, and having Barā'ah [Enmity, Disavowal and Hatred] from all that maligns it, and it is [having] al-Kufr Bit-Tāghūt. And based upon the Qiyās [Analogy] of these contemporary people, then the Maslaha [Interest] of the Da'wah would necessitate to remain in power/leadership, even if he doesn't hold onto & preserve Tawhīd and commits many Nullifiers of Islām!!

As for the Second [Proof]: It is what has been narrated pertaining the Khawārij, the Hadīths are Mutawātir regarding them and vilifying them: {They will exit from Islām}, {(The Khawarij) are the worst of the slain who are killed under heaven}, {Dogs of the Hellfire}, {Glad Tidings to whoever kills them}..and other than that, while he mentioned their immense acts of worship: {(A group of people will appear among you) whose Salāh and Fasting will make you think little of your own Salāh and Fasting}, and they were people of Qiyām, Salāh and Qirā'ah, and this is well known from their Seerah, yet the Sahābah unanimously agreed upon fighting them and vilifying them, and it's well known that they only intended good from what they did, and they desired the truth, and they exalted Islām and its slogans/symbols, and they abstained from sins and Major sins that they even made Takfīr upon whoever commits something from it, and even with all of this, when they took a Manhaj other than the Manhaj [Methodology] of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), their great acts of worship didn't intercede for them, and their good intentions didn't intercede for them, and they desired the Truth, so how about the situation of these contemporary [Maslaha Sell outs] among whom committed nullifiers [of Islām] which wasn't committed by the Khawārij, and they [i.e. Maslaha sell outs] adopted a Manhaj contrary to the Manhaj of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and his Companions, infact contrary to the Manhaj of the people of innovation such as the Khawārij, Mu'tazilah, Zaydiyyah, Ashā'irah and other than them, for all of them do not permit committing Kufr for the sake of Maslahah, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

"A king had 10 wild dogs.
He used them to torture and kill any minister that misguided him.

A minister once gave an opinion which was wrong and which the king didn't like at all...
So he ordered that the minister to be thrown to the dogs.

The minister said,
"I served you loyally 10 years and you do this..?"

The king was unrelenting.

Minister pleaded "Please give me 10 days before you throw me to the dogs"
The king agreed.

In those 10 days the minister went to the keeper of the dogs and told him he wanted to serve the dogs for the next 10 days...

The guard was baffled...
But he agreed.
So the minister started feeding the dogs, caring for them, washing them, providing all sorts of comfort for them.

So when the 10 days were up...

The king ordered that the minister be thrown to the dogs as sentenced .

When he was thrown in, everyone was amazed at what they saw..
The dogs were wagging their tails playing with the condemned minister..licking his feet.

The king was baffled at what he saw. " what happened to the dogs? !!!" He growled.

The minister then said;"
I served the dogs for only 10 days and they didn't forget my service...
Yet I served you for 10 years and you forgot all at the first mistake!"...

The king realised his mistake

Replaced the dogs with crocodiles !!

There are two extremes my beloved brothers:

1. Those who only have knowledge about the affairs of the Ummāh, where they can tell you the exact date of certain events and what exactly happened. However when it comes to knowledge of the Religion, they don't know much at all.

2. Those who only have knowledge about the religion, and mostly focus on basic 'Fiqh' while ignoring Tawhīd and Walā' & Barā'. And they generally shun others from learning about the affairs of the Ummāh, claiming everything is 'Grey', infact they themselves are ignorant of Matters of 'Aqīdah, Takfīr, Qitāl and the affairs of the Ummāh.

- As Muslims, we must have Knowledge of our Religion and the affairs of the Ummāh, and there's no doubt the person who acts upon his Knowledge and is upon the Haqq is more beloved to Allāh than someone who merely quotes Qur'ān, Sunnāh and the 'Ulemā' without implementing what he says.

What's amazing is the brothers who are aware of the affairs of the Ummāh are usually upon the correct 'Aqīdah, they just need some directions and guidance to keep them firmly grounded upon the Haqq. They need to equip themselves with Knowledge, so the people of Irjā' do not overcome them through their Misconceptions and Doubts, and likewise with those who are Extreme and Hasty in performing Takfīr not according to the Guidelines and established Principles of Ahl al-Sunnāh wal-Jamā'ah.

Alhamdulillah, many brothers and sisters who have knowledge of the affairs of the Ummāh are becoming much more motivated & passionate to study Knowledge of the Deen. This way, the deviants will not be able to overcome you, and when they condemn certain actions, you can easily refute such misconceptions, most people can't even differentiate between the rulings that deal with a Kāfir Aslī and a Kāfir Murtad, because the ignorant Murji'ah quote the Seerah of the Prophet (ﷺ) during battles with Kuffār Asliyyīn and apply it today upon Kuffār Murtaddīn.

This is why I want all my beloved brothers & sisters to know their religion, and we don't simply want people to study 'Aqīdah and Takfīr, rather studying Fiqh, Tafsīr and Hadīth is just as important, because if we just focus on Tawhīd, it gives the deviants the platform to speak about Fiqh & Hadīth, while they themselves have many mistakes in Fiqh and Hadīth without anyone being able to correct them. Also what I've learnt through experience is that people are not going to come straight to Tawhīd, unless you teach them Hadīth and Fiqh. So my humble advice is to expand on your knowledge, especially by striving to learn {Arabic} and the {Qur'ān}, and instead of solely focusing on Tawhīd and {'Aqīdah}, learn {Usūl} and {Hadīth} and {Fiqh} and {Tafsīr} and don't forget, {Adab} is one of the most important sciences, no matter how much on the Haqq you are, if you don't strive to improve on your character and manners, humbling yourself to Allāh and having gentle and kind speech, even with {Deviants!}, people will reject your Da'wah.

May Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) bless you all in this Dunyā and the Ākhirah, and by the way, I'm not asking from every brother and sister to be a {Shaykh} in the deen, we need Doctors, Teachers, Engineers, Nurses, Builders, IT, Video Designers etc...However because of the amount of ignorance that is being spread from the wicked Scholars, we really need more brothers and sisters learning the deen, so we make up for this gap and when Muslims return back to the religion upon the pure Tawhīd and authentic Knowledge, free from shirk and bid'ah, we will have victory, may Allāh (جل وعلا) allow us to spread the Haqq, with all of our speech based upon evidence from the Qur'ān, Sunnāh, Ijmā' and the sayings of the Scholars of the past and present, without concealing any knowledge, and may Allāh bless your path for seeking 'ilm to lift ignorance off yourselves and protect you from any form of Shirk, Deviation, Corrupt Intentions and allow you to be an asset for this oppressed Ummāh in the field you are best at. Whatever you're good at and can help the Ummāh in, do it to the best of your ability, and work together, unite upon the truth and speak against falsehood, even if you get called names and insulted. Refuting the people of innovation is more beloved to Allāh than praying, fasting and performing I'tikāf, Bārak Allāhu feekum.

Something I wrote up from memory of what Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) said regarding wearing the Izār below the ankles;

The view which correlates with the proof is very clear according to Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله), there are two Hadīths:

1. "Whatever of the Izār is below the ankle is in the hellfire" - This is a general prohibition for having the Izār below the ankle, without restricting it to pride.

2. There's another Hadīth that says whoever has the Izār below the ankle with pride, Allāh won't look at him on the day of judgement.

Therefore, we have two separate rulings, and it's not permissible to mix them together whatsoever.

- The one who has the Izār below the ankle, is in the fire. [General]

- The one who has the Izār below the ankle with pride, Allāh won't look at him on the day of judgement [Specific].

So there are two different punishments, the latter is much greater! Whoever wears it without pride below the ankles is in the fire, and whoever wears it with pride, Allāh will not look at him!

As for the Prophet (ﷺ)'s statement to Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) that he isn't among those who do it out of pride, then we must understand that it was the culture of the rich Arabs to drag their Izār below the ankle out of pride, and secondly, Abū Bakr had an excuse to have the Izār below the ankle where he told the Messenger (ﷺ) "my Izār keeps falling and I try to bring it up", SubhānAllāh and who today wears it below the ankle and puts it up? That's exusable, and this is like the case with someone who only has 1 Izār and isn't able to fix it or get another one, he is excused for that time being. It doesn't change the fact that it's Harām to have the Izār below the ankle with or without pride, they are both Harām and dragging the Izār with pride is greater in its prohibition and punishment.

I hope that made sense, and Allāh knows best.

Brief Meanings of SubhanAllah, Alhamdulillah, Allahu Akbar, and La ilaaha illa Allah:

The following three are also known as tasbeeh, tahmeed, takbir, and tahleel in the Arabic language.

Subhan Allah (سبحان الله): Meaning Allah is perfect in an absolute sense without any defects or imperfections in any sense of the word.

Alhamdulillah (الحمد لله): Meaning all praise and thanks belong to Allah alone because He is the originator of everything. To praise or thank something is indirectly praising and thanking Allah because He is its true Creator.

Allahu Akbar (الله أكبر): Meaning Allah is greater than everything else not just in your life but the entire existence.

La ilaaha illa Allah (لا إله إلا الله): There is no deity worthy of worship except Allah alone.

SERIE: Fatāwā & Quotes van al-'Ulamā' ar-Rabbāniyyīn inzake de 'Aqīdah & de Manhāġ van as-Salaf aṣ-Ṣāliḥīn

Vertaling: IslamOnderwijs

Fatwā #1: At-Taqlīd (het volgen zonder bewijs) in de 'Aqīdah (geloofsleer)

Vraag: "Is at-Taqlīd (het volgen zonder bewijs) in de 'Aqīdah (geloofsleer) toegestaan? En is de uitspraak "Ik ben op de 'Aqīdah van die en die" correct?"

Antwoord van al-'Allāmah 'Aliyy ibn Guḍayr al-Guḍayr (فك الله أسرهم):

"Ja, dat is toegestaan volgens Ijmā' (consensus). De Ijmā' is overgeleverd door as-Safārīniyy in zijn 'Aqīdah[1] en door an-Nawawiyy, maar er moet sprake zijn van al-ġazm (zekerheid) in de geloofsleer. Hij, Verheven is Hij, heeft gezegd:

﴿فَاسْأَلُوا أَهْلَ الذِّكْرِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ لَا تَعْلَمُونَ﴾ (٤٣)

"Vraag het dus degenen die kennis hebben, indien jullie niet weten." - [An-Nahl, 43]

Hij heeft dus slechts het vragen en het doen van taqlīd op hen (het volgen van hen zonder bewijs) verplicht gesteld. En omdat de 'āmiyy (leek, doorsnee persoon) de bewijzen niet kent en niet memoriseert, dus is het boven zijn vermogen:

﴿فَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ مَا اسْتَطَعْتُمْ﴾

"Vrees daarom Allāh voor zover jullie daartoe in staat zijn," - [At-Tagābun, 16]

﴿لَا يُكَلِّفُ اللَّهُ نَفْسًا إِلَّا وُسْعَهَا﴾

"Allāh belast geen ziel boven haar vermogen." - [Al-Baqarah, 286]

En de correctheid van de uitspraak "Ik ben op de 'Aqīdah van die en die", indien je met "die en die" - laten we zeggen - de Boodschapper ﷺ en zijn metgezellen bedoelt, dan is er niets op tegen. En indien je iemand anders bedoelt dan dient er gekeken te worden wie "die en die" is. Indien zijn geloofsleer de geloofsleer van Ahl as-Sunnah is, zoals al-'Imām Aḥmad bijvoorbeeld, of Mālik, en dergelijke, dan is er niets op tegen, vanwege de toegestaanheid van at-Taqlīd. En wat beter is dan dat, is dat hij zegt dat hij op de geloofsleer van de Salaf (de Voorgangers) of de metgezellen is, en dergelijke."

#Important Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) was asked about the Guidelines of Takfīr upon a specific individual:

Question: Asalāmu 'Alaykum Wa Rahmatullāhi Wa Barakātuḥu our noble Shaykh; What are the guidelines of Takfīr? And who has the right to perform Takfīr upon a specific individual? And do the laymen have the right to make Takfīr upon whoever insults the Messenger or allies with the Kuffār, whether he was ignorant or knowledgeable? And what is your opinion regarding those who abstain from Takfīr and warn from that? And what is your opinion regarding the one who calls for discussion and debate in the way which is best?

May Allah give you aid and success, and lead your steps on the straight path, and make Jannāḥ our abode and your abode.

Answer: Wa 'Alaykum Asalām Wa Rahmatullāhi Wa Barakātuḥu, to proceed;

The discussion regarding the guidelines of Takfīr has very long details attached to it, however I'll summarise that for you.

So from the most important guidelines of Takfīr are 3 matters:

1. That there is established proof on the reason behind performing Takfīr.
2. That the action of the individual for this reason behind performing Takfīr is clear, and doesn't have any doubtful possibilities in it.
3. Impediments/Preventions [of Takfīr] are removed, and it is 4 [things]: Coercion, Ignorance, Interpretation and Mistake.

And every impediment from these impediments [of Takfīr] has details attached to it.

And everyone who has knowledge in an issue has the right to make a judgement in it, even if he was from the laymen, and that is like the one who knows that Tārik al-Salāh [Abandoner of Salāh] is a Kāfir, then he sees someone who doesn't pray, then he has the right to make Takfīr upon him, and also like the one who hears someone mocking the Deen, and similar to that.

But as for performing Takfīr upon Specific Individuals:

Then know, may Allāh bless you, that the Madhab of Irjā' in this time of ours deeply penetrated into those who affiliate themselves to the Salafiyyah, so they became two types:

1. Whoever states by his tongue or in his articles; there's no speech or actions that constitute Kufr, rather all that falls back to Belief in the Heart.

2. The one who affirms that there are sayings and actions which constitutes Kufr, however he doesn't see anyone as a Kāfir.

And there's no doubt that both Madhabs are false, and the first one is more absurd than the second, and the one who ponders over the Seerah of the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) and his Companions, and the Imāms [of the Ummāh] will know the invalidity of these Madhabs.

For the first thing that the Sahābah did after the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) passed away, is Takfīr upon a nation of people and fighting them, and what has become most prevalent & famous from the Salaf is their Takfīr upon the Jahmiyyāh and the heads of the Jahmiyyāh, such as al-Jahm, al-Ja'd, Bishr al-Marīsī, Ibn Abī Du'ād and others.

And the most prevalent thing which gathered the innovators against Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) was his Takfīr upon those who they believe are amongst the Awliyā' [Saints], such as Ibn 'Arabī, Ibn al-Fāridh, al-Tilmisānī, al-Qūnawī and others.

And the most prevalent thing which Shaykh al-Islām Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb (رحمه الله) was most hated for, is the issue of him performing Takfīr upon grave worshippers and other than them.

And al-Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahāb (رحمه الله) said in the 3rd treatise from his "Rasā'il al-Shakhsiyyah": {If they were for more than 20 years affirming day & night, secretly & openly that the Tawhīd which this man displayed is the religion of Allāh & His Messenger, however the people do not obey us, and that what he rejected was Shirk while he was truthful in his rejection, but only if he would abstain from Takfīr & Fighting, he would be upon the truth}

And he said in his 29th Risālah: {And you know what they say, that if the people of opposition [i.e. Muḥammad ibn 'Abdul Wahhāb] would abandon Takfīr and Fighting, they would be upon the religion of Allāh & His Messenger}.

And he said in his 38th Risālah: {However, today they argue with one misconception, so know the answer to it, and what they say is that all of this is truth, we bear witness that it's the religion of Allāh & His Messenger, except for the Takfīr & Fighting, and what's astonishing is the one who isn't able to answer this [misconception], if they affirmed that this is the religion of Allāh & His Messenger, how can't we make Takfīr upon the one who rejects it & kills those who ordains it [i.e. The Deen] & imprisons them? How can the one who sends orders to imprison them [the believers] not be a Kāfir? How can the one who comes to the people of Shirk & urges them in holding onto their religion & adorning it for them, and encourages them in killing the Muwahrīden & taking their wealth not be a Kāfir? How can't he be a Kāfir if what he urges and encourages is what the Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم) rejected? And he [the Prophet] forbade it and called it Shirk in Allāh, and he testified that the one who has enmity to them and hates their people, and orders the Mushrikīn to be killed is the religion of Allāh and His Messenger, and know [O muslim] that the proofs support making Takfīr upon a righteous muslim if he commits Shirk in Allāh, or he became amongst the Mushrikīn [in fighting] against the Muwahrīdeen even if he didn't make Shirk, [the proofs for making Takfīr upon him] is too much to be specified from the words of Allāh and his Messenger and the sayings of all the Scholars}.

:refutes the "Maslaha" sellouts, this is translated from a talk (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān

There's no doubt the Masālih and Mafāsīd is an enormous topic, an important topic, a topic that has a deep Usūl, a Major Fiqh issue, a topic which is linked to many actions and matters of the religion.

However this topic isn't set by the desires of the people nor their own personal Maslaha, where they give precedence of their own Maslahah over the Masālih of the Religion

As for the situation of the sahabah when they would apply this principle, Abū Bakr didn't say about those who apostated, "Oh, Wallah the Maslahah is to leave them and not fight them, and win their hearts", rather he gathered the armies of the muslims, when 'Omar and the Major Sahābah opposed him, Abu Bakr said: "Wallāhi I will fight whoever makes a distinction between the Salāh and the .”Zakāt

Abū Bakr also said]: "Wallahi even if they refrain from giving me a piece of rope which they used to] ".[pay during the time of the Prophet [I will still fight them

Abū Bakr wasn't concerned about a piece of rope and the like of that, but rather this is altering/changing the Shari'ah and altering the deen [by not fighting apostates], a distortion and deformation of wala' and Bara', he [i.e. Abū Bakr] defended the religion of Allāh, when 'Omar opposed his decision, he didn't accept it, even though it was the objection of 'Omar! That 'Omar :said

It was nothing but Allah Who opened Abu Bakr's chest towards the decision to fight, and I came to“ know that his decision was right.” [Sahīh Bukhārī]. So he followed Abū Bakr pertaining that matter .[[of fighting the apostates said in the Sahīhayn: “I have been commanded to fight people till (صلى الله عليه وسلم)The Prophet they testify La ilaha illallah (there is no true god except Allah) and testify that I'm the Messenger of Allāh, and establish Salāh and give Zakāt; and if they do it, their blood (life) and property are "secured except by the right of Islām

So Abū Bakr applied this principle and he didn't take into account the issue of “Masālih” and “Mafāsīd”, the Maslahah is to establish the Shari'ah, right now they [i.e. Deviants] say the Maslahah is not to establish the Shari'ah in fear of the western countries, and the United Nations [of Kufr] .”[would unite against them, “So we would apply man-made laws [instead

If you actually established the shari'ah and were you to apply the shari'ah of Allah, these man-made laws would dread and the enemy would be afraid of you, but we have now become like the foam of the sea. The enemy aren't afraid of us, rather we are afraid of them, so instead of having them pay us the jizyah, giving it [to us] with their hands while they are little, [rather] right now we give them “the maslahah” and the like of that to please them, and searching for their love, because we didn't .(جل وعلا)establish the shari'ah of Allah said pertaining this issue: "The Messenger of Allāh prohibited us from (رضى الله عنه)Rāfi' ibn Khadij doing something that was beneficial for us, but the obedience to Allah and to His Messenger is [more BENEFICIAL to us." [Sahīh Muslim

This is the real form of the principle of “Masaalih” and “Mafaasid”, however some of the people are disillusioned, they abolish the Shari'ah, and the Thawābit [Fundamental Constants] of the Religion, and he plays with it, under the pretext of “Freedom” and “Equal Justice”, then he uses the excuse of “Masaalih” and “Mafaasid” to justify that, and he doesn't even believe in the Thawābit [Fundamental Constants of the deen] to begin with, he isn't able to confront the Ummah with “Offensive Jihād”, they mess around with [the term] "Offensive Jihād", and when they mention Jihād, they mention it with shyness in regards to Palestine alone, but as for Kashmir, Afghanistan, Chechnya, philippines, this bothers & annoys them, they only mention Jihād for Palestine for many reasons, there are even Kuffār who defend & support us in this issue, the European countries in its entirety supports the Palestinian cause, but who is there to support the other causes? Islām is one, it doesn't change over the change of time, it remains the same, just like it's obligatory to support the !...Palestinian cause, it's more deserving to be the same elsewhere

The discussion regarding “Masaalih” and “Mafaasid” must be subject by proof from the shari'ah, not subject by the desires of the people & their desires, not fooling/messing around with the terminologies [of the Shari'ah], he says we are fighting terrorism and he doesn't specify what this so called terrorism means, they associate with the disbelievers in this [label], and they don't specify .[[who this label is referring too

They abstain from Allāh's statement: {Allah does not forbid you from those who do not fight you because of religion and do not expel you from your homes - from being righteous toward them and [acting justly toward them] [60:8

Who are the ones that aren't fighting us because of our religion? This speech is directed to a group among the Disbelievers and agents of the Zionists, these people fight us because our religion, and we strive against them in the best way, Allāh says the ones who oppress, rather they are the oppressors, so why should we play around with the Postulates and Thawābit [Fundamental .Constants] of the Shari'ah under these filthy pretexts

#Amazing ☺ Takfīr according to the Tawāghīt government scholars

By Ash-Shaykh Al-'Allāmah Nāsir Ibnu Hamad Al-Fahd fakk Allāhu asrah

Know, my Muslim brother, that from the most important criteria of Takfeer, which most of the people of knowledge have unfortunately neglected, is that the person who commits any of the nullifiers of Islām should not be from the rulers (those in authority), because making Takfeer of the rulers, no matter what nullifier of Islām they had committed, is something which would almost cause the skies to split, the earth to break open and the mountains to fall apart.

Their criterion is built upon two important principles:

The first principle is that every evidence, whether it is from the Qur'ān or Hadeeth, which indicates that the rulers have breached one of the tenets of Islām can either be interpreted or abrogated.

The second principle is that every consensus (Ijmā') which indicates that the rulers have breached one of the tenets of Islām is erroneous, and because it is the rulers who have breached (one of the tenets of Islām), suddenly there arises two opinions regarding this matter.

And "those who are well-grounded in knowledge" have agreed upon these two principles (above), and it is only those who are "young in age" with "foolish dreams" (sufahaa' ul-ahlaam) who are ignorant of these principles. And the evidence for this criterion (daabit) is from the Qur'ān, the legal (shar'ee) principles, and the deriving (al-istiqrāa') of evidences. As for the evidence from the Qur'ān, it is Allāh's statement regarding what Fir'awn had said [to his people];

{I show you only that which I see (correct) and I guide you only to the path if guidance} [40:29]

And one of the foundational (usooli) principles is that 'consideration is given to the general meaning of the text and not its specific circumstance. So this speech, even though the Fir'awn at the time of Mūsā said it, applies to all of the pharaohs from the rulers of today, since they do not show their people except what they see (correct) and they guide them only to the path of right guidance. And so, if we make Takfeer of them with what is clear from the evidences or consensuses, it would be contrary to the statement of Fir'awn, "and I only guide you to the path of guidance," [as they believe that they are the ones who guide the people, just like Fir'awn], and this is apparent.

As for the proof from the legal (shar'i) principles, it is the well-known shar'i principle which "those who are firmly grounded in knowledge" have agreed upon, which is: "The elders (shuyūkh) have more understanding and experience." And as for the derived proofs, it is apparent through istiqrāa' (the deriving of proofs) that there are consensuses which have been explained regarding some actions that can nullify a person's Islām. But if the rulers perpetrate any of them [the nullifiers of Islām], then research and investigation suddenly direct us to two opinions [principles] in this issue.

And here are two examples (of the above):

The first is that Ibn Hazm, Ibn Katheer and others have narrated consensus about the shirk of legislating rulings, and how a person becomes an apostate by doing that. However, when the rulers breach this tenet of Islām, then suddenly there appears to be two opinions [principles] regarding this issue.

The second is that Ibn Bāz, Ibn Humayd and others have narrated consensus regarding the disbelief of the one who assists the disbelievers against the Muslimīn, but then when the rulers commit this act of disbelief, suddenly there appears to be two opinions [principles] regarding this matter.

And this is always the general rule [according to government scholars], which you must "bite and hold onto with your molar teeth"

The Exception:

And know, may Allāh bless you, that this criterion [of the government scholars] is not always the general rule, rather it has an important exception and the one who doesn't recognise it would fall into contradiction and confusion. And the exception is that if the ruler breaches a tenet of Islām, only then would the rule apply. However, when he nullifies one of the tenets of the united nations, he is no longer infallible, and the rule would no longer apply.

An example of that is Saddam Hussayn. When he abided by the laws of the united nations, then Ba'athism, socialism, nationalism, arbitration laws, and the massacres and slaughtering, and so forth did not matter; rather he was (called) the "Eastern Gatekeeper", the "Noble Knight" and (even) "Salāhudīn". However, when he breached one of the tenets of the united nations – and I seek refuge in Allāh – when he occupied Kuwayt, then the system of being infallible did not apply to him any longer and he was then considered a disbeliever, apostate, Ba'athist, socialist and tyrant! So understand well this exception [of the government preachers].

If that (claim of ignorance) in the Salāh and Zakāt is not excused, then what about that which is greater than the prayer and the Zakāt from the basis of the Dīn which is Tawhīd, allegiance with the Muslims and Kufr in the Tāghūt?

Ibn Taymiyyah quoted the agreement of the Companions and the Imāms that whoever disputes the obligation of the clear and Mutawātir obligations such as the Prayer, Fasting, and Hajj, or disputes the prohibition of the clearly forbidden Mutawātir things such as vile evil deeds, and disputing the permissibility of some of the clear Mutawātir allowable things such as meat, then he is a Kāfir apostate whose repentance must be sought. If he was to repent (that is good), otherwise he should be killed. If he was to conceal that, he would be a Zindīq Munāfiq."

He did not excuse him in the four pillars, so what then about the first one which is the most tremendous? Shaykh Muhammad ibn 'Abdul Wahhāb(رحمه الله) said:

You see those who spend meaningless life analysing the works of for example Edgar Allan Poe or Shakespeare. They analyse it and spend a lifetime studying it. They study it in so much detail that if you were to give them a few pages and tell them did Shakespeare write this, they will look at it for a few moments and tell you no way this could have been his work because this word was not like this and he would have used this word instead of that word.

As Muslims, we have the likes of this man Ibn Qāsim, 'Alī Al Khudayr and Nāsir Al Fahd who took on the noble cause of studying the works of Ibn Taymiyyah, Ibnul Qayyim, Muhammad Ibn Abdul Wahhāb and his followers of Najd. May Allāh hasten their release and may Allāh have mercy on those who are dead of them.

Radwan Dakkak Just for the benefit: {Principle}: "Affirming the description of Shirk despite ignorance before applying the Hujjât al-Risâliyyâh" A) Shaykh al-Islâm Ibn Taymiyyâh(رحمه الله) said: "Allâh(سبحانه وتعالى) has informed us about Hūd(عليه السلام), that he said to his people: {worship Allah ; you have no deity other than Him. You are not but inventors [of falsehood].} [11:50]. So He referred to them as investors [of falsehood] before He ruled upon them with an authority for them to go against, because of them ascribing other gods besides Allâh, so the label of Shirk is established before the Risâlah, and it's affirmed that these labels are pre-existent [to the Message reaching them], and likewise with the label of Jahl and Jâhiliyyâh, and it is said: Jâhiliyyâh and Jâhilan before the arrival of the Messenger, but as for punishment [upon the Jâhil], then no" B) Allâh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {And if any one of the polytheists seeks your protection, then grant him protection so that he may hear the words of Allah . Then deliver him to his place of safety. That is because they are a people who do not know.} [9:6]. So He(جل وعلا) called them Mushrikeen before hearing the Hujjâh. C) Allâh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {Those who disbelieved among the People of the Scripture and the polytheists were not to be parted [from misbelief] until there came to them clear evidence} [98:1] So He(جل وعلا) called them Mushrikeen before the Bayyinah. D) Ahl al Fatrah who used to ascribe partners [to Allâh]: The Salaf have agreed that they are Mushrikûn, except that they aren't punished until after the Hujjât al-Risâliyyâh [has reached them], while they [the scholars] differed between themselves regarding this matter [Whether Ahl al Fatrah aren't punished in the Dunyâ alone or aren't punished in both the Dunyâ & the Âkhirah until the Hujjâh reaches them]. E) The Shirk from the people of Nûh(عليه السلام) is the first Shirk that occurred on the face of the Earth, and it's well-known with certainty that Âdam(عليه السلام) left his descendants behind upon Pure Tawhîd, then [afterwards] Shirk became widespread from his descendants, and they became Mushrikîn, so Allâh(سبحانه وتعالى) sent Nûh(عليه السلام), who is the first Messenger for the inhabitants of Earth, and it's well-known that Nûh(عليه السلام) would address his people that they are Mushrikîn, not Muslimûn, so where is the Messenger who established the Hujjâh upon them before Nûh, for the description of Shirk & its rulings to be applied upon them? F) The 'Ulemâ', Mufasssîreen, Linguists, Historians unanimously agreed upon calling the Arabs before the advent [of the Prophet] by "Mushriki al-'Arab", and Inshâ'Allâh to come, more would be spoken about the Principle of "The difference between the Ism(name) & Hukm(ruling)"

At times, solely focusing on our differences can cause division, forgetting what we agree upon. We have a firm methodology when it comes to 'Aqīdah, Hadīth and Fiqh, and what we believe our Imāms are upon is the Ijmā' of the Salaf in those issues. We do not accept differences on matters that are agreed upon by the Salaf. And before we speak about incidents and actions of certain people, we can provide evidences for that, showing what's true from what's false, however if we don't have common terms on 'Aqīdah & Fiqh, this would affect the judgement being made on certain actions, we would go to a dead end where both sides hold onto their own opinion speaking against the other side. I believe it's necessary to tolerate one another and unite as Muslims, but the best way to unite is to return back to what the Salaf have agreed upon, not rejecting the Consensus's that have been made or adding innovated conditions which the Scholars of the past did not mention. I would simply like to focus on sharing knowledge and avoiding arguments, I really encourage mature and calm discussions, suitable questions, feedback and fair criticism. May Allāh guide us all towards what is correct and rectify the situation of our Ummāh.

This is a response against an indirect post made against us for following the Methodology of the Early Scholars of Hadīth, and our stance with Shaykh al-Albānī:

1. No one disputes that Shaykh Muḥammād ibn Nāsir al-Dīn al-Albānī(رحمه الله) is a Reviver and Strong defender of the Sunnāh. Most of that post was speaking about his virtues which I don't think anyone can deny.
2. Our main concern is not how great Shaykh al-Albānī(رحمه الله), our concern is his Methodology of Hadīth, adopting Principles which contradict the Salaf. "Hidden jealousy towards Shaykh al-Albānī" I seek refuge in Allāh from such speech, rather it's our sincerity in following the truth, not a personal attack against al-Albānī(رحمه الله).
3. We do not dismiss the Hadīth Grading of the Later Scholars all-together, that's a misconception and only an ignorant person would do so. Rather, we benefit from the sayings of Ibn Hazm, al-Nawawī, Ibn al-Mulaqqin, Ibn Hajr, al-Albānī and their reasons for authenticating and weakening the Hadīth, however what we are mostly concerned about is the statements of the Salaf and always returning back to the Imāms of Hadīth who didn't mix up principles from the Usūliyyeen and Mutakalimeen.
4. We are not blind followers or 'ignorant', rather what we provide from the Scholars upon the Usūl of the Early Scholars such as Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), Shaykh 'Abdul 'Azīz al-Taréfē(حفظه الله), Shaykh 'Abdullāh al-Sa'd(حفظه الله), Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) etc...is based upon proof. We do not follow Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) because he's simply one of the most greatest & knowledgeable Scholars of our time, rather we take the proof he provides, including quoting the early Imāms such as Bukhārī, Muslim, Abu Dāwūd, Al-Nasā'ī, al-Tirmidhī, Ahmad, al-Dāraquṭnī, Yahya ibn Ma'īn, 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī, Ibn 'Adī, 'Abdul Rahmān ibn Mahdī, Yahya ibn Sa'd al-Qattān, Shu'bah ibn al-Hajjāj, Sufyān al-Thawrī etc...And infact, I check the Hadīths from many scholars before I share something from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān حفظه الله even though he is an absolute genius.
5. Infact, a post should be made for the real "blind followers" who quote a Hadīth from Imām Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) and they do not even mention the Grading of al-Tirmidhī on his own Hadīth that he collected! Rather, the biggest blind followers are those who only follow what Shaykh al-Albānī(رحمه الله) has said and they have no clue what anyone else from the Scholars of Hadīth have said or returning back to the Imāms of the Salaf.

6. What does "Mileebaariy" manhaj mean, I don't like seeing these over-complicated words which confuse people. The Haqq should be presented in a good manner, what I see is baseless claims and arguments which we already agree upon. The core issue hasn't been tackled, it's simply a rant against someone you disagree with, just like the lectures on 'dangers of Takfir', I don't see any explanations, Shuroot and Mawānī' of Takfir, just 'warning' people from it.

May Allāh guide us to the truth, and Allāh knows best.

#Tawhīd Salāh is an act of worship, among the most noble acts of worship. It is not valid and will never be valid, except of the slave prays it while implementing what Allāh has commanded him to do in it and what not to do! So whoever violates it by something which necessitates its invalidity, then his prayer is not valid. And likewise with the other acts of worship, such as Zakāt, Sawm, Hajj etc...Don't you know that the one who prays with no Tahārah while he has the ability to do so, then his Salāh is Bātil?! Because the Salāh is missing a {condition}. So likewise with Tawhīd, it is not valid if one of its {conditions} are missing, such as knowledge about the meaning of Lā ilāha ilā Allāh. He cannot be a Muwahhīd without knowing without knowing its meaning, just like a person who prays without Tahārah doesn't have his Salāh accepted! Likewise if a slave doesn't make rukū' in Salāh, his Salāh will not be accepted, and the exact same with Tawhīd, if a slave of Allāh doesn't disbelieve in the Tāghūt, then he has no Tawhīd! Disbelieving in the Tāghūt such as leaving the Major Shirk in all of its types and categories, and disbelieving in its people and having enmity to them. Please learn your Tawhīd my beloved brothers, this post cannot do justice to explain what Tawhīd is, it requires you going through explanations of the books of Tawhīd from the Scholars and the material is all out there, may Allāh reward you all!!

Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said:

"Tawhīd is to single out Allāh in worship, so whoever singles out Allāh in worship, then he must show disavowal from Shirk and its People, and whoever doesn't show disavowal from Shirk and the Mushrikīn, then he isn't a Muslim, and that's why in the 10 Nullifiers of Islām by Shaykh al-Islām Muhammad ibn 'Abdul Wahāb(رحمه الله): {Whoever doesn't make Takfir upon the Mushrikīn or has doubts in their Kufr}; We make Takfir upon the Jews, Christians and Mushrikīn, and we believe in having Barā'ah from them!

Allāh says: {So when you have abandoned them [i.e. Their Shirk]}

Allāh says: {So when he had left them and those they worshipped other than Allah}

Allāh says: {There has already been for you an excellent pattern in Abraham and those with him, when they said to their people, "Indeed, we are disassociated from you and from whatever you worship other than Allāh.}

And Allāh says: {none can share in His Decision and His Rule}

So it's necessary to have disavowal from Shirk and its people, and a person should not picture that Shirk is to merely make Tawāf around a grave, or call upon other than Allāh, or he says "O so and so, forgive me" or "have mercy upon me", this is Shirk without a doubt, however there's another type of Shirk, there's Shirk of Love, Shirk of Obedience, Shirk of Ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed, because Allāh says: {none can share in His Decision and His Rule}, therefore whoever rules by the cursed man-made laws, then he's a Mushrik in Allāh and a Kāfir. {Verily, Judgement is only for Allāh} and {Whoever doesn't rule by what Allāh has revealed, then surely they are the disbelievers}, therefore it's necessary to disbelieve in these Legislators [Besides Allāh].

Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyah (رحمه الله) said: {Whenever a person makes Halāl what is Harām by consensus or makes Harām what is Halāl by consensus or replaces the Shari'ah that is agreed upon by consensus, then he is a Kafir by the agreement of the scholars of Fiqh}"

Radwan Dakkak Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad (حفظه الله) was asked, It's mentioned in the authentic Hadīth: "Whoever says to his brother O kāfir, then surely one of them is such" so is this from the Nullifiers[of Islām]? Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad (حفظه الله) responded by saying: Takfeer upon a muslim which appears to me, and Allāh (جل وعلا) knows best, is upon three categories: 1. The one who had ta'wīl[a valid interpretation] in his speech[of calling a muslim, Kāfir], there's no sin upon him, rather he could be rewarded as it was considered by several Scholars [i.e. Such as ibn al-Qayyīm], and this is indicated by 'Omar's (رضي الله عنه) saying to Hātīb (رضي الله عنه): "Allow me to strike the neck of this hypocrite" and the saying of Usayd (رضي الله عنه) to Sa'd ibn 'Ubādah (رضي الله عنه) "Indeed you're a hypocrite, you argue on behalf of the hypocrites" and other than that, And al-Bukhārī (رحمه الله) has written a chapter in al-Adab al-Mufrad "The chapter of whoever doesn't view the disbelief of one who said that[takfeer] out of interpretation or ignorance" 2. Whoever said it with the purpose of oppression/injustice, and enmity of opposition & accusation, while he views him[his opponent] in his innerself as a believing monotheist, then this person is in danger, however it doesn't appear [to mean] and Allāh (جل وعلا) knows best, that his kufr is major kufr, rather he could've fell into an enormous sin & minor kufr, and this is what the majority of the people of knowledge are upon. 3. Whoever made takfeer upon him without an interpretation or misconception, so here he becomes a kāfir because he made Ēmān as Kufr, and upon this al-Bukhārī (رحمه الله) named a chapter "Whoever makes takfeer on his brother without ta'wīl, then he is like what he said" and he mentioned some texts[evidences] regarding this "Whoever says to his brother...[till the end of the hadīth]" Pay attention: The difference between the first[case] and the second[case] is that the first[case] is a ta'wīl based upon a valid[sharī] interpretation by using evidences from the texts[Qur'ān & Sunnāh], and with the purpose of establishing[the truth] for [the sake of] Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى), and ordaining the good & forbidding the evil, and as for the second[case], then his interpretation is not a valid[Sharī] interpretation, even if he used evidences from the Shari'ah with the purpose of enmity against his opponent, oppression/injustice and gaining victory for himself, and Allāh (جل وعلا) knows best.

1. It is either extremely weak[from its Isnād]
2. It is either weak because of defects.

Therefore, it is a night like the rest of the nights, it doesn't have any virtue, and it's not specified for du'ā, nor Dhikr[remembrance of Allāh], nor is its night for Prayer[Qiyām], nor is its day for Fasting[Siyām]".

What has become prevalent among some students of knowledge is the reliance upon the sayings of some contemporary scholars regarding the grading of a Hadīth, and abandoning the sayings of the Early Imāms, that even some of them narrate a Hadīth from al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) & mentions the grading of it from the sayings of some of the contemporary scholars, and leaves off the grading of al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) on his own Hadīth [that he narrated], or that the Hadīth might be reported by the people of Sunan, and it was authenticated for instance by Ibn Khuzaymah(رحمه الله) or Ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله), and he doesn't give heed to any of this at all, and he goes searching for the statements of some Scholars regarding the grading of this Hadīth, and this is wrong, and what's necessary is being concerned/occupied with the sayings of the Early Imāms, and benefitting from the sayings of the Contemporary Scholars.

74. It has been narrated in the Sahīhayn: That the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {Whoever builds a Masjid for the sake of Allāh, Allāh will build for him a house in Jannāh}, but if a man builds a Mosque in the desert where nobody prays in it, he wouldn't receive this reward, because what's intended: Is to built a Mosque for people to pray in.

73. The famous Athar [Report]: {Whoever has a lot of sins, then let them give others water to drink}, this report has no basis from the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and it's not proven from the Sahābah(رضي الله عنهم), rather Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) was asked about the best kind of Sadaqah? So he replied: "Giving someone water to drink from", and he used as evidence that the inhabitants of hell would say: {Pour upon us some water or from whatever Allah has provided you} [7:50], so this is a proof regarding the virtue of water.

69. What's correct from the sayings of the Scholars of Hadīth is the permissibility of narrating a Hadīth by its meaning, under certain conditions: The 1st condition: That he's from the people of Knowledge, because the Jāhil who doesn't understand [Hadīth] might apply it incorrectly, and that he might mention an exemption [of something from the Hadīth] without mentioning the [actual] exemption from it or vice versa, The 2nd condition: That he must be knowledgeable pertaining what is given off from the meaning [of the Hadīth], The 3rd condition: That this is not done within the Names and Attributes [of Allāh], for it is obligatory to mention the Hadīths pertaining the Names and Attributes [of Allāh] by its exact wordings, because it's not permissible to mention the Attribute [of Allāh] by its synonyms, The 4th condition: That this is not performed in the restricted Adhkār [i.e. The Adhkār the Prophet specifically mentioned], because the restricted Adhkār must be mentioned with its exact wordings, since you are in a state of worship with [the utterance of] Dhikr by its wordings, not its meanings, so it's permissible [to narrate a Hadīth by its meanings] if the conditions have been met, otherwise it's not allowed.

الصواب من قولي أهل الحديث جواز رواية الحديث بالمعنى وذلك بشروط : الشرط الأول: أن يكون من أهل العلم ، لأنَّ الجاهل الذي لا يفهم قد يأتي به على غير وجهه ، ولأنَّه قد يذكر المستثنى دون المستثنى منه أو العكس ، الشرط الثاني: أن يكون عالمًا بما يُحيل المعاني ، الشرط الثالث : أن لا يكون هذا في الأسماء والصفات ، فإنَّه يجب نقل أحاديث الأسماء والصفات بألفاظها لأنَّه لا يجوز أن تذكر الصفة بمرادفها ، الشرط الرابع : أن لا يكون هذا في الأذكار المقيدة ، لأنَّ الأذكار المقيدة يجب ذكرها بألفاظها ، فأنت متعبد بالذكر بلفظه لا بمعناه ، فإذا توفرت الشروط جاز وإلا فلا

Abdul-Malik narrates that his father; Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), said: "Every person who falls in to Major Shirk while living in the land of the Muslims is a Mushrik."

Note: Shaykh 'Abdul 'Azīz al-Tarēfē(حفظه الله) also says wherever the Qur'ān & Sunnah is widespread in the land, no one is excused for matters known by necessity & makes Takfir upon all Arab Shī'as, as he views the Hujjāh is pre-established upon all of them knowing Arabic & living in Muslim Lands, but Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) says all Shī'a Rāfidah that have read the Qur'ān are Kuffār for denying what's known by necessity & committing Shirk by calling upon other than Allāh, without separating between the Arab & Non-Arab Rāfidhī. He mentions none of the Scholars of Hadīth narrated from the Rāfidah who insulted Abū Bakr & 'Omar and accuse 'Ā'isha, because they are Kuffār.

Side Note: However, what's correct is that the Hujjāh is pre-established upon everyone that falls into Clear Major Shirk unrestrictedly. As for whoever falls into Kufr in the Clear Matters, then yes we agree that the Hujjah is pre-established upon them in the Muslim Lands, and can only be excused if he was in a desert far away from the daleel, or was a revert or was raised in the land of Kufr.

Share this around so that Muslims can know the reality of the Madkhalis. I'm going to write up something detailed Inshā'Allāh regarding the Murji'ah of our times & the past, solely taken from Shaykh Turki's lessons in defining who the Murji'ah are & outlining their main deviances, but this is a good read for now. [I wrote something very similar regarding the Madkhalis, but I've taken this post I'm sharing from someone else as it's written in a better fashion]

[Note: I will share Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān's refutation against those "Maslaha" deviants very soon Inshā'Allāh - And if Allāh wills, I will refute other common misconceptions that the Murji'ah use on separate posts]:

For those who don't know who these Madkhalis are, they are followers of Rabee' ibn Haadi al-Madkhali, who spread this corrupt version of Salafiyyah, he is their most famous scholar. They have an exaggerated and extreme understandings of Jarh and Tabdee'. Jarh is the science of disparaging narrators due to deficiency in their trustworthiness. This was practiced by the scholars so as to know from who Hadeeth can be accepted from, and from who should it be rejected. They also used it in the later generations in the sense from who can knowledge be taken from. Tabdee' is to declare someone an innovator.

This extremity is most clear in their wrong application of the principle "whoever does not declare the innovator to be an innovator then he is an innovator." So they misapply this principle as the Takfiri groups misapply the correct principle "whoever does not declare the Kaafir to be a Kaafir then he is a Kaafir." The starting point for the average and typical Madkhali (layman or scholar) is Sayyid Qutb. Whoever does not declare him to be an innovator, then he is an innovator. Whoever does not declare the one who abstained from Tabdee' of Sayyid, to be an innovator, then he also is an innovator, and onwards, until NO ONE is left on the earth except the few members of their little cult!

The innovations and deviance of the Madaakhilah include:

- Believing that legislating manmade laws, complete abstinence from ruling by the Shari'ah, or resisting to rule by the Shari'ah, seeking judgement from Taghoot, are all just minor Kufr, that do not exit the doer from the religion of Islaam, except with Istihlaal. Istihlaal is to believe his sin to be permissible. So they make the sins of major Kufr and major Shirk equal to lesser sins like adultery, drinking alcohol, etc., by placing the condition of Istihlaal on the major Kufr, which only exists as a condition for minor Kufr.

- Believing that actions of the limbs are not a pillar nor condition for the existence of Imaan for one to be ruled a Muslim. So for them one can never pray, give Zakaah, fast Ramadaah, or do Hajj, never do Wudoo', never get Tahaarah, etc., and he would still be a Muslim, who's Islaam can save him from Hellfire eventually. They would label him a sinner, as for a Kaafir, then no. So they have followed the Murji'ah of the past.

- Exaggerating the concept of excuse due to ignorance with regards to the rulers even if they pronounced their Istihlaal of their legislating man-made laws.
- Believing that major Walaa' (alliance/friendship) with the Kuffaar is not major Kufr, unless the person internalizes a Kufr intention, such as wishing to aid the religion of Kufr, or to destroy Allaah's Religion, etc. So if one were to lead the crusade against Islaam, head it, support it by wealth and blood, he would still be a Muslim, until he pronounces the internalized intentions of Kufr. So they do not make the act itself Kufr, until this innovated condition is proven.
- Labelling those who do Takfeer of the apostate rulers and their soldiers to be Khawaarij or Takfiris. They prohibit Khurooj against these apostate rulers, due to the fact that they rule them to be Muslims. If they rule some of them to be Kuffaar, they still prohibit it due to the fact it is not led by an Imaam (head of Muslim state).
- Belittling the importance of awareness of current affairs and events, saying that such is only for the rulers and scholars, and that the laymen have no need for such. This foolish idea leads many laymen to believe the rulers in their lands to be Muslims, because they are unaware of the Kufr that he practices. So these laymen sometimes end up sacrificing themselves for the apostate ruler by being his sincere servants and slaves.
- Testing people on their positions regarding certain individuals they have labelled innovators. If the person agrees with them regarding their Tabdee' then he is befriended, if not, he is taken as an enemy and belittled. The individuals they test people by, many times are labelled innovators based upon some of the above misunderstandings.
- They blindly follow the official government scholars on their stances towards their governments and politics. So if the government scholars say peace with the Jews is fine in Palestine, the Madaakhilah parrot his words. Note: Ibn Baaz or Ibn 'Uthaymeen are NOT Madakhalis.
- Holding a few people to be scholars in what they call "Manhaj." No one else can be questioned on these "Manhaj" issues. These "Manhaj" doctors include Rabee', 'Ubayd al-Jaabiree, etc. They follow them blindly in issues of Jarh and Tabdee'.

The Madaakhilah tend to have a supportive position of the Saudi apostate regime, although they are supportive of most of the apostate regimes in general. But due to the fact that some of them do do Takfeer of some of these regimes (Syria, Libya, etc.), they always are in agreement in praising and supporting the Saudi regime by heart and soul.

They are very quick and easy in declaring people to be innovators, even over issues which are not innovation. As for things that are indeed innovation, if one falls into them, they prohibit reading or praising anything that person wrote. For example, Sayyid Qutb had innovations, but so did many many scholars of the past and present, who Ahl as-Sunnah, as well as the Madaakhilah, both quote, such as Ibn Hazm, an-Nawawee, Ibn Hajr, etc. Yet they absolutely prohibit to treat the books of Sayyid Qutb, or others like him in the same respect.

Due to the fact that they hold many of these apostate rulers to be legit Muslims rulers/governments, those who revolt against them, actually even to just speak a word of truth that is against them, are classed as rebellious Khawaarij bandits, they permit allying and befriending the apostate governments, even if that ends up in aiding these apostates against a Muslim. This is probably the worst of the Madaakhilah's crimes (for those who hold this position) since it is apostasy, the apostasy of Mudhaaharah (helping the Mushrikeen against the Muslims).

In the end, they tend to take positions that are favourable for Islaam's enemies, harsh against the Muslims, mimicking the Khawaarij in their "killing of Islaam's people, leaving the idol-worshippers."

The Weak Hadīths in Fadā'il al-A'māl [Virtuous Acts] is divided into 2 types: The 1st type: 'Whose weakness is agreed upon', then this isn't permissible to be acted upon in all cases, and the 2nd type: 'What is differed Upon', this Imām weakens, and this Imām Authenticates, then this is what's permissible to be acted upon in the Fadā'il according to those who adopt that view [i.e. Those who say you can act upon the weak Hadīth in Fadā'il].

Sisters that follow the posts, I don't accept 'Friend Requests' or 'Messages'. I'm not doubting anyone's intention, only Allah knows what's in the hearts. But if you have any questions, my advise is to ask a Trustworthy Qualified Shaykh. If you can't reach a Shaykh, then ask another Sister who can direct you to a person of knowledge, I'm simply a layman who shares the statements of the Scholars, Barak Allahu feekum. However, if it's extremely necessary to ask an important question as a final option related to the posts, you can write a comment under one of the posts, and if Allah permits, I would respond. I hope this is what Allah would be pleased with, may Allah be pleased with me & allow me to purify my intention at all times, and this is what Shaykh Ahmad Jibril, Shaykh Nasir al-Fahad, Shaykh Sulayman al-'Alwan and the Scholars would be acceptable with from what I've read when it comes to giving Da'wah on social media, and Allah knows best.

How can you ever put your brothers down? You need to motivate each other, put each other up, be positive and encouraging, because that way such a person will be able to do his best at the highest level, that's when you truly want the best for someone, you support them & bring happiness to them, you cheer them up. Now this doesn't mean don't ordain the good and forbid the Munkar to avoid 'hurting people' as many use as an excuse! Rather, even when you advise someone on a mistake or shortcoming you see from them, do it in the right way, sit with them privately, be polite & before mentioning whatever the fault may be, make them feel comfortable & talk about another topic, then you can gently advise them, and when you advise somebody, don't go on & on for minutes on end, this is not nice, this is not right. I have not found the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) or the Sahābah do such a thing, unless it was a serious mistake wherein the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) wanted them to seriously regret it, sitting back from a Ghazwā, innocent death etc...So if you see a fault in somebody, please be nice and don't keep talking about it, like subhānAllāh one day I overheard a brother advising another, and he kept speaking about 1 mistake & I felt like it was putting the other guy down unnecessarily, it was going on for 1 minute, I was hoping he would stop, the other brother was just remaining silent, wasn't a nice thing to see, so I had to tell the other guy, please stop, that's enough, there's no need for that, may Allāh preserve you both. As Muslims, unity is essential, and putting each other up & smiling to each other is what builds the strong love and brotherhood. Infact, I really believe if you give advice to your brother in Islām, you must hug him afterwards, make him feel special & in his heart, because if your claim of wanting people to turn back to Allāh is true, and that you want the Ummāh to unite, isn't it achieved through treating your brother in a nice & gentle way, so be a good person Inshā'Allāh. There are times where it's necessary to be harsh, however in general you must be soft & have good character or else the people would turn away from you, even if you're upon the Haqq. Btw, an important note so no one gets the wrong message, our Ummāh will only achieve victory through Sabr and Yaqeen, and by uniting upon Tawhīd, not 'winning the hearts' by stepping down on Fundamental Principles using the excuse of 'Maslaha Shar'iyyah', hold firmly onto the Haqq, don't ever compromise on that. May Allāh unite the Ummāh upon the correct Manhaj & destroy the Mushrikeen & Apostates who have united upon Falsehood.

The Murji'at al-Fuqahā' who are known among the Ahnāf were mistaken in defining Ēmān as Speech & Belief in the Heart, however when it comes to applying Takfīr upon a person falling into a nullifier of Islām, they do so just like Ahl al-Sunnāh, but they say "He's a Kāfir for committing that nullifier because it shows that he is a Kāfir in his heart" even if he claimed otherwise. And regardless of the fact they are called Murji'at al-Fuqahā' they view some acts as nullifiers of Islām which the Majority of the Scholars disagree with them, for e.g. As it's well known in the Fiqh of the Hanafī's, whoever prays Salāh intentionally without wudū' has committed Major Kufr, whereas the Majority disagreed with them, and many other examples. However the Murji'ah of our time are nothing like these people, and I'm writing up a piece to share in the near-future Inshā'Allāh regarding the main deviances of the Murji'ah of our time ☺

Been taking notes from the Scholars & nice Lectures about the Murji'ah, going to put together a nice piece Inshā'Allāh. It will touch on the main deviances of the Murji'ah of our time. By the way, Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) refuted those who don't fight against Mushrikīn & abstain from applying the Sharī'ah, uniting with distorters for the sake of "Maslahah Shar'iyyah", May Allāh allow us to spread the Haqq.

 It's not permissible to mix your intention of fasting the obligatory missed fasts from Ramadān with an optional Fast according to Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله). Just as if you missed praying the 2 Rak'ahs before Dhuhr with a valid excuse, you can make it up after Dhuhr, but it's not allowed to combine the intention of praying the 2 rak'ah sunnāh before Dhuhr with the Sunnāh after Dhuhr, you pray them separately. There's more details in the video touching on different types of combining intention & what's allowed, but I simply wanted to focus on this point of the impermissibility of combining the Niyyah of Qadā' of Ramadān with 'Āshūrā', and Allāh knows best.

19. It was common amongst many of the Sahābah, that if he narrated a Ḥadīth, he would say after it: "or close to that, or similar to that, or something like that" and similar to these phrases that show their severe precautions, O Allāh how great of a people they were, how strict their sanctity [of preserving the Prophet's words] were, and how excellent are their traces they left behind for the people [as an example to follow], and how bad is the traces left by the people [of our times] in comparison to them.

17. The Hassan Hadīth is divided into 2 types: {Hassan in & of itself} and {Hassan due to supportive evidences} which is the Weak Hadīth if it has numerous chains, and its situation is if the Weak Hadīth was a result of poor memory from some of the narrators and what is similar to that, but if that weakness was arisen from lies by the narrator or being accused of that, then this doesn't cause his Hadīth to get raised to the level of Hassan due to supportive evidences.

الجَدِثُ الحَسَنُ ينقسم إلى قسمين : (حسن لذاته) و (حسن لغيره) وهو الحديث الضعيف إذا تعدّدت طرقه ، ومحلّه إذا كان الحديث الضعيف ناشئًا ضعفه عن سوء حفظ بعض رُواته وما إلى ذلك أما إذا كان الضعف ناشئًا . عن كذب الرّاوي أو تهمته بذلك فهذا لا يرتقي حديثه إلى درجة الحسن لغيره .

I wrote this around 6 months ago in response to a question about sending condolences to a Kāfir & the ruling on cursing/speaking ill about a Kāfir, feel free to read for the benefit. The reason I'm sharing this is because of the weak Hadīth I just shared on my previous post:

Before I answer the question, I would like to remind you guys of the second last Hadīth in Bulūgh al-Marām in the Chapter of Funerals, where 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) narrated that the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Do not speak badly of the dead, they have already seen the result of (the deeds) that they sent on before them." [Related by Al-Bukhārī]

Shaykh al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) has written a nice Sharh on this, if Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) wills I'll get to translate it, but some scholars said that this Hadīth includes both the Muslims & Non-Muslims, so it's Harām to insult both, whereas others held this upon Muslims only, but what's correct is that it includes both the Muslim & Non-Muslim, and there are conditions for speaking badly about the non-Muslim.

So Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) says if you speak badly about that non-Muslim who passed away which will hurt the feelings of his Muslim relative, then it's Harām. For instance, if you have a revert friend and his mother dies and you insult her, this is prohibited. However Shaykh al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) mentions that if no one is harmed by speaking against him or if this Kāfir harmed the muslims, then it's permissible to speak badly of him.

There's also the issue of cursing a Kāfir, it's important to know this. Cursing a living Kāfir personally is not permissible, because you are asking Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) to prohibit him from entering Jannāh, whereas Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) could guide him. If the living Kāfir was an oppressor and enemy to Islām, it's permissible to curse him individually because of his {oppression} & transgression, the scholars didn't see anything wrong with that.

If the Kāfir died, it's permissible to curse him & say he's deemed to the hellfire as well, as Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) says: "Indeed, those who deny Our verses and are arrogant toward them - the gates of Heaven will not be opened for them, nor will they enter Paradise until a camel enters into the eye of a needle. And thus do We recompense the criminals...They will have from Hell a bed and over them coverings [of fire]. And thus do We recompense the wrongdoers." [7:40-41].

Note: Even though Ahlal Fatrah are Kuffār in the dunyā, we should not curse them, as only Allāh(جل وعلا) knows their fate in the Ākhirah.

With regards to sending condolences for the disbeliever, if he was a Harbī, it's not permissible according to the agreement of the scholars.

Likewise, all scholars agree that it's Harām to say "RIP" or ask Allāh's forgiveness & mercy for a Kāfir, and the Āyāt & Ahādīth are numerous regarding this, and the Kāfir will eternally remain in hellfire.

If he was not a Harbī such as the Dhimmī & non-hostile to Islām, there's a difference of opinion. Many scholars permit sending condolences such as Al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) and Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), whereas others prohibited it or remained silent about it.

A group of 'Ulemā' have said it's permissible if there is a Maslaha in doing so, such as bringing them to Islām, and this seems like the most balanced view, as it's quite disputable to say it's completely permissible & likewise there's not a strong evidence to prohibit doing so.

Shaykh ibn Bāz said you can say "Innā lillāh wa innā ilayhī Rāji'ūn" because all of mankind are "ilayhi Rāji'ūn" + send condolences especially if there's a Maslaha in doing so.

We must remember that we shouldn't take the disbelievers as friends nor allies or have walā' to them, but this doesn't mean we don't deal with them in business, work, visiting the sick, showing good manners etc...

The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) had natural "permissible" love for his uncle & mother, and no companion of the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would speak badly about their death, however at the same time, we all agree they are destined for the hellfire, as we know from the other Hadīth the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to the man "My father and your father are in hell"

In the end, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) protect us from Jahannām, but there is a time & place to say things, and if what you say hurts your muslim brother/sister, it's Harām to speak badly about that "specific random kāfir" who died, however if it doesn't bring harm or if he was an oppressor & similar to that, then there's nothing wrong with saying he will burn in the hellfire.

This is what I have to share, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best...

Inshā'Allāh I'm going to share 200 #Hadīth Benefits from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), this is the first:

1. The strongest Hadīth that has been narrated pertaining du'ā al-Istiftāh [the du'ā you make when starting Salāh] is the Hadīth of Abū Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه):

{Allāhumma Bā'ad baynī wa bayna Khatāyāya Kamā Bā'adtu bayna al-Mashriq wal-Maghrib}

Then what follows it is the Hadīth of 'Alī(رضي الله عنه):

{Wajjāhtu Wajhī lilathi Fatara al-Samāwāti wal-Ard Hanīfan wa mā Anā min al-Mushrikīn Innā Salātī wa Nusukī wa Mahyāya wa Mamātī lililahi Rab-il 'Ālameen Lā Sharīk lah wa Bi thālika Umirtu wa Anā Awal ul-Muslimīn}.

A sincere message to all 'Marriage Experts' and those who only warn about 'some' of the dangers of Takfir. Look, I'm not telling you guys to stop giving Marriage advice or warn against Takfir, but if you ever do read this post, you have the choice to accept it or leave it. Now, I believe you have a serious deficiency in your da'wah of 'Marriage Advice'. There's no doubt we must all have the best of manners, be humble, not argumentative, arrogant, showing off, and in reality I can clearly see that I do have my own weaknesses in these areas & I'm trying to work on them. However, the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) told us to marry 'For Deen', so in my opinion from what I've observed on FB & I can be wrong, Allāh knows best, is that most Marriage Advisers don't focus enough on the 'Deen' part, even though the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said this is more important than anything else. This means, you must focus more on Walā' & Barā', 'Aqīdah, important Fiqh Matters, Qur'ān, Arabic, Kufr Bit-Tāghūt. Otherwise, you're going to have ignorant brothers call sisters extremists for their 'Aqīdah when they have those family meetings & vice versa. As for those who love to warn against Takfir, I'm not saying don't do so, rather Takfir is an extremely huge topic which must be understood correctly, however when you warn from Takfir, please don't talk about one 'side' of the dangers of Takfir while ignoring the other danger. For instance, those who make Takfir on others without making 100% sure they've committed Kufr or they are extremely hasty in Takfir or they don't look at the barriers of Takfir when it's necessary, such people must be warned against. However, there's another 'danger' of abstaining from Takfir which is rarely mentioned, and Marriage Advisers must be aware of this, and that is not making Takfir upon those who commit clear Kufr & Shirk, and this is a major issue especially when it comes to Marriage, because of your Ijrā' in Takfir, you've abstained from performing Takfir upon clear Kuffār, so Fathers & Daughters will think it's okay to marry filthy Sūfī & Rāfidhī mushriks, therefore the Marriage is Bātil & you know what that means! Lā Hawlā walā Quwatā ilā Billāh. Also, if your husband apostates by committing a nullifier, فسخ العقد the marriage contract is void & the couple become separated without 'divorce' as it's known for those who study Fiqh, but because of your 'warning' against Takfir, the poor ignorant sister remains in a relationship with an Apostate committing Zinā with him without even knowing, Lā Hawlā walā Quwatā ilā Billāh. May Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) guide our Ummāh to Tawhīd & at the 'Same' time, allow us to perfect our Manners & Character to be like the Messenger of Allāh صلى الله عليه وسلم.

2. {'Aqīdah} Usūl al-Thalātha of Imām Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) by Shaykh Haytham Sayfaddīn(حفظه الله).
3. {Fiqh} Explanation of the chapter of Hajj, Sharḥ al-Rawdh al-Murbi' by Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله).
4. {Hadīth} Sharḥ Saḥīḥ al-Bukhārī by Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله).
5. {Tawḥīd} Sharḥ Tajrīd al-Tawḥīd by Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله).
6. {Principles of Takfīr} by Shaykh Abū 'Abdūl Rahmān(حفظه الله).
7. {'Aqīdah} Nawāqīdh al-Islām of Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) by Shaykh Haytham Sayfaddīn(حفظه الله).
8. {Hadīth} Commentary upon the poem of al-Bayqūnī by Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله).
9. {General Translations} Sharing knowledge & Fatāwah from the Scholars, and you can tell the 4 Scholars I mostly share from are Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله), Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله), Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) & Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Tarēfē(حفظه الله).

And I've been learning from 10's of other Scholars & their lessons, you can't share everything :) For those who have asked, I have transcribed the first video of Shaykh Haytham Sayfaddīn(حفظه الله) completely of {Fiqh al-Sunnāh}, chapter of Tahārah, I'll share it tonight Inshā'Allāh, but as for the rest of the videos, I'm taking notes for myself only, Jazākum Allāhu Khayran.

You must force yourself to do things, don't stress or procrastinate. The Ēmān in your heart can overcome everything! :) Speak & Complain to Allāh, not to the people, always be strong & fear Allāh wherever you are! If you are a person of Tawḥīd & Ēmān, you should be the happiest person on the face of this Earth, {always smile}, even during the hardest times! If you really love Allāh, you would give him your time, you would recite the Qur'ān & remain patient through obedience and doing good deeds until you see the face of your Lord, let's all be the best we can & ask Allāh to guide our Ummāh that is suffering. We need to remember that some things are out of our control, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) reward you.

Is marriage obstacle in the Path of Seeking Knowledge?

Shaykh Ibn 'Uthaymeen (may Allaah have mercy on him) was asked;

There is a seeker of shar'i knowledge who wants to get married, but he is afraid that if he gets married, that will distract him from seeking knowledge. What advice can you give him?

The Shaykh (may Allah have mercy on replied):

"Marriage is not an obstacle to pursuing knowledge, rather it may help in the pursuit of knowledge. A man may be blessed with a wife who reads and writes and can help him. Even if she does not do that, at least she can take away waswaas and thoughts of marriage, for marriage helps in the pursuit of knowledge, because it provides a suitable atmosphere for pursuing knowledge, a calm and peaceful atmosphere. The wife can free up lots of time for her husband that he used to spend in meeting his needs in the house. So my advice to this young man is to go ahead and get married, for there is a lot of good in it, and it is obedience to the command of the Prophet (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) and following his Sunnah and the Sunnah of his fellow Messengers."

was asked: About the principle mentioned in previous question, (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad whoever isn't able to solve an issue except by going through to the Tāghūt courts, then this is a Necessity, and Necessities make lawful the Muḥarramāt [Harām acts], not the Mukaffirāt [Kufr ?acts], so what is the Tafsīl in this issue responded by saying: It's not permissible to go towards the (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad

Tāghūt for judgement, except in the case of Ikrāh [Duress] alone, because it is Kufr, however some students of knowledge view that the Necessity here permits that [i.e. going to the Tāghūt court], using the Hadīth of al-Hajjāj ibn 'Alāt as evidence, just as some of the Scholars have entered 'Darūrah' [Necessity] into 'Ikrāh' [Coercion], as it was mentioned in the previous answer, but what's correct is that it's not permissible, however if he had Ta'wīl [Interpretation] such as these Ta'wīlāt [Interpretations], and he was in necessary need of that [going to the Tāghūt courts], then he doesn't .knows best (سبحانه وتعالى) become a Kāfir, and Allāh

6 October 2016 11:59

Radwan Dakkak updated his status.

Brothers, what benefit do you get from knowing whether al-Hajjāj was a Kāfir or not? The Imāms of the Tābi'īn who were present at that time differed, Imām al-Dhahabī(رحمه الله) said about al-Hajjāj, "We neither love him or curse him", Khalās, his affair is to Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى).

By the way, as long as you perfect your Tawhīd & have a good understanding of Takfīr & its principles, that's all you need. If you need to know the ruling on specific matters, we have the Scholars who have devoted their lives into this & we can benefit from their Fatāwah.

If you're going to ask a Layman such as myself for any ruling, then Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) says:

"And everyone who has knowledge in an issue has the right to make a judgement in it, even if he was from the laymen, and that is like the one who knows that Tārik al-Salāh [Abandoner of Salāh] is a Kāfir, then he sees someone who doesn't pray, then he has the right to make Takfīr upon him, and also like the one who hears someone mocking the Deen, and similar to that." [End Quote]

I can only share with you what I have learnt, my personal opinion means nothing, the only time I would have a personal opinion is when two giants such as Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(الله حفظه) & Shaykh 'Abdullāh al-Sa'd(الله حفظه) differ on an issue, I would go along what seems to appear more stronger to me.

Important Note: I have no qualifications in the deen, I am learning the matters of the deen with you, what I simply do is share what the Scholars have said in an issue, while studying the basics of the Islamic Sciences, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) reward you all.

SubhānAllāh, I was just pondering over something. Many Muslims are imitating the Kuffār wherein it only humiliates them in this Dunyā & the Ākhirah. And many Kuffār are imitating Islām & Muslims for their own benefit in this Dunyā, for e.g. Think about the honey they recommended on the news, remember the Olympians doing Hijāmah, a Prophetic Medicine, and the list goes on & on, Islām is the solution for all of mankind, the Kuffār themselves have affirmed this from their speech & actions, they are implementing what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) & the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) have said for benefit in this Dunyā, yet Muslims shy away from the Qur'ān & Sunnāh and humiliate themselves by following the footsteps of the Kuffār! SubhānAllāh, how astonishing.

#So_Important Do Not Reciprocate

Rasul Allah (sal Allahu alaihi wa sallam) said: "If somebody reproaches you and makes you feel ashamed of any of your defects, do not make him feel ashamed of any of his defects." [Abu Dawud]

Usually, when somebody points out one of our shortcomings, we immediately become defensive and start finding faults with them. But the advice of our beloved Rasul Allah (sal Allahu alaihi wa sallam), is that we should listen quietly and evaluate what we are being told. If there is something we can improve about ourselves, it is only to our own advantage to do so. If the criticism is unjustified, then we are rewarded for our patience and good behaviour in not retaliating. The angels will take care of defending our honour. Starting a counter attack opens the door for Shaytaan to come in and take over.

Once Hazrat Abu Bakr Siddiq (radi Allahu anhu) was sitting with the Prophet (sal allahu alaihi wa sallam) when a man came and started to abuse Hazrat Abu Bakr. Hazrat Abu Bakr remained silent. Finally, he started to speak in his defence. At this point the Prophet (sal Allahu alaihi wa sallam) got up and left. Hazrat Abu Bakr immediately went after him and inquired if he had done something wrong. Rasul Allah replied that as long as he had been silent, angels had been speaking on his behalf, but when he started to respond, the devil came and sat down next to him. As the Prophet (sal Allahu alaihi wa sallam) could not remain seated where the devil was sitting, he left.

SubhānAllāh, performing Wudū' without any reason is from the Wiswās [Whispering] of the Shaytān! I've personally seen some people make wudū' as a habit subhānAllāh, it's really awkward. Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has prescribed acts of worship for a reason, and wudū' is an act of worship which Allāh has blessed us with & there's a reason for it, ya'nī we perform wudū' before Salāh, for reciting the Qur'ān, making Dhikr, before we sleep, entering the Mosque, even after having permissible relations, you can perform wudū' & have relations again if you wish, it's even narrated from the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) that he performed wudū' before replying to Salāms, [btw it's Recommended to renew wudū' for every Salāh even if you were pure according to Ijmā'].

As for repeating wudū' more than once without a reason, the Scholars have spoken against this & said it's from the Whispering of the Shaytān. It's authentically proven from an Imām of the Salaf, Ibrāhīm al-Nakhaī(رحمه الله) that he said: "They [i.e. Salaf] would say: Performing wudū' consecutively is from the Shaytān", and this was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in al-Musannāf (722) with an authentic chain. So please don't let the whispering of the Shaytān get to you. Jazākum Allāhu Khayran.

Sheikh 'Ali al-Khudayr on the Impediments of Takfeer:

Before knowing the impediments we must know the grounds of kufr, and they are: belief, speech, actions, doubt.

Indeed the definition of kufr is every speech or act or belief which has been stated in the texts of takfeer and expels the doer from the religion.

Their classification is as follows:

Impediments to the label of shirk, and that is compulsion, as Allah Ta'ala says: "Whoever disbelieves in Allah after his belief, except for one who is forced [to renounce his religion] while his heart is secure in faith"

And impediments to takfeer in obscure issues, which are issues which are only known in specific circumstances, and they mean issues of people of desires and innovations, such as the issues of Allah's names and attributes, and issues of the name of iman, and issues of destiny, and other issues that are not from extremism in anything preceding. The impediments are:

1. Ignorance
2. Incorrect interpretation of the Qur'an and the Sunnah
3. Blind following
4. Compulsion
5. Absence of texts that are necessary to learn the truth
6. Or it was informed to him but it has not been presented to him
7. Or it has been presented to him but he was not able to understand
8. Or it has been presented to him but a contrary argument was presented imposing incorrect interpretation on him
9. Or an ambiguity for which he is excused with Allah prevented him
10. Or he was a mujtahid in search for truth

Impediments of takfeer in clear issues, and they are general and specific:

1. Ignorance due to living in a remote wilderness (such as desert), or ignorance due to living in an era of kufr, or ignorance due to living and growing up in lands of kufr but who lived among the Muslims there is no excuse for him in clear issues and indeed he is either unqualified or liable.

2. Compulsion

Impediments of takfeer in general:

And here are the impediments of the doer:

1. Has not reached puberty
2. Is not of sound mind; that is lack of cognitive capacity due to insanity or unconsciousness or sleep or state of intoxication, or excessive joy or anger, such as the one who made an error due to excessive joy when he found his camel
3. The act of kufr was done unintentionally or without the corresponding meaning or outcome of kufr. However, if the act was planned and intended, but kufr was not intended with it, and did not make him disbelieve and although he knew it was kufr he does not carry it out, and this is not what we intended. And the meaning of the action or speech is not the meaning that mean kufr, such as the one who steps a paper and knows nothing about it, and if Qur'an is on that paper, and he did not intend to step on it or insult, unlike the one who tears apart a copy of the Qur'an because the tearing apart was deliberate, even if he does not intend to disbelieve with that.
4. Impediments in the grounds that the action or speech has been done, but is not outright or clear in its kufr.
5. Conformity and outcome when it is not deliberate and not conformed to, and absence of intention and conformity to the act is an impediment.
6. Impediments in the evidence which does not confirm his kufr with proof or confirmation
7. Argument for the ground of takfeer has not been established against him
8. Lack of options and that is compulsion

In regards to ignorance and wrong interpretation we will clarify them shortly, in sha Allah. These are the impediments to be taken into consideration.

These are the impediments not to be considered but some assume them as impediments, such as:

1. Fear
2. Not intending kufr
3. It only becomes kufr when accompanied by belief in the heart
4. Being from the rulers or scholars or da'ees (preachers) or mujahideen prevents takfeer on them, even if they come with outright clear kufr
5. Bad upbringing
6. Maslahah (to achieve the best outcome) of da'wah or good intentions, and what is being circulated around is that intention of maslahah even if it is an act of kufr does not make one a kafir
7. Joke and lack of seriousness, and it is not kufr except for the one who was serious
8. Absence of necessary laws or punishment, and some make that an impediment for the one who comes with clear kufr, and they say he does not become a kafir because if he indeed was made takfeer on he would be killed or rebelled against, and the significance of his kufr would be prevention from inheritance and separation from his spouse, and who did not receive that upon him there is no takfeer!

We say there is a difference between the names and rulings and it does not mean that lack of capacity to carry out the rulings prevents giving the corresponding label.

Sheikh Abdullateef said in Al-Menhaj pg. 316: "Whoever thinks and believes that the speech of the people of knowledge and their restriction to establishing evidence and receiving da'wah prevents the label of kufr and shirk and harlotry and that way is from the actions and words which were named by the legislator with those labels, and said that lack of established argument does not change the shari'ah labels, rather the label sticks as the legislator labelled them with kufr or shirk or fisq (immorality) with the shari'ah name and there is no prevention for it even if the doer wasn't punished if the argument against him has not been established and there is a difference between a sin being a form of kufr and takfeer upon the one who does it".

And with this opportunity I wish to explain the methodology and foundation of the modern day murji'ah and neo-defeatists and modernists and clarify their foundations in the topic of takfeer:

1. Warning against takfeer in all cases and warning against it in general without distinction
2. Generalisation of the differentiation between the speech and the one who says it, and action and the one who commits it, constantly and in every issue, regardless if it is from the topic of major shirk or clear issues for the one against whom the argument has been established and you find him say that a speech or an act is kufr and the regime is that of disbelievers, but the one who does it or says it or the associate of the regime is not declared a kafir despite that the grounds have been met and the impediments have been eliminated and you will find them constantly on this path. Thus there is no prominent person they make takfeer on except for those who were mentioned in the Qur'an and the Sunnah.
3. Abandoning the knowledge and fiqh of the topic of takfeer and warning against those who teach it and study the fiqh of it, and abolishment of teaching of takfeer and abandoning books on it; and warning against the books of the imams of the Najdi da'wah. They hold the teaching of the fundamentals of tawheed and reiteration of the Book of Tawheed by sheikh Mohammad Ibn Abdulwahhab unnecessary, and abandon the teaching of the nullifiers of Islam and consider the teaching of the nullifiers to be fitnah and audacious stance against takfeer.
4. Lack of concern, aversion and resentment for issues of al-walaa wal-baraa; and lack of concern for the issues of kufr bil-taghoot; and repetition that "indeed we are not worshippers with that, and Allah will not ask us about it, and there is no benefit in such knowledge".
5. Liberalism in the issues of the excuse of ignorance and expanding it, some even to the extent of the ignorant among the Jews and the Christians.
6. Da'wah to leniency and repetition of that.
7. Warning from the takfeer on dictators and dismissal of those who make takfeer on them and is hostile towards them because of that foundation.
8. Making individual persons from the politicians as the standard and the measure, and who makes takfeer on them, even if they come with grounds of explicit kufr and the impediments have been removed, they call him Harouri, Takfeeri, causer of discord, and that he is not from the people of the Sunnah or is not a Salafi but a Talafi, for indeed the issue of the application of takfeer upon an individual is an issue of ijtihad, and the reason is that we say, for example: "whoever worships other than Allah he is a mushrik kafir and whoever mocks the Qur'an he is an apostate"... And thus, this fundamental does not permit difference of opinion on it, and whoever opposes it is not from the people of the Sunnah, but for a prominent person it is a different case.

Note: and here are some selected fundamentals that we would like the brothers to benefit from:

1. Indeed Islam is worship of Allah alone, there is no partner to Him, and belief in His Messenger Mohammad, prayer and peace of Allah be upon him, and we are to follow what he came with, because a slave does not come with that except that he is a Muslim.
2. Indeed whoever expresses major shirk is a mushrik if he was not compelled.
3. The consequence that is confirmed upon him is the label of shirk does not happen before the argument has been established.
4. Necessity to differentiate between establishing the argument and understanding the argument.
5. Conditions of establishing the argument which a mushrik deserves is the consequence: a) the message has reached him; b) ability to access it.
6. Conditions of establishing the argument in the codes of law: a) ability to gain knowledge; b) capacity to act upon it.
7. Conditions of takfeer on people of desires and innovations: a) establishing the argument; b) removal of the ambiguities.
8. Impediments of takfeer on people of desires and innovations: a) absence of the texts necessary to learn the truth; b) or they are present but have not been presented to him; c) or they have been presented and he was not able to understand them; d) or they have been presented but a contrary argument was presented imposing incorrect interpretation on him; e) or an ambiguity for which he is excused with Allah prevented him; f) or he was a mujtahid in search of truth.
9. The argument is established upon the mukallef (a person bound by obligations of Islam) by understanding the concept of the message, not by comprehension of the truth and correctness.
10. Necessity to differentiate between clear and obscure issues.
11. Kufr from the denial of a known matter from the religion with the exemption of the one who does not live in the period of Islam or grew up in a remote desert, or lived and grew up in lands of kufr.
12. The one who contradicts anything from the obscure issues is not declared a kafir, except after the conditions have been affirmed and the impediments removed.
13. Whoever makes ijtihad in pursuit of the truth in obscure issues and does not obtain it will be rewarded, and the one who exceeds his capabilities is sinful.
14. Giving the label of disapproval to people of immorality and transgressions subject to removal of the impediments.

Advice for myself & you, try as hard as you can to avoid jumping into arguments. If you want to share something, say "This is the view of so & so, feel free to read", don't compel the people to follow your Shaykh, rather try understand the deen with each other, don't act as an authority in this deen. We must word our comments in a good way, we don't want to hurt anyone's feelings since we are all brothers in Islām who want the best for each other. Don't be soft to 'Non Muslims' and harsh to your own brothers, this is a characteristic of the evil Khawārij.

Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) has memorised 9 books of Hadīth, and memorised the books of the Madhāhib to the extent that he was memorising "Al-Mughnī" by Imām Ibn Qudāmah al-Maqdisī(رحمه الله), in addition to this he has memorised Fatāwah of Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), Ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله). Shaykh Ibn 'Uthaymīn(رحمه الله) was 40 years older than Shaykh al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), yet he would recite to shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) & ask him to make any comments for his Sharh of a Fiqh book and revised it a second time after al-'Alwān made more than 30 comments. Shaykh Ibn 'Uthaymīn(رحمه الله) used to call up the Shaykh and ask him about the authenticity of certain Ahādīth & go along what he said, and that's why you will find online "This Hadīth was Authenticated by 'Alwān, ibn 'Uthaymeen agreed/went along with it". Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān حفظه الله was even requested to be among the panel of senior scholars after serving time in prison if he speaks against the righteous, but he remained firm. He told them, Allāh has given me the blessing of explaining Kitāb al-Tawhīd 60 times in my lifetime, and right now I am 'explaining it' with my actions. Ya'nī, Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) isn't any ordinary scholar, he is among the biggest giants on the face of this Earth, an Imām! He was banned from teaching in the Mosque, Shaykh Ibn Bāz(رحمه الله) tried to intercede on his behalf and praised him for his strong 'Aqīdah, but the oppressors (saudi Tāghūt govt) refused ibn Bāz's intercession. May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) protect him & keep him steadfast for all the good that he has left this Ummāh with.

The issue of committing sins such as backbiting & other than that for the person fasting, does it break his fast?

Shaykh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said: There's a difference of opinion:

1. Sins during the day of Ramadān are greater than other than it, because of the sanctity of the time, just like the sanctity of the place in al-Haram [i.e. Makkāh], however it doesn't break the fast, and this is what's correct.
2. That it breaks the fast, and that was chosen by Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), but this is questionable, and what's correct is the first view.

A lot of people who have learnt Arabic don't like to tell you that they struggled & put a lot of effort into learning it. That's why I get amazed when some people boast about knowing Arabic & start belittling those who are weak in Arabic, instead of helping them. They tell the laymen "Go learn Arabic & then come speak with me", SubhānAllāh, they make it out to seem that learning Arabic is easy, but no, I tell you that learning Arabic is very hard, especially when you first begin, and what's even harder is remaining motivated & focused.

Now, it's a bit hard for me to give you guys tips on the best way to learn Arabic, because everyone is at different levels. Now, I was very good at reading & writing since a kid, because of my parents sending me to school on Saturday, may Allāh reward them for that, however my comprehension & speaking skills was very weak, since I have only grew up in Australia & the language I would speak was predominantly English. Only time I would use Arabic was 50/50 at home or to teach my friends how to say the hard letters such as ع & ح and some other words lol, so I felt like I was a teacher in Arabic in front of friends when I was a complete Jāhil haha. Also, do you know how we Arabs say أَعْ

"akh" if we hurt ourselves, they found that cool as well lol. Btw, even though 99.99% of my mates were Kuffār, I was very respected growing up through primary & high school Alhamdulillah, infact I would fast during Ramadān, and class mates would bring food & snacks for me to take home ☺ Many have even identified themselves as muslims, I taught them wudū' & prayer.

Anyways, I totally got side tracked, the tips that I'm able to give are for those who already know how to read Arabic, but have poor comprehension & speaking skills, so among the best things which have helped my Arabic, especially in the last 10 months were:

1. Having Ikhhlās [Sincerity] & renewing my Niyyāh [Intention] while learning Arabic, studying only for the sake of Allāh, to help my brothers & sisters in Islām, wanting guidance for the Ummāh while it is in such a state of humiliation.
2. Absolute passion & dedication. Studying Arabic grammar & taking notes on my exercise book at every point highlighted in the videos.
3. Vocabulary which is what's most essential when it comes down to it tbh. So every time I read or hear a new word, I would look it up, so I would fully understand it the next time I see or hear it. Keep doing that for every new word you come across, otherwise, you're going to keep reading & hearing the same words without knowing what they mean, so instead of understanding 95% of the words in the sentence, you will remain only understanding 5% of the words in the sentence. It makes a big difference! Translating sentences from Arabic to English helps a lot too. Watching videos in Arabic with ENG translation is very beneficial. Reciting the Qur'ān & referring back to the Tafsīr & translation helped me a lot.
4. Speaking in Arabic whenever I get the chance, what would be ideal is to be in an Arab country, so in Australia it's much harder. It might sound funny, but speaking to yourself helps a lot, looking in the mirror pronouncing the words & letters has helped me lol. Reciting the Qur'ān, reading out loud while not disturbing anyone, listening to Shaykhs has helped a lot with fluency. But what's ideal is being with someone who you can interact with, that way you will learn together & push each other. I like to tell people, don't be shy, if we don't make mistakes, we will never learn. Speak Arabic as much as you can, and I'm talking about Fus7a only, try as much as you can to not speak slang, however using slang & english at times is fine Inshā'Allāh until you can speak 100% Fus7a.
5. Salāh has helped my Arabic, you might ask Salāh? Well, in Salāh, I get to constantly revise the chapters of the Qur'ān while reciting it, and because I have read the Tafsīr & Translation, it sticks to my mind. Knowing the meaning of the words individually & continuous reciting the Qur'ān is what helps me retain long Chapters memorised. Honestly during my whole life, I would recite chapters from the Qur'ān without knowing except 5% of it, so I was much more attached to the amazing recitation of the Qur'ān more than the meanings of it.

So this is what has helped my speaking & comprehension a lot. As for those who aren't able to read & write, I'm sure there are others who can give you very good advise on that. But no doubt, when it comes to learning and memorising anything, it requires sincerity, motivation & constant revision, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

#Part_3 Principle in #Takfir: "The difference between the clear & unclear matters" – There are 9 points under this principle: #Extremely_Detailed

The First Point: The terminology/phrases used the Scholars regarding this matter.

The Scholars have unanimously agreed that excuse of ignorance differs from issue to issue, and that's why they differentiated between the clear matters wherein there's no excuse for a morally obligated person to be ignorant of it, and between the unclear matters, which falls under the topic of excuse of ignorance, and they referred to these issues with different phrases which go back to 1 meaning, so among them who referred to it as "Masā'il Dhāhirah" and "Masā'il Khafiyyāh" such as Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) and the A'immāt al-Da'wah, and among them who referred to it as "Matters which a morally obligated person can be ignorant about", which they called ('ilm al-Khāsah), and "Matters which a morally obligated person can't be ignorant about", which they called ('ilm al-'Āma), such as Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله), and among them who referred to it as "Matters from Usūl al-Dīn", and others matters they refer as "Masā'il al-Furū'" such as Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), and other than that from the terminology of the Scholars regarding the difference between the Clear & Unclear Matters.

The Second Point: Guidelines for the Clear Matters where ignorance isn't considered an excuse in it:

1. Matters known by necessity in the religion: i.e. What is widespread from the rulings of the religion, well-known among the Scholars & Laymen, wherein the Scholars have a clear cut Consensus.
2. Matters that are agreed upon which is found in the text from the book of Allāh(عز وجل) and the Sunnāh of His Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم), the followers of Islām mention it everywhere, among the laymen and scholars, and there's no room for mistake or interpretation in it.

The Third Point: What falls under the Clear Matters:

1. Tawhīd al-Ulūhiyyāh which is the reason Allāh sent the Messengers, and sent down the books, Shaykh al-Islām (رحمه الله) said: {And worshipping Allāh alone is Asl al-Dīn which is the Tawhīd that Allāh sent the Messengers by, and sent down the books for}. And likewise, Tawhīd al-Rubūbiyyāh is included within the Clear Matters.

2. Matters of Major Shirk such as the Shirk of grave worshippers, and diverting an act of worship to other than Allāh, such as Du'ā, a vow, a sacrifice...and other than that.

3. Matters known by necessity from the religion, or what is called: "The clear widespread ordainments", such as the 5 daily prayers, Zakāt, Siyām, Hajj, the prohibition of al-Fawāhish [Shameful acts] such as Zinā, Alcohol...and other than that, so there is no excuse of ignorance in this category except for the one who recently entered Islām, or whoever was raised in a desert far away, then he is excused for the message not reaching him, and his inability to learn, not merely ignorance, for ignorance with the ability to learn is not an excuse in these matters. And more details would be mentioned shortly regarding the one who recently entered into Islām, and whoever was raised in a far away desert, by the permission of Allāh, and the Scholars have unanimously agreed upon making Takfīr on whoever denies a ruling that's known from the religion by necessity, and this consensus was mentioned by a large number of Scholars, among whom is Ibn 'Abdīl Barr (رحمه الله), al-Qādhī 'Iyyādh (رحمه الله), Ibn Qudāmāh (رحمه الله), Shaykh al-Islām (رحمه الله)...and others.

4. What falls under the Clear Matters is: Knowledge which became famous and widespread from the subsidiary issues [Furū'] such as the ruling on eating during Fasting, and the prohibition of what was Halāl according to Consensus such as Bread and water and similar to that which doesn't become unclear to the general masses.

The Fourth Point: The Guidelines of the Unclear Matters which ignorance is considered an excuse in:

1. Matters that aren't known by necessity in the religion, because of it being hidden and not well-known, so it is from the knowledge known by the Scholars, not from the Knowledge known by the Masses.

2. Raised upon ignorance from a misconception attributed to the Qur'ān & Sunnāh, and that is why errors and interpretation occurs, and we will allude towards here that not every misconception or interpretation is excusable...and the discussion regarding that will come shortly by the permission of Allāh.

The Fifth Point: What falls under the Unclear Matters:

1. Matters of the names and attributes: Imām al-Shāfi'ī (رحمه الله) said: {Allāh has names and attributes which no one can deny, and whoever opposes it after the Hujjāh has been established upon him, has disbelieved..But as for before the establishment of the Hujjāh, then he is excused by ignorance}. And among that is the beliefs that contradict the belief of Ahl al-Sunnāh wal-Jamā'ah, such as the matters the Murji'ah, Ashā'irah & similar to them have fell into in this topic.

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) said: {The fixed statement in this [issue], is that the statement might be Kufr such as the sayings of the Jahmiyyāh who say: Allāh does not speak, and He won't be seen in the hereafter, however it could be unclear to some people that it's Kufr, so we would apply the Takfīr upon the one who states this, and as some of the Salaf said: Whoever says: The Qur'ān is created, then he's a Kāfir, and whoever says: Allāh won't be seen in the hereafter, then he's a Kāfir, and the specific individual doesn't become a Kāfir until the Hujjāh is established upon him as we previously stated} [End Quote] And the discussion regarding the difference between General Kufr and Specific Kufr & the correct understanding for that will come shortly by the permission of Allāh (جل وعلا).

2. Minor Shirk: Such as taking an oath by other than Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى)

3. The pretexts of Shirk and its means: Such as seeking blessings through the traces of the Righteous.

4. Subsidiary matters [Masā'il al-Furū'] where its knowledge isn't widespread, and it's not known from the religion by necessity. And this differentiation between the Clear Matters & Unclear Matters is different to the differentiation made by the people of innovation between Usūl al-Dīn and its Furū' with regards to matters of Takfīr, because the matter can be from the issues of Furū' and clear, wherein a specific individual would become a Kāfir in it, and it's not permissible to exclusively limit [performing] Takfīr in the matters of Usūl alone, as the people of innovation say, and further discussion will come [regarding this] by the permission of Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى).

The Sixth Point: The scholars who affirmed the difference between the Clear Matters and the Unclear Matters in excuse of ignorance, while mentioning some of the quotes pertaining that:

[Among the Scholars who have stated that for instance, not being exclusive [to them alone] are: 1. Abu Hanīfah. 2. Al-Shafi'i. 3. Al-Qarafi al-Maliki. 4. Shaykh al-Islam ibn Taymiyyah. 5. Muhammad ibn 'Abdul Wahhab. 6. A'immat al-Da'wah: Ishaq ibn 'Abdul Rahman, Sulayman ibn Sahman, Abu Butayn & others. 7. Muhammad Hamid al-Fiqr. 8. Muhammad ibn Ibrahim. 9. Ibn Baz & others].

And Imām Abū Hanīfah (رحمه الله) said: {There's no excuse for anyone in being ignorant of knowing his creator, because what's necessary upon all of creation is knowing the Lord, glorified and exalted is He, and unifying Him, from what he sees of the creation of the Heavens and Earths and the rest of what Allah has created, but as for the obligations, then whoever doesn't learn it and it hasn't reached him, then no definite Hujjāh been established upon this person} [End Quote]

And Al-Shāfi'ī (رحمه الله) said: {Knowledge is of two types, General Knowledge, wherein no one who has a sane intellect can be ignorant of, then he gave examples ~ Such as the 5 daily prayers, fasting Ramadān, Hajj, Zakāt, the prohibition of Zinā, Killing, Stealing and Alcohol, then he mentioned that it's not possible for this knowledge to be mistakenly understood by the reports, nor interpretation, and it's not permissible to be disputed over, then he mentioned the second type: It is what stands on behalf of the servants from the subsidiary obligations...until the end of his words} [End Quote]

And if Imam al-Shāfi'ī (رحمه الله) considered the 5 daily prayers and the obligations from the knowledge which no one can be ignorant of, or possible for mistakenly understanding the report or be interpreted, because of the consensus of the Ummāh over these obligations, certainly Tawhīd would be more deserving of that, because it's from the greatest of obligations, and it's the reason the books & messengers were sent, and Shaykh al-Islam has explicit words in differentiating between the Clear Matters wherein the ignorant cannot be excused, and other than it from the Unclear Matters, so he said during his statements of rebuking those who study theology:

{And if this was from among the unclear statements, then it could be said: He is mistaken & misguided from it, the Hujjāh which declares its individual a Kāfir hasn't been established, however that occurs among several groups from them in the Clear Matters which is known by the Scholars & Laymen of the Muslims that it's from the religion of the Muslims, infact the Jews & Christians know that Muḥammad (صلی الله علیه وسلم) came with it and disbelieved in whoever opposes it, such as: His command of worshipping Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) alone without associating any partners to Him, and His prohibition of worshipping anyone besides Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) from among the Angels, Prophets, the Sun, the Moon, the Stars, the Idols etc...Verily this is from the clearest slogans of Islām, and such as his ordainment of the 5 daily prayers, and such as his enmity to the Christians, Polytheists, Sābi'īn, Majūs, and such as the prohibition of shameful acts, Ribā, Alcohol, Gambling etc...Then we find many of their heads who fell into these matters, so they became Apostates} [End Quote]

Shaykh Abū Butayn (رحمه الله) commented upon the words of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله), he said:

{So look at his separation between the unclear statements and the clear matters, so he said regarding the unclear sayings, it's Kufr: It could be said: He is mistaken & misguided, the Hujjāh which declares its individual a Kāfir hasn't been established, and he did not say this regarding the clear matters, so he ruled upon them with apostasy in all cases & he did not give exception to the Ignorant.} [End Quote]

Some benefits we can take from the words of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله):

1. His separation between the one who falls into Kufr in the Clear Matters & the Unclear Matters regarding Takfīr.
2. His description of those who fell into Kufr in the unclear matters before the establishment of the Hujjāh as being mistaken & misguided.
3. His description of those who fell onto Kufr in the clear matters with apostasy and emission from Islām.
4. He mentioned what is included under the clear matters such as:

A) Tawhīd: And it is the command of worshipping Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) alone without associating any partners to Him.

B) Shirk: And it is the worship of other than Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) from among the Angels, Prophets, the Sun & Moon.

C) Matters known by necessity in the religion, such as: The obligation of the 5 daily prayers, showing enmity to the religions of Kufr, the prohibition of the Fawāhish [Shameful/Indecent acts].

Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wāhhāb (رحمه الله) said: {If an individual says something which necessitates Kufr, then he is not judged with Kufr, until the Hujjāh is applied upon him, wherein he disbelieves by abandoning it, and this is in the unclear matters wherein the evidences for it would be hidden from some people, but as for what occurs from them in the clear manifest matters, or what is known by necessity in the religion, then no one should withhold from performing Takfīr upon the one who says this [i.e. Kufr]} [End Quote]

And the statements from the Scholars regarding this is really a lot, refer back to that in the book 'Āridh al-Jahl' from page 52 to page 93.

The Seventh Point: The statements of the Scholars regarding no excuse of ignorance in the Clear Matters:

We have mentioned in the previous point, some of the scholars who have stated the difference between the Clear matters and the Unclear Matters with regards to excuse of ignorance, and in this point, we will mention some of their statements of not giving an excuse for ignorance:

1. We mentioned in the previous point, the words of Abi Hanifah, Al-Shafi'ī, Shaykh al-Islam [Ibn Taymiyyah] and Muhammad ibn 'Abdul Wahhab, and their statements of affirming the difference between the Clear Matters & Unclear Matters, and not excusing them by ignorance in the Clear Matters.

2. Shaykh 'Ali al-Qāri from the Hanafi Scholars said after he mentioned the difference of opinion amongst the Hanafiyyah regarding whoever utters a word of Kufr while he doesn't know that it's a word of Kufr: {So it's said that he doesn't disbelieve by being excused for ignorance, and it's said: He disbelieves and isn't excused by ignorance, he said: And what's more correct is the first [saying], except if that was pertaining what is known by necessity in the religion, therefore he would disbelieve without being excused by ignorance} [End Quote]

3. Al-Qādhī 'Iyādh said in his book "Al-Shifā bi-Ta'reef Huqūq al-Mustafa": {Therefore, no one is excused by ignorance for committing [clear] Kufr} [End Quote]

4. Imam al-Qarāfi al-Mālikī said: {And that is the reason Allah did not excuse them by ignorance in Usūl al-Deen [The foundations of the Religion] according to consensus} [End Quote]

5. Imām al-Suyūṭī quoted Imam al-Zarkashi al-Shafi'i, the author of the book "al-Burhan fi 'ulum al-Qur'an" while he was speaking about the words/phrases which no one is excused by for his ignorance, and isn't obscure for anyone to understand, and he gave examples of that by Tawhīd, establishing Salāh, giving Zakāt, so he says: {Whatever is from this category, no one is excused by it from whoever claims ignorance by the meanings of these words, because it's known to everyone by necessity} [End Quote]

6. Imam ibn al-Qayyim said: {And Islam is unifying Allah and worshipping Him alone without ascribing any partners onto Him, and having Faith in Allah and His Messenger, and following what he has come with, so if the slave [of Allah] doesn't have this [present in him], then he's not a muslim, and if he was not an arrogant Kafir, then he's an ignorant Kafir, for most of this category is that they are ignorant Kuffar, not arrogant, and just because they are not arrogant, it doesn't save them from being Kuffar, for the Kafir is whoever rejects the Tawhid of Allah and denied his Messenger, either arrogantly, or ignorantly and blind following the people of arrogance...} [End Quote]

7. Shaykh Muhammad ibn 'Abdul Wahhab said in "Kashf al-Shubuhāt": {So if you know that a person can become a Kāfir by a word that he spits off his tongue, and he could say it while being ignorant, then he isn't excused by ignorance, and he might say it while he believes that it brings him closer to Allah} [End Quote]

8. Shaykh 'Abdul Rahman ibn Hassan said: {There's no doubt that Allah didn't excuse the people of Jāhiliyyāh who didn't have a Book, for committing this Major Shirk, so how can he excuse an Ummāh where the book of Allah is between their hands while they recite it, and it's a Hujjāh from Allah for his Servants} [End Quote] Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) said: { This [Qur'an] is notification for the people that they may be warned thereby and that they may know that He is but one God} [14:52]

And Shaykh Muhammad ibn Ibrāhīm was asked: Is the ignorant one excused by ignorance in Tawhīd? So he replied: {There's no ignorance in Tawhīd, he cannot be excused by it! He is going against the religion, can a person be ignorant of the sun} [End Quote].

And Shaykh ibn Bāz said: {Whoever knows someone who calls upon the dead, and asks for their help, and a vow to them, and similar to that from the different types of worship, then he is a Mushrik Kāfir, it's not permissible to marry him, nor allow him to enter Masjid al-Haram, and not deal with him the way muslims are dealt with, even if he claims to be ignorant, until he repents to Allah, then he said: "And do not look at their state of being ignorant, infact it's compulsory to deal with them the same way as the Kuffār, until they repent to Allah, then he mentioned among the proofs for that, Allah's statement: { A group [of you] He guided, and a group deserved [to be in] error. Indeed, they had taken the devils as allies instead of Allah while they thought that they were guided.} [7:30] and Allah's statement: { Say, [O Muhammad], "Shall we [believers] inform you of the greatest losers as to [their] deeds? [They are] those whose effort is lost in worldly life, while they think that they are doing well in work."} [18:103-104]. And he also said after he spoke about apostasy, and that a person must refer back to this topic in the books of the Scholars from the Hanābilah, Shafi'iyyah, Malikiyyah, Hanafiyyah & other than them, he will find what suffices and quench him, by the permission of Allah, he [also] said: "And it's not permissible to excuse anyone with the claim of ignorance pertaining that, because these matters are known among the Muslims, and its ruling is apparent in the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger".} [End Quote]

9. And in the "Sahīh" from 'Abdullah ibn 'Abbās regarding the people of Nūh: {When knowledge [of Tawhid] was forgotten, it [i.e. the idol] was worshipped}, so it was worshipped during the times of ignorance, so they were called worshippers of other than Allah despite their ignorance.

10. The words of Ibn Mundah in "Kitāb al-Tawhīd", {the chapter of mentioning the proofs upon the mistaken Mujtahid in knowing Allah and his unification is like the arrogant [disbeliever].}

11. The words of al-Qurtubī in his Tafsīr pertaining Āyat al-Mithāq, he said at the end [of his elucidation]: {And there's no excuse for a blind follower in Tawhīd} [End Quote]

And the statements of the Scholars is plenty regarding this, and for more info, return back to the book ('Āridh al-Jahl) from page 263 until page 331.

The Eighth Point: A response against whoever rejected the classification and the differentiation between Usūl al-Deen and its sub-divisions [Furū']:

What has previously been mentioned from the sayings of the Scholars clarifies for us that they didn't consider the issue of excusing with ignorance general & unconditional in all matters, rather they differentiate between matters wherein ignorance could be an excuse and matters wherein ignorance cannot be an excuse, and that's why you find that the Imām al-Qarāfi (رحمه الله) made this differentiation an established Principle, so he said in “al-Furūq”: {The 94th differentiation between the Principle wherein ignorance cannot be an excuse, and between the Principle wherein ignorance can be an excuse} [End Quote].

And the phrases of the Salaf and their terminology has differed in this matter as it has been shown, however they agree upon 1 matter, which is that excuse of ignorance differs from one issue to another. And some have opposed this differentiation between the matters wherein ignorance is an excuse in it and other matters wherein it's not an excuse in it, and that it's the specified differentiation of the people of innovation from the Mu'tazilah & other than them, and they used some words which they understood from Shaykh al-Islām as proof for that, which is his statement:

{And they [i.e. Ahl al-Sunnah] did not divide the matters into matters of Usūl wherein a person disbelieves by rejecting it, and matters of Furū' wherein he doesn't disbelieve by rejecting it, but as for the differentiation between a type & calling it matters of Usūl, and another type and calling it matters of Furū', then this differentiation doesn't have any basis for it, not from the Sahābah, nor the Tābi'īn who followed them with excellence, nor the Imāms of Islām, but rather it's taken from the Mu'tazilah and their likes from the people of innovation, and from them the Fuqahā' have taken it and mentioned it in their books} [End Quote].

And before replying against this statement, you must know an important matter, which is that from the customs of the Scholars of the past & present, is that they don't remove the Ahkām [rulings] by taking out some of the texts of the Scholars, but rather they gather what has been mentioned from them in a single matter and compare it with each other until the end-result they would come up with would be correct, without any disapproval to it, and that's why it's necessary to gather as compare between the texts, so that we can understand it correctly.

And the response to this [wrong] understanding is what follows:

1. Those who denied that Ahl al-Sunnāh have divided the religion into Usūl & Furū', and that this division hasn't been stated from anyone from the Scholars of Ahl al-Sunnāh, so the Deen doesn't have Usūl & Furū', then these people have become arrogant and rejected what is well-known for whoever has the slightest understanding of the sayings of the Salaf, and we shall mention some of the statements of the Scholars from Shaykh al-Islām & other than him, which would nullify this mistaken understanding, Shaykh al-Islām [Ibn Taymiyyah] said:

{And similar to that, the Qur'ān has come to affirm the Usūl al-Dīn pertaining the matters of Tawhīd, Sifāt [Attributes of Allāh], Mi'ād, and similar to that} [End Quote]

And he also said: {And this cannot be ignorant of, and no one who has the slightest understanding can oppose it, so remain [firm] upon it, for it is an enormous matter from Usūl al-Dīn} [End Quote]

And he also said: {And if Usūl al-Dīn cannot be established except by its Furū', then how could it be permissible for the Messenger to abandon Usūl al-Dīn wherein Ēmān cannot be complete except by it} [End Quote]

And he also said: {But as for the religion where Allāh has said regarding it: “Or have they other deities who have ordained for them a religion to which Allah has not consented?” [42:21], so that is what has an exclusive Usūl & Furū'} [End Quote]

So these are some texts from Shaykh al-Islām [Ibn Taymiyyāh] which states within it explicitly towards categorising the religion into Usūl & Furū', and this categorisation isn't only in the words of Shaykh al-Islām, rather it is mentioned from many Scholars from Ahl al-Sunnāh, and here is some of their sayings for you:

Imām al-Baghawī(رحمه الله) said: {Verily, poor understanding about Allāh & his Messenger is the basis for every innovation and misguidance that entered into Islām, and it is the foundation for every mistake in the Usūl & Furū'.} [End Quote]

Imām al-'izz ibn 'Abdūl Salām(رحمه الله) said: {Ignorance is a Mafsadah, and it's three types: 1. What must be eliminated such as ignorance of what must be learnt from the Usūl & Furū'...} [End Quote]

And Imām Ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله) said regarding what he quoted from Abī al-Mudhaffīr al-Sam'ānī(رحمه الله): He said: {And from this, a bit of divergence is shown in the matters of Furū' from the differences [in the matters] of 'Aqīdah & Usūl} [End Quote].

Imām al-Shawkānī(رحمه الله) said: {Verily, this is from the matters of Usūl, not from the matters of Furū'.} [End Quote], and the sayings of the Scholars pertaining this is plenty.

2. It has surpass and we pointed out that Ahl al-Sunnāh disagree with the people of innovation regarding this categorisation concerning the issue of Takfīr, for the basis of the differentiation in the issue of excuse of ignorance isn't whether this matter is from the Usūl or Furū', rather [acceptable ignorance] could be included in the matters of Usūl such as some of Sifāt [Attributes of Allāh] which the evidences of the Sharī'ah have come to affirm, and the one who is ignorant of this or denies it with Ta'wīl [interpretation] doesn't disbelieve, except until the Hujjāh has been established upon him, and that is because of the text or proof being hidden, or not knowing the evidences of this text which affirms these attributes, and there are some matters of Usūl that deal with 'Aqīdah which according to Ahl al-Sunnāh fall under the matters of Usūl, while it is an unclear/hidden matter, and the person who is ignorant of it or interprets it doesn't disbelieve. So not everything which is from the matters of 'Aqīdah makes the person who is ignorant of it a Kāfir, moreover ignorance isn't an excuse unrestrictedly in the matters of Furū' completely, for there are matters of Furū', that if the morally obligated parson denies it, he would become a Kāfir because of that, if knowledge of it was from that which is known by necessity, or widespread between the general masses of the Muslims, and this is if the person who rejected it didn't recently enter into Islām, or was raised in a desert far away, or was in Dār al-Harb so he didn't hear of it, and this is what several scholars have alluded too such as al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) and al-Suyūṭī(رحمه الله).

Ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله) said: {Verily, there are many matters of Furū' which renders the one who rejects it a disbeliever, and there's many matters of Usūl which doesn't render the one who rejects it a disbeliever} [End Quote]

3. Shaykh al-Islām [Ibn Taymiyyāh] didn't intend by Usūl & Furū', these two well known matters according to Ahlāl Sunnāh, but he rather intended the matters which the people of innovation have placed from among the Mutakalimeen, wherein they followed the Mu'tazilah, Jahmiyyah & Rāfidah in it, and these matters they called matters of Usūl, and they considered Ēmān based upon this, and affirming this is a requirement in the knowledge of belief in the Messenger, so everyone that made a mistake in it or was ignorant of it or rejected it, according to them is a Kāfir, whilst knowing that these matters which they make Takfīr upon others from the Muslims are innovators, and the Sharī'ah did not come to affirm it, so they made it to be amongst an enormous level that whoever goes against it becomes a Kāfir, and this is what's understood from the words of Shaykh al-Islām [Ibn Taymiyyāh], rather it is understood by examining several texts from him, he has explained the matters of Furū' & Usūl in deep detail, and he has clarified his ambiguous words, so he said:

{And what's astonishing is the statement of whoever said from Ahlāl Kalām [those who study theology]: The Usūl al-Dīn which renders the one who disagree's with it a Kāfir is 'ilm ul-Kalām [theology] which is picked up by the intellect alone, but as for what isn't picked up by the intellect alone is the matters of the Sharī'ah according to them, and this is the way of the Mu'tazilah and Jahmiyyah, and whoever goes along their path, such as the followers of the author of "al-Irshād" and their likes, so it's said to them: These words render two things, 1: That Usūl al-Dīn is what is picked up solely by the intellect without the Sharī'ah, 2. That whoever goes against it is a Kāfir, and both of these points, even if its meaning was false, trying to gather between the two is contradictory} [End Quote]

And this is an explicit quote in understanding what was meant by Shaykh al-Islām(رحمه الله), and that this differentiation, is what he said has no basis, not from the Sahābah or the Tābi'īn or the Imāms of Islām, but rather it's taken from the Mu'tazilah and their likes from the people of innovation, and the words of Shaykh al-Islām in clarifying this understanding is plenty.

Shaykh 'Abdūl Rahmān al-Burāk said in his commentary upon the words of al-Tahāwī: "And what they believe from Usūl al-Dīn", he said: {And it has overcome many scholars in using the phrase Usūl al-Dīn upon matters of 'Aqīdah, whereas in reality, Usūl al-Dīn isn't exclusive to the Foundations of 'Aqīdah, rather Usūl al-Dīn has within it: Matters of 'Aqīdah such as the 6 Foundations/Pillars of Ēmān, which is belief in Allāh, His angels, books, messengers, the day of judgement and Qadr, these are Usūl al-Dīn in 'Aqīdah that deal with knowledge/belief, and within it [i.e. Usūl al-Dīn] is matters that deal with actions such as the 5 Foundations/Pillars of Islām, which is: Testifying that there's no deity worthy of worship except Allāh and that Muḥammād is the Messenger of Allāh, and establishing Salāh, and giving Zakāt, and fasting Ramadān, and [performing] Hajj, and these are Usūl al-Dīn that deal with actions, because the matters of the religion are two types: Matters that deal with belief & matters that deal with actions, and both types have an Usūl & a Furū', thereupon the term Usūl al-Dīn isn't exclusive to matters that deal with 'Aqīdah, and the term Furū' isn't exclusive to matters that deal with Actions, as it was affirmed by Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), and he denounced those who considered all the matters of 'Aqīdah from Usūl al-Dīn, rather the religion has Usūl, and it has Furū' that deal with knowledge/belief in 'Aqīdah and acts of worship.} [End Quote]

#Bayqūnī_4 {And all that falls below the rank of Hassan, weak it is, falling short with many sub-divisions}

وَكُلُّ مَا عَنِ رُتْبَةِ الْحُسْنِ قَصْرٌ ** قَهْوُ (الضعيفُ) وَهُوَ أَقْسَامًا كَثُرَ

Commentary of Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله)

We must differentiate as we previously stated between the understanding of {Hassan} according to the Early Scholars, which is a type of Weak acceptable Hadīths, and between the understanding of the Later Scholars from it, which is a type of Sahīh according to them.

Benefit: It became known that the first person who mentioned the term {Hassan} was Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله تعالى), and perhaps he is the first one who made it prevalent, otherwise he has mentioned it from his Shaykh al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) many times in "al-'ilal al-Kabīr" [1], and the Shaykh of Al-Bukhārī, 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī(رحمه الله) also mentioned it in his "'ilal", and it was mentioned by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), Ibn al-Mubārak(رحمه الله) & others.

Another Benefit: The weak Hadīth is two types as we previously stated, accepted & rejected, and the accepted: is what falls under the level of authenticity, and hasn't shown its fault, and it is different levels, so it could draw closer to the Sahīh or draw closer to the rejected, depending upon what surrounds it by examining the context and other than that.

And I would like to point out that the Later Scholars have become very lenient in Authenticating weak Hadīths if it has been narrated through several chains, whilst I myself till this hour did not find anyone from the Early Imāms authenticate a Hadīth where all of its chains are weak because of it being narrated through several chains, but without a doubt that whatever has been narrated through more chains is stronger than the one which hasn't been narrated except through one chain, except that it remains weak, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

#WEAK_HADĪTH Al-Shaykh Al-Hāfidh Sulaymān Ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) was asked: What is the correct view pertaining the narrated Hadīth regarding Salāh after Ishrāq [Sunrise]?

The Shaykh responded by saying: This Hadīth was narrated from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) by Anas ibn Mālik, Abū Umāmah, Ibn 'Omar, 'Ā'isha and others, and there's nothing authentic from that at all.

The Hadīth of Anas(رضي الله عنه) was narrated by Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) in his Jāmi' from the chain of 'Abdūl 'Azīz Ibn Muslim, it was narrated to us by Abū Dhilāl from Anas ibn Mālik, he said: The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {He who performs Fajr in congregation, then remains seated & engages in Dhikr until sunrise & offers 2 Rak'ah, will gain the reward of one Hajj & 'Umrah, complete, complete, complete}, Imām Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) said: This Hadīth is "Hassan Gharīb", i.e. Weak.

And Abū Dhilāl "is nothing" [weak], which was mentioned by Yahyā ibn Ma'īn(رحمه الله), and he was weakened by Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله), Al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله), Ibn 'Adī(رحمه الله) & others.

The Hadīth of Abū Umāmah was narrated by Imām al-Tabarānī(رحمه الله) in "al-Mu'jam al-Kabīr" from the chain of 'Uthmān ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān from Mūsa ibn 'Alī from Yahyā ibn al-Hārith from al-Qāsim ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān from Abī Umāmah, as a Marfū' narration [i.e. Raised to the Prophet].

And 'Uthmān ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān al-Harrānī is talked about because of him narrating from the Du'afā' [weak narrators] and Majāhīl [unknown narrators].

And Mūsa ibn 'Alī is not known.

And al-Qāsim is differed upon, a group of Scholars have weakened him because of those [weak narrators] who narrated from him, Imām Abū Hātim(رحمه الله) said: {The Hadīths of the Thiqāt [Trustworthy narrators] from him are upright, nothing wrong with him, but rather he is denounced from the Du'afā' [Weak narrators] that narrated from him.}

And he was spoken against by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), and he was weakened by al-Ghulābī(رحمه الله)

الله), al-'Uqaylī(رحمه الله), and Ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) said: {He narrates from the companions of Muḥammād(صلى الله عليه وسلم) double disconnected narrations, and he mentions from the Trustworthy narrators flipped wordings, that it makes the heart think he purposely did that}

And the Hadīth of Ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما) was mentioned by Ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his book "al-Majrūhīn" from the chain of Al-Aḥwas ibn Ḥakīm from Khālīd ibn Ma'dān from Ibn 'Omar as a Marfū' narration [raised to the Prophet]. And al-Aḥwas is weak, which was mentioned by Imām Aḥmad(رحمه الله), 'Alī ibn al-Maḍīnī(رحمه الله) and Yahyā ibn Ma'īn(رحمه الله).

And the Hadīth of 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) was narrated by Abū Ya'lah in his Musnad, and it has Jahālah [unknownness] and Nakārah [discrepancy].

And I do not know of an authentic Hadīth in the topic, and it's not proven from the Sahābah nor the Ṭābi'īn, nor any of the Imāms that came after them among the 4 Imāms, that whoever remains seated in his Musallāh until the sun rises & prays 2 rak'ahs will gain the reward of a Hajj & 'Umrah, complete, complete, complete.

And such a thing has a vital urge & justification to be mentioned, as the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and his Companions would sit in the Musallāh until the sun rises, then they would get up, it was narrated by Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) in his "Sahīh" from the chain of Abī Khaythamah from Sīmāk ibn Harb from Jābir ibn Sumrah.

And since he [the Prophet] didn't mention Salāh or the consequential reward [Hajj & 'Umrah] for that, and it is extremely vital [to know about]...[so] it's an evidence that there's no basis for the Hadīths on the topic.

And Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) narrated in "al-Musannāf" from the chain of Mansūr from Mujaḥid that when the sun rises, 'Ā'isha would sleep during Duḥā. And this chain is authentic, and it doesn't mention Salāh after remaining seated, and it's as if the matter is unknown during that great generation.

And al-Ḥāfidh al-Dhahabī(رحمه الله) mentioned in "Siyar A'lām al-Nubalā" on the authority of al-Walīd ibn Muslim, that he said: {I saw al-Awzā'ī remain in his Musallāh remembering Allāh until the sun has risen, and he would inform us about the Salaf that this was their way, so if the sun has risen, they would get up together and go into lengths of being in the remembrance of Allāh, and gain understanding of their deen}

And what's narrated from the Salaf regarding the likes of this is what alludes & affirms that this Salāh after the sun [has risen] and the consequential reward [i.e. 1 Hajj & 'Umrah] regarding that has no basis to it.

And this doesn't negate the fact that Salāh after the sun has risen is witnessed and observed, as the report is in Sahīh Muslim from the Hadīth of 'Amr ibn 'Abasah, so this is one thing, and what we're talking about is another thing, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

"Applying the Sharī'ah in steps" = "Not ruling by what Allāh revealed", there's absolutely no difference between the 2 statements, because applying the Sharī'ah in steps mean you will abandon the laws of Allāh while doing so, which is Major Kufr by consensus, and this consensus was mentioned by Ishāq ibn Rāhawayh(رحمه الله), Imām Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) & Ibn Kathīr(رحمه الله).

So this is why Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) and many others made Takfīr upon "Islamists" such as Mursī who claim to apply the Sharī'ah gradually in steps. Without disbelieving in the Tāghūt, i.e. Ruling by man made kufr laws, we cannot affirm Ēmān for that person.

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said in Majmū' al-Fatāwah:

And ruling by what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has revealed brings goodness in this world and the hereafter, and ruling by other than what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has revealed brings corruption in this world and the hereafter, so it's obliged to abolish it by Ijmā'.

So whoever permits following a Sharī'ah other than the Sharī'ah of Islām, it's obliged to remove him from power, and his bay'ah becomes void, and it becomes forbidden to obey him, because in the likes of this situation, he deserves the description of al-Kufr [Major Disbelief].

And every Tā'ifah that revolts against an ordainment from the Mutawātir Manifest ordinances of Islām; It becomes obligatory to fight it by the agreement of the Imāms of the Muslims, even if it uttered the Testimony of Faith [Shahādatayn].

Moreover, even if they abstain from the impermissibility of the indecent/shameful acts or fornication or gambling or alcohol, or other than that from the prohibited acts in the Sharī'ah.

Also, even if they abstain from judging upon the blood, self, honour, investment and similar to that, by the Qur'ān & Sunnāh.

Also, even if they abstain from ordaining the good & forbidden the evil, and striving against the disbelievers.

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "And fight them until there is no more Fitnā and the religion becomes entirely for Allāh"

Therefore, if some of the religion was for Allāh(جل وعلا), and some of it was for other than Allāh(جل وعلا), fighting is obliged until it becomes all for Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى). [End Quote].

was asked, what is the meaning of Democracy? And what is the (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad difference between Democracy & Shūrah? And what is the ruling regarding the entering of ?Parliaments responded by saying: Democracy is the rule of the people, and it means (حفظه الله)The Shaykh that the legislation and permitting & prohibiting is for the population itself, and it was existant in then it developed further after the English Revolution, (عليه السلام), Greece, before the Birth of 'Īsa .[then the French[revolution], until it reached what it reached[i.e. Today with no partners (سبحانه وتعالى)And it's purely Kufr, because the judgement/ruling is for Allāh says: "He makes none to share in his Decision and His (سبحانه وتعالى)ascribed to him, as Allāh rule", and it is differs to the Shūrah more than the differences between Fornication to Marriage, and :that is because of [several] aspects

The Shūrah is only for the Ijtihādī matters, where there is no explicit text regarding it, as for the .1 ruling being clear/apparent, then there's no Shūrah regarding it, but as for democracy, then it's .included into everything without exception

The Shūrah is for a Group among the Ahl al-Hal wal-'Aqd, who are well known for their justness & .2 righteousness & religiousness. As for Democracy, then it's for a group of people who are elected by the people according to their desires, and what brings benefit to them, even if they were from the .most evil of people

The judgement made in the Shūrah is not compellable upon the correct view, so the Just Leader .3 .is not compelled to take it if he views benefit opposing it, as for Democracy, it's compellable

In the Shūrah, they do not come up with rulings & laws which are imposed upon the population, .4 .as for Democracy, they impose that by force

Including other than that from the differences. There are books which aren't that bad regarding this .issue, which would be good to return back too

:And entering parliaments is a great Munkar[evil] from several aspects

A) That there is acknowledgement for the judgement of the population, because parliament is a legislative gathering which comes up with laws, so by him entering it, he is acknowledging a and this is Kufr, and even if the Islamists rule over (سبحانه وتعالى), Lawgiver besides Allāh parliament for instance and they made the constitution islamic, then this is not the judgement of rather it's the judgement of the population, that's why if the members of parliament (جل وعلا), Allāh were changed, laws change, and similar to this, so this isn't ruling by Sharī'ah, the Sharī'ah rules by force, and whoever refuses it from the people is hit with a sword and thrown in the rubbish bin, and .we do not look at the number of voters, the For and Against

B) That it's obliged for the person entering Parliament to take an oath to respect the consitution, and the consitution is originally Kufr, and it has many uncountable Mukaffīrāt, and respecting it is !Kufr, so how can you take an oath by that

C) Those that are called the Islamists step down on many things in their path to reach towards Parliament, then they do not achieve a portion of what they provided from their stepping down, and .look at our current situation today, you would know that very well in 'Umdat al-Tafsīr regarding Allāh's statement "and consult (ارحمه الله)And Shaykh Ahmad Shākir them in the matter" has very beautiful words in comparing Democracy and Shūrah together, and the reply against whoever considered Democracy to be from the Shūrah, and whoever calls towards the .elections, so refer back to it, because it has words which should be written in Gold Ink was asked: Those who adopt the permisibility of entering (حفظه الله)Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr Parliament use the Principle of the greater of 2 evils as proof, and it's ruled by secularists and their commands/legislations are evil corrupted laws such as legalising alcohol & other than that, so what ?preserve you (جل وعلا)is your opinion, may Allāh responded by saying: The greatest evil is Major Shirk, so if they (حفظه الله)Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr entered Parliament & legislated laws with them, then they have fell into the greatest form of evil, and what can be beyond truth except error. Moreover the ruling of the secularists doesn't get driven away in the likes of Parliament, and we have not seen an establishment of an Islamic government through parliament, rather whenever they reached the ruling position, they were pushed away from it [i.e. Ruling by Islām & Kicked out], as it occurred in Turkey, so they lost their religion, and they did .not repel the greatest of the 2 evils

We got fundamental principles, there's no compromise on, no matter what, no matter what the" consequences are, some teachings we don't accept graduality in them, you have to say them how they are, you have to say them how they are, you got to implement them how they are, why didn't say, Look Abū Lahab, give me a few days, gather a few believers (صلى الله عليه وسلم)the Prophet around and vote on it, vote on it, is 'Abdūl Muttālib in Jannāh or Jahannām, gather a few of the Sahābah around and vote on it, let's vote on it. You don't play games like that with the laws of Allāh, it's not a game to be played with, I don't care what 'Ālim gave a Fatwa on that, that's the laws of Allāh, you don't vote, who are you to vote on it and accept that, do you think the (صلى الله عليه)didn't know he was weak, do you think the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Prophet didn't know what the consequence of telling him his dad is in hell will be, do you think he (وسلم) didn't know that, but there's no compromise on principles, i'm sorry to tell you that, that's the religion of Allāh, telling him his father is in hell is a principle, Ahmad are you in your right mind? Yes that's a principle. How! #Fatwā Regarding the elections in Egypt & the prohibition of voting:

The Noble Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Rājihī(حفظه الله) was asked:

Asalāmu 'Alaykum wa Rahmatullāhi wa Barakātuhu, and to proceed:

I am looking forward to an answer for my question:

You know, may Allāh preserve you that shortly to come, elections will be running for the Egyptian presidency, so what is the ruling on voting in it?

While knowing that there are two candidates for presidency, one of them: Adheres to the secularist party, and the other: Is a candidate for the Muslim Brotherhood, so who do you think we should give our vote for?

And may Allāh reward you, and peace & blessings be upon our Prophet Muḥammād and his Family and Companions.

Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Rājiḥī(حفظه الله) responded by saying:

Wa 'Alaykum Asalām wa Rahmatullāhi wa Barakātuhu.

All praise is due to Allāh, the Lord of Mankind, and Peace & Blessings be upon our Prophet Muḥammād and his Family and Companions and the Successors, to proceed:

I don't view it permissible to elect a president from whoever adheres to the secularist party, nor whoever adheres to the muslim brotherhood, rather [a leader] is chosen by "Ahlal Hal wal-'Aqd"; Not from anyone they like, rather it is for whomever establishes the religion of Allāh, as it's affirmed in Saḥīḥ Muslim that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {This matter [i.e. Khilāfah & Leadership] will remain with Quraish, even if only two of them remained, as long as they establish the laws of the religion} or as he said..

So the ones who elect [a leader] must be from "Ahlal Hal wal-'Aqd", and the rest of the people follow in their footsteps, to [follow a leader] who establishes the religion of Allāh, and rules by the Sharī'ah of Allāh over the servants of Allāh, as for electing whoever adheres to the secularist party or the muslim brotherhood, then this is clear distortion from the religion of Allāh, and betrayal to the servants of Allāh.

And may Allāh bring the muslims towards the truth, and direct them to the right path and keep them away from overstepping all the boundaries and distortion, and may Allāh keep everyone steadfast upon the [correct] guidance.

وصلى الله وسلم وبارك على عبد الله ورسوله نبينا محمد وعلى آله وصحبه وسلم

#Translation of this Video - Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Rājiḥī(حفظه الله) says the constitution of Mursī & others in Egypt is a constitution of Kufr & a Tāghūt, and the one who votes for it must make Tawbah, response against those who use "Maslaha" as an excuse to rule the Sharī'ah by steps without having complete disavowal from the Tāghūt:

Caller: Shaykh, I have called you from about a week ago, and I asked you about the ruling on voting for the Egyptian constitution, and you made a promise that you will make a statement concerning this matter, so I wanted to ask, is the statement going to be uploaded Inshā'Allāh.

Shaykh: Soon Inshā'Allāh, may Allāh preserve you, the statement will mention the prohibition of voting for the constitution, voting for the constitution is not permissible, it's Haram, and whoever votes must make Tawbah, and must proclaim disavowal from it and its people, this is the summarised conclusion.

Caller: Ahsan Allāhu ilayk Shaykhanā.

Shaykh: The constitution is a constitution of Kufr, it's [full of] Kufr and a Tāghūt, so it's not permissible to vote for it.

Caller: Ahsan Allāhu ilaykum Shaykhanā, but some of them claim that there is Maslahah [Benefit] in [voting], so how do we respond against this?

Shaykh: What is the Maslahah [Benefit]? What is the Maslaha???

Caller: They say the Maslahah of restoring stability in the country.

Shaykh: Restoring stability to the country cannot be done except by committing Kufr?!! The stability of the country is restored through ruling by the Sharī'ah, what has the revolution right now stood up for, it has stood up to remove a regime of Kufr to replace it with another regime of Kufr, so what's the benefit [in this], it remains just as how it was to begin with.

Caller: Allāh ul-Musta'ān, Allāh ul-Musta'ān.

#Translation of this video - Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) makes Takfir upon Mursī & those who apply the Sharī'ah step by step, and that you cannot be a Muslim unless you completely disbelieve in the Tāghūt, this is a good response against those who use the excuse of "Maslahah", his student read a statement from those justifying entering of Parliaments, and the Shaykh says there is no proof from that, and then he has a discussion with his students regarding the Kufr of Mursī, here is the translation of the video:

Shaykh: Do you make Takfir upon whomever judges by the Tāghūt? I'm asking you right now...

Student: [Unclear Audio].

Shaykh: Okay, if he disbelieves in the Tāghūt, does Mursī disbelieve in the Tāghūt. Does Mursī disbelieve in the Tāghūt or not?

Student: He doesn't disbelieve [in the Tāghūt] my Shaykh, he doesn't disbelieve [in the Tāghūt]...

Shaykh: That's enough, how do you elect someone who doesn't disbelieve in the Tāghūt, then what did they do? They scattered when he took authority/command, and they killed the muslims in the Mosques, something the jews didn't do, that they even killed people in the mosques, and that was in the mosque where there were brothers, they killed them, the jews didn't even do this. Mursī as soon as he took authority, he killed the brothers in Sinai...

Student: 14 of them, he held them to be executed.

Shaykh: And the rest, they imprisoned, so we must affirm the aspect of Ēmān before [diving further into it], he grants victory to the Tāghūt, and he is also a believer of the Tāghūt, he says "we are democrats, we respect all religions, there's no difference between a Muslim and a Kāfir according to me", he says "There's religious freedom [muslim or Kāfir] in the constitution", these are all clear nullifiers [of Islām] ya'hī.

Student: Shaykh they shun and become uncomfortable [regarding Takfir], there was one of the well known scholars this morning, I asked him, do you make Takfir upon Mursī? He said: I'm silent, I'm not getting into that, and I said give me proof from the Qur'ān and Sunnāh, and he gave an example from his intellect, and he's someone who they go around passing his Fatwa everywhere, so Shaykh can you touch on this.... because they place conditions.

Shaykh: Even the conditions, may Allāh preserve you, even if they placed conditions, the main issue is belief in Allāh and disbelief in the Tāghūt, if this person gains power by being elected, will he then disassociate from whoever believes in the Tāghūt or not, because we know that Kufr bit-Tāghūt is a condition from the conditions of Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, and as he [the Prophet] said in the Hadīth of Mālik ibn al-Ashja'ī from his father, that the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {Whoever says La ilaha ila Allah and DISBELIEVES in what is worshipped besides Allah...[till the end of the Hadīth that blood & wealth is protected with Kufr bit-Tāghūt]}, and that is why Shaykh Muhammad ibn 'Abdul Wahhab commented upon this and said: {And [this hadith] is the greatest of what shows the meaning of La ilaha ila Allah, so he did not make the utterance of it a protection of one's blood and wealth, not even knowing its meaning with its utterance, not even affirming it, and not even if he doesn't call upon anyone besides Allah with no partners onto him, rather his blood and wealth won't be protected until he adds onto that the disbelief of what's worshipped besides Allah, so if he has doubts or withholds [from disbelieving in the Taghut], his blood or wealth won't be protected, so what a grat and magnificent issue this is, and what an obvious statement and clear-cut proof it is against the disputer}, this is his exact words.

Student: But they say the most important thing is the unity of Egypt, unity of Egypt, unity of Egypt, everything they say is because of this [to prevent bloodshed] and the problem is many people talk about the unity of Egypt and not having a civil war...so the most important thing is the unity of Egypt, and the problem is, not any person says this, rather it is said by [influential people].

Shaykh: If a person knows the truth and adheres to the truth and explains what appears to him from the truth to the people, it's necessary to teach the people, the Tawhīd and 'Aqīdah and Kufr Bit-Tāghūt, and not stepping down on the matters of Tawhīd, moreover even if right now, Mursī is elected and gains victory, will these people [who he killed and imprisoned] return back to Mursī for his judgement from his loyalty to the christians and his belief in the Tāghūt, and putting the Muslims and the Kāfirīn on the same level, and expulsion of the efforts/striving from the people of Tawhīd, and will they be judged for instance on some of the nullifiers [of Islām] that are present such as interfaith & union with other religions or will they leave [the judgement on them]? Then when you have a person who is truthful in applying the Sharī'ah, he would disbelieve in the Tāghūt and say "I'm entering to grant victory to the believers, if I rule [the country], I will completely rule by the Sharī'ah, and if I was given the opportunity to be appointed to rule [the country], I would disbelieve in the Tāghūt", but this is not present!!

Student: He says, if you say this word alone, a war would ignite in Egypt and killings, just because of this word alone...

Shaykh: Alright, the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) divided his people, the Prophet fought his people, he divided all the people, the Prophet came to the Kuffar of Quraysh and said to them while they were sitting near the ka'bah, he said: {Listen to me, O Quraysh! By the One in Whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, I have brought slaughter to you}, it was narrated by Imām Ahmad in his Musnad from the Hadīth of ‘Abdillāh ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Ās.

Student: [someone] Interrupted and wanted to ask about al-Tawā’if al-Mumtani’ah.

Shaykh: The problem amongst the people, may Allāh preserve you, is that they don't differentiate between a Kāfir Aslī, they see a difference between a Kāfir Aslī and a Kāfir Murtad, so the person who says La ilaha ila Allah, even if he came with nullifiers of Islam, they do not get all worked up and show zeal [towards his Kufr] the way they get worked up [towards the Kufr] of the Kāfir Aslī, while the group "ikwān al-muslimīn" by nature do not see the difference between the two to begin with, they see that the conditions are being applied, while ‘Omar used to take from them the Jizyah, the first Khutbah that was given by the Muftī of al-Azhar in the presence of Mursī, the first Khutbah he gave which is present & in public, was advising Mursi of the necessity to respect the coptics and deal with them the way ‘Omar would deal with them. ‘Omar took from them the Jizyah, he [Mursī] did not take from them the Jizyah, ‘Omar stroke them with humiliation and lowliness, unlike today, they have domination/power and influence and cause corruption on Earth.

Inshā'Allāh I'm going to share the Fatāwah, statements & Audio Discussions regarding the Kufr of Mursī, and the impermissibility of voting from the following Scholars:

1. Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله)
2. Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Rājihī(حفظه الله)
3. Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله).

It will prove that there's no such thing as "Maslaha" as an excuse to rule the Shari'ah by steps without having complete disavowal from the Tāghūt. I have shared some of what Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) & Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) have mentioned regarding the issue as well. Shaykh Ahmad al-Khālidi(حفظه الله) & many Scholars go along the same view which is what agree's with consensus, no matter how many recent scholars have said otherwise, we don't go by the opinion of anyone when the text is clear. Judgement belongs none other than to Allāh, and committing "Kufr" for the sake of Maslaha goes against the Usūl of all deviant sects, let alone Ahl al-Sunnah as mentioned by the Scholars.

Maybe if Allāh gives me the chance, I could share what Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) has written regarding parliaments, it's just very long...

#Bayqūnī_3 {And the Hassan is one whose routes are known, its narrators not as famous as the Sahīh have shown}

وَالْحَسَنُ الْمَعْرُوفُ طُرُقاً وَعَدَتْ ** رِجَالُهُ لَا كَالصَّحِيحِ اسْتَهْرَتْ

Commentary of Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله):

The {Hassan} according to the Early Scholars is mentioned in different ways:

1. Like the {Hassan} according to the Later Scholars, so it would be a type from the types of the Sahīh in this aspect, however it is not used as much [in this way by the Early Imāms].
2. The {Gharīb}, so if a Hadīth was Gharīb [i.e. Only came through a single chain of narration], then the Early Scholars would call it Hassan, and most of the time, the Gharā'ib do not reach the level of Authenticity.
3. The {Hassan} in the terminology of Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله), and it is what has 3 conditions, which he has explained in the end of his book {al-Jāmi'} [1], and it is:

- That there's no one accused of lying in the chain
- And that it's narrated from another chain.
- And that it's not Shāth [Anamolous], i.e. An error.

And that is why Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) can classify a weak narrator's [Hadīth] as "Hassan", because he is not accused of lying.

And he could class as "Hassan" the {Disconnected Hadīth} or {Mursal Hadīth}, and I have tens of examples for that, so the rebuking of the Later Scholars against al-Tirmidhī when they say: {al-Tirmidhī graded it Hassan & it's not like what he said - or, and it is like what he said}, what they mentioned isn't correct; Because Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) is in a valley, and they are in another valley, but rather Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) can be rebuked if he goes against his conditions regarding the Hadīths that he classified Hassan, such as grading Hassan a Hadīth of a person accused of lying, or it hasn't been narrated through another chain, or it was Shāth [anomalous], but as for holding the terminology of al-Tirmidhī upon the terminology of the Later Scholars [regarding Hassan], then that's wrong.

Benefit: It has appeared to me through deep scrutiny and examination that the level of authenticity according to al-Tirmidhī is based upon this order:

1. Hassan Sahīh
2. Hassan Sahīh Gharīb
3. Hassan
4. Hassan Gharīb
5. Gharīb

#Bayqūnī_2 {One who is upright and precise narrates from his like, reliable in his precision as well as his transmission}

يَرْوِيهِ عَدْلٌ صَابِغٌ عَنْ مِثْلِهِ ** مُعْتَمَدٌ فِي صَبْطِهِ وَثَقْلِهِ

Commentary of Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله):

For a person to be Thiqah [Trustworthy] in transmission [of a Hadīth], it revolves around two things:

1. Truthfulness(الصدق)
2. Precision(الصبط)

And based upon this is three sub-branches:

1. That what the Later Scholars mention from the conditions of the narrator other than these two [conditions], has no basis for it, such as their statement: "That he's free from shameful behaviours [in society - doesn't mean it's Harām], and acts in a culturally unaccepted way", and similar to that, rather if the narrator was Truthful [Sādiq] and Precise [Dābit], then his Hadīth is Sahīh.
2. That the innovator, no matter what his innovation was, if he was Truthful and Precise, then his Hadīth is accepted, and he is Trustworthy [Thiqah] when it comes to narrating a Hadīth, and this is what the Early Imāms have acted upon.
3. That what is mentioned from some of the [Early] Imāms from exiling some of the people of innovation, and abandoning narrating from them, and other than that, is not from the aspect of maligning the authenticity of their narrations, rather it's from the aspect of maligning their religion, and warning from their innovation, and this is only understood if we gathered between their words and actions, for they authenticated many Hadīths from the narrations of the people of innovation, and the Sahīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] has many Hadīths from their narrations, and they have accepted it and used it as proof, so the aspect of integrity in transmission [of a Hadīth] is not like the aspect of integrity when it comes to a Testimony, Judgement, Leadership, Marriage and similar to that.

The rulings on those who believe that ignorance can be an excuse in shirk akbar

By Ash-Shaykh Al'Allāmah 'Alī Al Khudayr fakk Allāhu asrah

The first case: If he gives the excuse of ignorance because he believes there is no difference between between shirk (associating a partner with Allāh) and kufr (denial of the Text), so just as one could be excused for kufr, thus it is also the case for shirk, and he is on the path of Ahlus Sunnah in relation to Īmān. Then this one has made a mistake from amongst Ahlus Sunnah and he is not declared a kāfir nor a muḥtadi'.

The second case: If he gives the excuse of ignorance in shirk while considering slaughtering (for other than Allāh), and the other other acts of worship that are done for other than Allāh for example, is shirk in general speaking terms and he does not say that the one who does it must be convinced or that we should look at his belief, and this one is on the path of Ahlus Sunnah with regards to Īmān, it being words, deeds, and beliefs, then this one is mistaken as the one before and there is within him a branch from the branches of bid'a.

The third case: If he gives the excuse of ignorance in shirk but he claims that slaughtering, vowing, and the other acts done to other than Allāh is not shirk unless that one is convinced that there is a partner with Allāh or that the one they slaughter for has some type of powers, and he will not declare him a mushrik unless he is convinced (that it is ḥalāl ie istihlāl) and does not consider him a mushrik for the simple fact that slaughtering is an action, then whoever claims this is a murjī muḥtadi' and especially if he thinks that Īmān is only speech and belief and that actions and obedience are not included in it and makes it a condition for kufr that it must come with a belief or istihlāl and what is hidden in the heart.

The fourth case: If he gives the excuse of ignorance for shirk akbar and claims that slaughtering to other than Allāh is not shirk unless there is conviction but it could express or indicate the presence of shirk or kufr and claims that Īmān is just knowledge, even if it is not accompanied with belief in the heart, and does not include actions of the heart into Īmān, then this one is an astray kāfir jahmī muṭtadi'.

Is it permissible to wipe over socks that have holes in them [when making wudoo']?

Answer by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān:

Praise be to Allah.

The correct view is that it is permissible to wipe over khuff (leather slippers which cover the foot and ankle) or socks that have holes in them. The Prophet ﷺ allowed wiping over khuff and he did not stipulate any condition that they should be whole and free of holes or tears, especially since the khuff of his companions were not free of holes or tears. If this had any effect on whether one could wipe over them, the Prophet ﷺ would have stated that clearly, for one of the basic principles of usool al-fiqh is that it is not permitted to delay explaining something when it is needed.

Imam Sufyaan al-Thawri, may Allah have mercy on him, said:

قال الإمام سفیان الثوري رحمه الله: "امسح عليها ما تعلق به رجلك وهل كانت خفاف المهاجرين والأنصار إلا مخرقة مشققة مرقعة." رواه عبد الرزاق في المصنف 1 / 194

"One may wipe over the khuff so long as it is still clinging to the feet. Were the khuff of the Muhaajireen and Ansaar anything but full of holes and tears?" [Narrated by 'Abd al-Razzaaq in al-Musanaaf, 1/194]

Sheikh al-Islam ibn Taymiyah, may Allaah have mercy on him, said:

قال شيخ الإسلام ابن تيمية رحمه الله: "فلما أطلق الرسول صلى الله عليه وسلم الأمر بالمسح على الخفاف مع علمه بما هي عليه في العادة ولم يشترط أن تكون سليمة من العيوب وجب حمل أمره على الإطلاق ولم يجز أن يقيد كلامه إلا بدليل شرعي . وكان مقتضى لفظه أن كل خف يلبسه الناس ويمشون فيه فلهم أن يمسحوا عليه وإن كان مفتوقاً أو مخروقاً من غير تحديد لمقدار ذلك فإن التحديد لا بد له من دليل." الفتاوى 174 / 21

"When the Messenger of Allaah (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) gave the command to wipe over the khuff, he knew what the normal state of affairs was, and he did not stipulate the condition that the socks should be whole and free of any faults. His command should be taken as general in meaning and it should not be restricted unless there is any shar'i evidence for doing so. What is implied by the wording is that any khuff that people wear and walk about in may be wiped over, even if they have holes or are worn out, without defining the acceptable extent for these holes and tears, because even such a definition would require evidence." [Majmoo' al-Fataawa 21/174]

This is also the view of Ishaq, Ibn al-Mubaarak, Sufyan Ibn 'Uyaynah and Abu Thawr may Allah be pleased with them all.

Imam al-Shaafa'i and Ahmad – according to the well-known views narrated from them – said that it is not permissible to wipe over the khuff or socks so long as there are any holes or tears in the place where it is obligatory to do wudoo'. Abu Hanifah and Maalik differentiated between small holes and large holes.

But the correct view is the first view quoted above, which is that it is permissible to wipe over the khuff or socks so long as they are still clinging to the feet and it is still possible to walk in them.

It is also correct to wipe over socks through which the skin can be seen, because the permission to wipe over socks is general and no report of any restriction has been narrated. This implies that any socks which people wear may be wiped over. This is what is implied by those who say that it is permissible to wipe over khuff that are worn out, so long as it is still possible to walk in them.

Imam an-Nawawi, may Allah have mercy on him, mentioned in al-Majmoo' (1/502) that even if a person were to wear khuff made of glass, if it were possible to walk in them then it would be permissible to wipe over them, even though the skin beneath them would be visible.

And Allah knows best.

#Bayqūnī_1 {The first is the 'Sahih', and it is what has a connected chain without any irregularities or hidden defects}

أَوَّلُهَا (الصحيح) وهو ما اتَّصَلَ ** إسناده وَلَمْ يُشَدَّ أو يُعَلَّ

(حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad by Commentary

Hadīth according to the Early Scholars is of two types: Accepted & Rejected.

The first type - Accepted: And it is every Hadīth that hasn't shown its fault, and it's two types:

1. Acceptable to be used as proof and depend/rely upon: And it is the Saḥīḥ according to this condition that was mentioned by the author of the poem, may Allāh have mercy upon him.

2. Acceptable to be used for quotation & analysis: And it is beneath the first type, from among the Hadīths which have a low precision, and weak narrators who don't have a large number of mistakes, and the authentic Mursal narrations & other than it, with the condition that its fault isn't shown, and this type is what is meant by "Hassan" according to al-Tirmidhī, and "Sālih" according to Abī Dāwūd, and al-Nasā'ī could mention at times that it's "Jayyīd", and it is "al-Muqārib" according to al-Bukhārī, and it is what Imām Muslim mentioned in the second category of his introduction, and it is what Imām Ahmad intends by "Weak", from his statement: {The weak Hadīth is more beloved to me than the opinion of men} [1].

The second type - Rejected: And it is every Hadīth that has shown its faults such as the Munkarāt, whether they were Munkarāt from Trustworthy or Weak narrators, also the Hadīths of the Liars and the Matrūkīn [Abandoned narrators], and whoever had a large number of mistakes, even if he was righteous.

[1] It was narrated by Imām Ibn Hazm (رحمه الله) with a linked chain & numerous wordings in al-Muḥallāh, the Taḥqīq is by Dr. 'Abdūl Ghaffār al-Bandar, (1/87), (3/61).

was asked: There are some who consider shaving the head a (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad ?basis for making Takfīr upon the soldiers [of the army], how is that so responded by saying: Shaving the head is from the greatest (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad in "Zād al-Ma'ād", so whoever (رحمه الله) forms of worship as it was affirmed by Ibn al-Qayyīm in a way of submission which the Sūfīs do with (سبحانه وتعالى) shaves his head for other than Allāh their Shaykhs, and the soldiers do when they enter the army, then he's a Mushrik, and likewise whoever shaves someone else's head in a way of humiliation and enslavement, like what they do in prison with the brothers, then it is a type of Shirk as well, because shaving the head isn't to be done (سبحانه) in "al-Nusuk" [at Hajj], and Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) in submission to anyone except for Allāh .knows best (وتعالى) was asked: Is the Tablīs [Deception] of the Scholars considered (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad ?an excuse in withholding from [performing] Takfīr responded by saying: The discussion regarding the excuse in (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad [committing] Kufr is very lengthy, wherein I wrote an unfinished draft in prison, a book by the name of: "al-Tafsīl lil-'udhr bil-Jahl wal-Ta'wīl", and what's correct is that there's no excuse for falling into Kufr, except by Ikrāḥ [coercion] alone, as it's mentioned in the Āyah, as for the rest of the excuses, :then it is Either not an excuse to begin with, such as whoever goes into extremes [exaggeration] in the .1 !issue of excuse of ignorance, that he even excused the grave worshippers by their ignorance

Or that the Muslim did not fall into Kufr to begin with, like the issue of Mistakes & Interpretation, .2 and the discussion regarding the Tafsīl [detailed explanation] of this is very lengthy, and it requires .a complete book, except that what I mentioned is only pointing out towards this matter

So if you know this, then we shall speak about Talbīs [Deception] of the Scholars upon the :masses, and is it an excuse? So we say that this is divided into two categories

That the muslim falls into an action of Kufr himself, such as associating partners soth Allāh and .1 similar to that, then he isn't excused by it as I previously stated, except by Ikrāḥ [coercion] alone, but as for Talbīs [Deception] of the Scholars and their verdicts, then it's not an excuse, or else those who said: {And they will say, "Our Lord, indeed we obeyed our masters and our dignitaries, and they led us astray from the [right] way.} would be excused, and those who Allāh said about: {They have taken their scholars and monks as lords besides Allah} would be excused, and those which the Authentic Hadīth has mentioned regarding taking away knowledge: {people will take as their leaders ignorant persons who when consulted will give their verdict without knowledge. So they .will go astray and will lead the people astray.} would be excused, and other than that

That the Muslim doesn't fall into it [i.e. Kufr]; however he doesn't make Takfīr upon whoever does .2 that [act of Kufr] because of a misconception that has befallen him, such as the Talbīs [Deception] of these Scholars upon him and similar to that, so this person doesn't disbelieve; Because he didn't commit Kufr, and he didn't reject a text [From the Qur'ān & Sunnāh] nor Ijmā' [Consensus], and this is a branch/section of the issue "Whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon a Kāfir, then he's a Kāfir", and :many mistakes occur within it, hence I will simplify the discussion regarding it, so I say

The Kāfir Aslī, such as the Jew and Christian for example, so whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon .1 [him, then he becomes a Kāfir, for rejecting the texts [Qur'ān & Sunnāh] and Ijmā' [Consensus

The Kāfir Murtad who openly proclaims leaving Islām after he was a Muslim, either for another .2 religion, or for atheism and similar to that, then he is like the first type as well. [Whoever doesn't [call him a Kāfir is a Kāfir

The Kāfir Murtad who commits a nullifier from the agreed upon nullifiers of Islām, such as .3 mocking the religion for example while he claims to be a Muslim, so whoever refrains from :performing Takfīr upon him, then he is 1 of 2 men

Either he affirms that his action or statement which the text and consensus has mentioned is - Kufr, however he refrains from performing Takfīr upon him because of a misconception that appeared to him, or extremely fearful [to give an opinion] and similar to that, then this person .[doesn't disbelieve; Because he didn't reject the text or Ijmā' [Consensus

Or he either disputes regarding the action or the statement, and that it's not Kufr, then the Hujjāh - must be applied upon him, by showing the evidences and Ijmā' regarding this, so either he affirms .that, or else he becomes a Kāfir

The Kāfir Murtad who commits a nullifier which is differed upon, such as abandoning Salāh for .4 .example, so whoever withholds from performing Takfīr upon him doesn't become a Kāfir was asked: Is Talbīs [Deception] an excuse in the matters (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad ?pertaining Shirk and the Foundations of the Religion responded by saying: Talbīs [Deception] is not an excuse in (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad Major Shirk, so whoever falls into Kufr without ikrāh [coercion], then he's a Kāfir, and most of the Kuffār did not fall into their Kufr except from the Talbīs [deception] of their leaders and scholars said: {They have taken their scholars and monks as lords (سبحانه وتعالى)over them, and Allāh said about (سبحانه وتعالى)besides Allah}, and it is a condemnation for them, not an excuse. Allāh them - while they are in the hellfire - {And they will say, "Our Lord, indeed we obeyed our masters said: {But (سبحانه وتعالى)and our dignitaries, and they led us astray from the [right] way.}, and Allāh if you could see when the wrongdoers are made to stand before their Lord, refuting each other's words... Those who were oppressed will say to those who were arrogant, "If not for you, we would have been believers."}, and many other verses, also it's mentioned in the famous Hadīth, the Hadīth regarding taking away knowledge, and it is Mutawātir from (رضي الله عنهما)of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Amr him, and it mentions: {people will take as their leaders ignorant persons who when consulted will give their verdict without knowledge. So they will go astray and will lead the people astray.}, and the evidences are plenty regarding this, and whoever wants to give excuse because of Talbīs [Being deceived], must also excuse all the Kuffār without exception, because all of them have the Talbīs of Ibīs fall upon them: {people will take as their leaders ignorant persons who when consulted will give their verdict without knowledge. So they will go astray and will lead the people astray}, and those who are affiliated to the people of knowledge who deceive these Mushrikīn are from the .Shayātīn: {The Shayātīn [devils] of mankind}, Wallāh ul-Musta'ān was asked: What is the Tafsīl regarding the third nullifier (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad ""Whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn & doubts in their Kufr

:responded by saying: The Tafsīl is divided into 4 types (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad

Whoever's Kufr is Aslī such as the Jew & Christian: So whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon him or .1 refrains from performing Takfīr upon him, then he's a Kāfir because he hasn't disbelieved in the Tāghūt, because Tawhīd must be accompanied with two things "Disbelieving in the Tāghūt, and "believing in Allāh

Whoever apostates from Islām and openly proclaims in leaving it for Judaism or Atheism & .2

.similar to that: Then he is like the First Type

Whoever apostates from Islām by committing an agreed upon Nullifier such as Insulting [Allāh & .3 His Messenger] while he claims to be a Muslim: So whoever affirms that his statement or action is Kufr [in General], however he refrained from performing Takfīr upon him [in Specific based upon a misconception], then he doesn't disbelieve because he didn't reject the text [Qur'ān & Sunnāh] or .Ijmā

Whoever apostates by committing a Nullifier that is differed upon such as Abandoning Salāh: So .4 whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon him doesn't disbelieve, even if he disputed in the core root of the .knows best (جل وعلا) matter, because it's differed upon, and Allāh

SubhānAllāh, may Allāh protect us from those who studied Arabic & then belittle those who are weak in Arabic.

Alhamdulilāh, learning & understanding Arabic is a blessing from Allāh, but where are the manners of a student? The most important thing isn't how much knowledge & books you've memorised, rather it is your truthfulness & sincerity, acting upon everything you learn with a pure heart.

Some people enjoy making fun of others, may Allāh keep our intentions pure in everything we do, the layman who knows very little about Islām but acts upon what he knows from the Qur'ān & Sunnāh is more beloved to Allāh than someone who has memorised the Qur'ān & Sunnāh, but doesn't act upon it.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) make from among us 'Ulemā' that are upon the right methodology & with the character of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم). We should listen to others, not just impose what we have studied in a particular topic, this is blind ignorance, because there are things others might have learnt which you haven't come across, so let's be humble Inshā'Allāh. The Qur'ān isn't supposed to merely be recited, but rather to learn from the lessons from it, and in our case the story of Mūsa & Khidr, so let's be the best we can & help others Fee Sabeelilah without looking down upon anyone, and don't ever backbite anyone, I don't want to hear it at all, unless that person is present, or else it's a Major Sin.

AL-MURJI'AH AND AL-KUFR

And the people of the Sunnah [Ahl As-Sunnah] have agreed that the Kufr can be due to a statement, such as clear mockery [Istihzā'] of the religion [Dīn] and it can occur due to actions such as prostrating to an idol or the sun or the moon or slaughtering for other than Allāh.

And the evidences from the Book and the Sunnah are clear concerning the Kufr of someone who commits something of Kufr, and this is due to the statements or actions alone, without tying this to willful rejection [Juhūd] or making it permissible [Istih'lāl] as this is erroneous and no one from the companions [Sahābah] or the generation that came after them [Tābi'in] nor the known Imāms of the Sunnah have said this.

Allāh, the Most High, said: “And if you ask them [about this], they will declare: “We were only talking idly and joking.” Say: “Was it at Allāh, and His Ayāt [Proofs, Evidences, Verses, Lessons, Signs, Revelations, etc.] and His Messenger that you were mocking?” Make no excuse; you have disbelieved after you had believed. If We pardon some of you, We will punish others [amongst you] because they were Mujrimīn [disbelievers, polytheists, sinners, criminals, etc].” [Taubah:65]

And the cause of Kufr was the statement, which they uttered alone.

And Allāh, the Most High, said: “They swear by Allāh that they did not say [anything bad], but really they said the word of disbelief, and they disbelieved after their Islām, and they resolved that [plot to murder Prophet Muhammad] which they were unable to carry out, and they could not find any cause to do so except that Allāh and His Messenger had enriched them of His Bounty. If then they repent, it will be better for them, but if they turn away, Allāh will punish them with a painful torment in this worldly life and in the Hereafter. And there is none for them on earth as a Walī [supporter, protector] or a helper.” [Taubah:74]

So ultimately, anyone who says or does something, which is clear Kufr, he disbelieves as long as nothing prevents that from the preventative factors such as compulsion [Ikrah] or misinterpretation [Ta'wil] or accidental mistakes [Khata'] like the slipping of the tongue or an ignorance, which is considered.

And from the clear Kufr is abandoning the category of actions [Jins Al-'Amal] completely, without tying that to the actions of the heart, because the absolute abandonment of the category of actions [Jins Al-'Amal] on its own is Kufr Akbar, yet we use the absence of that which is necessitated as evidence for the inside, without making this a condition for the judgment [Hukm] and this is clear from the Book and the Sunnah as the judgment is upon the actions of the body and not upon what lays in the hearts because this is for the Knower of the Unseen [i.e. Allāh].

And Al-Hāfith Ibn Rajab, may Allāh be merciful to him, mentioned in “Fat'h Al- Bārī” 1/23 from Sufyān Ibn 'Uyaynah that he said, “The Murji'ah called abandoning the obligatory deeds [Al-Farā'idh] a sin at the level of performing the impermissible [deeds], but they are not equal, because committing the impermissible [deeds] intentionally while not making them permissible [Istih'lāl] is a disobedience, while abandoning the obligatory deeds [Al-Farā'idh] while not being ignorant (of the duty to perform them) and without an excuse, is Kufr.”

And the clarification of that is in the issue of Ādam and Iblīs and the scholars of the Jews who accepted the Prophet's being sent, upon their tongues, yet they did not act upon his legislations.

And Harb narrated from Is'hāq that he said, “The Murji'ah continued to go to extremes, until from their statements was that a people said, ‘Whoever leaves the prescribed prayers and the fasting of Ramadhān and the Zakāt and the Hajj and all of the obligatory deeds [Al-Farā'idh], without rejecting them [Juhūd], we do not make Takfir to him. His reckoning is left to Allāh after he has become from those who accept them [i.e. the obligatory deeds].’ So those are the ones about whom there is no doubt; meaning the Murji'ah.”

And Al-Khallāl narrated in “As-Sunnah” 3/586 [from 'Ubayd-Allāh Ibn Hanbal, who said, “Abī Hanbal Ibn Is'hāq Ibn Hanbal narrated to me, he said, ‘Al- Humaydī said, ‘I was informed that there are people who say, ‘Whoever accepts the Salāt and the Zakāt and the fasting and the Hajj but does not do any of them until he dies, or prays leaning on his back facing the opposite direction of the direction of prayer [Qiblah] until he dies, then he is a believer [Mu'min] as long as he does not reject [their obligations]. If he knows that his abandoning of those things with his belief, if he accepts the obligations and the facing towards the Qiblah.’ So I said, ‘This is clear Kufr in Allāh and contrary to the Book of Allāh and the Sunnah of His Messenger [salallahu 'alayhi wasallam] the actions of the Muslims.”

Allāh, the Powerful, the Mighty, said: “Hunafā', and perform As-Salāt and give Az-Zakāt: and that is the right religion.”

And Hanbal said, “I heard Abū 'Abdillāh, or I heard him saying, ‘Whoever says this, then he has disbelieved in Allāh and rejected His Commands and upon the Messenger [salallahu 'alayhi wasallam] which he came with.”

And Al-Imām Ibn Battah, may Allāh be merciful to him, said, “So anyone who abandons anything from the obligatory deeds [Al-Farā'idh], which Allāh, the Powerful, the Mighty, prescribed in His Book or that His Messenger [salallahu 'alayhi wasallam] in his Sunnah, due to willful denial [Juhūd] of it or inward disbelief [Tak'thib] in it, then he is a disbeliever [Kāfir] with clear Kufr. No intelligent person, who believes in Allāh and the Last Day, would doubt that. And whoever accepts it and declares this upon his tongue but abandons it (totally), due to negligence or playing or due to believing the opinion of the Murji'ah and following their school of thought [Math'hab], then he is an abandoner of the faith [Īmān]. None of it exists; neither a small nor a large quantity in his heart. And he is in the group of hypocrites [Munafiqīn] who committed hypocrisy [Nifāq] with the Messenger of Allāh [salallahu alayhi wasallam] So Qur'an was revealed with their descriptions and what was in store for them and that they are in the lowest depths of the Hellfire. We seek refuge with Allāh from the misguided schools of thought of the Murji'ah.” [Al-Ibanah Vol. 2/764]

And the leaders [Imāms] among the predecessors [Salaf] have warned concerning them and made clear the error of their statements and the danger of their innovation [Bid'ah].

Imām Az-Zuh'rī, may Allāh be merciful to him, said, “No innovation [Bid'ah] was innovated in Islām that was more harmful to its people than this; meaning Al- Irjā'.” [Al Ibanah Vol. 2/885]

And Al-Awzā'ī said, "Yahya and Qatādah used to say, 'There is nothing from the desires, which was more feared by them upon the nation [Ummah] than Al-Irjā'.'" [Al-Ibanah Vol. 2/885-886]

And Shurayk said, "They are the worst of people. The extreme Shi'ites [Rawāfidh] are sufficient in evil, but the Murji'ah lie against Allāh, the Powerful, the Mighty." [As-Sunnah Vol.1/312]

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE DISEASES OF THE MURJI'AH IN TAKFEER

Question: [To Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān]

As-Salaam Aleykom Shaykh, May Allah grant you good and a long life. A while ago when you spoke about takfeer, the mistakes that happens [when you apply it], and the outcome of it. And this scenario maybe happening, but because of this a new way [Manhaj] has appeared, that which we call irjaa of today. They have made the religion more softer than the clothes of Samir as mention by some of the Salaf. Can you give us more details about this or explain to us [Murjism] in general? Would you like to mention anything about that for us?

Answer:

Correct! When the Manhaj [Methodology] of Khawarij appeared, as an outcome of that, the Manhaj of Murji'a appeared, and Ahlu Sunnah is between the Khawarij and Murji'a.

The Khawarij make takfeer because of major sins, and Murji'a don't make takfeer on the Nawaqid [Nullifiers of Islam], and they restrict the nawaqid to [a persons] Juhood [denying] and making the Halal Haram and similar.

And Ahlu Sunnah is between these. So the one who commits a deed of Kufr and all the conditions are fulfilled, and all the barriers are removed, and this is not required for all the nullifiers, because there are some that aren't in need of this [i.e to fulfill the conditions and remove the barriers]. So the ruling on such a person is clear, he committed an act that nullifies the principle of Iman.

And what is kufr? This is a speech, deed, belief that nullifies the principle of Iman, and can't exist together with Iman.

There has appeared as you have mentioned, groups that have approached these clear deeds like: Shirk with Allah Subhanahu Wata'ala, assisting the disbelievers against Muslims, replacing the Shariah, or changing the religion, making matters which are Haram by consensus Halal, making mockery of the religion, shirk to Allah, making tawaf around the graves, or making du'a to the dead and similar [to that], then he approaches these clear deeds of disbelief and restrict [the application] to Juhood [denying], Istihlaal [making it halal] or l'tiqaad [believing]. Ibn Taymiyyah called these people as mentioned in [his book] "as-Sarim al-Maslul" "al-Djahmiyyah al-Inaath"..

And they appeared as an outcome of the appearance of Khawarij, those who if they saw a big sin, they would declare him as a disbeliever and out of the fold of Islam, and they would make his blood and wealth Halal, and they have call the lands of Islam the land of war and disbelief.

Then appeared those who call the land of disbelief as the land of Kufr, but they call it the land of Islam; and they don't make takfeer upon the Kuffar. And Ahlu Sunnah is in the midst of these [two methodologies].

But the brothers question was about those who hasten in Takfeer, but without a doubt this [does not cause] less harm than that and this isn't worse than that. A person have to look upon the madhab of Ahlu Sunnah Wa'l Jama'ah and accept it clearly, because this is the religion of The Lord of the worlds. This isn't the religion of this one or that one.

And if this [the Understanding of Ahlu Sunnah] isn't delivered to the people, then the bad outcome will appear for the Muslim community. And what are this [that will come]. That which he is saying, people will think it's true, and what other are saying isn't true, and likewise.

After that the truth will be lost between these two astray and deviant groups. Khawarij went in extremism with regard to takfeer, and the Murji'a went in extremism with regard to Irjaa. Those [Khawarij] make takfeer because of sins, and these [Murji'ah] don't make takfeer upon Nullifies of Islam. Maybe some of them [Murji'ah] are trying to find excuses for the heads of Kufr, so the way of truth have been lost between them [Khawarij and Murji'ah].

And the fundamentals of Ahlu Sunnah is an obligation to accept clear, so the truth won't mix with falsehood.

Question:

The Shirk of legislation.. What types of them are there in our time?

Answer:

It's those type we are witnessing today. The reality is the “form” which you ask about! Making Haram Halal, the law allows the expression of any other religion..

Question:

Ok! What about working with these systems that makes Halal the least bit of Haram?

Answer:

It is confirmed that they make Halal what is Haram, do you want to be their partner in sin, as Allah says: “[The angels will be ordered], “Gather those who committed wrong, their kinds...” [Surah As-Saffat 22]

It have been said by Umar and others [in the commentary of this verse]: “Their partners and likes.”

Then the Almighty said: “And when the souls are paired.” [Surat At-Takwīr 7],

And the Hadith: “The man will be resurrected with his friend.”

#I_Asked_My_Father - Regarding looking at one's fiancée, and what's permissible to be looked at??

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: The scholars do not differ regarding the permissibility of looking at one's fiancée, so he can look at whatever meets the need for attraction without being alone with the woman, and there's no disagreement that he can look at the face, but what's beyond that is differed upon, and what's correct is that he can look at what encourages him to marry her, of the face, hands, body and what a woman normally wears in her home in the presence of Women & Mahrams.

#Allāhu_Akbar!! Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said:

"Likewise, why do the Kuffār go to war & fight the Muslims, isn't it to substitute Shirk in place of Tawhīd? And to substitute Kufr in place of Ēmān? And to substitute man made laws in place of the Shari'ah from Allāh? This is what they do without a doubt. And the one who assists them, regardless of whether he intended these objectives [of the Kuffār] or not, he has fulfilled their needs, and whoever fulfils the needs of the Mushrikeen by Shirk for their Shirk [to prevail], and has fulfilled the demands of the Imāms of Kufr for their Kufr [to prevail], and assisted the people of Kufr to succeed in substituting man-made laws in the place of the Shari'ah from Allāh, then the one who does this is from the greatest of Mushrikeen, and from the greatest Imāms of Kufr.

If you see that a man is from the people of Shirk, he comes with idols and places them in the land of the Muslims for it to be worshipped besides Allāh, but then he isn't able to do that because he has no soldiers, troops or followers. So whoever employs [i.e. Permits] a group of people to place these idols in the lands of the Muslims to be worshipped besides Allāh, and they know the intent of this man...but rather they desire the world and its rubble, would we consider them as Muslims, while [they allow] these people to bring idols to the lands of the Muslims for it to be worshipped besides Allāh(جل وعلا). And what is the difference between them & those who support the Imāms of Kufr against the Muslims, while they know that the Kuffār want to substitute Shirk in place of Tawhīd, and to substitute Kufr in place of Ēmān, and to substitute man-made laws in place of the Shari'ah from Allāh"

#Weak_Hadīth "Whoever you catch committing the act of the people of Lut (homosexuality), then kill both parties to the act."

The Hadīth revolves around the chain of: 'Amr ibn Abī 'Amr > 'Ikrimah > 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās.

It has two defects:

1. 'Amr ibn Abī 'Amr erred in this Hadīth & it was denounced from him by:
  - Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله)
  - Imām Al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله)
  - Including Several others from the Hufādh.
2. What has been narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) is in opposition to what 'Amr ibn Abī 'Amr has narrated in his Hadīth, so this is proof that 'Amr didn't get the Hadīth right & precise.

This is taken from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) & he says there's nothing authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding this. And that's what made Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) go along the opinion of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما).

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said the opinion that's well known among the Early Imāms & Later Imāms is that he's thrown from the tallest building of the city, however none of this is authentic from the Sahābah, because they are narrated with weak chains.

And because there's no proof for that from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) or the Sahābah رضي الله عنهم regarding killing homosexuals in all cases, a group of Imāms from the Salaf & Khalaf adopted the view that the homosexual is punished like the Zānī:

- This is the Madhab of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās رضي الله عنه
- It's also the Madhab of Imām al-Shāfi'ī رضي الله عنه
- It's also the opinion held by several Imāms of the Hanābilah.

Side Note: There's no authentic Hadīth from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding entering a woman from behind, however it's proven from 5 Sahābah that it's prohibited, and the authentic narrations from them mention "Does anyone do that except for a Kāfir" etc...But that's another topic, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

#Fabricated_Hadīth "Ribā has 70 odd branches, the lowest is equivalent to a man committing adultery with his Mother"

A group among the later scholars have gone towards the authenticity of this report, and what's correct is that its first part is authentic "Ribā has 70 odd branches", but as for "And the lowest is equivalent to a man committing adultery with his Mother", then this is a #Lie upon the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and goes against the General and Specific Principles [of the Shari'ah], and contradicts the Authentic Hadīths, and is Clear & distant from the intellect, and some of the reasons for this:

1. That Zinā is greater in Harām than Ribā in both its types: Debt and Remnants.
2. That committing adultery with Mahrams is from the biggest of Harām, and from the greatest of sins, and a group among the Scholars have gone to say that whoever commits adultery with a Mahram of his is to be struck with the sword, even if he was not Married, and that is because of the severe matter of Zinā, but the Majority of the Scholars went to say that he's lashed like others, and it's completely fine to whip him[Ta'zīr].

And thereupon, how can you make the Ribā dealings, and the lowest level of Ribā greater in prohibition in the sight of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) than a man who commits adultery with a Mahram of his?!! Rather, he committed adultery with his Mother, wal-'Iyāthū Billāh?!!.

3. That the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said in the Hadīth "The most prevalent kind of Ribā is going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour." So the outward meaning of this Narration is that the most severe Ribā in the sight of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) is going into length in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour, and what kind of elongation is more severe than having a slave[of Allāh] commit Zinā with his Mother, this is the greatest type of elongation[going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour]

So it's understood that the last Hadīth contradicts the first [Hadīth], because if he said "And the lowest is a man committing adultery with his Mother, & The most prevalent kind of Ribā is going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour.", it is as if this report doesn't consider committing adultery from going into lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour, and sufficient is the gruesomeness and atrociousness of that.

And this matter is picked up by the intellect, and is understood by the text, and no one can stubbornly contend with it, and that's why Imām Abū Hātim(رحمه الله), Ibn al-Jawzī(رحمه الله) and a group of Scholars have judged upon this report as being Fabricated and a Lie, and the statements of whoever authenticated it isn't taken into account at all.

And this reaffirms the meaning which we stress on always returning back to the words of the Imāms of the Salaf, and not being confined to authenticating reports based upon the outwardness of the chains, or simply relying upon the statements of the Later Scholars.

~ Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله)

Note: I'm translating بضع وسبعون as "70 odd", but there's a difference of opinion regarding what "بضع" is, however if you refer back to Fath al-Bārī by Ibn Rajab(رحمه الله) on his explanation of Saḥīḥ al-Bukhārī, chapter of Ēmān, he has mentioned several opinions, and what seems to be most correct according to most scholars is that "بضع" is any number between 3-9.

#More_Info Shaykh al-Muhaddīth Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said:

The Hadīth "Ribā is 70 levels...the lowest of that is a man committing adultery with his mother" this report is Fabricated, it has no basis from the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

Al-Hākim(رحمه الله) has narrated it in al-Mustadrak and authenticated it, however this is a mistake from him, this report is fabricated. It's proven from ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) that he said "Ribā is 70 odd branches, and shirk is similar to that".

This chain is authentic to ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه), al-Bazzār(رحمه الله) and others narrated it.

This is an evidence regarding the severe matter of Ribā and Shirk. And 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) says 70 levels, most of the creation do not know except 1 or 2 or 3 or 10 levels, the rest of it is ignored.

This is an evidence regarding its severe importance, and a person must be mindful regarding the matters of Riyā', matters that deal with displaying yourself to the creation, matters that deal with speech, whenever such an individual commits Shirk and he's unaware.

And everything that has a means towards reaching Major Shirk, then it's from the Minor Shirk, or it has a mentioning of other than Allāh(جل وعلا) with Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), like an oath to other than Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), taking an oath of trust, swearing by your father, swearing by your mother, and like saying "If Allāh wills and you will", this is all from the Minor Shirk.

#Defected_Hadīth "May Allāh(جل وعلا) have mercy upon the one who prays 4 Rak'ahs before 'Asr" This Hadīth comes from the narration of Muḥammād ibn Maymūn ibn Mahrawān from his grandfather from ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), and this report is defected, it has Tafarrūd, and Imām ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) has mentioned in al-'Ilal from Abī Dāwūd al-Tiyālisī(رحمه الله) that he said "Stay away from this". This was mentioned by Imām Abū Zur'at al-Rāzī(رحمه الله) and others from the Hufādh.

HOWEVER, there's a #Strong_Hadīth which is narrated in al-Tirmidhī, Abū Dāwūd & a group from the narration of Abī Ishāq al-Sabī'ī from 'Āsim ibn Damrah from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) that he said: "The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) used to pray 4 [Rak'ahs] before 'Asr" This Hadīth is #Good, and 'Āsim ibn Damrah as Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) said in his Jāmi', he is Trustworthy among the Scholars of Hadīth and he has heard from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه), so this Hadīth is Good. Therefore praying 4 [Rak'ahs before 'Asr] is Authentic from the actions of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), not from his sayings.

Are the 4 Imāms considered the Majority of the Scholars? And what's the ruling on Abandoning Salāh?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) said: For instance, the issue of abandoning Salāh. They say that the Madhab of the Majority of the Scholars is that the abandoner of Salāh doesn't disbelieve. Based upon that this is the saying of Abū Hanīfah (رحمه الله), Mālik (رحمه الله) and Al-Shāfi'ī (رحمه الله).

And this is correct, this is the Madhab of these [Imāms], and there's more than 1 statement from Mālik (رحمه الله) in the issue. However, are they considered the Majority of the Scholars? We mention the Ijmā' of the Sahābah that the abandoner of Salāh is an apostate, so how did it become the Madhab of the Majority [That he's not a Kāfir]? Therefore, they aren't considered the Majority of the Scholars.

Imām 'Abdullāh ibn Shaqīq al-'Uqaylī (رحمه الله), Imām Ayyūb Ibn Abī Tamīmah al-Sikhtiyānī (رحمه الله), Imām Ishāq Ibn Rāhawayh (رحمه الله) and Imām Muḥammād ibn Nasr al-Marwazī (رحمه الله), they are Imāms of Guidance, and from the Major Scholars of the Muslims, these Imāms mention the consensus of the Sahābah that whoever abandons Salāh is a Kāfir.

So how can it be said after this that the Madhab of the Majority of the Scholars is that the abandoner of Salāh isn't a Kāfir, basing that upon a saying that he read from Abū Hanīfah (رحمه الله), Mālik (رحمه الله) & Al-Shāfi'ī (رحمه الله)? This is among the mistakes in determining the Madhsb of the Jumhūr [Majority of the Scholars].

The Madhab of the Majority of the Scholars isn't known by the sayings of the 4 Imāms alone. Rather it is said that this is the Madhab of Ahmad, this is the Madhab of Al-Shāfi'ī, this is the Madhab of Mālik, this is the saying of the 4 Imāms, that's completely fine.

however, it's not correct to say "This is the Madhab of the Majority of the Scholars", because these [Imāms] are simply 4 among the rest of the Muslim Scholars. They are 4 in opposition to 4 from the 7 Jurists, so there is 3 remaining among the 7 Jurists, then you have the Madhab of the Tābi'īn & the Madhab of the Sahābah until you can say that this is the Madhab of the Majority of the Scholars.

The Shaykh al-Muḥaddith Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) said in his explanation on the book of Ēmān from Saḥīḥ al-Bukhārī:

The scholars may Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon them differed over which is greater, the last 10 days from Ramadān or the first 10 days of Dhil Hijjāh. So a group of scholars from the Fuqahā' said: "That the last 10 days of Ramadān is greater", and a group of scholars said: "Verily, the first 10 days of Dhil Hijjāh is greater", and a group of scholars explained it in further detail by saying: "Verily the 10 'nights' of Ramadān are greater than the 10 nights of Dhil Hijjāh, and the [10] 'days' of Dhil Hijjāh are greater than the [10] days of Ramadān" and this is the chosen view of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله). And this view is questionable, because the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said and the ḥadīth is in Bukhārī from the ḥadīth of ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنهما): "[And there are no days...(greater than the first 10 of dhil hijjah)]" And it's generalised as "al-Yawm" which includes the night and the day, and what's more correct of being said is: "Verily the first 10 of Dhil Hijjāh is greater than the last 10 from Ramadān" and there's no difference between the night & the day, and Laylat ul-Qadr [the night of Power] whenever it occurs is greater than the 10 [Days & Nights!] of Dhil Hijjāh, therefore this night on its own is greater than the 10 [days & nights] of Dhil Hijjāh & as for the rest of the nights, then they are not(greater).

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān was asked: If the abandoner of Salāh repented, does he have to catch up on what he previously missed from the prayers?

The Shaykh answered: If he repented, he should ask Allāh for forgiveness, and increase in his obedience and seeking of forgiveness, and to draw himself closer to Allāh(جل وعلا) what he is able too, so this can be an expiation of what has passed, and there's no need for him to repeat what was missed from the prayers, and if he made Hajj, there's no need to repeat his Hajj, or to repeat his fasts, or other than that, but rather if he repents for example in the time of dhuhr, he would pray Salāt al-Dhuhr, and if he repented after 'Asr, he would pray Dhuhr and 'Asr, according to the view of the majority, if he repented after 'ishā', he would pray Maghrib and 'ishā', according to the view of the majority, and does he renew his marriage contract? What's correct: That he doesn't renew the marriage contract, because there is no proof of this.

:was asked about the ruling on urinating while standing (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān

The Shaykh replied by saying: The most correct opinion in this matter is the permissibility of .urinating while standing without it being disliked went to the dumps of some people, (صلى الله عليه وسلم)said "The Prophet (رضي الله عنه)Huthayfa so he urinated standing, then he asked for water, so I brought water to him & he made wudū" hadīth #224, from the chain of Shu'bah from al-A'mash from Abī (رحمه الله)narrated by al-Bukhārī narrated it [Hadīth #273] from the (رحمه الله)and Imām Muslim (رضي الله عنه)Wā'il from Huthayfa wrote a sub-heading for it "The (رحمه الله)chain of Abī Khaythama from al-A'mash, and al-Bukhārī "chapter of urinating while standing & sitting

And this is the practise of the early arabs, they would urinate standing & al-Islām has accepted urinated while standing to show that it's permissible, and (صلى الله عليه وسلم)that, as the Prophet and 'Urwa ibn al- (رحمه الله)this is what a group from his Sahābah adopted, and ibn Sīreen .from the Tābi'een (رحمه الله)Zubayr

(رضي الله عنه)Some of the scholars have abstained from acting upon the hadīth of Huthayfa .because it's abrogated, and this is wrong

And a group of scholars have said, rather he urinated standing because of an injury in the back of .his thigh(enclosed space between the knee) & there's a hadīth regarding this, but it's not authentic

And another group of scholars have said, rather he urinated standing because he couldn't find a .place to sit

(صلى الله عليه وسلم)has said "Whoever informs you that the Prophet (رضي الله عنها)And Ā'isha would urinate standing, do not believe him, he would not urinate except sitting" This was narrated Hadīth #12] from the chain of Sharīk from al-Miqdām ibn Shurayh from] ... (رحمه الله)by al-Tirmidhī and it contains Sharīk who is weak in memory, Sufyān has (رضي الله عنها)his father from Ā'isha (رحمه الله)also narrated this hadīth(same meaning & wording) which has been narrated by Ahmad [and others.[So this hadīth gets raised as Hassan because of this follow up

(رضي الله عنها)And there's no proof in the report to say it's disliked to urinate standing, indeed Ā'isha is reporting from her knowledge(that the prophet would only urinate sitting), while others have .memorised what is hidden from her saw me while I was (صلى الله عليه وسلم)said "The Prophet (رضي الله عنه)And 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb urinating standing, so he said 'Ya Omar, do not urinate standing', so I did not urinate standing after this" and this is agreed upon regarding its weakness, and there's no hadīth Marfū'(from the Prophet) .to be used as proof to prohibit urinating while standing has done so, and a (صلى الله عليه وسلم)What's correct, is that it's permissible, as the Prophet group from among the Sahābah have done so, however urinating while sitting is better because it's knows (جل وعلا)in his urinating and Allāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم)what is mostly done from the Prophet .best

#Weak_Hadīth "Indeed there is a Sūrah in the Qur'ān of thirty Āyāt, which intercedes for a man until he is forgiven. It is [Sūrah] Tabarak Alladhi Biyadihil-Mulk."

Shaykh al-Muhaddīth Sulaymān ibn Nāwir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said:

The Hadīth of 'Abbās al-Jushamī from Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه) "Thirty verses which intercede's for a man until it makes him enter Jannāh". This has a #Hidden_Defect which many people do not know about, and that is because Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) views that 'Abbās al-Jushamī didn't hear from Abū Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه), so this is from the Hidden Defects which is said about a Hadīth that it is Ma'lūl [Defected].

was asked about a woman who broke wind during Tawāf, so (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān :the Shaykh responded by saying

The Tawāf of the woman is correct and there's nothing upon her [i.e. no blame & expiation], and the minor impurity does not prevent one from making Tawāf around the House [al-Ka'bah], and it's not that he prohibited Tawāf[for someone without wudū], (صلى الله عليه وسلم) proven from the Prophet .and delaying the message from its prescribed/necessary time is not allowed

And the famous Hadīth "Tawāf in the house[al-Ka'bah] is [like] Salāh, except that you can talk in it" .(صلى الله عليه وسلم)is not authentic to be attributed/raised to the Prophet said in his Jāmi' [Sunan al-Tirmidhī] after the [above mentioned] (رحمه الله) Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhī narrated hadīth [#970] "This hadīth has been narrated by ibn Tāwūs & others from Tāwūs from his father from ibn 'Abbās [Mawqūfan]", and this is what's memorized, and 'Abdūl Razzāq has narrated in the Mussanāf [#9789] from Ma'mar from ibn Tāwūs from his father from ibn 'Abbās [Mawqūfan], and he narrated it [#9790] from ibn Jurayj who said I was informed by Ibrāhīm ibn Maysarāh from .Tāwūs from ibn 'Abbās

And 'Attā' ibn al-Sā'ib raised/attributed it[the hadīth] to the Prophet from [the chain of] Tāwūs, this is present in Jāmi' al-Tirmidhī and al-Muntaqāh by ibn al-Jārūd and Sahīh ibn Khuzaymah & ibn and what's correct is .(صلى الله عليه وسلم) Hibbān and there is dispute in raising it to the Prophet from Tāwūs from ibn 'Abbās [Stopped at ibn 'Abbās i.e. Mawqūfan] and 'Abdullāh ibn Tāwūs from his father is more authentic than 'Attā', so his narration would be given preference over the narration .of 'Attā

And Shu'bah ibn al-Hajjāj has said "I asked Hamād and Mansūr and Sulaymān about a man who performs Tawāf around the House[Ka'bah] while he's not upon Tahārah[Wudū], so they did not see anything wrong with that" Narrated by ibn Abī Shaybāh in the Musannāf [3/295] and that's what .[chose [Al-Fatāwah 26/199 (رحمه الله) Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh that the (رضي الله عنها) And it has been mentioned in the Sahīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] from 'Ā'ishā performed wudū' for Tawāf. So this is a proof regarding the Sunnāh of (صلى الله عليه وسلم) Prophet .performing wudū' [for Tawāf], and there's no difference [of opinion] regarding that

And the dispute is only regarding its obligation, and I do not find any evidence for that except in the (صلى الله عليه وسلم) Major impurity, as it has been mentioned in the Sahīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] that the Prophet said to 'Ā'ishā "Do what the pilgrims do, except that you don't perform Tawāf around (الله عليه وسلم) "the house[al-Ka'bah] until you are purified was asked about the ruling regarding scratching the head for (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān ?[the Muhrīm [i.e. The person in the state of Ihrām

The Shaykh responded by saying: There's nothing wrong with that, even if some hairs fall off, Imām has narrated in the Muwattā' [2/290 - Sharh al-Zarqānī] with an authentic chain from (رحمه الله) Mālik (صلى الله عليه وسلم) 'Iqimāh ibn Abī 'Iqimāh from his mother that she said "I heard 'Ā'isha, the wife of the Prophet get asked whether a Muhrīm can scratch the body, so she said 'Yes, he can scratch (الله عليه وسلم) it & do so harshly, even if my hands are tied up & I do not find anything except my feet, I would "...scratch that he bathed while he is a Muhrīm[in the (صلى الله عليه وسلم) And it's proven from the Prophet state of Ihrām], and the hadīth is in the Sahīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] from the hadīth of Abū Ayyūb al-Ansārī. And bathing habitat's hairs to fall off, and there has been no statement mentioned .prohibiting that

Infact, it's mentioned in the Sahīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] from the chain of 'Attā' from Tāwūs from .did cupping while he is Muhrīm (صلى الله عليه وسلم) ibn 'Abbās that the Prophet

And a group of scholars have permitted cupping for the Muhrīm, even if that results in cutting some .of the hairs

And others have said, he must pay the Fidyāh, to feed 6 poor people or slaughter a sheep or fast 3 days, and this Fidyāh is upon choice[meaning a person must pay the Fidyāh, but he can choose (صلى الله عليه وسلم) which one to pay]. But what's correct is that there's nothing upon him, because the Prophet did not mention in that any Fidyāh and delaying the message from its (الله عليه وسلم) .prescribed/necessary time is not permissible

However, if the Muhrīm shaves all of his head for an excuse or other than that, then it's compulsory upon him to slaughter a sheep or fast 3 days or feed 6 poor people, for every poor person receives .and this is from the agreed upon matters between the scholars [نصف صاع] half of 2.5-3KG's said "And whoever among you is ill or has an ailment of the head [making (سبحانه وتعالى) Allāh ".shaving necessary must offer] a ransom[Fidyāh] of fasting [three days] or charity or sacrifice that he (صلى الله عليه وسلم) from the Prophet (رضي الله عنه) And [it's narrated] from Ka'b ibn 'Ujrah said "Perhaps your lice have annoyed you? He said yes O messenger of Allāh, so the messenger said 'Shave your head and fast 3 days or feed 6 poor people or (صلى الله اليه وسلم) of Allāh slaughter a sheep'.." Narrated by al-Bukhārī [refer to al-Fath 4/12] & Narrated by Muslim [Refer to .knows best (جل وعلا) Sharh al-Nawawī 8/118] and Allāh

Side Note [not from the Shaykh]: The reason why people scratch in Hajj is because of the hot weather & also possibly because of the presence of some insects which could make you itchy, والله اعلم which is why you see some people scratching really hard

Is the marriage contract valid if a woman was on her menses?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) responded by saying: By principle, that is considered permissible, and the prohibition isn't present from the Qur'ān, Sunnāh, Ijmā', saying of a Sahābī or valid Qiyās (analogy). And I do not know anyone from the scholars who prohibited or disliked that. Besides that some of the Fuqahā' disliked a woman to arouse her husband during menses, so that he doesn't fall into sin from doing anything further. [Note: You can do everything together, except Jimā]

And some of the layman can mix up the ruling of this issue with the ruling of divorce during menses, however there isn't any correlation between the two matters.

So the marriage contract while she's menstruating is permissible by the agreement of the scholars, and divorcing her during her menses is harām by the agreement of the scholars.

And there are 2 sayings whether the divorce takes place or not (during her menses):

That it occurs with it being harām and this is the saying of the 4 Imāms and the majority of the scholars.

That it doesn't occur, which is the madhab of the Dhāhiriyyāh which was supported by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) and ibn al-Qayyim (رحمه الله). And every side from the 2 groups have mentioned their evidences with textual proof and reasoning, and after researching the evidences of both sides, and searching for the core evidences, and pondering over the Madhāhib (opinions) of the contemporary & classical scholars, and reading lengthy & summarised books regarding that, I saw strength (stronger proofs) in the second Madhab (opinion), and that it has better proofs which correlates with the fundamentals of the sharee'ah.

And I have concluded that the Hadīths which are narrated to the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) don't have anything from it which is clear regarding the issue, even though what's apparent from it (the hadīths) in my view shows that it doesn't count as a divorce.

And the Mawqūf reports to ibn 'Omar (رضي الله عنهما) are contradictory and most of it isn't authentic, with the chances that it's referring to the latter view [the hadīths show that divorce doesn't occur], and Allāh (جل وعلا) knows best.

Can a woman travel without a Mahrām? Very detailed response by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) - So after mentioning the hadīths where the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) told a man [preparing for a Ghazwā] to go perform Hajj with his wife & the hadīths that mention "A woman cannot travel except with a Mahrām", the Shaykh mentions:

And from this, the majority of the scholars have stated that it's not permissible for a woman to make Hajj except with a Mahram, regardless if her Hajj was compulsory or optional, and regardless if the woman was young or old, and regardless if the travelling distance was long or short. And some of the scholars are of the view that a woman can make Hajj with a group of trustworthy women, infact Imām Mālik (رحمه الله) & al-Shāfi'ee (رحمه الله) said she is compelled to go to Hajj with a group of women, i.e. in the compulsory Hajj, and from al-Shāfi'ee (رحمه الله) is a second saying in the issue "that the woman goes out (for Hajj) even if she was with one woman that's trustworthy", and another group of scholars said "A woman can travel alone if the road was safe" and this is what ibn Muflīh (رحمه الله) mentions from Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله), but what is present in the Fatāwāh (of ibn Taymiyyāh) is that the woman doesn't travel to Hajj, except with friends or Mahrams, so what's clear from this is that Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) permits a woman to travel without a Mahram if she was with trustworthy friends i.e. trustworthy women, and the proof of this saying is what is mentioned in Sahīh al-Bukhārī Mu'allāqā that 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb (رضي الله عنه) in the final Hajj he made, gave permission to the wives of the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) to perform Hajj, so he sent with them 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān (رضي الله عنه) and 'Abdūl al-Rahmān ibn 'Āwḥ (رضي الله عنه), so they (the scholars of this view) said "this is a consensus of the Sahābah of the permissibility of a woman travelling without a Mahram if she was with trustworthy women and the road was safe".

And we could respond against this by saying that the wording of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) is explicit in this issue "A woman does not travel except with a Mahrâm" and this hadith is Agreed upon [in it's authenticity], and he made his saying a general one, and numerous narrations have been mentioned regarding travelling, so a narration came from Abū Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه) in Sahih Muslim "It's not permissible for a woman who believes in Allāh & the last day to go travelling for 3 days or more" and it's mentioned in Sahih Muslim from the Hadith of Abū Hurayrah "one night" and it's also mentioned in the Sahihayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] from the Hadith of Abū Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه) "A journey of one day & one night" and in Sahih al-Bukhārī from the hadith of Abī Sa'eed(رضي الله عنه) "A journey of two days" so when these narrations have differences that indicate a specific time, it's compulsory to take the unrestricted meaning [hadiths which mention no time period for the Journey - So it's harām to go travelling without a Mahram fullstop], particularly the hadith of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) which isn't differed upon(in wordings from him).

In addition to this, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) stated this in Hajj or in the end of his life, and it's possible that he said it in the 9th year AH in which Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه), 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) and a group of Sahābah made Hajj in, so taking the unrestricted narrations which are explicit in the topic is given preference to taking the restricted narrations [that mention 1,2,3 days etc...] that aren't explicit. Also, even if we take the restricted evidences for argument sake, no doubt Hajj takes more than 3 days, indeed Hajj exceeds more than 3 days, and it's not possible to finish Hajj in less than 3 days, so how can a woman travel this distance which would exceed 5,6 or 7 days and all the narrations do not mention anything above 3 days, rather it mentions three[days], two[days], one day & night, a journey of one day & a journey of one night.

Also the reply to the actions of the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) is that this was an Ijtihād(educated guess) from them, and it could also be said that most of the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) had Mahrams, Hafṣā(رضي الله عنها) in particular & others, except that this might be opposed/rejected for Safiyyā(رضي الله عنها), so it could be said that the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) are unlawful to be married, so it's not possible that anyone would have temptations/desires for them, and neither would they tempt the men, so it's as if their situation is less than others, especially since they made Hajj with 'Abdūl Rahmān ibn 'Āwḥ(رضي الله عنه) and with 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān(رضي الله عنه) and with the Major companions, and they would look after them more than they would look after their own daughters.

In addition to this is that the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) are the mothers of the believers, so these things(going to Hajj without a Mahrām) could be justifiable for their actions, unlike other than them with the amount of corrupted ones, and perversion in the society, and Fitān(temptations), and being subjected to aggressors/attackers, and this is in particular with the presence of an explicit text "A woman cannot travel except with a Mahrām", however what must be payed attention to, is that whoever permitted a woman to travel with trustworthy women in Hajj & 'Umrāh, do not permit this in every situation, and isn't permitted in every travel. What has been permitted from these Scholars is restricted to certain circumstances:

1. A kāfirah(disbeliever) that reverts to Islām in dār al-Harb, it's permissible for her to travel alone to the land of the muslims.
2. A prisoner which is free from the Kuffār, it's permissible for her to travel alone.
3. If the woman & her friend separate from each other, she can befriend other than her if she was trustworthy/secure, or else she can travel on her own [Till she reaches her destination].

And it could also be said that the travelling of a woman without a Mahrām has situations:

1. That she travels on her own without the road being safe, then this travelling is harām by consensus, regardless if the travelling was for Hajj or 'Umrāh or for other than that.
2. That she travels on her own & she is secure/safe on the road, then this is harām according to the Jumhūr [The majority of the Scholars]
3. That she travels alone with a group of trustworthy women, and this has been permitted by a group of scholars in Hajj and 'Umrāh, and as we have previously stated, it has been mentioned in Bukhārī Mu'allāqa from the chain of Ibrāhīm from his father from his grandfather who said "Omar ibn al-Khattāb(رضي الله عنه) in the final Hajj he made, gave permission to the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) to perform Hajj, so he sent with them 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān(رضي الله عنه) and 'Abdūl al-Rahmān ibn 'Āwḥ(رضي الله عنه)"
4. And a group of scholars have permitted a woman to travel in all cases if she was with a group of trustworthy women.
5. And another group of scholars have completed forbidden a woman to travel in all cases, except in what the scholars have agreed upon in the 3 situations mentioned above[if she reverted etc...], and this is the Madhab of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), and is more suitable/correlates with the apparent/clear text "A woman cannot travel except with a Mahrām". HOWEVER, if it occurs that the woman travels without a Mahrām, her Hajj is complete/accepted in Islām.

Note: The definition of "travelling" goes back to the 'Urf(customs) of the time - It's not permissible to use the hadiths "Travel for 3 days without Mahram" in today's sense where a person can basically travel the whole world in that specified time period. Rather, whatever is considered "Travelling in our times" even if it was 1 hour on a plane etc... is considered harām if it was without a Mahram والله اعلم

What is the meaning of the Hadīth "The Dunyā is a prison for the believer, and a Jannāh for the Kāfir"

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) narrates a Story that's spoken about of al-Hāfidh Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) regarding this Hadīth:

...Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) & his companions were walking on a road, when a man who sells olives from the people of the book approached him & said: You're the one who's called Shaykh al-Islām. Your Prophet says "The Dunyā is a prison for the believer, and a Jannāh for the Kāfir", so what Jannāh are we in right now, and what prison are you in? So Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) said to him: You are in a Jannāh for what Allāh has reckoned for you of punishment in the hereafter if you die upon Kufr, and I'm in a prison for what Allāh has reckoned for us of comfort/bliss when we die upon Islām.

So the Kuffār today are considered to be in Jannāh, for what Allāh has reckoned for them with punishment [in the hereafter]...

Shaykh Sulaymān Al 'Alwān was asked, "Applying the hudūd in the ard (land) of harb (war), is it narrated from the Prophet sall Allāhu 'alayhi wa sallam? What is the hukm?

The Shaykh(حفظه الله) responded by saying: Firstly, there is no difference among the scholars, may Allah(جلا وعلا) have mercy upon them on the obligation of establishing the hudūd(punishments), and that it is not permissible to deny and leave it off completely, and everything that goes against this fundamental rule returns back to this fundamental rule and the differed upon returns back to the agreed upon to remove the confusion/doubts.

Secondly, the Imam Abu 'Eesa al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) researched this matter in his book al-Jāmi' (kitāb al-hudūd) and he mentioned from some of the scholars that the hudūd(punishments) aren't apply in the Battle, and this was said by a group among the scholars, and it's understood from some of the later scholars from this that the punishment is removed in its entirety, and that whoever steals from the land of war or fornicates, then the punishment is removed from him and this is wrong, and what was intended by whoever said that the punishment isn't applied, means that it is delayed so that it doesn't cause the muslim(usually the new muslim) to join the land of the enemy, so he changes his religion from Islām to Kufr(disbelief), and with respect to this cause of harm, it would be appointed [chosen by the Imām] to delay the punishment and this is what is meant by the statement of who said: "that the punishments aren't applied in the land of war".

And as for the statement that the punishment falls (is removed) completely, then this is wrong and it's not permissible to say this!!! And with that (being said), establishing the punishments in the land of war is differed upon, and that is upon two sayings:

The first saying: A group of scholars went to say that the punishments are to be applied whatsoever, and there's no difference between the land of war or other than that, or the land of battle or other than that.

And the second saying: What is to be put forward is weighing between the benefit and repelling the evil [The Maslahah], and because there is nothing in the Sharī'ah which prevents us from delaying the punishment, and the evidence has been reported on the impermissibility of leaving off the punishment and nothing has been reported about the impermissibility of delaying the punishments, there's a difference between the two matters, so consequently, if the leader of the army or the leader of the battalion see's a benefit in delaying the punishment then he delays it, and if he sees a benefit in hastening the punishment then he hastens it, and the scholars that are present have the ability to determine the benefit and what repels the harm, so whenever it would cause fear for this muslim and that he will soon hear that he will get his hand cut off or get stoned, he will [choose to] join the land of the enemy, so then the punishment is delayed, until the muslims return to their safety, and whenever this harm has been expelled, then the punishment would be applied on him in the land of the battle."

Is it permissible for a Father to force his son into marriage with a girl he doesn't desire?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān responded by saying: It's not allowed for either parent to compel their son into marriage with someone they don't want or love because the result of this marriage might end in a divorce or a miserable life for both of them. And it's not compulsory upon the son to obey them in this and it wouldn't be considered disobedience in doing so. However, it's necessary upon the son to be gentle in his rejection and to not raise his voice upon his parents or let them hear any bad words.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān was asked: Is it permissible to make takfeer upon the abandoner of Salāh individually?

He answered: If it's proven that he's not ignorant, and I believe that the abandoner of Salāh is a Kāfir, and you showed him the ruling and he refused to abandon it, then there's no prevention from calling him a Kāfir if it's proven to the person with absolute proof, and the people of knowledge differentiate between ruling upon the individual and between ruling upon in general, so Ahl al Sunnāh rule upon generally and do not rule upon the individual, until the conditions have been met and the preventions(of takfeer) have been removed, so if the conditions have been met in this issue and the preventions(of takfeer) have been removed, and the person views that the abandoner of Salāh is a Kāfir, then there's no prevention from ruling upon this man that he's a Kāfir, knowing that he doesn't pray and views the abandoner of Salāh as a Kāfir"

If a traveller catches a Rak'ah behind a Resider, should he pray the Salāh of a traveller[i.e. Shorten it] or the Salāh of a resider[i.e. complete it]?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: If a person catches a Rak'ah with the Mutim[a person praying a complete Salāh], this is more general than [saying] Muqīm[a Resider], regardless if he was a Resider or not, however he completed[his Salāh], because sometimes a Traveller can perform ta'wīl[an interpretation], so he prays completely[without shortening], so upon this we say if the Traveller catches a Rak'ah or more[rak'ahs] behind a Mutim, we do not condition this to praying behind a Traveller, as what ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) did, ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) was a Traveller and would pray behind 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه), and 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه) was a Traveller, however he performed ta'wīl[interpretation] that he's a Muqīm[Resider], so 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه) completed the full Salah & ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) completed the Salāh behind him & he wouldn't shorten it, so in this situation, it's compulsory upon you to complete your Salāh and this is the saying of the Majority of the Scholars, from among the Sahābah such as ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه), ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), and from the among the Tābi'een and from the Imāms that are followed after them, and this is what's correct in this issue.

However, if he[the traveller] enters/catches the Salāh outside the Rak'ah, such as the one who enters in the final Tashahhūd, so what's correct in this situation is that he prays the Salāh of a traveller, not the Salāh of a resider, because he did not follow any part of the Salāh, and the Salāh is known by catching a Rak'ah, because of the saying of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) "Whoever catches a rak'ah of Salāh, then he has caught the Salāh" and the proof for this is also, "an opposing evidence" [daleel 'aks] as it's known by the Usūliyeen[Scholars of Usūl al-Fiqh], and it's the issue of Salāh al-Jum'ah.

If he joins in where the Imām is in the final Tashahhūd of the Salāh, how would he pray? He would pray 4[Rak'ahs for Jum'ah], and if he prays a Rak'ah[with the Imām], he prays 2 Rak'ahs[for Jum'ah], so that has proved that [the Salāh] is known by Rukū', and this is a proof against Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله) when he said that if he joins in the final Tashahhūd with the Imām, that he prays the same as him, and he'll be on the level of following the Salāh, and when he was given the evidences regarding Jum'ah, he contradicted himself and didn't say anything regarding Jum'ah, and he said it for the other Salāh[other than Jum'ah], so this is a proof against him in this issue. So what's correct in this issue is that if the Traveller prays a Rak'ah with the Mutim[the one who completes Salāh], he prays the Salāh of a Mutim, and if he joins in besides the Rak'ah[like in the final Tashahhūd], then he prays the Salāh of a Traveller.

Note: Daleel 'Aks according to the scholars of Usūl al-Fiqh means that if the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said the optional prayers in the night are by two's[i.e. Two rak'ahs], therefore we understand from this that the optional prayers of the day are by 4's, so you pray 4 rak'ah before Dhuhr & 'Asr. Btw there's also some difference of opinion regarding praying 4 Rak'ahs with 1 Salām, but the correct opinion is that it's correct & perfectly fine.

What is intended by Najd in the Hadīths, is it Najd al-Yamāmah or Najd al-'Irāq by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

The questioner says that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "O Allāh, bless us in our Shām and in our Yemen", the famous hadīth and when they said "In our Najd", the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Over there(Najd) is Earthquakes and Fitan", the questioner says, many people avert the wording from its apparent meaning, they say Najd al-'Irāq, and then he takes out Najd al-Yamāmah from the Hadīth, he(the questioner) asks, what is the correct understanding for that, because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) meant this Najd(as if the questioner is saying it's Najd al-'Iraq).

The Shaykh replied by saying, the understood wording that was reported is a narration from Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) that Najd al-'Irāq is intended, and this is a narration in [the Musnad] of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), however it's شاذة [not authentic], and nevertheless there's a well known difference between the Scholars, the Scholars did not agree upon an opinion, and there are 3 sayings for the 'Ulemā'(رحمهم الله):

1. That Najd al-'Irāq is what's intended and they took this from the narration that was present in [the Musnad of] Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), and they also used as evidence, that when the Fitna in 'Irāq occurred, Sālim & others used to apply the ḥadīth[regarding Najd] upon the people of 'Irāq, so this is the first saying.

2. That Najd al-Yamāmah is what's intended, because a narration came in the Sahihayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "From Rabī'ah and Mudhar" and the tribes of Rabī'ah and Mudhar has a larger presence in Najd al-Yamāmah compared to Najd al-'Irāq, so the Prophet's(صلى الله عليه وسلم) saying "From Rabī'ah and Mudhar", this is an explicit evidence in knowing what is Najd, and they also used as evidence that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "O Allāh bless us in our Shām" and he mentioned [afterwards] "And our Najd...", and Najd al-'Irāq wasn't opened in that time, al-'Irāq wasn't conquered at all, except in the era of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), it wasn't conquered in the era of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), nor Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه), it was only conquered during the era of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), so when a man said(a man who came from Najd), he said "And in our Najd" and this Najd is Muslimāh under the authority/obedience of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), so he was ordered/asked to make du'ā for it, so he said "The earthquakes and tribulations will be here", so a group [of scholars] say that the questioner asked about Najd al-Yamāmah, he didn't ask about Najd al-'Irāq because Najd al-'Irāq wasn't opened [for the muslims] to begin with.

3. That the ḥadīth includes both, it includes Najd al-Yamāmah & Najd al-'Irāq, because everyone who is found to be from the city of Najd, is called Najdan[a person from Najd, regardless if he's in 'Irāq or Yamāmah].

However, I want to bring attention [towards something important] regardless of these differences and which is the most correct[opinion], I want to mention that there's a group among the people from أهل الضلال [The people of Misguidance], and from المنحرفين [Those who have deviated from the right Manhaj], they usually use this ḥadīth upon Najd al-Yamāmah, not for Fiqh reasons, because there's nothing wrong with that, the issue is an intellectual Fiqh matter and the person chooses what he views stronger/closer to the truth, and there's nothing wrong with this & there's no blame upon the Mujtahid regarding these issues, even the Early Scholars researched matters and differed, however there's a group [of deviants] who claim it's [referring to] Najd al-Yamāmah for their hatred towards them in their religiousness & righteousness, so that's why you see the refutations against Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdul Wahāb(رحمه الله) and refutations against them for their Da'wah al-Najdiyyāh, they attack them because they are from the people of Najd and this is a place of Fitan, because it has Tawheed and 'Aqeedah. So they use these ḥadīths as proof in this way, so we must be cautious from this absolute ignorance, meaning whenever you make Ijtihād upon another issue, to be aware that there's no connection between the country[and the Fiqh matter], even if we said that this land Najd, it's a land of Earthquakes and Fitan or other than that, does this mean that they [the people] are upon Falsehood?

I'll give you all an applicable, intellectual example which is agreed upon, the scholars do not differ that 'Irāq is a land of Fitan, and this is agreed upon, when 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) was fighting the people of Shām, where was he? Where was he, in Makkāh or in Madīnah? The first one who moved the Khilāfah to 'Irāq was who? 'Alī(رضي الله عنه), and he was upon the truth by Ijmā' [Consensus]! With the virtue of Shām, does this mean that we use the Land as evidence to say that a certain people are upon the truth? This has no basis! Do we use as proof that the people of Shām were upon the truth because of the reported ḥadīths regarding al-Shām? And to say that they('Alī & his followers) were upon falsehood, while 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) was upon the truth by Ijmā' which was mentioned by more than one Scholar, and the Ḥadīths are explicit regarding this to begin with, we claim that he was in 'Irāq to mean he was upon Falsehood? This isn't correct, therefore we only use as evidence upon knowing the truth from falsehood by the proofs, so the existence of a man who resides in Najd, even if it was intended in the Ḥadīths, this doesn't mean that this is the man of Fitan or misguidance, and Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdul Wahāb(رحمه الله) has proven against his opponents that they were grave worshippers, they were from the Distorters and people of innovation & misguidance, so there's absolutely no significance regarding the situation of a person residing in a Land.

The Earth as Salmān al-Fārisī(رضي الله عنه) said when some of the Sahābah wrote to him, we shall enter the blessed land[al-Shām], he wrote to them & the chain is authentic, he said "Verily, the blessed Land[Shām] doesn't bless anyone, it only blesses a person's actions", a person could reside in Makkāh or Madīnah and be from the worst of creation, right now who resides in Makkāh? Isn't there Sūfiyyāh, isn't there grave worshippers? Who's Residing in Madīnah, isn't there Rawāfidh, and people of misguidance & Munharifin? Also in the era of ibn taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), when he spoke he said "Islām is not known today except from the people of Shām and Masr" and he is speaking about his time, then he spoke about Hijāz & other Lands, then a time came where the Religion & righteousness and goodness was not known except in this Jazīrah[Hijāz] and the situation can change, So a person shouldn't look at the situation of a country that it's upon the truth or misguidance, this is upon the saying that the meaning here is identified(as being Najd) so what I'm trying to point out towards is that some people usually assume that when someone is from Najd, a land of fitan, he would attack him, [the deviants say], originally this is a land of Fitan, they have strictness and extremism, so if he[the deviant] adhere's upon this saying, he should also adhere to when 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) fought the people of Shām, he was in 'Irāq and he was upon the truth, and the others were in Shām with the Mutawātir narrations from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding Shām, "O Allāh, bless us in our Shām", "If the people of Shām become corrupt, there is no good in you", and other than that from the proofs, while Abū Muḥammād ibn Ḥazm(رحمه الله) has mentioned something in the end of al-Muḥallāh in al-I'tikāf.

It's a good benefit, Abū Muḥammād ibn Ḥazm(رحمه الله) has mentioned in al-I'tikāf, when he spoke about the Prophet's(عليه الصلاة والسلام) saying "Madīna is better for them, only if they knew" and similar to these Ḥadīths, he said it's not possible that this ḥadīth is understood generally[for all times], rather the ḥadīth is time-bound he says, the ḥadīth is time-bound, it can be from time to time, as for it being upon the continuous[not bound by time]/general meaning, then ibn Ḥazm(رحمه الله) rejected it to be like that, also the Prophet's(عليه الصلاة والسلام) saying "Its filth is removed , just as the blacksmith(الكبير) removes the filth/impurities of the Iron", We know the Sahābah avoided the Pre-Seminal fluid, was the filth/impurity removed when they avoided it? No, and right now with the presence of the Rawāfiḍh & Mushrikeen in this Land, does that mean that they are upon the truth because they're not removed, meaning they aren't filth? This isn't said by any muslim! Therefore, as Abū Muḥammād ibn Ḥazm(رحمه الله) said Removing the filth/impurities occurs from time to time, from era to era, this was also mentioned by others besides Abū Muḥammād(رحمه الله) as well, but Abū Muḥammād ibn Ḥazm(رحمه الله) is the one who spoke about it clearly in his book al-Muḥallāh in the end of the book of Fasting.

Importance of Tawbah by Shaykh Sulayman al-'Alwan:

and His saying "Truly, Allāh(عز وجل) loves al-Tawābeen[those who turn towards Him in repentance] and He loves al-Mutatahireen[those who keep themselves pure & clean]" Al-Tawābeen came as a hyperbole, meaning lots of repenting, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"Allah, will continue to stretch out His Hand in the night so that the sinners of the day may repent, and continue to stretch out His Hand in the daytime so that the sinners of the night may repent, until the sun rises from the west" [Muslim]

Tawbah is praiseworthy, in all cases, regardless if he was recalling a sin or didn't recall a sin, because no matter what kind of servant he is, he has some kind of deficiency, so it doesn't mean that a person won't say "I ask you[Allāh] for forgiveness & repent to you[Allāh]" unless he recalls a sin, because this is self-conceit, whoever see's this in himself is self-deficient, he must change his heart, truly his heart is sick...

Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه), and he is Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه), and sufficient for you in his might & dignity, and he is from the people of Jannāh by the Ijmā[consensus] of the Muslims, and the greatest of all mankind after the Messenger of Allāh in this Ummāh, when he said O messenger of Allāh, teach me a du'ā that I can supplicate in my Salāh, he (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"Say, O Allāh, indeed I have wronged myself so much, and there is no one who forgives the sins except you, so [please] bestow your forgiveness upon me and have mercy on me, verily you are the Most Forgiving, Most Merciful" [Bukhārī]

And even the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and he is the greatest to walk on the face of this earth, this is what he used to say after he finishes his Salāh "I seek forgiveness from Allāh(3x), O Allāh, you are the bestower of peace, and peace comes from you, Blessed are you, O possessor of glory and honour" [Muslim]

And Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said to his Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) "When the help of Allāh has come, and the conquest, and you see the people entering into the religion of Allāh in multitudes, Then glorify your Lord with praises and ask for His forgiveness. Indeed, He is Oft-Returning(in Grace & Mercy)" [110:1-3]

So Allāh(عز وجل) ordered his Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) to ask for His forgiveness, "Then glorify your Lord with praises and ask for His forgiveness, Indeed, He is Oft-Returning(in Grace & Mercy)"

Is it permissible to pay Zakāt al-Fitr in Money instead of Food? [Detailed Question & Response]

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) was asked: A dispute has occurred between some of the brothers regarding the ruling of paying the Zakāt in money instead of Food. And everyone had his own opinion from an Islamic point of view, so I'll summarise it for you quickly:

The first person says: It is prohibited to pay the Zakāt al-Fitra in Money because it goes against what the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) did.

The second person says: It is preferred to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] in Food, and paying it with money is permissible, however it is in opposition to the Sunnāh.

The third person says: It's preferred to look at the situation of the poor person & the situation of his country and its environment, because money might be better for him.

So my question O respected Shaykh: Did any of the Salaf give a Fatwa to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] with money instead of Food? And is it better for someone to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] with money because the needy prefers that?

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: This issue is one of the differed upon matters, and the Imāms of the Salaf differ regarding paying Zakāt al-Fitr with Money.

And saying this opinion or that opinion is more correct is a matter of Ijtihād, so no one should call the other person misguided or an innovator.

And the principle regarding the differences of opinion in the likes of this issue, is that it should not break the friendship & love between the disputers, nor to have fury in their hearts, for all of them are good, and there's no blame upon someone who concludes with [an opinion] of what he hears.

And many of the Imāms would say in their speech regarding the differed upon matters "Our statements are correct, while it could contain mistakes, and the statements of others are mistaken, but it could contain the truth"

And the Majority of the Imāms have gone to say that it's not permissible to take out Money for Zakāt al-Fitr, Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) said: "I fear that it won't suffice, it's in opposition to the Sunnāh of the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم)", and this is the Madhab of Mālik(رحمه الله) and al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله). And al-Imām Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) said: "Money does not suffice in any case to begin with, because that is not what the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has mandated"

And 'Attā'(رحمه الله), al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله), 'Omar ibn 'Abdūl 'Azīz(رحمه الله), al-Thawrī(رحمه الله), Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله) and others have gone towards the permissibility of paying [Zakāt al-Fitr] with Money instead of Food, Abū Ishāq al-Sabī'ī [who is one of the Imāms of the Tābi'īn] said: "I have seen them pay the Sadaqah in Ramadān with Darāhim [Money] in its [equivalent] value for food" narrated by Imām ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in al-Musannāf.

And the proof for that is:

1 - Is that there's no text proven from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) nor any of the Sahābah regarding the impermissibility of paying [Zakāt al-Fitr] with Money, and the reported Ahādith within the text mentioning a specific types of Food doesn't mean what's apart from it is forbidden [to give in Zakāt]

2 - The proof for this is that the Sahābah, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) be pleased with them, permitted taking out wheat [Which is not specified by the text] instead of barley, dates and similar to that from the different kinds that are narrated in the Authentic Ahādīth.

Infact, many of the Sahābah, rather most of them, during the era of Mu'āwiyah(رضي الله عنه) went towards the permissibility of giving out half a Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's] from the Sumrā'[Brown wheat] of al-Shām instead of a Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's] of dates, so this is a proof that they saw half a Sā' is equal to the price of a Sā' of dates or barley and similar to that.

3 - Also with proof that the purpose behind Zakāt is enrichment of the poor, and money is more beneficial for some of them instead of Food, so in that case, you would check to see the situation of the poor in every country.

4 - Also with proof that many of the needy take the Food and sells it on the same day or the next day below its actual price, so who would benefit more, the one that was given Food, or the one who was given the Money equivalent to the value of this Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's], and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

was asked, what is the ruling on performing Wudū' after (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān ?[eating] camel meat that (صلى الله عليه وسلم)The Shaykh responded by saying: It's proven from the Messenger of Allāh he commanded [the performance of] Wudū' after [eating] camel meat, and this has been mentioned that a man asked the Messenger (رضي الله عنه)in Sahīh Muslim from the chain of Ja'far ibn Sumrāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Shall I perform wudū' after [eating] mutton", He" (صلى الله عليه وسلم)of Allāh said "If you wish, perform wudū', and if you wish, don't perform wudū". He said "Shall I perform said "Yes, perform wudū' after [eating] (صلى الله عليه وسلم)wudū' after [eating] camel meat", He ".camel meat

it was (رضي الله عنه)And similar to this has been mentioned from the Hadith of Al-Barā' ibn 'Āzib (رحمه الله)Abū Dāwūd (رحمه الله), al-Tirmidhī (رحمه الله), Ibn Mājah (رحمه الله), and Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله)Ishāq ibn Rāhawayh (رحمه الله), Muḥammād ibn Ishāq (رحمه الله)and it was authenticated by ibn Khuzaymah (رحمه الله), ibn al-Jārūd & (رحمه الله)Hibbān (رحمه الله)and ibn al-Mundhir (رحمه الله) and this Fatwā was given by Imām (رضي الله عنهما)And this is the Madhab of ibn 'Umar (رحمه الله)and Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله)Ishāq ibn Rāhawayh (رحمه الله), Muḥammād ibn Ishāq (رحمه الله)said "There are two authentic Hadīths regarding it, the Hadīth of al-Barā (رحمه الله)he

"(رضي الله عنه)and the Hadīth of Jābir ibn Sumrah

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله), And that was [also] said by Imām ibn al-Mundhir (رحمه الله) and others (رحمه الله) ibn al-Qayyim (رحمه الله)

Whereas the majority of the scholars went towards the view that Wudū' after [eating] camel meat is (رحمه الله) al-Shāfi'ī (رحمه الله) Mālik (رحمه الله) not obligatory, and this is the Madhab of Abī Hanīfah mentioned it from Suwayd ibn (رحمه الله) ibn al-Mundhir & (رحمه الله) And ibn Abī Shaybāh (رحمه الله). (رحمه الله) Ghufflah (رحمه الله) 'Attā' (رحمه الله) Tāwūs (رحمه الله) and Mujāhid (رحمه الله)

And some of the scholars have mentioned it from some of the Rightly Guided Khulafā', and this is disputable, as it's not proven from any of them that they refrained from performing Wudū' after [eating] camel meat

And the people of this view used as proof what was narrated by Imām Abū Dāwūd (رحمه الله) from Muḥammād (رحمه الله) and others from the chain of Shu'ayb ibn Abī Hamzāh (رحمه الله) Nasā'ī (رحمه الله) he said: "The last two matters (رضي الله عنهما) from Jābir ibn 'Abdillāh (رحمه الله) ibn al-Munkadir was to abandon the Wudū' by that which is (صلى الله عليه وسلم) from the Messenger of Allāh (رحمه الله) "[touched by Fire[i.e. includes Camels

And this report isn't valid to be used as proof upon giving a permit in abandoning Wudū' after [eating] camel meat, and that is because of two reasons and Jābir ibn (رضي الله عنه) 'That it's general, and it could be specified by the Hadīths of al-Barā especially if we knew that performing Wudū' by that which is touched by (رضي الله عنه) Sumrāh (رحمه الله) [Fire[i.e. Camels] was obligatory

That this report is weak, and its meaning isn't authentic, and this is the view of the people of this said: "This Hadīth is Mudtarib[shaky/weak] in (رحمه الله) matter[i.e. Muhadithīn], Imām Abū Hātim ate mutton and didn't perform wudū", likewise (صلى الله عليه وسلم) meaning, rather he, the Prophet from (رحمه الله) the Thiqāt[trustworthy narrators] narrated it from Muḥammād ibn al-Munkadir narrated it from his memory and erred in (رحمه الله) and it's likely that Shu'ayb (رضي الله عنهما) Jābir (رحمه الله) it said in his Sunān, "And this is summed up by the first", meaning (رحمه الله) And Imām Abū Dāwūd ate bread and meat, then he (صلى الله عليه وسلم) that the Prophet (رضي الله عنه) the Hadīth of Jābir [got up for the Salāh & didn't perform Wudū' [for bread & meat

.mentioned something similar to this (رحمه الله) And Imām ibn Hibbān

was asked, if a woman prayed Salāt al-Jum'ah behind the (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān Imām in the Masjid, should she pray 2 Rak'ahs just like the Salāh of the Imām or should she ?continue to pray 4 Rak'ahs[all up] after the Imām gives Salāms

(رحمه الله) responded by saying: Imām ibn al-Mundhir (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān mentioned in his book "Al-Ijmā'" that the Scholars have agreed that if the women followed the Imām .& prayed with him, that is sufficient for them

And if she catch a Rak'ah from Salāt al-Jum'ah, then she will pray on top of that another[Rak'ah], and her Salāh will be valid, and if she didn't catch a Rak'ah or she prayed in her home, then she .[should pray 4[Rak'ahs and ibn 'Omar (رضي الله عنه) And it's narrated from the authority of 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd that they said: "If she caught a Rak'ah from Jum'ah, then she should complete the (عنهما) other[Rak'ah], and if she caught them sitting[i.e. Entered in Tashahhūd], she should pray ".[4[Rak'ahs

mentioned a Consensus that whoever misses Jum'ah from the (رحمه الله) And Imām ibn al-Mundhir .Residers, that they should pray 4 Rak'ahs

and a group of scholars that if he entered into the (رحمه الله) And it's narrated from Abī Hanīfah Jum'ah prayer before the Imām gives Salāms, then he should pray 2 Rak'ahs, and if he did not .follow the Imām in his Salāh, then he should pray 4 Rak'ahs by the agreement of the scholars

(حفظه الله) is weak, as Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (رحمه الله) Note: The view of Imām Abū Hanīfah said "Whoever catches a rak'ah of (صلى الله عليه وسلم) mentioned elsewhere. Because the Prophet Salāh, then he has caught the Salāh" so if you entered in the Tashahhūd, you should pray 4 Rak'ahs, not 2, because you haven't caught the Salāh والله اعلم

Shaykh Sulayman al-'Alwan said:

There are three different opinions regarding the issue of a woman in her menses entering the Mosque:

It's not permissible for her to enter the mosque, and this is what's most known from the Madhab of Imām Mālik and al-Shāfiʿī, and the أهل الرأي (Hanafī's), and one of the sayings in the madhab of Imām Ahmad, and they used as evidence the prophet's saying "I do not permit the menstrator or junb (post sexual state) to be in the mosque" and the prophets saying to Ai'sha (رضي الله عنها) "perform what a pilgrim does, except that you don't do Tawāf" and the hadīth is agreed upon its authenticity, and they used as proof that the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) "Prevented the menstrator to be present at the Eīd prayer" and the hadīth is agreed upon its authenticity.

It's permissible to enter the mosque for a need and a necessity, and this was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) with proof that the prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) "placed a tent (covering) for the black woman" which was narrated by Al-Bukhārī, and the scholars have said, this woman must've been menstrating, and the prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) did not prevent placing a covering for her in the mosque, and we can derive from this that the menstrator can attend gatherings and studies of knowledge and other than it.

It's permissible to enter the mosque as long as she abstains staining the floor, and this is the Madhab spoken from Mālik and one of the 2 sayings in the Shāfiʿī madhab, and Ahmad, and this is the saying of the Dhāhiriyyāh, chosen by ibn hazm (رحمه الله), and it has strength with the proof of the saying of prophet (saw) to Ai'sha (رضي الله عنها) "Get me the mat from the mosque." She said: 'I am menstruating.' He said: 'Your menstruation is not in your hands.' " narrated by Imām Muslim (rah), and these scholars use the proof of البراءة الاصلية "Original disassociation" [Permissible until proven Prohibited by an Authentic Text] in that there is not a single authentic hadīth which proves it's not allowed, and the reply to the narration "I do not permit the menstrator or junb (post sexual state) to be in the mosque" is a report which isn't authentic, it was narrated by Abu Dawud (232) and Ibn Khuzaymah (2/284) from different authorities from 'Abdul Waahid ibn Ziyad from Aflat ibn Khaleefah, he said Jusrah bint Dajajah informed me, from 'Aisha. Al-Bukhari said "Jusrah has wonders!" Ibn hazm (رحمه الله) said the hadīth is false, and I have shown what it has from defects elsewhere.

And my answer to the hadīth of 'Ā'isha [not allowed to make tawāf] is that this is reported about Tawāf and has nothing to do with entering the mosque, and this is apparent. And my answer to the prevention of the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) for the menstrator to move away from the musallāh of the muslims, the musallāh meaning the place people pray in and not the actual mosque, so the menstrator would be far away from the Musallāh that people are praying in, so that the praying women don't get disturbed and cause problems for them, or similar to it, and Allah (سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

What's the ruling on wiping the face with the hands after du'ā?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) said: There's not a single authentic hadīth from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم), and it's not proven from the Sahābah (رضي الله عنهم), neither in Qunūt or other than it, neither in Salāh nor outside of it. And some of the laymen have been accustomed to this act, and this is wrong. And others are accustomed to raising the hands after the optional Salāh and wiping the face without du'ā, and this is worse than the first [case], and the Sunnāh is to leave off the wiping completely during Salāh and other than it.

Imām Abū Dāwūd (رحمه الله) mentioned in his Masā'il [1]: I heard Ahmad (رحمه الله) get asked about a man who wipes his face with his hands if he finishes [Salāh], he (رحمه الله) said: "I've never heard of it". And he said once: "I've never heard of this at all". He [Imām Abū Dāwūd] said: "And I've never seen Ahmad do this" and Imām Mālik (رحمه الله) was asked about a man who wipes his face with his hands during du'ā? So he rejected that and said: "I don't know of it" [2]

Al-Hāfidh al-Bayhaqī (رحمه الله) said: "I haven't memorised it from any of the Salaf during du'ā al-Qunūt, even though it might be narrated from some of them during du'ā outside the Salāh, it has been narrated from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) a weak hadīth and it's used from some of them [3], outside of Salāh, but as for during the Salāh, then it's an action which isn't proven by any authentic report upon what the Salaf did, may Allāh (جل وعلا) be pleased with them, of raising the hands without wiping them with the face in Salāh [4] وبالله التوفيق

What is the ruling on wearing a ring?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) mentions 3 situations:

It's worn as a tradition, then this is permissible.

It's worn to fend off the evil eye, then this is Minor Shirk.

It's worn to testify a marriage contract, then this is imitating the Kuffār, because this is from the exclusive characteristics of the Christians.

Conclusion: So wearing a ring has 3 different situations:

- It could either be Mubāh [Permissible], and some scholars have said it's a Sunnāh.

- It could either be Minor Shirk.

- It could either be Imitation of the Christians [Harām].

What is the ruling on the divorce made by a drunk person?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: The known divorce is what is upon "Watar", meaning with an intention from the one giving divorce for it to occur, and the one who doesn't know what he's saying, or doesn't have any intent in divorce, his divorce isn't valid and his statement doesn't mean anything, in the Sahīhayn(Bukhārī & Muslim) from the hadith of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Indeed, actions are but by intentions, and for every man is what he intends"

'Uthmān ibn 'Affān(رضي الله عنه) said "There is no divorce from a madman or drunk man" narrated by al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh Mu'allāqan(as a hanging narration - Without the complete Isnād mentioned), and ibn Abī Shaybah has the competed chain, and its Isnād is authentic.

Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) said "Divorce from a drunk & coerced man isn't permissible" Bukhārī hanged it بصيغة الجزم (meaning that he's absolutely assuring that ibn 'Abbās said it) and ibn Abī Shaybah & others have gathered the complete Chain.

And ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) also said "Divorce is upon Watar" Al-Bukhārī narrated it(Mu'allāqan), with absolute authenticity.

And "al-Watar" with two Fatha's(ّ) [on the و & ط] is an intent/purpose towards something, and the drunk person doesn't have a "Watar" and this is the Madhab of al-Layth ibn Sa'd(رحمه الله), Ishāq(رحمه الله), Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) in the last of his Riyāwah's from him, and it was supported by أهل الظاهر (The Dhāhiriyyāh), ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله) and others.

And it is what the Qur'ān and Sunnāh & the Fatāwah of the Sahābah have indicated/pointed out towards, since being drunk takes away your mind, and therefore he's not aware of what he says, and ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) has mentioned in al-Muhallāh in Ahkām al-Talāq "that 'Omar ibn 'Abdul 'Azīz(رحمه الله) met with a drunk person who divorced his wife who swore by the one who there is no god except Him(Allāh), that I have divorced her, while he didn't have his mind, but he swore by Allāh(علا) - So 'Omar ibn 'Abdul 'Azīz(رحمه الله) returned him back to his wife and flogged him with the punishment(of khamr)..."

And Allāh(جل وعلا) has made his(the man's) statement inconsiderable as He(سبحانه وتعالى) said "O you who believe, do not go near the Salāh while you are drunk until you know what you will say"

And the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) did not hold Hamzah(رضي الله عنه) responsible for his saying when he was drunk "And are you not except slaves to my father..." Narrated by al-Bukhārī [#4003] & Muslim [#1979] from the chain of 'Alī ibn al-Hussein that Hussein ibn 'Alī informed him from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه).

And from the principles of the Sharee'ah, is to raise the accountability from forgetfulness, mistakes from the tongue, ikrāh(coercion), and the speech that occurs from the tongue without intending it.

Allāh(جل وعلا) said "Allah does not impose blame upon you for what is unintentional in your oaths, but He imposes blame upon you for what your hearts have earned." and in Sahīh Muslim [#2747] from the hadith of Anas(رضي الله عنه) regarding the story of a man who lost his mount in a deserted land, and it had his food and drinks, so he was in despair from that, so when he saw it standing next to him, he said "O Allāh you are my slave and I am your Lord" he made a mistake from his immense joy. It's also narrated by al-Bukhārī [#6309] and Muslim [#2747] from another chain without its ending.

And in this issue is a second saying, which necessitates the occurrence of divorce from a drunk man and that is what's narrated from Mu'āwiyāh(رحمه الله), Sa'eed ibn al-Musayyib(رحمه الله), al-Zuhri(رحمه الله), al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) in one of his 2 opinions, Mālik(رحمه الله) and others. And they have proofs for that...

The strongest[of their proof] being is that he is held responsible for crimes, so likewise with divorce, but this isn't correct because the statements/sayings differ from the actions. So if it's said, the divorce of a drunk person isn't valid, it doesn't mean we drop the Qisās(retaliation punishment) from him, because pardoning from giving Qisās & Hudūd(punishments) is a means to spread corruption, and a call for abandoning the hudūd(punishments) and the Ahkām(rulings), unlike the divorce, he doesn't hold responsibility for anything from that(since he isn't aware of speech, unlike actions).

And from this, the Major Sahābah differentiated between the 2 matters, so they enforced the Hudūd(punishments) & Qisās(retaliation) without [taking into account] the Divorce واللّه اعلم

What is the ruling on imitating animal noises?

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) has prohibited this in Majmū' al-Fatāwah and he has mentioned 6 reasons for that. He has also alluded towards this in other places, where he said that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given the son of Ādam certain characteristics, and has given cattle certain characteristics, so it's not permissible for the son of Ādam who Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has honoured to imitate cattle/animals.

A group of Fuqahā' dislike it, and do not consider it forbidden, but as for Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), then he see's it completely prohibited, and that whoever imitates bird noises, cattle noises, wild animal noises, then he is completely prevented from that, and upon the other saying that it's disliked.

Those who do not prohibit it say there's no textual evidence regarding the impermissibility of imitating cattle, and mimicking a noise is not a prohibition, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Whoever imitates a people, then he is from them" i.e. Imitates the Kuffār, or the people of innovation & misguidance, wherein imitating them results in affection & harm, and as a result of that, there would be mildness/softness in al-Walā' wal-Barā', and what would occur from imitating them openly is that it creates love & affection on the inside, so they say this is not present in imitating the sounds of the birds, so that's why they dislike it out of care & remaining on the safe side.

was asked, what is the correct view with regards to the (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān ?ruling on the Sāhir responded by saying: Al-Sihr in all of its forms is Harām in every Sharī'ah, (حفظه الله)The Shaykh and is agreed upon regarding its prohibition and the prohibition of learning it. And it goes against came with, and contradicts the purpose of what the (عليهم الصلاة والسلام)what the Messengers .books[revelations from Allāh] were sent for

And the majority of the scholars adopted the view that the Sāhir is a Kāfir, and it's compulsory upon .the leader of the muslims to kill him said "It was not Sulaymān who disbelieved, but the devils disbelieved, teaching (سبحانه وتعالى)Allāh "(people Sihr(magic

said "But [the two angels] do not teach anyone unless they say, "We are a (سبحانه وتعالى)and Allāh .trial, so do not disbelieve", i.e. [do not disbelieve] by doing Sihr, so it's evident that this is Kufr

And most of the Fuqahā' from the Shāfi'yyāh adopted the view that the Sāhir doesn't disbelieve, unless he believes the permissibility of Sihr or believes similar to what the people of Bābil believe, .from getting closer to the 7 stars

.[And this is disputable, and there's no evidence to condition "Belief" [for Sihr to be Kufr

And what's correct is that the Sāhir is a Kāfir, whether he believes it's Harām or not, so simply performing Sihr is Kufr, and this is what's clear from the evidences, and there is nothing in the other .texts which opposes this

And when the description/title of Sihr is established upon an individual, he is to be killed, as that has been proven from a group of the Sahābah, however it's not allowed for anyone among the people to apply the Punishments without the command of the Sultān[Chief/Leader] or whoever holds his place, because applying the Punishments without the command of those in authority will result in corruption, and destabilisation for the safety[of the country], and the consideration of the [Sultān will disappear.[Basically becomes chaos, everyone taking it into his own hands

What's the ruling regarding raising the hands in du'ā during Salāt al-Qunūt? [i.e. Witr]

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: The brother asks about the ruling of raising the hands for the Ma'mūm[the muslims behind the Imām] in Qunūt, and there are two sayings of the scholars regarding that:

The first saying: That raising the hands is what's prescribed. And this is the saying of 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb(رضي الله عنه), and the chain towards him is authentic, and this is the Madhab of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) and Ahmad(رحمه الله).

The second saying: That this is not a prescribed act. Because there is no text[authentic ḥadīth] proven from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and every ḥadīth that's reported in this[issue] is weak, and this is what Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله) went towards, and 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) narrated from al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) in an authentic chain, 'Abdūl Razzāq, from Ma'mar, from al-Zuhri: He(al-zuhri) said: "The hands were not raised in Qunūt during Ramadān"[1] and this chain is authentic towards al-Zuhri(رحمه الله), and al-Zuhri is born in the year 50AH, and he met a Jamā'ah and group from among the Sahābah, such as Anas ibn Mālik(رضي الله عنه), Sahl ibn Sa'd al-Sā'idī(رضي الله عنه), ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنه) and others, and here he's saying the hands were not raised in Qunūt during Ramadān, so this proves that the hands are not to be raised.

So these are the two sayings of the Scholars, so if the Imām raised his hands based upon the saying of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), who's the rightly guided Khalīfah, in which the muslims are commanded to follow his example, and Allāh(جلا وعلا) has gathered the truth upon the tongue of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), then there's no blame upon him, and whoever doesn't raise[his hands], then he also has an Asl[strong foundation/evidences] and that it's not reported from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and this is a 'Ibādah[act of worship], and whatever isn't reported from the aprophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) in worship, I won't do it, going with the saying of Imām Muḥammād ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri(رحمه الله), and he speaks from who he met from the Sahābah, the Tābi'een and the Giant Imāms, and he says "The hands were not raised" so it's like he's mentioning a consensus, he has lived and met[many Sahābah], so this is clear from him that he's made a strong Ijtihād.

And whoever also goes along the third saying, that he raises at times & leaves it off at other times, then this is also [another] saying.

[1] Refer to Musannāf 'Abdūl Razzāq al-San'ānī(رحمه الله) ḥadīth #4998.
Also in another wording of the ḥadīth, it says "The hands were not raised in Witr during Ramadān"

Ruling on preferring 'Ali over 'Uthman:

The general view of Ahlāl Sunnāh wal Jamā'ah is that 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān رضي الله عنه is greater than 'Alī ibn Abī Tālib رضي الله عنه in Virtue, however if someone prefers 'Alī رضي الله عنه over 'Uthmān رضي الله عنه in "Virtue", that's not considered a "sin" or "misguidance".

HOWEVER, with regards to preferring 'Alī رضي الله عنه over 'Uthmān رضي الله عنه in the Khilāfah, then Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh رحمه الله تعالى said "He is more misguided than his family's donkey"

What's correct is that a Muslim should make up the days of Ramadān before fasting the 6 days of Shawwāl, because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

{Whoever fasts Ramadān and then FOLLOWS it with six days of Shawwāl}

This Ḥadīth that was reported by Abū Ayyūb(رضي الله عنه) is clear that a person should make up the missed days of Ramadān before fasting the 6 days of Shawwāl, the Ḥadīth states "whoever fasts Ramadān", and the person who has days to make up from Ramadān didn't fast Ramadān.

Secondly, what is the ruling on a woman who was in the state of Nifās throughout the month of Ramadān, and she spent all the month of Shawwāl making up the missed days she couldn't fast, now what is the ruling in fasting those 6 days of Shawwāl in Dhīl Qa'dah?

There are two opinions on the issue, the first opinion states that fasting the 6 days of Shawwāl are expired, and it can only be done during the month of Shawwāl.

However the second opinion is much stronger, and that it's permissible to fast the 6 days of Shawwāl in Dhīl Qa'dah if there was a valid excuse, because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) delayed the 2 rak'ah [which is among the sunan al-Rawātib] after Salāt al-Dhuhr till after Salāt al-'Asr, so likewise a woman who was in the state of Nifās throughout the month of Ramadān has a valid excuse, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) was asked: There's a person who had sexual intercourse during the day of Ramadān, what is the ruling upon him? And what must he do?

The Shaykh(حفظه الله) responded by saying: Sexual Intercourse during the day of Ramadān is among the transgressions against the sanctity of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) and it is Harām by the Qur'ān, Sunnāh and Ijmā'.

And the person who had intercourse must pay a Kafārah [Expiation], which is to free a Slave, if he's not able to do so, then he must fast 2 months in a row, if he's not able to do so, then he must feed 60 poor people, and the proof for this is what Imām al-Bukhārī(1936) and Imām Muslim(1111) narrated from the chain of al-Zuhrī(رحمه الله), he said: I was informed by Humayd ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān(رحمه الله) that Abā Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه) said:

"While we were sitting with the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) a man came to him and said O Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), I am ruined, he(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Why are you ruined", he said "I have had intercourse with my wife while I was fasting", so the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Do you have a slave to set free", he said No. He(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Then are you able to fast two months in a row", he said No. So he(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Do you have enough to feed 60 poor people", he said no - The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) stayed silent and while we were in that state, a big basket full of dates was brought to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم). He(صلى الله عليه وسلم) asked, "Where is the questioner?" he replied, "I [am here]." The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to him "Take this [basket of dates] and give it in Sadaqāh." The man said, "Should I give it to a person poorer than me? By Allah, there is no family between its two mountains [of Madīnah] who are poorer than me." The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) smiled till his premolar teeth became visible and then said, "Feed your family with it."

And this is the ruling regarding the person who knows and did so intentionally according to the correct view among the sayings of the Scholars.

Because the one who is Forgetful and Ignorant of the ruling, and the coerced, do not have to make up a day nor pay the Kafārah [Expiation], since Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has raised the blame off this Ummāh and has forgiven mistake & forgetfulness, Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) says: {Our Lord, do not hold us accountable if we forget or make mistakes} and in Sahīh Muslim(126) on the authority of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) that he said: Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said "I have already done so" [i.e. Forgiven the mistakes of this Ummāh]

And this is the Madhab of Abī Hanīfah(رحمه الله) and al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) regarding the forgetful one, and Ishāq(رحمه الله) & Ahmad(رحمه الله) in a Narration said the Forgetful and Ignorant one is excused, and this was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) and ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله).

Mālik(رحمه الله), Layth ibn Sa'd(رحمه الله) and a group of Scholars have said, he must make up that day without paying the Kafārah [Expiation], and Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) in what's most popular in his Madhab said, he must make up that day and pay the Kafārah [Expiation], whether he had sexual intercourse in the state of Forgetfulness or Ignorance [of the ruling], and this was chosen by Ahlāl Dhāhir [The Dhāhiriyyāh].

And this is disputable, because sexual intercourse is on the same level as food and drink, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Whoever forgets that he is Fasting, so he ate or drank, let him continue his fast, because it is Allāh(جل وعلا) who has fed him and given him drink" narrated by al-Bukhārī(1933) and Muslim(1155) from the chain of Hishām(رحمه الله) from Muḥammād ibn Sīrīn(رحمه الله) from Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه).

And 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) has narrated in al-Musannāf(7375) with an authentic chain from Mujāhid(رحمه الله) that he said: "If a man had sexual intercourse with his wife while he was fasting in a state of forgetfulness during Ramadān, there is nothing upon him" and al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) also narrated it in his Sahīh Mu'allāqan [as a Hanging Narration].

And 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) narrated in al-Musannāf(7377) from al-Thawrī(رحمه الله) from a man from al-Hassan(رحمه الله) that he said: "It is on the same level as eating and drinking in the state of forgetfulness". And al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) has Hanged it in his Sahīh.

and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

IF A PERSON WHO DOESN'T PRAY PERFORMS HAJJ, IS HIS HAJJ ACCEPTED?

Answered by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

The brother asks that there's a brother who doesn't pray and he performed hajj at a particular time, will his Hajj be valid?

We would say, did he pray at Hajj or not? If he prayed at Hajj, then he has entered into Islām and become a Muslim and his Hajj is valid. And if he abandoned Salāh afterwards, we would call him a disbeliever, however if he returns back to Islām, his deeds would return back to him.

This is according to the most correct opinion amongst the scholars, because Allah(جل وعلا) said "And whoever of you turns away from his religion(to disbelief) and dies while being a disbeliever"

The meaning of this Āyah is that if he returns back to Islām, his deeds will return back to him, and the deeds aren't nullified except if he died upon disbelief, and this is one of the two sayings from Imam Ahmad(رحمه الله) and that was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله).

What's the ruling on hanging a Qur'ān in the car?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān has said this has Tafseel - If someone put up the Qur'ān with the intention of honouring/blessing the words of Allāh, this is not a known act and it takes the ruling of Amulets and the Prophet( صلى الله عليه وسلم) warned against Amulets completely. However if someone put up the Qur'ān with the intention of protecting him from accidents or troubles, then this is even worse than the previous case. And this is clear, whoever holds onto something besides Allāh has committed Shirk, and Amulets are completely prohibited, even if it's the Qur'ān because the Qur'ān is used for Ruqya, not for being an amulet.

Respected Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), what is the authenticity of the reported Hadīth "Using a Siwāk before Salāh is better than 70 Salāh without a Siwāk"?

The Shaykh responded by saying: This Hadīth is not authentic, and there's no authentic chain for it, Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Musnad(2/276) from the chain of Muḥammād ibn Ishāq(رحمه الله), he said...and he mentioned Muḥammād ibn Muslim ibn Shihāb al-Zuhrī(رحمه الله) from 'Urwa ibn al-Zubayr(رحمه الله) from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) that the Prophet( صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Using a Siwāk before Salāh is 70 times better than Salāh without a Siwāk"

And it was narrated by Imām Ibn Khuzaymah(رحمه الله) in his Saḥīḥ(137) except that he said, "if the report was authentic", and he said: "I have given an exception to the authenticity of this report because I fear that Muḥammād ibn Ishāq didn't hear from Muḥammād ibn Muslim, but he rather cheated from him" [i.e. Performed Tadrīs]

And 'Abdullāh ibn al-Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) said: My father said, if Ibn Ishāq "says"... then mentions a person, then he didn't hear from him.

And Imām Yahyā ibn Ma'īn(رحمه الله) said: "This Hadīth is not authentic, and it's False/Absurd"

And Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said in al-Sunan(1/38), "And this Hadīth is feared to be one of the Tadrīsāt [cover ups] of Muḥammād ibn Ishāq, and that he did not hear it from al-Zuhrī, and it was narrated by Mu'āwiyah ibn Yahyā al-Sudfī from al-Zuhrī, and it's not that strong. And it has been narrated from another chain on the authority of 'Urwa from 'Ā'isha, and from another chain on the authority of 'Umrah from 'Ā'isha, and they are both weak".

And the Hadīth has come with supporting narrations from the Hadīth of Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), which is narrated by Abū Nu'aym(رحمه الله).

And from the Hadīth of Jābir(رضي الله عنه), which is also narrated by Abū Nu'aym(رحمه الله).

And from the Hadīth of Ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), which is narrated by Abū Nu'aym(رحمه الله)

And there's nothing authentic from all these Hadīths at all, and they do not get raised to the level of "Hassan li-Ghayrihi" [Hassan due to supportive evidences]

Because it's not possible to accept this great reward from such weak chains.

And perhaps this is from the secrets of the Judgement of the [Early] Imāms upon this report with weakness at times, and at other times, they would judge upon it with absurdity, and Allāh( سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Notes about eating meat from the People of the Book & Handslaughter from Shaykh Sulayman al-'Alwan:

1. The meat of Ahlâl Kitâb is permissible by Ijmâ', the Qur'ân & Sunnâh is absolutely clear regarding this matter.
2. By principle, meat is Halâl unless proven otherwise, according to the Ijmâ' of the Sahâbah & Salaf as mentioned by Imâm ibn Taymiyyâh(رحمه الله)
3. The slaughter must be from Ahlâl Kitâb, even if he doesn't completely follow the bible or torah, as long as he believes in his scriptures and is not an atheist or agnostic, he is considered from among the people of the book.
4. There's no need to ask "Did they say bismillâh or not" because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) ate from the meat of Khaybar without asking them "Did you say Bismillâh", by principle Allâh(جل وعلا) has made it halâl.
5. There's a difference of opinion whether the meat must be hand slaughtered, Imâm Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), Imâm Al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله), Imâm Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) and the majority of the scholars say "It's compulsory for the meat to be hand-slaughtered"
6. If you live in a country mixed with Ahlâl Kitâb & Mushrikeen and you're not sure whether it was slaughtered by either, it returns back to the principle of the meat, which is Halâl.
7. McDonalds is one of Israel's biggest funders, therefore it's compulsory to boycott them, KFC isn't handslaughtered, so according to the majority of the scholars, not permissible to eat.

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) was asked, does swallowing saliva and phlegm break the fast?

The Shaykh(حفظه الله) responded by saying: The Scholars have agreed that whoever swallows his own saliva, his fast is not broken, because saliva comes from the mouth, so it doesn't affect the person fasting to swallow it.

And is it considered disliked to do that or not? What's correct is that it's not disliked if he didn't purposely gather his saliva, because the precautions that come with it are difficult and burdensome and it's not possible for anyone to handle that.

But as for Phlegm, then a group of Scholars have said that if it's from the chest, it doesn't break the fast, and if it was from the Jawf [The empty space in the mouth and the throat] or the Brain, then it breaks the fast.

What's correct is that swallowing Phlegm intentionally is Makrūh [Disliked] or Harām [Prohibited] according to a group of Scholars, except that it doesn't break the fast in all cases, because it's not food or drink, and it's neither from its implications.

And Phlegm is something that causes distress and the Ummāh is in need of knowing its ruling, so if it broke the fast, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would have clarified that with a general statement, so if there's no report mentioning that, it becomes known that the statement which mentions that it breaks the fast is not correct.

And Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) said in the Riwayah of Al-Marwazī(رحمه الله): "You do not have to make up a day if you swallowed Phlegm while you are fasting" was asked about the authentic supplications to be made (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān :after the Adhān, so he replied by saying

The Sunnâh for whoever hears the Mu'athân calling for the prayer is to say exactly what he says, except in the 2 Hayyâ's [Salâh & Falâh], so he says "Lâ Hawlâ walâ Quwwâta ilâ billâh". And if he finishes from repeating after him [the Mu'athân], it's a Sunnâh for him to send prayers over the has narrated in his Sahîh [Hadîth #348] from (رحمه الله)Imâm Muslim, (صلى الله عليه وسلم) Prophet the chain of Ka'b ibn 'Iqimâh from 'Abdûl Rahmân ibn Jubayr from 'Abdullâh ibn 'Amr ibn al-'Âs that :say (صلى الله عليه وسلم)he heard the Prophet If you hear the Mu'athân, then say exactly what he says, then send prayers over me, for whoever" sends prayers over me, Allâh will send 10 prayers over him, then ask Allâh for my intercession [on the day of Judgement], for verily it is a level in Jannâh which isn't for anyone except for a slave from the slaves of Allâh, and I hope that I am him, so whoever asks for my intercession, the "Shafâ'ah will be permissible for him narrated in his Sahih the description of the du'â after the call to (رحمه الله)And al-Imâm al-Bukhārī prayer, he said I was informed by 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh who narrated from Shu'ayb ibn Abī Hamzāh from (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Muhammād ibn al-Munkadīr from Jābir ibn 'Abdillāh that the Messenger of Allāh :said

He who says after the call to prayer: Allāhumma Rabiḥi al-Da'wat al-Tāmah wal-Salāta al-"Qā'imah Āti Muhammādan al-Wasīlah wal Fadīlah wab'ath Maqāman Mahmūdan alāthi wa'adtuhu, "my Shafā'ah will be permissible for him on the day of judgement in his Musnad (رحمه الله)and Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله)And it was narrated by 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī [3/354] and Muhammād ibn Sahl al-Baghdādī and Ibrāhīm ibn Ya'qūb and a group from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh similar to the narration in Bukhārī, and it was narrated by Muhammād ibn 'Awf from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh and he added onto the ending "Innāka Lā Takhluf al-Mī'ād" it was collected by al-Bayhaqī in .[Anomalous, not authentic] شاذة his Sunān [1/410]. And this addition is and a group of (رحمه الله)al-Bukhārī , (رحمه الله)Ahmad , (رحمه الله)The Hufādh 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī .scholars have agreed upon the narration from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh without this addition

And the Taffarrūd [Singular Narration] of Muhammād ibn 'Awf from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh is not accepted. !And where does his narration fall compared to the narration of these Hufādh

And the authenticating from some of the contemporary scholars to this hadīth with its addition is rejected, and the call that it's an addition from a Thiqāh [Trustworthy narrator] and the addition of a Thiqāh is accepted isn't correct, because the Imāms of Hadīth who examined/devoted their efforts in the 'ilal [hidden defects] of the reports, those who specialise in that do not accept the addition of a Thiqāh in all cases, and they do not rule upon this matter by an absolute ruling, generalizing every hadīth, rather they judge upon it by looking at all the chains of narration, and rule upon every .addition with what it deserves and others agree upon (رحمه الله)Bukhārī , (رحمه الله)Ahmad , (رحمه الله)And when 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī the narration of the hadīth from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh without the addition, no doubt they are given .knows best (جل وعلا)preference over Muhammād ibn 'Awf & his likes, and Allāh

Note: The Shaykh mentioned that more than 11 Imāms of the Salaf narrated the Du'ā after the none of them mentioned the addition "innāka lā tukhlifu al- & (رحمه الله)Adhān from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh mī'ād", except for Muhammād ibn 'Awf, but all the other 11 Imāms have a greater status than him, .therefore his addition is Shāthā [anomalous], and it's not prescribed to act upon it

Are we allowed to say Bismillāh before Wudū'?

Note: The Scholars define "Tasmiyah" as saying "Bismillāh" & define "Basmalah" as saying "Bismillāhi al-Rahmāni al-Rahīm", generally this is okay.

With regards to saying "Bismillāh" before Wudū', the scholars differed upon the following opinions:

1. That it's obligatory & this is what's popular in the Madhab of Imām Ahmad, a narration from the Madhab of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله).
2. That it's recommended & this is what's popular in the Madhab of Imām Abū Hanīfah, al-Shāfi'ī & Mālik, also a narration in the Hanbalī madhab as it was held by ibn Qudāmah(رحمه الله) & this is the view of the Majority of the Scholars.
3. That it's not prescribed at all, infact it is a Bid'ah, and this is a narration from Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), which was mentioned by Imām ibn Rushd(رحمه الله) & others.

With regards to the Ahādīth on the topic, the Scholars also differed upon the following:

1. It is authentic, Imām Abū Bakr ibn Abī Shaybāh(رحمه الله) said "It has been proven to us that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said it" [Refer to al-Talkhees al-Habeer by Ibn Hajr (1/257)] and several scholars that came after him followed this.
2. It is Hassan by supportive evidence. A group of scholars such as al-Mundhirī(رحمه الله) & ibn Kathir(رحمه الله) & others viewed that it was Hassan by strengthening the weak chains of narrations.
3. It is weak according to the Majority. Imām Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhi(رحمه الله) said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Imām al-'Uqaylī(رحمه الله) said "The chains of narration in this chapter are all Līn [have weakness]"

Refer to al-Du'afā' by al-'Uqaylī (222).

Imām Ibn al-Mundhir(رحمه الله) said: "There's not a single authentic report in this topic"

Refer to al-Awsat by Ibn al-Mundhir (345)

Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) also said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Refer to Masā'il al-Imām Ahmad by al-Kūsaj (2/263)

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) says the Majority of the early Scholars of Hadīth are of the view that "There's not a single authentic hadīth in this topic"

How do we reconcile between Imām Ahmad's statement "It is Wājib" & "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic", Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) stated that it's possible that Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) authenticated the Hadīths by strengthening its weak chains of narration, but later on, he retracted this view & clearly saw the weakness of the chains & said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) did not authenticate the Hadīths, however he viewed that it's permissible to say Bismillāh before wudū' based upon Qiyās[analogy], and he used the Hadīth where a person says Bismillāh before having relations with his wife, so he mentioned that it would be more deserving to say it before Wudū'.

However Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said the Qiyās of Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) is questionable because if this was the case, then we would have to say Bismillāh before the Takbīrāt at Hajj, and before we say the Adhān, and before we say Allāhu Akbar for Salāh, however no one has said this.

Also, to support the view that it's not prescribed to say Bismillāh before Wudū' is that it's not Authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) nor the Sahābah(رضي الله عنهم), and not a single Sahābī who described the Wudū' of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) mentioned that he said "Bismillāh", but rather they mentioned things which are of less importance.

You can do further research into the Authentic agreed upon narrations in Bukhārī & Muslim, such as the Hadīth of 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه), 'Abdillāh ibn Zayd(رضي الله عنه) and 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), they all described the wudū' of the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) without mentioning that he said Bismillāh, and these Hadīths are Muttāfaqun 'Alayh, so if the Basmallāh was memorized from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), the Sahābah would have mentioned this and explained it to us, but all the Hadīths that describe the Wudū' of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) mention that he didn't say Bismillāh.

For example, ponder over this Hadith in Sahih al-Bukhari (1934):

Narrated Humran: I saw 'Uthman performing ablution; he washed his hands thrice, rinsed his mouth and then washed his nose, by putting water in it and then blowing it out, and washed his face thrice, and then washed his right forearm up to the elbow thrice, and then the left-forearm up to the elbow thrice, then smeared his head with water, washed his right foot thrice, and then his left foot thrice and said, "I saw Allah's Apostle performing ablution similar to my present ablution, and then he said, 'Whoever performs ablution like my present ablution and then offers two rak`at in which he does not think of worldly things, all his previous sins will be forgiven.'"

The Hadith of 'Uthman is considered the most authentic and strongest Hadith describing the wudu' of the Prophet, and here he mentions that all your previous sins will be forgiven if you perform wudu' like he did, and there was no mentioning of the Basmallah, so if it was really recommended, or even compulsory, the Sahabah would've mentioned it through authentic chains.

NOTE: Even though I go along the view of the Shaykh & don't believe it's prescribed to say Bismillāh before wudū' as this is an act of worship & it requires authentic evidence, there's no blame upon an individual for following the opinion of a Mujtahid that he trusts والله اعلم

"Mālik denounced saying Bismillāh before wudū', and said: I haven't heard of this, does he intend to make a sacrifice?" [1]

[1] Refer to "al-Tāj wal-iklīl" (1/347) and Refer to al-Dhakhīrah by al-Qarāfī (1/284) and "Hāshiyat al-'Adawī" (1/181): And some Scholars did not view beginning [wudū'] with saying Bismillāh as an ordainment of Good according to the Salaf, rather they saw it as an ordainment of Munkar.

What is the ruling in saying Bismillāh before making a sacrifice? Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying:

What's most correct from the sayings of the scholars is that there's a difference between the one who intentionally leaves out the Tasmiyah(Bismillah), which makes his slaughter unlawful and between the one who forgot to mention the Basmallah, so his slaughter becomes lawful and this is the statement of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) and I don't know any Sahābah who differed with him, except a saying attributed to ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنه) which isn't authentic. And this is the Madhab of Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), Mālik(رحمه الله), and what's most popular in the Madhab of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله).

And Al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) said the Tasmiyah is recommended and isn't compulsory by using the Hadīth of 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) as proof that "A group of people said to the Prophet, 'Some people bring us meat and we do not know whether they have mentioned Allah's Name or not on slaughtering the animal.' He said, "Mention Allah's Name on it and eat." She said: Those people were recently in the state of kufr, meaning they are converts". Narrated by al-Bukhārī(5507) from the chain of Usāmah from Hafs al-Madanī from Hishām ibn 'Urwa from his father from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها)

And it was narrated by al-Darāwardī(رحمه الله), Abū Khālid Sulaymān Ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) & Muḥammad ibn 'Abdillāh al-Tafāwī(رحمه الله) from the chain of Hishām ibn 'Urwa similar to the narration of Usāmah.

And it was narrated by Mālik(رحمه الله), Ibn 'Uyaynah(رحمه الله), Hamād ibn Zayd(رحمه الله) & others from the chain of Hishām from his father as a Mursal report.

Al-Khattābī(رحمه الله) said in "al-Ma'ālim" (4/122) "In it is proof that the Tasmiyah isn't compulsory before making a sacrifice, because the animal is prohibited by principle until it's certified that it's legally slaughtered, so it doesn't become permissible by a doubtful command, so if the Tasmiyah was a condition for the legal sacrifice, it wouldn't be permissible to hold the command upon good assumption regarding them(slaughterers as stated in the Ḥadīth) for it to be lawful to eat, just like if doubts were placed upon the same sacrifice, therefore we wouldn't know if the sacrifice is legally accepted or not, so it wouldn't be lawful to eat"

And this view was supported by al-Hāfidh Ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) in al-Fath(9/635), he said: "This is what we go towards from the context of the Ḥadīth where it happened to have the answer "So you say Bismillāh & eat", as if he's saying don't be concerned with that, but what you should be concerned about is yourselves mentioning the name of Allāh & to eat, and this is from His wise manner & approach, as it was pointed out by al-Tibī(رحمه الله), and what proves the needlessness to stipulate [its obligation] is Allāh's statement: {And the food of those given the scripture is lawful for you}, so he made their sacrifice lawful with the possibility that they might say Bismillāh or not". And al-Muḥlab(رحمه الله) said: "This Ḥadīth is a fundamental basis that the Tasmiyah upon a sacrifice is not obligatory, because if it was obligatory, it would have been stipulated in all cases".

And this is questionable, and the Ḥadīth isn't explicit in negating the obligation, and its outward meaning implies that the commands of the Muslims are held upon acceptance, so if a Muslim finds meat which was slaughtered by someone else, and he isn't sure whether he mentioned the name of Allāh, it's lawful for him to go eat it because the slaughterer is a Muslim, and it's assumed that he mentioned the name of Allāh.

And the third saying on this issue: That the Tasmiyah is a condition in all cases, so you can't eat the slaughtering without it, which was mentioned by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) in a narration and was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyah(رحمه الله) in the Fatāwah(35/239), and he said this is the clearer view, for verily the Qur'ān and Sunnah has specified it to be lawful through the mentioning of Allāh's name in several places, like His saying: {So eat of what we catch for you, and mention the name of Allah upon it}, and His saying {so eat from that which Allah's name was mentioned upon} and His saying {And why should you not eat of that upon which the name of Allah has been mentioned} and His saying: {and don't eat from that which hasn't been mentioned the name of Allah on it}

And in the Saḥīhayn that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "If the blood is shed and the name of Allah is mentioned, then eat from it"

And I respond against these proofs that none of the Saḥābah have gone towards the outwardness meaning of these ḥadīths, and ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) has given a fatwa contrary to it.

And some of the scholars have applied it to intentionally leaving off the Tasmiyah and what's correct about the prohibition of eating over that which hasn't had Allah's name mentioned over it, means something which has been slaughtered to other than Allah and what has been done in the name of the Gods and statues/idols or the Messiah or other than that. Al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) said in his saḥīh "and ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) said whoever forgets the Tasmiyah, there's no problem...and Allah(سبحانه وتعالى) said {And do not eat of that upon which the name of Allah has not been mentioned, for indeed, it is Fisq(grave disobedience)} and the forgetful one is not called a Fāsiq"

And the saying of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) was collected by Sa'eed ibn Mansūr and al-Dāraqutnī and its chain is authentic and 'Abdul al-Razzāq narrated it in the Musannaf(8538) from Ma'mar from Ayyūb from 'Ikrimah from Ibn 'Abbas(رضي الله عنه) who said "...If anyone of you forgets to remember Allāh's name upon the sacrifice, say bismillāh(afterwards) and eat"

And al-Hāfidh ibn Jarīr(رحمه الله) said in his tafsīr(8/20) about the saying of Allah(سبحانه وتعالى) {And do not eat over that which Allah's name is not mentioned over it} "And the correct view regarding that statement is to say that Allah(سبحانه وتعالى) is referring to those who slaughter to their idols and gods and what has died or the one who sacrificed it is someone who's sacrifice isn't permissible [to eat from].

But as for whoever said: He's referring by that, what the muslim has sacrificed & forgot to mention the name of Allāh, then this is a saying which is far from the truth by its bizarreness & emittance of what the Jamā'ah are upon from its permissibility, and that citation is sufficient to realise the corruptness of that view."

And Ibn al-'Arabī(رحمه الله) said in Ahkām al-Qur'ān(2/750) "And as for the one who forgets the Tasmiyah over the sacrifice, then it doesn't become unlawful because Allah(سبحانه وتعالى) said {and indeed it is great disobedience(Fisq)} and the forgetful one is not a Fāsiq by ljmā', so it doesn't become unlawful for him..."

And Ibn Qudāmah(رحمه الله) said something similar to that in al-Mughnī(11/33).

And he considered the Tasmiyah compulsory for hunting and not to be missed at any case, unlike slaughtering, but what's most correct is that there's no difference between hunting and slaughtering, so the forgetful one is excused from that, unlike the one who intentionally avoids the Tasmiyah and the proofs for that are many and Allah(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

*Is the Authenticating & Weakening of the Hadīths by Shaykh al-Muhaddīth al-Albānī(رحمه الله) accurate or not?*

Shaykh al-Muhaddīth Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-‘Alwān(حفظه الله) responds by saying:

The brother says that a group of people say that the authenticating of al-Albānī(رحمه الله) isn't accurate in comparison to the early scholars. And this is True, whether he authenticated the Hadīths or weakened the Hadīths, because the Usūl that he follows in his authenticating and weakening is upon the Usūl of the Later scholars, upon the Usūl of ibn al-Salāh(رحمه الله), upon the Usūl of al-Hāfidh al-‘Irāqī(رحمه الله), upon the Usūl of ibn Hajr(رحمه الله), he doesn't follow in his Usūl, the Usūl of Yahyā ibn Sa‘īd al Qattān(رحمه الله), the Usūl of ibn Mahdī(رحمه الله), the Usūl of Imām Ahmād(رحمه الله), the Usūl of al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله), Usūl of Muslim(رحمه الله), or upon the Usūl of the early scholars, so he goes along the Usūl of the later scholars, not the Usūl of the Early scholars, and if those were the means that he goes along, it is considered a weak means, so usually the end result would be inconsiderable. So consequently, he has many things that he authenticates which goes against the Methodology of the early scholars, or he weakens that which has a clear difference to the Methodology of the early scholars, because the differences between the early & the later scholars are many, I'll mention the most important of those differences to clarify the intent and meaning.

So from among that, al-Tadlees[covering up a break in the chain], whenever al-Tadlees is proven in the Hadīth, then it's a ‘ila(hidden defect), and there's no dispute in this, whereas the later scholars consider the “an ‘ana”[i.e. narrates by using the term “an”(from)] of the person described with Tadlees as “Tadlees”, and this hasn't been stated by any of the early scholars, and al-Albānī(رحمه الله) follows this principle, of the Usūl of the later scholars, not the Usūl of the early scholars. So he says about the hadith that it has ‘an ‘ana of al-Hassan(رحمه الله), it has ‘an ‘ana of Qatādah(رحمه الله), there is ‘an ‘ana of Abī Ishāq al-Sabī‘ī(رحمه الله), there is ‘an ‘ana of al-A‘mash(رحمه الله), there is ‘an ‘ana of ibn Jurayj(رحمه الله), there is ‘an ‘ana of ibn al-Zubayr(رحمه الله) and he defects the Hadīths in this way, he has weakened Hadīths in Muslim upon this way, and none of the early scholars were upon this Manhaj, and it's not known from any of the Imāms that they defected a Hadīth by ‘an ‘ana of a Mudallis or the person described with Tadlees, rather the early scholars say “Dalas”, and they do not say “an ‘an”, so if it's proven that he “Dalas”[cheated], we will defect the Hadīth because this is a disconnection, and if he ‘an ‘an and he didn't “Dalis”, merely a ‘an ‘ana, this doesn't affect[the Hadīth], and this is what the early scholars are upon, and this is from the enormous differences between the early and the later scholars.

The second matter: Ziyādat ul-Thiqah[The addition of a trustworthy narrator]. The Madhab of the Fuqahā' and Mutakalimeen is that the addition of a trustworthy narrator is accepted in all cases, and many of the later scholars have followed this, so ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) says in al-Nukhbā “and the addition of its narrator is accepted, as long as it doesn't go against that whom is more authentic” and this is not the Manhaj of the [early] Imāms, and he has determined/stipulated the Manhaj of the Early scholars in “Kitāb al-Nukat ‘ala kitāb ibn al-Salāh”, and in that book, he has overlooked/neglected in determining the Usūl of the early Imams in this matter, so some of the later scholars or a group of later scholars as it's the statement of the Fuqahā' that the addition of a trustworthy narrator is accepted and this is well-known in the authenticating of the later scholars, “This is an addition of a trustworthy narrator, therefore it's accepted”. The early scholars do not give the addition an absolute/general ruling, so at times they would accept the addition and sometimes they would reject the addition, and they do not give an absolute/general ruling.

The third matter: Raising weak Hadīths to Hassan by Shawāhid(finding supporting narrations), the early scholars do not expand in that, and among the later scholars, there is severe expansion, that most of their authentications & Hassan gradings is when the Hadith comes from different chains. And that is why the authentications by the later scholars have exceeded 50,000 Hadīths, and this is an exaggeration in the authenticating of Hadīths, and many of that is Munkar, it has no basis to it, the issue is not a Hadīth or 2 Hadīths, when the Hadīths reach 5,000 hadiths, 4000 are all Munkar[Denounced]. The early scholars did not call a Hadīth “Hassan” by Shawāhid except by well known conditions and guidelines as a methodology among them, so from that, they don't call a Hadīth Hassan by Shawāhid in the Usūl[can't be the main hadīth which Fiqh and rulings are derived from the hadīth] and they do not accept it. And from that, is that they don't call a Hadīth Hassan by Shawāhid if it goes against an authentic Hadīth. And from that, is that they don't call a Hadīth Hassan by Shawāhid if there's a liar or a person accused of fabricating or a fault or a Nakārah(discrepancy) in the Isnād(chain).

The fourth matter: Al-Tafarrūd(singular narrations), the early scholars would consider the issue of Tafarrūd a great concern, and they would sometimes not accept the Hadīth of the Mutaffarid even if he was Trustworthy(Thiqah), and usually as a methodology that they had, they would reject the Hadīth of the Sadūq in the Usūl, and this isn't taken into consideration by the later scholars, and they do not differentiate between what is in the Usūl[the main hadīth which Fiqh and rulings are derived from the hadīth & chapter] and what is in other than the Usūl, and by the end result of the inability to apply this methodology, they authenticate many Munkar Hadīths. Because the Hadīth of the Sadūq or the Hadith of a Thiqāh who doesn't narrate a lot of Hadīths, and isn't known by many singular narrations, if he makes Tafarrūd in an Asl, then this is a place of dispute, so from that, the hadith that was narrated by Ahmad(رحمه الله) and Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) in his Sunan from the chain of Muhammad ibn ishāq from Abī ‘Ubaydah ibn ‘Abdillāh ibn Zam’ah from his father from his mother from Umm Salamah that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

“On this day you have been allowed to take off ihram when you have thrown the stones at the jamrahs, that is, everything prohibited during the state of ihram is lawful except intercourse with a woman. If the evening comes before you go round this House (the Ka’bah) you will remain in the sacred state (i.e. ihram), just like the state in which you were before you threw stones at the jamrahs”

And this report is Munkar, it’s not possible to accept the Tafarrūd of ibn ishāq in it, and even if the Tafarrūd of ibn Ishāq was accepted, it’s not possible to accept the Tafarrūd of Abī ‘Ubaydah, and this is a followed principle among the early scholars, that in such a situation, the Tafarrūd of the Sadūq is not accepted who is not known with precision/accuracy and itqān(firmness/minimal errors) and a person who narrates many Ahādīth, and this is merely an example, for the examples are many. The later scholars do not look except at what seems to be apparent of the chain and what ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) said in al-Taqreeb “Thiqah” or “Sadūq” and in the end he says “its chain is authentic”.

And this is the fifth matter; that the later scholars go by the apparent look of the chains, they authentic based upon this, as for the early scholars, then no. They look at the chain and look at the matn(text), and when they look into the Isnād(chain), they look at several aspects:

The first aspect: The trustworthiness of the narrators.

The second aspect: Al-Sama’āt[Whether the narrators have met], they stress on the Sama’āt a lot.

The third aspect: Al-Tafarrūd[the narrator is alone in narrating a hadith], they stress on the chain and the Tafarrūd.

The fourth aspect: Al-Mukhālafah[The differences/oppositions between the narrators], they look at this very deeply.

The fifth aspect: al-Ikhtilāf[inconsistencies in who he’s narrating from], they look into it very deeply, sometimes they would rule upon it with Idtirāb(shakiness).

The early scholars would consider this a very great concern; they wouldn’t be heedless to any of these aspects.

The sixth matter: The Majhūl(unknown) Hadīth, the later scholars weaken the Hadith of Majhūl al-‘Ayn, or before that, they settled upon categorising Majhūl into two types, Majhūl Hāl[2 people have narrated from him] and Majhūl ‘Ayn[1 person has narrated from him]. So they weaken the Hadīth of Majhūl al-‘Ayn and some of them weaken the Hadith of Majhūl al-Hāl, and some of them authenticate it, but as for the early scholars, then no. They mention conditions for a man whenever he would be considered Majhūl and whenever he wouldn’t be considered Majhūl. So if he narrates from a narrator who’s trustworthy many times, who is not known to narrate from the weak narrators, nor from the Unknown, then this would cause his Jahālah[unknownness] to be raised by the one who he narrated from. And they stipulate that his narrator must be consistent and not make Tafarrūd in an Asl[Main Hadith of the chapter/Original Version], and that he doesn’t go against the trustworthy narrators, and this isn’t taken into consideration among the later scholars. And it’s narrated from the early scholars that if a narrator narrates from a group of trustworthy narrators, his Jahālah[unknownness] would be raised from him, and by this, they make the issue of Tafarrūd as an issue of Mukhālafah.

So these are the differences or some of differences between the Early & the Later scholars, and by applying these principles, your Usūl[Foundations] would become upright, and if the Foundation is upright, the branches would follow, and the end result would be stable/good, and by the deficiency of applying these principles, you will destabilise the Usūl, and if you’ve destabilised the Usūl, shakiness/destabilisation would be found in the branches, giving the poor end result.

Not everything I mention from the Scholars means that it's the only correct definite opinion. I am free from those who copy/paste 1 Fatwā to condemn whoever disagree's with that Fatwā. Even if the proofs within the Fatwā are clear from the Qur’ān & Sunnāh, don't attack others for disagreeing & try gain victory over them, our purpose is to guide the people, even if they had mistakes & deviations in 'Aqīdah, always remember that.

Note: I'm not saying that you can't refute no one wal-iyāthubillāh, but sadly refuting a deviant {with insults} has become a bigger priority than wanting guidance for him. Refute his ideas in a nice way, without getting too personal [even though we've all made mistakes].

Supporting the Kuffār against the Muslims is from the Foundations of the Religion with no EXCUSE in doing so:

Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) said:

And Shaykh Hamūd al-'Uqlā'(رحمه الله) & Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) aided him in that:

"Verily, Mudhāharah [allying & supporting] is from the Foundations of Tawhīd, and it is from the greatest Foundations of Disavowal and Kufr Bit-Tāghūt, and from the greatest Foundations of Millat Ibrāhīm, which is hating the Kuffār & showing enmity to them, and based upon this, indeed assisting and helping them [the Kuffār] against the Muslims proves two dangerous things:

A) Removal of loyalty towards the believers: With proof that he gives support [to the Kuffār] against them, and assists in killing them, breaking them and humiliating them.

B) Removal of disavowal from the Kuffār: Verily, assisting the Kuffār is proof of having loyalty towards them, exalting them, supporting them, strengthening them, with what it incurs in humiliating the Muslims and gaining the upper-hand over them.

And because of that, these two Foundations [Walā' & Barā'] have been demolished from him, and these two Foundations are not excused by ignorance nor interpretation."

أ - زوال الموالة للمؤمنين : بدليل أنه يعين عليهم ويساعد على قتلهم وكسرهم وإذلالهم

ب - زوال البراءة من الكفار : فإن مساعدة الكفار دليل على موالاتهم وتعظيمهم ونصرتهم وإعزازهم بما فيه

There's no EXCUSE for any individual or govt in allying with the Kuffār - Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said:

But when some of those who claim to be Muslims support the enemies of Allāh to fight the Muslims, then this is apostasy from Islām. And every government and every individual that fights with the Americans against our muslim brothers in Afghānistān or Chechnya, then he's an apostate from Islām & a disbeliever in Allāh, the most high & exalted, because Allāh(جل وعلا) says: {And whoever is an ally to them among you - then indeed, he is [one] of them.}, that was mentioned by Imām Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsir upon this Āyah, and that was mentioned by Imām Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) & he stated "No two muslims disagree regarding that", and that was mentioned by Shaykh al-Islām Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) in the 10 Nullifiers of Islām, he stated in 1 of them: "Assisting the Mushrikeen against the Muslims", and there is no EXCUSE for anyone regarding that!

And the claim of Ikrāh [coercion] regarding that is not correct, because it is not ikrāh that you remain upon the account & settlement of others, and it's not from Ikrāh that you remain in your position [of serving the Kuffār] to remove an Islamic State/Govt, Allāh(جل وعلا) says: {except for one who is forced [to renounce his religion] while his heart is secure in faith}, and these people comply with the Kuffār before Ikrāh is befallen upon them, they comply with the Kuffār in alliance with them in removing the symbols & slogans of Islām, and in fighting the muslims under the pretext of "Terrorism", what is this terrorism?! We do not know of any terrorism in the world except for the terrorism of America who kill the sons of the Muslims, invading & occupying their lands.

was asked: What is the ruling on raising the hands after the (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān ?obligatory prayers

:responded by saying (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān

Specifying raising the hands for du'ā after the obligatory prayers isn't prescribed, and it has no basis nor anyone from the Sahābah, neither did anyone from the (صلى الله عليه وسلم), from the Prophet .Tābi'īn give a verdict of doing so

And acts of worship by principle are to be prevented from being performed until proof is established, and everyone who mentioned the description of his [Prophet's] Salāh did not mention that he used .to raise his hands & make du'ā after the obligatory Salāh

And it has been narrated in the Sahīhayn [Bukhārī and Muslim] and others from the chain of Ibrāhīm that the (رضي الله عنها)ibn Sa'd from his father from al-Qāsim ibn Muḥammād from 'Ā'isha said: "If anyone introduces in our matter [i.e. Islām], something which (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Prophet "does not belong to it, will be rejected

However if an incident befalls a worshipper which calls for making du'ā, so he performs du'ā after the Salāh & raised his hands without intentionally specifying this time [for du'ā], then that's .completely fine

And it has been narrated in the Sahīhayn from the chain of Mālik from Abī Hātim ibn Dīnār from went to Banī 'Amr ibn 'Awf to make (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Sahl ibn Sa'd al-Sā'idī that the Prophet (رضي الله عنه)reconciliation between them, so it was time for prayer, and a Mu'athīn came to Abī Bakr said: "Will you lead the people in Prayer so I can make the call to Salāh?" He said: "Yes", & (عنه) came while the (صلى الله عليه وسلم)so Abū Bakr started praying, and the Messenger of Allāh people were in Salāh and he entered the rows of the praying people till he stood in the (first row). The people clapped their hands. Abu Bakr never glanced sideways in his prayer but when the (ﷺ)Allah's Messenger .(ﷺ)people continued clapping, Abu Bakr looked and saw Allah's Messenger beckoned him to stay at his place. Abu Bakr raised his hands and thanked Allah for that order of "[till the end of the Hadīth]...(ﷺ)Allah's Messenger

This has proof for making du'ā & raising the hands in the likes of these situations, since Abū approved of (رضي الله عنه)did that out of his own Ijtihād and the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Bakr what he did, so this affirms the ruling [in these situations], whether he's within Salāh or outside of it, .knows best (سبحانه وتعالى)and Allāh

It's not a condition to drink water in order to say this Dhikr, rather you say it after you eat or drink:

ذهب الظمأ وابتلت العروق وثبت الأجر إن شاء الله

"Thirst has gone, the arteries are moist, and the reward is sure, if Allah wills." [Authentic]

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) says those who say that you can't say this dhikr unless you drank water are mistaken, rather you say it after you eat, even if you didn't drink water, and the Prophet's saying {Thirst has gone}, i.e. That food has fluid minerals in it which removes thirst, and he mentioned some reasons for that:

1. That food has water minerals within it.
2. This dhikr is said for food, it doesn't have to be said for water, because if he breaks his fast, the thirst is gone & the arteries become moist.
3. It's probable that the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) used to say it even without drinking water, because he used to break his fast on dates, and it's not necessary to [break your fast] on both water & dates together.
4. The Prophet's statement: "and the arteries become moist", i.e. becomes moist through [eating] food, it doesn't have to become moist by [drinking] water.

And he also mentioned that the dhikr:

اللهم لك صمنا وعلى رزقك أفطرنا

"O Allāh, for you we have fasted, and by your provisions/sustenance we have broken our fast"

This Hadīth is Mursal, so it's weak & the only authentically narrated Dhikr from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) was what was previously mentioned from the Hadīth of ibn 'Omar (رضي الله عنهما) and Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

505 – And it's narrated from them that Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه) kissed the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) after he passed away. Narrated by Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله).

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) said: Bishr ibn Muḥammād(رحمه الله) narrated to us, he said: 'Abdullāh(رحمه الله) informed us, he said: Ma'mar(رحمه الله) and Yūnus(رحمه الله) narrated to us from al-Zuhrī(رحمه الله) from Abī Salamah ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān(رضي الله عنه) from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها), the Hadīth.

And it's narrated in the chapter from 'Āsim ibn 'Ubaydillāh(رحمه الله) from al-Qāsim ibn Muḥammād(رحمه الله) from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) kissed 'Uthmān ibn Madh'ūn(رضي الله عنه) when he passed away.

It was narrated by Imām Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) & al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) in his Jāmi', and its chain is very weak because of 'Āsim ibn 'Ubaydillāh's situation, Imām Abū Hātim(رحمه الله) said about him: "He has a poor memory, and is Mudtarib in Hadīth", and he was weakened by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) and Abū Zur'ah(رحمه الله), and Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) said: "The Shu'bah of yours is very strict in relating from men, yet he narrates from 'Āsim ibn 'Ubaydillāh!", and even though Shu'bah(رحمه الله) narrated from 'Āsim ibn 'Ubaydillāh, except that he said very harsh words about him which wasn't mentioned by anyone before him nor after him, he[Shu'bah] said: {If you asked 'Āsim ibn 'Ubaydillāh who built Masjid al-Basrah, he would say: "It was narrated to me by Fulān[i.e. Doesn't know his name] from Fulān from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) that he built it"}.

And the point is that 'Āsim ibn 'Ubaydillāh is agreed upon regarding his weakness, yet Imām Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) still authenticated him, and he was opposed regarding this, and he was rebuked because of it, and he was weakened by those who are more observing than him such as Abī Zur'ah(رحمه الله), Abī Hātim(رحمه الله), Ahmad(رحمه الله), Mālik(رحمه الله) & the likes of them.

So what's relied upon in this issue is the action of Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه).

And it has proof upon the permissibility of kissing the deceased, and some gone towards its recommendation, and this is questionable, what is simply in the report shows its permissibility, and the action of Abī Bakr(رضي الله عنه) wasn't intended to be done as an act of worship, he simply did this so it becomes known that it's permissible, because if kissing the dead was prohibited, he wouldn't have done so.

Some of the Shurrāh[commentators of Hadīth] have said that Abā Bakr(رضي الله عنه) kissed the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) through seeking his blessings, and this is wrong for several reasons, however before we mention these reasons, we need to know that many of the Shurrāh of Hadīth are lenient in this matter, especially al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) in Fath al-Bārī & al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) in his Sharh of Sahīh Muslim & al-'Aynī in 'Umdat al-Qārī', and these [Imāms] have been followed by many who came after them, so you will not find them going through a report of [these hadiths] except that they took the recommendation of Tabarruk bi-Āthār al-Sālihīn [seeking blessings through the traces of the righteous], and there's no doubt that this action is a Bid'ah in the religion, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) did not encourage his Ummāh to do it, and if it was prescribed, he wouldn't have neglected [mentioning] that, as Abū Dhar(رضي الله عنه) said: "There is not a bird that turns over its wings in the wind, except that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) informed us about its knowledge"

It was narrated by Ahmad(رحمه الله) from the chain of Ibn 'Attiyyāh(الله), he said: al-Ashyākh(الله) narrated to me from Abī Dhar(رضي الله عنه). Its chain is good.

And Imām Muslim(الله) narrated in his Sahīh from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Amr ibn al-Ās(الله رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Allāh did not send a Prophet except that it was a right upon him to guide his Ummāh towards goodness of what he teaches them, and prohibits them from evil of what he teaches them."

Therefore, if seeking nearness and seeking blessings through the traces of the righteous was something good & brought goodness for this Ummāh, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would've clarified that, and this is included within his statement: "to guide his Ummāh towards goodness of what he teaches them", so it becomes known that it's from the evil which the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has warned us against, and it's included within the broad meaning of the Hadīth of 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) in the Sahīhayn: "Whoever introduces into our affair(i.e. Islām) that which is not from it, then it's rejected"

And that is why you see some ignorant people seek blessings from the turbans of the Scholars and the turbans of the students of Knowledge, and they seek blessings by their sweat and shoes, and they seek nearness by his essence, and this is from the innovations in the religion and from the actions of the misguided Sūfiyyāh.

As for these reasons:

1. Where has it been mentioned to us that Abā Bakr(رضي الله عنه) did this by seeking blessings from his traces, and the one who states this is not able to provide an evidence for his statement, all he simply has is suspicion, and suspicion does not coincide with the truth at all.

2. That if Abā Bakr(رضي الله عنه) did this to seek blessings from him, he would've also done it to other than the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), however Abā Bakr(رضي الله عنه) did not mention this, nor did he point towards it, nor did he do it with other than the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) didn't have any exclusiveness for this kind of kiss as well.

3. That if Abā Bakr(رضي الله عنه) did this to seek his blessings, then under this is 2 points:

The first point: That the kissing is exclusive to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), because he himself has a status which others don't have, and those who adopt this view do not adhere to this, and this compels them to adhere to it.

The second point: That if we said it was done to receive blessings, we would say that this action is exclusive to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

4. That when Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه) performed this [act], he did it with love, the context of the report proves this, and that's why Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه) cried and said: {By Allah! Allah will never cause you to die twice}, so the outward context [meaning of the Hadīth] refutes whoever claims that Abī Bakr(رضي الله عنه) did this as to seek his blessings.

5. That if he did this to seek his blessings, all of the Sahābah would have hastened to perform it. Why is this act exclusive to Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه), why didn't the wives of the Prophet(الله صلى الله عليه وسلم) come, nor did 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), then 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه), then 'Alī(الله رضي الله عنه) and the rest of the Sahābah come to seek blessings by the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), seeking blessings by his essence, so when this action wasn't performed, since they are more sublime & knowledgeable in Allāh to seek blessings by kissing [the Prophet].

Conclusion: What is simply in the report is that it gives the permissibility of kissing the dead, and [all] knowledge is with Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى).

Imām Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(الله) refuting the misconception of "ignorance" in his treatise "al-Radd 'ala al-Rāfidah" (page 12-13):

"So if you know that the verses in the Qur'ān have been filled with their virtues [i.e. The Sahābah], and the Mutawātir Ahādīth as a whole specifies their completeness; So whoever believes that they have Fisq or he considers all of them Fāsiq, and their apostasy, and the apostasy of most of them from the religion, or he believes that he has the right to insult them & its permissibility, or insults them while believing he has a right to insult them, or declaring it lawful to do so, then he has disbelieved in Allāh, the exalted, and His messenger of what he has related of their virtues & completeness which necessitates dissociating them from what renders Fisq and apostasy, and the right to insult [them], or declaring it lawful [to do so], and whoever denies them of what has been certainly affirmed in his [the Prophet's] breast regarding them [the virtues of the Sahābah], then he has disbelieved, and ignorance in widespread clear-cut matters is not an excuse, and his interpretation & diversion without any reliable & acceptable proof doesn't benefit him, such as the one who denied the obligation of the 5 daily prayers due to ignorance of its obligation, so he will be a Kāfir due to this type of ignorance, and likewise if he interprets it to another meaning to what we know, then he has disbelieved, because the reoccurring knowledge from the texts of the Qurʾān & Aḥādīth that allude towards their virtues is clear-cut.

So whoever specifies some of them to be insulted, if he was among those that the text has widely mentioned regarding his virtues and completeness, such as the Khulafāʾ, so if he believes that he has the right to insult or declares it lawful to do so, then he has disbelieved for denying what has clearly been proven from the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and the one who denies/belies him [i.e. The Messenger] is a Kāfir, and if he insulted him [a companion] without believing he has the right to insult or declaring it lawful to do so, then he has become a Fāsiq, because insulting a Muslim is Fusūq, and some of the Scholars have ruled upon whoever insulted the Shaykhayn [Abū Bakr & 'Omar] with Kufr in all cases. [1]

And if he [the companion] was among those which the text hasn't widely mentioned his virtues and completeness, then what's apparent is that the one who insults him is a Fāsiq, except if he insults him because of his companionship with the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), for that is Kufr.

And the Majority of these Rāfidah who insult the Sahābah believe in the right to insult them or its permissibility, infact they believe in its obligation, because they get closer to Allāh, the exalted by doing that, and they see that as a matter pertaining their religion as it's mentioned from them.

What intellect is more misguided than a people who get closer to Allāh, the exalted, by what results in them [i.e. The Rawāfidh] in losing their religion, and Allāh is the Protector.

And this is while I do not believe in the Kufr of whoever was a Muslim according to Allāh, nor do I believe in the Islām of whoever is a Kāfir according to Him, rather I believe whoever is a Kāfir according to Him is a Kāifr.

And what is proven from the Scholars that they do not perform Takfīr upon Ahlāl Qiblā, then that is held upon whoever's Bid'ah did not take him outside the fold of Islām, because their speech is in agreement regarding the Takfīr of whoever's Bid'ah took him outside the fold of Islām, and there's no doubt that belying the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) of what has been clear-cut affirmed from him is Kufr, and ignorance in the likes of this is not an excuse, and Allāh knows best.

[1] Those who insult Abū Bakr & 'Omar were called Kuffār in all cases, even if he didn't believe it was permissible to do so, which is the view of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), as Imām al-Khallāl(رحمه الله) has narrated in "al-Sunnāh" (page 493):

He said: Abū Bakr al-Marwathī informed me, he said: I asked Abā 'Abdillāh [i.e. Imām Ahmad] regarding the one who insults Abā Bakr, 'Omar & 'Ā'isha? So he replied: "I do not see him upon Islām".

He [also] said: I heard Abā 'Abdillāh say: Mālik said: "The one who insults the companions of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) doesn't have any share in Islām" [End Quote] and this is Correct.

What should be recited in Salāt al-Witr?

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said:

The Sunnāh for whoever prays 3 Rak'ah of Witr is to read after the Fātihah, "Sūrat al-A'lah" & in the second [rak'ah] "Sūrat al-Kāfirūn" and in the third [rak'ah] "Sūrat al-Ikhlās" because of the Hadīth of Sa'īd ibn 'Abdul al-Rahmān ibn Abzā from his father from Ubayy ibn Ka'b(رضي الله عنه) that he said: "The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) used to make Witr by reciting 'Sabih isma Rabika al-a'lah' and 'Qul yā ayuha al-kāfirūn' and 'Qul huwa Allāhu Ahad'.." This is reported by Imām Ahmad [1], Abū Dāwūd [2] and al-Nasā'ī [3].

And the two Imāms, al-Shāfi'ī & Mālik may Allāh(جل وعلا) have mercy upon them, recommended reciting the Mu'awithatayn(Sūrat al-Nās & Sūrat al-Falaq) after Sūrat al-Ikhlās, because of what Abū Dāwūd [4], al-Tirmidhī [5] and ibn Mājah [6] have narrated from the chain of Khasīf from 'Abdul 'Azīz ibn Jurayj from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) used to recite in the first Rak'ah 'Sabih isma rabika al-a'lah' and in the second rak'ah 'Qul yā Ayuha al-kāfirūn' and in the third Rak'ah 'Qul huwa Allāhu Ahad & the Mu'awithatayn(Sūrat al-Nās & al-Falaq)'.

And it was narrated by ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh and al-Tahāwī(رحمه الله) and al-Hākim(رحمه الله) and others from the chain of Yahya ibn Ayūb from Yahya ibn Sa'eed from 'Umrah from Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) from him[the prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم)]. And it was authenticated by al-Hākim(رحمه الله), and Al-Dhahabī(رحمه الله) did not comment upon his Grading, and it was graded Hassan by ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) in Natā'ij al-Afkār [7]. And there is dispute in this, because the addition of "al-Mu'awithatayn" in the hadīth isn't authentic and it's not prescribed to be recited after Sūrat al-Ikhlās, and Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) and Yahya ibn Ma'een(رحمه الله) have rejected the addition of "Al-Mu'awithatayn" and the statements are mentioned below:

- The first report of Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) has a disconnection(إنقطاع) in the chain, and that is because ibn Jurayj didn't meet/hear from Ā'isha, this was said by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) & a group of scholars [8], and al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) said in al-Tārīkh al-Kabīr(6/23) 'Abdul 'Azīz ibn Jurayj from Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) doesn't follow up in the hadīth [meaning it's Munkar, Rejected]. And the person it's narrated from Khasīf ibn 'Abdul Rahmān has a weak memory. He was weakened by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) and ibn Khuzaymah(رحمه الله) and Yahyah ibn Sa'eed al-Qattān(رحمه الله) said "It was on that day we stayed away from Khasīf's hadīth" [9].

- As for the second hadīth, it's not authentic. And the Tafarrūd [singular narration] of Yahya ibn Ayūb cannot be relied upon. Al-Athram(رحمه الله) said: "I heard Abū 'Abdillāh ask about Yahyah ibn Ayūb al-Masī, so he said "He used to narrate from his memory, and there was nothing wrong with him, and he used to make alot of faults from his memory, so I mentioned to him one of his hadīth on the authority of Yahyah from 'Umrah from Ā'isha "That the messenger used to recite in al-Witr... [the hadīth which mentions the addition after Al-Ikhlās]. So he said "Ahh, who narrated this" and he said one time: "How many people have narrated this from Ā'isha and it doesn't have this[addition], so he rejected the hadīth of Yahya in specific" [10].

And al-'Uqaylī(رحمه الله) said "As for the mu'awithatayn, it's not authentic" and therefore, it's not prescribed to recite them after Sūrat al-Ikhlās because of the weakness of the reports regarding it, so the Musallī [the person praying] should recite from the authentically narrated reports, "Sūrat al-A'lah" in the first Rak'ah, "Sūrat al-Kāfirūn" in the second Rak'ah and in the third Rak'ah "Sūrat al-Ikhlās" and shouldn't add onto this. And some of the scholars don't view it recommended to intentionally recite these 3 Sūrah's [11], and this is disputable, and the hadīth of Ubayy ibn Ka'b(رضي الله عنه) refutes this(since the hadīth proves that it's Mustahhab). And some scholars said that you shouldn't continuously persist in reciting these Sūrah's in al-Witr because he will go towards the understanding that it's compulsory to do so [12]. And there is strength in this saying, because the constant [recitation of these Suwar] hasn't been proven, but as for the reasoning [they gave], then it's disputable because it would be applied upon all of the Sunan, and this isn't correct.

And know that it's recommended once you finish from the Witr to say "Subhān al-Malik al-Qudūs" three times because of the hadīth of Ubayy ibn Ka'b(رضي الله عنه) where he said "The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) used to recite in the Witr ....[The hadīth where it mentions the Sūrah's]" and in the (same hadīth, it mentions) "if he gave Taslīm, he would say: Subhān al-Malik al-Qudūs three times" Narrated by al-Nasā'ī [13]. And in the hadīth of 'Abdul Rahmān ibn Abza(رضي الله عنه) who is a small companion "And he(the prophet) would raise his voice on the third time(of saying Subhān al-Malik al-Qudūs)". Narrated by Ahmad(رحمه الله) and al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله), and al-Dāraqutnī [14] added onto the hadīth of Ubayy ibn Ka'b(رضي الله عنه) "Rabb al-Malā'ikah wa'l Rūh" and this addition isn't authentic and what's memorised is the previously mentioned hadīth والله اعلم was asked: What is the ruling on abandoning 1 Salāh until (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān ?its time expires responded by saying: The brother asks about whomever (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān abandons Salāt al-Fajr & he didn't wake up, except after the sun has risen, and he intentionally also mentioned a consensus (رحمه الله تعالى) abandoned & prayed it after the sun has risen. Ishāq regarding the Kufr of whoever leaves 1 Salāh until its time expires, i.e. Intentionally until its time expires, however the Ahādīth have come to show that he doesn't disbelieve for abandoning a single .Salāh, and the explicit Ahādīth [showing Kufr] are regarding whoever abandons Salāh completely

However, there's another problem, that some people put the alarm on at all times, and during times of study, and he intentionally abandons Salāh & makes it up after its expired time, this person could disbelieve from the aspect of Shirk al-Mahabbāh [Shirk of Love], and from the aspect of Shirk al-Ta'dhīm [Shirk of Exaltation], and from the aspect of Shirk al-Musāwāt [Shirk of putting something on the same level], or even greater [than this], wherein the affairs of the Dunyā are has obligated upon him, and in any case, it's (جل وعلا) worthier in his heart & self than what Allāh obliged to rebuke whoever does this, and he must be advised and warned and guided, even if the (جل) matter reached exiling him, he would be exiled until he returns back to the command of Allāh Moreover, he has a characteristic of the hypocrites; As (صلى الله عليه وسلم) His Messenger & (وعلا) said: "I have seen the time when no one stayed behind [Salāh] except a (رضي الله عنه) Ibn Mas'ūd in his Sahīh (رحمه الله) well-known hypocrite" [1] It was narrated by Imām Muslim

A serious student spends years learning Arabic Grammar, and as the Scholars say, it starts off hard but only gets easier throughout the passage of time. Speak & Study Arabic as much as you can under many teachers, it will pay off in the future Inshā'Allāh. It's essential for every Islamic Science & the key to understanding the meanings of the Qur'ān & Sunnah.

Many brothers & sisters are upon the correct 'Aqīdah Alhamdulilāh by reading translated books in English & listening to Scholars of Haqq, may Allah bless you for that, but without knowing Arabic, you have a huge disadvantage in teaching it to others & many other disadvantages. This is what I've noticed in the west:

1. Too many brothers on Haqq saying "Knowing Arabic didn't save Abū Lahab". Even though this is true, but it's sadly being used in a way to undermine learning Arabic. How many brothers do you see only speaking about Tyrant Rulers for hours on end & only focusing on certain 'Aqīdah issues & Takfīr.

2. Too many Speakers who studied Arabic & some other sciences who have a voice to spread their deviance. They aren't real people of knowledge to begin with, yet have bigger biographies than Shaykh Ibn Bāz(رحمه الله). These are the same people who mock Category #1 & belittle them for not knowing Arabic. Now just because someone knows Arabic, it doesn't mean he's fit to speak about the deen either, he could be Jāhil of Fiqh & 'Aqīdah & Tafsīr! And what these so called people who boast about knowing Arabic need to understand is that they are judging the people of Haqq based upon some brothers who don't have proper manners or knowledge about Arabic, whereas there are people of Haqq who speak much better Arabic than you. And this argument of belittling others for not knowing Arabic is not even used by the evil Scholars in the middle east, so this is a bonus argument, the speakers of the west can use. Rather the Sell-Out Shaykhs in Saudi & elsewhere simply call the youth "Young, Brainwashed & Emotional, learning deen online etc...", but at the same time, these evil govt scholars go to prisons to see real Scholars of Haqq & try recant them from their beliefs, infact the regime executed many Scholars of Haqq, but because they're not famous, the wicked scholars can portray that there's no knowledgeable people amongst the followers of the Haqq, but as time goes by, the lies are fading away, their arguments are as strong as a spider-web, the Haqq & true methodology of the Salaf is rising with Nūr.

My advice to the Brothers & Sisters is to focus on memorising the Qur'ān & perfecting the Arabic Language. Don't dive into the complex matters, as long as you have found the righteous groups & 'Ulemā', hold onto them & their Fatāwah, while you learn the basics of your religion. That way, you will remain upon the truth free from Irjā' & Ghulū, while studying Islām in a structured way. This is simply my perspective & opinion on the matter, I can be wrong, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

For decades they've been telling us to shut our mouths about politics and deviant sects, they've been kicking out muslims from the mosques for making du'ā for those defending their land. They tell us to conceal the truth or else your fate will be in prison or be killed. We say there's no harm in that, we were created to worship Allāh alone, disbelieve in the Tāghūt & confront the evil of our times, all the Prophets were sent for this reason. People hate us because we bring up what needs to be discussed TODAY, unlike the Shaykhs who have a voice to speak against the righteous people & mock them. All those years of lying & concealing knowledge from the masses has backfired against you today, the ugly mask is being removed from all the wicked speakers today. The masses look up to those with fame, whereas the sincere strangers think for themselves & realise who has betrayed our Ummah. Imām Abū Muhammad ibn Hazm al-Andalusī(رحمه الله) was fed up with the Scholars of his time, while Spain was being invaded, he called the Scholars corrupt for not speaking about the situation & nothing was heard about it in the mosques as if they've living in peace discussing theological issues. The corrupt people sleep well at night, whereas the sincere hearts have trouble sleeping & become sad when the Muslims suffer. The corrupt people want to make everything "Gray", whereas we say never has the reality been as clear cut as today, you're the ones putting your head in the sand, not seeing the difference between those uniting with all the heretics & apostates & secularists & others who believe unity is to hold onto the Qur'ān, Sunnāh, Ijmā' even if they are alone. I can clearly listen to a lecture & see the truth mixed with falsehood & easily refute those misconceptions, but sadly many of the masses cannot. There's only 1 voice that has freedom to speak what it likes, whether it may be in the east or the west. May Allāh allow us to be fair & just. Those who are concerned about following the truth & pleasing Allāh are the successful ones, may Allāh protect the sincere hearts.

Using the phrase "Masīhiyīn" for the Christians, what's correct is that it's wrong & misguidance, because in reality, they aren't affiliated with Īsa(عليه السلام), and this description isn't to be used for them, since Allāh has called them Christians and he did not call them Masīhiyīn.

The reason why I believe it's important to share the Principles of Takfīr is to protect our brothers & sisters from falling into Irjā' & Ghulūw.

We live in a time where Irjā' is widespread & as a result of that, some of our beloved youth have exceeded the limits in performing Takfīr on "Specific Individuals" without paying attention to the مواضع [Preventions/Impediments] of Takfīr upon a "Specific Individual", because the preventions of Takfīr differs from matter to matter, clear & unclear.

When we seek knowledge, we start off by learning the basics, not rushing into principles of Takfīr, but because of the Irjā' & watering down of Tawhīd and Walā' & Barā', the youth are trying to make up for that gap.

One of the biggest doubts thrown by the Murji'ah is that Allāh won't ask you about "Such & Such" on the day of Judgement, whereas this is falsely corrupt because Takfīr is from the Foundations of our religion.

Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) said:

"Allāh Allāh my brothers, regarding the foundation of your religion, bottom to head, firstly & lastly, and it is to bear witness that there's no deity worthy of worship except Allāh and to know its meanings and to love its people and to make them your brothers, even if they were far away from you, and to hate the Tawāghit and disbelieve in the Tāghūt and to hate whoever loves them or argues on their behalf and doesn't disbelieve in them or says, what do I have to do with them, or says Allāh hasn't made me responsible for them, then this person has lied against Allāh & fabricated a big lie".

~ Al-Durar al-Saniyyah (2/119)

How many of the Murji'āh of our time say these words today, so he says "What do I have to do with them", "Allāh hasn't made me responsible for them", "Is Allāh going to ask you on the day of judgement why you didn't make takfeer upon Fulān & Fulānah?," so Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) says generally about those that say "What do I have to do with them, Allāh hasn't made me responsible for them, then this person has lied against Allāh and fabricated a big lie, rather Allāh has obligated upon him to disbelieve in them"

There are so many brothers out there who spend their time refuting "Such & Such" and mocking Tyrants which brings no benefit at all. May Allāh bless you all, but we need more brothers who are serious about perfecting their Arabic & studying Islām, whether it may be Tafsīr, Seerah, Fiqh, Hadīth, 'Aqīdah, Usūl al-Fiqh, Tārīkh etc...Alḥamdulilāh, there are those who are striving hard & teaching others, but we need to see more, especially from our youth who have a lot of potential & are upon the correct Methodology.

I got into a conversation with a Disabled Christian Lebanese Grandmother who was waiting for someone to pick her up. She saw me dressed as a Muslim & asked if I could speak Arabic & do her a favour. I'm like sure, so she asked if I had a car to drop her home, I told her, sorry I came here walking, I can't really help :/ Anyways, she asked what I do & stuff, so I told her I'm a student & I like learning deen & we spoke a bit about that topic... Then all of a sudden, she just looked at me and said, "You never lie, I can just see all goodness in you, I can just feel it when you speak with me". Honestly, I had no idea what to say, so I just Smiled & said Shukran :) She said "I can tell, you never lie, right?" & subhānAllāh she was just amazed by the look on her face, but I told her, "I don't lie Inshā'Allāh, in the past I have lied many times, but not anymore", she said, it's because you pray! I told her yes, definitely! :)) She said bravo 3alayk lol, subhānAllāh but this incident moved me a lot because idk how, but I made her happy somehow by just speaking to her, and she was disabled :(( I told her, I'm just a muslim trying to be a better person, we have a hadīth that our Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) told us to love our brother just like we love ourselves & I gave her some nice da'wah Alḥamdulillah. Then she asked where I was from, and when I told her, she was just staring at me by surprise loooool, she couldn't believe it. She told me your accent is not Lebanese, and she said that she was married to someone from Tripoli, al-Tebānah, but anyways, after all that....I told her i wish i could help, so she said it's okay, you can go home, and was telling me she's never seen any young person like me before ☺ SubhānAllāh, I've had interesting convos with people, especially Arab Christians asking me about Qur'ān & wishing they were as dedicated as us muslims & had something to recite like the Qur'ān. Alḥamdulilāh, this is something to be proud of, we have an amazing Religion, always remember that my brothers ☺

I've been very active as I love Da'wah, but Inshā'Allāh I'll listen to the request of several brothers & take a break off FB. No more spamming your wall lol. Keep up the wonderful things you're doing everyone, and Inshā'Allāh during the time I don't post anything, I can work on my own faults, remove some bad habits & be a better Muslim. Always make Istighfār & Tawbah, whether you remembered doing any sins or not, remove all those impurities from your heart, and SubhānAllāh when I stop looking at the mistakes of others & start looking at my own mistakes, sins & shortcomings, it gives you a reality check & makes you not want to ever think about anyone else except yourself. So return back to Allāh, preserve your Salāh, ponder over the Qur'ān, our Ummāh doesn't just require knowledgeable people, but it needs a lot of worshippers, may Allāh جل وعلا allow us to taste the sweetness of worship, subhānAllāh the way I listen & understand a verse from the Qur'ān today was completely different than even a few months ago! May Allāh reward you all, I hope you can forgive me for every single bad thing that I wrote or made you feel hurt by, Allāh is my witness whether I intended that or not, the angels on my left & right shoulder have been writing down everything that I've said. I don't know how long I'm going to avoid posting on FB, but Inshā'Allāh it's for the better. And finally, something which is really dear to me & means a lot which I hope we can all perfect to excellence [including myself], is please learn your religion with sincerity & don't learn to only debate/argue, and when you discuss with those who differ with you, don't ever raise your voice or be rude & show bad manners or insult, because anyone is capable of doing that, what tells a lot about you is remaining calm & patient & humble in those situations. And never forget about actually learning what's occurring in the Ummāh, because if you are ignorant about the affairs of the Muslims, there must be a deficiency in your Ēmān, no matter how much knowledge you have, ignoring our brothers & sisters is never an excuse, you have an obligation to help them, not just "Aww let's make du'ā" & do nothing. May Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) increase us all in Taqwa, Manners, Knowledge, Humbleness, Humility, Sincerity & Unite our hearts upon Tawhīd, free from any kind of Shirk, Kufr and Bid'ah.

~ I'm not deactivating, but I'll delete the FB app. If you have any questions brothers, feel free to message me Inshā'Allāh

:was asked: What is the ruling & difference between (حفظه الله) Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr ?
A) Ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed
B) Legislating a law other than the law of Allāh? (Which is what's widespread throughout all the ?) [Islamic Lands] responded by saying: The difference between the two is that (حفظه الله) Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr legislation is more specific than ruling by other than what Allāh revealed, and ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed is more general, because the one who rules by other than the law of Allāh could rule by laws & legislation, or rule by whims and desires without legislating, but as for legislation, then it is Major Kufr without any Tafsīl [details], and it is Major Kufr through action which said: {Or have they other (سبحانه وتعالى) doesn't require looking into I'tiqād [belief in the heart], Allāh (سبحانه) deities who have ordained for them a religion to which Allah has not consented}, and Allāh {.[said: {And if you were to obey them, indeed, you would be associators [of others with Him (وتعالى)

As for ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed, then it has Tafsīl [details], so if he rules by a whim or desire in specific matters, then this is Kufr Dūna Kufr (minor kufr) in accordance to the Hadīth: {Judges are of three types, 2 judges are in the hellfire, then he mentioned the ignorant judge and the judge who rules by desires & this is the present reality} It was narrated by the authors of the Sunan. But if he makes a judgement through laws & legislations or legal agreements or regulations made by local authorities or popularisation or customs/traditions & similar to that, which said: {And whoever does not (سبحانه وتعالى)is contrary to the Shari'ah, then this is Major Kufr, Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى)judge by what Allah has revealed - then it is those who are the disbelievers.}, Allāh said: {Have you not seen those who claim to have believed in what was revealed to you, [O Muhammad], and what was revealed before you? They wish to refer legislation to Tāghūt, while said: {They have taken their scholars (سبحانه وتعالى)they were commanded to reject it}, and Allāh has explained this as (صلى الله عليه وسلم)and monks as lords besides Allah}, and the Prophet said: {And if you were (سبحانه وتعالى)obedience in declaring something lawful & unlawful, and Allāh .[to obey them, indeed, you would be associators [of others with Him

#Similar_Response like the previous question:

Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) was asked: And which part of it is considered Kufr dūna Kufr (minor kufr) and which part of it is considered Major Kufr?

Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) responded by saying: Ruling by other than what Allāh revealed has Tafsīl, it could be Major Kufr which nullifies Ēmān and the religion, such as if he rules by a law or customs and traditions or a legislation contrary to the Shari'ah, however if he makes a judgement based upon a whim or desire, then this is Minor Kufr which negates the essential Ēmān, in accordance to the Hadīth: {Judges are of three types, 2 judges are in the hellfire, then he mentioned the ignorant judge and the judge who rules by desires & this is the reality} It was narrated by the authors of the Sunan. With regards to legislation which contradicts the Shari'ah, then this is Major Kufr without any Tafsīl [details] regarding it.

#Extremely_Important Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) was asked: From the well-known types of ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed is: The ruler who adheres to the Judgement of Allāh outwardly & inwardly, however he makes a judgement based upon a whim & desire in a specific matter, once or twice, as it's well-know he doesn't disbelieve, as is the Madhab of the Salaf, so is this correct? And what is the ruling on whomever applied Takfīr upon him in a few matters [of ruling by other than Allāh's law]?

Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) responded by saying: This matter became obscure to many brothers, that even the Murji'ah overcame them, and from that is the debate in the recording between: (...) and another person who views the Kufr of the ruler that rules by other than the law of Allāh, so (...) asked him, what if he ruled [by other than Allāh's law] in 1 matter? So he replied: He doesn't disbelieve, he asked: In 2 matters? He replied: He doesn't disbelieve, and [the Murji'] would keep increasing it bit by bit until he cornered him, and he said to him: Give me the number which would make him reach Kufr. So he (the brother) wasn't able to respond, and the Murji'ah considered these words as a final decisive blow! Whereas it's falsely corrupt.

And to sum it up, is that the ruler in the likes of this situation is of two types:

1. Whoever's authoritative source was the Shari'ah in all of his affairs, however he ruled upon some of the issues by his whims, not by the Shari'ah, meaning that he questioned the integrity/justness of the witnesses for instance, while they are just, or he put doubts in a condition which is present, or he mentioned an impediment which doesn't exist, and similar to that, so his main-grounds for judgement is all outwardly from the Shari'ah, and inwardly has desires, so this person is a sinner committing a Major Sin, and his sin increases depending on the issue that he ruled by, no matter how few or many, but he doesn't disbelieve as long as he's ruling by the Shari'ah, even if he was an oppressor. And if he also leaves off a ruling in some affairs, such as leaving off the ruling upon one of his relatives, and upon [someone] who bribes him with money, and similar to that, then he is an oppressor who is committing a Major Sin, however he doesn't disbelieve because his actions is a sin (leaving off a specific ruling), not judging by the rulings of the Tāghūt from other laws, so there's a difference between someone leaving off the ruling by what Allāh has revealed in [specific] matters, and whoever rules by other than what Allāh(جل وعلا) revealed in [specific] matters.

2. Whoever's authoritative source was the Sharī'ah in all his affairs, however in 1 issue, he went towards to the Tāghūt for judgement, such as ruling upon a thief for instance by the French law, and [ruling upon] Zinā with another law, and similar to that, so this person becomes a Kāfir, even if he only ruled [by other than Allāh's law] in 1 matter, because he ruled by the Tāghūt.

So if you know the difference between the two matters, the answer to the misconception of the Murji'ah would be clear to you, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

was asked about: The [Sport] games & the rules that are in it, is (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad it included within ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed? And if that was the case, then what is the ruling on those who work in it, engage in it & approve of it, and likewise the judge-makers in ?it responded by saying: The Fundamental Principle is that anyone (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad who judges between two parties, even [between] children in calligraphy writing ["al-Khutūt" - he judges whose handwriting is better] and archery, then he is a Judge as it was determined by the Sahābah, and it was mentioned by the Scholars such as Shaykh al-Islām [Ibn Taymiyyāh] & the A'immāt al-Dawāh, so it's not permissible for any judge to make a judgement except by the and refer back to the words of (صلى الله عليه وسلم), and His Messenger (جل وعلا)judgement of Allāh in "al-Fatāwah" in the last volume from it, and in the Explanation of the (رحمه الله)Shaykh al-Islām in al-Siyāsah al-Shar'iyyāh, for he affirms this command, and he (رضي الله عنه)Hadīth of Abi Dhar mentioned it from the Sahābah, and it is what the texts have alluded towards. So if this is affirmed, then know that the judge-maker [i.e. Umpire & Referee] in the sport games is a judge, who rules by curse (جل وعلا)has revealed, he rules by the laws of Fifa, may Allāh (جل وعلا)other than what Allāh them, and from the examples of that, is that if a player intentionally hits another player, then the ruling in the Sharī'ah is Qisās [Retribution], but as for the ruling according to them, then it is the has revealed is Kufr, and this is from the (جل وعلا)"Red Card", and ruling by other than what Allāh matters wherein the Good has become Munkar, and the Munkar has become Good, Wallāh ul-Musta'ān

#Part_2 Principle: “Affirming the description of Shirk despite ignorance before applying the Hujjât al-Risāliyyāh”

A) Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said: “Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has informed us about Hūd(عليه السلام), that he said to his people: {worship Allah ; you have no deity other than Him. You are not but inventors [of falsehood].} [11:50]. So He referred to them as inventors [of falsehood] before He ruled upon them with an authority for them to go against, because of them ascribing other gods besides Allāh, so the label of Shirk is established before the Risālah, and it's affirmed that these labels are pre-existent [to the Message reaching them], and likewise with the label of Jahl and Jāhiliyyāh, and it is said: Jāhiliyyāh and Jāhilān before the arrival of the Messenger, but as for punishment [upon the Jāhil], then no”

B) Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {And if any one of the polytheists seeks your protection, then grant him protection so that he may hear the words of Allah . Then deliver him to his place of safety. That is because they are a people who do not know.} [9:6]. So He(جل وعلا) called them Mushrikeen before hearing the Hujjāh.

C) Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {Those who disbelieved among the People of the Scripture and the polytheists were not to be parted [from misbelief] until there came to them clear evidence} [98:1] So He(جل وعلا) called them Mushrikeen before the Bayyinah.

D) Ahl al Fatrah who used to ascribe partners [to Allāh]: The Salaf have agreed that they are Mushrikūn, except that they aren't punished until after the Hujjāt al-Risāliyyāh [has reached them], while they [the scholars] differed between themselves regarding this matter [Whether Ahl al Fatrah aren't punished in the Dunyā alone or aren't punished in both the Dunyā & the Ākhirah until the Hujjāh reaches them].

E) The Shirk from the people of Nūh(عليه السلام) is the first Shirk that occurred on the face of the Earth, and it's well-known with certainty that Ādam(عليه السلام) left his descendants behind upon Pure Tawhīd, then [afterwards] Shirk became widespread from his descendants, and they became Mushrikīn, so Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) sent Nūh(عليه السلام), who is the first Messenger for the inhabitants of Earth, and it's well-known that Nūh(عليه السلام) would address his people that they are Mushrikīn, not Muslimūn, so where is the Messenger who established the Hujjāh upon them before Nūh, for the description of Shirk & its rulings to be applied upon them?

F) The 'Ulemā', Mufasssīreen, Linguists, Historians unanimously agreed upon calling the Arabs before the advent [of the Prophet] by “Mushrikī al-'Arab”, and Inshā'Allāh to come, more would be spoken about the Principle of “The difference between the Ism(name) & Hukm(ruling)”

#Part_1 to the Series on the Principles laid out by the Scholars on Takfīr & Excuse of Ignorance – All translated from Shaykh al-Qahtānī(الله حفظه) & this is the view of Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz Ibn Bāz(الله رحمه الله), Shaykh Hamūd al-'Uqlā(الله رحمه الله), Shaykh 'Abdullāh al-Sa'd(الله حفظه الله), Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(الله حفظه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(الله حفظه الله), Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(الله حفظه الله) & many others. This is what coincides with the Qur'ān, Sunnāh & the view of the Scholars from the Salaf & Khalaf.

Principle: “Islām & Shirk are opposites which cannot be mixed together at all”

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {And what can be beyond truth except error? So how are you averted?} [10:32].

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {It is He who created you, and among you is the disbeliever, and among you is the believer. And Allah , of what you do, is Seeing.} [64:2]

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {Indeed, We guided him to the way, be he grateful or be he ungrateful(Kafūran)} [76:3]

Shaykh 'Abdūl Rahmān ibn Hassan(الله رحمه الله) and Shaykh 'Abdūl Latīf ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān(الله رحمه الله) said: “Whoever commits Shirk has abandoned Tawhīd, for they are contradictory & don't mix together, and they are opposites which don't mix together, nor become uplifted together.”

Because it's necessary to affirm one of the two opposites while uplifting the other, they cannot be uplifted together, so it's necessary to affirm one of the two opposites.

Before you quote Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), just remember that you're quoting an Imām who was imprisoned many times in his life, beaten, abused, insulted, labelled a Takfeerī Khārījī, infact he died in prison.

Infact, if I was to gather a list of all the Scholars who were persecuted & faced the most difficult trials, I would have to start all the way from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) & His Companions & the 4 Imāms & Many of the Salaf & Khalaf. Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) was beaten so severely, he wasn't able to place his right hand over his left hand in Salāh ☹

Look at our situation today, Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) who has memorised 9 books (each book has many volumes!) of Hadīth & their explanation is being tortured, he hasn't seen his family for years, other prisoners believe he's not going to make it in prison. Even Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) stated that he got tortured so badly :(( Yet, people today want to insult these Scholars, who are Imāms of Tawhīd!

Also, Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) said "If you want to find the righteous party of Allāh, follow the arrows of the Kuffār". Look at the lovers of the righteous, isn't it the poor needy people, weak oppressed people, orphans & widows, practising men with beards, modest shy women who love Niqāb, truthful scholars & men who act upon their words, those who love to help their brothers & sisters. Doesn't this show you something & on top of that, those who hate Islām & the righteous are Dictators, Secularists, Gays & Lesbians, Rapists & Pedophiles & Criminals, Men who shave their beard & Women who commit Zinā.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) open the eyes of our Ummāh.

1. Shaykh al-Muhaddīth 'Abdullāh al-Sa'd(حفظه الله)
2. Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله)
3. Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله)

They have amazing works & explanations which would open the eyes for many people.

The methodology of those Scholars in Takfīr, including Shaykh Hamūd al-'Uqlā', Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz Ibn Bāz & Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl etc...is much more consistent & goes in-line with the Pure Teachings of Islām.

However, even though Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) views that a person can be excused for Major Shirk, that doesn't belittle his great status and respect. Infact, the lectures of Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) in Tawhīd & 'Aqīdah is among the best that I've heard, so disagreeing with him on 1 issue doesn't mean leaving all his knowledge as some ignorant people do.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) allow us to seek knowledge sincerely Fee Sabeelillāh & protect us from Juhāl who love to speak about the mistakes & disagreements they have with the Scholars. By doing this, they have avoided learning from all Scholars & claimed "We only need Qur'ān". This is what makes people go extreme like the Hāzimī's that Māshā'Allāh are breaking records in Takfīr which our Ummāh has never seen, Lā Hawlā Walā Quwatā ilā Billāh. This is what happens when you rely upon 2nd & 3rd hand dutch translations from the Scholars of Najd.

Are we allowed to say Bismillāh before Wudū'? #Updated with references.

Note: The Scholars define "Tasmiyah" as saying "Bismillāh" & define "Basmalah" as saying "Bismillāhi al-Rahmāni al-Rahīm", generally this is okay.

With regards to saying "Bismillāh" before Wudū', the scholars differed upon the following opinions:

1. That it's obligatory & this is what's popular in the Madhab of Imām Ahmad, a narration from the Madhab of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله).
2. That it's recommended & this is what's popular in the Madhab of Imām Abū Hanīfah, al-Shāfi'ī & Mālik, also a narration in the Hanbalī madhab as it was held by ibn Qudāmah(رحمه الله) & this is the view of the Majority of the Scholars.

3. That it's not prescribed at all, infact it is a Bid'ah, and this is a narration from Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), which was mentioned by Imām ibn Rushd(رحمه الله) & others.

With regards to the Ahādīth on the topic, the Scholars also differed upon the following:

1. It is authentic, Imām Abū Bakr ibn Abī Shaybāh(رحمه الله) said "We believe the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said it" [Refer to al-Talkhees al-Habeer by Ibn Hajr (1/257)] and several scholars that came after him followed this.
2. It is Hassan by supportive evidence. A group of scholars such as al-Mundhirī(رحمه الله) & ibn Kathir(رحمه الله) & others viewed that it was Hassan by strengthening the weak chains of narrations.
3. It is weak according to the Majority. Imām Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhi(رحمه الله) said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Imām al-'Uqaylī(رحمه الله) said "The chains of narration in this chapter are all Līn [have weakness]"

Refer to al-Du'afā' by al-'Uqaylī (222).

Imām Ibn al-Mundhir(رحمه الله) said: "There's not a single authentic report in this topic"

Refer to al-Awsat by Ibn al-Mundhir (345)

Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) also said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Refer to Masā'il al-Imām Ahmad by al-Kūsaj (2/263)

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) says the Majority of the early Scholars of Hadīth are of the view that "There's not a single authentic hadīth in this topic"

How do we reconcile between Imām Ahmad's statement "It is Wājib" & "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic", Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) stated that it's possible that Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) authenticated the Hadīths by strengthening its weak chains of narration, but later on, he retracted this view & clearly saw the weakness of the chains & said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) did not authenticate the Hadīths, however he viewed that it's permissible to say Bismillāh before wudū' based upon Qiyās[analogy], and he used the Hadīth where a person says Bismillāh before having relations with his wife, so he mentioned that it would be more deserving to say it before Wudū'.

However Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said the Qiyās of Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) is questionable because if this was the case, then we would have to say Bismillāh before the Takbīrāt at Hajj, and before we say the Adhān, and before we say Allāhu Akbar for Salāh, however no one has said this.

Also, to support the view that it's not prescribed to say Bismillāh before Wudū' is that it's not Authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) nor the Sahābah(رضي الله عنهم), and not a single Sahābī who described the Wudū' of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) mentioned that he said "Bismillāh", but rather they mentioned things which are of less importance.

You can do further research into the Authentic agreed upon narrations in Bukhārī & Muslim, such as the Hadīth of 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه), 'Abdillāh ibn Zayd(رضي الله عنه) and 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), they all described the wudū' of the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) without mentioning that he said Bismillāh, and these Hadīths are Muttāfaqun 'Alayh, so if the Basmallāh was memorized from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), the Sahābah would have mentioned this and explained it to us, but all the Hadīths that describe the Wudū' of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) mention that he didn't say Bismillāh.

For example, ponder over this Hadith in Sahih al-Bukhari (1934):

Narrated Humran: I saw 'Uthman performing ablution; he washed his hands thrice, rinsed his mouth and then washed his nose, by putting water in it and then blowing it out, and washed his face thrice, and then washed his right forearm up to the elbow thrice, and then the left-forearm up to the elbow thrice, then smeared his head with water, washed his right foot thrice, and then his left foot thrice and said, "I saw Allah's Apostle performing ablution similar to my present ablution, and then he said, 'Whoever performs ablution like my present ablution and then offers two rak'at in which he does not think of worldly things, all his previous sins will be forgiven.'"

The Hadith of 'Uthman is considered the most authentic and strongest Hadith describing the wudu' of the Prophet, and here he mentions that all your previous sins will be forgiven if you perform wudu' like he did, and there was no mentioning of the Basmallah, so if it was really recommended, or even compulsory, the Sahabah would've mentioned it through authentic chains.

NOTE: Even though I go along the view of the Shaykh & don't believe it's prescribed to say Bismillāh before wudū' as this is an act of worship & it requires authentic evidence, there's no blame upon an individual for following the opinion of a Mujtahid that he trusts والله اعلم

"Mālik denounced saying Bismillāh before wudū', and said: I haven't heard of this, does he intend to make a sacrifice?" [1]

[1] Refer to "al-Tāj wal-iklīl" (1/347) and Refer to al-Dhakhīrah by al-Qarāfī (1/284) and "Hāshiyat al-'Adawī" (1/181): And some Scholars did not view beginning [wudū'] with saying Bismillāh as an ordainment of Good according to the Salaf, rather they saw it as an ordainment of Munkar.

My intent is to simply show the other side which is hidden by most Scholars. We need to be fair & just in these matters, the last thing I want is for brothers to take the quotes of the scholars and debate others who have a different opinion.

I don't want to simply share Fatwā's, but rather get into the evidences & principles those Scholars have derived their Fatāwah from & which scholars before them have mentioned this, such as "What is the proof that Bulūgh al-Qur'ān is sufficient for the Hujjāh to be established in the clear matters" & delving into these matters which will benefit many muslims who are sincerely searching for the truth والله اعلم

:said (رحمه الله)Imām Anwar al-'Awlakī

Al-Makarī, the classical Muslim historian. He said, and this was while the Muslim Towns were :falling down, al-Makarī says

The Muslim Towns were being invaded by the crusaders one town after another, and they were falling one after another, and you can walk into the Mosques of Andalus, and you can hear nothing !about what is happening to the Muslims

فلا مذكر ولا داع

Nobody talks about it in the Khutbah, nobody talks about it in the lessons, nothing! The Scholars are talking about theoretical things and they are leaving the Ummāh, and the Ummāh is being !betrayed and they are doing nothing

Ibn Hazm al-Andalusī, the famous scholar from Andalus, was so frustrated and fed up with the :situation of the scholars and the Imāms of al-Andalus, he said

".(Do not be deceived by these Fussāq (corrupt people)

:He called them Fussāq, corrupt. He said

Don't be deceived by these Fussāq who claim to be scholars while they are wearing the skins of" ".sheep on hearts of wolves

He said what are they doing? They are doing nothing for the Ummāh. The Ummāh is falling down, the Ummāh is being fought against, and the land of al-Andalus is being invaded, and they are talking about some other issues. You know, don't think that our religion is just, we talk about theoretical things and we stay away from what is happening to the Ummāh. That is why the .Muslims in Spain, lost Spain

#Allāhu_Akbar!! Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-ʿAlwān (حفظه الله) said:

"Likewise, why do the Kuffār go to war & fight the Muslims, isn't it to substitute Shirk in place of Tawhīd? And to substitute Kufr in place of Ēmān? And to substitute man made laws in place of the Shari'ah from Allāh? This is what they do without a doubt. And the one who assists them, regardless of whether he intended these objectives [of the Kuffār] or not, he has fulfilled their needs, and whoever fulfils the needs of the Mushrikeen by Shirk for their Shirk [to prevail], and has fulfilled the demands of the Imāms of Kufr for their Kufr [to prevail], and assisted the people of Kufr to succeed in substituting man-made laws in the place of the Shari'ah from Allāh, then the one who does this is from the greatest of Mushrikeen, and from the greatest Imāms of Kufr.

If you see that a man is from the people of Shirk, he comes with idols and places them in the land of the Muslims for it to be worshipped besides Allāh, but then he isn't able to do that because he has no soldiers, troops or followers. So whoever employs [i.e. Permits] a group of people to place these idols in the lands of the Muslims to be worshipped besides Allāh, and they know the intent of this man...but rather they desire the world and its rubble, would we consider them as Muslims, while [they allow] these people to bring idols to the lands of the Muslims for it to be worshipped besides Allāh (جل وعلا). And what is the difference between them & those who support the Imāms of Kufr against the Muslims, while they know that the Kuffār want to substitute Shirk in place of Tawhīd, and to substitute Kufr in place of Ēmān, and to substitute man-made laws in place of the Shari'ah from Allāh"

Imām Ibn Abī Laylah (رحمه الله) says: "The Sahābah (رضي الله عنهم) unanimously agreed upon the obligation of washing the feet", meaning: That he must not neglect [washing] any part of them, and this is a response against the Rāfidah who say: To wipe the feet, even without the socks being

#I_Asked_My_Father - Regarding looking at one's fiancée, and what's permissible to be looked at??

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) responded by saying: The scholars do not differ regarding the permissibility of looking at one's fiancée, so he can look at whatever meets the need for attraction without being alone with the woman, and there's no disagreement that he can look at the face, but what's beyond that is differed upon, and what's correct is that he can look at what encourages him to marry her, of the face, hands, body and what a woman normally wears in her home in the presence of Women & Mahrams.

Establishing the Hujjāh in the clear matters like prohibition of alcohol etc... for the one who is truly ignorant = showing the proofs from the Qur'ān & Sunnāh to him.

As for Major Shirk, nobody is excused from it, even if he lived away from the Muslims & was knew to Islām, very good read

#Beneficial Our Methodology in Takfīr is very clear, and there's no excuse of ignorance in Tawhīd as is the opinion of our Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz ibn Bāz (رحمه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl (حفظه الله) etc...which has many proofs to support it from the Salaf & Khalaf, but here is a good example of differentiating between the Clear & Unclear Matters.

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) said in Majmū' al-Fatāwah [4/54]:

"And if this was from among the unclear statements, then it could be said: He is mistaken & misguided from it, the Hujjāh which declares its individual a Kāfir hasn't been established, however that occurs among several groups from them in the Clear Matters which is known by the Scholars & Laymen of the Muslims that it's from the religion of the Muslims, infact the Jews & Christians know that Muḥammād (صلى الله عليه وسلم) came with it and disbelieved in whoever opposes it, such as: His command of worshipping Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) alone without associating any partners to Him, and His prohibition of worshipping anyone besides Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) from among the Angels, Prophets, the Sun, the Moon, the Stars, the Idols etc...Verily this is from the clearest slogans of Islām, and such as his ordainment of the 5 daily prayers, and such as his enmity to the Christians, Polytheists, Sābi'īn, Majūs, and such as the prohibition of shameful acts, Ribā, Alcohol, Gambling etc...Then we find many of their heads who fell into these matters, so they became Apostates"

Shaykh Abū Butayn(رحمه الله) commented upon the words of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), he said:

"So look at his separation between the unclear statements and the clear matters, so he said regarding the unclear sayings, it's Kufr: It could be said: He is mistaken & misguided, the Hujjah which declares its individual a Kāfir hasn't been established, and he did not say this regarding the clear matters, so he ruled upon them with apostasy in all cases & he did not give exception to the Ignorant."

Some benefits we can take from the words of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله):

1. His separation between the one who falls into Kufr in the Clear Matters & the Unclear Matters regarding Takfīr.
2. His description of those who fell into Kufr in the unclear matters before the establishment of the Hujjah as being mistaken & misguided.
3. His description of those who fell onto Kufr in the clear matters with apostasy and emission from Islām.
4. He mentioned what is included under the clear matters such as:

A) Tawhīd: And it is the command of worshipping Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) alone without associating any partners to Him.

B) Shirk: And it is the worship of other than Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) from among the Angels, Prophets, the Sun & Moon.

C) Matters known by necessity in the religion, such as: The obligation of the 5 daily prayers, showing enmity to the religions of Kufr, the prohibition of the Fawāhish [Shameful/Indecent acts].

Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb(رحمه الله) said: "If an individual says something which necessitates Kufr, then he is not judged with Kufr, until the Hujjah is applied upon him, wherein he disbelieves by abandoning it, and this is in the unclear matters wherein the evidences for it would be hidden from some people, but as for what occurs from them in the clear manifest matters, or what is known by necessity in the religion, then no one should withhold from performing Takfīr upon the one who says this [i.e. Kufr]"

#Important What is the difference between Committing a Sin & Legalising the Committing of a Sin [i.e. Making a law to legalise the practise]?

As for the latter, it involves something known in politics as legislation, in the case of legislation, one is in the position of either allowing or banning of a sin, but goes ahead and allows it, makes a law out of it, this entails declaring it's allowed, handing out permits to commit the sin, setting up judicial punishment against anyone stopping the permit holder to commit the sin, it also acts as an authority to protect this law, protect this law means people can be arrested for trying to stop this.

This is why the Scholars make Takfīr upon the apostate rulers who legalise Ribā, Alcohol, Zinā etc...

Narrated by 'Abdullāh ibn Abī Awfā(رضي الله عنه): A man came to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and said: I can not memorize anything from the Qur'ān/ so teach me something which is sufficient for me. He said: Say,

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) not allow us to be like those who show good manners to please the creation, but rather the reason why we show good manners is to please our beloved Creator, Allāh, and that we are treating others Fee Sabeelillāh because He loves us doing good to the creation.

A muslim must submit to Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) through Tawhīd, all our speech, actions and the way we think must be done in relation to our Tawhīd. May Allāh(عز وجل) protect our hearts from any type of Shirk or act dismissed to other than Allāh(عز وجل).

I want you guys to pay attention to a very important point:

Many Scholars have claimed an Ijmā' in many issues, however it does not make it right.

Many respected 'Ulemā' attribute an opinion to the Sahābah & Salaf, however this doesn't mean it's correct either.

We go back to the Chains of Narrations and examine them, if it turns out to be authentic from those companions or whoever it's attributed too, we will accept its attribution towards them, or else please do not compel the people to follow a certain Imām's claim. [i.e. That there's an Ijmā' or it's the opinion of such & such...]

Even Imāms of the Salaf can say, "Abū Hanīfah said this", when those Imāms haven't even "Heard" it from Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله). It can be proven that a particular Imām said "Abū Hanīfah" said this, but it doesn't mean it's authentic from Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), I hope the point is clear.

SubhānAllāh, not even a blind man has an excuse to avoid praying in congregation, so then what about us? 😊

A blind man came to the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) and said: "O Messenger of Allah! I have no one to guide me to the mosque." He, therefore, sought his permission to perform Salat (prayer) in his house. He (ﷺ) granted him permission. When the man turned away, he called him back, and said, "Do you hear the Adhan (call to prayer)?" He replied in the affirmative. The Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) then directed him to respond to it.

504 – And it's narrated from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها): "When the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) died, he was covered[Sujjiya] with a Yemeni mantle[Burd] that had some designs[Hibrah] on it." Agreed upon.

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

This Hadīth is agreed upon over its authenticity, Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) said "It was narrated to us by Abū al-Yamān(رحمه الله), he said we were informed by Shu'ayb(رحمه الله) from al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) from Abī Salamāh(رحمه الله) from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها)"

And Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) said "It was narrated to us by Zuhayr ibn Harb(رحمه الله) & Hassan al-Halwānī(رحمه الله) & 'Abd ibn Humayd(رحمه الله), 'Abd(رحمه الله) said: "I was informed" and the other two said: "It was narrated to us by Ya'qūb ibn Ibrāhīm(رحمه الله), he said it was narrated to us by Ubayy(رحمه الله) from Sālih ibn Kaysān(رحمه الله) from al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) from Abī Salamāh ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān(رحمه الله) from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها)."

'Ā'isha's saying: {Sujjiya}, al-Tasjiyyāh means al-Taghtiyyah [covering].

'Ā'isha's saying: {Bi-Burd}, The plural of "al-Burd" is Abrād and the singular of "al-Burd" is Burda, so the plural of Burda can be "Burd" & "Abrād".

'Ā'isha's saying: {Hibrah}, it's a description of "al-Burd", and what's intended by this, is that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) was covered with a "Burd" and it is a type of clothing which is made & imported from al-Yemen which is similar to Cotton. It has been said that the colour of it is green, however the person who mentioned this didn't provide any proof for this statement.

And we can benefit from this, the recommendation of covering the deceased, so that his 'Awrah doesn't show, and it's permissible to cover him with something valuable, and if the statement of the one who said that this "Burd" is green in colour is proven, what we can benefit from this is the permissibility of covering [the dead] in any colour, and if this isn't authentic, then the best thing [to use] is white, because it is the best kind of clothing, as it will shortly be mentioned inshā'Allāh.

503 – And it's narrated from Umm Salamah(رضي الله عنها) that she said: "The messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) entered upon Abī Salamah(رضي الله عنه), when his sight had become fixed[soon after he died]. He(صلى الله عليه وسلم) closed them (the eyes) for him and said, "When the soul is taken away, the sight follows it." Some people began to weep. He(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Do not supplicate for yourselves anything but good, for the angels say 'Āmīn' to what you say." Then he(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said, "O Allāh! Forgive Abū Salamah, and raise his rank among the rightly guided servants. Make his grave spacious for him and give him light in it." Related by Muslim.

This report is narrated by Imām Muslim(رحمه الله), Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) and ibn Mājah(رحمه الله).

Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) said "It was narrated to us by Zuhayr ibn Harb(رحمه الله), he said Mu'āwiyah ibn 'Amr(رحمه الله) informed us, from Abī Ishāq al-Fazārī(رحمه الله) from Khālid al-Hithā(رحمه الله) from Abī Qulābah(رحمه الله) from Qabisah ibn Dhu'ayb(رحمه الله) from Umm Salamah(رحمها الله) similar to it.

And al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) summarised part of it, and he placed some sentences earlier and put some at the end.[i.e. Rearranged the order of the Hadīth & left some parts of the Hadīth out].

And it was narrated by Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) and ibn Mājah(رحمه الله) from the chain of Abī Ishāq al-Fazārī(رحمه الله) similar to it.

Umm Salamah's saying:{When his sight had become fixed} meaning that his eyes were opened, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) closed his eyes, so this Hadīth gives a recommendation of closing the eyes of the dead.

Umm Salamah's saying:{Some people began to weep} meaning that some people from the family of Abī Salamah(رضي الله عنه) wept when he passed away, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) prohibited them from doing this, and ordered them to only supplicate with good, because the angels say Āmīn to your du'ā, and this is not exclusive to them, for indeed the angels say Āmīn in every supplication made from the supplicator, so it's possible that a person supplicates for something bad, so his du'ā would be answered and he will be ruined/destroyed, so he must supplicate with what is good and beneficial for his religion and worldly affairs, because it's possible that his du'ā would be answered, so misfortune comes about by this du'ā in the Dunyā & the hereafter.

The Prophet's saying:{O Allāh forgive Abī Salamah} It gives a recommendation of making du'ā for the deceased before burial.

The Prophet's saying:{And raise his rank among the rightly guided servants} It establishes intercession in raising the ranks of the people who entered Jannāh.

And intercession is of [many] types:

1. The intercession of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) for Ahlāl Mawqif[The people in the position of standing on Yawm al-Qiyāmah], to rule between them.[i.e. Who he grants intercession for, note: All intercessions are done with the permission of Allāh]
2. The intercession of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) for the people of Jannāh[i.e. The Believers] to enter Jannāh.
3. The intercession of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) in raising the ranks of some of the people of Jannāh, and this is a type from among the types of intercession which the hadīth of this chapter refers too, verily the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:{And raise his ranks among the rightly guided servants}.
4. His intercession for the people entitled to go to the hellfire, that they don't enter it.
5. His intercession for the people that entered the hellfire, to get out from it, and this type is from the types of intercession which the Khawārij & Mu'tazilāh reject because they view that the Major sinners will abide eternally in hellfire, and we answer them by the saying of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى):{He forgives what is besides that[i.e. Shirk] to whomever He wishes} and other than it from the evidences.
6. His intercession with regards to lessening the punishment for his uncle Abī Tālib.

The Prophet's saying:{And grant him a successor from his descendants who remain behind, and forgive us and him, O lord of mankind}. This is what al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) left out from the Hadīth, and this is present in Sahīh al-Imām Muslim(رحمه الله). We take from this, the recommendation of making du'ā for the descendants, that perhaps Allāh(جل وعلا) will bless them.

The Messenger's saying:{And forgive us and him}. It gives a recommendation of beginning with ourselves before others in du'ā.

Then the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:{Make his grave spacious for him and give him light in it}. Because the grave is either a garden from the gardens of Jannāh or a pit from the pits of hellfire.

And in the Hadīth is an evidence that the grave could be lightened up for its companion, and it could be darkened as it's mentioned in Sahīh Muslim that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:{Verily, these graves are filled with darkness upon its companion, and verily Allāh lightens it up by my prayers}. And it's defected by Irsāl[The Shaykh will later come to this and prove why it's Shāth, Thābit al-Bunānī narrated it from the Prophet as Mursal, whereas others narrated it without this addition], and in the Hadīth is a proof upon the recommendation of [performing] du'ā by what he's able to perform for the dead, and it's preferred to choose a combination of du'ā, and the Hadīth is explicit that the du'ā occurred before burial.

And it can be taken from the generality of the Hadīth, a recommendation of bringing joy to the family members of the deceased, because when the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) made du'ā for him, he also made du'ā for them, by saying {and grant him a successor from his descendants who remain behind}, so he brought them joy/comfort from this and made their hearts feel at ease.

And the main focus from the context of the Hadīth for the chapter of Funerals, is Umm Salamah's saying: {So he(صلى الله عليه وسلم) closed his[Abū Salamah's] eyes}.

It gives a recommendation of closing the eyes of the dead, because when the slave of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) dies, the sight follows the soul[i.e. Gets taken away with it], and we could benefit from this phrase that the soul is a body-part of the body[i.e. Connected to the body], Imām ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله) said in his book Kitāb al-Rūh, "However its connection[to the body] is different to the rest of the body-parts"

502- #Weak_Hadīth And it's narrated from Mu'qal ibn Yasār(رحمه الله) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Recite over your dead, [Sūrat] Yāsīn." Narrated by Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله), al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله), and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) authenticated it.

This report is narrated by Imām al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله) in "Amal al-Yawm wal-Laylah" and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh from the chain of Sulaymān al-Taymī(رحمه الله) from Abī 'Uthmān, and he isn't al-Nahdī[Abī 'Uthmān al-Nahdī] from Mu'qal ibn Yasār(رحمه الله). And Imām Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Sunan, and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh, and ibn Mājah(رحمه الله) and others from the chain of 'Abdullāh ibn al-Mubārak(رحمه الله) from Sulaymān al-Taymī(رحمه الله) from Abī 'Uthmān, and he's not al-Nahdī, from his father from Mu'qal ibn Yasār(رحمه الله).

This report was defected/weakened by Imām ibn al-Qattān(رحمه الله) with Idtirāb[Shakiness/Abī 'Uthmān confused the chain whether it's from his father or Mu'qal several times], Waqf[stopped at the Sahābī, not attributed to the Prophet], and Jahālah[unknownness] of Abī 'Uthmān & his father, and Imām 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī(رحمه الله) said regarding Abī 'Uthmān, "no one narrated from him besides Sulaymān al-Taymī(رحمه الله), and this chain is Majhūl[Unknown]."

And Imām al-Dāraqutnī(رحمه الله) said its chain is weak, and there's not a single authentic Hadīth from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding this, and it can also be said that there's not a single authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding the virtues of Yāsīn, for all the narrated Hadiths regarding Yāsīn are weak, and the most weak of them is what is commonly known upon the tongues that:{Yāsīn is for that for which is read[i.e. May cause your needs to be met & make things easier for you]}, and this has no basis from the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and some of the ignorant[people] have even gone further in this issue, and started reciting "Yāsīn" near the graves of the dead, [both] men and women, so they committed several prohibitions from doing that.

The first prohibition: That they acted upon a weak Hadīth in the Ahkām al-Shar'iyyāh[Islamic Rulings], opposing the way of the Imāms of Hadith.

The second prohibition: That they innovated in the religion, by reciting the Qur'ān in the graveyards, and this is Harām and isn't permissible, because graveyards weren't built for this.

The third prohibition: [Having] their women enter the graveyard, and women are prohibited from following the Janāzah [to the graveyard], let alone visiting the graves as it's mentioned in the Hadīth of ibn 'Atiyyāh in the Sahīhayn.

And the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has cursed the women that visit the graves. It's a Hassan Hadith narrated by al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) from the chain of 'Amr ibn Salamah(رحمه الله) from his Father(رحمه الله) from Abī Hurayrāh(رحمه الله) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

And some of them also recite in gatherings, and on top of that, they place flowers and roses upon the graves of their dead. Indeed, an innovation turns into other innovations.

The conclusion: That the Hadīth of this chapter is a weak Hadīth, and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) held it upon reciting it near the deathbed and this is if the report was authentic, but as for it being weak, it's not prescribed to worship[Allāh] by reciting it, neither near the deathbed, nor other than that.

"And the best of matters is what preceded us in guidance***And the worst of matters are the newly invented ones" [Poetry]

And the muslim must follow[the authentic proof], not innovate, and the student of knowledge must dedicate all his efforts towards acting upon the Authentic Hadīths and abandoning the Weak & Feeble Hadiths, and he must inform the Laymen and whoever has no understanding with regards to the rulings of Hadīth by its authentic from the weak and feeble, until they act upon the Authentic text & leave off the weak Hadīths, or else innovation would prevail between them, and they would be blinded to ignorance and misguidance, as it is the reality today, and the reason for this is because of laxation with regards to acting upon the Weak Hadīth, and what's correct is that the Weak Hadith isn't acted upon in all cases, neither in Fadā'il[virtuous deeds] nor other than it, because all of it is the Sharī'ah from Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), knowingly that there's not a weak Hadith in Fadā'il except that it has a connection with the unseen, so we must be aware of this issue, and the successful is whoever Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) gave success to, and Allāh(جل وعلا) is the guide towards the path of correct guidance.

You will be held accountable for your Prayers.

Ask yourself, have you preserved the 5 daily obligatory prayers? Do your prayers come before everything else, or does "Da'wah" and other excuses come first?

You will stand on the day of Judgement, you will be asked whether you preserved your Salāh on time. The hellfire will be in front of you, do you want to be amongst the Kuffār who don't pray or the Muwahrīdeen who establish their Salāh?

Fear Allāh! Turn back to Allāh & fear the punishment of the hellfire. You will be asked about every small & big deed that you have committed in this Dunyā.

Preserve your Prayers ya ikhwāni wa akhawāti fillāh - Don't rush your Salāh, don't you think Allāh جل وعلا deserves more of your time than anyone else among His creation? May Allāh جل وعلا forgive me & you and allow us to taste the sweetness of Prayer, especially the Night Prayer, once you allow your lives to revolve around Worship mixed with Seeking Beneficial Knowledge & Learning Manners along the way, this is going to be our key to enter Jannāh بإذن الله

#Weak_Hadīth "Whoever you catch committing the act of the people of Lut (homosexuality), then kill both parties to the act."

The Hadīth revolves around the chain of: 'Amr ibn Abī 'Amr > 'Ikrimah > 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās.

It has two defects:

1. 'Amr ibn Abī 'Amr erred in this Hadīth & it was denounced from him by:
  - Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله)
  - Imām Al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله)
  - Including Several others from the Hufādh.
2. What has been narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) is in opposition to what 'Amr ibn Abī 'Amr has narrated in his Hadīth, so this is proof that 'Amr didn't get the Hadīth right & precise.

This is taken from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) & he says there's nothing authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding this. And that's what made Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) go along the opinion of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما).

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said the opinion that's well known among the Early Imāms & Later Imāms is that he's thrown from the tallest building of the city, however none of this is authentic from the Sahābah, because they are narrated with weak chains.

And because there's no proof for that from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) or the Sahābah رضي الله عنهم regarding killing homosexuals in all cases, a group of Imāms from the Salaf & Khalaf adopted the view that the homosexual is punished like the Zānī:

- This is the Madhab of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās رضي الله عنه
- It's also the Madhab of Imām al-Shāfi'ī رضي الله عنه
- It's also the opinion held by several Imāms of the Hanābilah.

Note: There's no authentic Hadīth from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding entering a woman from behind, however it's proven from 5 Sahābah that it's prohibited, and the authentic narrations from them mention "Does anyone do that except for a Kāfir" etc...But that's another topic, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

The best time to worship your Lord is in the last third of the night, because that's when He descends to the lowest heaven, so try getting up for Tahajjūd to reap as much rewards as you can.

However, even if you don't get up in the last 3rd of the night, you can still worship Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) in the 1/3 & 2/3 of the Night, it's just the last Third is better with regards to its virtues, and our mother 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) would say that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would always get up in the last third of the Night.

Change your lifestyle around the worship of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), try and build that relationship you have with Him, taste the sweetness of 'Ibādah. We all want to give da'wah to our brothers & sisters, but just remember that you will be alone in the grave with no friends nor shaykhs. On the day of the judgement, it will be Nafsi Nafsi, everyone will be an enemy to each other except the Muttāqeen.

was asked about: The separation between General [Takfīr] and (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad the Individuals, for example: A particular group is Kāfirah, but not the individuals, is there any basis ?for this responded by saying: By principle, is that whoever falls into Kufr, (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad then he's a Kāfir, but rather the issue of separating between the General & Specific spread by the spread of Irjā'. And Irjā' could be by narrowing disbelief in Allāh to i'tiqād(belief), and it could be by not applying it [i.e. Kufr] upon the individuals, as it's the case right now, that even some of the intelligent have said: {Based upon the statements of these people[i.e. Murji'ah], no one will ever enter the hellfire, except for Kufr alone, because there's no Kāfir!}, and this doesn't mean putting aside the impediments and conditions [of Takfīr]; However it's not like this image which is present today, and the biggest proof for that is the Apostate Wars, and I advise you to read the Treatise of Shaykh Ishāq ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān - From the A'immāt al-Da'wah - regarding Takfīr upon an individual and Excuse of Ignorance, he has responded against those people who say the action is Kufr, knows best (سبحانه وتعالى)however the person who does it doesn't disbelieve, and Allāh

What is the ruling on those who say: "Our Jewish, Christian and Shī'a Brothers" as a form of Da'wah, and they interpret the verses in Sūrat al-Shu'arā', and what's intended by that is brothers in humanity?

Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) responded by saying: As for their statement of considering the Jews and Christians as brothers, I have written a treatise before I came to prison regarding this in response against al-Qardāwī, however it did not get published because I did not finish it, and this [interpretation] is corrupt, because brotherhood has 2 categories, there's no 3rd category for it:

- Brotherhood in religion: {Verily, the believers are but brothers}.

- Brotherhood with family: {And to the 'Aad [We sent] their brother Hud}

And between them and those who they take as brothers, there is no unity in religion nor common family ties, so what kind of brotherhood do they claim?! Moreover, it is a negator of Walā' and Barā', and the evidences for that is too many to specify.

As for their evidences from Sūrat al-Shu'arā', then it's an evidence against them, for 2 reasons:

1. That Allāh's statement: {When their brother Nūh said to them, ("Will you not fear Allah?)), {Their brother Hūd} {Their brother Sālih} {Their brother Lūt}, all of this is regarding brotherhood of common family ties, as the Arabs say to the Tamīmī, "O brother from Tamīm", and this is well known in the

2. That Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {The companions of the thicket denied the messengers, When Shu'ayb said to them, "Will you not fear Allah?"}, whilst He said in another place: {And to Madyan [We sent] their brother Shu'ayb}, so look at the difference when He attributed them to their tribe, He said: {their brother Shu'ayb}, and when He attributed Shirk to them: {The companions of the thicket}, he disconnected the brotherhood & didn't mention it, and this is from the clearest proofs in responding against them, so He disconnected the brotherhood of common family ties when He attributed Shirk to them, so then what about those who don't agree with them in religion, nor share any common family ties?! And Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Tawakkûl is putting your full trust in Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), you may go through dark tunnels in your life, that's part of life and a part of a believers life, you think they're dark, but Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) always chooses whats best for you عَجَبًا لِأَمْرِ الْمُؤْمِنِ إِنَّ أَمْرَهُ كُلَّهُ خَيْرٌ, "its astonishing the matter of a believer, everything that happens to him is good" you may not know it, you may not see the wisdom of it in this life, you may later on see it, if you don't see it in this life you will see it in the life after, ibn Rajab(رحمه الله) mentioned this story of Qādil Māristān, Qādil Māristān(رحمه الله) said about himself "I was hungry one day in Makkah and i became hungry one day that i couldn't find anything to eat so i went walking around in Makkah, i found a pouch, a tightly tied pouch, i picked it up and brought it to my house, and then in my house when i untied it, i found a beautiful necklace of pearls, it's like i've never seen anything like it before, he went from a difficult time to the utmost of ease, but tawakkul didn't waver a tiny bit in his heart, full tawakkul on allah when he was walking around hungry and the same tawakkul now that he's a millionaire, it didn't last for long, the circumstance change but tawakkul remains firm, unwavering tawakkul, as soon as he walked in Makkâh, right after that he walked in Makkah he heard a old man calling out "I lost a necklace and i have 500 Dinār reward for whoever brings me back the necklace" he said i called the old man, that was bad news for him, he thought he was a millionaire, he said i called the old man "come to my house, i think i have your pouch" so he told the old man describe the necklace for me, he said the old man did not only describe the necklace, but he described the pouch, and the string that was tied around the pouch and the number of pearls and the string that held the pearls together and every single detail about the necklace, so he said i gave him the necklace, it had to be him, no way he could have known all those details, and he handed me 500 Dinar, and just as i was about to take it, i thought to myself, he said I don't deserve this and I refused the reward, the man kept insisting on giving the reward and it was as if Abū Bakr(رحمه الله) wanted to keep his reliance on Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) totally, refusing for the reward for something he felt he really didn't deserve, he didn't do nothing to deserve that money, so the old man took the reward and left.

Qādil Māristān(رحمه الله), who's name is Abū Bakr, nickname Abū Bakr said I left Makkâh after that and i took the ocean and on the way the ship began to sink, all the money on board sunk and many of the passengers, most of them died, he said i seen a small raft while i was in the water, i held onto it and the wind kept blowing me and blowing me for such a long time, until i got to a occupied island, when i landed on the island, he said i immediately went to the masjid finding that theres no one there, so i began to recite Qur'ān, the people in the masjid, they came to me[stranger in town], they asked " could you teach us Qur'ān" [they've seen him reciting], "could you teach us Qur'ān", he said "Yes" then they began to overwhelm him with gifts, then he said i started seeing pages in the masjid so i began reading them, pages of the Qur'ān, they said "you even know how to read and write" he said " YES" they told him "Will you teach us and our children how to read and write" and they began to learn from him how to read and write, and also they showered him with gifts, then they told him one day, after being there for some time "We have this problem, we have this young orphan girl..She has recently been orphaned, her father died, we want you to marry her" This was a tactic they did to try keep him in town, and attached to the town so he will not think of ever leaving them, he resisted, he wasn't even thinking about marriage. But based on their insistence he said i agree to marry her, he married her. Ok, the night of the wedding, when they presented her to him, he said I looked at her and I was startled and astonished, and i was unable to raise my eyes off her neck, i seen the necklace i gave the oldman some time ago on her neck! This is a true & authentic story, he wasn't looking at his new brides face, even though she's mentioned as being one of the most beautiful women in that town, in that island, the relatives around him said, "You broke that orphans heart!" How could you look at the necklace and not at her? You're breaking her heart, it's like you're saying she's ugly by your looks, he said i began to tell them the story of how i found that necklace on her neck and how i returned it to some old man in makkah and how i left makkah and then the ship sunk and how i arrived to their island, i told them the whole details of the story, they began to shout and cry, La ilaha ila Allah, Allahu akbar, La ilaha ila allah, Allahu akbar, and the crowds in the town began to gather, he said "why are you people doing this? And why are you astonished?" They told him: The man you gave the necklace too is the father of this girl, and whats more astonishing than that, is we always used to hear him say "I never met a muslim on the face of this earth like the man who returned the necklace.. to me" and they said we always used to hear him make duaa "O Allah unite that man who returned the necklace with my daughter as her husband", he used to always ask Allah that he be the husband to his daughter and Allah answered his du'a.

This is what happens with tawakkul, during hard times, your tawakkul needs to go unwavering, and that light will reappear at the end of the tunnel, tawakkul is your source of ease and happiness, in both difficult and happy times. That's not the end of the story, look it, from tunnel to tunnel, you see the light, then you go into another tunnel, he said I lived with her a very nice life, and Allah blessed me with 2 children, tawakkul through ease and hardship, then she died, she died, his wife died, another hardship, so he said me and my sons inherited the necklace, then my 2 children died, another hardship but tawakkul is still there, he said then i sold the necklace for 100,000 Dinar, and thats where i got the wealth, he was explaining later on how he got the wealth he has "Wa man-yatiqillah yaj3al lahu makhraja" Whoever fears Allah, he keeps his duty to Allah, Allah will always find him a way out, from every single difficulty you can imagine "wa yarzuqhum min haythu la yahtasib" he will provide him from sources he could never imagine. It will come from sources you never even perceive, "Wa man yatawakkal 3ala Allahi fahuwa hasbu" Whoever puts his trust in Allah, he will be sufficient for him, whoever puts his trust in Allah, he will suffice him!

A basic point about understanding the #Hujjah:

1. Knowing what is meant - إدراك المعنى
- This is a condition.
2. Convinced that it's the Truth - إدراك صحته
- This is not a condition.

The Hujjah can be applied upon them, even if they aren't convinced by it, because Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has set a seal upon their hearts. "They are like cattle, infact they are more misguided"

This is the view of our beloved Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(الله حفظه) on the one who prostrates to other than Allāh(جل وعلا), even though I personally disagree with him on the issue:

"The apparent ruling on one who does Sujood to other than Allah is he is a Mushrik, right by the act itself he is a Mushrik. One who bows to a statue, to a king, to a president, Sujood, he is a Mushrik. The ruling stays on him unless he is excused out of it, the ruling of Shirk stays on him unless he gets exempted out of it. For example, he said I made Sujood because I seen that brick over there, I thought that was a Sutra, that was the only Sutra, it turns out it is a huge statue, then the Shirk is lifted. For example, it was a big statue and he seen the bottom of it, he did not see a big statue, then the label, the classification of Shirk is lifted."

I'm thinking of starting a team work project of Translating and spreading the works of our beloved Scholars. Please let all the brothers know, and Inshā'Allāh we can agree upon a convenient place to discuss this. What I'm looking for is:

- A team of Brothers who are strong in the Arabic Language, who can accurately Translate Books/Videos/Fatāwah of our beloved Scholars.

- A team of Brothers who have time to add subtitles to the Translated videos. Those who have Video Editing Skills would be a bonus.

This will bring much benefit to the general masses of the Muslims who are living in a time of Fitan.

Inshā'Allāh, there can be a Sister's team as well, as for those who don't know Arabic, then you can transcribe videos in English from trustworthy Shaykhs & help spread material against the falsehood that's being promoted.

I believe this is an obligation upon us, may Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) grant us sincerity & a good intention & protect us from deviance.

What is the meaning of the #Hadīth "The Dunyā is a prison for the believer, and a Jannāh for the Kāfir" - Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) narrates a Story that's spoken about of al-Hāfidh Ibn Hajr (رحمه الله) regarding this Hadīth:

...Ibn Hajr (رحمه الله) & his companions were walking on a road, when a man who sells olives from the people of the book approached him & said: You're the one who's called Shaykh al-Islām. Your Prophet says "The Dunyā is a prison for the believer, and a Jannāh for the Kāfir", so what Jannāh are we in right now, and what prison are you in? So Ibn Hajr (رحمه الله) said to him: You are in a Jannāh for what Allāh has reckoned for you of punishment in the hereafter if you die upon Kufr, and I'm in a prison for what Allāh has reckoned for us of comfort/bliss when we die upon Islām.

So the Kuffār today are considered to be in Jannāh, for what Allāh has reckoned for them with punishment [in the hereafter]...

#Misconception about #Insulting the Sahābah & its ruling:

Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said in the end of his book "al-Sārim al-Maslūl":

"But as for insulting them [i.e. The Sahābah] wherein it doesn't malign their integrity, nor their religion, such as describing some of them with greediness, cowardliness, poor knowledge, no Zuhd & similar to that, then this is the one who deserves disciplining and lashes, and we do not rule upon him with Kufr for merely doing that, so based upon this, the statements of the Scholars who didn't perform Takfīr upon them[i.e. Those who insult the Sahābah] is held upon this"

*Marriage By Imām Anwar*

Abu Bakr (رضي الله عنه) would protect the secret of the rasul (صلى الله عليه وسلم). The daughter of omar, Hafsa (رضي الله عنها) was married to one of the sahaba who has fought in the battle of badr, later on he died, so omar wanted his daughter to marry from the best, so he went to uthman and offered his daughter to him. He told uthman (رضي الله عنه), do you want to marry my daughter hafsa (رضي الله عنها). Uthman (رضي الله عنه) said let me think about it, he later came back and said “I’ve decided that I don’t want to marry at this particular time,” Omar (رضي الله عنه) might have disliked that a little bit, so he went to Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) and he told him i am offering you my daughter if u want to marry her. Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) didn’t respond, didn’t say anything. Omar said i was even more upset with Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) than i was with uthman (رضي الله عنه). Atleast uthman (رضي الله عنه) came and gave me an answer even though it was a NO answer, but atleast he gave me an answer. But Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) was silent, i offer my daughter to him, he doesn’t give me an answer. A few days later, rasulullah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) marries hafsa (رضي الله عنها).

Abu bakr al-siddiq (رضي الله عنه) after the marriage, he came to omar ibn al-khattab (رضي الله عنه) and said I think you were upset with me because i didn’t give you an answer, he said yes i was upset with you. Abu bakr al-siddiq (رضي الله عنه) said the reason why i didn’t respond back is because I heard rasulallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) mention her and i wasn’t going to be the one who would disclose the secret of rasulallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) and if he did not marry her, I would have married her. So Abu bakr al-siddiq (رضي الله عنه) said I felt that rasulallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) by mentioning her name was interested in her, and that’s why i kept quiet to wait and see what would happen, if rasulallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) does not marry her, i would have married her, but i am not going to be the one who would disclose the secret of rasulallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم). Rasullallah wanted to have a relationship, a marriage relationship with the 4 sahaba (رضي الله عنهم), so you will find he married the daughter of abu bakr al-siddiq (رضي الله عنه) and he married the daughter of Omar al-Faruq (رضي الله عنه) and then he married two of his daughters to uthman ibn ‘affan (رضي الله عنه), he first married him 1, then when she passed away he married him the other, and there’s a statement that says, Allahu a3lam how strong the narration is, but if I have 99 daughters, I would marry them to uthman, if 1 of them die, i would keep marrying them to him, that’s how much love rasulallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) had for uthman ibn affan, and then he married his daughter Fatima to Ali ibn abi talib, so now rasulallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) has a relationship, family relationship with the 4 khulafa (رضي الله عنهم).

2 things to note, number 1, marriage in those days was very easy, very easy, now we have complicated marriage so much, we have placed so much bureaucracy in marriage that unfortunately haram has become easier than halal. In the time of the sahaba (رضي الله عنهم), things were very simple, first of all the nature of the sahaba as Abdullah ibn mas’ud says “kanu aqala al-nas takalufan”, they were the least superficial among people. They hated complications and they lived a very simple life and they loved simplicity. They were the furthest from complication or sophistication, the sahaba were simple in their dress, simple in their food, simple in their furniture, simple in their houses, simple in everything and they cherished and they loved that simplicity. It’s not like that’s all what they knew, no Omar ibn al-khattab says I have knowledge of all these fancy dishes and food but this is how I want to live, I want to live in simplicity. It’s not due to ignorance; they viewed that as the better way. So marriage was very simple, and if you noticed that omar ibn al-khattab is offering his daughter, who would do that today. Who would go to somebody whom they know is a good person, a righteous person, a brother who is in need of marriage and tell them, I would offer you my daughter, who would do that now, they would think it’s a shame, it’s embarrassing, it’s not good, it’s lowering your status, but omar ibn al-khattab didn’t have a problem with that, he went and he offered his daughter to uthman, he offered her to abu bakr al-siddiq because he wants the best for his daughter.

And in those days, because marriage was so simple and easy, there wasn’t anything called an unmarried woman which is called in Arabic “3unuusa”, women who are unmarried, who are deprived from the blessing of marriage. In those days, there was a rule that you take care of every woman in the society, every woman would be taken care of, so one of the purposes of polygamy was so that the whole society is taken care of, nobody is left out of this important relationship, because Allah has created us in pairs, Azwaja, and it’s part of the nature of the man and woman to be in such a relationship, so therefore no one in the society would be left out and deprived of this and Rasūlallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) told the ones that wanted to choose a different path that this is not my sunnah. The ones who wanted to practice a life of celibacy and get away from marriage because they heard that this was the practice of the Christian monks, rasulallah (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said this is not my sunnah, this is not my way, my way is the way of marriage and whoever doesn’t follow my way, doesn’t belong to me, so marriage in islam is ‘ibadah, it’s a form of worship and we please Alah(عز وجل) through it.

So I would like to urge all the parents to make marriage easy so that they can keep their boys and girls away from haram. In the time of the sahaba(رضي الله عنهم) halal was easier than haram. Haram was very difficult, to commit haram was very difficult, but the path of halal was very easy, however now things especially in western societies, every haram is available, and it's not only available, it's promoted because we are living in times where good is evil and evil is good, so this is something the muslim families need to break these rigid traditions that don't belong to islam and subhanallah as the scholars say "every bid'ah replaces a sunnah" Everything wrong is only there because it has uprooted something that was right. Therefore we should go back to the way of the sahaba on making things simple and encouraging halal and rasulallah(صلى الله عليه وسلم) says "marriage should be done in an early age". We ask Allah(عز وجل) to make it easy on our brothers and sisters who are seeking marriage and to make halal an open door for them and to close the doors of shaytan in their faces.

**Accept an apology, after you do, (Do not re mention It

It was narrated in al-Saheehayn from Abu Hurayrah that the Prophet (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) said: 'Beware of suspicion, for suspicion is the falsest of speech. Do not eavesdrop; do not spy on one another; do not envy one another; do not forsake one another; do not hate one another. Be, O slaves of Allaah, brothers.'" Al-Bukhaari, 5144; Muslim, 2563.

Al-'Allaamah Ibn Baaz (may Allah have mercy on him) said:

What is prescribed for the believer is to respect his brother if he offers an excuse to him, to accept his apology if possible, and to think positively of him as much as possible, striving to keep hearts free of resentment and aiming to bring about unity and co-operation in doing good. It was narrated from 'Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) that he said: Do not think badly of any word uttered by your brother when you can find a good interpretation for it.

was asked: What is the process of establishing the Hujjāh? And (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad .who is the one that establishes it? I want a detailed explanation for that responded by saying: The issue of establishing the Hujjāh, and (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad whoever establishes it, and how to establish it, and what pertains to that, differs depending upon :the issues in the following aspects

What pertains to Asl al-Deen [Foundation of the Religion], and it is Tawhīd & Shirk, so whoever .1 opposes it is a Kāfir, whether the Hujjāh has been applied or not, however we do not rule upon him by killing in this world, nor judge him to be in the hellfire in the hereafter, except whoever the Hujjāh has been applied upon. And the Hujjāh in the Foundations of the Religion is only having the message reach him, so whoever has Islām or the Qur'ān reach him, or hearing about the and similar to this, then the Hujjāh has been applied upon him, whether (صلى الله اليه وسلم) Prophet it reached him from a Muslim or a Kāfir, or he is able to seek knowledge about Islām but refuses to do so, then they are Kuffār in the Dunyā and the Hereafter, and there are no conditions that need to be stipulated upon them regarding establishing the Hujjāh to begin with, thereupon the grave worshippers in the lands of the Muslims are Kuffār in the Dunyā and the hereafter, even if one of them was more ignorant than his family's donkey, because the Hujjāh has reached them, which is has set a seal upon their hearts, so (سبحانه وتعالى) Islām, and they have the Qur'ān, however Allāh they cannot comprehend, Wallāh ul-Musta'ān. And it has been narrated in the Sahīh from Abī said: "By Him in Whose hand is the (صلى الله عليه وسلم) that the Prophet (رضي الله عنه) Hurayrah life of Muhammad, he who amongst the community of Jews or Christians hears about me, but does not affirm his belief in that with which I have been sent and dies in this state (of disbelief), he shall be but one of the denizens of Hell-Fire" So from here, we find that the majority of those who are in our time have the Hujjāh established upon them in the Foundations of the Religion, either they've heard about Islām, and this is sufficient, or they are able to require knowledge about it but they (سبحانه) opposed that, and the Hujjāh has been established upon both of these parties, and Allāh .knows best (وتعالى)

What pertains to the Clear Ordainments of Islām, such as the obligation of the 4 Pillars, and the .2 prohibition of Zinā, Alcohol and similar to that from the Mutawātir[widespread] matters, so in this case, a person who isn't able to acquire knowledge is excused in it, such as the one who recently entered into Islām, or was raised far away from the lands of Islām, so if he perfects the Asl al-Deen (Tawhīd & abandoning Shirk), however he rejected the obligation of Salāh or legalised alcohol for example, and he is someone who is truly ignorant of this, then he doesn't become a Kāfir except if the Hujjāh has been established upon him, and the Hujjāh in this situation is showing the proofs in the issue, so whoever has been shown the proofs, then he has established the Hujjāh upon him, even if the one showing the proofs is from the general masses of the Muslims and isn't from the .students of knowledge, because these issues are clear & widespread

What pertains to the unclear matters & other than that, because it differs depending on the time .3 said (رحمه الله) and place and people, and the issue is disputable, Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh to a group among the Jahmiyyāh al-Halūliyyāh [i.e. those who believe Allāh is everywhere]: "If I said what you said, I would disbelieve, however I do not see you as disbelievers because of your ignorance", or as he stated in "al-Istighāthah" and the Imāms of the Da'wah al-Najdiyyāh differed with him. But the point here is that these Jahmiyyāh would say: "Allāh is everywhere", so Shaykh viewed that it was because of their ignorance pertaining this matter, that the (رحمه الله) al-Islām Hujjāh hasn't been applied upon them because of their strong misconception and what they were raised upon, and the Imāms of the Da'wah al-Najdiyyāh differed with him as I mentioned, and the Tahqīq [Fixed Statement] in the matter is that it returns back to 1 matter, which is denial, so whoever see's that interpretation in these issues results in its reality towards denial, or he argues with them and see's that they deny the text, then they disbelieve, and whoever see's that they don't deny the text, rather they affirm it even if they distorted it from its true meaning, then they do not disbelieve, this is the summarised statement in the issue even though it might require further .knows best (سبحانه وتعالى)breaking down than this, and Allāh

:So you will find establishing the Hujjāh in the 3 categories differs

The foundations of the religion: Merely being shown or hearing [about Islām] on its own, even if it - .was from a Kāfir

.The clear matters: Being shown the proofs in the matter on its own, from any Muslim -

.The unclear matters: It requires removing the misconception, and this cannot be done by anyone - replied by saying: His abandonment[of the army] on its own isn't (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad and (جل وعلا)[considered] Tawbah, and this is clear/apparent, rather he must believe in Allāh disbelieve in the Tāghūt, like Ba'thism and ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed, and all that which has nullified monotheism, and as it's clearly shown[from Syria] that many of the abandonments were only [done] for the Dunyāh, either for their incompetence, or their hatred for Bāshār al-Assad, and his counterparts, or for their hunger/greed of wanting higher positions, or because of fear from the revolutionists, or other than that. And they have still not met/perfected[the conditions] of Tawhīd & disassociation from the Tāghūt, so they have not done anything further, except that they've changed from [one] disbelief to another, wa Allāhu al-Musta'ān

#Extremely_Important #Takfeer

Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) was asked: What do you think about the one who says that it's a must to look at whether the conditions have been met & and the preventions of Takfīr have being removed regarding the one who has committed Kufr, such as Shirk or Sihr [Magic], or Mocking [Allāh, His Messenger & Islām] & similar to that from the Nullifiers, until we can individually rule upon him with Kufr?

The Shaykh(حفظه الله) responded by saying: This is not correct, because looking into the conditions & similar to that is within the matters which become unclear, as for the matters of Usūl [Foundations of the Religion] that you mentioned in the question, Shirk, Sihr & Mocking [Allāh, the Messenger & Islām] and similar to that, then the person who does that disbelieves with no dignity, except in the case of Ikrāh [coercion], and the Fundamental Principle & Criterion is: "Every person who has fulfilled what negates his submission to Allāh, then he's a Kāfir, only except for the coerced", so make your judgement based upon this Criterion in all scenarios, as we know that submission to Allāh is nullified by 2 things:

1. That he submits to Allāh & to other than Allāh, and this is Shirk.
2. That he doesn't submit to Allāh, and this is denial & arrogance & similar to that.

Regardless whether this negator [of submission to Allāh] was in 1 issue or more, for example:

- A) Whoever worships other than Allāh because he was ignorant = Shirk is established upon him.
- B) Whoever legalises alcohol because he was ignorant & he is someone who is truly ignorant = No nullifier is established upon him.
- C) Whoever legalises alcohol and he is someone who isn't truly ignorant = Denial & Rejection [of the text] is established upon him.
- D) Whoever interprets Tawhīd or the matters pertaining al-Walā' wal-Barā' = Denial & Rejection [of the text] is established upon him.
- E) Whoever interprets some of the Attributes of Allāh such as the Istiwā' [Allāh being above the 'Arsh], and Qadr [Destiny], because of a misconception (he didn't deny or reject the text) = No negator of Islām is established upon him.

And likewise with the rest of the scenarios, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

was asked, what is the meaning of Democracy? And what is the (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad difference between Democracy & Shūrah? And what is the ruling regarding the entering of ?Parliaments responded by saying: Democracy is the rule of the people, and it means (حفظه الله) The Shaykh that the legislation and permitting & prohibiting is for the population itself, and it was existant in then it developed further after the English Revolution, (عليه السلام), Greece, before the Birth of 'Īsa .[then the French[revolution], until it reached what it reached[i.e. Today with no partners (سبحانه وتعالى) And it's purely Kufr, because the judgement/ruling is for Allāh says: "He makes none to share in his Decision and His (سبحانه وتعالى) ascribed to him, as Allāh rule", and it is differs to the Shūrah more than the differences between Fornication to Marriage, and :that is because of [several] aspects

The Shūrah is only for the Ijtihādī matters, where there is no explicit text regarding it, as for the .1 ruling being clear/apparent, then there's no Shūrah regarding it, but as for democracy, then it's .included into everything without exception

The Shūrah is for a Group among the Ahl al-Hal wal-'Aqd, who are well known for their justness & .2

righteousness & religiousness. As for Democracy, then it's for a group of people who are elected by the people according to their desires, and what brings benefit to them, even if they were from the .most evil of people

The judgement made in the Shūrah is not compellable upon the correct view, so the Just Leader .3 .is not compelled to take it if he views benefit opposing it, as for Democracy, it's compellable

In the Shūrah, they do not come up with rulings & laws which are imposed upon the population, .4 .as for Democracy, they impose that by force

Including other than that from the differences. There are books which aren't that bad regarding this .issue, which would be good to return back too

:And entering parliaments is a great Munkar[evil] from several aspects

A) That there is acknowledgement for the judgement of the population, because parliament is a legislative gathering which comes up with laws, so by him entering it, he is acknowledging a and this is Kufr, and even if the Islamists rule over (سيحانه وتعالى), Lawgiver besides Allāh parliament for instance and they made the constitution islamic, then this is not the judgement of rather it's the judgement of the population, that's why if the members of parliament (جل وعلا), Allāh were changed, laws change, and similar to this, so this isn't ruling by Sharī'ah, the Sharī'ah rules by force, and whoever refuses it from the people is hit with a sword and thrown in the rubbish bin, and .we do not look at the number of voters, the For and Against

B) That it's obliged for the person entering Parliament to take an oath to respect the consitution, and the consitution is originally Kufr, and it has many uncountable Mukaffirāt, and respecting it is !Kufr, so how can you take an oath by that

C) Those that are called the Islamists step down on many things in their path to reach towards Parliament, then they do not achieve a portion of what they provided from their stepping down, and .look at our current situation today, you would know that very well in 'Umdat al-Tafsīr regarding Allāh's statement "and consult (رحمه الله)And Shaykh Ahmad Shākir them in the matter" has very beautiful words in comparing Democracy and Shūrah together, and the reply against whoever considered Democracy to be from the Shūrah, and whoever calls towards the .elections, so refer back to it, because it has words which should be written in Gold Ink said that Interaction [Mu'āmalah] with the Kāfir is of three (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad :categories

.The First Category: Interaction which constitutes Kufr which expels someone from Islām .1

And some of the 'Ulemā' have termed this category with "Tawallī". So every type of association which has an evidence proving that it is Kufr and Apostasy, then it is of this category. And that is like loving the religion of the Kuffār, or hoping to see them victorious [over Islām] and other than those from the examples. And from them is this issue of ours, and it is: Assisting [Mudhāharah] .them against the Muslims

.The Second Category: Association which is Harām, but does not constitute Kufr .2

And some of the 'Ulemā' have termed this category as "Muwālāt". So every [type of association] which has evidence showing that it is forbidden, but this forbiddance has not reached Kufr, then it is from this category. And that is like preferring them to sit in front at gatherings, giving them greetings first, and showing [a type of] affection to them that doesn't reach the level of Tawallī, and .such

.[The Third Category: Association which is permissible [Jā'iz] .3

And it is not included in Muwālāt, and it is that which the evidences show its permissibility, like being just with them, and being fair with those from them who do not wage war [against the .Muslims], and keeping relations with Kuffār relatives, and such was asked: What is the brief explanation regarding the third (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad "nullifier "Whoever doesn't make Takfeer upon the Mushrikeen & doubts in their Kufr

:The Shaykh responded by saying: The brief explanation is divided into 4 types

Whoever's Kufr is Aslī such as the Jew or Christian: So whoever doesn't make Takfeer upon him .1 or refrains from performing takfeer upon him, then he's a Kāfir because he hasn't disbelieved in Tāghūt, because Tawhīd must be accompanied with two things "Disbelieving in the Tāghūt, and "believing in Allāh

Whoever apostates from Islām and openly proclaims in leaving it for Judaism or Atheism & .2
.similar to that: Then he is like the First Type

Whoever apostates from Islām by committing an agreed upon Nullifier such as Insulting[Allāh & .3
His Messenger], but claims that he's a Muslim: So whoever affirms that his statement or action is Kufr[in General], however he refrained from performing Takfeer upon him[in Specific], then he .doesn't disbelieve because he didn't reject the text[Qur'ān & Sunnāh] or Ijmā

Whoever apostates by committing a Nullifier that is differed upon such as Abandoning Salāh: So .4
whoever doesn't make takfeer upon him doesn't disbelieve, even if he disputed in the core root of
.knows best (جل وعلا)the matter, because it's differed upon, and Allāh was asked: What is meant by 'inability to understand' with (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad

?regards to establishing the Hujjāh

:responded by saying: Inability to understand means two things (حفظه الله)The Shaykh

Unable to know the meanings of the words: So this is an excuse with regards to establishing the .1
Hujjāh, so the individual must know the meanings, such as the non-Arab for instance if he was .addressed in the Arabic language has sealed upon the hearts of the Kuffār and their inability to understand these (جل وعلا)Allāh .2 has set a seal (سبحانه وتعالى)words as being the truth: Then this isn't an excuse at all, rather Allāh upon their hearts so that they will not understand, and from the most explicit proof is Allāh's statement: "Had Allāh known any good in them, He would have made them hear." meaning: He said: "And if He had made (جل وعلا)allowed them to see the truth of what reached them, then He them hear" meaning: And even if we made them see it as the truth "They would [still] have turned in speech?! So (سبحانه وتعالى)away, while they were refusing.", and who is more truthful than Allāh would remain upon their disbelief, does anything after this require an explanation?! And Allāh was asked: The issue of 'uluw[Allāh being above the 'Arsh] has (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad stated, so is it from the Apparent/Clear Matters (رحمه الله)more than 1,000 proofs as ibn al-Qayyīm where it is sufficient to recite the text with the opposing deviant sects? And if it was not ?Apparent/Clear, then how can it be from the Hidden/Unclear Matters and it has all these proofs

:responded by saying (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad

There are matters which differ in clearness & unclearness depending on the time and place and reality, such as some of the texts on the Attributes[of Allāh], and the Fundamental Rule in this is: If the innovator belied or rejected the text, then he's a Kāfir, or else he doesn't disbelieve, so the texts on "al-'uluw" for example was Clear in the time of the Salaf, and that is why they made Takfir upon whoever negated or interpreted it, then it became Unclear after the misconception was spread between the Muslims after the Best Generations[i.e. The Salaf], that is why you see those ascribed to the people of knowledge who interpret it, are most of the time exalting the texts, he doesn't deny it or reject it, however this misconception has appeared to him of which the Mutakalimeen spread between the people, so the Clear Matters aren't upon one level, just like the Unclear Matters aren't upon one level as well, so some of the Clear Matters can become Unclear, and vice versa, and was asked, is Bulūgh al-Hujjāh[having the evidence reach him] a (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad

?condition to apply Kufr

:The Shaykh responded by saying: Kufr is of two types with regards to applying it

It could be applied to mean "General Kufr": and it is every person who doesn't follow the religion .1
.of Islām, whether the Hujjāh has been applied or not

It could be applied to mean "Specific Kufr": and it is rejecting the truth and denying it after the .2
Bulūgh[evidence reaching you], and this is specifically for the one that the Hujjāh has been applied
[...on, and this is the Kufr that's punished for.[i.e. The rulings that deal with apostasy etc

As for the "General Kufr" - #1 - Ahlâl Fatrah & others are entered into it, of those who the Hujjâh hasn't been applied on, and even though they are called Kuffâr, however they aren't punished[for apostasy] except after applying the Hujjâh, and from this you can explain the saying of Imâm with regards to his Refrainment on performing Takfîr upon (رحمه الله)Muhammâd ibn 'Abdûl Wahhâb whoever worshipped the dome of Kawâz & 'Abdûl Qâdir & similar to them because of their ignorance, so he intends by that the "Specific Kufr", which is conditioned by applying the Hujjâh, .not the "General Kufr" that's contrary to [the religion of] Islâm was asked: What is the ruling on the one who says: "O (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nâsir al-Fahad messenger of Allâh, call upon Allâh to forgive me"? And is this like saying: "O messenger of Allâh, intercede for me"? And what's the ruling on the one who says that this saying[#1] is a bid'ah and ?isn't major shirk responded by saying: This issue has Tafsîl[i.e. Requires a (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nâsir al-Fahad :detailed explanation], so it's divided into two categories

If he supplicated with this du'â & he is far away from his grave[i.e. The Prophet's grave], then .1 .this is Major shirk without any doubt, because there's no misconception in that

:If he supplicates near his grave, then he is also upon two categories .2

.A) That he asks for his intercession or help or victory & similar to that, then this is also Major Shirk

B) That he says "Ask Allâh for me" or "Intercede for me by [the permission of] your Lord" and it's from the same type[both sayings are the same], so the people of knowledge have two sayings :regarding this

So the Imâms of the Da'wah al-Najdiyyâh view it as Major Shirk, from among the types of Shirk - that Quraysh used to do "These are our intermediaries with Allâh", "Except that they bring us closer "to Allâh in position

And among the later scholars who viewed it as a [Great] innovation & [Great] evil & a means to - Shirk, however it's not disbelief, because they have a misconception which is his life in the grave[i.e. He's alive in the grave] & that he hears the Salâm for whoever gives him Salâms & similar to that, so according to themselves they aren't calling upon the absent[Ghâ'ib] or an incapable person[i.e. Dead etc..], and they do not call upon him by anything from the Attributes of Divinity like asking for help, intercession & similar to that, so [according to him] it's just like asking for a supplication from him during his life, and this isn't Shirk by ljmâ', and he is right now alive in .his grave, so this is their misconception

And what appears to be most correct in my view is that it's Major Shirk, however he is excused from this by ignorance & ta'wîl[interpretation], because of their strong shubhâ[misconception] in this .knows best (جل وعلا)situation, and Allâh was asked, It's mentioned in the authentic Hadîth: "Whoever (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nâsir al-Fahad ?[says to his brother O kâfir, then surely one of them is such" so is this from the Nullifiers[of Islâm responded by saying: Takfeer upon a muslim which appears to (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nâsir al-Fahad :knows best, is upon three categories (جل وعلا)me, and Allâh

The one who had ta'wîl[a valid interpretation] in his speech[of calling a muslim, Kâfir], there's no .1 sin upon him, rather he could be rewarded as it was considered by several Scholars [i.e. Such as Allow" saying to Hâtib (رضي الله عنه)ibn al-Qayyîm], and this is indicated by 'Omar's to Sa'd ibn (رضي الله عنه)me to strike the neck of this hypocrite" and the saying of Usayd Indeed you're a hypocrite, you argue on behalf of the hypocrites" and other" (رضي الله عنه)Ubâdah has written a chapter in al-Adab al-Mufrad "The chapter of (رحمه الله)than that, And al-Bukhârî "whoever doesn't view the disbelief of one who said that[takfeer] out of interpretation or ignorance

Whoever said it with the purpose of oppression/injustice, and enmity of opposition & accusation, .2 while he views him[his opponent] in his innerself as a believing monotheist, then this person is in knows best, that his kufr is major (جل وعلا)danger, however it doesn't appear [to mean] and Allâh kufr, rather he could've fell into an enormous sin & minor kufr, and this is what the majority of the .people of knowledge are upon

Whoever made takfeer upon him without an interpretation or misconception, so here he becomes .3 named a chapter (رحمه الله)a kâfir because he made Ēmân as Kufr, and upon this al-Bukhârî "Whoever makes takfeer on his brother without ta'wîl, then he is like what he said" and he mentioned some texts[evidences] regarding this "Whoever says to his brother...[till the end of the "[hadîth

Pay attention: The difference between the first[case] and the second[case] is that the first[case] is a ta'wīl based upon a valid[sharī'] interpretation by using evidences from the texts[Qur'ān & and (سبحانه وتعالى), Sunnāh], and with the purpose of establishing[the truth] for [the sake of] Allāh ordaining the good & forbidding the evil, and as for the second[case], then his interpretation is not a valid[Sharī'] interpretation, even if he used evidences from the Sharī'ah with the purpose of enmity knows (جل وعلا) against his opponent, oppression/injustice and gaining victory for himself, and Allāh .best was asked to briefly explain the issue of Tawāf. [He talks about (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad [whether it's harām or kufr

So he responded by saying: Tawāf has two aspects, Intent & the Place. So the prescribed Tawāf is and around the Ka'bah. And as for Tawāf to other than the (سبحانه وتعالى), what was done for Allāh :[Ka'bah, it's divided into[the following categories there's no doubt , (جل وعلا) If he made Tawāf in any place to get closer to other than Allāh . 1 .regarding his kufr

If he made Tawāf around a place other than the Ka'bah, like some of the areas of Makkāh in .2 Minā or 'Arafāh or Muzdalifāh, or around the Prophet's Mosque, or around Bayt al-Maqdis & similar then he's a misguided innovator, however he doesn't , (جل وعلا) to that, so if his Tawāf was for Allāh become a disbeliever. And why shall he become a disbeliever? If you said: "Because he made Tawāf to other than Allāh", it would be said to you: "He made Tawāf for Allāh" And if you said: "Because he made Tawāf to other than the Ka'bah", it would be said to you "Tawāf is not for the Ka'bah, rather the Ka'bah is the place for performing this act of worship", this is why he's a in a prohibited place (سبحانه وتعالى) misguided innovator in his actions, just like if he prayed to Allāh for Salāh to be held in, or during the prohibited times, verily he doesn't become a disbeliever, even .though he's doing a prohibited act & isn't in the [correct] place for Salāh

So] If it's said: "Tawāf is not prescribed except in a single place, unlike Salāh", he would say:] "Indeed, the speech here is referring to the place that the legislator has prohibited, and the speech prohibited Tawāf in other than (سبحانه وتعالى) regarding this is within a single context, so just as He the Masjid al-Harām, likewise he prohibited the Salāh in [particular] places and known times." [Note: So this person thinks it's allowed to make Tawāf around other than the ka'bah based upon these [misconceptions

And if he made Tawāf around a grave of a saint from the Awliyā' or his house & similar to that, .3 here is the problem, because he didn't make Tawāf around this saint except to exalt him, so this Tawāf even if he said it was only for Allāh, indeed the situation indicates that it's not for Allāh rather it's getting closer & exalting this saint, and I think that this is a matter of perspective , (جل وعلا) outlook/reasoning. And I was debating one of the honourable brothers in the year 1419AH and I mentioned to him that whoever makes Tawāf around the grave is a Mushrik, and he (جل وعلا) considered/determined him to be an innovator if his Tawāf was for Allāh

So I said to him: I think that our difference has no weight at all, because I believe that you will not find a person who makes Tawāf around the grave, except that he is indulging in other acts of Shirk [I said this] in his ear, from making Du'ā[to other than Allāh], a vow[dedicating yourself to obey other than Allāh] & other than it. So if there's a man who truly perfects tawheed in all of its matters & showed enmity from all kinds of shirk, and doesn't indulge in it, except that he makes Tawāf so when that happens we will continue the debate, , (جل وعلا) around a grave to get closer to Allāh .knows best, always (جل وعلا) and you will not find him[a person like that], and Allāh

What is the ruling of Prostrating to other than Allāh (جل وعلا)?

Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad (حفظه الله) replied by saying:

Sujūd[Prostration] to other than Allāh (جل وعلا) in our Sharee'ah has two sayings:

1. That it's shirk unrestrictedly [in all cases]
2. Differentiating between Sujūd al-Tahiyyāh[Prostration of respect/salutation] and Sujūd al-'Ibādah[Prostration of worship], so if the intent was the first [type i.e Respect], and it is [what is directed] to a noble[person] or elderly[person] or president & similar to that, so this is Harām & isn't Shirk, and if it was to a Tree or Rock or Grave or Idol or for an elderly person with the intent of submission in worship, or [if] it was legislated[to prostrate to anyone], that's shirk & major kufr.

And the proof for this differentiation is what is authentic from the prostration of the angels to Ādam (عليه السلام), and the prostration of the brothers of Yūsuf (عليه السلام) to him[Yūsuf], and other than this from the texts[evidences], And it's not [allowed] to say that this was the Sharee'ah from before us, because the Prophets agree upon Tawhīd, even if the details of their Sharee'ah differed, [you can't say] it was made harām for this Ummāh because of its perfection/completeness, and I believe Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) differentiates between the two matters.

And from before[in the past], I used to adopt the first view that it's all Shirk, however when I pondered/reflected over the evidences of the second saying, I went towards it and Allāh(جل وعلا) knows best.

(سبحانه)was asked, would it be possible for you, may Allāh (حفظه الله)Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad preserve you, to mention for us a short summary regarding the issue of "Excuse of (وتعالى) [Ignorance]" [in Major Shirk

:The shaykh responded by saying: Excuse of ignorance is differed upon into 3 sayings

. [Those who give excuse of ignorance completely [in all cases] .1

Those who don't excuse the people with ignorance in Tawheed[foundation of worship] completely .2 [in all cases], regardless if it was regarding the "Asmā" [applying the name of Mushrik upon him] in this world or the ruling [upon him] in the afterlife, so they consider him to be in the hellfire eternally, even if the Risālah [Prophetic Message] didn't reach him, and they used the first covenant [Al-Mithāq al-Awwāl] as proof

And this is the correct view, that there are some [types] of ignorance which can be excused, and .3 :[other [types] which isn't [excused

A) So it would be excused in the Masā'il al-Khafiyyāh [Hidden/Unclear Matters], such as Qadar, Ēmān, Attributes[of Allāh] and in the likes of the apparent Ahkām al-'Amaliyyāh [Sharee'ah Regulations to do with Actions] which is other than Tawheed, like Salāh, Zakāt, the Prohibition of .alcohol & other than that

B) It would not be excused in Tawheed al-'Ibādah[Where you must single out Allāh in worship], because this is Asl al-Deen [the fundamentals of the religion] and the deen of all the messengers, like du'ā[to other than Allāh], slaughtering[to other than Allāh], a vow[dedicating yourself to obey :other than Allāh] & other than that. This Jāhil is also upon two categories

A Jāhil who is not excused in this world & the hereafter, meaning that he will eternally remain in - the hellfire, we seek refuge from Allāh from it [hell]. And he is the one who the Hujjāh has been established on by having the Risālah [Prophetic Message i.e Qur'ān & Sunnāh] reach him, no matter if he searched for it but didn't understand it, or he opposed it and didn't [bother] searching for .[it [the message

A Jāhil who's excused in the hereafter, not in this world: And he is the one who the Hujjāh hasn't - been established on, like the one who grew up in a desert far away or was in a very tall mountain, or from the Ahl al-Fatrāh and other than them, so this person is dealt with as a Mushrik in this world, and the most correct of what has been (جل وعلا), but as for the hereafter, the matter is left to Allāh .knows best (جل وعلا)mentioned regarding him is that he will be tested and Allāh

#Fabricated_Hadīth "Ribā has 70 odd branches, the lowest is equivalent to a man committing adultery with his Mother"

A group among the later scholars have gone towards the authenticity of this report, and what's correct is that its first part is authentic "Ribā has 70 odd branches", but as for "And the lowest is equivalent to a man committing adultery with his Mother", then this is a #Lie upon the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and goes against the General and Specific Principles [of the Shari'ah], and contradicts the Authentic Hadīths, and is Clear & distant from the intellect, and some of the reasons for this:

1. That Zinā is greater in Harām than Ribā in both its types: Debt and Remnants.

2. That committing adultery with Mahrams is from the biggest of Harām, and from the greatest of sins, and a group among the Scholars have gone to say that whoever commits adultery with a Mahram of his is to be struck with the sword, even if he was not Married, and that is because of the severe matter of Zinā, but the Majority of the Scholars went to say that he's lashed like others, and it's completely fine to whip him[Ta'zīr].

And thereupon, how can you make the Ribā dealings, and the lowest level of Ribā greater in prohibition in the sight of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) than a man who commits adultery with a Mahram of his?!! Rather, he committed adultery with his Mother, wal-Iyāthū Billāh?!!.

3. That the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said in the Hadīth "The most prevalent kind of Ribā is going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour." So the outward meaning of this Narration is that the most severe Ribā in the sight of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) is going into length in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour, and what kind of elongation is more severe than having a slave[of Allāh] commit Zinā with his Mother, this is the greatest type of elongation[going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour]

So it's understood that the last Hadīth contradicts the first [Hadīth], because if he said "And the lowest is a man committing adultery with his Mother, & The most prevalent kind of Ribā is going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour.", it is as if this report doesn't consider committing adultery from going into lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour, and sufficient is the gruesomeness and atrociousness of that.

And this matter is picked up by the intellect, and is understood by the text, and no one can stubbornly contend with it, and that's why Imām Abū Hātim (رحمه الله), Ibn al-Jawzī (رحمه الله) and a group of Scholars have judged upon this report as being Fabricated and a Lie, and the statements of whoever authenticated it isn't taken into account at all.

And this reaffirms the meaning which we stress on always returning back to the words of the Imāms of the Salaf, and not being confined to authenticating reports based upon the outwardness of the chains, or simply relying upon the statements of the Later Scholars.

~ Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله)

Note: I'm translating بضع وسبعون as "70 odd", but there's a difference of opinion regarding what "بضع" is, however if you refer back to Fath al-Bārī by Ibn Rajab (رحمه الله) on his explanation of Saḥīḥ al-Bukhārī, chapter of Ēmān, he has mentioned several opinions, and what seems to be most correct according to most scholars is that "بضع" is any number between 3-9.

was asked, what is the correct view with regards to the (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān ?ruling on the Sāhir responded by saying: Al-Sihr in all of its forms is Harām in every Sharī'ah, (حفظه الله) The Shaykh and is agreed upon regarding its prohibition and the prohibition of learning it. And it goes against came with, and contradicts the purpose of what the (عليهم الصلاة والسلام) what the Messengers .books[revelations from Allāh] were sent for

And the majority of the scholars adopted the view that the Sāhir is a Kāfir, and it's compulsory upon .the leader of the muslims to kill him

said "It was not Sulaymān who disbelieved, but the devils disbelieved, teaching (سبحانه وتعالى) Allāh "(people Sihr(magic

said "But [the two angels] do not teach anyone unless they say, "We are a (سبحانه وتعالى) and Allāh .trial, so do not disbelieve", i.e. [do not disbelieve] by doing Sihr, so it's evident that this is Kufr

And most of the Fuqahā' from the Shāfi'yyāh adopted the view that the Sāhir doesn't disbelieve, unless he believes the permissibility of Sihr or believes similar to what the people of Bābil believe, .from getting closer to the 7 stars

.[And this is disputable, and there's no evidence to condition "Belief" [for Sihr to be Kufr

And what's correct is that the Sāhir is a Kāfir, whether he believes it's Harām or not, so simply performing Sihr is Kufr, and this is what's clear from the evidences, and there is nothing in the other .texts which opposes this

And when the description/title of Sihr is established upon an individual, he is to be killed, as that has been proven from a group of the Sahābah, however it's not allowed for anyone among the people to apply the Punishments without the command of the Sultān[Chief/Leader] or whoever holds his place, because applying the Punishments without the command of those in authority will result in corruption, and destabilisation for the safety[of the country], and the consideration of the [Sultān will disappear.[Basically becomes chaos, everyone taking it into his own hands

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) was asked: A dispute has occurred between some of the brothers regarding the ruling of paying the Zakāt in money instead of Food. And everyone had his own opinion from an Islamic point of view, so I'll summarise it for you quickly:

The first person says: It is prohibited to pay the Zakāt al-Fitra in Money because it goes against what the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) did.

The second person says: It is preferred to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] in Food, and paying it with money is permissible, however it is in opposition to the Sunnāh.

The third person says: It's preferred to look at the situation of the poor person & the situation of his country and its environment, because money might be better for him.

So my question O respected Shaykh: Did any of the Salaf give a Fatwa to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] with money instead of Food? And is it better for someone to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] with money because the needy prefers that?

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) responded by saying: This issue is one of the differed upon matters, and the Imāms of the Salaf differ regarding paying Zakāt al-Fitr with Money.

And saying this opinion or that opinion is more correct is a matter of Ijtihād, so no one should call the other person misguided or an innovator.

And the principle regarding the differences of opinion in the likes of this issue, is that it should not break the friendship & love between the disputers, nor to have fury in their hearts, for all of them are good, and there's no blame upon someone who concludes with [an opinion] of what he hears.

And many of the Imāms would say in their speech regarding the differed upon matters "Our statements are correct, while it could contain mistakes, and the statements of others are mistaken, but it could contain the truth"

And the Majority of the Imāms have gone to say that it's not permissible to take out Money for Zakāt al-Fitr, Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله) said: "I fear that it won't suffice, it's in opposition to the Sunnāh of the Messenger of Allāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم)", and this is the Madhab of Mālik (رحمه الله) and al-Shāfi'ī (رحمه الله). And al-Imām Ibn Hazm (رحمه الله) said: "Money does not suffice in any case to begin with, because that is not what the Messenger of Allāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم) has mandated"

And 'Attā' (رحمه الله), al-Hassan al-Basrī (رحمه الله), 'Omar ibn 'Abdūl 'Azīz (رحمه الله), al-Thawrī (رحمه الله), Abū Hanīfah (رحمه الله) and others have gone towards the permissibility of paying [Zakāt al-Fitr] with Money instead of Food, Abū Ishāq al-Sabī'ī [who is one of the Imāms of the Tābi'īn] said: "I have seen them pay the Sadaqah in Ramadān with Darāhim [Money] in its [equivalent] value for food" narrated by Imām ibn Abī Shaybah (رحمه الله) in al-Musannāf.

And the proof for that is:

1 - Is that there's no text proven from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) nor any of the Sahābah regarding the impermissibility of paying [Zakāt al-Fitr] with Money, and the reported Ahādith within the text mentioning a specific types of Food doesn't mean what's apart from it is forbidden [to give in Zakāt]

2 - The proof for this is that the Sahābah, may Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) be pleased with them, permitted taking out wheat [Which is not specified by the text] instead of barley, dates and similar to that from the different kinds that are narrated in the Authentic Ahādīth.

Infact, many of the Sahābah, rather most of them, during the era of Mu'āwiyah (رضي الله عنه) went towards the permissibility of giving out half a Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's] from the Sumrā'[Brown wheat] of al-Shām instead of a Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's] of dates, so this is a proof that they saw half a Sā' is equal to the price of a Sā' of dates or barley and similar to that.

3 - Also with proof that the purpose behind Zakāt is enrichment of the poor, and money is more beneficial for some of them instead of Food, so in that case, you would check to see the situation of the poor in every country.

4 - Also with proof that many of the needy take the Food and sells it on the same day or the next day below its actual price, so who would benefit more, the one that was given Food, or the one who was given the Money equivalent to the value of this Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's], and Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

The best advice an Imām can give to a woman who is suffering, and in danger at the hands of her husband is NOT to have SABR. Shouldn't their main concern be the SAFETY of a Sister? How you gonna tell a Sister to have SABR when she's being punched and kicked, choked and suffocated, whipped with leather belts and at knife point... To have SABR?! Something about this is very UN-ISLAMIC. Meanwhile... Sisters end up in hospital, damaged for life. Some are dead. They reached out for help, but were advised to have SABR, and look where that got them in life. Our Imām's need educating and training on how to handle real life situations. I don't know how they sleep at night. Brothers, you need to address these issues, because THAT could be YOUR DAUGHTER / SISTER. Do something!

Where is the gheerah Oh'Brothers? [Written by a Sister]

As we know, many brothers are very good with -standing up- and "protecting" our muslims sisters out there who happen to be mocked at from time to time on social media mostly becuz of the "likes" they get and that "hero title"- he stood up for someone.

But, why is it that when you hear degrading rumors about your own sisters, ya'll be spreading the word around to the next brother? Or when you see your sister being attacked at the mall, streets, schools ya be starring and perhaps even take ur phones up to make a video out of the whole scenario? Or when guys without no haya, no shame, guys that don't fear Allah be calling after your sisters with obnoxious names ya be standing by the sideline as if you were paralyzed...Do you actually not feel a THING?

We may not be your sisters by blood, genetically but we ARE your sisters FI DEEN.

We need MEN that PROTECTS us, not just behind the screens but in REAL life. We need to feel that sense of security by our OWN BROTHERS. So if i was to leave my home, to take care of some errands, I would rest assure that the brother/s who is out there, aint gone throw a blind eye at me, if someone was to approach me with harshness.

I don't think non of you want to be classed as brothers without no GHEERAH for their ummaah and women or to have similarities as the munafiq. So don't allow yourself, be put in the same category, ACT, act Fisabilillah and know that you will find the reward, with Allah.

501 - And it's narrated from Abī Saʿīd al-Khudrī(رضي الله عنه) & Abī Hurayrāh(رضي الله عنه) that they said: The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Remind your dead[dying ones] to say, Lā ilāha ilā Allāh". Narrated by Muslim(رحمه الله) and the "Four"[i.e. Saḥīḥ Sittāh except for Bukhārī].

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

This report is narrated by Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) in his Saḥīḥ, so he said "Abū Kāmil al-Fudhayl ibn Hussayn(رحمه الله) narrated to us, he said we were informed by Bishr ibn al-Mufaddāl(رحمه الله), he said it was narrated to us by 'Amārah ibn Ghazyah(رحمه الله), he said it from Yahyā ibn 'Amārah(رحمه الله) from Abī Saʿīd al-Khudrī(رضي الله عنه) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم)."

And Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Saḥīḥ from the chain of Yazīd ibn Kisyān(رحمه الله) from Abī Hāzim(رحمه الله) from Abī Hurayrāh(رضي الله عنه) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

And Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) and the Ahlāl Sunan all narrated it from the chain of 'Amārah ibn Ghazyāh(رحمه الله) from Yahyā ibn 'Amārah(رحمه الله) from Abī Saʿīd(رضي الله عنه).

The Prophet's saying: {Remind your dead to say} This is a command, and by principle, commands are held upon being obligatory, except that the Scholars held this report as being a recommendation, for an Ijmā' has been agreed upon in this[i.e. Recommendation], or else it would've been taken as an obligation, and the Scholars differed regarding this reminder, it's said that this reminder is when he's on his death bed, and this is the saying of the Majority of the Muhaqīqīn from the people of knowledge, and some of them said that this reminder is after burying them, to say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, so he remembers what he died upon, and this saying has weakness to it, and what's correct is the first saying. What affirms this is what has been narrated by ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Saḥīḥ "So whoever's last words were Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, he will enter Jannāh", so this affirms and supports the first saying, and that it's to be said on his deathbed, so that the one on his death bed can benefit from this and say this great word, and as for saying it after he dies, then this is an innovation in the religion according to the correct view, and by the will of Allāh(جل وعلا), we will go through this issue in its proper place.

And some of the scholars recommended refraining from ordering the one on his death bed to say these words, so it shouldn't be said to him "Say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh", rather you should remind him of it, so that it can appear to him, or to remind him of some of the narrated Hadīths regarding the virtues of whoever says it. And the reason for this is so it doesn't worry him, and the one present doesn't shock him by not being able to say it.

As for the Kāfir, if he was upon his deathbed, it can be said to him "Say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh" as the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) did with his uncle Abī Tālib, in the Saḥīhayn & other than it from the Hadīth of Saʿīd al-Musayyib(رحمه الله) from his father, he said "when I was present with Abā Tālib on his deathbed, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) came to him and with him was 'Abdullāh ibn Umayyāh & Abū Jahl, so he said to him: {O uncle, say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh....till the end of the Hadīth}"

So the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) ordered him to say it, because if he died without saying it, he would eternally remain in the hellfire for eternity, and this is the reality regarding Abī Tālib, we ask Allāh(جل وعلا) for peace and good health.

With regards to a muslim, then it differs to the Kāfir in this issue, because if you ordered him to say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, it's possible that he would grief/worry from that, taking away his comfort by a sin, and what's necessary is benefiting him, not harming him, and benefit occurs by reminding him of Lā ilāha ilā Allāh or mentioning the narrated Hadīths regarding its virtues near death.

And in the Hadīth is an evidence regarding the virtues of Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has made it the tenet, of which Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) narrated in his Musnad with an authentic chain from the chain of al-Nahawī(رحمه الله) from Ash'ath ibn Abī al-Sha'thā'(رحمه الله), he said it was narrated to me from a man of the children of Mālik ibn Kinānah(رحمه الله) that he heard the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) going down the tracks in the market, he intervened saying:{O people, say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, that you may become successful}, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has made it the final reminder, so he said:{Remind your dying ones to say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh}, so that the life of the muslim can be built upon Tawhīd and built upon the light of Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, and for the muslim to know the significance of turning towards Tawhīd, and to know the importance of Tawhīd [that needs] to be installed within the souls of mankind, verily Tawhīd takes the slaves[of Allāh] from being enslaved to the creation towards the mandated servitude[towards the worship of Allāh].

And also the Hadīth has another proof regarding the virtues of saying this great word on the deathbed, and we extract from the Hadith that even if there was a word to be said on the deathbed which is greater than Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would've said it, which is why it has been narrated in al-Tirmidhī from Jābir(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {The greatest remembrance is Lā ilāha ilā Allāh}. And ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) also narrated it in his Saḥīḥ.

And the Hadīth of the companion of the Batāqah[card] is a famous Hadīth narrated by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Saḥīḥ with an authentic chain upon the conditions of Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) from the Hadith of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Amr ibn al-Ās(رضي الله عنه) and it mentions: {There's nothing heavier/greater than the name of Allāh}, and what is meant by the name of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) here is "Lā ilāha ilā Allāh".

“Call them (adopted sons) by (the names of) their fathers, that is more just with Allaah...” [al-Ahzaab 33:5]

There are some very stern warnings regarding this from Allah and his Prophet (pbuh). Read below:

وقال النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم : مَنْ اتَّسَبَّ إِلَى غَيْرِ أَبِيهِ .. فَعَلَيْهِ لَعْنَةُ اللَّهِ وَالْمَلَائِكَةِ وَالنَّاسِ أَجْمَعِينَ (رواه) "ابن ماجة , كتاب الحدود, 2707 وهو في صحيح الجامع 6104

The Prophet (pbuh) said: “Whoever calls himself by other than his father’s name (or attributes himself to someone other than his father), will be cursed by Allaah, the angels and all the people.”

(Reported by Ibn Maajah, Book of punishments, 2707)

Further more,

It was narrated that Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqaas and Abu Bakrah said: The Messenger of Allaah (pbuh) said: “Whoever claims after having become Muslim to belong to someone who is not his father, knowing that he is not his father, Paradise will be forbidden to him.” [Bukhaari 4072 and Muslim 63]

It's so easy to tell someone to be patient, but sometimes the human soul cannot bear it anymore, oppression reaches a level where enough is enough!!! How can you tell someone to be happy when his loved ones are taken away from him, oppressed & everyday you see humiliation. How can a heart that has any Islām in it not feel pain on a daily basis, Allāh is testing us so much, giving us a reality check, we face more harm & trials from our close ones before the enemies, that's the life of a Muwahhīd.

was asked: There's a woman who travels with her husband (حفظه الله)Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr frequently because of his job, however this husbad tries to compel her to uncover her face while she objects to that, and he took an oath to her that she must uncover her face in their future travel, so is this woman sinful if she went against the command of her husband & refused to travel with ?him to the land of Kufr, safeguarding her dignity and religion

The Shaykh responded by saying: A woman uncovering her face to strangers is Harām & it's not said: {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and (سبحانه وتعالى)permissible, because Allāh (سبحانه)the believing women to bring down over themselves their Jalābīb(garments)}, and Allāh (سبحانه)said: {and to wrap [a portion of] their head-covers over their chests}, and Allāh (وتعالى) said: {And let them not stamp their feet to make known what they conceal of their (وتعالى) adornment}, and covering the face is firmly established by consensus, whereas the later scholars opposed that, when the colonisers ruled upon some of the Islamic lands, so ambiguity and .misconceptions occurred in the issue said in al-Fath(9/324): "The customs of the women in the past and present have (رحمه الله)Ibn Hajr .remained unchanged of covering their faces from the strangers" End Quote mentioned in his Sharh of 'Awn al-Ma'būd(11/162): "The agreement of (رحمه الله)And al-Tīb al-Ābādī the muslims on preventing the women from going outside revealing their faces, especially with the .quoted it from him" End Quote (رحمه الله)amount of evil sinners around, Ibn Raslān

It becomes Harām upon her to obey him in this command in accordance to the Hadīth "There's no obedience to a created being when it comes to disobeying the creator", and she doesn't become

"Applying the Sharī'ah in steps" = "Not ruling by what Allāh revealed", there's absolutely no difference between the 2 statements, because applying the Sharī'ah in steps mean you will abandon the laws of Allāh while doing so, which is Major Kufr by consensus, and this consensus was mentioned by Ishāq ibn Rāhawayh(رحمه الله), Imām Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) & Ibn Kathīr(رحمه الله).

So this is why Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) and many others made Takfīr upon "Islamists" such as Mursī who claim to apply the Sharī'ah gradually in steps. Without disbelieving in the Tāghūt, i.e. Ruling by man made kufr laws, we cannot affirm Ēmān for that person.

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said in Majmū' al-Fatāwah:

And ruling by what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has revealed brings goodness in this world and the hereafter, and ruling by other than what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has revealed brings corruption in this world and the hereafter, so it's obliged to abolish it by ljmā'.

So whoever permits following a Sharī'ah other than the Sharī'ah of Islām, it's obliged to remove him from power, and his bay'ah becomes void, and it becomes forbidden to obey him, because in the likes of this situation, he deserves the description of al-Kufr [Major Disbelief].

And every Tā'ifah that revolts against an ordainment from the Mutawātir Manifest ordainments of Islām; It becomes obligatory to fight it by the agreement of the Imāms of the Muslims, even if it uttered the Testimony of Faith [Shahādatayn].

Moreover, even if they abstain from the impermissibility of the indecent/shameful acts or fornication or gambling or alcohol, or other than that from the prohibited acts in the Sharī'ah.

Also, even if they abstain from judging upon the blood, self, honour, investment and similar to that, by the Qur'ān & Sunnāh.

Also, even if they abstain from ordaining the good & forbidden the evil, and striving against the disbelievers.

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "And fight them until there is no more Fitnā and the religion becomes entirely for Allāh"

Therefore, if some of the religion was for Allāh(جل وعلا), and some of it was for other than Allāh(جل وعلا), fighting is obliged until it becomes all for Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى). [End Quote].

This is the best summarised #Refutation against those #Extreme Takfeeri's who say "Whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon the Mushrikeen: DISBELIEVES; Whether they are those who ascribe themselves to Islām or other than them"

And they differed over the basis & main cause behind his Kufr upon the following statements:

1. Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikūn: Didn't understand Tawhīd.
2. Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn: Didn't disbelieve in the Tāghūt.
3. Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn: Rejected what's known by necessity in the religion.

So these are the 3 biggest misconceptions among those who make Takfīr upon the 'Āthir, so let's go through each point inshā'Allāh:

Misconception #1: "Whoever said that a Mushrik is a Muwahrīd didn't understand Tawhīd"

This principle necessitates that whoever calls a Muwahrīd a Mushrik, then he's a Kāfir.

Or else it would be a Ruling without proof, the one who stated this must make Tawbah.

And this necessitates making Takfīr upon 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb (رضي الله عنه), because he called the Muwahrīd Hātīb ibn Abī Balta'ah (رضي الله عنه) a Kāfir.

So he either adhere's to making Takfīr upon 'Omar (رضي الله عنه), or that he repents to Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) from this False Principle, where no Hujjāh or Proof has ever been sent down by Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) regarding it.

So whoever makes Takfīr upon a Muslim with an acceptable Ta'wīl: He doesn't disbelieve because of Ta'wīl.

And whoever makes a Kāfir enter into Islām with an acceptable Ta'wīl: He doesn't disbelieve because of Ta'wīl.

And whoever differentiates between the two cases must bring forth proof.

And from the characteristics of the people of innovation is differentiating between 2 similar/identical matters.

And whoever calls a Mushrik a Muwahrīd, didn't call him a Muwahrīd because he was doing Shirk!

Rather he called him a Muwahrīd based upon the principle, which is his utterance of the Shahādātayn, or that he follows his parents or the land [he belongs too], or his acting upon the clear slogans of Islām which is exclusive to the Muslims.

So he ruled upon him with Islām, based upon his affiliation to Islām which he was previously on, and he dissociates from whoever does Shirk, and [the reason why] he didn't call him a Mushrik is because of his poor understanding regarding the preventions of Takfīr, and the preventions of Takfīr have unclear details attached to it, a person doesn't become a disbeliever if he mixes it up, except after it is explained to him, and did anyone who makes Takfīr upon the Drunken if he performs Shirk: Make Takfīr upon whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon the drunk person, because he ['Āthir] believes that the state of being drunk is a preventive factor of Takfīr!

Misconception #2: "Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn didn't disbelieve in the Tāghūt"

Now is the description of Kufr bit-Tāghūt upon 1 level? [Believing in the falsehood of his worship, abandoning it, having hatred to it, performing Takfīr, and having enmity]

Whoever says "Yes": This necessitates making Takfīr upon whoever doesn't have enmity to the Mushrikīn, even if he was weak/oppressed!! And no one has ever stated this.

And whoever says: Showing enmity has Tafsīl [details], we would say, Yes, and likewise al-Takfīr has Tafsīl [details], among those who reject the Qur'ānic texts, and among those who confused themselves in understanding certain aspects of the preventions of Takfīr & it hasn't been made clear to him.

Just as Shaykh Sulaymān ibn 'Abdullāh (رحمه الله) regarding the one who refrained from performing Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn: "If he had doubts regarding their Kufr, or is ignorant about their Kufr: If you show him the proofs from the book of Allāh and the Sunnāh of the Messenger of Allāh صلى الله عليه وسلم regarding their Kufr, so if he has doubts after that or is unsure [whether he should make Takfīr or not], then he is a Kāfir according to the consensus of the Scholars, regarding the one that doubts the Kufr of a Kāfir, then he's a Kāfir" [Kitāb Awthaq 'Urah al-Ēmān]

And there's no proof from the Qur'ān & Authentic Sunnāh regarding the one that makes Takfīr upon him in all cases.

So how did you make Tafsīl regarding enmity, but not make Tafsīl regarding Takfīr?!! And among the characteristics of the people of innovation is differentiating between 2 similar/identical matters.

Misconception #3: "Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn has denied something which is known from the religion by necessity"

If the preventions of Takfīr were from the matters to be known by necessity in the religion, there wouldn't have been a difference of opinion in understanding it among many of its types such as "Intoxication, the Child, and Ignorance"

Infact, many of those who are affiliated among the people of knowledge have fell into mistakes, such as the Muhaddīthīn, Hufādh, Fuqahā', Usūliyyīn & other than them!!

And the matters known by necessity are known by the Scholars & the Laymen, and these preventions of Takfīr are not known by many of the Scholars, let alone the Laymen!!

So the preventions of Takfīr are either:

1. Agreed upon that it's from the preventions of Takfīr, by consensus of the Laymen, like "Compulsion".
2. Agreed upon that it's not from the preventions of Takfīr, by consensus of the Scholars, like "Ignorance in the Foundation of the Religion"
3. Differed upon that it's from the preventions of Takfīr, like "The Child & Intoxication"

So there's a difference of opinion in understanding some of the preventions of Takfīr, so how can we consider the issue clear, infact among the most clearest of clarity!!

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said: "And al-Takfīr is from the severe warnings, even if the statement was in denial of what the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said, however the man could be new to Islām or he might've lived in a desert far away, and the likes of him are not performed Takfīr upon from his denial of what he denied, until the Hujjāh is applied upon him - And the man might not have heard those texts, or he might've heard it, but it's not authentic according to him, or that he opposed it with another opposing text , which necessitates interpreting it, even if he was mistaken".

So the preventions of Takfīr are many among its unclear Tafsīlāt. [Deep Details]

And Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said in his speech while he was condemning Ahlāl Kalām [those who study theology] in Majmū' al-Fatāwah [4/54]:

"And if this was from among the unclear statements, then it could be said: He is mistaken & misguided from it, the Hujjāh which declares its individual a Kāfir hasn't been applied, however that occurs among several groups from them in the Clear Matters which is known by the Scholars & Laymen among the Muslims that it's from the religion of the Muslims, infact the Jews & Christians know that Muḥammād(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has sent it and disbelieved in whoever opposes it"

So we must fear Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) regarding the issue of Takfīr, and not perform Takfīr except if one falls into a Nullifier which we have evidences from Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), and ensuring that our actions are not in response based upon the laxation of the Murj'ah in Takfīr, so that we may be taken by laxation والله المستعان

500 - And it's narrated from Buraydā(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "The believer dies while his forehead is sweating". It was reported by the "Three", and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) authenticated it.

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

The author says this report was narrated by the "Three"[Imāms, i.e. Abū Dāwūd, al-Tirmidhī, al-Nasā'ī], all of them narrated it from the chain of Qatādah ibn Da'āmah al-Sadūsī(رحمه الله) from 'Abdūllāh ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله) from his father(رحمه الله) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) says in his Jāmi'[i.e. Sunan al-Tirmidhī]: And some of the Scholars said: "We do not know if Qatādah heard from 'Abdūllāh ibn Buraydāh", and Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) mentioned in al-Tārikh al-Kabīr that Qatādah(رحمه الله) didn't hear from 'Abdūllāh ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله), and there's no doubt that Qatādah(رحمه الله) lived in the same time as ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله), for around about 44 years, since ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله) passed away in the year 105AH, whereas Imām Qatādah(رحمه الله) was born in the year 60AH, so thereupon some of the scholars said: "Qatādah not hearing from ibn Buraydah is held upon the Madhab of Imām Bukhārī by not accepting them being alive in the same time, and it must be proven that they met, even once" and this is disputable, and what's clear is that al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) doesn't intend by this disconnection, this [quoted] view, and the narration has come through al-Nasā'ī from the chain of Kahmas(رحمه الله) from 'Abdūllāh ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله) from his father(رحمه الله), and this chain is connected & authentic, and thereupon ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) authenticated it in his Saḥīh.

The Prophet's saying: {The believer dies while his forehead sweats} This is understood upon either one of the two ways:

1. That the believer dies by the sweat of his forehead through what he faced in hardships[in the Dunya] by seeking Halāl wealth, for indeed seeking lawful wealth requires tiredness, effort/discomfort and hardship.
2. That when the believer is experiencing a severe phase & is overcoming death, he dies while his forehead sweats, and this saying is possibly closer[to the truth] than the first saying, because the severe agony of death is an established matter in which there's no doubt about, and it has been narrated in the Saḥīhayn from the Hadīth of Hilāl al-Wazān(رحمه الله) from 'Urwāh(رحمه الله) from

Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) that she said:{When the last moment of the life of Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) came he started putting his 'Khamisah' on his face, and when he felt hot and short of breath he took it off his face}. [till the end of The Hadīth where the Prophet cursed the jews & christians for building places of worship on top of the graves of their Prophets]

So the agony of death is found within every person's last moment of life, except that some of them have the pain[of death] lessened upon them, and others have it intensified upon them.

It's not permissible to chat with non-Mahrams, even if your intention is to get married, and if ur interested in someone, get a family member or a connection you have to reach them. We all know it's Harām to talk with a non-Mahram privately, but when you're engaged with that person, you can speak to them about Islām & matters pertaining the marriage, not love & other sweet topics. Just keep that in mind Inshā'Allāh.

- Lack of manners.
- Immature.
- Frequently talking about marriage, gym, studies, sport.
- Lack of Knowledge in the deen & current affairs of the Ummāh, they don't bother analyzing what's happening & who are the righteous & who are the hypocrites.
- Joking frequently, not being serious.
- Spreading Rumours, Gossiping & Backbiting others.
- Selfish & Lazy.
- Too much talk without action.
- Being a coward.
- Lack of intelligence in general.
- Thinks his own opinion matters.
- Arrogance & Showing off [May Allāh protect us from arrogance & minor shirk even when we don't realise it]
- Belittling others who are at a lower level.
- Distorting the Qur'ān & Sunnāh to suit his desires.
- No shyness & modesty.
- Harsh on his brothers, soft with the kuffār

The filthy donkeys & dogs of the Murji'ah are the cause for the humiliation of this Ummâh. They are the ones who give a million excuses for the Rulers who have fell into so many nullifiers, yet they always talk about "Khawārij" and "Warning against Takfeer".

A scholar in Islām is not a celebrity who pleases people, there are scholars who make sacrifices & actually live by Islām, unlike those cowards who sit at home bringing more harm than good to the Ummâh.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) destroy all the apostate kuffār rulers, and humiliate those who defend them & praise them in this world and the hereafter.

"Applying the Shari'ah in steps" = "Not ruling by what Allāh revealed", there's absolutely no difference between the 2 statements, because applying the Shari'ah in steps mean you will abandon the laws of Allāh while doing so, which is Major Kufr by consensus, and this consensus was mentioned by Ishāq ibn Rāhawayh(رحمه الله), Imām Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) & Ibn Kathīr(رحمه الله).

So this is why Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) and many others made Takfīr upon "Islamists" such as Mursī who claim to apply the Shari'ah gradually in steps. Without disbelieving in the Tāghūt, i.e. Ruling by man made kufr laws, we cannot affirm Ēmān for that person.

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said in Majmū' al-Fatāwah:

And ruling by what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has revealed brings goodness in this world and the hereafter, and ruling by other than what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has revealed brings corruption in this world and the hereafter, so it's obliged to abolish it by ljmā'.

So whoever permits following a Shari'ah other than the Shari'ah of Islām, it's obliged to remove him from power, and his bay'ah becomes void, and it becomes forbidden to obey him, because in the likes of this situation, he deserves the description of al-Kufr [Major Disbelief].

And every Tā'ifah that revolts against an ordainment from the Mutawātir Manifest ordinances of Islām; It becomes obligatory to fight it by the agreement of the Imāms of the Muslims, even if it uttered the Testimony of Faith [Shahādatayn].

Moreover, even if they abstain from the impermissibility of the indecent/shameful acts or fornication or gambling or alcohol, or other than that from the prohibited acts in the Shari'ah.

Also, even if they abstain from judging upon the blood, self, honour, investment and similar to that, by the Qur'ān & Sunnāh.

Also, even if they abstain from ordaining the good & forbidden the evil, and striving against the disbelievers.

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "And fight them until there is no more Fitnā and the religion becomes entirely for Allāh"

Therefore, if some of the religion was for Allāh(جل وعلا), and some of it was for other than Allāh(جل وعلا), fighting is obliged until it becomes all for Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى). [End Quote].

=====Imam Malik=====

Imam Malik:

"Indeed I am a human, I can make mistakes, and I can be correct, so look into my opinion, everything that is in agreement with the Book and the Sunnah, then take it, and everything that does not agree with the Book and the Sunnah then leave it."

(Jamia' Bayyan al-'Ilm' 1/775)

Ash-hab, one of Imam Maalik's students said:

"Maalik was once asked whether one was safe to follow a ruling related to him by reliable narrators who had heard it from companions of the Prophet (sallallaahu alayhi wassallam). Imam Maalik replied, "No, by Allaah, not unless it is correct, the truth is only one. Can two opposing opinions be simultaneously correct? The opinion that is correct can only be one".

(Jaami' Bayaan al-'Ilm pg. 82, 88, 89)

=====Imam Abu Hanifa=====

Imam Abu Hanifa said to his student Abu Yusuf:

"Woe be to you Ya'qoob. Do not write down everything you hear from me, for surely I may hold an opinion today and leave it tomorrow, hold another tomorrow and leave it the day after."

Imam Abu Hanifa

"If a hadeeth is found to be authentic, that is my madhhab."

Imam Abu Hanifa:

Therefore, the correct ruling is according to what Allaah's messenger (sallallaahu alayhi wassallam) said, and that is my ruling."

(Ibn `Asaakir, Tareekh Dimashq al-Kabeer vol.15, part 1, p.3)

Imam ash-Shaafi'ee:

"Our school of thought is correct but could possibly be mistaken, and the school of thought which differs from us is mistaken but could possibly be correct." (Fatawa Al-Kubra of Al-Haythami 4/313)

Imam ash-Shaafi'ee:

"The Muslims (of my time) were of a unanimous opinion that one who comes across an authentic sunnah of Allaah's messenger (sallallaahu alayhi wassallam) is not allowed to disregard it in favour of someone's else's opinion."

(Ibn ul-Qayyim, A'laam ul-Muwaqqi'een vol.2, p.361)

Imam ash-Shaafi'ee:

"The Muslims are unanimously agreed that if a sunnah of the Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) is made clear to someone, it is not permitted for him to leave it for the saying of anyone else." (I'laam , 2/361)

Al-Haakim also collected from Imam ash-Shaafi'ee a similar statement to that of Imam Abu Hanifa, that being:

"If a hadeeth is found to be saheeh, it is my madhhab." (Yahyaa ibn Sharafuddeen an-Nawawee, al-Majmoo' vol.1, p.63. also noted by al-Fulaanee in Eeqaadh ul-Hamam (p.62 and 107) and by Ibn `Aabideen in Rasm ul-Muftee from his Rasaa'il (1/4).

Imam ash-Shaafi'ee:

"If I say something then compare it to the Book of Allaah and the sunnah of His Messenger and if it agrees with them, then accept it and that which goes against them, then reject it and throw my saying against the wall!"

(An-Nawawee, al-Majmoo' (1/63) and Ibn ul-Qayyim, A'laam ul-Muwaqqi'een (2/361)

Imam ash-Shaafi'ee said to Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal:

"You know better about hadeeth than us, so if an authentic hadeeth comes to you, then inform me of it, that I may say according to it, whether its source is the Hijaz or Koofah or Egypt."

(Ibn `AbdulBarr, al-Intiqaa, p.75)

Imam an-Nawawee in Tahdheeb al-Asmaa wa'l-Lughaat mentioned under the biography of Imam Shaafi'ee:

"...then he travelled to al-'Iraaq where he spread the knowledge of hadeeth and he established the madhhab of its people – that is the madhhab of the Ahl ul-Hadeeth."

(Shaykh Ahmad ibn Muhammad ad-Dehlawee al-Madane, A History of the People of Hadeeth, p.49)

=====Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal=====

Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal:

"Do not follow my opinion; neither follow the opinion of Maalik, nor Shaafi'i, nor Awzaa'i, nor Thawri, but take from where they took."

(Fulaani p. 113& Ibn al-Qayyim in I'laam 2/302)

Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal:

"The opinion of Awzaa'i, the opinion of Maalik, the opinion of Abu Haneefah: all of it is opinion, and it is all equal in my eyes. However, the proof is in the narrations (from the Prophet (sallallaahu `alaihi wa sallam) and his Companions)."

(Ibn `Abdul Barr in Jaami' Bayaan al-'Ilm 2/149)

..... Other Scholars .....

Shaykh al-Islam Ibn Taymiyah:

"No one has to blindly follow any particular man in all that he enjoins or forbids or recommends, apart from the Messenger of Allaah (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him). The Muslims should always refer their questions to the Muslim scholars, following this one sometimes and that one sometimes. If the follower decides to follow the view of an imam with regard to a particular matter which he thinks is better for his religious commitment or is more correct etc, that is permissible according to the majority of Muslim scholars, and neither Abu Haneefah, Maalik, al-Shaafa'i or Ahmad said that this was forbidden."

Shaykh al-Islam Ibn Taymiyah:

"Indeed the people of Truth and the Sunnah do not follow anyone [unconditionally] except the messenger of Allaah SAW, the one who does not speak from his desires - it is only revelation revealed to him."

(Shaykh Ibn Taymiyyah, Majmoo'ah al-Fataawaa, vol 3, page 216)

Shaykhul Islaam ibn Taymiyyah:

"Whoever deviates from the Madhhab and Tafseer of the Sahaaba and Tabi'een to that which opposes it, then he has erred in that - rather (he has) innovated."

(Refer to Majmoo' al-Fataawa v.13, p.361)

Shaykh Sulaymaan ibn 'Abd-Allaah:

"Rather what the believer must do, if the Book of Allaah and the Sunnah of His Messenger (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) have reached him and he understands them with regard to any matter, is to act in accordance with them, no matter who he may be disagreeing with. This is what our Lord and our Prophet (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) have enjoined upon us, and all the scholars are unanimously agreed on that, apart from the ignorant blind followers and the hard-hearted. Such people are not scholars."

(Tayseer al-'Azeed al-Hameed, p. 546)

Shaykh Ibn 'Uthaymeen:

"A person who only sticks to one Imam no matter what and ignores everything else has taken this Imam as a Messenger."

(Sharh-ul-Usul, p.599)

499 – And it's narrated from Anas (رضي الله عنه) that he said: The Messenger of Allāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Let not one of you wish for death because of a harm that afflicted you, and if you really must wish for it[i.e death], then say: "O Allāh keep me alive, if life is better for me, and make me die, if death is better for me" Agreed upon.

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān (حفظه الله):

This report is agreed upon, al-Bukhārī (رحمه الله) said "ibn Salām (رحمه الله) narrated to us, he said we were informed by Ismā'īl ibn 'Aliyyāh (رحمه الله) from 'Abdūl 'Azīz ibn Suhayb (رحمه الله) from Anas ibn Mālik (رحمه الله)"

Imām Muslim (رحمه الله) said "ibn Harb (رحمه الله) narrated to us, he said Ismā'īl (رحمه الله) narrated to us, so he mentioned it[i.e. The Hadīth]" and Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله), al-Tirmidhī (رحمه الله), and al-Nasā'ī (رحمه الله), all of them narrated it from the chain of Ismā'īl (رحمه الله). And Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله) and al-Tayālasi (رحمه الله) narrated it from the chain of Shu'bāh (رحمه الله) from 'Abdūl 'Azīz ibn Suhayb (رحمه الله).

And Imām al-Bukhārī (رحمه الله), Muslim (رحمه الله), Ahmad (رحمه الله) and others narrated it from [several] chains from Thābit al-Bunānī (رحمه الله) from Anas ibn Mālik (رحمه الله).

The Prophet's saying: {Do not wish} "Lā Mutamannīyan", the "Lā" [i.e. Don't] here is a prohibition, and we have previously mentioned that prohibitions by principle, means that it's Harām, just like commands by principle, necessitates obligation, and we do not leave this principle except with proof, either an indication to divert the command from its obligation towards a recommendation, or a prohibition of Harām to being disliked, or another Hadīth is reported to affirm what was mentioned/intended.

The Prophet's saying: {Because of a harm that afflicted you} This a general description[the most common case], and even if there was no affliction of harm/distress, and he wished for death, he's prohibited from this, however for the most part upon the souls, is that it wishes for death when an affliction befalls it, like a sickness & similar to that, and you find some of the people have very little patience when a disaster strikes them in a difficult moment, they wish for death, and he does not know that it's possible if he dies in this moment, he would be from among the gravel of the hellfire.

And that is why the Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "The best of you are those who live long and do good deeds", for indeed it's possible for the slave[of Allāh], if his life extended, that he would do more good[deeds], so there's no reason thereupon to wish for death, and it's likely that he would die upon a bad ending[if he wished for death] , however it's incumbent upon the slave[of Allāh] to ask Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) for success and correctness, and a good ending, for indeed the [most important] deeds are by their endings, but it has come through[i.e. been narrated from] some of the Sahābah that they used to wish for death in fear of al-Fitan[trials & tribulations], and this was made permissible by some of the Scholars, and this is a good way to look at it, because he's fearing for his religion and fears for his Islām, however as for simply being afflicted with a sickness or a hardship/distress during the stressful times, like an accident or the death of a beloved one, and similar to that, so he wishes for death, then this is wrong, knowingly that some of the scholars went towards acting upon the apparent [meaning] of the Hadīth, so they said "It's not prescribed to wish for death, even for fear over your religion, and it's likely that Allāh will bring benefit to it[by this trial], as the Messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to Sa'd (رضي الله عنه) and the Hadīth is in the Saḥīḥayn {Some people may benefit from you & others may be harmed by you}"

So that's why the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) guided us towards having discipline in extremely stressful situations when the slave[of Allāh] is afflicted by the world, that he says "O Allāh keep me alive, if life is better for me, and make me die, if death is better for me ".

Ahmad al-Kubaysī said: "Mu'āwiyah is a Munāfiq & Murtad".

'Alī al-Jifrī then stated that this is the view of some of Ahlāl Sunnāh.

Shaykh 'Uthmān al-Khamīs responds by saying: "That's a lie! No one from Ahlāl Sunnāh has said that Mu'āwiyah became an apostate, rather Ahlāl Sunnāh say whoever says that Mu'āwiyah is a Murtad, then he is a Murtad, he is the Kāfir!"

#Series Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān's Sharh on the Chapter of Funerals [Bāb al-Janā'iz] from Bulugh al-Maram:

The author, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him, began this chapter with the Hadīth of Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه), that he said:

#498 – The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Remember, as much as you can, the destroyer of pleasures: al-Mawt[Death]." Reported by al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله), al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله) and it was authenticated by ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله).

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

And this report was narrated by Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله), ibn Mājah(رحمه الله) and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh from the chain of al-Fadhal ibn Mūsā(رحمه الله) from Muḥammād ibn 'Amr ibn 'Alqamah ibn Waqqās al-Laythī(رحمه الله) from Abī Salamah ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān(رحمه الله) from Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه).

Al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Sunan from the chain of Muḥammād ibn Ibrāhīm(رحمه الله) from Muḥammād ibn 'Amr(رحمه الله), and Muḥammād ibn 'Amr(رحمه الله) is differed upon, he was authenticated by al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله) and Yahyā ibn Ma'in(رحمه الله), and it's narrated from Yahyā ibn Ma'in(رحمه الله) that he said "The people are still taking/accepting his Hadīths", and reflecting upon the words of the scholars of Jarh wal-Ta'dīl[science of differentiating between the authentic & weak narrators] regarding Muḥammād ibn 'Amr, you find that the person is trustworthy, however he confuses himself and commits mistakes at times, especially from the Hadīth of Abī Salamah ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān, and that's why he isn't to be accepted when he reports on his own in the Usūl[the main hadīth of the chapter], which the Ummāh is in need of.

And the Hadīth has a Shāhid[narration to support its meaning] with al-Maqdisī in al-Mukhtārah from the chain of Mu'mal ibn Ismā'īl(رحمه الله) from Hamād ibn Salamah(رحمه الله) from Thābit al-Banānī(رحمه الله) from Anas ibn Mālik(رحمه الله) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) similar to it[the previous Hadīth], and some of the later scholars claimed that this report is upon the condition of Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) and this is feeble and wrong, because Mu'mal ibn Ismā'īl is not from the narrators of Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) of those who's Hadīths he relied upon in the Usūl[the core hadīths in his Sahīh], and Mu'mal ibn Ismā'īl is weak in memory, as it was mentioned by more than one scholar from the Muhadithīn, and the conclusion is that the Hadīth of this chapter is "Hassan".

The Prophet's saying: {as much as you can} This is a command, and by principle, commands are taken as Obligations, as long as there's no obstacle which prevents that [from being obligatory].

The Prophet’s saying: {Remember the destroyer of pleasures} It’s reported[the word Hādim] with a “dāl” with a dot[ذ] & without a dot[د], and it is Death, indeed the remembrance of death, and increasing in its remembrance saves the soul from falling into the Muharrâmât[prohibited acts] such as Ghībah[backbiting], Namīmah[gossip], falsely eating the wealth of the people[i.e. Ripping them off], stealing, usury, and similar to that from the prohibited acts, for indeed remembering death protects the soul from all ugliness[i.e. Bad things], and brings life to the heart, so that’s why it’s prescribed for the muslim to increase in the remembrance of death, so that he can protect himself from falling into the Muharrâmât, and also because increasing in the remembrance of the destroyer of pleasures gives the slave[of Allāh] motivation to do an abundant amount of deeds for the Ākhirāh, and brings life to the hearts, and removes all kinds of arrogance and self-conceit from the soul, so it’s not allowed for a slave to be heedless/forget about death, or else his heart will become darkened and disobedient and he would do al-Fawāhish[indecent/shameful acts] and Muharrâmât[prohibited acts], until it’s formed/stuck upon his heart and it becomes like a covered/overwhelming seal upon him, and that’s why it’s prescribed for a muslim[man] to visit the graves, so he can remember the hereafter, as it will[shortly] be mentioned inshā’Allāh in the Hadith of Abī Sa’eed al-Khudrī(رضي الله عنه), related in Sahīh al-Imām Muslim(رحمه الله).

"Muslim men abuse & beat their wives"

This needs to be changed to "Coward males who don't fear Allāh abuse & beat their wives".

Muslim Men are Lions who fear Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), they adopt the politeness & character of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), Allāh(جل وعلا) has considered it a crime & prohibition to hurt non-Muslim women, so how is it possible for a Muslim to hurt, abuse & bash his own wife that's a Muslimāh!???

Wallāhi, you will not find Men who are more gentle & loving & affectionate to their wives than Muslims who follow the Qur’ān & Sunnāh, the Kuffār are just jealous of our morals, which is why they try so hard to corrupt our women to dress half naked & attack our Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) for upholding Shyness & Modesty & the Sharī'ah of Islām.

Also, it's not possible to call those who abuse & bash their wives as "Men", both Muslims & Kuffār can agree on this point, but Wallāhi don't let the Kuffār make you think it's Islām that oppresses women, rather it's the contrary, those who are further away from Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) are the ones who are more likely to hurt others.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) protect our young girls from the Fitnā of Feminism & allow our young boys to grow up with the manners of the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) who will one day treat these girls like queens & help bring back the 'Izzā of Islām throughout the world!

Keep doing good to others for the sake of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), you know, when you smile & put a smile on someone else's face, cheering them up, you yourself get a great feeling knowing the other person is smiling & happy subhānAllāh. How can we attain true Faith if we don't feel happy from the happiness of our brothers & sisters?

But the reason why I say to do everything Fee Sabeelillāh is because no matter how much good & happiness you want for everyone else, most people will forget about you.

You know, Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl never charged a cent for his efforts حفظه الله & he supported so many people, yet when he was imprisoned, no one even thought about him & the good that he did.

Just look at Imām Anwar al-'Awlakī رحمه الله - Have you ever heard of a voice as sweet as his subhānAllāh? Yet, after he received Shahādah, people have nothing better to do than insult him & speak against him. It really melts a heart as Ahmad Jibrīl would say.

I don't even know why I wrote this, I feel so restricted & limited in every single post & comment I write, I can't get my words across in the best of ways :((( Writing up a post is really difficult for a Muwahhīd, Alhamdulillah 3ala kuli 7aal.

Must watch, Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl الله حفظه refutes the Mushrik Ikhwānī Tāghūt Mursī, and Erdoğan is the exact same, if not worse! Allāh (جل وعلا) said whoever doesn't rule by the law of Allāh is among the disbelievers, therefore all our rulers are Kuffār, and this has been mentioned by the Imāms of Tawheed, whoever leaves off the law of Allāh or legislates a man made law becomes a Mushrik as mentioned by Imām Muḥammād ibn Ibrāhīm (رحمه الله), Imām Ḥamūd al-'Uqlā' (رحمه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl (الله حفظه), Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (الله حفظه), Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad (الله حفظه), Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr (الله حفظه), Shaykh Khālīd al-Rāshid (الله حفظه) & many others. A consensus has been mentioned by Imām Abū Muḥammād ibn Ḥazm (رحمه الله), Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) & Imām Ibn Kathīr (رحمه الله) that whoever abandons the Sharī'ah is a Kāfir, and none of them stipulated "If he believes it's greater than Allāh's law", rather those who say the Act is not "Kufr" unless he follows it with belief in the heart are from the Jahmiyyāh as mentioned by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (الله حفظه) & others. The matter is clear to those who are sincere, very nice vid to watch.

Don't wonder why we're in the status we're in, when Palestinians in Gaza dance to the Pharell filth. Public un-denounced sins affect us all.

Note: The Shaykh also mentioned in a lecture once that the weddings in some areas of Falasteen are much worse than those in Israel! The dancing, musiká, free-mixing, munkar, nationalism etc...

Thank Ḥamās for that who do nothing about this Munkar, while they are persecuting & imprisoning Salafī's & those who ordain the good & forbid the evil as mentioned by Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl الله حفظه

Shaykh Muḥammād ibn Sālih al-'Uṭhaymīn(رحمه الله) said: "If we fought for the sake of our country, there would be no difference between us and the Kāfir, because he also fights for the sake of his country"

And he further mentioned: "And whoever fights for the sake of his country alone is not a Shaheed"

He mentioned this in his Sharḥ of Riyādh al-Sāliheen.

The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said the one who fights for the word of Allāh to be raised the highest is Fee Sabeelillah.

So a person must have this intention while defending his land, however if he defends his country because it's islamic & defends it to protect the Islām & Muslims that's within it, that's perfectly fine, as long as his main intention is for Allāh(جل وعلا), not for the sake of this dunyā & under the banner of nationalism.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) guide the Ummāh & protect us from the evil of nationalism which is hardly addressed by many.

Far out, there's so many evil men & women in this world. I'm sick of reading about them, it pisses me off so much!!! This makes me so upset, especially when I've read about the great men & women of the past, I never imagined that I would be living in a time where people are so evil, our deen is mocked, the mothers of the believers are insulted, corruption is widespread, man take me back in time :(((( ʘʘʘʘ

Many find it hard to work out who's truthful & honest in such a deceiving world - I really believe that if you put your trust in Allah & sincerely make du'a to Him, Allah will open your eyes & show you the God-Fearing & Righteous ones. Ponder over the universal signs of Allah, allow that to increase you in Eman. Just relax for a minute & close your eyes while thinking about this Dunya, ask yourself, what does this world mean to you? O Turner of the Hearts, keep our hearts firm upon your deen.

Brothers & Sisters, Knowledge is full of Light! There are many basic summarised books in every Islamic science, so forget about everyone else for a second & focus on establishing a firm 'Aqidah in your own heart.

Do everything Fe Sabeelillāh, try and develop that passion to seek knowledge so you can live with it & implement it in your life. Before you speak about an issue, ensure that you've studied it, memorised it & understood it pretty well, then discuss it with those who differ with you. You will learn so much more this way.

Brothers, encourage each other to study & focus on your manners so people can start taking you a bit more seriously. I know you guys can do much more, you're full of zeal and strength, all you gotta is put a little bit more effort & have patience.

Prove your loyalty to the Haqq by learning your deen & spreading the True Teachings of Islām which isn't distorted by those contemporary celebrities or hotel scholars :)

I make du'ā that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) destroys those who deceive others with their Knowledge & misguide others, and O Allāh, destroy me if I ever intend to deceive others by distorting the pure teachings of the Qur'ān & Sunnāh. May Allāh(جل وعلا) give us all إخلاص [Sincerity] in what we do, and allow us to be fair in presenting the truth & speak the truth even if it goes against me & my desires, and allow me to be a man to admit that I am mistaken & wrong, O Allāh forgive my sins & shortcomings & guide me and my brothers & sisters to the straight path.

Amazing book in the Hanafī Madhab 📖 We must appreciate the Scholars for their efforts, they are the ones who laid out the foundations for us & helped us understand the deen.

As Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) said: "We go by proof, with respect to the Scholars & their opinions"

We study & memorise the books of the Madhāhib not out of Taqleed [Blind Following], but to understand the issues in a structured way & how they were laid out by the Scholars.

Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) said: "I'm not Hanbalī & I've never ascribed myself to a Madhab, and the Methodology that you see me upon today is what I was upon when I was 7,8,9 years of age, I never changed" and he praised his father for that, refer back to the 1st lecture on Zād al-Mustaḥṣin where he spoke about the Madhab issue briefly & that in his time, people of different madhāhib couldn't even get married to each other 🤝 This is why we always refer back to the Qur'ān & Sunnāh and the 4 Imāms condemned blind following, as everyone has mistakes & can be unaware of something.

There's nothing wrong with ascribing yourself to a Madhab, but don't be a fanatic & show zeal towards your Madhab over another & leave the clear text for the opinion of your Imām.

As for the laymen, we ask the Shaykh we trust for our Fatāwah, so we follow what he's upon [whether he follows a Madhab or not], but the point of this post was to show the amount of effort our Scholars went through, may Allāh(جل وعلا) have mercy upon their souls.

Asalāmu 'Alaykum - #Niqāb is Wājib & this is the best response I can share refuting those who take the statements of the Salaf out of context. There will be more evidences provided in the future inshā'Allāh: #Detailed_Response

Refuting the #Misconception that the Salaf permitted a woman to show her face. As I have shared in the past, the Jilbāb according to the definition of the Salaf is a garment which covers the whole body, and is used to cover the Face, as it's reported in Sahīh al-Bukhārī & Sahīh Muslim that 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) said "I veiled my face with my Jilbāb", and this is what's known from the sayings of the Sahābah, Tābi'in & Salaf & there are several authentic narrations that attest to this.

But my main focus today is to speak about the Tafsir of [Sūrat al-Nūr:verse 31]:

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {And tell the believing women to reduce [some] of their vision and guard their private parts and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof and to wrap [a portion of] their headcovers over their chests and not expose their adornment except to their husbands, their fathers, their husbands' fathers, their sons, their husbands' sons, their brothers, their brothers' sons, their sisters' sons, their women, that which their right hands possess, or those male attendants having no physical desire, or children who are not yet aware of the private aspects of women. And let them not stamp their feet to make known what they conceal of their adornment. And turn to Allah in repentance, all of you, O believers, that you might succeed.} [24:31]

So Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has mentioned the adornments in this Āyah, and he divided it into two types:

1. The Hidden Adornments, which by principle is not permissible to be shown, and that's taken from His statement: {and not expose their adornment}, then He followed that up with an exception, of what adornments can be shown to the people mentioned in the verse which I'll come to soon inshā'Allāh.

2. The Apparent Adornments, which can be shown to those who Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has specified, and that's taken from the Āyah: {and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...}

However, the misconception I want to remove is those people who use the Tafsir of the Salaf of this Āyah {except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...} of what a Muslimāh is allowed to show to those Mahrams mentioned in the verse and apply it on the non-Mahram strangers! And inshā'Allāh I'll prove this very shortly.

So they will mention several statements of the Salaf of the Āyah {except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...} where 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), 'Abdullāh ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما) and al-Dahāk(رحمه الله) said that it's the "Face and Hands". Or that it's narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), Mujāhid(رحمه الله) & Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) that it's "Kuhl [eye-shadow], Khidāb [hennā on the hand] and the Khātam [ring]". Or that it's "Kuhl [eye-shadow] & Khātam [ring]" as mentioned by Anas ibn Mālik(رضي الله عنه). Or that it's "al-Kuhl [eye-shadow] and Khidāb [hennā on the hand]" as mentioned by 'Attā(رحمه الله). Or that it's "al-Kuhl [eye-shadow]" as mentioned by al-Sha'bī(رحمه الله) & Qatādah(رحمه الله). Or that it's the "Face & Clothes [literally the outer garment]" as it's narrated from al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله) & Qatādah(رحمه الله). Or that it's "Kuhl [eye-shadow] & Clothes" as it has been reported from al-Sha'bī(رحمه الله). But what I previously mentioned from the Sahābah & Tābi'īn are the most authentic regarding the Tafsir of the Āyah.

These narrations from the Salaf can be found here: Refer to Tafsir 'Abdūl Razzāq(2/56), Musannāf ibn Abī Shaybah(17281_17300), Tafsir ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(17/258_261), and Tafsir ibn Abī Hātim(8/2574_2575)

And the sayings of these pious predecessors is all related to the "Apparent Adornments" for the Mahrams who are related to the Muslimāh either by kinship or suckling/nursing, and it's not in any way referring to the non-Mahrams which I'll get too very shortly inshā'Allāh.

And to prove that their sayings are referring to the Mahrams is through other clear textual evidences from them, and this is can be seen through several aspects.

Among them is that all the authentic statements of the Salaf regarding the "Apparent Adornments" in the Tafsir of this Āyah: {except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...}, it has been proven on every single one of them that they are clearly referring to Mahrams in specific, or that there's another really strong evidence in another place which proves this, so let's go 1 by 1 inshā'Allāh in deep detail:

1. As for 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), it's proven that he said: {The Apparent Adornments are: The face, Kuhl[Eye-Shadow], Khidāb [Henna] on the hands, and the ring, so this is what she can show in her house whenever someone enters upon her}, then he clearly stated:

then he stated: {And the Adornments that she can reveal to these people are: Her earrings, her pendants/necklaces, her bracelets, but as for her anklets, her bangles, her neck, and her hair, then she should not show it to anyone except to her husband}

This was collected by Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) in al-Sunan al-Kubrā(7/94) from the chain of 'Alī(رحمه الله) from ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), and it's authentic. Likewise it was collected by Imām ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsir(17/259) and Imām ibn Abī Hātim al-Rāzī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsir(17/264,267).

Likewise, 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) said about the verse regarding the elderly women: {their is no blame upon them for putting aside their outer garments}: Ibn 'Abbās said: "al-Jalābīb(i.e. Putting aside the Jilbāb off her face)".

This was narrated by Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) in al-Sunan al-Kubrāh(7/93), Imām ibn Abī

Hâtīm(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(8/2641), Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/360), and it was also collected by Abū 'Ubayd(رحمه الله) in Fadā'il al-Qur'ān(page 307).

It's also authentically proven from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) that he said in his Tafsīr of [33:59] {Allāh has ordered the believing women that whenever they leave their houses for a need, to cover their faces from above their heads with their garments [Jalābīb], and to leave open 1 eye}

This was narrated by Imām Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(19/181), Imām Ibn Abī Hātīm(رحمه الله) in al-Durar al-Manthūr(12/141) from the chain of 'Alī ibn Abī Talha(رحمه الله) from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه). And the book of 'Alī ibn Abī Talha(رحمه الله) that he would use to narrate from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) was strengthened & authenticated to be used as proof by Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله), Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) & Imām ibn Abī Hātīm al-Rāzī(رحمه الله), refer to Fath al-Bārī(8/438-439) by Al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr al-'Asqalānī(رحمه الله). This is a strong chain of narration & 'Alī ibn Abī Talha(رحمه الله) would always narrate from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) through an intermediary such as Mujāhid ibn Jabar(رحمه الله), Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) & 'Ikrimah(رحمه الله).

It's also narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that he said "She wraps the Jilbāb around her face"

This was narrated by Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) in his Musnad(1/303 number 788), and in al-Umm(3/370-371), and Imām Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) in Masā'il al-Imām Ahmad(732).

So this is an explicit proof that 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) is of the view that covering the face is compulsory, and what he meant in the Tafsīr of Sūrat al-Nūr by "The face & Hands" was the Mahrams of the Muslimāh, not the Strangers, and likewise the companions & students of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) have similar narrated statements to that of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), and they did not ask him about the non-Mahrams, it's not narrated at all, from its absolute clarity, and they were extremely modest, so many of those today who are used to seeing Tabarrūj will not understand the statements of the Salaf, because even in our times, we have women who go out dressed more immodestly to Strangers than the women of the Salaf used to dress in front of their Mahrams!

2. As for Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), it's authentically proven on him that the exception Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given for the elderly women in the Āyah, is to put aside the Jilbāb, and as we already know, the Jilbāb is what's used to cover the face according to the Salaf.

So Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) said: {She does not openly display adornments by putting aside her outer garment, so that her adornments can be seen from her}

This was narrated by Imām ibn Abī Hātīm in his Tafsīr(8/2642).

3. As for 'Attā' ibn Abī Rabāh(رحمه الله), it's authentically proven on him that he preferred a Muslimāh to cover her hair in the presence of her Mahrams, so he was asked about a man whether he can see a woman's head that's forbidden for him to marry:

So 'Attā' ibn Abī Rabāh(رحمه الله) said: {Covering it is more beloved to me, and if they saw it, there's no problem}.

This was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(17566) from the chain of 'Abdūl Malik(رحمه الله) from 'Attā'(رحمه الله) and it's authentic.

And it's also authentically proven that 'Attā'(رحمه الله) mentioned the same thing as Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) regarding the elderly women and that the Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given an exception to the elderly women, which is to {put aside her Jilbāb}, and as we know the Jilbāb is what's upon the face.

4. As for Mujāhid ibn Jabar(رحمه الله), it's authentically proven from him that he doesn't permit a Muslimāh to put aside her veil in the presence of a disbelieving woman, so how can we hold his statements regarding the "Apparent Adornments" {The ring, Hennā on the hand, and eye-shadow} and apply it to the non-Mahram men from the Muslims & Mushriks?!

Layth(رحمه الله) has narrated from Mujāhid(رحمه الله) that he said: {A Muslimāh cannot take off her veil in the presence of a Mushrikāh[polytheist women], and she isn't allowed to greet her, because Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "Or their women(muslimāhs)", and they [Mushrikāhs] are not from among our women}

This was narrated by Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) in al-Sunan al-Kubrāh(7/95), and Sa'īd ibn Mansūr in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1576). And the narration of Layth(رحمه الله) from Mujāhid is a documented book & transcript, this was mentioned by Imām Ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله), refer to al-Thiqāt(7/331) and it's authentic.

It's also authentically proven from Mujāhid ibn Jabar(رحمه الله) that the exception Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given the elderly women is {to put aside her Jilbāb}, i.e. To uncover her face & has stated the same thing as 'Attā'(رحمه الله), Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) and all of the Salaf have agreed to this.

Refer to Tafsīr al-Tabarī(17/361,363-364) and it's in Tafsīr Mujāhid(2/444), also refer to Sunan Sa'īd ibn Mansūr(al-Tafsīr/1617).

5. & 6. As for the saying of 'Āmir al-Sha'bi(رحمه الله): {eye-shadow and clothes}, and the saying of 'Ikrimah(رحمه الله) the companion of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما): {The face, and the collarbone (of the neck}}, it's also authentically proven from them that he used to prohibit a Muslimâh to put aside her veil in the presence of her Uncles [on both the father & mother's side], as opposed to the majority of the scholars who permitted it, so how can anyone hold their Tafsîr regarding: {and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...} and then say they permit a Muslimâh to show her face, neck, kuhl to the non-Mahram strangers, while they are extremely strict & prohibit showing the face, neck & eye-shadow to the Mahrams that aren't mentioned in the Āyah?

Dāwud (رحمه الله) has narrated from al-Sha'bi (رحمه الله) & 'Ikrimah (رحمه الله) regarding the verse: {and not expose their adornment except to their husbands, their fathers, their husbands' fathers, their sons, their husbands' sons, their brothers, their brothers' sons...} all the way till he completed the verse:

They (al-Sha'bi & 'Ikrimah) said: {He did not mention the uncles [on the father & mother's side] because they belong to their sons, and they (al-sha'bi & 'ikrimah) said: She cannot put aside her veil in the presence of her uncles}

This is narrated by Imām ibn Abi Shaybah (رحمه الله) in his Musannâf (17580), and from his chain of narration, it was narrated by Imām ibn Mundhir (رحمه الله) as it's present in Tafsir ibn Kathir (10/220), and it was narrated by ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī (رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr (10/220).

And this is supported by another narration which is narrated by Jābir (رحمه الله) from 'Āmir al-Sha'bi (رحمه الله) that he disliked it if all Mahrams would see the hair of a Muslimâh.

This is narrated by Imām Ibn Abi Shaybah (رحمه الله) in al-Musannâf (17569), so it shows that al-Sha'bi (رحمه الله) was very strict on having some Mahrams see her hair.

And it's also authentically proven from al-Sha'bi (رحمه الله) the exact same thing as what has been proven on 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنهما), Sa'īd ibn Jubayr (رحمه الله), Mujāhid (رحمه الله), 'Attā' (رحمه الله) & others, that the exception Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) gave the elderly women in the Āyah of Sūrat al-Nūr, is putting aside the Jilbāb.

This is narrated by Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī (رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr (17/363).

7. As for al-Hassan al-Basrī (رحمه الله), then it's authentic from him that he doesn't allow a brother to see his sister without a headcovering, so it's authentic from the chain of Hishām (رحمه الله) from al-Hassan al-Basrī (رحمه الله) regarding the woman, can she put aside her head-covering in the presence of her brother? He replied: {Wallāhi she isn't supposed to do that}

This was narrated by Imām ibn Abi Shaybah (رحمه الله) in al-Musannâf (17568) and it's authentic, and this is proof that al-Hassan al-Basrī (رحمه الله) was referring to the Mahrams in his Tafsīr of Sūrat al-Nūr when he said: {The face & the clothes}, and the Salaf wouldn't ask about the non-Mahrams from their Immense Taqwā [righteousness & god-consciousness].

And it's authentically proven from al-Hassan al-Basrī (رحمه الله) the same as what 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنهما), Sa'īd ibn Jubayr (رحمه الله), 'Attā' (رحمه الله), Mujāhid (رحمه الله), al-Sha'bi (رحمه الله) & others regarding the exception Allāh (جل وعلا) has given to the elderly women in the Āyah pertains to putting aside the Jilbāb.

This was narrated by Imām 'Abdūl Razzāq (رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr (2/63) and Imām Ibn Abi Hātim (رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr (8/2641-2642).

8. As for al-Dahāk (رحمه الله), to prove that he's speaking about the Mahrams, is what Muzāhim (رحمه الله) authentically narrated from him, that he said: {If I entered upon my mother, I would say to her: Cover your Head}

This was narrated by Imām Ibn Abi Shaybah (رحمه الله) in his Musannâf (17574 & 17576).

9. As for Qatādah (رحمه الله), the same thing has been authentically proven on him like the others regarding the exception Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) gave the elderly women.

It was collected by Imām Ibn Abi Hātim al-Rāzī (رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr (8/2640). So this shows that there's no difference of opinion amongst the Sahābah, Tābi'īn & Salaf that the verse of Sūrat al-Nūr is referring to the Mahārim.

10. It's authentically proven from Abi Sālih (رحمه الله) & 'Ikrimah (رحمه الله) that they said: {The Apparent Adornments is what's above al-Dir' (chest, torso)}

This is narrated by Imām ibn Abi Shaybah (رحمه الله) in his Musannâf (3/383). And الدرع is the clothes of the house, not the clothes when you go out as it's well known, because al-Dir' reveals with it the hair & neck, and it's prohibited to reveal this to the strangers by ljmā'.

11. It's also authentically prove from Imām Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī (رحمه الله) that the Apparent Adornments is al-Dir'.

This is narrated by Imām Ibn Abi Hātim (10/109), and al-Tahāwī (رحمه الله) in Sharh Ma'ānī al-Āthār (4/332) with an authentic chain.

12. It's authentically proven from Tāwūs (رحمه الله) that: {there was nothing more disliked to him other than a Mahram seeing the 'Awrah of the other}, he said: {He used to dislike for her (Muslimâh) to take off her head-covering in his presence (Mahram)}

This was narrated by 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in al-Musannāf(12831) from the chain of Ma'mar(رحمه الله) from ibn Tāwūs(رحمه الله) from his father(Tāwūs) and it's authentic.

13. As for 'Abdullāh ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), he also mentioned that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given an exception for the elderly women to put aside her Jilbāb.

Imām ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Tafsīr(8/2641) and it was collected by Sa'īd ibn Mansūr in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1616).

So from this Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) has placed a chapter-heading in his Sunan from ibn 'Abbās's Tafsīr of the verse: {and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...}, so he said:

{Chapter: What a woman can show from her adornments to those mentioned in the verse from among her Mahrams}

Then he mentioned the statement of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) which says: {The Apparent Adornments are: The face, eye-shadow, hennā on the hand, and the ring, so this is what she can reveal in her house to those who enter upon her}

This was narrated by Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) in al-Sunan a-Kubra(7/94), Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/259) and ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(8/2576) as it was referenced before, so refer back to it & the chain is authentic according to Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله), Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) & Imām Abū Hātim al-Rāzī(رحمه الله) as it comes through the chain of 'Alī ibn Abī Talha(رحمه الله) from ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما).

Likewise, Imām ibn 'Abdīl Barr(رحمه الله) has mentioned that showing the adornments are for the Mahrams, not the Strangers, so he said: {Indeed, the Mahrams that are related through kinship or suckling are not to be concealed from, nor to be covered up in front of except for the 'Awra, and the woman is a 'Awrah(to the Mahrams) except for her face & hands}

Refer to al-Tamhīd(8/236)

14. It's authentic from 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) that he said: {The Apparent Adornments are: The Clothes}.

This was narrated by Imām 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(2/56), Sa'īd ibn Mansūr in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1569), Imām ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(17282 & 17296), Imām ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/256-257), Imām ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(8/2573-2574) & others.

Likewise, this is what all his companions from 'Irāq have said such as Imām Abī al-Ahwas(رحمه الله), Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله), al-Hassan(رحمه الله), ibn Sīrīn(رحمه الله) & others, and Mujāhid(رحمه الله) said the same thing.

Refer to Sunan Sa'īd ibn Mansūr(1571), Musannāf ibn Abī Shaybah(17285,17289,17293), Tafsīr ibn Jarīr(17/257) & the statement of Mujāhid can be found in Tafsīr ibn Abī Hātim(8/2574).

And what is meant by al-Thiyāb or "The Clothes" is what's beneath the Jilbāb, so it's the clothes that are worn traditionally in the house, and the Jilbāb simply covers it up, but the clothes she wears beneath the Jilbāb, it's permissible for the Mahrams to see that, because "Adornments" can be explained as being "Clothes" as Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {Take your adornments at every Masjid} [Sūrat al-A'rāf:31] i.e. The adornments of your clothes, and this is what Imām Abū Ishāq al-Sabī'ī(رحمه الله) used to explain the statement of 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه), so he recited that verse when he narrated the Tafsīr of ibn Mas'ūd from the chain of Abī al-Ahwas(رحمه الله) from ibn Mas'ūd(رحمه الله) & it's authentic.

Refer to Tafsīr 'Abdūl Razzāq(2/56) and Tafsīr ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(17/257).

15. It's also authentic from Imām al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) that he said: {There's nothing wrong for the man to look at the front hairs of a woman from beneath the veil, if he was a Mahram, but as for her taking off the complete veil in front of him, then she shouldn't}

This was narrated by Imām 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(12829).

Likewise Imām ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) said regarding whether a woman can take off her veil in front of a Mahram: {As for him seeing a little bit [of her hair] from beneath the veil, that's fine, but for her to take off her veil completely, then No}

This was narrated by Imām 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(12830) from the chain of Ma'mar(رحمه الله) from al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) and it's authentic.

So all these authentic narrations from the Salaf show you how pious they were in their modesty & how much chastity they had, and it's also very important to mention that the Tafsīr of the Sahābah regarding the "Apparent Adornments" where they mention that it's the Face, this doesn't mean that they prohibit a woman to show her hair to those Mahrams, but rather it's from the amount of modesty that they had, which is why you'll find many statements of the Salaf saying they ask their mother to cover her head before they would enter upon her, but what the scholars such as Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī(حفظه الله), Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) & Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) would say is that the Shari'ah is taken a bit more lightly in these areas, so what we believe is that a Muslimāh can show her hair to her Mahram, but the point of relating all these narrations from the Salaf is to place their statements in the right spot, not apply them in the wrong topic.

16. I would like to finish this with an amazing narration from Hafsa bint Sīrīn(رضي الله عنها) which was narrated by 'Āsim al-Ahwal who said: {We entered upon Hafsa bint Sīrīn, and she put the Jilbāb on like this(explaining what she did), and covered her face with it(the arabic text mentions Niqāb), so we said to her: "May Allāh have mercy upon you! Allāh(جل وعلا) said: "And women of post-menstrual age who have no desire for marriage - there is no blame upon them for putting aside their outer garments [but] not displaying adornment."[24:60] (and it's the Jilbāb), so he said: She said to us: "What is after that?" So we recited: "But to modestly refrain [from that] is better for them." [24:60], so she said: It is to keep the Jilbāb on}

This was narrated by Sa'īd ibn Mansūr(رحمه الله) in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1618), and Sa'dān ibn Nasr(رحمه الله) in his "Juz'"(page 60) and from the chain of Sa'dān(رحمه الله), Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) has collected it in his Sunan al-Kubrā(7/93) and it's authentic.

So here we have an explicit evidence from Hafsā bint Sīrīn(رضي الله عنها) regarding the Āyah that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given an exception for the elderly women to take the Jilbāb off the face as long as it's not beautified, "But to modestly refrain [from that] is better for them" as Hafsā bint Sīrīn(رضي الله عنها) mentioned, and the Hadīth explicitly describes her as wearing the Niqāb.

And all the Salaf are in agreement that the exception given in this verse is to take the Jilbāb off the face, so how can those people apply the statements of the Salaf where they can show the Face & hands to the Mahrams and apply it to the non-Mahrams?! If a Muslimāh was really allowed to show her face & hands to the Non-Mahram men, then what is the purpose behind this Āyah where Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given an exception for the old women to show her face, and this exception is exclusive for them, so this proves that the younger women are obliged to cover the face from the Strangers among the Men, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best

Radwan Dakkak updated his status.

Asalāmu 'Alaykum - Today I want to prove that #Niqāb is Wājib through the sayings of the 4 Great Imāms & refuting the #Misconception that the 4 Imāms permitted a woman to show her face & hands to non-Mahram men, but rather this is the opinion from some later Imāms who came after them where differences of opinion occurred, and I'll provide the evidences from the statements of the Imāms & their followers proving that #Niqāb is compulsory, if Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) wills. I have translated almost all of this piece of writing from Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī(حفظه الله) #Detailed_Response.

Before we go into the sayings of the Madhāhib in detail, I would like to state that the Scholars have divided 'Awrah into the following categories, 'Awrat al-Nadhr, 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Salāh & we'll go through each type inshā'Allāh at its right time, but here's a short summary, so that you are exposed to the terms.

1. 'Awrat al-Satr(عورة الست) is related to the 'Awrah in & of itself, so meaning it's what must be covered in its essence(ذات). Such as the chest, neck, hair, legs & this 'Awrah must be covered in & of itself. So you will see the Majority of the Scholars saying "The woman is a 'Awrah except her face & hands" and another group of scholars say "All of a woman is 'Awrah", so this is related to 'Awrat al-Satr.

2. 'Awrat al-Salāh(عورة الصلاة) is specifically related to the 'Awrah that must be covered during Salāh. So the Majority of the Scholars say "All of a woman is 'Awrah except her face & hands", others say "All of a woman is 'Awrah except her face, hands & feet" & others say "All of a woman is 'Awrah except her face".

3. 'Awrat al-Nadhr(عورة النط) is related to it being a 'Awrah in the presence of non-Mahram men, even if it was not a 'Awrah in & of itself. So the scholars would say "It's not permissible for a man to look at her face & hands" or "It's not permissible to look at anything from her, including her face & hands"

So that's a short summary regarding the terminology used by the Scholars when they refer to 'Awrah, and those who do not differentiate between them will apply the statements of the 4 Imāms in its wrong place, and there's a consensus made by all scholars that the 'Awrah of a slave woman is not the same as a free woman, but unfortunately you will often see those who apply narrations that are in specific to the slave women & apply them to free women, or they will apply the narrations related to the elderly women & apply it to the young women, or they will not differentiate between 'Awrat al-Salāh & 'Awrat al-Nadhr or they'll apply rulings related to Hajj to permit a woman to show her face, whereas a consensus has been mentioned by Imām ibn 'Abdūl Barr & Ibn Qudāmah said he doesn't know any difference of opinion that a woman is to cover her face with her garment at Hajj in the presence of men. And I have shown in the past that the prohibition of Niqāb in Hajj doesn't mean that it's permissible for her to reveal her face in the presence of a man, as she is still a 'Awrah, and the state of Ihrām doesn't change that, just as a man is prohibited to wear underpants, it doesn't mean he can show his private parts.

So before I go into detail regarding the statements of the Imāms, I would like to mention some necessary situations where a woman needs to be looked at, such as the one wanting to marry her, the Judge who is ruling upon the disputers, a testimony to safeguard the rights in transactions, or a dispute between two parties so that the rights are preserved & she doesn't imitate another woman.

^ So in those situations, the Fuqahā' would mention the term 'Awrat al-Nadhr, not 'Awrat al-Satr, so they will say in the rulings related to contracts, testimonies & disputes, {It's permissible to look at her face & hands}, and perhaps some of them mention {Her face & hands can be looked at, because they are not 'Awrah} or they'll say {It's not obligatory to cover them(the face & hands)}, and their statements are referring to 'Awrat al-Nadhr, whereas many people interpret this as referring to 'Awrat al-Satr, which is wrong.

So that's why you will find the Imāms themselves when they are speaking about the issue of: {Showing the Face in the presence of Strangers} & the issue of {Looking at a woman without a necessary reason}, they say it's OBLIGATORY for a woman to cover her face.

Some examples of this from the Hanafiyyāh is: What is affirmed among the Hanafī's, as Imām Abū Ja'far al-Tahāwī(رحمه الله) stated when he was talking about 'Awrat al-Satr in "Sharh Ma'ānī al-Āthār", he said: {It is permitted for the people to look at that which is not prohibited for them to look at from the women, (such as) at their faces & hands}

Refer to Sharh Ma'ānī al-Āthār(4/332)

And when the context is regarding 'Awrat al-Nadhr among the Hanafī's, then they affirm a specific ruling that relates to the Woman and what surrounds her, the Muftī of the Hanafī's in Dimashq 'Alā' al-Dīn al-Haskafī(رحمه الله) said in "al-Dur al-Mukhtār": {The young woman is prohibited from showing her face in the surrounding of men}

Refer to al-Dur al-Mukhtār(1/438)

And Imām Abū Ja'far al-Tahāwī al-Hanafī(رحمه الله) said in his Hāshiyah: {And the prohibition of a young woman from showing her face is in fear of Fitna, not because it is a 'Awrah}

Refer to "Hāshiyat al-Tahāwī 'ala Marāqī al-Falāh" (page 241)

Some examples from the Shāfi'iyyāh is: What Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) has mentioned throughout his "Majmū" when he was speaking about 'Awrat al-Satr, he gave an exception to the Face & Hands.

Refer to al-Majmū'(3/174)

Imām al-Ramlī(رحمه الله) said in "Nihāyat al-Muhtāj": {And among those who has given exception to the face & hands is the author, al-Nawawī in his "Majmū", however he has obligated it upon the free woman, and the obligation of covering it in this world is not because it's a 'Awrah in & of itself, rather it's because of her being looked at [from men] which causes Fitna most of the time}

Refer to Nihāyat al-Muhtāj(2/457)

And Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said in "Ma'rifat al-Sunan wal-Āthār" when he mentioned the statement of Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) regarding the permissibility of looking at the face & hands of the engaged woman, because they are not 'Awrah, Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said:

{As for looking, without a valid reason, for a non-Mahram, then its prohibition is affirmed by the verses of the Hijāb, and it's not permissible for them to show their adornments except to those mentioned in the Āyah from among the Mahrams}

Refer to "Ma'rifat al-Sunan wal-Āthār" (10/23)

And from this, Imām al-Subkī(رحمه الله) said: {What's closest to the view of our companions [i.e. Shāfi'ī Madhab]: Is that the Face & Hands is a 'Awrah in al-Nadhr [of being looked at from non-Mahram men], not in Salāh}

This has been quoted from him by Imām al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله) in "Mughnī al-Muhtāj" (4/209)

Likewise among the Mālikiyyāh: So for the same reason, the Madhab of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) prohibits a woman to show her face in the presence of men who can see her on the road, and the Madhab of Mālik(رحمه الله) permits showing the face when there is no onlooker around, because he differentiates between 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Nadhr.

Imām Ibn Qattān(رحمه الله) said: {And what most likely appears to me is to say: The Madhab of Mālik is that it's not permissible for a man to look at a non-Mahram woman except in necessity...and the permissibility of displaying [the face], and its prohibition [of displayment] is of different levels according to him - i.e: Mālik - upon the permissibility of looking, or its prohibition, so in every situation that he has permitted looking, there's a concession for displaying [the face]"

So preventing her from showing her face doesn't necessitate that the Face & Hands are 'Awrah, and the face & hands not being a 'Awrah doesn't necessitate the permissibility of showing them.

And what occurs most of the time is taking the sayings of the 4 Juristic Imāms of the Madhabs out of context, so they hold their statements regarding 'Awrat al-Satr [The 'Awrah which must be covered in & of itself], and they apply it to 'Awrat al-Nadhr [The 'Awrah which must be covered in the presence of non-Mahram men], so they use that as proof to allow a woman to travel immodestly! And the reason for that is either ignorance or desire.

There are 2 confusions some people have:

1. Some writers get confused in gathering between the statement of some Fuqahā': {And it's permissible for him to look at her face & hands} and between the statement: {It's compulsory to cover her face & hands} so they view that the permissibility of "Looking" [at her face & hands] to mean that it's necessary to show the face & hands, just as they consider "covering up" as a necessity for "not looking".

2. Some of them get confused regarding the command of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) to lower the gaze, to mean that showing the face is a must, because how can Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) command lowering the gaze, except if there was something there to see?!

And this misconception is similar to the previous one, and it's mostly mentioned by those who do not differentiate between 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Nadhr, and to clarify these misconceptions, it could be said: That there are two rulings in the Sharī'ah:

1. Relating to the woman that's being looked at: So a woman can show her face when there's a concession for her to do so, such as the slave woman, the very old woman, in the Judge's presence for a testimony or when there's a dispute if her identity was questionable, and engagement, and also showing her face to the disbelieving women, and a free woman might also show her face in opposition to the Sharī command, because not everyone follows the command, so the ruling of the woman belongs to her, and the ruling of the man belongs to him, so whoever is lax upon doing something, it doesn't necessitate removing the original ruling upon someone else, such as the one who leaves his wealth, like gold & silver on the road, this doesn't permit stealing it, so it's incumbent upon him to protect his wealth, and it's incumbent upon others not to steal, even if the wealth was abandoned.

2. Relating to the onlooking man: So he is commanded to lower his gaze, by what relates to him as being a male onlooker, and whenever he is allured by a slave woman, or a very old woman, it's Harām for him to look at her, even though it's permissible in their own rights to show the face, likewise with looking at the fiancé, and at the times of Testimonies & preserving the rights, only the face & hands would be looked at, so it's not permissible to exceed beyond that to the hair or neck in any case whatsoever.

And the slave women used to go out on the streets much more than the free women, and this is why you see a lot of refer ment to: The issue of Looking at a woman; Always permitted in the case of a slave woman, and sometimes permitted in the case of a free woman, doesn't mean that it's permissible to look at her in every circumstance, and when the situation changed, wherein the free women would go out to the streets like the slave women, the rulings got mixed up, and the people found it troublesome to apply it to their current situation.

And that is why; The Fuqahā' command a woman to cover her face, even though the majority of the Scholars didn't say it was a 'Awrah [in & of itself], because she is not able to tell who is going to look at her & their level of temptation from her, because the onlookers are many, and she is one person, and not all the people lower their gaze, however if we assume that a woman is not seen except by 1 non-Mahram man who is not allured by her, such as the old man, or the person who doesn't have desires [for women] such as al-'inīn [impotent men, no desire for women], it's permissible to show her face, and it's forbidden to show her hair, because the Face is a 'Awrah in Nadhr, and the reason [behind covering the face in this situation] is removed, and the hair is 'Awrah of Satr, it has no relation to Fitna, rather the mere sight of her hair is Harām to be looked at.

The sayings of the 4 Imāms regarding showing the face for a woman:

Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله) and Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) did not speak about the issue of "Showing a woman's face" in & of itself, and this is not known from their books, nor in the issues of their close companions among them, but they rather spoke about the issue of the face & hands of a woman in relation to other matters that include acts of worship or dealings with people, such as Salāh, Hajj, Contracts, Engagements, and that is because the matter according to them is very clear, that by Principle, regarding the free women is covering up and chastity and covering the face, and their statements were in all the exempted chapters from this sole principle.

Imām Muḥammād ibn 'Alī al-Marwazī al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) said in his Tafsīr: {And the Salaf such as Mālik, al-Shāfi'ī, Abī Hanīfah & others didn't speak except in relation to the 'Awrah of Salāh}, then he said: {And I do not think that any of them permit a young woman to show her face without a necessary need, nor do they permit the young man to look at her without a necessary need}.

Refer to "Taysīr al-Bayān, li-Ahkām al-Qur'ān" (2/1001).

So it's extremely important to know the context in which the Imāms speak, when Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) said "A woman is 'Awrah except for her face & hands", he was referring to Salāh, but what's amazing among those who use this as a justification to show the face when they go out, is that these women also show their feet, whereas Imām al-Shāfi'ī & the Majority of the Scholars prohibit showing the feet in Salāh, let alone when you go outside the house! Likewise those who take Imām Abū Hanīfah's statement regarding Salāh "A woman is a 'Awrah except for her face, hands & feet", these people applied his statement out of context and used it as a justification to go out revealing the face, hands & feet.

And several Scholars from the Fuqahā' of the 4 Madhabs have mentioned: That if a woman was within the Salāh, and there were non-Mahram men in her presence, that she must cover her face.

This was mentioned by Imām al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله) from the Shāfi'iyyāh, and he said: {Except that she is in a place where there are strange men who aren't permitted to look at her, so it's not permissible for her to lift off the Niqāb}. This was also mentioned by Imām al-Lakhmī(رحمه الله) from the Mālikiyyāh, and among the Hanābilah it was mentined by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) & others, and Imām al-Tahtāwī(رحمه الله) & others from the Hanafiyyāh have alluded towards it.

Refer to "al-Iqnā", fi hal al-Ālfādhi Abī Shujā" (1/285), and refer to "I'ānat al-Tālibīn" (1/135).

And some writers have even attributed to Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) a narration: That showing the face is permissible, because of a narration from him that the face of a woman is not 'Awrah, it was mentioned by Imām Ibn Qudāmah(رحم الله), and also by Imām al-Mardāwī(رحمه الله) in "al-Insāf" regarding the 'Awrah of Salāh, and no one who knows the Fiqh of Imām Ahmad or others, and their terminology and differentiation between the different issues & types of 'Awrah would even state this.

And among that: What is famously attributed towards Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) & Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله): That the woman is a 'Awrah except her face & hands, whereas the statement of Mālik in "al-Mudawwānah" and al-Shāfi'ī in "al-Umm" is regarding the chapters of Salāh, and they both state: {And showing her feet is a 'Awrah}

Refer to "al-Mudawwānah" (1/185) and "al-Umm" (2/201).

So these people take out what is permissible to be shown from the 'Awrah of Salāh, and apply it to other than Salāh.

As for the issue of contracts, testimonies, engagements, and necessary moments where a woman needs to be looked at:

The 3 Imāms, Mālik, Abū Hanīfah & al-Shāfi'ī consider the face & hands to be a 'Awrah of Nadhr [i.e. It's a 'Awrah in the presence of Men] so they view that she must cover her face & hands because of this reason. And Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) & a group of Scholars view the Face & Hands as a 'Awrah of Satr [i.e. It's a 'Awrah in & within itself], just like the hair & neck of the young & elderly woman, and some people think when they read these words:

That the Majority of the Scholars permit showing the face, and Ahmad is alone in preventing her from doing so, and this is wrong, rather they are in agreement regarding the obligation of covering the face, however they differ regarding the reason & wisdom behind why she covers the face, is it because it's a 'Awrah which must be covered in & of itself, or is it because of the Fitna of the onlookers, so it must be covered because of the external factor? And they agree over the main principle which is covering the face, and they all give concession for the Judge to look at the woman's face for a testimony if her disputer denounced her identity, or when there's no protection for the rights except by knowing her, or when a man wants to marry her, or a man dealing with a slave woman in transactions, in fear of leaving the rights of the people, so the Imāms mention the permissibility of looking at her face in these situations and what's similar to it, and the Majority of the Scholars mention the reason for that by their statement: {Because the Face & Hands are not 'Awrah}, so these people hold their statements to say her face is not a 'Awrah in the presence of men, whereas the Imāms intend: That it's permissible because the face is not a 'Awrah which must be covered in & of itself, but rather it's a 'Awrah in the presence of men where there's no necessary need, whereas in this situation the necessary need has been lifted regarding others to look at her, so it becomes permissible, because a necessary need doesn't permit showing the hair or neck in any case whatsoever, because they are 'Awrahs which must be covered in & of itself, not because of the Fitna of the onlookers, so it's not permissible to show that, not even if she's an elderly woman, nor any woman even if she was ugly or physically unwell.

And upon this, Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) held the statement of Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) in the Tafsīr of Allāh's saying: {Except that which appears thereof} [Sūrat al-Nūr:31], "The face & Hands", so Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) mentioned the words of al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) upon looking at a woman for engagement.

Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) said: {It's allowed to look at her face & hands, and it's not allowed to look at what's beyond tha} then Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said commenting upon & explicitly clarifying the saying of Al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله):

{And that is because Allāh(جل ثناؤه) says: "and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof" [al-Nūr:31], it's narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهم) and others: It's the face & hands...But as for looking at her, without a valid/permissible reason, for a non-Mahram, then it's prohibition is established in the verse of the Hijāb, and it's not permissible for them to show their adornments except to those mentioned in the verse from among her Mahrams}

Refer to "Ma'rifat al-Sunan wal-Āthār" by Imām al-Bayhaqī (10/23).

So Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) differentiated between the permissibility of al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) for the man to look at the woman for marriage, and using it as a proof by the verse in the Qur'ān, and the statement of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهم), and between showing her face & hands, so he prohibited that except to the Mahrams, so there's a difference for Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) between 'Awrah al-Nadhr where it's permissible to show the face & hands for a necessary need, and between 'Awrah al-Satr where it's not permissible whatsoever, and the woman's covering of her face in the presence of non-Mahram men according to the Majority of the Scholars is not because it's a 'Awrah in & within itself.

And what's necessary to pay attention too is that the Fuqahā' differentiate between the 'Awrah of the free woman and the 'Awrah of a slave woman, and most of the statements of the Fuqahā' in buying, selling & dealings in the shops & necessary times to look at a woman relate to the slave women who used to go out much more than the free women, so unfortunately these days people have taken the statements of the Fuqahā' regarding the slave women and the rulings that deal with them & applied it to the free women.

Okay, now we can go through the opinions of the 4 Imāms in further detail:

As for Imām Mālik(رحمه الله): He views that the face & hands are to be covered in respect of the onlookers, not because it's a 'Awrah within itself. And this is what his companions affirm from him, so he orders the Muslimāh to cover her face in the presence of men, and permits showing the face when there is no men around.

Imām Ibn Qattān(رحمه الله) said: {And what most likely appears to me is to say: The Madhab of Mālik is that it's not permissible for a man to look at a non-Mahram woman except in necessity...and the permissibility of displaying [the face], and its prohibition [of displayment] is of different levels according to him - i.e: Mālik - upon the permissibility of looking, or its prohibition, so in every situation that he has permitted looking, there's a concession for displaying [the face]"

Refer to "Al-Nadhr Fi Ahkām al-Nadhr" (page 50-51)

And this is exactly what Imām Abū al-'Abbās al-Wansharīsī al-Mālikī(رحمه الله) says in "al-Mi'yār al-Mu'rib": {The 'Awrah of Salāh, and the 'Awrah where it's permissible to look at her, are two different types.} then he said: {All of this indicates that the 'Awrah with regards to looking has a specific ruling, and there's another ruling related to Salāh, this alludes to the command of covering the face for the young woman: That if she prays with her Niqāb on, she doesn't have to repeat the Salāh}

Refer to "al-Mi'yār al-Mu'rib" (1/310)

Some people also get confused that Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) permits a woman to eat with a non-Mahram male.

Refer to al-Muwattā' (2/934)

Now what he intends by this are certain situations where there are no prohibitions involved, and the female arabs eat with their slaves, and they eat from beneath their Jilbāb, and this is well-known, infact Imām al-Azhārī(رحمه الله) explained the saying of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), so he said: {The meaning of Mālik's statement relating to dining, that is when she has a Hijāl [i.e. full tent covering upon her]}

Refer to "Ikmal al-'Ulūm" by al-Qādī 'Iyādh (6/520)

al-Hijāl is the plural of "Hajalah", and it's a house like a dome which covers like clothes. [Similarity to the covering of this elderly woman]

Refer to "Al-Nihāyah Fi Gharīb al-Hadīth wal-Athar" (1/346)

So he considered the woman eating in the presence of a non-Mahram, completely covered, not just her face.

And it's permissible according to Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) for the elderly woman or a free woman with her slave & servant, and this is explicitly the saying of Mālik(رحمه الله), as it was mentioned from him by Imām ibn al-'Arabī(رحمه الله), he said: {Mālik said: It's permissible for the young boy to eat with his female master, and that is not permissible for mature men}

Refer to "Ahkām al-Qur'ān" (3/386/al-'ilmiyyāh)

Imām ibn 'Abdīl Barr(رحمه الله) said: {A permit has been reported relating to a woman eating with her young slave[hasn't reached maturity], and with her trustworthy servant[i.e. No Fitna]}

Refer to "Al-Kāfī Fi Fiqh Ahlāl Madīnah" (2/1136)

Also it's mentioned in al-Muwattā' from Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) that he prohibits a man to send greetings [Salāms] to a young woman.

Refer to al-Muwattā' (2/959)

So how is it possible that Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) would prohibit a man giving Salāms to a non-Mahram woman, and at the same time, allow him to eat with her?! Rather, he intends the elderly women as it was clarified by Ibn al-Jahm(رحمه الله), and Mālik(رحمه الله) has explicitly made clear by his statement: {And a young woman is not allowed to remain sitting together with a man, but as for the elderly woman, and the young servant [who hasn't reached maturity] who would not be accused with indecency by sitting with her, and the one that sits with him wouldn't be accused of indecency, then I don't see anything wrong with that}

Refer to "Mawāhib al-Jalīl" (3/405) and "al-Bayān wal-Tahsīl" (9/335)

Moreover, some people get confused about what's mentioned from Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) regarding the issue of al-Dhihār, which is when a man says to his wife "You are to me like the back of my mother", so the husband prohibits himself from his wife.

So what people got confused about is what's narrated from Mālik(رحمه الله), that the wife her face to her husband who has prohibited himself from her, and Mālik(رحمه الله) said: "And others can also look at her face"

Refer to "al-Mudawanah" (2/335)

What Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) meant by "And others can also look at her face" is that she can show her face to him, because he's her husband, even if he prohibited himself from her, and the face can be seen by others who are further from him, so the husband is not the only one that can look at her face, and it's not 'Awrat al-Satr [Face isn't 'Awrah in & of itself], but rather it's 'Awrat al-Nadhr [Face is a 'Awrah in the presence of strange Men], so others can see her such as her slave & Mahrams, and they are many, infact some of the Salaf gave a concession for the owned slave to see the hair of his female Master.

Imām ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that he said: "There's no problem for the slave to look at his female Master's hair"

Narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(17557).

And the husband is given preference than the others, even if he has forbidden his wife for himself, and this is what Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) meant, and Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) emphasises his strictness when it comes to looking at an engaged woman, and that he cannot see more than the Face & Hands.

And he was asked about the slave woman that was purchased: Do you think it's okay to look at her hands? Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) said: "I hope that there will be no problem in that"

Refer to "al-Bayān wal-Tahsīl" (7/296)

And whoever knows the Madhab of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) regarding the different types of 'Awrah & Nadhr[looking at a woman], for the slave & free women, and the urgent & necessary moments, he would know that he doesn't intend what is attributed to him from some of the ignorant people who say that he allows a woman to travel in front of men in all situations.

And they narrate some of Imām Mālik's words regarding men who perform Tayammūm for the dead woman that is buried in the ground.

Refer to "Al-Mudawanah" (1/261).

And they considered this a consequence/necessity for showing the body parts of the person who the Tayammūm is being done for, whereas Tayammūm can be done on a woman without showing [her body parts] or touching her.

And that is because Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) is of the view that if a woman dies, and she has no one except her son with her: That he washes her with her clothes on.

Refer to "al-Nawādir wal-Ziyādāt" (1/551-552) & "al-Bayān wal-Tahsīl" (2/247)

And this is her son, and she is dead, and having the water reach the body parts is harder than dirt reaching the body parts, so the author did not intend for it to reach the body to begin with.

And holding Mālik's words in the issue of al-Nadhr to justify showing the face for a woman, is a mistake which is fallen into by those who haven't completely grasped/understood his Madhab regarding the differentiation between the two Types of 'Awrah.

And the Mālikiyyāh differentiate between 'Awrat al-Nadhr and 'Awrat al-Satr, and among them are those who refer to 'Awrat al-Nadhr and Fitna, so he would consider a woman in her entirety a 'Awrah from this point of view.

Imām al-Qurtubī(رحمه الله) said: "And what the Principles of the Sharī'ah have implied is that all of a woman is a 'Awrah, her body & her voice, as it has been previously stated, so it's not permissible to reveal that except for a necessary need, such as a testimony against her, or medical treatment, or being asked a question to display & confirm her identity"

~ Refer to "al-Jāmi' li-Ahkām al-Qur'ān" (17/208).

Note: As for the voice being a 'Awrah, this has no proof as mentioned by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), rather it is said that her voice is Fitnā.

As for Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله): Then he is like Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) in this topic, he differentiates between 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Nadhr, so he doesn't obligate covering the face & hands because they are 'Awrah [in & of itself], but he rather obligates covering them in the presence of Men who must be covered from, and I have seen those who use a statement of Abī Hanīfah(رحمه الله) as proof in a context where the rulings are dealing with "Nadhr".[Necessary situations where a man can see a woman's face]

It was mentioned by Muḥammād ibn al-Hassan(رحمه الله) as it's stated in "al-Mabsūt" where he said: {And it's completely fine to look at her face & hands, and not to look at anything else from her, and this is the statement of Abī Hanīfah}

Refer to "al-Mabsūt" by Muḥammād ibn al-Hassan al-Shaybānī (3/49-50).

So when the person who quoted such words mixed it up with the principle, and it is not differentiating between the two types of 'Awrah & both contexts, they attribute towards the Madhab of Imām Abī Hanīfah(رحمه الله) what he doesn't intend, and the most knowledge scholars among the Hanafiyyāh know what he means and they can see the differentiation, and they make it clear that covering the face is the Principle, and that the permissibility times a man can look at her doesn't contradict the Principle of covering for the woman, because the speech to a man is different than the speech to a man.

Imām al-Sarakhsī(رحمه الله) said: "The woman is a 'Awrah, from the absolute peak of her head to the bottom of her feet, thereafter it's permissible to look at some of the areas from her, when it's essential and a necessity"

Refer to "al-Mabsūt" by Imām al-Sarakhsī(10/145) - And what he is referring to here is 'Awrat al-Nadhr.

And that's why, you will not find among the Muhaqqiqeen of the Hanafī's who permit a woman to show her face except in a context where there's a necessary need for looking at her in the contracts and protecting rights, and they differentiate between the principle of looking, and between the necessity for it, and they differentiate between 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Nadhr.

Imām al-Tahtāwī(رحمه الله) said in his "Hāshiyah": {Abū Hanīfah's statement: "And all of the body of a free women" meaning: her body, Abū Hanīfah's statement: "Except her face", and prohibiting the young woman from showing it is in fear of Fitna/temptation, not because it's 'Awrah}.

Refer to "Hāshiyat al-Tahtāwī 'ala Marāqī al-Fallāh" (page 241).

And this is what is affirmed by the Hanafī Scholars and its Muhaqqiq's [The revisers among the Hanafī Madhab], such as al-Jasās(رحمه الله), Ibn 'Ābidīn(رحمه الله), and other than them.

Refer to "Ahkām al-Qur'ān" (5/172-173 & 245) for the statement of al-Jassās(رحمه الله). And refer to "Rad al-Muhtār" (2/79) for the statement of Ibn 'Ābidīn(رحمه الله)

And as for Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله): There's no disagreement from his statement regarding the obligation of covering a woman's face, because of Nadhr [Onlookers from non-Mahram men], just like the saying of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) & Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله).

And what Imām al-Muzanī(رحمه الله) quoted from him regarding the Tafsīr of the Apparent Adornments: "That it's the Face & Hands".

Refer to "Mukhtasar al-Muzanī" (page 163).

And what he intends is 'Awrat al-Nadhr, and he mentioned it in the context of 'Awrat al-Salāh; and that is why Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) held the Tafsīr of that upon displaying the face and hands for the Mahrams to look at, not for the strangers to look at, as it's mentioned in "al-Sunan al-Kubrā"

Refer to "al-Sunan al-Kubrā" (7/85 & 94), and this was explained the exact same way by Imām al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī al-Subkī(رحمه الله), Imām ibn al-Rif'ah(رحمه الله) & others.

And the Imām of the Haramayn al-Juwaynī(رحمه الله): "The Muslims agreed upon preventing the women from going out showing their faces, because looking [at the face] is the centre of temptation"

Refer to "Nihāyat al-Matlab" (12/31)

Imām Abū Hāmid al-Ghazālī(رحمه الله) said when he mentioned the temptation/Fitna of looking between men & women in al-ihyā': "The men have still remained throughout the centuries showing their faces, and the women going out wearing the Niqāb"

Refer to "Ihyā' 'Ulūm al-Dīn" (2/47)

And Imām Abū Hāmid al-Ghazālī(رحمه الله) in "al-Ihyā'" considered showing the face a sin.

Refer to "Ihyām 'Ulūm al-Dīn" (2/313)

And Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) in his book "al-Rawdah" has supported the consensus that was mentioned by al-Juwaynī(رحمه الله).

Refer to "Rawdat al-Tālibīn" (5/366-367)

Imām al-Shihāb al-Ramlī(رحمه الله) said: {He [Imām al-Nawawī] mentioned in "al-Rawdah" and the origins of this consensus/agreement and he approved of it"

Refer to "Hāshiyat al-Ramlī 'ala Asna al-Matālib" (3/109) and refer to "Fatāwah al-Ramlī" (3/170)

And Imām Abū al-'Abbās ibn al-Rif'ah(رحمه الله) has stated the obligation of covering a woman's face in Salāh, if men pass by, and Imām Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) quoted from ibn al-Rif'ah(رحمه الله): "I saw a Shaykh deeply follow & examine the subsidiary issues of the Shāfi'ī Madhab by his beard"

Refer to "al-Durar al-Kāminah" (3/170)

Imām al-Subkī(رحمه الله) said: {What's closest to the view of our companions [i.e. Shāfi'ī Madhab]: Is that the Face & Hands is a 'Awrah in al-Nadhr [of being looked at from non-Mahram men], not in Salāh}

It was quoted from him by Imām al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله) in "Mughnī al-Muhtāj" (4/209).

And the Fuqahā' of the Shāfi'iyyāh differentiate between 'Awrat al-Salāh and 'Awrat al-Satr and 'Awrat al-Nadhr, and the most common mistaken that occurs from people is quoting a statement from them in a specific situation, and applying it upon another situation.

Imām Ibn Hajr al-Haytamī(رحمه الله) said: {And if a stranger is found looking at her, she is compelled to cover her face from him, or else she would be assisting him upon Harām, and would be sinful for that"

Refer to Tuhfat al-Muhtāj, Fi Sharh al-Minhāj" (7/193)

Imām al-Ramlī(رحمه الله) said in "Nihāyat al-Muhtāj": {And among those who has given exception to the face & hands is the author, al-Nawawī in his "Majmū", however he has obligated it upon the free woman, and the obligation of covering it in this world is not because it's a 'Awrah in & of itself, rather it's because of her being looked at [from men] which causes Fitna most of the time}

Refer to Nihāyat al-Muhtāj(2/457)

And the Imāms of Fatwā and Revisers among the Shāfi'iyyāh approve of the obligation of covering a woman's face, even though the reason behind covering the face is differed upon, so a group of Scholars mandate covering [the face] in & of itself, such as al-Shihāb al-Ramlī(رحمه الله), al-Shams al-Ramlī(رحمه الله), al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله), and some of them mandate it for the Maslaha [Benefit] of the people and repelling Fitna & Corruption, such as Abī Zakariyyāh al-Ansārī(رحمه الله) and al-Shihāb ibn Hajr(رحمه الله).

And the "Mu'tamad" [i.e. Official] opinion among the Shāfi'iyyāh: Is what Imām al-Rāfi'ī(رحمه الله) & Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) agreed upon, that a woman's covering of her face is obligatory in & of itself, as quoted from them by Imām al-Khatīb(رحمه الله), then what Imām al-Haytamī(رحمه الله) & al-Ramlī(رحمه الله) are upon, and it is what's mentioned in this issue without any disagreement that a woman is obliged to cover her face in the presence of the sight of men.

And Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) has prevented a Muslimah to show her face & hands in the presence of a Disbelieving woman, except if she was a slave of hers.

And he [Imām al-Nawawī] said: {This is what's correct in the Madhab of al-Shāfi'ī}, as it has been quoted from Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) by his student Ibn al-'Attār(رحمه الله) in "al-Fatāwah"

And Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) said in "al-Minhāj": {And it's forbidden for a for a grown up mature man to look at the 'Awrah of a mature free non-Mahram woman, and that's including her face and hands, at the times of fear of Fitnā, and also at the times where there's no Fitna, according to the correct view}

Refer to "Minhāj al-Tālibīn" (page 204)

And some of them quote a statement by al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) in "al-Minhāj" wherein he quoted from al-Qādhī 'Iyādh(رحمه الله): {That the woman's covering of her face is a recommended Sunnāh}

Refer to the words of al-Qādhī 'Iyādh(رحمه الله) in "Ikmal al-Mu'allim" (7/37), and the statement of al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) is found in "Sharh Sahih Muslim" (14/139).

So these people claim that Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) approves of this statement of al-Qādhī 'Iyādh, and this is a mistake on their behalf, verily Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) emphasises his strictness regarding a Muslimāh showing her face to a disbelieving woman, and he obligates covering up in her presence, because she is not from "their women", as it's mentioned in the Verse of Adornments & what's after it, so if he prohibits a woman to show her face & hands to a disbelieving woman, than what about the non-Mahram men?!

And the statement of al-Qādhī 'Iyādh(رحمه الله) was weakened by a group of Scholars from the Imāms of the Shāfi'iyyāh, such as al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله), al-Shams al-Ramlī(رحمه الله), Ibn Hajr al-Haytamī(رحمه الله) and others.

Refer to "Mughnī al-Muhtāj" (3/209) for the statement of al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله). Refer to "Nihāyat al-Muhtāj" (6/188) for the statement of al-Shams al-Ramlī(رحمه الله). And refer to "Tuhfat al-Muhtāj" for the statement of Ibn Hajr al-Haytamī(رحمه الله).

And the Fuqahā' of the Shāfi'iyyāh know what Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) intends and his differentiation between 'Awrat al-Nadhr and 'Awrat al-Satr, so they do not attribute to Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) the permissibility for a woman to show her face, except in the contexts of 'Awrat al-Salāh & 'Awrat al-Satr, but rather they attribute towards Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) the obligation of her covering of the face in the context of 'Awrat al-Nadhr, i.e. In the presence of male onlookers.

Imām al-Shihāb(رحمه الله) said: {And the Madhab of al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) as it's stated in "al-Rawdah" and other than it: Is that all of a woman's body is 'Awrah, even the face & hands in all cases, and it's said: It's permissible to look at her face & hands if there is no fear[of Fitnā], and upon the first saying: They are both 'Awrah except in Salāh, so the Prayer is not nullified by showing them [the face & hands].}

Refer to "Hāshiyat al-Shihāb 'ala Tafsīr al-Baydāwī" (6/372)

And what is attributed towards Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله), Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) and Imām Abū

Hanīfah(الله رحمه الله): That they permit a woman to show her face in the presence of men who are not permitted to look at her, and not lower their gaze from her, is a widespread mistake among the later scholars, and they are not able to explicitly establish that from them, and the reason for this is not paying close attention & reading their statements in 'Awrat al-Satr and 'Awrat al-Nadhr, and differentiating between the two.

And as for Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(الله رحمه الله): The textual evidences from him are numerous, and he obliges a woman to cover her face, as a 'Awrah which a free woman covers in & of itself, even if there was no Fitnâ.

Imām Ahmad(الله رحمه الله) said: {Everything from a woman is a 'Awrah, even her fingernail, and he said: And the fingernail of a woman is a 'Awrah, and if she goes out, she cannot show anything, not her hand or fingernail or leather socks, since the leather socks describe the [shape] of the feet}.

This was quoted from him by Imām al-Khallāl(الله رحمه الله) in "Ahkām al-Nisā' 'an al-Imām Ahmad" (Page 31-33).

After Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyāh(الله رحمه الله) spoke about the woman showing her adornment to her husband & mahrams & how she must veil herself in Salāh even if she is alone at home as that is the right of Allāh, so he said:

"And as opposed to that: The face, the hands and the feet, she is not permitted to reveal that to the strangers(i.e. Non-Mahrams) according to the most correct of the 2 opinions, unlike how it was before it was abrogated(before the Āyah of Hijāb came down), rather she doesn't reveal anything except her clothes. And as for covering that in the Salāh, it's not obliged according to the agreement of the muslims, rather it's lawful for her to show both of them(face & hands) in the Salāh according to the majority of the scholars, like Abū Hanīfah(الله رحمه الله), al-Shāfi'ee(الله رحمه الله) & other than them, and it is one of the 2 narrations from Ahmad(الله رحمه الله). Likewise it's permissible to show the feet according to Abū Hanīfah(الله رحمه الله), and it's the stronger view, as Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) considered it to be from the apparent adornments, she said "And to not reveal their adornments except what appears from her" [Al-Nūr:31], she said: "al-Fatkḥ" a silver ring that is in the toes of the feet, Narrated by ibn Abī Hātim. So this is an evidence that the women used to show their feet first of all, as they would show their face and hands, they would loosen the end of their feet(to relax), so if she walked, her feet would show, and they wouldn't walk in leather shoes or closed shoes, and covering this in Salāh has severe difficulty. And Umm Salamāh(رضي الله عنها) said: "A woman prays in a coloured thobe, it covers the top of her feet, and when she prostrates, the bottom of her feet might show"

"And in general, it has been proven through the text(Qur'ān & Sunnāh) and Ijmā' that it's not required for her to wear a Jilbāb in Salāh that covers her if she was at home, but rather that's if she left the house. Therefore, she would pray in her home, even if her face, hands & feet would show, as they used to walk in the beginning before the command of drawing the Jilbāb upon themselves, so the 'Awrah in Salāh is not aligned with the 'Awrah of looking, without issuance nor contradictions/opposements."

Refer to Majmū' al-Fatāwah (21/115).

So just to conclude, it's important to place the sayings of the Imāms of the Madhabs where they belong & not take their quotes out of context, so all 4 Imāms believe it's obligation for a woman to cover her face in the presence of men, but the reason why it's obligatory is what they differed over, whether the face is considered 'Awrah in & of itself as is the Madhab of Imām Ahmad(الله رحمه الله) or that the face is 'Awrah in respect to the onlookers of stranger men as is the opinion of the other 3 Imāms.

This is what Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī(الله حفظه الله) is upon, likewise Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(الله حفظه الله), Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(الله حفظه الله), Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(الله حفظه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(الله حفظه الله) and many others.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(الله حفظه الله) said: "The 4 Imāms are in agreement regarding the obligation of covering a woman's face, and those who view that it's permissible to show the face are men from the Imāms of the Shāfi'ī Madhab, not Imām al-Shāfi'ī."

I ask Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) that he makes this a beneficial read for whoever read it and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Radwan Dakkak posted in ICYC Islamic Care Youth Crew.

Asalāmu 'Alaykum - Today I want to prove that #Niqāb is Wājib through the sayings of the 4 Great Imāms & refuting the #Misconception that the 4 Imāms permitted a woman to show her face & hands to non-Mahram men, but rather this is the opinion from some later Imāms who came after them where differences of opinion occurred, and I'll provide the evidences from the statements of the Imāms & their followers proving that #Niqāb is compulsory, if Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) wills. I have translated almost all of this piece of writing from Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī(الله حفظه الله) #Detailed_Response.

Before we go into the sayings of the Madhāhib in detail, I would like to state that the Scholars have divided 'Awrah into the following categories, 'Awrat al-Nadhr, 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Salāh & we'll go through each type inshā'Allāh at its right time, but here's a short summary, so that you are exposed to the terms.

1. 'Awrat al-Satr(عورة الست) is related to the 'Awrah in & of itself, so meaning it's what must be covered in its essence(ذات). Such as the chest, neck, hair, legs & this 'Awrah must be covered in & of itself. So you will see the Majority of the Scholars saying "The woman is a 'Awrah except her face & hands" and another group of scholars say "All of a woman is 'Awrah", so this is related to 'Awrat al-Satr.

2. 'Awrat al-Salāh(عورة الصلاة) is specifically related to the 'Awrah that must be covered during Salāh. So the Majority of the Scholars say "All of a woman is 'Awrah except her face & hands", others say "All of a woman is 'Awrah except her face, hands & feet" & others say "All of a woman is 'Awrah except her face".

3. 'Awrat al-Nadhr(عورة النظر) is related to it being a 'Awrah in the presence of non-Mahram men, even if it was not a 'Awrah in & of itself. So the scholars would say "It's not permissible for a man to look at her face & hands" or "It's not permissible to look at anything from her, including her face & hands"

So that's a short summary regarding the terminology used by the Scholars when they refer to 'Awrah, and those who do not differentiate between them will apply the statements of the 4 Imāms in its wrong place, and there's a consensus made by all scholars that the 'Awrah of a slave woman is not the same as a free woman, but unfortunately you will often see those who apply narrations that are in specific to the slave women & apply them to free women, or they will apply the narrations related to the elderly women & apply it to the young women, or they will not differentiate between 'Awrat al-Salāh & 'Awrat al-Nadhr or they'll apply rulings related to Hajj to permit a woman to show her face, whereas a consensus has been mentioned by Imām ibn 'Abdūl Barr & Ibn Qudāmah said he doesn't know any difference of opinion that a woman is to cover her face with her garment at Hajj in the presence of men. And I have shown in the past that the prohibition of Niqāb in Hajj doesn't mean that it's permissible for her to reveal her face in the presence of a man, as she is still a 'Awrah, and the state of Ihrām doesn't change that, just as a man is prohibited to wear underpants, it doesn't mean he can show his private parts.

So before I go into detail regarding the statements of the Imāms, I would like to mention some necessary situations where a woman needs to be looked at, such as the one wanting to marry her, the Judge who is ruling upon the disputers, a testimony to safeguard the rights in transactions, or a dispute between two parties so that the rights are preserved & she doesn't imitate another woman.

^ So in those situations, the Fuqahā' would mention the term 'Awrat al-Nadhr, not 'Awrat al-Satr, so they will say in the rulings related to contracts, testimonies & disputes, {It's permissible to look at her face & hands}, and perhaps some of them mention {Her face & hands can be looked at, because they are not 'Awrah} or they'll say {It's not obligatory to cover them(the face & hands)}, and their statements are referring to 'Awrat al-Nadhr, whereas many people interpret this as referring to 'Awrat al-Satr, which is wrong.

So that's why you will find the Imāms themselves when they are speaking about the issue of: {Showing the Face in the presence of Strangers} & the issue of {Looking at a woman without a necessary reason}, they say it's OBLIGATORY for a woman to cover her face.

Some examples of this from the Hanafiyyāh is: What is affirmed among the Hanafī's, as Imām Abū Ja'far al-Tahāwī(رحمه الله) stated when he was talking about 'Awrat al-Satr in "Sharh Ma'ānī al-Āthār", he said: {It is permitted for the people to look at that which is not prohibited for them to look at from the women, (such as) at their faces & hands}

And when the context is regarding 'Awrat al-Nadhr among the Hanafī's, then they affirm a specific ruling that relates to the Woman and what surrounds her, the Muftī of the Hanafī's in Dimashq 'Alā' al-Dīn al-Haskafī(رحمه الله) said in "al-Dur al-Mukhtār": {The young woman is prohibited from showing her face in the surrounding of men}

Refer to al-Dur al-Mukhtār(1/438)

And Imām Abū Ja'far al-Tahāwī al-Hanafī(رحمه الله) said in his Hāshiyah: {And the prohibition of a young woman from showing her face is in fear of Fitna, not because it is a 'Awrah}

Refer to "Hāshiyat al-Tahāwī 'ala Marāqī al-Falāh" (page 241)

Some examples from the Shāfi'īyyāh is: What Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) has mentioned throughout his "Majmū" when he was speaking about 'Awrat al-Satr, he gave an exception to the Face & Hands.

Refer to al-Majmū'(3/174)

Imām al-Ramli(رحمه الله) said in "Nihāyat al-Muhtāj": {And among those who has given exception to the face & hands is the author, al-Nawawī in his "Majmū", however he has obligated it upon the free woman, and the obligation of covering it in this world is not because it's a 'Awrah in & of itself, rather it's because of her being looked at [from men] which causes Fitna most of the time}

Refer to Nihāyat al-Muhtāj(2/457)

And Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said in "Ma'rifat al-Sunan wal-Āthār" when he mentioned the statement of Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) regarding the permissibility of looking at the face & hands of the engaged woman, because they are not 'Awrah, Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said:

{As for looking, without a valid reason, for a non-Mahram, then its prohibition is affirmed by the verses of the Hijāb, and it's not permissible for them to show their adornments except to those mentioned in the Āyah from among the Mahrams}

And from this, Imām al-Subkī(رحمه الله) said: {What's closest to the view of our companions [i.e. Shāfi'i Madhab]: Is that the Face & Hands is a 'Awrah in al-Nadhr [of being looked at from non-Mahram men], not in Salāh}

This has been quoted from him by Imām al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله) in "Mughnī al-Muhtāj" (4/209)

Likewise among the Mālikiyyāh: So for the same reason, the Madhab of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) prohibits a woman to show her face in the presence of men who can see her on the road, and the Madhab of Mālik(رحمه الله) permits showing the face when there is no onlooker around, because he differentiates between 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Nadhr.

Imām Ibn Qattān(رحمه الله) said: {And what most likely appears to me is to say: The Madhab of Mālik is that it's not permissible for a man to look at a non-Mahram woman except in necessity...and the permissibility of displaying [the face], and its prohibition [of displayment] is of different levels according to him - i.e: Mālik - upon the permissibility of looking, or its prohibition, so in every situation that he has permitted looking, there's a concession for displaying [the face]"

So preventing her from showing her face doesn't necessitate that the Face & Hands are 'Awrah, and the face & hands not being a 'Awrah doesn't necessitate the permissibility of showing them.

And what occurs most of the time is taking the sayings of the 4 Juristic Imāms of the Madhabs out of context, so they hold their statements regarding 'Awrat al-Satr [The 'Awrah which must be covered in & of itself], and they apply it to 'Awrat al-Nadhr [The 'Awrah which must be covered in the presence of non-Mahram men], so they use that as proof to allow a woman to travel immodestly! And the reason for that is either ignorance or desire.

There are 2 confusions some people have:

1. Some writers get confused in gathering between the statement of some Fuqahā': {And it's permissible for him to look at her face & hands} and between the statement: {It's compulsory to cover her face & hands} so they view that the permissibility of "Looking" [at her face & hands] to mean that it's necessary to show the face & hands, just as they consider "covering up" as a necessity for "not looking".
2. Some of them get confused regarding the command of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) to lower the gaze, to mean that showing the face is a must, because how can Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) command lowering the gaze, except if there was something there to see?!

And this misconception is similar to the previous one, and it's mostly mentioned by those who do not differentiate between 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Nadhr, and to clarify these misconceptions, it could be said: That there are two rulings in the Sharī'ah:

1. Relating to the woman that's being looked at: So a woman can show her face when there's a concession for her to do so, such as the slave woman, the very old woman, in the Judge's presence for a testimony or when there's a dispute if her identity was questionable, and engagement, and also showing her face to the disbelieving women, and a free woman might also show her face in opposition to the Sharī command, because not everyone follows the command, so the ruling of the woman belongs to her, and the ruling of the man belongs to him, so whoever is lax upon doing something, it doesn't necessitate removing the original ruling upon someone else, such as the one who leaves his wealth, like gold & silver on the road, this doesn't permit stealing it, so it's incumbent upon him to protect his wealth, and it's incumbent upon others not to steal, even if the wealth was abandoned.
2. Relating to the onlooking man: So he is commanded to lower his gaze, by what relates to him as being a male onlooker, and whenever he is allured by a slave woman, or a very old woman, it's Harām for him to look at her, even though it's permissible in their own rights to show the face, likewise with looking at the fiancé, and at the times of Testimonies & preserving the rights, only the face & hands would be looked at, so it's not permissible to exceed beyond that to the hair or neck in any case whatsoever.

And the slave women used to go out on the streets much more than the free women, and this is why you see a lot of refer ment to: The issue of Looking at a woman; Always permitted in the case of a slave woman, and sometimes permitted in the case of a free woman, doesn't mean that it's permissible to look at her in every circumstance, and when the situation changed, wherein the free women would go out to the streets like the slave women, the rulings got mixed up, and the people found it troublesome to apply it to their current situation.

And that is why; The Fuqahā' command a woman to cover her face, even though the majority of the Scholars didn't say it was a 'Awrah [in & of itself], because she is not able to tell who is going to look at her & their level of temptation from her, because the onlookers are many, and she is one person, and not all the people lower their gaze, however if we assume that a woman is not seen except by 1 non-Mahram man who is not allured by her, such as the old man, or the person who doesn't have desires [for women] such as al-'inīn [impotent men, no desire for women], it's permissible to show her face, and it's forbidden to show her hair, because the Face is a 'Awhrah in Nadhr, and the reason [behind covering the face in this situation] is removed, and the hair is 'Awhrah of Satr, it has no relation to Fitna, rather the mere sight of her hair is Harām to be looked at.

The sayings of the 4 Imāms regarding showing the face for a woman:

Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله) and Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) did not speak about the issue of "Showing a woman's face" in & of itself, and this is not known from their books, nor in the issues of their close companions among them, but they rather spoke about the issue of the face & hands of a woman in relation to other matters that include acts of worship or dealings with people, such as Salāh, Hajj, Contracts, Engagements, and that is because the matter according to them is very clear, that by Principle, regarding the free women is covering up and chastity and covering the face, and their statements were in all the exempted chapters from this sole principle.

Imām Muḥammād ibn 'Alī al-Marwazī al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) said in his Tafsīr: {And the Salaf such as Mālik, al-Shāfi'ī, Abī Hanīfah & others didn't speak except in relation to the 'Awhrah of Salāh}, then he said: {And I do not think that any of them permit a young woman to show her face without a necessary need, nor do they permit the young man to look at her without a necessary need}.

Refer to "Taysīr al-Bayān, li-Ahkām al-Qur'ān" (2/1001).

So it's extremely important to know the context in which the Imāms speak, when Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) said "A woman is 'Awhrah except for her face & hands", he was referring to Salāh, but what's amazing among those who use this as a justification to show the face when they go out, is that these women also show their feet, whereas Imām al-Shāfi'ī & the Majority of the Scholars prohibit showing the feet in Salāh, let alone when you go outside the house! Likewise those who take Imām Abū Hanīfah's statement regarding Salāh "A woman is a 'Awhrah except for her face, hands & feet", these people applied his statement out of context and used it as a justification to go out revealing the face, hands & feet.

And several Scholars from the Fuqahā' of the 4 Madhabs have mentioned: That if a woman was within the Salāh, and there were non-Mahram men in her presence, that she must cover her face.

This was mentioned by Imām al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله) from the Shāfi'iyyāh, and he said: {Except that she is in a place where there are strange men who aren't permitted to look at her, so it's not permissible for her to lift off the Niqāb}. This was also mentioned by Imām al-Lakhmī(رحمه الله) from the Mālikiyyāh, and among the Hanābilah it was mentioned by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) & others, and Imām al-Tahtāwī(رحمه الله) & others from the Hanafiyyāh have alluded towards it.

Refer to "al-Iqnā', fī ḥal al-Ālfādhi Abī Shujā" (1/285), and refer to "l'ānat al-Tālibīn" (1/135).

And some writers have even attributed to Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) a narration: That showing the face is permissible, because of a narration from him that the face of a woman is not 'Awhrah, it was mentioned by Imām Ibn Qudāmah(رحم الله), and also by Imām al-Mardāwī(رحمه الله) in "al-Insāf" regarding the 'Awhrah of Salāh, and no one who knows the Fiqh of Imām Ahmad or others, and their terminology and differentiation between the different issues & types of 'Awhrah would even state this.

And among that: What is famously attributed towards Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) & Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله): That the woman is a 'Awhrah except her face & hands, whereas the statement of Mālik in "al-Mudawwānah" and al-Shāfi'ī in "al-Umm" is regarding the chapters of Salāh, and they both state: {And showing her feet is a 'Awhrah}

Refer to "al-Mudawwānah" (1/185) and "al-Umm" (2/201).

So these people take out what is permissible to be shown from the 'Awhrah of Salāh, and apply it to other than Salāh.

As for the issue of contracts, testimonies, engagements, and necessary moments where a woman needs to be looked at:

The 3 Imāms, Mālik, Abū Hanīfah & al-Shāfi'ī consider the face & hands to be a 'Awhrah of Nadhr [i.e. It's a 'Awhrah in the presence of Men] so they view that she must cover her face & hands because of this reason. And Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) & a group of Scholars view the Face & Hands as a 'Awhrah of Satr [i.e. It's a 'Awhrah in & within itself], just like the hair & neck of the young & elderly woman, and some people think when they read these words:

That the Majority of the Scholars permit showing the face, and Ahmad is alone in preventing her from doing so, and this is wrong, rather they are in agreement regarding the obligation of covering the face, however they differ regarding the reason & wisdom behind why she covers the face, is it because it's a 'Awhrah which must be covered in & of itself, or is it because of the Fitna of the onlookers, so it must be covered because of the external factor? And they agree over the main principle which is covering the face, and they all give concession for the Judge to look at the woman's face for a testimony if her disputer denounced her identity, or when there's no protection for the rights except by knowing her, or when a man wants to marry her, or a man dealing with a slave woman in transactions, in fear of leaving the rights of the people, so the Imāms mention the permissibility of looking at her face in these situations and what's similar to it, and the Majority of the Scholars mention the reason for that by their statement: {Because the Face & Hands are not 'Awhrah}, so these people hold their statements to say her face is not a 'Awrat in the presence of men, whereas the Imāms intend: That it's permissible because the face is not a 'Awhrah which must be covered in & of itself, but rather it's a 'Awrah in the presence of men where there's no necessary need, whereas in this situation the necessary need has been lifted regarding others to look at her, so it becomes permissible, because a necessary need doesn't permit showing the hair or neck in any case whatsoever, because they are 'Awrahs which must be covered in & of itself, not because of the Fitna of the onlookers, so it's not permissible to show that, not even if she's an elderly woman, nor any woman even if she was ugly or physically unwell.

And upon this, Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) held the statement of Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) in the Tafsīr of Allāh's saying: {Except that which appears thereof} [Sūrat al-Nūr:31], "The face & Hands", so Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) mentioned the words of al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) upon looking at a woman for engagement.

Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) said: {It's allowed to look at her face & hands, and it's not allowed to look at what's beyond that} then Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said commenting upon & explicitly clarifying the saying of Al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله):

{And that is because Allāh(جل ثناؤه) says: "and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof" [al-Nūr:31], it's narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) and others: It's the face & hands...But as for looking at her, without a valid/permissible reason, for a non-Mahram, then it's prohibition is established in the verse of the Hijāb, and it's not permissible for them to show their adornments except to those mentioned in the verse from among her Mahrams}

Refer to "Ma'rifat al-Sunan wal-Āthār" by Imām al-Bayhaqī (10/23).

So Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) differentiated between the permissibility of al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) for the man to look at the woman for marriage, and using it as a proof by the verse in the Qur'ān, and the statement of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), and between showing her face & hands, so he prohibited that except to the Mahrams, so there's a difference for Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) between 'Awrat al-Nadhr where it's permissible to show the face & hands for a necessary need, and between 'Awrat al-Satr where it's not permissible whatsoever, and the woman's covering of her face in the presence of non-Mahram men according to the Majority of the Scholars is not because it's a 'Awrah in & within itself.

And what's necessary to pay attention too is that the Fuqahā' differentiate between the 'Awrah of the free woman and the 'Awrah of a slave woman, and most of the statements of the Fuqahā' in buying, selling & dealings in the shops & necessary times to look at a woman relate to the slave women who used to go out much more than the free women, so unfortunately these days people have taken the statements of the Fuqahā' regarding the slave women and the rulings that deal with them & applied it to the free women.

Okay, now we can go through the opinions of the 4 Imāms in further detail:

As for Imām Mālik(رحمه الله): He views that the face & hands are to be covered in respect of the onlookers, not because it's a 'Awrah within itself. And this is what his companions affirm from him, so he orders the Muslimāh to cover her face in the presence of men, and permits showing the face when there is no men around.

Imām Ibn Qattān(رحمه الله) said: {And what most likely appears to me is to say: The Madhab of Mālik is that it's not permissible for a man to look at a non-Mahram woman except in necessity...and the permissibility of displaying [the face], and its prohibition [of displayment] is of different levels according to him - i.e: Mālik - upon the permissibility of looking, or its prohibition, so in every situation that he has permitted looking, there's a concession for displaying [the face]"

Refer to "Al-Nadhr Fī Ahkām al-Nadhr" (page 50-51)

And this is exactly what Imām Abū al-'Abbās al-Wansharīsī al-Mālikī(رحمه الله) says in "al-Mi'yār al-Mu'rib": {The 'Awrah of Salāh, and the 'Awrah where it's permissible to look at her, are two different types.} then he said: {All of this indicates that the 'Awrah with regards to looking has a specific ruling, and there's another ruling related to Salāh, this alludes to the command of covering the face for the young woman: That if she prays with her Niqāb on, she doesn't have to repeat the Salāh}

Refer to "al-Mi'yār al-Mu'rib" (1/310)

Some people also get confused that Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) permits a woman to eat with a non-Mahram male.

Refer to al-Muwattā' (2/934)

Now what he intends by this are certain situations where there are no prohibitions involved, and the female arabs eat with their slaves, and they eat from beneath their Jilbāb, and this is well-known, infact Imām al-Azharī(رحمه الله) explained the saying of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), so he said: {The meaning of Mālik's statement relating to dining, that is when she has a Hijāl [i.e. full tent covering upon her]}

Refer to "Ikmal al-'Ulūm" by al-Qādī 'Iyādh (6/520)

al-Hijāl is the plural of "Hajalah", and it's a house like a dome which covers like clothes. [Similarity to the covering of this elderly woman]

Refer to "Al-Nihāyah Fī Gharīb al-Hadīth wal-Athar" (1/346)

So he considered the woman eating in the presence of a non-Mahram, completely covered, not just her face.

And it's permissible according to Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) for the elderly woman or a free woman with her slave & servant, and this is explicitly the saying of Mālik(رحمه الله), as it was mentioned from him by Imām ibn al-'Arabī(رحمه الله), he said: {Mālik said: It's permissible for the young boy to eat with his female master, and that is not permissible for mature men}

Refer to "Ahkām al-Qur'ān" (3/386/al-'ilmiyyāh)

Imām ibn 'Abdīl Barr(رحمه الله) said: {A permit has been reported relating to a woman eating with her young slave[hasn't reached maturity], and with her trustworthy servant[i.e. No Fitna]}

Refer to "Al-Kāfī Fī Fiqh Ahlāi Madīnah" (2/1136)

Also it's mentioned in al-Muwattā' from Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) that he prohibits a man to send greetings [Salāms] to a young woman.

Refer to al-Muwattā' (2/959)

So how is it possible that Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) would prohibit a man giving Salāms to a non-Mahram woman, and at the same time, allow him to eat with her?! Rather, he intends the elderly women as it was clarified by Ibn al-Jahm(رحمه الله), and Mālik(رحمه الله) has explicitly made clear by his statement: {And a young woman is not allowed to remain sitting together with a man, but as for the elderly woman, and the young servant [who hasn't reached maturity] who would not be accused with indecency by sitting with her, and the one that sits with him wouldn't be accused of indecency, then I don't see anything wrong with that}

Refer to "Mawāhib al-Jalīl" (3/405) and "al-Bayān wal-Tahsīl" (9/335)

Moreover, some people get confused about what's mentioned from Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) regarding the issue of al-Dhihār, which is when a man says to his wife "You are to me like the back of my mother", so the husband prohibits himself from his wife.

So what people got confused about is what's narrated from Mālik(رحمه الله), that the wife her face to her husband who has prohibited himself from her, and Mālik(رحمه الله) said: "And others can also look at her face"

Refer to "al-Mudawanah" (2/335)

What Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) meant by "And others can also look at her face" is that she can show her face to him, because he's her husband, even if he prohibited himself from her, and the face can be seen by others who are further from him, so the husband is not the only one that can look at her face, and it's not 'Awrat al-Satr [Face isn't 'Awrah in & of itself], but rather it's 'Awrat al-Nadhr [Face is a 'Awrah in the presence of strange Men], so others can see her such as her slave & Mahrams, and they are many, in fact some of the Salaf gave a concession for the owned slave to see the hair of his female Master.

Imām ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that he said: "There's no problem for the slave to look at his female Master's hair"

Narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(17557).

And the husband is given preference than the others, even if he has forbidden his wife for himself, and this is what Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) meant, and Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) emphasises his strictness when it comes to looking at an engaged woman, and that he cannot see more than the Face & Hands.

And he was asked about the slave woman that was purchased: Do you think it's okay to look at her hands? Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) said: "I hope that there will be no problem in that"

Refer to "al-Bayān wal-Tahsīl" (7/296)

And whoever knows the Madhab of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) regarding the different types of 'Awrah & Nadhr[looking at a woman], for the slave & free women, and the urgent & necessary moments, he would know that he doesn't intend what is attributed to him from some of the ignorant people who say that he allows a woman to travel in front of men in all situations.

And they narrate some of Imām Mālik's words regarding men who perform Tayammūm for the dead woman that is buried in the ground.

Refer to "Al-Mudawanah" (1/261).

And they considered this a consequence/necessity for showing the body parts of the person who the Tayammūm is being done for, whereas Tayammūm can be done on a woman without showing [her body parts] or touching her.

And that is because Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) is of the view that if a woman dies, and she has no one except her son with her: That he washes her with her clothes on.

Refer to "al-Nawādir wal-Ziyādāt" (1/551-552) & "al-Bayān wal-Tahsīl" (2/247)

And this is her son, and she is dead, and having the water reach the body parts is harder than dirt reaching the body parts, so the author did not intend for it to reach the body to begin with.

And holding Mālik's words in the issue of al-Nadhr to justify showing the face for a woman, is a mistake which is fallen into by those who haven't completely grasped/understood his Madhab regarding the differentiation between the two Types of 'Awhrah.

And the Mālikiyyāh differentiate between 'Awrat al-Nadhr and 'Awrat al-Satr, and among them are those who refer to 'Awrat al-Nadhr and Fitna, so he would consider a woman in her entirety a 'Awhrah from this point of view.

Imām al-Qurtubī(رحمه الله) said: "And what the Principles of the Sharī'ah have implied is that all of a woman is a 'Awhrah, her body & her voice, as it has been previously stated, so it's not permissible to reveal that except for a necessary need, such as a testimony against her, or medical treatment, or being asked a question to display & confirm her identity"

~ Refer to "al-Jāmi' li-Ahkām al-Qur'ān" (17/208).

Note: As for the voice being a 'Awhrah, this has no proof as mentioned by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(رحمته الله), rather it is said that her voice is Fitnā.

As for Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله): Then he is like Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) in this topic, he differentiates between 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Nadhr, so he doesn't obligate covering the face & hands because they are 'Awhrah [in & of itself], but he rather obligates covering them in the presence of Men who must be covered from, and I have seen those who use a statement of Abī Hanīfah(رحمه الله) as proof in a context where the rulings are dealing with "Nadhr".[Necessary situations where a man can see a woman's face]

It was mentioned by Muḥammād ibn al-Ḥassan(رحمه الله) as it's stated in "al-Mabsūt" where he said: {And it's completely fine to look at her face & hands, and not to look at anything else from her, and this is the statement of Abī Hanīfah}

Refer to "al-Mabsūt" by Muḥammād ibn al-Ḥassan al-Shaybānī (3/49-50).

So when the person who quoted such words mixed it up with the principle, and it is not differentiating between the two types of 'Awhrah & both contexts, they attribute towards the Madhab of Imām Abī Hanīfah(رحمه الله) what he doesn't intend, and the most knowledge scholars among the Hanafiyyāh know what he means and they can see the differentiation, and they make it clear that covering the face is the Principle, and that the permissibility times a man can look at her doesn't contradict the Principle of covering for the woman, because the speech to a man is different than the speech to a man.

Imām al-Sarakhsī(رحمه الله) said: "The woman is a 'Awhrah, from the absolute peak of her head to the bottom of her feet, thereafter it's permissible to look at some of the areas from her, when it's essential and a necessity"

Refer to "al-Mabsūt" by Imām al-Sarakhsī(10/145) - And what he is referring to here is 'Awrat al-Nadhr.

And that's why, you will not find among the Muḥaqiqeen of the Hanafī's who permit a woman to show her face except in a context where there's a necessary need for looking at her in the contracts and protecting rights, and they differentiate between the principle of looking, and between the necessity for it, and they differentiate between 'Awrat al-Satr & 'Awrat al-Nadhr.

Imām al-Tahtāwī(رحمه الله) said in his "Hāshiyah": {Abū Hanīfah's statement: "And all of the body of a free women" meaning: her body, Abū Hanīfah's statement: "Except her face", and prohibiting the young woman from showing it is in fear of Fitna/temptation, not because it's 'Awhrah}.

Refer to "Hāshiyat al-Tahtāwī 'ala Marāqī al-Fallāh" (page 241).

And this is what is affirmed by the Hanafī Scholars and its Muḥaqiq's [The revisers among the Hanafī Madhab], such as al-Jasās(رحمه الله), Ibn 'Ābidīn(رحمه الله), and other than them.

Refer to "Ahkām al-Qur'ān" (5/172-173 & 245) for the statement of al-Jassās(رحمه الله). And refer to "Rad al-Muhtār" (2/79) for the statement of Ibn 'Ābidīn(رحمه الله)

And as for Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله): There's no disagreement from his statement regarding the obligation of covering a woman's face, because of Nadhr [Onlookers from non-Mahram men], just like the saying of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) & Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله).

And what Imām al-Muzanī(رحمه الله) quoted from him regarding the Tafsīr of the Apparent Adornments: "That it's the Face & Hands".

Refer to "Mukhtasar al-Muzanī" (page 163).

And what he intends is 'Awrat al-Nadhr, and he mentioned it in the context of 'Awrat al-Salāh; and that is why Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) held the Tafsīr of that upon displaying the face and hands for the Mahrams to look at, not for the strangers to look at, as it's mentioned in "al-Sunan al-Kubrā"

Refer to "al-Sunan al-Kubrā" (7/85 & 94), and this was explained the exact same way by Imām al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī al-Subkī(رحمه الله), Imām ibn al-Rif'ah(رحمه الله) & others.

And the Imām of the Haramayn al-Juwaynī(رحمه الله): "The Muslims agreed upon preventing the women from going out showing their faces, because looking [at the face] is the centre of temptation"

Refer to "Nihāyat al-Matlab" (12/31)

Imām Abū Hāmid al-Ghazālī(رحمه الله) said when he mentioned the temptation/Fitna of looking between men & women in al-ihyā': "The men have still remained throughout the centuries showing their faces, and the women going out wearing the Niqāb"

Refer to "Ihyā' 'Ulūm al-Dīn" (2/47)

And Imām Abū Hāmid al-Ghazālī(رحمه الله) in "al-Ihyā'" considered showing the face a sin.

Refer to "Ihyām 'Ulūm al-Dīn" (2/313)

And Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) in his book "al-Rawdah" has supported the consensus that was mentioned by al-Juwaynī(رحمه الله).

Refer to "Rawdat al-Tālibīn" (5/366-367)

Imām al-Shihāb al-Ramlī(رحمه الله) said: {He [Imām al-Nawawī] mentioned in "al-Rawdah" and the origins of this consensus/agreement and he approved of it"

Refer to "Hāshiyat al-Ramlī 'ala Asna al-Matālib" (3/109) and refer to "Fatāwah al-Ramlī" (3/170)

And Imām Abū al-'Abbās ibn al-Rif'ah(رحمه الله) has stated the obligation of covering a woman's face in Salāh, if men pass by, and Imām Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) quoted from ibn al-Rif'ah(رحمه الله): "I saw a Shaykh deeply follow & examine the subsidiary issues of the Shāfi'ī Madhab by his beard"

Refer to "al-Durar al-Kāminah" (3/170)

Imām al-Subkī(رحمه الله) said: {What's closest to the view of our companions [i.e. Shāfi'ī Madhab]: Is that the Face & Hands is a 'Awrah in al-Nadhr [of being looked at from non-Mahram men], not in Salāh}

It was quoted from him by Imām al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله) in "Mughnī al-Muhtāj" (4/209).

And the Fuqahā' of the Shāfi'iyyāh differentiate between 'Awrat al-Salāh and 'Awrat al-Satr and 'Awrat al-Nadhr, and the most common mistaken that occurs from people is quoting a statement from them in a specific situation, and applying it upon another situation.

Imām Ibn Hajr al-Haytamī(رحمه الله) said: {And if a stranger is found looking at her, she is compelled to cover her face from him, or else she would be assisting him upon Harām, and would be sinful for that"

Refer to Tuhfat al-Muhtāj, Fi Sharh al-Minhāj" (7/193)

Imām al-Ramlī(رحمه الله) said in "Nihāyat al-Muhtāj": {And among those who has given exception to the face & hands is the author, al-Nawawī in his "Majmū", however he has obligated it upon the free woman, and the obligation of covering it in this world is not because it's a 'Awrah in & of itself, rather it's because of her being looked at [from men] which causes Fitna most of the time}

Refer to Nihāyat al-Muhtāj(2/457)

And the Imāms of Fatwā and Revisers among the Shāfi'iyyāh approve of the obligation of covering a woman's face, even though the reason behind covering the face is differed upon, so a group of Scholars mandate covering [the face] in & of itself, such as al-Shihāb al-Ramlī(رحمه الله), al-Shams al-Ramlī(رحمه الله), al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله), and some of them mandate it for the Maslaha [Benefit] of the people and repelling Fitna & Corruption, such as Abī Zakariyyāh al-Ansārī(رحمه الله) and al-Shihāb ibn Hajr(رحمه الله).

And the "Mu'tamad" [i.e. Official] opinion among the Shāfi'iyyāh: Is what Imām al-Rāfi'ī(رحمه الله) & Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) agreed upon, that a woman's covering of her face is obligatory in & of itself, as quoted from them by Imām al-Khatīb(رحمه الله), then what Imām al-Haytamī(رحمه الله) & al-Ramlī(رحمه الله) are upon, and it is what's mentioned in this issue without any disagreement that a woman is obliged to cover her face in the presence of the sight of men.

And Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) has prevented a Muslimah to show her face & hands in the presence of a Disbelieving woman, except if she was a slave of hers.

And he [Imām al-Nawawī] said: {This is what's correct in the Madhab of al-Shāfi'ī}, as it has been quoted from Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) by his student Ibn al-'Attār(رحمه الله) in "al-Fatāwah"

And Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) said in "al-Minhāj": {And it's forbidden for a grown up mature man to look at the 'Awrah of a mature free non-Mahram woman, and that's including her face and hands, at the times of fear of Fitnā, and also at the times where there's no Fitna, according to the correct view}

Refer to "Minhāj al-Tālibīn" (page 204)

And some of them quote a statement by al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) in "al-Minhāj" wherein he quoted from al-Qādhī 'Iyādh(رحمه الله): {That the woman's covering of her face is a recommended Sunnāh}

Refer to the words of al-Qādhī 'Iyādh(رحمه الله) in "Ikmal al-Mu'allim" (7/37), and the statement of al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) is found in "Sharh Sahih Muslim" (14/139).

So these people claim that Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) approves of this statement of al-Qādhī 'Iyādh, and this is a mistake on their behalf, verily Imām al-Nawawī(رحمه الله) emphasises his strictness regarding a Muslimāh showing her face to a disbelieving woman, and he obligates covering up in her presence, because she is not from "their women", as it's mentioned in the Verse of Adornments & what's after it, so if he prohibits a woman to show her face & hands to a disbelieving woman, than what about the non-Mahram men?!

And the statement of al-Qādhī 'Iyādh(رحمه الله) was weakened by a group of Scholars from the Imāms of the Shāfi'yyāh, such as al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله), al-Shams al-Ramlī(رحمه الله), Ibn Hajr al-Haytamī(رحمه الله) and others.

Refer to "Mughnī al-Muhtāj" (3/209) for the statement of al-Khatīb al-Shirbīnī(رحمه الله). Refer to "Nihāyat al-Muhtāj" (6/188) for the statement of al-Shams al-Ramlī(رحمه الله). And refer to "Tuhfat al-Muhtāj" for the statement of Ibn Hajr al-Haytamī(رحمه الله).

And the Fuqahā' of the Shāfi'yyāh know what Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) intends and his differentiation between 'Awrat al-Nadhr and 'Awrat al-Satr, so they do not attribute to Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) the permissibility for a woman to show her face, except in the contexts of 'Awrat al-Salāh & 'Awrat al-Satr, but rather they attribute towards Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) the obligation of her covering of the face in the context of 'Awrat al-Nadhr, i.e. In the presence of male onlookers.

Imām al-Shihāb(رحمه الله) said: {And the Madhab of al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) as it's stated in "al-Rawdah" and other than it: Is that all of a woman's body is 'Awrah, even the face & hands in all cases, and it's said: It's permissible to look at her face & hands if there is no fear[of Fitnā], and upon the first saying: They are both 'Awrah except in Salāh, so the Prayer is not nullified by showing them [the face & hands].}

Refer to "Hāshiyat al-Shihāb 'ala Tafsīr al-Baydāwī" (6/372)

And what is attributed towards Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله), Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) and Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله): That they permit a woman to show her face in the presence of men who are not permitted to look at her, and not lower their gaze from her, is a widespread mistake among the later scholars, and they are not able to explicitly establish that from them, and the reason for this is not paying close attention & reading their statements in 'Awrat al-Satr and 'Awrat al-Nadhr, and differentiating between the two.

And as for Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله): The textual evidences from him are numerous, and he obliges a woman to cover her face, as a 'Awrah which a free woman covers in & of itself, even if there was no Fitnā.

Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) said: {Everything from a woman is a 'Awrah, even her fingernail, and he said: And the fingernail of a woman is a 'Awrah, and if she goes out, she cannot show anything, not her hand or fingernail or leather socks, since the leather socks describe the [shape] of the feet}.

This was quoted from him by Imām al-Khallāl(رحمه الله) in "Ahkām al-Nisā' 'an al-Imām Ahmad" (Page 31-33).

After Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) spoke about the woman showing her adornment to her husband & mahrams & how she must veil herself in Salāh even if she is alone at home as that is the right of Allāh, so he said:

"And as opposed to that: The face, the hands and the feet, she is not permitted to reveal that to the strangers(i.e. Non-Mahrams) according to the most correct of the 2 opinions, unlike how it was before it was abrogated(before the Āyah of Hijāb came down), rather she doesn't reveal anything except her clothes. And as for covering that in the Salāh, it's not obliged according to the agreement of the muslims, rather it's lawful for her to show both of them(face & hands) in the Salāh according to the majority of the scholars, like Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) & other than them, and it is one of the 2 narrations from Ahmad(رحمه الله). Likewise it's permissible to show the feet according to Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), and it's the stronger view, as Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) considered it to be from the apparent adornments, she said "And to not reveal their adornments except what appears from her" [Al-Nūr:31], she said: "al-Fatkh" a silver ring that is in the toes of the feet, Narrated by ibn Abī Hātim. So this is an evidence that the women used to show their feet first of all, as they would show their face and hands, they would loosen the end of their feet(to relax), so if she walked, her feet would show, and they wouldn't walk in leather shoes or closed shoes, and covering this in Salāh has severe difficulty. And Umm Salamāh(رضي الله عنها) said: "A woman prays in a coloured thobe, it covers the top of her feet, and when she prostrates, the bottom of her feet might show"

"And in general, it has been proven through the text(Qur'ān & Sunnāh) and Ijmā' that it's not required for her to wear a Jilbāb in Salāh that covers her if she was at home, but rather that's if she left the house. Therefore, she would pray in her home, even if her face, hands & feet would show, as they used to walk in the beginning before the command of drawing the Jilbāb upon themselves, so the 'Awrah in Salāh is not aligned with the 'Awrah of looking, without issuance nor contradictions/oppositions."

So just to conclude, it's important to place the sayings of the Imāms of the Madhabs where they belong & not take their quotes out of context, so all 4 Imāms believe it's obligation for a woman to cover her face in the presence of men, but the reason why it's obligatory is what they differed over, whether the face is considered 'Awrah in & of itself as is the Madhab of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) or that the face is 'Awrah in respect to the onlookers of stranger men as is the opinion of the other 3 Imāms.

This is what Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī(حفظه الله) is upon, likewise Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله), Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) and many others.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said: "The 4 Imāms are in agreement regarding the obligation of covering a woman's face, and those who view that it's permissible to show the face are men from the Imāms of the Shāfi'ī Madhab, not Imām al-Shāfi'ī."

I ask Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) that he makes this a beneficial read for whoever read it and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

#Extremely_Important #Takfeer

Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd(حفظه الله) was asked: What do you think about the one who says that it's a must to look at whether the conditions have been met & and the preventions of Takfīr have being removed regarding the one who has committed Kufr, such as Shirk or Sihr [Magic], or Mocking [Allāh, His Messenger & Islām] & similar to that from the Nullifiers, until we can individually rule upon him with Kufr?

The Shaykh(حفظه الله) responded by saying: This is not correct, because looking into the conditions & similar to that is within the matters which become unclear, as for the matters of Usūl [Foundations of the Religion] that you mentioned in the question, Shirk, Sihr & Mocking [Allāh, the Messenger & Islām] and similar to that, then the person who does that disbelieves with no dignity, except in the case of Ikrāh [coercion], and the Fundamental Principle & Criterion is: "Every person who has fulfilled what negates his submission to Allāh, then he's a Kāfir, only except for the coerced", so make your judgement based upon this Criterion in all scenarios, as we know that submission to Allāh is nullified by 2 things:

1. That he submits to Allāh & to other than Allāh, and this is Shirk.
2. That he doesn't submit to Allāh, and this is denial & arrogance & similar to that.

Regardless whether this negator [of submission to Allāh] was in 1 issue or more, for example:

- A) Whoever worships other than Allāh because he was ignorant = Shirk is established upon him.
- B) Whoever legalises alcohol because he was ignorant & he is someone who is truly ignorant = No nullifier is established upon him.
- C) Whoever legalises alcohol and he is someone who isn't truly ignorant = Denial & Rejection [of the text] is established upon him.
- D) Whoever interprets Tawhīd or the matters pertaining al-Walā' wal-Barā' = Denial & Rejection [of the text] is established upon him.
- E) Whoever interprets some of the Attributes of Allāh such as the Istiwā' [Allāh being above the 'Arsh], and Qadr [Destiny], because of a misconception (he didn't deny or reject the text) = No negator of Islām is established upon him.

And likewise with the rest of the scenarios, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

watches everything you say, do & think about. This سُبْحَانَهُ وَتَعَالَى Always remember that Allāh صلى said that Messenger of Allāh عنها رضي الله includes everything you do on social media. 'Ā'isha by "his tongue", let alone his heart :) He was جَل وَعَلَا would always remember Allāh عليه وسلم described him as, so as Muslims, let's learn from the عنها رضي الله the walking Qur'ān as 'Ā'isha صلى the Prophet عليه وسلم.

& حفظه الله There's also an amazing thing I learnt a while back from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān his long talks regarding Ahādīth & deriving benefits from them. This is also a tip for the parents, so صلى the Shaykh mentioned that the way we were able to record the Hadīths from the Prophet عليه وسلم is because he "loudly" mentioned them for the sake of teaching his companions. We عليه وسلم should act upon this, for e.g. Before you enter the bathroom say loudly, so that your kids & wife can hear it, this is da'wah for your family :) Likewise it's والخباياث

.completely fine to recite the Tashahhūd loudly sometimes so others can learn

Alhamdulillah in our times, many people are sharing authentic narrations & Fatāwah, but we need to act upon it. You can teach your kids everything verbally, but they will learn so much more when they are shown something physically by your actions. They get to experiment it, so be a good .person Inshā'Allāh & always have a good heart

#Short_Preview regarding the issue of Abandoning Salāh:

Are the 4 Imāms considered the Jumhūr?

What is the ruling upon the one who abandons Salāh completely?

Amazing video & so true. Amazing talk about turning away from the religion & leniency in committing Muharramāt.

Some people think it's only the layman who have these issues, the Shaykh mentions that many laymen are better than the Scholars subhānAllāh, there are Shaykhs who invite woman to their house without a Mahram, what do you call this?

There are people who trim their beard because it's only a "Sunnāh" to leave the beard to grow in their eyes, subhānAllāh only a Sunnāh? Yet, Imām ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh & Imām ibn 'Ābidīn(رحمه الله) & others mentioned an Ijmā' that it's Wājib to leave the beard to grow & Harām to take off anything from it. The Sahābah differed upon trimming the beard to a fistful length, anything below that is Harām by consensus.

And he mentioned many other amazing matters which I hope to share in the near future.

What does the Prophet's statement that women have a deficiency in intellect and religion mean?
#Short_Response against enemies of Islām.

Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī(حفظه الله) said the verse "The men are protectors of women" doesn't mean men are a better creation than women & he gave a good lecture regarding the Tafsīr of this verse which you can find on Youtube. Also we cannot understand the Hadīth at its face value as mentioned by the 'Ulemā' such as ibn Hazm & others.

Have a read of the Hadīth so you can understand what I'm talking about:

Narrated Abu Said Al-Khudri:

Once Allah's Apostle went out to the Musalla (to offer the prayer) on 'Id-al-Adha or Al-Fitr prayer. Then he passed by the women and said, "O women! Give alms, as I have seen that the majority of the dwellers of Hell-fire were you (women)." They asked, "Why is it so, O Allah's Apostle?" He replied, "You curse frequently and are ungrateful to your husbands. I have not seen anyone MORE DEFICIENT IN INTELLIGENCE and religion than you. A cautious sensible man could be led astray by some of you." The women asked, "O Allah's Apostle! What is deficient in our intelligence and religion?" He said, "Is not the evidence of two women equal to the witness of one man?" They replied in the affirmative. He said, "This is the deficiency in her intelligence. Isn't it true that a woman can neither pray nor fast during her menses?" The women replied in the affirmative. He said, "This is the deficiency in her religion." (Sahih al-Bukhari, Volume 1, Book 6, Number 301)

Narrated Abu Said Al-Khudri:

The Prophet said, "Isn't the witness of a woman equal to half of that of a man?" The women said, "Yes." He said, "This is because OF THE DEFICIENCY OF A WOMAN'S MIND." (Sahih al-Bukhari, Volume 3, Book 48, Number 826)

Deficiency in religion is divided into two types by the Scholars:

1. Blameworthy, such as someone who abandons the obligatory acts without a valid excuse.
2. Non-Blameworthy, such as a woman on her menses or Nifās, because this is from Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), and her Refrainment from Salāh & Siyām is a blessing from Allāh جل وعلا.

Imām Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) said:

- It necessitates from the one who takes the Hadīth at face value to mean that he's more complete in his intellect and deen than Maryam(عليها السلام), Umm Mūsā(عليها السلام), 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) and Fātimah(رضي الله عنها). Or else stating otherwise means that some men have lesser intellect & religion than women.

- The deficiency of the intellect and deen is only limited to the Shahādah [i.e. Testimony] & Menses, and doesn't exceed beyond that to anything else.

- This deficiency does not necessitate a deficiency in greatness, because the wives & daughters of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) have the best deen & status in the eyes of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) from every Successor, and from every man that comes after them till the day of judgement يلزم القائل بظاهر الحديث ان يكون أتم عقلاً وديناً من مريم وأم موسى وعائشة وفاطمة. والقول بغير هذا يعني ان من الرجال من هو أنقص ديناً وعقلاً من النساء.

• نقصان العقل والدين يقتصر فقط على الشهادة والحيض، ولا يتعداهما إلى غيرهما.

• هذا النقصان لا يوجب نقصان الفضل، فنساء النبي وبناته افضل ديناً ومنزلة عند الله من كل تابعي، ومن كل رجل يأتي من بعدهم إلى يوم القيامة.

As for 2 witnesses needed for a woman, this is not the case in every situation, because basically every Scholar says it's only necessary for 1 woman to sight the Hilāl [crescent] for the beginning of Ramadān, and there are several other situations that only need the Testimony of 1 woman.

Infact, did you know that there are 4 cases a man inherits more than a woman, but over 30 cases where a woman inherits equivalent to a man & even more than him! This was mentioned by Shaykh al-'Allāmah Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله)

And this is from the wisdom of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) to have 2 women, because especially in the worldly matters of wealth, a woman isn't focused on that, she is focused on looking after her family, giving birth to children & raising them.

There can be much more to say, but this is what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has said, and the Kuffār who claim that this means women have a lower memory & intellect than men in general, then they are wrong.

The mother of the believers 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) memorised over 2,000 Hadīths, the other wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) memorised around 500 Hadīths, we also have many Sahābiyyāt who narrated Ahādīth.

In the end, Allāh سبحانه وتعالى knows best.

In your opinion, what is the best thing about social media?

Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl حفظه الله really liked it if it was used for the right purpose.

It is a severe strangeness towards Ahlu Sunnah, they fight us with all means, they fight us with the media which is heard, the media which is seen and the media which is written. It has reached the extent that even the families and friends are fighting this strange person who is holding onto the book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger SalAllahu Alayhi Wasallam.

And regardless of all of that, we are happy with this strangeness, and are proud to be strange, because the Prophet of Allah SalAllahu Alayhi Wasallam praised these strangers, he said:

"Islam began as something strange and will return to be strange just as it began, so glad tidings to the strangers" They asked him "and who are they O Messenger of Allah"? He replied: "they are the ones who are upright when the people are corrupted"

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said in Majmū' al-Fatāwah:

And ruling by what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has revealed brings goodness in this world and the hereafter, and ruling by other than what Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has revealed brings corruption in this world and the hereafter, so it's obliged to abolish it by ljmā'.

So whoever permits following a Sharī'ah other than the Sharī'ah of Islām, it's obliged to remove him from power, and his bay'ah becomes void, and it becomes forbidden to obey him, because in the likes of this situation, he deserves the description of al-Kufr [Major Disbelief].

And every Tā'ifah that revolts against an ordainment from the Mutawātir Manifest ordinances of Islām; It becomes obligatory to fight it by the agreement of the Imāms of the Muslims, even if it uttered the Testimony of Faith [Shahādatayn].

Moreover, even if they abstain from the impermissibility of the indecent/shameful acts or fornication or gambling or alcohol, or other than that from the prohibited acts in the Sharī'ah.

Also, even if they abstain from judging upon the blood, self, honour, investment and similar to that, by the Qur'ān & Sunnāh.

Also, even if they abstain from ordaining the good & forbidden the evil, and striving against the disbelievers.

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "And fight them until there is no more Fitnā and the religion becomes entirely for Allāh"

Therefore, if some of the religion was for Allāh(جل وعلا), and some of it was for other than Allāh(جل وعلا), fighting is obliged until it becomes all for Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى).

: قال ابن تيمية رحمه الله في الفتاوى

والحكم بما أنزل الله فيه صلاح الدنيا والآخرة، والحكم بغير ما أنزل الله فيه فساد الدنيا والآخرة، فيجب نقضه بالإجماع .

فمن أجاز اتباعَ شريعةٍ غير شريعة الإسلام وجب خلعه، وانحلت بيعته، وحرمت طاعته ؛ لأنه في مثل هذه الحالة يستحق وصف الكفر .

وكل طائفة خرجت عن شريعة من شرائع الإسلام الظاهرة المتواترة ؛ فإنه يجب قتالها باتفاق أئمة المسلمين، وإن تكلمت بالشهادتين . وكذلك إن امتنعوا عن تحريم الفواحش أو الزنا أو الميسر أو الخمر، أو غير ذلك من محرمات الشريعة . وكذلك إن امتنعوا عن الحكم في الدماء والأموال والأعراض والأبضاع ونحوه بحكم الكتاب والسنة . وكذلك أن امتنعوا عن الأمر بالمعروف والنهي عن المنكر وجهاد الكفار .

Wearing Jeans is Harām for both men & women, because this is imitating the Kuffār in a characteristic that exclusively pertains to them, even if the Muslims wear it, the Shaykh went into slight detail regarding imitating of the Kuffār & showing that rulings do not change by the actions of the Fussāq from the Muslims, rather Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) permitted doing something which the Kuffār did, as long as it wasn't exclusive to them. As for Jeans, this is a uniform/clothing that exclusively belongs to them, and we must be proud of our own uniform as Muslims, not imitate the Kuffār & their dresscode.

A message to those who tell me "Why do you only study from those who are imprisoned". Firstly, not all the Scholars I learn from are imprisoned, alhamdulillah some of them are released, but yes the majority have their "freedom of speech" taken away from them. Those are the righteous 'Ulemā' in my eyes, Imāms of Tawhīd, Memorises of Hadīth & Experts in Fiqh and all the other sciences of Islām. They remind me of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), they remind me of the 4 Great Imāms who stood up against the Tyrant rulers of their times, this is the Methodology that I adopt & the teachings that I spread.

Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) said that studied his whole life under hundreds of 'Ulemā' and he said that doesn't know anyone who is more knowledgeable than Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله).

All these Scholars I quote have studied under Shaykh Hamūd ibn 'Uqlā' who is an Imām of Tawhīd, infact people say this Shaykh is as knowledgeable as Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz ibn Bāz, if not more knowledgeable, it's just he's not as famous. You can read what people say online, it's an irrelevant discussion because in the end, they are both great Scholars, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon them.

Please do not come to me and talk to me about 'Ulemā', all I've been sharing is what the 'Ulemā' have mentioned, anyways as Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl الله حفظه said, it's important to not let the da'wah get personal because this would affect my sincerity. Alhamdulillah 🍀

A very close friend of mine took this photo & he was actually on the same road in Nice when the incident happened.

It reads "Love for everyone, no hate to anybody" no comment for that...

Yes, a few Muslims died unfortunately, but look at what Israel is doing to Palestine, it's sad...

Shaykh al-'Alwān & imam Anwar said Israeli people are apart of this apartheid, they usurped muslim land...so likewise french people should stand up against crime of their government so all these killings can stop. Jews in Israel lived the best life under the Muslims, unfortunately they are now oppressors...

I support peace & hate injustice, but who is invading who and causing this to happen? Also an important point to mention:

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān said with regards to women & children, it's prohibited to intentionally target them, even in Qisās, because this is the right of Allāh, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has clearly forbade killing women & children in & of itself.

You will find a strange Fatwa from Shaykh al-Tarāfe saying it's okay to retaliate against women if they kill ours, but NOT children, ibn 'Uthaymeen even went further and said you can retaliate against both women & children, this is completely wrong & none of the early scholars have stated this as mentioned by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān, the shaykh states that this is the opinion of some contemporary scholars which means nothing.

So women & children is a red zone & the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has prohibited it in & of itself, Imām al-Qurtubī mentioned the verse: "And fight in the path of Allāh those that fight you, but do not transgress, indeed Allah does not love the transgressors", if you refer back to Imām al-Qurtubī's tafsīr, he mentioned among the images/types of transgression is killing women & children etc..

Anyways, I just wanted to mention that for the benefit, btw I don't know what's up with hotels in France, even when my mate went last time to Paris, so many idols...

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) guide us all.

I've noticed many people celebrating lately as if it's Eid & the Ummāh has risen!

But I'm trying to ask myself, what is there to really celebrate? Where are those who ordain the good & forbid the evil?

- Erdogān calls for unity with the Rāfidah, but let's forget about him, some people get too emotional if someone says a single word against that Murtaḍ.

- Even if you give a million excuses to the rulers & make no excuses for "Takfeeri's", where are your condemnations of the nationalist turkish flags that are being promoted and spread everywhere. Isn't it the right time to speak against nationalism or are you scared about "accusations" being thrown against you.

- What does speaking about Pauline Hanson, Donald Trump & other idiots bring for us? What benefit do we get from such أرادل...Ahh, speaking about them brings "no Fitna", all Muslims & even non-Muslims can unite together & have a laugh at them.

- What is there to celebrate when Palestine & Spain is still occupied by the Wrong-Doers? Has Erdogān remaining in power really helped the Ummāh liberate Palestine & Spain?

- My main point was, why aren't we addressing the main issues of Tawheed, refuting Interfaith, refuting nationalism, refuting deviant sects, defending our brothers & sisters while at the same time speaking against cowards who have no manners...

- Start learning your deen properly, put an effort to help others out if you are really sincere about the Ummāh. Being a relationship counsellor all day on Social Media is mere entertainment. What is actually difficult is being a Shaykh who deals with real divorce cases day in, day out, that's a headache!

Once we get our priorities right, that's when our Ummāh will rise. By the way, my post is general & doesn't specify any individual, that's the intention in which I wrote it.

I'm going to be busy for the rest of the night, so I won't be able to read the comments till late, and this is just my insights on the matter, I might be wrong as I always say, and Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

#Sabr my Brother & Sister, Sabr...

Calamities and disasters are a test, and they are a sign of Allāh's love for a person, because they are like medicine: even though it is bitter, despite its bitterness you give it to the one whom you love – and for Allāh is the highest description. Calamities are good for the believer in the sense that reward is stored up for him the Hereafter, how can it be otherwise when he is raised in status thereby and his bad deeds are expiated?

“The greatest reward comes with the greatest trial. When Allāh loves a people He tests them. Whoever accepts that wins His pleasure but whoever is discontent with that earns His wrath.”

إِنَّ عَظْمَ الْجَزَاءِ مَعَ عَظْمِ الْبَلَاءِ ، وَإِنَّ اللَّهَ عَزَّ وَجَلَّ إِذَا أَحَبَّ قَوْمًا ابْتَلَاهُمْ ، فَمَنْ رَضِيَ فَلَهُ الرِّضَا ، وَمَنْ سَخَطَ فَلَهُ السَّخَطُ

— The Prophet [صلى الله عليه وسلم] | [Sahīh] Tirmidhī [2396] and Ibn Majāh [4031]

“When Allāh wills good for His slave, He hastens the punishment for him in this world, and when Allāh wills ill for His slave, he withholds the punishment for his sins from him until he comes with all his sins on the Day of Resurrection.”

إذا أراد الله بعبده الخير عَجَّلَ له العقوبة في الدنيا ، وإذا أراد بعبده الشر أمسك عنه بذنبه حتى يوافيه به يوم القيامة

— The Prophet [صلى الله عليه وسلم] | [Sahīh] Tirmidhī [2396]

There are things which, if the one who is stricken with calamity thinks about them, that will make the calamity easier for him to bear.

“1 – If he looks at what has befallen him, he will find that what his Lord has left for him is similar to it or better than it, and if he is patient and accepts it, He has stored up for him something that is many times greater than what he has lost through this calamity, and if He willed He could have made the calamity even greater.

2 – The fire of calamity can be extinguished by thinking of those who have been hit even harder. Let him look to his right, does he see anything but calamity? Then let him look to his left, does he see anything but loss? If he were to look at the people around him, he would not see anything but people who are tested, either by missing out on something that they like, or by having happen to them that which they dislike. The pains of this world are like dreams or like a passing shadow. If you laugh a little you will weep a lot, and if you are happy for a day you will be miserable for a lifetime, and if you have what you want for a little while, you will be deprived for a long time. There is no day of happiness but it is followed by a day of pain. Ibn Mas'ūd [may Allāh be pleased with him] said: For every moment of joy there is a moment of sorrow, and no house is filled with joy but it will be filled with sorrow. And Ibn Sirīn said: There is never any laughter but there comes weeping after it.

3 – It should be noted that panicking will not make the calamity go away, and in fact it makes it worse.

4 – It should be noted that missing out on the reward for patience and surrender, which is mercy and guidance that Allāh has granted as the reward for patience and turning to Him [by saying Inna Lillāhi wa inna ilayhi raji'ūn (Verily to Allāh we belong and unto Him is our return)], is worse than the calamity itself.

5 – It should be noted that panicking makes one's enemy rejoice and makes one's friend feel sad; it makes Allāh angry and makes the shaytān happy; it destroys reward and weakens resolve. If he is patient, seeks reward, strives to please Allāh, to make his friend happy and to make his enemy sad, and seeks to relieve his brothers of their burdens and to console them before they console him, this is steadfastness and a sign of perfection – not slapping one's cheeks, rending one's garment, wishing for death and being discontent with the divine decree.

6 – It should be noted that what comes after being patient and seeking reward is pleasure and joy that is many times greater than what he could have got from keeping what he lost. Sufficient for him is the "house of praise" that will be built for him in Paradise as a reward for his praising his Lord and turning to Him [by saying Inna Lillāhi wa inna ilayhi raaji'ūn]. So let him decide which of the two calamities is greater: a calamity in this world, or the calamity of missing out on the house of praise in eternal Paradise In al-Tirmidhī it is narrated in a marfū' report: "On the Day of Resurrection people will wish that their skins had been cut with scissors in this world, when they see the reward of those who were struck with calamity." One of the salaf said: Were it not for the calamities of this world, we would come empty-handed on the Day of Resurrection.

7 – It should be noted that the One Who is testing him is the Most Wise and the Most Merciful, and that He – may He be glorified – did not send this calamity in order to destroy him or cause him pain or finish him off, rather He is checking on him, testing his patience, acceptance and faith; it is so that He may hear his du'ā and supplication, so that He may see him standing before Him, seeking protection, filled with humility and complaining to Him.

8 – It should be noted that were it not for the trials and tribulations of this world, a person could develop arrogance, self-admiration, a pharaonic attitude and hardheartedness which would lead to his doom in this world and in the Hereafter. It is a sign of the mercy of the Most Merciful that He checks on him from time to time with the remedy of calamity so as to protect him from these diseases, to keep his submission and servitude sound, and to eliminate all bad elements that may lead to his doom. Glory be to the One Who shows mercy by means of testing, and tests by means of blessing, as it is said:

Allāh may bless us with calamities even if that is hard, and Allāh may test some people with blessings.

9 – It should be noted that the bitterness of this world is the essence of sweetness in the Hereafter, as Allāh will turn the former into the latter. Similarly the sweetness of this world is the essence of bitterness in the Hereafter. It is better to move from temporary bitterness to eternal sweetness than the other way round. If this is still not clear to you, then think of what The Prophet [صلى الله عليه وسلم] said: "Paradise is surrounded with difficulties, and Hell is surrounded with desires".

3- . أن يعلم أن الجزع لا يردّها – أي : المصيبة - بل يضاعفها ، وهو في الحقيقة من تزايد المرض

4 أن يعلم أن فوات ثواب الصبر والتسليم وهو الصلاة والرحمة والهداية التي ضمنها الله على الصبر - والاسترجاع أعظم من المصيبة في الحقيقة .

5 أن يعلم أن الجزع يشتمل عدوه ، ويسوء صديقه ، ويغضب ربه ، ويسر شيطانه ، ويحبط أجره ، ويضعف نفسه ، وإذا صبر واحتسب وأرضى ربه ، وسر صديقه ، وساء عدوه ، وحمل عن إخوانه وعزائمه مرفوعاً : ( يود يعزوه ، فهذا هو الثبات والكمال الأعظم ، لا لطم الخدود ، وشق الجيوب ، والدعاء بالويل والثبور ، والسخط . على المقدور .

6 أن يعلم أن ما يعقبه الصبر والاحتساب من اللذة والمسرة أضعاف ما كان يحصل له ببقاء ما أصيب به لو بقي عليه ويكفيه من ذلك " بيت الحمد " الذي يبني له في الجنة على حمده لربه واسترجاعه ، فليُنظر أي المصيبتين أعظم : مصيبة العاجلة ، أو مصيبة فوات بيت الحمد في جنة الخلد ، وفي الترمذي مرفوعاً : ( يود ناس يوم القيامة أن جلودهم كانت تقرض بالمقاريض في الدنيا لما يرون من ثواب أهل البلاء ) ، وقال بعض السلف : لولا مصائب الدنيا لوردنا القيامة مغاليس .

7 أن يعلم أن الذي ابتلاه بها أحكم الحاكمين ، وأرحم الراحمين ، وأنه سبحانه لم يرسل إليه البلاء ليهلكه به ، ولا ليعذبه به ، ولا ليجتاحه ، وإنما افتقده به ليمتحن صبره ورضاه عنه وإيمانه وليسمع تصرعه وابتهاله ، وليراه طريقاً ببابه ، لا نذراً بجنابه ، مكسور القلب بين يديه ، رافعا قصص الشكوى إليه .

8 أن يعلم أنه لولا محن الدنيا ومصائبها لأصاب العبد من أدواء الكبر والعجب والفرغة وقسوة القلب ما هو سبب هلاكه عاجلاً وأجلاً ، فمن رحمة أرحم الراحمين أن يفتقده في الأحيان بأنواع من أدوية المصائب تكون حمية له من هذه الأدواء ، وحفظاً لصحة عبوديته ، واستقراً للمواد الفاسدة الرديئة المهلكة منه ، فسبحان : من يرحم ببلائه ، ويبتلي بنعمائه ، كما قيل :

قد ينعم الله بالبلوى وإن عظمت ويبتلي الله بعض القوم بالنعم

أن يعلم أن مرارة الدنيا هي بعينها حلاوة الآخرة ، يقلبها الله سبحانه ، كذلك وحلاوة الدنيا بعينها مرارة -9 الآخرة ، ولأن ينتقل من مرارة منقطعة إلى حلاوة دائمة خير له من عكس ذلك ، فإن خفي عليك هذا فانظر ( إلى قول الصادق المصدوق صلى الله عليه وسلم : ( خُفَّتِ الجنة بالمكاره ، وحفَّت النار بالشهوات

— Al-Imām Ibn al-Qayyim [رحمه الله] | Zād al-Ma'ād [4/189-195]

Remember these wonderful words..

“How wonderful is the affair of the believer, for his affairs are all good, and this applies to no one but the believer. If something good happens to him, he is thankful for it and that is good for him. If something bad happens to him, he bears it with patience and that is good for him.”

عَجَبًا لِأَمْرِ الْمُؤْمِنِ إِنَّ أَمْرَهُ كُلَّهُ خَيْرٌ ، وَلَيْسَ ذَلِكَ لِأَحَدٍ إِلَّا لِلْمُؤْمِنِ ، إِنَّ أَصَابَتُهُ سَرَاءٌ شَكَرَ فَكَانَ خَيْرًا لَهُ ، وَإِنْ أَصَابَتْهُ صَرَاءٌ صَبَرَ فَكَانَ خَيْرًا لَهُ

It would not be an exaggeration to say the majority of the problems of this Ummah come from insincerity, especially of Talabatul ‘Ilm and ‘Ulamā.

If me and you learn for the sake of Allāh, we go about and teach for the sake of Allāh, the pure unadulterated teaching, and it is all for the sake of Allāh, can you tell me where the tyrants are going to find so-called shuyūkh to give them the free open fatwā? Today some ‘Ulamā give a blank paper to the tyrant rulers with the bottom of it signed and stamped. Go ahead and just write whatever you want on the top. The tyrants need ‘Ulamā to back them to stay in power. Sisi needs it and other tyrants need it. That is why they always turn to them. Now if there was Ikhlās, where would the rulers find these people?

The Virtue of Learning & Teaching #Arabic..

To highlight the virtue of the Arabic language it is sufficient to note that it is the language of the Holy Qur’ān, the eternal miracle, which was revealed to be a way of life for mankind until the Hour begins. Allāh [سبحانه و تعالى] chose the Arabic language to be the vessel which would carry this light and guidance to mankind. This is mentioned in approximately ten places in the Qur’ān, such as the verse in which Allāh [سبحانه و تعالى] says:

“And indeed We have put forth for men, in this Qur’ān every kind of similitude in order that they may remember.”

“An Arabic Qur’ān, without any crookedness [therein] in order that they may avoid all evil which Allāh has ordered them to avoid, fear Him and keep their duty to Him” • [az-Zumar 39:27-28]

“The Arabic language is the symbol of Islam and its people.”

اللسان العربي شعار الإسلام وأهله

— Shaykh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyyah [رحمه الله] | Iqtida' al-Sirāt al-Mustaqīm [1/519]

The author also said in his book...

“Moreover, the Arabic language is part of this religion, and learning it is obligatory and essential. Understanding the Qur’ān and the Sunnah is an obligation, and they cannot be understood except by understanding the Arabic language. Whatever it takes to complete an obligation is in itself an obligation.

وأيضاً – فإن نفس اللغة العربية من الدين، ومعرفتها فرض واجب، فإن فهم الكتاب والسنة فرض، ولا يفهم إلا بفهم اللغة العربية، وما لا يتم الواجب إلا به فهو واجب.

Hence when the early Muslims went to live in greater Syria and Egypt, where the people spoke Byzantine Greek, and in 'Irāq and Khurasān, where the people spoke Farsī, and the Maghrib [North Africa] where the people spoke Berber, they taught the people of those countries to speak Arabic, so that Arabic became the prevalent language in those lands, and all the people, Muslim and kāfir alike, spoke Arabic. Such was also the case in Khurasān in the past, then they became lax with regard to the language and got used to speaking Farsī until it became prevalent and Arabic was forgotten by most of them. Undoubtedly this is makrūh.”

The reward that the one who learns Arabic attains because of his worship and the manners that he learns from Arabic, the one who teaches him or her will have a similar reward, in shā Allāh, and that will not detract from the reward of the one who does those things in the slightest.

Finally got my account back, so I can save a few posts and print them out. Just found some unclear ID of mine and it worked, anyways haters can keep reporting me as much as they like, as if it does anything :))

Alhamdulillah, I am learning more as I get older, and I've decided to stop using Facebook like I did in the past. I have learnt that it's best to speak less & avoid getting into arguments with others.

Inshā'Allāh I can spend my time doing much more beneficial things, so you won't see me post or comment as much as I used too. However if someone has a question, inshā'Allāh I can direct you to what the Scholars have stated & help you out.

May Allāh وتعالى سبحانه guide this Ummāh. Btw, I haven't forgotten about the posts I want to share & your questions, so there's no need to remind me inshā'Allāh, Jazākum Allāhu Khayran

Love and Comfort Between Spouses..

“Allāh may He be exalted says: “and [then] He has created from him his wife [Eve], in order that he might enjoy the pleasure of living with her” • [al-A'rāf 7:189]

In this verse we see that Allāh created Hawwā' from Adam so that he might enjoy the pleasure of living with her. I.e. find comfort in her. Elsewhere Allāh said that He created the spouses of Adam's offspring likewise. That is the verse in which Allāh says:

“And among His Signs is this, that He created for you wives from among yourselves, that you may find tranquillity in them, and He has put between you affection and mercy.”” • [ar-Rūm 30:21].

. قوله تعالى: { وَجَعَلَ مِثْلَهَا زَوْجَهَا لِيَسْكُنَ إِلَيْهَا } الآية . ذكر في هذه الآية الكريمة أنه خلق حواء من آدم ليسكن إليها، أي: ليألفها ويطمئن بها ، وبين في موضع آخر أنه جعل أزواج ذريته كذلك ، وهو قوله : { وَمِنْ آيَاتِهِ أَنْ خَلَقَ لَكُمْ مِنْ أَنْفُسِكُمْ أَزْوَاجًا لِتَسْكُنُوا إِلَيْهَا وَجَعَلَ بَيْنَكُمْ مَوَدَّةً وَرَحْمَةً }.

— Shaykh ash-Shanqīti [رحمه الله] | Adwa' al-Bayān [2/304-305]

“There is no love between any two souls greater than that that exists between the spouses.”

Disbelieving in the Tāghūt is a must, so Erdogan believes in Democracy & promotes secularism with an islamic twist. We must affirm his Ēmān & Kufr bit-Tāghūt before we speak about the "good" he has done, and I do agree he has brought back some islamic principles, but at the same time, he invaded Afghānistān & kills muslims. So is it allowed to commit all the KUFR in the world, under the banner of "establishing shari'ah in stages", this is not right.

Whoever abandons Jins al-'Amal is a Kāfir by the consensus of the Muslims.

Note: Abandoning Jins al-'Amal (جنس العمل) means that you leave off the manifest obligatory actions in Islām. So it's when you claim to have Ēmān in your heart by uttering the Shahādatayn, but don't follow that up with actions, such as Salāh, Siyām, Zakāt, Hajj, obeying your parents etc...

I think it's great to see people giving reminders & their insights on matters, however there needs to be a balance. Too much reminders and advice is not good, rather you should show the way. If you say something or someone is wrong, then at-least give them an alternative & tell them what's right, don't leave them hanging in condemnation.

Think about why you are on Facebook, is it to please Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) or the creation? This is something you need to ponder over. Help others out, share what you've learnt, tell others to follow the proofs without attacking them, and without hurting their feelings, statements and opinions. Don't act as an authority in the differed upon matters, because your Shaykh might have proof, but it's weak, or he might apply it mistakenly, or there might be stronger proofs than what he has, so always safeguard yourself in the likes of these differed upon issues. However, there are clear cut issues & claiming "difference of opinion" in every issue is ignorance, if it is absolutely clear, we are obliged to follow the text.

The adab of seeking knowledge really requires a full lecture, and the student usually learns his manners from his teacher, so we need to be aware of some things, also in addition to this, everyone is behind a screen lol, and we all know how different many people act behind screens.

SubhānAllāh, this post even applies to myself as well, because I do post a lot of reminders & give my own advise to others, both online & personally, so Inshā'Allāh I've got lots to work on, managing my time is a big one, may Allāh(جل وعلا) make it easy for us all. [Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl said not to spend more than 30 mins a day on Social Media ﷻ spend a few hours at-least, sometimes most of the day]

Today is also Jum'ah, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would wear his nicest clothes, smell nice & prepare himself for the sermon, so have a good day & try implement what you hear in the Mosque, be a nice & real person, and cheer others up with a smile, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Allow others to speak, SubhānAllāh the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) wouldn't interrupt anyone until they have finished what they have to say. Just relax ya'nī & don't rush someone, let them speak in peace. I just felt that it was necessarily to address this issue, because many people ignore what others have to say, and just want their words to be heard, this is not good, we must be fair & calm with each other. Some people need some heart softeners, allow the Qur'ān to soften your heart.

The following is an extract from al bidaya wan-nihayah (10/254) of ibn Kathir rahimullah and Siyar A'lamun Nubala' (10/60) by imam adh Dhahabi rahimullah, The poem is an extract from Al bidayah .(wa nihaya (10/256) by ibn kathir and Diwanush-shafi'ie (page 88

It is all taken from the book Al Aqidat-ul Imam al Araba'a (7/92-93)of Muhammad ibn Abdur-Rahman

,al-Khumayyis
,The following is all about Imam shafi'ie

And his strict adherence to the Sunnah reached the point that he used to advise his companions to" stick to it, so he used to say 'Stick to the people of hadith, since they are the most correct amongst the people.' And he said 'if I see a man from amongst the people of hadith, then it is as if I have seen a man from the Companions of the Prophet SallAllahu Aleyhi wa sallam. May Allah subhanahu wa ta'la reward them with good, they preserved the foundations for us, so they have an ,excellence over us.' And he rahimullah recited the following verses of poetry

;All forms of knowledge besides the Quran is a pre-occupation'

;Except for the hadith and knowing the fiqh (jurisprudence) of the religion

'...Knowledge is that which contains 'he said...' Or 'he informed us

'.Anything other than that is from the whisperings of the Shaytan

What is the ruling on imitating animal noises?

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) has prohibited this in Majmū' al-Fatāwah and he has mentioned 6 reasons for that. He has also alluded towards this in other places, where he said that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given the son of Ādam certain characteristics, and has given cattle certain characteristics, so it's not permissible for the son of Ādam who Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has honoured to imitate cattle/animals.

A group of Fuqahā' dislike it, and do not consider it forbidden, but as for Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), then he see's it completely prohibited, and that whoever imitates bird noises, cattle noises, wild animal noises, then he is completely prevented from that, and upon the other saying that it's disliked.

Those who do not prohibit it say there's no textual evidence regarding the impermissibility of imitating cattle, and mimicking a noise is not a prohibition, and the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Whoever imitates a people, then he is from them" i.e. Imitates the Kuffār, or the people of innovation & misguidance, wherein imitating them results in affection & harm, and as a result of that, there would be mildness/softness in al-Walā' wal-Barā', and what would occur from imitating them openly is that it creates love & affection on the inside, so they say this is not present in imitating the sounds of the birds, so that's why they dislike it out of care & remaining on the safe side.

. Both need nourishment to survive; (water) for the tree; (Qur'ān and Sunnāh) for the believer

. Palm tree is (very) firmly rooted in the earth and that's the Ēmān of the believer in his heart

Tree does not live everywhere, some places with good fruit, some without fruit, some with sour fruit, like Ēmān

Healthy palm trees produce datss throughout the year like the deeds of a believer going to (سبحانه وتعالى)Allāh

. Every single part of a palm tree is used and is useful in someway or another, like a believer

! Leaves of a palm tree don't fall like the supplication of the believer never go unanswered

You Will Be With Those Whom You Love

A man asked the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), "When will the Hour be established O Allah's Apostle?" The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) asked, "What have you prepared for it?" The man said, "I haven't prepared for it much of prayers or fast or alms, but I love Allāh and His Apostle." The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said, "You will be with those whom you love." [Sahīh al-Bukhārī]

What a great blessing this is - if you love the Muslims, you will be with the muslims, but if you love the Kuffār wal-'iyāthullāh, then you will be with the Kuffār!

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) allow us to be with those whom we love on Yawm al-Qiyāmah & in Jannāt al-Firdaws.

Is it possible for the 4 great Imāms & other than them to come up with innovations? Of Course it is, they have statements which are Bid'ah & no proof to back them up, but they are not deprived from the blessings & rewards from Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) for all their efforts. The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said the Hākim who makes Ijtihād & is correct receives 2 rewards & if he was mistaken, he receives 1 reward. Everyone has words which are accepted & rejected except the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

Radwan Dakkak Imām Mālik(الله) رحمه الله has a Riwayah saying it's a Bid'ah, this is mentioned by Imām ibn Rushd(الله) رحمه الله & others.

10 July 2016 12:31

"Mālik denounced saying Bismillāh before wudū', and said: I haven't heard of this, does he intend to make a sacrifice?" [1]

[1] Refer to "al-Tāj wal-iklīl" (1/347) and "Hāshiyat al-'Adawī" (1/182): And some Scholars did not view beginning [wudū'] with saying Bismillāh as an ordainment of Good according to the Salaf, rather they saw it as an ordainment of Munkar.

~ This is from al-Shaykh Dubyān ibn Muḥammād al-Dubyān's book, and if you read the rest of the chapter, he weakened the Hadīths & the arguments used by the Majority of the Scholars. Likewise Shaykh al-Muḥaddīth 'Abdullāh al-Sa'd(الله) حفظه الله & Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(الله) حفظه الله said it's not prescribed & this coincides with the stronger evidences.

was asked: "What is the dividing border between Muwālāt and (حفظه الله)Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr"?Tawallī? And how do we distinguish between the two

The Shaykh responded by saying: Tawallī to the Kuffār is Major Kufr, and there is no Tafsīl in it.

:And it is of four types

.Loving [Mahabbâh] the Kuffâr because of their religion (1

Like the one who loves the people of Democracy for the sake of Democracy, and loves legislating parliamentarians, and loves modernists and the nationalists and the likes of them, due to their goals and their beliefs. So this one is a Kâfir with the Kufr of Tawallî said: "O you who believe! Do not take the Jews and Christians as Awliyâ' (سبحانه وتعالى) Allâh They are but Awliyâ' of each other. And if any amongst you takes them as Awliyâ', then surely he is [on of them" [5:51

Because from the meanings of "Walî" is "Muhibb" [one who likes, loves]; This was said by Ibn al- (in "al-Nihâyah" (5/228 (رحمه الله) Athîr [Tawallî through aid [Nusrah] and assistance [I'ānah (2

So whoever assists the Kuffâr against the Muslims, then he is a Kâfir, Murtadd. Like those who help the Christians and Jews against the Muslims said: "O you who believe! Do not take the Jews and Christians as Awliyâ' (سبحانه وتعالى) Allâh They are but Awliyâ' of each other. And if any amongst you takes them as Awliyâ', then surely he is [on of them" [5:51

And whoever wishes a detailed discussion on this matter, then let him return to the book of Shaykh Nâsir al-Fahad, entitled "At-Tibyân Fî Kufri man A'ân al-Amrikân", for it is indeed from the best of what was written on this topic. And do not let the deception of the People of Irjâ' fool you

[Tawallî through alliance [Tahâluḥ (3

So whoever allies himself with the Kuffâr, and contracts an alliance to support them, even if the support does not actually take place, but he promises it, as well as to back them up, and he forms :said (سبحانه وتعالى) a contract and a pledge upon that, [then it is as] Allâh

Have you (O Muḥammâd) not observed the hypocrites who say to their brothers, those who have" disbelieved, among the people of the Scripture: (By Allâh) If you are expelled, we too indeed will go out with you, and we shall never obey anyone against you, and if you are attacked (fought), we [shall indeed help you" [Al-Hashr:11

.And this pledge was given by the hypocrites to some of the Jews in Madînah

And al-Qâsim ibn Sâlim said in "al-Gharîb" (3/142), "And the Halîf [one who pledges loyalty] is also (said [similar words] in "al-Nihâyah" (5/228 (رحمه الله) called a Walî". And Ibn al-Athîr

And the like of this is seen in the forming of coalitions to wage war against Jihâd & the Mujâhidîn, [and it is what they falsely disguised as "Irhâb" [Terrorism

[Tawallî through agreement [Muwâfaqah (4

Like those who make Democracy as a way of ruling, just like the Kuffâr, or makes parliaments, just like them; or legislative councils, or committees, or organisations; just like the actions of the Kuffâr, then this one has made Tawallî to them

And this was expounded upon by the Imâms of the Da'wah of Najd in the most excellent manner. Books were even compiled regarding this, [specifically] the one who harmonizes with the Mushrikîn and Kuffâr regarding their Kufr & Shirk. As Sulaymân ibn 'Abdillâh ibn Muḥammâd ibn 'Abdûl compiled the book "Al-Dalâ'il" which is called "Hukm Muwâlât Ahlil-Isḥrâk" and (رحمه الله) Wahhâb compiled the book "Al-Najâti wal-Fikâki min Muwalâti al-Murtaddîn wa (رحمه الله) Hamd ibn 'Atîq "Ahlil-Isḥrâk

And each of these four types of Tawallî, is Kufr within itself [expels from the fold of Islâm], it does not matter what the person believes, unlike what is said by the People of Irjâ

:As for Muwâlât [and this is more wide-ranging than Tawallî], then it is of two types

A type that is called Tawallî, and it is the types that we have mentioned previously. And (1 sometimes it is termed, "al-Muwâlât al-Kubrâ", or "al-'Uḥmâ", or "al-Āmmah", or "al-Mutlaqah" - and all these are synonymous to meaning of Tawallî

.The minor or Restricted Muwâlâh (2

And it is everything that glorifies the Kuffâr, from honouring them, or letting them sit in front in the assemblies; or taking them as employees [instead of Muslims], and such things. So this is a [disobedience and from the Kabâ'ir [Major Sins said: "O you who believe! Do not take My enemies and your enemies as (سبحانه وتعالى) Allâh [Awliyâ', showing affection towards them" [al-Mumtahinah:1

So He labelled "showing affection" as Muwâlât - and He did not declare them Kuffâr due to it, rather He addressed them with the label of Ēmân about taking a (رضي الله عنه) And these Verses [referring to al-Mâ'idah:51] were clarified by 'Omar

.(رضي الله عنه)Christian as a scribe, when he rebuked Abū Mūsā al-Ash'arī

And whosoever desires an expansion of knowledge regarding this matter, then he should review the book "Awthaq 'Urah al-Ēmān" by Sulaymān ibn 'Abdillāh ibn Muḥammād ibn 'Abdīl Wahhāb رحمه in "Majmū'āt al-Tawhīd"; and the treatise "al-Muwālāh" of 'Abdūl Latīf ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān (الله) "which is found in his treatise in "Majmū' al-Rasā'il wal-Masā'il", (الله)

.This is the end of Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr's words called "showing affection" as Muwālāt - and (جل وعلا)Side Note: Regarding the verse where Allāh He did not declare them Kuffār due to it, rather He addressed them with the label of Ēmān. There's addressed them with the label of (عز وجل)an opinion from some scholars, that the fact that Allāh Ēmān doesn't necessarily prove that the action isn't Major Kufr. This was clarified by Shaykh 'Abdūl knows (سيحانه وتعالى)Qādir ibn 'Abdīl 'Azīz in his book "al-Jāmi' Fi Talab al-ilm al-Sharīf", and Allāh .best

It's extremely important to ask a Shaykh you trust regarding the deen & explain things for you, not laymen. However, if certain laymen have studied an issue or can direct you to what the scholars have stated, this is fine. But as for some personal questions, they should be sorted out by local Mashāyikh who know your situation & can examine it properly.

It's important to remember that when the Muhaditheen say "This is the strongest/most authentic Hadīth in the chapter", it doesn't mean that the Hadīth is authentic, rather it can mean that it's the "Most strongest weak Hadīth on the topic", so this is just advice for those who quote an Imām say هذا اصح حديث ورد في الباب ونحوه to mean that he authenticates the Hadīth, because this is a clear mistake.

Are we allowed to say Bismillāh before Wudū'?

Note: The Scholars define "Tasmiyah" as saying "Bismillāh" & define "Basmalah" as saying "Bismillāhi al-Rahmāni al-Rahīm", generally this is okay.

With regards to saying "Bismillāh" before Wudū', the scholars differed upon the following opinions:

1. That it's obligatory & this is what's popular in the Madhab of Imām Ahmad, a narration from the Madhab of Imām Mālik(الله رحمه).
2. That it's recommended & this is what's popular in the Madhab of Imām Abū Hanīfah, al-Shāfi'ī & Mālik, also a narration in the Hanbalī madhab as it was held by ibn Qudāmah(الله رحمه).
3. That it's not prescribed at all, infact it is a Bid'ah, and this is a narration from Imām Mālik(الله رحمه), which was mentioned by Imām ibn Rushd(الله رحمه) & others.

With regards to the Ahādīth on the topic, the Scholars also differed upon the following:

1. It is authentic, Imām Abū Bakr ibn Abī Shaybāh(الله رحمه) said "We believe the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said it" and several scholars that came after him followed this.
2. It is Hassan by supportive evidence. A group of scholars such as al-Mundhirī(الله رحمه) & ibn Kathir(الله رحمه) viewed that it was Hassan by strengthening the weak chains of narrations.
3. It is weak according to the Majority. Imām Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhi(الله رحمه) said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) also said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) says the Majority of the early Scholars of Hadīth are of the view that "There's not a single authentic hadīth in this topic"

How do we reconcile between Imām Ahmad's statement "It is Wājib" & "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic", Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) stated that it's possible that Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) authenticated the Hadīths by strengthening its weak chains of narration, but later on, he retracted this view & clearly saw the weakness of the chains & said "There's not a single authentic Hadīth in this topic"

Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) did not authenticate the Hadīths, however he viewed that it's permissible to say Bismillāh before wudū' based upon Qiyās[analogy], and he used the Hadīth where a person says Bismillāh before having relations with his wife, so he mentioned that it would be more deserving to say it before Wudū'.

However Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) was mistaken in his Qiyās because if this was the case, then we would have to say Bismillāh before the Takbīrāt at Hajj, and before we say the Adhān, and before we say Allāhu Akbar for Salāh, however no one has said this.

Also, to support the view that it's not prescribed to say Bismillāh before Wudū' is that it's not Authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) nor the Sahābah(رضي الله عنهم), and not a single Sahābī who described the Wudū' of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) mentioned that he said "Bismillāh", but rather they mentioned things which are of less importance.

You can do further research into the Authentic agreed upon narrations in Bukhārī & Muslim, such as the Hadīth of 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه), 'Abdillāh ibn Zayd(رضي الله عنه) and 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), they all described the wudū' of the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) without mentioning that he said Bismillāh, and these Hadīths are Muttāfaqun 'Alayh, so if the Basmallāh was memorized from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), the Sahābah would have mentioned this and explained it to us, but all the Hadīths that describe the Wudū' of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) mention that he didn't say Bismillāh.

NOTE: Even though I don't believe it's prescribed to say Bismillāh before wudū' as this is an act of worship & it requires authentic evidence, there's no blame upon an individual for following the opinion of a Mujtahid that he trusts والله اعلم

The reason why it's disliked to recite Qur'ān or make Dhikr in the toilet is because that's the place where the Shayātīn come out from as mentioned in the Hadīth. None of the Sahābah, Tābi'īn or Fuqahā' including the 4 Imāms permitted it, rather it was understood as something bad, and there's a narration from Abū Bakr al-Siddīq(رضي الله عنه) that he would place a stone in his mouth, so he wouldn't perform Dhikr on his tongue. I need to double check the authenticity of this narration, since I've heard it a couple years back, but the point is, you shouldn't make Dhikr in such a place, and the Hadīth of 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) where she said: "He [the Prophet] used to make Dhikr at all times", yes this is Hadīth is understood generally, but none of the Scholars understood this as meaning he would perform Dhikr in the bathroom, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

I don't know if it's wrong to say this, but does anyone ever look at their own 'Aqīdah & get the feeling that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) loves them. Having the gift of Ēmān & Yaqīn [Certainty] in my faith has to be one of the things I appreciate the most. And there's nothing more amazing than seeing Muslims return back to their deen, Wallāhi it's just amazing. You know, I just think about all the disbelievers trying so hard to extinguish the light of Islām, but they can't do anything to stop it from spreading. Even those famous Speakers/Shaykhs they pay to speak against our humble Shuyūkh are in a mess, like who honestly takes these guys seriously anymore? 🤔 May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) accept our Salāh, Siyām, Zakāt & good deeds, Alhamdulillah I can definitely say I've benefitted a lot from many posts, even the discussions on my own posts have helped me reconsider what I've learnt from the Scholars - I like to give advice & receive it from others, but don't always take my word for something, because I can be wrong, and Allāh(جل وعلا) knows best, may Allāh(جل وعلا) forgive my mistakes & shortcomings, wa Bārak Allāhu feekum 🙏

What's correct is that a Muslim should make up the days of Ramadān before fasting the 6 days of Shawwāl, because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

{Whoever fasts Ramadān and then FOLLOWS it with six days of Shawwāl}

This Hadīth that was reported by Abū Ayyūb(رضي الله عنه) is clear that a person should make up the missed days of Ramadān before fasting the 6 days of Shawwāl, the Hadīth states "whoever fasts Ramadān", and the person who has days to make up from Ramadān didn't fast Ramadān.

Secondly, what is the ruling on a woman who was in the state of Nifās throughout the month of Ramadān, and she spent all the month of Shawwāl making up the missed days she couldn't fast, now what is the ruling in fasting those 6 days of Shawwāl in Dhīl Qa'dah?

There are two opinions on the issue, the first opinion states that fasting the 6 days of Shawwāl are expired, and it can only be done during the month of Shawwāl.

However the second opinion is much stronger, and that it's permissible to fast the 6 days of Shawwāl in Dhīl Qa'dah if there was a valid excuse, because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) delayed the 2 rak'ah [which is among the sunan al-Rawātib] after Salāt al-Dhuhr till after Salāt al-'Asr, so likewise a woman who was in the state of Nifās throughout the month of Ramadān has a valid excuse, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Seeking knowledge should not make you arrogant & debate those who have lesser knowledge. Rather, seeking knowledge should make you humble yourself even more & be more appreciative of the source you are learning from. Try & Learn with others with proper manners, not in a way that shows you already know something by default even though you've never studied the issue before. Re-new your intention at all times, and ensure that your Niyyāh is to please Allāh(جل وعلا) and guidance for the Ummāh for His sake alone, not for a bunch of likes & praises. As they say "The more you learn, the more you realise how much you don't know", unlike the layman who memorises something & thinks he knows everything on the topic والله المستعان

#Part_1 - This is a #Refutation against those #Extreme Takfeeri's who say "Whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon the Mushrikeen: DISBELIEVES; Whether they are those who ascribe themselves to Islām or other than them"

And they differed over the basis & main cause behind his Kufr upon the following statements:

1. Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn: Didn't understand Tawhīd.
2. Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn: Didn't disbelieve in the Tāghūt.
3. Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn: Rejected what's known by necessity in the religion.

So these are the 3 biggest misconceptions among those who make Takfīr upon the 'Āthir, so let's go through each point inshā'Allāh:

Misconception #1: "Whoever said that a Mushrik is a Muwahrīd didn't understand Tawhīd"

This principle necessitates that whoever calls a Muwahrīd a Mushrik, then he's a Kāfir.

Or else it would be a Ruling without proof, the one who stated this must make Tawbah.

And this necessitates making Takfīr upon 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb(رضي الله عنه), because he called the Muwahrīd Hātīb ibn Abī Balta'ah(رضي الله عنه) a Kāfir.

So he either adhere's to making Takfīr upon 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), or that he repents to Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) from this False Principle, where no Hujjāh or Proof has ever been sent down by Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) regarding it.

So whoever makes Takfīr upon a Muslim with an acceptable Ta'wīl: He doesn't disbelieve because of Ta'wīl.

And whoever makes a Kāfir enter into Islām with an acceptable Ta'wīl: He doesn't disbelieve because of Ta'wīl.

And whoever differentiates between the two cases must bring forth proof.

And from the characteristics of the people of innovation is differentiating between 2 similar/identical matters.

And whoever calls a Mushrik a Muwahrīd, didn't call him a Muwahrīd because he was doing Shirk!

Rather he called him a Muwahrīd based upon the principle, which is his utterance of the Shahādātayn, or that he follows his parents or the land [he belongs too], or his acting upon the clear slogans of Islām which is exclusive to the Muslims.

So he ruled upon him with Islām, based upon his affiliation to Islām which he was previously on, and he dissociates from whoever does Shirk, and [the reason why] he didn't call him a Mushrik is because of his poor understanding regarding the preventions of Takfīr, and the preventions of Takfīr have unclear details attached to it, a person doesn't become a disbeliever if he mixes it up, except after it is explained to him, and did anyone who makes Takfīr upon the Drunken if he performs Shirk: Make Takfīr upon whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon the drunk person, because he [Āthir] believes that the state of being drunk is a preventive factor of Takfīr!

Misconception #2: "Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn didn't disbelieve in the Tāghūt"

Now is the description of Kufr bit-Tāghūt upon 1 level? [Believing in the falsehood of his worship, abandoning it, having hatred to it, performing Takfīr, and having enmity]

Whoever says "Yes": This necessitates making Takfīr upon whoever doesn't have enmity to the Mushrikīn, even if he was weak/oppressed!! And no one has ever stated this.

And whoever says: Showing enmity has Tafsīl [details], we would say, Yes, and likewise al-Takfīr has Tafsīl [details], among those who reject the Qur'ānic texts, and among those who confused themselves in understanding certain aspects of the preventions of Takfīr & it hasn't been made clear to him.

Just as Shaykh Sulaymān ibn 'Abdullāh(رحمه الله) regarding the one who refrained from performing Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn: "If he had doubts regarding their Kufr, or is ignorant about their Kufr: If you show him the proofs from the book of Allāh and the Sunnāh of the Messenger of Allāh صلى الله عليه وسلم regarding their Kufr, so if he has doubts after that or is unsure [whether he should make Takfīr or not], then he is a Kāfir according to the consensus of the Scholars, regarding the one that doubts the Kufr of a Kāfir, then he's a Kāfir" [Kitāb Awthaq 'Urah al-Ēmān]

And there's no proof from the Qur'ān & Authentic Sunnāh regarding the one that makes Takfīr upon him in all cases.

So how did you make Tafsīl regarding enmity, but not make Tafsīl regarding Takfīr?!! And among the characteristics of the people of innovation is differentiating between 2 similar/identical matters.

Misconception #3: "Whoever doesn't perform Takfīr upon the Mushrikīn has denied something which is known from the religion by necessity"

If the preventions of Takfīr were from the matters to be known by necessity in the religion, there wouldn't have been a difference of opinion in understanding it among many of its types such as "Intoxication, the Child, and Ignorance"

Infact, many of those who are affiliated among the people of knowledge have fell into mistakes, such as the Muhaddīthīn, Hufādh, Fuqahā', Usūliyyīn & other than them!!

And the matters known by necessity are known by the Scholars & the Laymen, and these preventions of Takfīr are not known by many of the Scholars, let alone the Laymen!!

So the preventions of Takfīr are either:

1. Agreed upon that it's from the preventions of Takfīr, by consensus of the Laymen, like "Compulsion".

2. Agreed upon that it's not from the preventions of Takfīr, by consensus of the Scholars, like "Ignorance in the Foundation of the Religion"

3. Differed upon that it's from the preventions of Takfir, like "The Child & Intoxication"

So there's a difference of opinion in understanding some of the preventions of Takfir, so how can we consider the issue clear, infact among the most clearest of clarity!!

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said: "And al-Takfir is from the severe warnings, even if the statement was in denial of what the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said, however the man could be new to Islām or he might've lived in a desert far away, and the likes of him are not performed Takfir upon from his denial of what he denied, until the Hujjāh is applied upon him - And the man might not have heard those texts, or he might've heard it, but it's not authentic according to him, or that he opposed it with another opposing text , which necessitates interpreting it, even if he was mistaken".

So the preventions of Takfir are many among its unclear Tafsīlāt. [Deep Details]

And Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said in his speech while he was condemning Ahlāl Kalām [those who study theology] in Majmū' al-Fatāwah [4/54]:

"And if this was from among the unclear statements, then it could be said: He is mistaken & misguided from it, the Hujjāh which declares its individual a Kāfir hasn't been applied, however that occurs among several groups from them in the Clear Matters which is known by the Scholars & Laymen among the Muslims that it's from the religion of the Muslims, infact the Jews & Christians know that Muḥammād(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has sent it and disbelieved in whoever opposes it"

So we must fear Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) regarding the issue of Takfir, and not perform Takfir except if one falls into a Nullifier which we have evidences from Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), and ensuring that our actions are not in response based upon the laxation of the Murji'ah in Takfir, so that we may be taken by laxation والله المستعان

The authentically narrated Ahādīth regarding the Taslīm in Salāh is to say "Asalāmu 'Alaykum wa rahmatullāh". This is the Sunnāh, and if you shorten it to "Asalāmu 'Alaykum", this suffices, however the addition "wa Barakātuhu" is anomalous [i.e. Not Authentic]. Simply say السلام عليكم الله ورحمة الله don't shorten it or add to it, this is what was mentioned by Shaykh al-Muhaddīth Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) around the 55th minute of his Sharh on Jāmi' al-Tirmidhī, lecture (3/29).

The view of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) is that it's a Bid'ah to recite the Qur'ān in the graveyard, regardless if you are reciting it to get closer to Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) or reciting it for the rewards to reach the deceased. The graves were not built for reciting the Qur'ān & this is the stronger view. The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Whoever innovates into our affair [i.e. Islām] that which doesn't belong to it, then it is rejected"

Likewise all the Hadīths regarding the virtues of Sūrat Yāsīn are very weak & fabricated, let alone reciting it over the graves. Yes, Imām Ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) mistakenly authenticated 1 Hadīth {Recite over your dead, [Sūrat] Yāsīn}, but he held this Hadīth upon reciting it upon their deathbed, not the graves. So even though some 'Ulemā' permitted it at the graves if it's between yourself & Allāh(جل وعلا), but the strongest view is that it's an innovation.

There is no crime for backbiting in 6 cases.

1. Muta'Thalimin متظلم

One who is oppressed and complains about a person.

2. Mu'arifin معرف

One who is known for a particular characteristic or description, such as al-A'mash (the sticky-eyed) Or (a'war) Blind one. Provided it's not from mere extreme name calling.

3. Muhadhirin محذر

One who is warned against due to his evil. Such as the Innovator.

4. Mujaahiran Fisqan مجاهر فسقا

The open sinner

5. Mustaftin مستفتي

The one seeking a verdict. Like when Hind رضي الله عنها went to Rasoolilaah ﷺ and said:

"Verily Abu Sufyaan رضي الله عنه (her husband) is a stingy man" (Sahih Ibn Hibban 4258)

6. Talab al-I'yaanata fi ezaal al-Munkar طلب الإعانة في إزالة المنكر

Seeking help to remove an evil. Such as saying:

"So and so doesn't pray, please advice him"

There is some whose brothers see their botox smiles, their slander and their harm, while they reserve their wholehearted smiles for their counterpart friends, enemies of Tawheed, on the interfaith round tables. They are willing to overlook a man's shirk and make it incumbent on one to have dialogue with him, but if you dare adopt the opinion that voting is harām, they will make you an outcast, spread lies and rumours about you, and try to get you behind the walls.

Unity with the grave worshippers is okay to them. Dialogue with the people of the trinity is Fardh 'Ayn. Brothering the shī'ah – that is on the top of the list and it is obligatory. But if you ever speak on the causes of the Ummah, speak to someone who speaks on the causes of the Ummah or learn from him, then woe to you. If you speak about the weak, those who are imprisoned, those who are killed and those who have no one to speak about them, then woe to you.

Pulpy and mushy they are with the enemies of Allah, and tusks and growls to the believers of Lā Ilāha IllAllāh. That is their characteristic.

Yes, have a laugh at these braindead animals (حفظه الله)whenever you want some entertainment, but use your time wisely. These extreme Takfeeri's who are famous for speaking about "Kufr bit-Tāghūt" & "Whoever doesn't call a Mushrik a Kāfir is a Kāfir" are the modern day Mu'tazilah, and after reading several books & comparing their Usūl & statements to that of the Mu'tazilah of the past, I truly understand what Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) meant when he described their sayings as that coming from the Mu'tazilah & Khawārij, Wallāhi it goes in-line 100% but this post won't do justice to refute them right now.

Alhamdulillah the matter is clear to me, but what I can share for now is the statement of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) & what he said in Minhāj al-Sunnāh(5/95):

"...However, from the realm of the people of innovation is that they innovate sayings & consider it obligatory [to be known] in the religion, infact they consider it apart of Ēmān which one must believe in, and they make Takfir upon whoever disagree's with them regarding it, and they declare lawful his blood, just like the actions of the Khawārij & Jahmiyyāh & Rāfidah & Mu'tazilah & other deviants, and Ahlāl Sunnāh do not innovate sayings, nor do they perform Takfir upon the one that is mistaken in his Ijtihād, even though their opponents [among the innovators] legalise their blood, just as how the Sahābah didn't make Takfir upon the Khawārij, even though they made Takfir upon 'Alī(رضي الله عنه رضي الله عنه) & 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه) and whoever supported them, and they declared lawful the blood of the Muslims who differed with them..."

#Response against those who say "Where is your proof regarding the differentiation between Kāfir Aslī & Kāfir Murtad(ascribes himself to Islām)". Why don't you make Takfīr on the 'Āthir [Excuser]? Here is something I've written up quickly, which I hope could clear some doubts.

If we return back to the Usūl, we will be able to understand the differentiation between the Kāfir Aslī & Kāfir Murtad, the General & the Specific:

1. Kufr can come from having doubts as mentioned by Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله), and this means a person can become a disbeliever from doubting Kufr, but there are impediments to this, so if there is a valid interpretation or misconception, a person will not disbelieve from having doubts.

2. The Kāfir Aslī follows a completely different religion other than Islām, so his Kufr is clear cut, known by necessity in the religion, so whoever refrains from performing takfeer upon him is a Kāfir. This includes the Christian, Jew, Majūsi, Buddhist, Sikh etc...

3. The Kāfir Murtad ascribes himself to Islām, follows aspects of the Sharī'ah regardless of how much distortion he has & utters the Shahādatayn. By principle, the one who says the Shahādah enters into Islām, even if he doesn't follow/abide to all the rulings of Islām, and Kufr/Shirk nullifies his Shahādah at the same time, therefore he'll be dealt with as an apostate. This was mentioned by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) and is in-line with the Usūl of the Salaf, without any difference of opinion.

4. Likewise the principle, whoever enters into Islām with certainty doesn't leave Islām except with certainty, so the emission of the Second Category [Kāfir Murtad] from Islām must be established, because the First Category [Kāfir Aslī] never entered into Islām to begin with.

So from this, we can see a difference between the First Category & Second Category, simply based upon the Usūl we are applying, according to Ahlāl Sunnāh wal-Jamā'ah.

Now let's start applying the Usūl into the Furū' to understand the differentiation between a Kāfir Aslī & Kāfir Murtad and I'll write up some FAQ's inshā'Allāh:

Question: What is the ruling on the one who refuses to call the Christians & Jews Kuffār?

Answer: Refusing to call Christians & Jews Kuffār involves having "Shakk" [Doubts], and Doubts can necessitate Kufr as stated in point #1. Now we need to look at whether this is an acceptable "Refrainment of Takfīr" & whether there is a valid misconception/interpretation which could excuse the individual from falling into the Kufr of Shakk or Tawaqqūf. We would apply point #2 in this instance because Christians & Jews are among the Kuffār Asliyyīn, i.e. Never entered into Islām to begin with, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has labelled them as such in the Qur'ān, so whoever refrains from performing takfeer upon them is denying the verses of the Qur'ān.

Question: Okay, but what is the ruling on the one who refuses to call the Buddhists & Sikhs Kuffār? Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) didn't mention their names in the Qur'ān like the Christians and Jews!

Answer: Likewise, refusing to call Buddhists and Sikhs Kuffār involves having "Shakk". Buddhists and Sikhs also belong to the first category of Kuffār Asliyyīn, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "Whoever follows a religion other than Islām, it won't be accepted from him" & Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "The only religion acceptable to Allāh is Islām", and as we know these Buddhists and Sikhs never entered into Islām to begin with & follow a completely different religion, therefore whoever doubts that they are disbelievers is also a Kāfir for denying the verses of the Qur'ān.

Question: Okay, we agree about the Original Kāfir's, whoever refuses to make Takfīr upon them is a Kāfir by Ijmā', but where is your proof to differentiate between the Kāfir Aslī & Kāfir Murtad? What is the ruling on the one who refuses to call grave worshippers & Rāfidah as Mushrikeen?

Answer: As we have stated above, whoever refuses to call the Kāfir Aslī a Kāfir has disbelieved by Ijmā', now let's talk about the Kāfir Murtad & the ruling on the one that refuses to call the grave worshippers & Rāfidah as Mushrikeen. So as I have stated, The Kāfir Murtad ascribes himself to Islām, follows aspects of the Sharī'ah regardless of how much distortion he has & utters the Shahādātayn. By principle, the one who says the Shahādah enters into Islām, even if he doesn't follow/abide to all the rulings of Islām. And we have the principle, "whoever enters into Islām with certainty doesn't leave Islām except with certainty", and Kufr/Shirk nullifies his Shahādah at the same time, therefore he'll be dealt with as an apostate [Kāfir Murtad].

So as we mentioned, "Doubts" can be Kufr, and the Grave Worshippers & Rāfidah are Kuffār & Mushrikeen. They belong to the Second Category [Kuffār Murtaddīn], so they say the Shahādah & ascribe themselves to Islām, and whoever says the Shahādah has entered into Islām. Therefore, the one who doesn't make Takfīr upon them is divided into the following categories:

1. If this person says grave worship & calling upon others besides Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) is not Shirk & Kufr and does/doesn't make Takfīr upon the grave worshippers & Rāfidah, then he has become a Kāfir for rejecting the verses in the Qur'ān.

2. If this person says grave worship & calling upon others besides Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) is Shirk & Kufr, but he refrains from performing Takfīr upon a specific grave worshipper, because of a misconception or interpretation, then this falls back to whether it is in denial & rejection of the Qur'ān. And this includes the following:

- If the grave worshipper was a Kāfir Aslī, and this person doesn't make Takfīr upon them, then he also becomes a Kāfir because as we previously agreed upon, whoever refuses to call the Kuffār Asliyyīn disbelievers has become a Kāfir by consensus.

- If the grave worshipper was a Kāfir Murtad, and this person doesn't make Takfīr upon them, then he doesn't disbelieve because of Interpretation & Misconception, and is this considered a valid Ta'wīl or Shubhā? Yes, because as we mentioned the Kāfir Murtad utters the Shahādah which makes him enter into Islām, and this person who refuses to make Takfīr upon him doesn't view him as a disbeliever because of a misconception or interpretation, and the Principle says "whoever enters into Islām with certainty doesn't leave Islām except with certainty". Therefore, this individual hasn't denied or rejected the verses of the Qur'ān, so even though he's wrong, we cannot make Takfīr upon him.

So this basically answers your question regarding the differentiation between the Kāfir Aslī & Kāfir Murtad, so what we say is that whoever refuses to make Takfīr upon the Kuffār Asliyyīn, whether their General Category or Individuals, he's a Kāfir for denying the verses of the Qur'ān, but as for the one who refuses to make Takfīr upon the Kuffār Murtaddīn, if it's regarding the General Category & their beliefs of Kufr & Shirk, then he becomes a disbeliever, but if he refrains from performing Takfīr on their specific individuals, while affirming their beliefs are Kufr/Shirk, then he is wrong, but doesn't disbelieve. The only time he would disbelieve is when evidence has been shown to him that this specific individual is a Kāfir & his misconceptions & interpretation has been removed.

Here's a Short Summary:

Firstly: Whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon what the revelation has stated regarding his Kufr individually, then he is a Kāfir, for e.g. Whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon Iblīs(لعنه الله), whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon Fir'awn(لعنه الله), whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon Hāmān(لعنه الله), whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon Abā Lahab(لعنه الله), whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon Abā Jahl(لعنه الله), why? Because he opposed the revelation and rejected the Book of Allāh(جل وعلا) and the Sunnāh of the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), so this is first of all.

Secondly: Whoever doesn't make Takfīr upon the Kuffār Asliyyīn[Original disbelievers] like the Jews, Christians, Zoroastrians, Buddhists, then he is a Kāfir, why? Because he opposed the speech of Allāh(جل وعلا) and the speech of the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding those people[Note: Only religion acceptable to Allāh is Islām], this is secondly.

Thirdly: Whoever refrains from making Takfīr upon who the scholars have agreed upon regarding his disbelief individually, then he is a Kāfir, that is why al-Imām al-Sakhāwī(رحمه الله) mentions from some of the Shāfi'iyyāh that they say, whoever doesn't call ibn 'Arabī the believer of Fusūs, this extremist[heretic] from the Ghulāt al-Sūfiyyāh, the person of al-Hulūl[belief of being in union with Allāh], he[al-Sakhāwī] says "They[Shāfi'iyyāh] said whoever refrains from making Takfīr upon him, then he's a Kāfir", whoever refrains from making Takfīr upon ibn 'Arabī, then he's a Kāfir, so whoever refrains from making Takfīr upon who the scholars have agreed upon regarding his disbelief individually, then he's a Kāfir, this is Thirdly.

Fourthly: Whoever is shown to him by Islamic proofs regarding the disbelief of Fulān[a person] among the people, then he refrains from calling him a Kāfir, he's a Kāfir.

And Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

I think a good way to bring brotherhood/sisterhood in the Mosques is if the Shaykh tells everyone to get up and hug the person next to them. We need to destroy this culture of keeping to yourself, let alone ignoring the SALAMS of your muslim brother/sister. SPEAK to people about their 'Aqīdah, yes at times, it can be controversial, but this is what TRULY brings unity. Without addressing 'Aqīdah, the only UNITY you are going to essentially bring is "Getting along with each other, let's forget about our differences". We must return back to the Qur'ān, Sunnāh & Salaf. Yes, we should be more lenient in Fiqh differences, especially if there's no explicit evidence on the topic, but differences in 'Aqīdah where we are even talking about Kufr or Shirk can never be tolerated.

So before you talk about "Unity", specify what you mean by unity, because most people today think unity is "Unite with Kuffār such as the Rāfidah & Sūfī Mushrikeen". If this is your definition of unity, then I disbelieve in it & in your filthy interfaith da'wah. My definition of unity is Walā' & Barā' to Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, hating shirk & its people, and loving Tawheed & its people.

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(الله رحمه) was very harsh against the innovators, however when it came to the disbelievers invading the Muslim Land, yes, he united with all the deviants that he would spend his life refuting, AS LONG as their deviation doesn't nullify their Tawheed, it doesn't mean we unite with those who have Shirk in Ulūhiyyāh & Rubūbiyyāh wal-'Iyāthubillāh, rather those polytheistic sects such as the Rāfidah & Bāṭiniyyāh would rejoice & side with the Kuffār against the Muslims, and this post won't do justice to cite all the historical facts for that, just looking at our current situation today is sufficient to explain their treacherous history.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) preserve those who call to the true unity, not fearing the blame of the blamers, and humiliate those who distort unity to suit their desires & whoever else they are trying to please.

You can learn a lot from attending lectures, but that's not what makes you a Scholar. Real Scholars spend most of their time reading, memorising, revising & most importantly acting upon what they've learnt. If you want to become a 'Ālim inshā'Allāh, do properly structured studies under the 'Ulemā', and put all your efforts into learning the Arabic Language until you truly perfect it, because this is the key to all the other Islāmīc sciences. Asalāmu 'Alaykum – Ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed! #Amazing_Response

The Imām of Tawhīd, Shaykh al-'Allāmah Hamūd ibn 'Abdullāh ibn 'Uqlā al-Shu'aybī(رحمه الله), the teacher of Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله), Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله), Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) & many others, refutes the Murjī' al-'Anbārī on the issue of #Ruling by other than what Allāh has revealed! He might not be famous to you, but as Imām Anwar al-'Awlaki(رحمه الله) said, we don't judge a person's knowledge based upon his fame, and Shaykh Hamūd al-'Uqlā(رحمه الله) is amongst the most knowledgeable Scholars of our era, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him. #Extremely_Detailed & this is Translated by another brother.

Shaykh Hamūd ibn 'Uqlā(رحمه الله) said:

Praise be to Allāh the Rabb of the 'ālameen, and the reward is for the muttaqeen, and there is no enmity except against the dhaalimeen, and I bear witness that there is none worthy of worship except Allāh, alone and He has no partner, the God of the first and the last and I bear witness that Muhammad is His slave and His Messenger. May Allāh send blessings upon him and his family and his companions collectively, and to proceed:

I have looked at all of the sayings of Khālid Al Anbārī and it has become clear to me by my reading of these sayings and some of his books that he is a murjī from the pure murjah; the ones that are under the school of thought of Jahm bin Safwān in Irjā. That is the school of thought which from its Usool is that no one disbelieves accept with rejection (Juhood) or Istihlāl, but as far as the one who knows Allāh and approves of Him, then he does not disbelieve and he does not leave the Millah. And this going astray has spread in this era, and this spreading was not due to anything except for him and the likes off him, so they have went astray and made people go astray. And Khālid Al Anbārī has lied upon the 'Ulamā of the Ummah and its A'immah, the ones who see the kufr of the one who rules with the fabricated laws. From those A'immah is our Shaykh; the Shaykh, the Imām, the Mujāhid Muhammad bin Ibrāhīm Āli Shaykh, may Allāh be merciful to him. And Al Anbārī has lied and changed and acted with the words of our Shaykh and lied upon him in many instances as it will become clear shortly. And he wanted to trick the people into thinking that the Shaykh sees that the ruling with fabricated laws needs explanation, and that he does not disbelieve unless he rejects and believes and makes that Halāl only, but if he rules with the fabricated laws without this then he is not a kāfir. And far as his lies they are as follows:

The first lie: Al Anbārī mentioned in his book (i.e. Al Hukm bi Ghayr mā Anzaal Allaah wa Usool At-Takfeer) on page 131 from the Risālāh of the Shaykh Muhammad bin Ibrāhīm, "Risālāt Tahkeem Al Qawaaneen," he said, "Verily in this Risālāh there is what indicates a clear indication that there is Tafseel." And he means by Tafseel what Al Anbārī goes on to say which is that the ruling with fabricated laws; the one who does this does not disbelieve accept with Juhood or Istihlāl. And the text that he narrated was as follows:

"So look how Allaah ta'ala recorded upon the rulers with other than what Allāh revealed the Kufr and the Dhulm and the Fusooq and from that which is not possible is that Allāh calls the ruler with other than what Allāh revealed a kāfir and then he not be a kāfir, rather he is a total kāfir, either kufr 'amilee or kufr 'atiqaadee. And what has come from Ibn 'Abbaas in the Tafseer of this Āyah from the narration of Tawoos and others indicates that the ruler who judges with that which Allāh did not reveal is a kāfir; either kufr 'atiqaadee, that you out of the Millah, or kufr 'amilee – that does not take you out of the Millah." And what he narrated is finished letter for letter.

However, he left what the Shaykh narrated and wrote after this, concerning the fabricated laws as the Shaykh said, "As far as the first; (which is) that the ruler judges with that which Allāh did not reveal, rejects the right of Allāh and His Messenger's Hukm. The second; that the ruler who judges by other than what Allāh revealed does not actually reject the fact that the Hukm of Allāh and His Messenger is the truth yet he believes that the hukm of other than the Messenger is superior to his Hukm and more encompassing. The third, that he does not believe that it is superior to the Hukm of Allāh and His Messenger yet he believes that his (own) hukm is equal to it. The fourth; that he does not believe that his hukm of the one who rules by other than what Allāh revealed is equal to the Hukm of Allaah and His Messenger and certainly not better than the Hukm of Allāh and His Messenger, yet he believes that it is permissible to rule with that which opposes the Hukm of Allāh and His Messenger. The fifth; and it is the greatest and the most encompassing and the clearest opposition of the Sharee'ah and stubbornness in the face of its laws and insulting to Allāh and His Messenger and opposing the courts of the Sharee'ah on their roots and branches and their types and their appearances and judgements and implementations the references and their applications. So just like the courts of the Sharee'ah there are references, all of them returning back to the Book of Allāh and the Sunnah of His Messenger sall Allāhu 'alayhi wa sallam like that, these courts have references, which are laws that are assembled from many legislations and laws like the laws like the laws of france and america and england and other laws and from the mathāib of some of the innovators who claim to be under the Sharee'ah,"until he said, "So what kufr is there beyond this kufr and what nullification of the Shahādah of Muhammadar Rasool Allāh is there beyond this nullification?

So look at Al Anbārī. He wants, with his aforementioned quotation, to reveal to you that the Shaykh does not make Takfeer concerning the fabricated laws. Even though here he says concerning them, "So what kufr is there beyond this kufr," meaning the ruling with the fabricated laws.

The second lie: Al Anbārī mentions in his sayings in the first statement, he said, "I have found other words of the Shaykh (i.e. Muhammad bin Ibrāhīm) in his Fatāwā Vol. 1/80. He (i.e. Muhammad bin Ibrāhīm) says words more clear than to need clarification dated 9/1/1385 five years after the publication of the ‘Risālah Tahkeem Al Qawaaneen.’ And soon we will quote the words of Ash-Shaykh Muhammad, but the point is that here he intended to convince the reader that the Shaykh turned back from his Fatwā concerning the fabricated laws and for this, he mentioned the date after it by five years so the later abrogates the first saying, while he mentioned the same saying, “and I do not say that he changed his opinion,” Yet, after that by about a few lines, he says that the Shaykh changed his mind so that he can mislead (the reader) and make it seem like he did actually change his mind. So he claims that he does not say that he (i.e. Muhammad bin Ibrāhīm) changed his mind and then he lies upon the Shaykh Muhammad that he (did actually) change his mind.

The third lie: that when he quoted him as having changed his mind, as he assumes from the Fatwā of Shaykh Muhammad Vol. 1/80, Al Anbārī said that the text of him changing his mind is, “And like that is the manifestation of the meaning Muhammad is the Messenger of Allāh from ruling with his Sharee’ah exclusively and discarding what opposes it from laws and conditions and other things which Allāh did not reveal and that the one who rules with it or takes the judgement to it, believing that it right and believing that it is permissible then he is a kāfir with the kufr which removes one from the Millah. And if he does that without believing that and thinking that it is permissible, then he is a kāfir with the kufr al ‘amilee, which does not remove one from the Millah.” Al Anbārī said, “So this clear explanation from the Shaykh Al ‘Allaamah Muhammad bin Ibrāhīm, may Allāh be merciful to him, is what I have based my book upon and I faced (i.e. opposed) the ones who make Takfeer to the Haakim unconditionally.” And this lie is responded to with answers:

How is it that the Shaykh would change his mind and it was unknown and not spread among his students and among the people? And if there was a change in his opinion, it would have not have been hidden from the Shaykh Muhammad Abdur-Rahmaan Al Qassim, the compiler of the Fatāwā of Shaykh Muhammad bin Ibrāhīm and his books. As well, he even mentioned the ‘Risālah Tahkeem Al Qawaaneen’ in the latter editions of the (published) Fatāwā. Even his student, the one who collected the Fatāwā, narrated the approval of Shaykh Muhammad in Vol. 12/284. Shaykh Muhammad said, “And the laws are Kufr, which takes one outside the Millah believing that they are Hakimah (i.e. applicable) and some of them see it greater.” Then he said, “As for the one who puts laws in order and to be submitted to, then this is kufr even if they say, “We have made a mistake. And the Hukm of the Shara’ is more just, because there is a difference between the one who approves and the implication and the reference. They made it a reference and this is kufr, which take one outside the Millah.” And Al Qassim also narrated under the chapter heading “Ruling with the laws is from the kufr al akbar,” and then proceeds to quote from the same Risālah Tahkeem Al Qawaaneen. So if there were any change of opinion, he would have made that clear or he would have omitted this Risālah and certainly would not have included it in the volumes who succeeded the volume which has been claimed to contain a change of opinion. And how would the Shaykh change his opinion from a general Fatwā, which became clear and widespread to that which would be contained in a specific letter written to a specific group? It would have been more likely that he would change his opinion in a general letter because the text wherein Al Anbārī claims to contain a change of opinion is within a specific letter of response which he wrote to the central committee of ‘Ulamā in Deli wherein he praises the committee and its aims to bring about a benefit. And we see that the Risālah Tahkeem Al Qawaaneen has been published multiple times and if there were a change of opinion, then its publishing would not have been repeated. The Shaykh ‘Abdullāh Ibn Jibreen, may Allāh preserve him, is from the students of the Shaykh and he objected to the those who claimed that Ash-Shaykh Muhammad bin Ibrāhīm changed his opinion like it is (written) in his commentary upon the words of Al Anbārī and they are in the first saying of Al Anbārī. And also, Al Lajnaa Ad-Da’imah lil Buhooth Al ‘Ilmeeyah wal Iftaa’; have declared about the book of Al Anbārī, “Al Hukm bi’Ghayr ma Anzaal Allāh wa Usool at-Takfeer,” “Lying upon the people of knowledge. From that, him attributing to the ‘Allaamah Shaykh Muhammad Ibrāhīm Āli Shaykh, that which he did not say.”

We will now return to the text, which Al Anbārī claimed contains a change of opinion and we will mention how it relates and its full text and it is in the Fatāwā of Shaykh Muhammad Vol. 1/78. And it is a letter of reply sent to the General Secretary for the Central Committee of ‘Ulamā (in) Deli. The committee decided to call upon the Islaamic committees and determine the opinions of its members concerning the laws, which are implemented for the sake of benefit in the Deen and the society, which are suitable for the Islaamic education and etiquettes while planning to raise general laws for the Muslims in India. So they asked Ash-Shaykh Muhammad questions concerning Fiqh so that they might benefit from his opinion concerning them (i.e. those issues). So he answered their Fiqh related questions but firstly, he made an introduction before proceeding with the answers:

“I would like to like to begin with a small introduction. From the things which please us and please every Muslim with Ghīrah about his Deen is that we find committees whose goal is to correct the conditions and to hold onto the basis of the Deen and its noble teachings. And also to wage war against everything, which opposes the Islaamic Sharee’ah from innovations and heresies and lies. And also, (to wage ware against) what is even more important than that, concerning what the atheists and zanadiqah and orientalists and others who attempt to enter into the beliefs of some of the Muslims by giving them doubts in the basis of their Deen and causing them to go astray from the Sunnah of their Prophet and his Sharee’ah and ruling with the fabricated laws, which oppose the Islaamic Sharee’ah. And more importantly, knowing the basis of the Tawheed, which Allaah sent His Messenger with and implicating it through knowledge and action and waging war against that which opposes it from shirk al akbar, which takes you outside the Millah or from the types of shirk asghar. And like that is the manifestation of the meaning Muhammad is the Messenger of Allāh from ruling with his Sharee’ah exclusively and discarding what opposes it from laws and conditions and other things which Allāh did not reveal and that the one who rules with it or takes the judgement to it, believing that it right and believing that it is permissible then he is a kāfir with the kufr which removes one from the Millah. And if he does that without believing that and that it is permissible, then he is a kāfir with the kufr al ‘amilee, which does not remove one from the Millah.” Completed word for word.

So Ash-Shaykh Muhammad spoke twice about the laws. In the first instance, he said, “the laws” and he added to that, “the fabricated,” and he considered the fabricated laws from the handiwork of the atheists and zanadiqah and orientalist, who have entered them upon the Muslims. So he encouraged the committee to wage war against it out of defence of the Muslims and he mentioned the fabricated laws here, under the category of the manifestation of Uloohiyyah and the meaning of Lā ilāha ill Allāh. As for the second instance where he mentioned the laws, it was under the category of the manifestation of Muhammad Ar-Rasool Allāh. And the point of concern here is that he did not add the word fabricated. Rather, he only added to it other things such as “laws and conditions and other things which Allāh did not reveal.” So he meant by “the laws and conditions”, innovations that the innovator adds, which nullifies the manifestation of the following of the Messenger. And he added to these laws and these conditions an explanation because it is from the category of bid’a. So he mentioned the laws twice; once in the meanings of the manifestation of the meaning of Lā ilāha ill Allāh and once in the meaning of the manifestation of the meaning of Muhammad Ar-Rasool Allāh. For this, they are two manifestations so their meanings are different. Otherwise, it would have been redundant. Also, in the first, he added to it, “the fabricated” and the second is isolated. He only added to it the “conditions and other things which Allāh did not reveal” and in this, there was a need of an explanation.

In any matter, this is an explanation based upon the positive assumption of the Shaykh Muhammad and also based upon his Fatwā concerning the fabricated laws and the fact that we let his words explain one another. This is more fitting than having his words contradict one another and claiming the change of opinion and contradiction and difference.

His lying upon our Shaykh Muhammad Al Ameen Ash-Shanqeetee, may Allāh be merciful to him, Al Anbārī quoted in his book “Al Hukm bi’Ghayr ma Anzaal Allāh wa Usool at-Takfeer,” on Pg. 70-71 and attempted to dupe (his reader) that Ash-Shaykh Shanqeetee does not see the fabricated laws as kufr as he narrates the words of our Shaykh Ash-Shanqeetee. And he is from the ‘Ulamā that Al Anbārī claims do not make Takfeer concerning the fabricated laws except with Juhood and this quotation which he mentions from Ash-Shanqeetee:

“And know that the reason for this part of the project is that Al kufr and Al dhulm and Al fisq; all of these have been used in the Shara’ sometimes intending sins and other times, the kufr which removes one from the Millah.

{And whosoever does not judge by what Allāh has revealed, such are the kāfirūn}

Not opposing the Messengers and abandoning the laws of Allāh, then his dhulm and his fisq does not take him outside the Millah.”

However, here he does not even mention the fabricated laws and Al Anbārī omitted the words of our Shaykh Ash-Shanqeetee, which are clear concerning the fabricated laws as he said in his Tafseer of Suratul Kahf, about the Ayaah:

{And He makes none to share in His Hukm.}

So he said, “And with these Heavenly texts that we have mentioned, it becomes quite clear that the ones who follow the fabricated laws, which the Shaytaan has legislated upon the tongues of his Awliyā and which oppose that Allāh, jala wa ’ala has legislated upon the tongues of His Messengers that no one doubts their kufr and their shirk except him who Allāh has removed his sight and has blinded them to the light of the revelation.”

And then Ash-Shanqeetee says immediately, “Take note: Know that it is wājib to differentiate between the invented institutions, which are kufr in the Creator of the Heavens and Earth to judge according to them and between the institutions, which aren’t.”

Then he said, “As for the legislative institutions, which contradict the legislations of the Creator of the Heavens and the Earth, then judging with these is kufr in the Creator of the Heavens and the Earth.”

Then he mentioned some of their laws concerning inheritance and marriage and Hudood and how they oppose the Shara’. Then he says, “So ruling by institutions such as these upon individuals and the society and their wealth and their property and minds and deen is kufr in the Creator of the Heavens and the Earth.” So how could he (i.e. Al Anbārī) omit these clear words concerning the fabricated laws for other than them?

His lie upon the Imām Ibn Katheer, may Allāh be merciful to him: As he quotes from him texts, which he uses to deceive (his reader) to show that he (i.e. Ibn Katheer) is among those who do not make Takfeer concerning the fabricated laws as he quotes from him on Pg. 69 among those who, he claims, do not make Takfeer concerning these laws. Even though Ibn Katheer has clear words concerning the Yasaaq of the Tartars stating that it is a collection of fabricated laws and he made Takfeer with that AND even going as far as narrating an ijmā’ upon this (matter) as he said, may Allāh be merciful to him, in his Tafseer of the Ayaah:

{Is it the Hukm of Jahiliyyah that they seek?} (Suratul Mā’idah)

He said, “Allāh, ta’ala makes Inkaar (i.e. vehemently objects to) those who turns away from Allāh’s Sharee’ah; the laws that are good for the Muslims; the laws that forbid what is evil. Allaā rejects those who follow laws of personal desires and who adopt laws of kufr such as the laws enforced by the Tartars who were under the control of Gengiz Khan, their king. These laws were a mixture of judaism, christianity and laws chosen by their king which suited his desires. Should we prefer these laws over the Sharee’ah of Allaah and His Prophet? Whoever does this is a kāfir and killing him is wājib.”

And Ibn Katheer said in Al Bidaayah wa Nihaayah, Vol. 13/118-119, “So whoever leaves the clear Sharee’ah, which was revealed to Muhammad ibn ‘Abdullāh, the Seal of the Prophets, and takes the hukm to other than it from the laws of kufr which are abrogated, he has disbelieved. So what about the one who takes the hukm to the Yasaaq and puts it before it? Whoever does that, he has disbelieved by the ijma’ of the Muslims.”

The other matter is how Al Anbārī quotes the words of ‘Ulamā who did not see the era in which the ruling with fabricated laws were introduced, rather they died before it. So he quotes their words (trying to) mislead and demonstrate that they (i.e. those whom he quotes) were upon his mathhab in that no one disbelieves with the ruling of the laws unless he makes Juhood or makes that Halaal. And this era, which came upon the Muslims and that is the ruling with the fabricated laws, did not occur except in the era of the Tartars during the time of Ibn Taymiyyah and Ibn Katheer. So he avoids quoting the words of these two, which (clearly) show the kufr of those who take the Hukm to the Yasaaq. And instead, in his aforementioned book, on page 138, he mentions that the Takfeer of Ibn Katheer and Ibn Taymiyyah towards the Tartars, was due to them possessing other nullifications besides the Yasaaq even though the words of Ibn Katheer are clear that the ruling concerning them based upon the Yasaaq.

Then this era fell (upon the Muslims) again and that was the era of ruling with the (fabricated) laws of the West during the military colonisation period of the Islaamic world when they brought their courts of law. So the ‘Ulamā who lived during this era spoke about it such as Shaykh Ahmad Shākir as he said during his verification of Tafseer Ibn Katheer of the Ayaah:

{Is it the Hukm of Jahiliyyah that the seek?}

He said, “The matter in these fabricated laws is clear with the clearness of the sun. It is clear kufr and there is nothing hidden about it and there is no excuse for anyone who attributes themselves to Islām, whoever they may be, to act according to it or to submit to it or to approve of it.” And also, Ash-Shaykh Mahmūd Shākir, whom Al Anbārī attempted to, in his book on page 131 deceive (the reader) into thinking that he does not make Takfeer for the fabricated laws except to the one who rejects (the Sharee’ah laws). Shaykh Mahmūd Shākir said, and his brother Muhammad Shākir narrated his words from him in Tafseer Ibnu Katheer, Mahmūd Shākir said, “and their (the Ibaadheeyah’s, a sect of the khawārij) question wasn’t about what the innovators of our time argue with. They were asking about the act of the judges in blood, money and property who went away from the Sharee’ah occasionally (based upon their occasional whims or desires) not about those who bring about a new legislation of laws upon the people of Islām and ruling with the hukm of other than what Allāh sent down in His Book or upon the tongue of His Messenger sall Allāhu ‘alayhi wa sallam. This action is turning away from Hukm of Allāh, being displeased with His Deen and being influenced by the laws of the people of kufr instead of the laws of Allāh. This is (the type of) kufr that there is no doubt about from the people of the Qiblah in declaring Takfeer upon the one who says it, does it or calls to it.”

And like our Shaykh Muhammad bin Ibraaheem , when he ruled concerning the fabricated laws and like out Shaykh Muhammad Ash-Shanqeetee, all of them as well as others from those who lived during the eras of the fabricated laws, it is more deserving that he (i.e. Al Anbārī) would take from their words concerning the laws. But instead, he brings other words concerning these laws to make one assume that they are upon his mathhab and his belief that the one who rules with these laws, does not disbelieve except with making it Halaal or with the rejection (of the Sharee’ah laws), therefore it would only be a major sin. Al Anbārī even goes further than that to claim that there is ijma’ that then one who rules by other than what Allāh revealed with the laws in Tashree’ Al ‘Aam does not disbelieve except for the one who makes it Halaal, knowing that Al Anbārī does not differentiate between the ruling by other than what Allāh revealed due to desire (i.e. in particular instances) or with the fabricated laws (in general); both of them being the same according to him. And if he narrated the ijma’, then he means all of them and he does not differentiate. But as for the ‘Ulamā of Islām, they have differentiated. And if they mention the ruling by other than what Allāh revealed, here they differentiate concerning the one who does it due to desire but if they speak about the fabricated laws, they do not differentiate between the one who makes it Halaal and the rejecter or the one who does it due to desire, just as the approval (of this concept) has passed of Muhammad bin Ibraaheem. As he said, “As for the one who puts laws in order and to be submitted to, then this is kufr even if they say, ‘we have made a mistake. And the Hukm of the Shara’ is more just,’ because there is a difference between the one who approves and the implication and the reference. They made it a reference and this is kufr which take one outside the Millah.”

And like that, is what we have narrated from Ibn Katheer that he made Takfeer from them (i.e. the tartars) taking the hukm (to the Tāghūt) so refer to his saying. And like him, is our Shaykh Ash-Shanqeetee and the two sons of Shākir and other than them. All of them did not differentiate concerning the fabricated laws.

This is what we have been able to put together as a refutation against him, quickly and busily and we ask Allāh to guide all towards what he loves and is pleased with and to let Al Anbārī and the likes of him, from the murjiatul ‘asr (i.e. the Murjiah of our era). To return to the mathhab of the Salaf of the Ummah. Verily, He is able to do all things. And may Allāh bless our Prophet Muhammad and his family and his companions altogether.

Asalāmu 'Alaykum - #Niqāb is Wājib & this is the best response I can share refuting those who take the statements of the Salaf out of context. There will be more evidences provided in the future inshā'Allāh: #Detailed_Response

Refuting the #Misconception that the Salaf permitted a woman to show her face. As I have shared in the past, the Jilbāb according to the definition of the Salaf is a garment which covers the whole body, and is used to cover the Face, as it's reported in Sahīh al-Bukhārī & Sahīh Muslim that 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) said "I veiled my face with my Jilbāb", and this is what's known from the sayings of the Sahābah, Tābi'īn & Salaf & there are several authentic narrations that attest to this.

But my main focus today is to speak about the Tafsīr of [Sūrat al-Nūr:verse 31]:

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {And tell the believing women to reduce [some] of their vision and guard their private parts and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof and to wrap [a portion of] their headcovers over their chests and not expose their adornment except to their husbands, their fathers, their husbands' fathers, their sons, their husbands' sons, their brothers, their brothers' sons, their sisters' sons, their women, that which their right hands possess, or those male attendants having no physical desire, or children who are not yet aware of the private aspects of women. And let them not stamp their feet to make known what they conceal of their adornment. And turn to Allah in repentance, all of you, O believers, that you might succeed.} [24:31]

So Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has mentioned the adornments in this Āyah, and he divided it into two types:

1. The Hidden Adornments, which by principle is not permissible to be shown, and that's taken from His statement: {and not expose their adornment}, then He followed that up with an exception, of what adornments can be shown to the people mentioned in the verse which I'll come to soon inshā'Allāh.
2. The Apparent Adornments, which can be shown to those who Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has specified, and that's taken from the Āyah: {and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...}

However, the misconception I want to remove is those people who use the Tafsīr of the Salaf of this Āyah {except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...} of what a Muslimāh is allowed to show to those Mahrams mentioned in the verse and apply it on the non-Mahram strangers! And inshā'Allāh I'll prove this very shortly.

So they will mention several statements of the Salaf of the Āyah {except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...} where 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), 'Abdullāh ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما) and al-Dahāk(رحمه الله) said that it's the "Face and Hands". Or that it's narrated from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), Mujāhid(رحمه الله) & Sa'īd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) that it's "Kuhl [eye-shadow], Khidāb [hennā on the hand] and the Khātam [ring]". Or that it's "Kuhl [eye-shadow] & Khātam [ring]" as mentioned by Anas ibn Mālik(رضي الله عنه). Or that it's "al-Kuhl [eye-shadow] and Khidāb [hennā on the hand]" as mentioned by 'Attā'(رحمه الله). Or that it's "al-Kuhl [eye-shadow]" as mentioned by al-Sha'bī(رحمه الله) & Qatādah(رحمه الله). Or that it's the "Face & Clothes [literally the outer garment]" as it's narrated from al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله) & Qatādah(رحمه الله). Or that it's "Kuhl [eye-shadow] & Clothes" as it has been reported from al-Sha'bī(رحمه الله). But what I previously mentioned from the Sahābah & Tābi'īn are the most authentic regarding the Tafsir of the Āyah.

These narrations from the Salaf can be found here: Refer to Tafsīr 'Abdūl Razzāq(2/56), Musannāf ibn Abī Shaybah(17281_17300), Tafsīr ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(17/258_261), and Tafsīr ibn Abī Hātim(8/2574_2575)

And the sayings of these pious predecessors is all related to the "Apparent Adornments" for the Mahrams who are related to the Muslimāh either by kinship or suckling/nursing, and it's not in any way referring to the non-Mahrams which I'll get too very shortly inshā'Allāh.

And to prove that their sayings are referring to the Mahrams is through other clear textual evidences from them, and this is can be seen through several aspects.

Among them is that all the authentic statements of the Salaf regarding the "Apparent Adornments" in the Tafsīr of this Āyah: {except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...}, it has been proven on every single one of them that they are clearly referring to Mahrams in specific, or that there's another really strong evidence in another place which proves this, so let's go 1 by 1 inshā'Allāh in deep detail:

1. As for 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), it's proven that he said: {The Apparent Adornments are: The face, Kuhl[Eye-Shadow], Khidāb [Henna] on the hands, and the ring, so this is what she can show in her house whenever someone enters upon her}, then he clearly stated:

then he stated: {And the Adornments that she can reveal to these people are: Her earrings, her pendants/necklaces, her bracelets, but as for her anklets, her bangles, her neck, and her hair, then she should not show it to anyone except to her husband}

This was collected by Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) in al-Sunan al-Kubrā(7/94) from the chain of 'Alī(رحمه الله) from Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), and it's authentic. Likewise it was collected by Imām Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/259) and Imām Ibn Abī Hātim al-Rāzī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/264,267).

Likewise, 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) said about the verse regarding the elderly women: {their is no blame upon them for putting aside their outer garments}: Ibn 'Abbās said: "al-Jalābīb(i.e. Putting aside the Jilbāb off her face)".

This was narrated by Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) in al-Sunan al-Kubrāh(7/93), Imām Ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(8/2641), Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/360), and it was also collected by Abū 'Ubayd(رحمه الله) in Fadā'il al-Qur'ān(page 307).

It's also authentically proven from 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) that he said in his Tafsīr of [33:59] {Allāh has ordered the believing women that whenever they leave their houses for a need, to cover their faces from above their heads with their garments [Jalābīb], and to leave open 1 eye}

This was narrated by Imām Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(19/181), Imām Ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) in al-Durar al-Manthūr(12/141) from the chain of 'Alī Ibn Abī Talha(رحمه الله) from 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه). And the book of 'Alī Ibn Abī Talha(رحمه الله) that he would use to narrate from 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) was strengthened & authenticated to be used as proof by Imām Ahmad Ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله), Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) & Imām Ibn Abī Hātim al-Rāzī(رحمه الله), refer to Fath al-Bārī(8/438-439) by Al-Hāfidh Ibn Hajr al-'Asqalānī(رحمه الله). This is a strong chain of narration & 'Alī Ibn Abī Talha(رحمه الله) would always narrate from 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) through an intermediary such as Mujāhid Ibn Jabar(رحمه الله), Sa'd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) & 'Ikrimah(رحمه الله).

It's also narrated from 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) that he said "She wraps the Jilbāb around her face"

This was narrated by Imām al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) in his Musnad(1/303 number 788), and in al-Umm(3/370-371), and Imām Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) in Masā'il al-Imām Ahmad(732).

So this is an explicit proof that 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) is of the view that covering the face is compulsory, and what he meant in the Tafsīr of Sūrat al-Nūr by "The face & Hands" was the Mahrams of the Muslimāh, not the Strangers, and likewise the companions & students of Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه) have similar narrated statements to that of 'Abdullāh Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), and they did not ask him about the non-Mahrams, it's not narrated at all, from its absolute clarity, and they were extremely modest, so many of those today who are used to seeing Tabarrūj will not understand the statements of the Salaf, because even in our times, we have women who go out dressed more immodestly to Strangers than the women of the Salaf used to dress in front of their Mahrams!

2. As for Sa'd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), it's authentically proven on him that the exception Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given for the elderly women in the Āyah, is to put aside the Jilbāb, and as we already know, the Jilbāb is what's used to cover the face according to the Salaf.

So Sa'd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) said: {She does not openly display adornments by putting aside her outer garment, so that her adornments can be seen from her}

This was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Hātim in his Tafsīr(8/2642).

3. As for 'Attā' Ibn Abī Rabāh(رحمه الله), it's authentically proven on him that he preferred a Muslimāh to cover her hair in the presence of her Mahrams, so he was asked about a man whether he can see a woman's head that's forbidden for him to marry:

So 'Attā' Ibn Abī Rabāh(رحمه الله) said: {Covering it is more beloved to me, and if they saw it, there's no problem}.

This was narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(17566) from the chain of 'Abdūl Malik(رحمه الله) from 'Attā'(رحمه الله) and it's authentic.

And it's also authentically proven that 'Attā'(رحمه الله) mentioned the same thing as Sa'd Ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله) regarding the elderly women and that the Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given an exception to the elderly women, which is to {put aside her Jilbāb}, and as we know the Jilbāb is what's upon the face.

4. As for Mujāhid Ibn Jabar(رحمه الله), it's authentically proven from him that he doesn't permit a Muslimāh to put aside her veil in the presence of a disbelieving woman, so how can we hold his statements regarding the "Apparent Adornments" {The ring, Hennā on the hand, and eye-shadow} and apply it to the non-Mahram men from the Muslims & Mushriks?!

Layth(رحمه الله) has narrated from Mujāhid(رحمه الله) that he said: {A Muslimāh cannot take off her veil in the presence of a Mushrikāh[polytheist women], and she isn't allowed to greet her, because Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "Or their women(muslimāhs)", and they [Mushrikāhs] are not from among our women}

This was narrated by Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) in al-Sunan al-Kubrāh(7/95), and Sa'd Ibn Mansūr in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1576). And the narration of Layth(رحمه الله) from Mujāhid is a documented book & transcript, this was mentioned by Imām Ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله), refer to al-Thiqāt(7/331) and it's authentic.

It's also authentically proven from Mujāhid ibn Jabar(رحمه الله) that the exception Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given the elderly women is {to put aside her Jilbāb}, i.e. To uncover her face & has stated the same thing as 'Attā'(رحمه الله), Sa'd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), Ibn 'Abbās(رحمه الله) and all of the Salaf have agreed to this.

Refer to Tafsīr al-Tabarī(17/361,363-364) and it's in Tafsīr Mujāhid(2/444), also refer to Sunan Sa'd ibn Mansūr(al-Tafsīr/1617).

5. & 6. As for the saying of 'Āmir al-Sha'bi(رحمه الله): {eye-shadow and clothes}, and the saying of 'Ikrimah(رحمه الله) the companion of ibn 'Abbās(رحمه الله): {The face, and the collarbone (of the neck)}, it's also authentically proven from them that he used to prohibit a Muslimāh to put aside her veil in the presence of her Uncles [on both the father & mother's side], as opposed to the majority of the scholars who permitted it, so how can anyone hold their Tafsīr regarding: {and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...} and then say they permit a Muslimāh to show her face, neck, kuhl to the non-Mahram strangers, while they are extremely strict & prohibit showing the face, neck & eye-shadow to the Mahrams that aren't mentioned in the Āyah?

Dāwud(رحمه الله) has narrated from al-Sha'bi(رحمه الله) & 'Ikrimah(رحمه الله) regarding the verse: {and not expose their adornment except to their husbands, their fathers, their husbands' fathers, their sons, their husbands' sons, their brothers, their brothers' sons...} all the way till he completed the verse:

They(al-Sha'bi & 'Ikrimah) said: {He did not mention the uncles[on the father & mother's side] because they belong to their sons, and they(al-sha'bi & 'ikrimah) said: She cannot put aside her veil in the presence of her uncles}

This is narrated by Imām ibn Abi Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(17580), and from his chain of narration, it was narrated by Imām ibn Mundhir(رحمه الله) as it's present in Tafsīr ibn Kathir(10/220), and it was narrated by ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(10/220).

And this is supported by another narration which is narrated by Jābir(رحمه الله) from 'Āmir al-Sha'bi(رحمه الله) that he disliked it if all Mahrams would see the hair of a Muslimāh.

This is narrated by Imām Ibn Abi Shaybah(رحمه الله) in al-Musannāf(17569), so it shows that al-Sha'bi(رحمه الله) was very strict on having some Mahrams see her hair.

And it's also authentically proven from al-Sha'bi(رحمه الله) the exact same thing as what has been proven on 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رحمه الله), Sa'd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), Mujāhid(رحمه الله), 'Attā'(رحمه الله) & others, that the exception Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) gave the elderly women in the Āyah of Sūrat al-Nūr, is putting aside the Jilbāb.

This is narrated by Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/363).

7. As for al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله), then it's authentic from him that he doesn't allow a brother to see his sister without a headcovering, so it's authentic from the chain of Hishām(رحمه الله) from al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله) regarding the woman, can she put aside her head-covering in the presence of her brother? He replied: {Wallāhi she isn't supposed to do that}

This was narrated by Imām ibn Abi Shaybah(رحمه الله) in al-Musannāf(17568) and it's authentic, and this is proof that al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله) was referring to the Mahrams in his Tafsīr of Sūrat al-Nūr when he said: {The face & the clothes}, and the Salaf wouldn't ask about the non-Mahrams from their Immense Taqwā [righteousness & god-consciousness].

And it's authentically proven from al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله) the same as what 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رحمه الله), Sa'd ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), 'Attā'(رحمه الله), Mujāhid(رحمه الله), al-Sha'bi(رحمه الله) & others regarding the exception Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given to the elderly women in the Āyah pertains to putting aside the Jilbāb.

This was narrated by Imām 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(2/63) and Imām Ibn Abi Hātim(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(8/2641-2642).

8. As for al-Dahāk(رحمه الله), to prove that he's speaking about the Mahrams, is what Muzāhim(رحمه الله) authentically narrated from him, that he said: {If I entered upon my mother, I would say to her: Cover your Head}

This was narrated by Imām Ibn Abi Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(17574 & 17576).

9. As for Qatādah(رحمه الله), the same thing has been authentically proven on him like the others regarding the exception Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) gave the elderly women.

It was collected by Imām Ibn Abi Hātim al-Rāzī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(8/2640). So this shows that there's no difference of opinion amongst the Sahābah, Tābi'īn & Salaf that the verse of Sūrat al-Nūr is referring to the Mahārim.

10. It's authentically proven from Abi Sālih(رحمه الله) & 'Ikrimah(رحمه الله) that they said: {The Apparent Adornments is what's above al-Dir'(chest, torso)}

This is narrated by Imām ibn Abi Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(3/383). And الدرع is the clothes of the house, not the clothes when you go out as it's well known, because al-Dir' reveals with it the hair & neck, and it's prohibited to reveal this to the strangers by Ijmā'.

11. It's also authentically prove from Imām Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله) that the Apparent Adornments is al-Dir'.

This is narrated by Imām Ibn Abī Hātim(10/109), and al-Tahāwī(رحمه الله) in Sharh Ma'ānī al-Āthār(4/332) with an authentic chain.

12. It's authentically proven from Tāwūs(رحمه الله) that: {there was nothing more disliked to him other than a Mahram seeing the 'Awhā of the other}, he said: {He used to dislike for her(Muslimāh) to take off her head-covering in his presence(Mahram)}

This was narrated by 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in al-Musannāf(12831) from the chain of Ma'mar(رحمه الله) from ibn Tāwūs(رحمه الله) from his father(Tāwūs) and it's authentic.

13. As for 'Abdullāh ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), he also mentioned that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given an exception for the elderly women to put aside her Jilbāb.

Imām ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Tafsīr(8/2641) and it was collected by Sa'īd ibn Mansūr in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1616).

So from this Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) has placed a chapter-heading in his Sunan from ibn 'Abbās's Tafsīr of the verse: {and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof...}, so he said:

{Chapter: What a woman can show from her adornments to those mentioned in the verse from among her Mahrams}

Then he mentioned the statement of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) which says: {The Apparent Adornments are: The face, eye-shadow, hennā on the hand, and the ring, so this is what she can reveal in her house to those who enter upon her}

This was narrated by Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) in al-Sunan a-Kubra(7/94), Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/259) and ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(8/2576) as it was referenced before, so refer back to it & the chain is authentic according to Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله), Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) & Imām Abū Hātim al-Rāzī(رحمه الله) as it comes through the chain of 'Alī ibn Abī Talha(رحمه الله) from ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما).

Likewise, Imām ibn 'Abdīl Barr(رحمه الله) has mentioned that showing the adornments are for the Mahrams, not the Strangers, so he said: {Indeed, the Mahrams that are related through kindship or suckling are not to be concealed from, nor to be covered up in front of except for the 'Awṛāt, and the woman is a 'Awhā(to the Mahrams) except for her face & hands}

14. It's authentic from 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) that he said: {The Apparent Adornments are: The Clothes}.

This was narrated by Imām 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(2/56), Sa'īd ibn Mansūr in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1569), Imām ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(17282 & 17296), Imām ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(17/256-257), Imām ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) in his Tafsīr(8/2573-2574) & others.

Likewise, this is what all his companions from 'Irāq have said such as Imām Abī al-Ahwas(رحمه الله), Ibrāhīm al-Nakha'ī(رحمه الله), al-Hassan(رحمه الله), ibn Sīrīn(رحمه الله) & others, and Mujāhid(رحمه الله) said the same thing.

Refer to Sunan Sa'īd ibn Mansūr(1571), Musannāf ibn Abī Shaybah(17285,17289,17293), Tafsīr ibn Jarīr(17/257) & the statement of Mujāhid can be found in Tafsīr ibn Abī Hātim(8/2574).

And what is meant by al-Thiyāb or "The Clothes" is what's beneath the Jilbāb, so it's the clothes that are worn traditionally in the house, and the Jilbāb simply covers it up, but the clothes she wears beneath the Jilbāb, it's permissible for the Mahrams to see that, because "Adornments" can be explained as being "Clothes" as Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: {Take your adornments at every Masjid} [Sūrat al-A'rāf:31] i.e. The adornments of your clothes, and this is what Imām Abū Ishāq al-Sabī'ī(رحمه الله) used to explain the statement of 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه), so he recited that verse when he narrated the Tafsīr of ibn Mas'ūd from the chain of Abī al-Ahwas(رحمه الله) from ibn Mas'ūd(رحمه الله) & it's authentic.

Refer to Tafsīr 'Abdūl Razzāq(2/56) and Tafsīr ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(17/257).

15. It's also authentic from Imām al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) that he said: {There's nothing wrong for the man to look at the front hairs of a woman from beneath the veil, if he was a Mahram, but as for her taking off the complete veil in front of him, then she shouldn't}

This was narrated by Imām 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(12829).

Likewise Imām ibn Shihāb al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) said regarding whether a woman can take off her veil in front of a Mahram: {As for him seeing a little bit [of her hair] from beneath the veil, that's fine, but for her to take off her veil completely, then No}

This was narrated by Imām 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) in his Musannāf(12830) from the chain of Ma'mar(رحمه الله) from al-Zuhri(رحمه الله) and it's authentic.

So all these authentic narrations from the Salaf show you how pious they were in their modesty & how much chastity they had, and it's also very important to mention that the Tafsīr of the Sahābah regarding the "Apparent Adornments" where they mention that it's the Face, this doesn't mean that they prohibit a woman to show her hair to those Mahrams, but rather it's from the amount of modesty that they had, which is why you'll find many statements of the Salaf saying they ask their mother to cover her head before they would enter upon her, but what the scholars such as Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله), Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī(حفظه الله), Shaykh Nāsir al-Fahad(حفظه الله) & Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr(حفظه الله) would say is that the Shari'ah is taken a bit more lightly in these areas, so what we believe is that a Muslimāh can show her hair to her Mahram, but the point of relating all these narrations from the Salaf is to place their statements in the right spot, not apply them in the wrong topic.

16. I would like to finish this with an amazing narration from Hafsa bint Sīrīn(رضي الله عنها) which was narrated by 'Āsim al-Ahwal who said: {We entered upon Hafsa bint Sīrīn, and she put the Jilbāb on like this(explaining what she did), and covered her face with it(the arabic text mentions Niqāb), so we said to her: "May Allāh have mercy upon you! Allāh(جل وعلا) said: "And women of post-menstrual age who have no desire for marriage - there is no blame upon them for putting aside their outer garments [but] not displaying adornment."[24:60] (and it's the Jilbāb), so he said: She said to us: "What is after that?" So we recited: "But to modestly refrain [from that] is better for them." [24:60], so she said: It is to keep the Jilbāb on}

This was narrated by Sa'īd ibn Mansūr(رحمه الله) in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1618), and Sa'dān ibn Nasr(رحمه الله) in his "Juz'"(page 60) and from the chain of Sa'dān(رحمه الله), Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) has collected it in his Sunan al-Kubrā(7/93) and it's authentic.

So here we have an explicit evidence from Hafsā bint Sīrīn(رضي الله عنها) regarding the Āyah that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given an exception for the elderly women to take the Jilbāb off the face as long as it's not beautified, "But to modestly refrain [from that] is better for them" as Hafsā bint Sīrīn(رضي الله عنها) mentioned, and the Hadīth explicitly describes her as wearing the Niqāb.

And all the Salaf are in agreement that the exception given in this verse is to take the Jilbāb off the face, so how can those people apply the statements of the Salaf where they can show the Face & hands to the Mahrams and apply it to the non-Mahrams?! If a Muslimāh was really allowed to show her face & hands to the Non-Mahram men, then what is the purpose behind this Āyah where Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given an exception for the old women to show her face, and this exception is exclusive for them, so this proves that the younger women are obliged to cover the face from the Strangers among the Men, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Admins, you guys are doing a good job, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) accept your efforts & sadaqah.

But just a quick reminder to myself & you guys inshā'Allāh - We must all improve in our 'Ibādah [acts of worship], and obviously we've all got so much to learn, so don't forget to ask Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) to grant you a profound understanding of the deen & spend more time in seclusion with Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى).

There are so many things that I'm unable to break down & understand in the deen, but when you ask Allāh(جل وعلا) for guidance & keep drawing closer to Him, you will find yourself understanding the Qur'ān & Sunnāh much better with the help of Allāh(عز وجل).

Speak less, do more & grow wiser as a person. Jazākum Allāhu Khayran 🤲

نعم هذا الحديث صح له جماعة كالترمذي والحاكم وفيه اختلاف كما اشار اليه الامام النسائي رحمه الله، لكن اعل هذا الحديث الامام النسائي والامام الدارقطني بالانقطاع لان عبد الله بن بريدة لم يسمع من عائشة رضي الله عنها، وهذا قاله ايضا الشيخ سليمان بن ناصر العلوان، والشيخ مقبل بن هادي الوادعي والشيخ عبد الله السعد وغيرهم من المحدثين والله اعلم

I just want to mention something very important inshā'Allāh, and it's with regards to many people who say "Some scholars said this" or use differences of opinion to leave the evidences mentioned in the Qur'ān & Sunnāh. Shaykh al-Turayfī حفظه الله says those who just claim to follow the "most correct opinion" are extremely lenient and blind followers, and it shows you the difference between the one who searches for the truth and the one that chooses an opinion for his desires, here is what the Shaykh mentioned:

Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī(الله حفظه) said:

Many people mistakenly perceive that a mere difference of opinion amongst the scholars in one of the issues, permits a Muslim to chose among that whatever he wishes, and this, according to the Consensus of the Scholars [even among the disputers themselves], is wrong, and this meaning was reiterated by the Imāms, such as Ahmad(1), Bukhārī(2), al-Muzanī(3) who is the companion of al-Shāfi'ī(الله رحمه), Ibn Hazm(4), Ibn 'Abdīl Barr(الله رحمه), al-Shātibī(5), Abī al-Faraj al-Jawzī(6), al-Khattābī(الله رحمه), Ibn Taymiyyāh(7) & others.

Imām ibn 'Abdīl Barr(الله رحمه) said in al-Tamhīd: "And the Muslims are in agreement that the difference of opinion isn't a proof, and that he must be compelled to ask for the proof and evidences, to clarify the truth from it"(8).

And he said in al-Jāmi': "Difference of opinion is not a proof according to anyone that I know of from the Fuqahā' of this Ummāh, except for one who has no foresight, nor any understanding, nor any proof in his speech"(9)

And al-Khattābī(الله رحمه) said: "Difference of opinion is not an evidence, and showing what's in the Sunnāh is an evidence against the disputers"(10)

"What difference does it make whether Mursī or Mubārak rule? Oppression is the same and most importantly Shari'ah was not chosen to rule"

Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl حفظه الله also said that Mursī brought more Shī'a influence into Egypt than Mubārak did in his whole rule.

That's why Mursī went to Irān when he became president.

The men of the past were men that as soon as they turned to knowledge, to learn it, it was seen on their appearance, in their Khushū', in their humility, their humbleness, in their tongues, in their hands. When one lacks etiquettes and manners, you think they do not know the knowledge of it? You think they do not know about their tongues and their hands and their slanders? You think they do not know it? They do, but it is the wrath of 'ilm Lā Yanfa'. Why else would the Prophet صلى الله عليه وسلم emphasise in his Du'aa? اعوذ بك من علم لا ينفع [Translates as - "O Allāh I seek refuge in You from knowledge that does not benefit"]

This is a very nice short book(73 pages) clarifying that all the Rāfidah are Kuffār & refuting the misconception of differentiating between the scholars & laymen blind followers.

Shaykh 'Alī al-Khudayr حفظه الله also recommended some books to return back too regarding the Rāfidah:

- Minhāj al-Sunnāh by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh رحمه الله
- Al-Khutūt al-'Arīdah lil-Usas al-Lati Qāma 'alayha deen al-Shī'a al-Imāmiyyāh by Muhib al-Deen al-Khatīb.
- Kasr al-Sanam Fī Naqd Kitāb Usūl al-Kāfi by al-Barqaī
- Usūl Madhab al-Shī'ah by Nāsir al-Qafārī
- Hiwār Hādī' bayn al-Sunnāh wal-Shī'a by 'Abdullāh al-Junayd

And there are many other beneficial books on the topic, if you really want to learn about the 'Aqīdah of the Rāfidah, Dr 'Alī al-Sallābī even has a decent book comparing the Khawārij to the Rāfidah & ibn Taymiyyāh has clearly mentioned extremely harsh words against the Rāfidah that the khawārij are no way as close to them in emission from Islām and evil, and the Imāms of Tawheed who have read Ibn Taymiyyāh's books clearly see that Ibn Taymiyyāh made takfeer upon the general masses of the Rāfidah and their heads, but unfortunately some people mix up ibn Taymiyyāh's words when he's speaking about the Early Shī'as & apply it to our times.

As Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl حفظه الله said in the Tawheed classes "Both the scholars and general masses of the shī'a are kuffār", he is also wanting to write a book on this topic, inshā'Allāh he gets the chance too, imagine a scholar who studied his whole life writes a book which you could read in 1 day, it shows you how much you must appreciate the works of the 'Ulemā'.

More than 11 Imāms of the Salaf narrated the Du'ā after the Adhān from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh(رحمه الله) & none of them mentioned the addition "innāka lā tukhlifu al-mī'ād", except for Muḥammad ibn 'Awf, but all the other 11 Imāms are greater than him, therefore his addition is Shāthā [anomalous], and it's not prescribed to act upon it.

#Repost regarding the authentic ad'iyaḥ to be performed after the Adhān:

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān(حفظه الله) was asked about the authentic supplications to be made after the Adhān, so he replied by saying:

The Sunnāh for whoever hears the Mu'athān calling for the prayer is to say exactly what he says, except in the 2 Hayyā's [Salāh & Falāh], so he says "Lā Hawlā walā Quwwāta ilā billāh". And if he finishes from repeating after him [the Mu'athān], it's a Sunnāh for him to send prayers over the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) has narrated in his Sahīh [Hadīth #348] from the chain of Ka'b ibn 'Ijīqimāh from 'Abdūl Rahmān ibn Jubayr from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Amr ibn al-'Ās that he heard the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) say:

"If you hear the Mu'athān, then say exactly what he says, then send prayers over me, for whoever sends prayers over me, Allāh will send 10 prayers over him, then ask Allāh for my intercession [on the day of Judgement], for verily it is a level in Jannāh which isn't for anyone except for a slave from the slaves of Allāh, and I hope that I am him, so whoever asks for my intercession, the Shafā'ah will be permissible for him"

And al-Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) narrated in his Sahīh the description of the du'ā after the call to prayer, he said I was informed by 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh who narrated from Shu'ayb ibn Abī Hamzāh from Muḥammad ibn al-Munkadīr from Jābir ibn 'Abdillāh that the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"He who says after the call to prayer: Allāhumma Rabī hathīhi al-Da'wat al-Tāmah wal-Salāta al-Qā'imah Āti Muḥammadan al-Wasilah wal Fadīlah wab'ath Maqāman Mahmūdan alāthi wa'adtuhu, my Shafā'ah will be permissible for him on the day of judgement"

And it was narrated by 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī(رحمه الله) and Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) in his Musnad [3/354] and Muḥammad ibn Sahl al-Baghdādī and Ibrāhīm ibn Ya'qūb and a group from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh similar to the narration in Bukhārī, and it was narrated by Muḥammad ibn 'Awf from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh and he added onto the ending "Innāka Lā Takhluf al-Mī'ād" it was collected by al-Bayhaqī in his Sunān [1/410]. And this addition is شاذة [Errent, not authentic].

The Hufādh 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī(رحمه الله), Ahmad(رحمه الله), al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) and a group of scholars have agreed upon the narration from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh without this addition.

And the Taffarrūd [Singular Narration] of Muḥammad ibn 'Awf from 'Alī ibn 'Ayyāsh is not accepted. And where does his narration fall compared to the narration of these Hufādh!

And the authenticating from some of the contemporary scholars to this hadīth with its addition is rejected, and the call that it's an addition from a Thiqaḥ [Trustworthy narrator] and the addition of a Thiqâh is accepted isn't correct, because the Imâms of Hadîth who examined/devoted their efforts in the 'îal [hidden defects] of the reports, those who specialise in that do not accept the addition of a Thiqa'h in all cases, and they do not rule upon this matter by an absolute ruling, generalizing every hadîth, rather they rule upon it by viewing all the chains of narration, and rule upon every addition with what it deserves.

And when 'Alî ibn al-Madîni(رحمه الله), Ahmad(رحمه الله), Bukhârî(رحمه الله) and others agree upon the narration of the hadîth from 'Alî ibn 'Ayyâsh without the addition, no doubt they are given preference over Muḥammad ibn 'Awf & his likes, and Allâh(جل وعلا) knows best.

I love listening to what others have to say, and I appreciate the conversations I have with family/friends. Don't be a person who only likes to criticise & focus on the negatives. And if you ever need to correct something, do it in the best possible way, even if you have to wait 1 hour for a person to finish speaking, remain patient & have humility. You know, I was sitting with a group of brothers & SubhânAllâh I enjoyed every moment of the conversation, listening attentively to what they had to say about deen/politics etc for a good time... And the brothers asked me "How come you don't tell us your opinion", I just smiled & told them, "Don't worry about my opinion :)) I like hearing you guys speak", lol I don't know whether they thought I was being serious or not, but the point is, listen to what others have to say & don't think that your opinion is more valuable than anyone else's.

Respected Shaykh Sulaymân ibn Nâsir al-'Alwân(حفظه الله), what is the authenticity of the reported Hadîth "Using a Siwāk before Salâh is better than 70 Salâh without a Siwāk"?

The Shaykh responded by saying: This Hadîth is not authentic, and there's no authentic chain for it, Imâm Ahmad(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Musnad(2/276) from the chain of Muḥammad ibn Ishâq(رحمه الله), he said...and he mentioned Muḥammad ibn Muslim ibn Shihâb al-Zuhrî(رحمه الله) from 'Urwa ibn al-Zubayr(رحمه الله) from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Using a Siwāk before Salâh is 70 times better than Salâh without a Siwāk"

And it was narrated by Imâm Ibn Khuzaymah(رحمه الله) in his Sahîh(137) except that he said, "if the report was authentic", and he said: "I have given an exception to the authenticity of this report because I fear that Muḥammad ibn Ishâq didn't hear from Muḥammad ibn Muslim, but he rather cheated from him" [i.e. Performed Tadrîs]

And 'Abdullâh ibn al-Imâm Ahmad(رحمه الله) said: My father said, if Ibn Ishâq "says"... then mentions a person, then he didn't hear from him.

And Imâm Yahyâ ibn Ma'în(رحمه الله) said: "This Hadîth is not authentic, and it's False/Absurd"

And Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said in al-Sunan(1/38), "And this Hadīth is feared to be one of the Tadiṣāt [cover ups] of Muḥammād ibn Ishāq, and that he did not hear it from al-Zuhri, and it was narrated by Mu'āwiyah ibn Yahyā al-Sudfi from al-Zuhri, and it's not that strong. And it has been narrated from another chain on the authority of 'Urwa from 'Ā'isha, and from another chain on the authority of 'Umrāh from 'Ā'isha, and they are both weak".

And the Hadīth has come with supporting narrations from the Hadīth of Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنه), which is narrated by Abū Nu'aym(الله رحمه الله).

And from the Hadīth of Jābir(رضي الله عنه), which is also narrated by Abū Nu'aym(الله رحمه الله).

And from the Hadīth of Ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), which is narrated by Abū Nu'aym(الله رحمه الله)

And there's nothing authentic from all these Hadīths at all, and they do not get raised to the level of "Hassan li-Ghayrihi" [Hassan due to supportive evidences]

Because it's not possible to accept this great reward from such weak chains.

And perhaps this is from the secrets of the Judgement of the [Early] Imāms upon this report with weakness at times, and at other times, they would judge upon it with absurdity, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Just because "you" haven't heard of something before, it doesn't mean it's wrong. And just because "you" hear about the same thing being repeated over and over again, it doesn't make it correct. Be a bit more open-minded & listen to others for what they have to say before making your own judgement. Would you ever stop a christian half way through their speech [even though they are saying kufr & shirk] & rebuke them? So let alone your Muslim Brother/Sister who you must love & show more kindness too [let alone if they're speaking the truth]. If you show more respect to the Kuffār than you do to the Muslims, then you need to reevaluate your Walā' & Barā' and start by showing more respect to your brothers & sisters on the Deen. Enough of this "fake love" for the sake of inviting Kuffār to Islām, while you are extremely harsh, rude and critical of your own brethren in Islām. Infact this is one of the characteristics of the Khawārij "Harsh on the Muwahiddeen, soft on the Mushrikeen"

Shaykh Muḥammād ibn Sālih al-'Uthaymīn(رحمه الله) says learning Arabic Grammar is hard to learn when you start off, but once you get past that beginners stage, it becomes easier and easier.

If you really want to excel, you must love the language of the Qur'ān & have the passion to speak it at all times. Ustādh Abū Tawbah even mentions, start speaking 50/50, ya3nī half english & half arabic in your conversations, then slowly get to that 100% Arabic freestyle speech with amazing fluency 🙌. Listen to Shaykhs, get exposed to hearing Arabic very often [english subtitles help], and read basic arabic books like Qasas al-Anbiyā' [Stories of the Prophets].

Go through the Tafsīr of the Qur'ān & learn the meanings of the words. Get exposed to it & ensure that you're reciting something you understand in your Salāh, because that way, you will retain the meanings of those beautiful words. The more you have the words of the Qur'ān on your tongue, it would be less likely to forget the meanings of those words. And you would eventually learn the meaning of every word in the Qur'ān & understand it just like you understand English [if it's your mother tongue].

Whenever you memorise a Sūrah, read the Tafsīr or Translation & I assure you, it will be retained in your mind just as you never forget Sūrat al-Fātihah & those "small" chapters of the Qur'ān you might always recite. There are books written on the method of memorising the Qur'ān & the Shinqīti's would memorise 5 verses a day [would take about 2 years to finish the Qur'ān].

Remember, the Messenger of Allāh صلى الله عليه وسلم said that small continuous good deeds are better than a lump sum of deeds if it's not done continuously. This is also advice for those who seek knowledge, 'ilm must be taken step by step as the Scholars say, and those who can continuously do a large amount of good deeds & remain steadfast in their studies are truly blessed, may Allah سبحانه وتعالى forgive me and you for any lack of deficiency in our studies. These were just some tips which I hope might help...

One of the worst people are those who oppress others in the name of Islām - Please don't use our beautiful religion to justify your oppression you low life dogs, and I assure you, most of these people don't know anything about Islām.

You can deceive & oppress the invulnerable, but just remember that Allāh سبحانه وتعالى is watching everything you do, you can't run away from al-Jabbār!

Also those people who study Islām just so they can argue & beat those who have lesser knowledge in debates have truly misunderstood what Allāh جل وعلا wants from them.

But may Allāh جل وعلا protect the sincere who only learn to change for the better & help others out, thinking about what they've said and whether it has pleased Allāh سبحانه وتعالى or not.

But how few are they in our times, as Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl حفظه الله would say "Just look around you and ask yourself, where are the people of the Haqq?!" ﷞ So true, they are so few in number ya Shaykh ☹

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) protect us and keep us steadfast upon the "Haqq" 🕋 We are all going to die one day, but the true message of Tawhīd will never die 😊

Is it permissible to pay Zakāt al-Fitr in Money instead of Food? [Detailed Question & Response]

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) was asked: A dispute has occurred between some of the brothers regarding the ruling of paying the Zakāt in money instead of Food. And everyone had his own opinion from an Islamic point of view, so I'll summarise it for you quickly:

The first person says: It is prohibited to pay the Zakāt al-Fitra in Money because it goes against what the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) did.

The second person says: It is preferred to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] in Food, and paying it with money is permissible, however it is in opposition to the Sunnāh.

The third person says: It's preferred to look at the situation of the poor person & the situation of his country and its environment, because money might be better for him.

So my question O respected Shaykh: Did any of the Salaf give a Fatwa to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] with money instead of Food? And is it better for someone to pay [Zakāt al-Fitr] with money because the needy prefers that?

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: This issue is one of the differed upon matters, and the Imāms of the Salaf differ regarding paying Zakāt al-Fitr with Money.

And saying this opinion or that opinion is more correct is a matter of Ijtihād, so no one should call the other person misguided or an innovator.

And the principle regarding the differences of opinion in the likes of this issue, is that it should not break the friendship & love between the disputers, nor to have fury in their hearts, for all of them are good, and there's no blame upon someone who concludes with [an opinion] of what he hears.

And many of the Imāms would say in their speech regarding the differed upon matters "Our statements are correct, while it could contain mistakes, and the statements of others are mistaken, but it could contain the truth"

And the Majority of the Imāms have gone to say that it's not permissible to take out Money for Zakāt al-Fitr, Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) said: "I fear that it won't suffice, it's in opposition to the Sunnâh of the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم)", and this is the Madhab of Mālik(رحمه الله) and al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله). And al-Imām Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) said: "Money does not suffice in any case to begin with, because that is not what the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has mandated"

And 'Attā(رحمه الله), al-Hassan al-Basrī(رحمه الله), 'Omar ibn 'Abdūl 'Azīz(رحمه الله), al-Thawrī(رحمه الله), Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله) and others have gone towards the permissibility of paying [Zakāt al-Fitr] with Money instead of Food, Abū Ishāq al-Sabī'ī [who is one of the Imāms of the Tābi'īn] said: "I have seen them pay the Sadaqah in Ramadān with Darāhim [Money] in its [equivalent] value for food" narrated by Imām ibn Abī Shaybah(رحمه الله) in al-Musannāf.

And the proof for that is:

1 - Is that there's no text proven from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) nor any of the Sahābah regarding the impermissibility of paying [Zakāt al-Fitr] with Money, and the reported Ahādith within the text mentioning a specific types of Food doesn't mean what's apart from it is forbidden [to give in Zakāt]

2 - The proof for this is that the Sahābah, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) be pleased with them, permitted taking out wheat [Which is not specified by the text] instead of barley, dates and similar to that from the different kinds that are narrated in the Authentic Ahādīth.

Infact, many of the Sahābah, rather most of them, during the era of Mu'āwiyah(رضي الله عنه) went towards the permissibility of giving out half a Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's] from the Sumrā'[Brown wheat] of al-Shām instead of a Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's] of dates, so this is a proof that they saw half a Sā' is equal to the price of a Sā' of dates or barley and similar to that.

3 - Also with proof that the purpose behind Zakāt is enrichment of the poor, and money is more beneficial for some of them instead of Food, so in that case, you would check to see the situation of the poor in every country.

4 - Also with proof that many of the needy take the Food and sells it on the same day or the next day below its actual price, so who would benefit more, the one that was given Food, or the one who was given the Money equivalent to the value of this Sā' [2.5-3.0 kg's], and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

What is the ruling on wearing a ring?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) mentions 3 situations:

1. It's worn as a tradition, then this is permissible.
2. It's worn to fend off the evil eye, then this is Minor Shirk.
3. It's worn to testify a marriage contract, then this is imitating the Kuffār, because this is from the exclusive characteristics of the Christians.

Conclusion: So wearing a ring has 3 different situations:

- It could either be Mubāh [Permissible], and some scholars have said it's a Sunnāh.
- It could either be Minor Shirk.
- It could either be Imitation of the Christians [Harām].

Why is the creation called 'Ālam?

'Ālam is derived from 'Alāmah, that is because it is a sign testifying to the existence of its Creator and to His Oneness.

~ Tafsīr al-Qurtubī [1/139]

The Meaning of Al-'Ālamīn (summary):

Al-Zajjāj(رحمه الله) said "Ālam encompasses everything that Allāh سبحانه وتعالى created, in this life and in the Hereafter" al-Qurtubī رحمه الله commented, "This is the correct meaning, that the 'Ālam encompasses everything that Allāh عز وجل created in both worlds."

Similarly, Allāh جل وعلا said "Fir'awn said: "And what is the Lord of the 'Ālamīn?" Mūsa said: "The Lord of the heavens and the earth, and all that is between them, if you seek to be convinced with certainty" [26:23-24]

Further Qatādah رحمه الله said about the verse {The Lord of the 'Ālamīn}, "Every type of creation is a 'Ālam"

When the crusaders entered Andalus, one of the first things they did was burn the books. When they conquered Andalus, a bishop with his hatred to Islam took eighty thousand books to the public square of Qurtubah and burned them all in one day. Then in 646 after the Hijrah, they burned the rest of the books for the Muslims. Why? Because they knew affirmatively that this is what uplifts this Ummah – knowledge and mainly we are talking about the knowledge of the Sharī'ah and the sciences of Islam.

As long as they have this knowledge, this Ummah will remain strong. They wanted to or they thought that they can take the Ummah away from this knowledge and away from its roots by burning their books. Little did they know the outline for the Ummah is in our hearts, and that they can never get to. It is not in ink and paper, it is in our hearts.

It's forbidden to wear rings with the seal of the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) on them.

In the past months I have observed a growing trend in people wearing rings engraved with the words محمد رسول الله (Muhammad the Messenger of Allah) upon them. They are based upon the well-known design used by the Messenger of Allah on his own ring which is attested to in many authentic aḥādīth such as the following:

كَانَ تَقْسِمْ خَاتَمُ النَّبِيِّ ﷺ مُحَمَّدٌ سَطْرٌ وَرَسُولٌ سَطْرٌ وَاللَّهُ سَطْرٌ

“The inscription on the ring of the Prophet ﷺ was in three lines: ‘Muhammad’ on a line, ‘Messenger’ on a line, and ‘Allah’ on a line.” [Tirmidhī 1747]

It seems that some people have began producing rings imitating the ring of the Messenger of Allah ﷺ and engraving upon them the same engraving used by the Messenger of Allah ﷺ. The rings, for those who have not seen them, generally look like this:

rings

What seems to be unknown to those producing such rings as well as those buying them is that it is forbidden to make such rings with the same engraving as the Messenger of Allah ﷺ as he forbade this in many aḥādīth and so the production and sale of these rings is not allowed in the Religion of Allah even though those producing them and buying them may have done so with good intentions.

The prohibition is mention in the following aḥādīth of the Messenger of Allah ﷺ:

إِنَّا اتَّخَذْنَا خَاتَمًا وَتَقَسَّمْنَا فِيهِ تَقْسِمًا فَلَا يَتَّقِسْنَ عَلَيْهِ أَحَدٌ

“We had a ring made and we engraved a certain engraving on it, so none of you should get the same engraving done.” [Ṣaḥīḥ Al-Bukhārī 5874]

إِنِّي اتَّخَذْتُ خَاتَمًا مِنْ وَرَقٍ وَتَقَشَّيْتُ فِيهِ مُحَمَّدٌ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ فَلَا يَنْقُشَنَّ أَحَدٌ عَلَى تَقَشِّيهِ

"I had a silver ring made with 'Muhammad the Messenger of Allah' engraved on it, so none of you should have the same engraving on his ring." [Ṣaḥīḥ Al-Bukhārī 5877]

اتَّخَذَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ خَاتَمًا مِنْ وَرَقٍ ثُمَّ تَقَشَّى فِيهِ مُحَمَّدٌ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ فَقَالَ لَا يَنْقُشَنَّ أَحَدٌ عَلَى تَقَشِّي خَاتَمِي هَذَا

"The Messenger of Allah ﷺ had a ring made of silver, then he had engraved on it 'Muhammad the Messenger of Allah' and he said, 'None should have his ring engraved like this ring of mine.'" [Ibn Mājah 3639]

So for those who may already have such rings it is best to destroy them whether it be by melting them down and reusing the metal or by removing the engraving upon them as this is what was specifically forbidden for us to have on our rings. Those who produce them and sell them should also be advised about them as they may be unaware of the command against them, and this should be done in a polite and sincere manner.

Sorry for the sensitive topic, but this needs to be known.

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān (حفظه الله) was asked: There's a person who had sexual intercourse during the day of Ramadān, what is the ruling upon him? And what must he do?

The Shaykh (حفظه الله) responded by saying: Sexual Intercourse during the day of Ramadān is among the transgressions against the sanctity of Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) and it is Harām by the Qur'ān, Sunnāh and Ijmā'.

And the person who had intercourse must pay a Kafārah [Expiation], which is to free a Slave, if he's not able to do so, then he must fast 2 months in a row, if he's not able to do so, then he must feed 60 poor people, and the proof for this is what Imām al-Bukhārī(1936) and Imām Muslim(1111) narrated from the chain of al-Zuhri(رحمه الله), he said: I was informed by Humayd ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān (رحمه الله) that Abā Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"While we were sitting with the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) a man came to him and said O Messenger of Allāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم), I am ruined, he (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Why are you ruined", he said "I have had intercourse with my wife while I was fasting", so the Messenger of Allāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Do you have a slave to set free", he said No. He (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Then are you able to fast two months in a row", he said No. So he (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Do you have enough to feed 60 poor people", he said no - The Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) stayed silent and while we were in that state, a big basket full of dates was brought to the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم). He (صلى الله عليه وسلم) asked, "Where is the questioner?" he replied, "I [am here]." The Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to him "Take this [basket of dates] and give it in Sadaqāh." The man said, "Should I give it to a person poorer than me? By Allah, there is no family between its two mountains [of Madīnah] who are poorer than me." The Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) smiled till his premolar teeth became visible and then said, 'Feed your family with it."

And this is the ruling regarding the person who knows and did so intentionally according to the correct view among the sayings of the Scholars.

Because the one who is Forgetful and Ignorant of the ruling, and the coerced, do not have to make up a day nor pay the Kafārah [Expiation], since Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has raised the blame off this Ummāh and has forgiven mistake & forgetfulness, Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) says: {Our Lord, do not hold us accountable if we forget or make mistakes} and in Saḥīḥ Muslim(126) on the authority of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) that he said: Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said "I have already done so" [i.e. Forgiven the mistakes of this Ummāh]

And this is the Madhab of Abī Hanīfah(رحمه الله) and al-Shāfi'ī(رحمه الله) regarding the forgetful one, and Ishāq(رحمه الله) & Ahmad(رحمه الله) in a Narration said the Forgetful and Ignorant one is excused, and this was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) and ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله).

Mālik(رحمه الله), Layth ibn Sa'd(رحمه الله) and a group of Scholars have said, he must make up that day without paying the Kafārah [Expiation], and Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) in what's most popular in his Madhab said, he must make up that day and pay the Kafārah [Expiation], whether he had sexual intercourse in the state of Forgetfulness or Ignorance [of the ruling], and this was chosen by Ahlāl Dhāhir [The Dhāhiriyyāh].

And this is disputable, because sexual intercourse is on the same level as food and drink, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Whoever forgets that he is Fasting, so he ate or drank, let him continue his fast, because it is Allāh(جل وعلا) who has fed him and given him drink" narrated by al-Bukhārī(1933) and Muslim(1155) from the chain of Hishām(رحمه الله) from Muḥammād ibn Sīrīn(رحمه الله) from Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه).

And 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) has narrated in al-Musannāf(7375) with an authentic chain from Mujāhid(رحمه الله) that he said: "If a man had sexual intercourse with his wife while he was fasting in a state of forgetfulness during Ramadān, there is nothing upon him" and al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) also narrated it in his Saḥīḥ Mu'allāqan [as a Hanging Narration].

And 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) narrated in al-Musannāf(7377) from al-Thawrī(رحمه الله) from a man from al-Hassan(رحمه الله) that he said: "It is on the same level as eating and drinking in the state of forgetfulness". And al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) has Hanged it in his Saḥīḥ.

and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Shaykh Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) was asked, does swallowing saliva and phlegm break the fast?

The Shaykh(حفظه الله) responded by saying: The Scholars have agreed that whoever swallows his own saliva, his fast is not broken, because saliva comes from the mouth, so it doesn't affect the person fasting to swallow it.

And is it considered disliked to do that or not? What's correct is that it's not disliked if he didn't purposely gather his saliva, because the precautions that come with it are difficult and burdensome and it's not possible for anyone to handle that.

But as for Phlegm, then a group of Scholars have said that if it's from the chest, it doesn't break the fast, and if it was from the Jawf [Abdomen] or the Brain, then it breaks the fast.

What's correct is that swallowing Phlegm intentionally is Makrūh [Disliked] or Harām [Prohibited] according to a group of Scholars, except that it doesn't break the fast in all cases, because it's not food or drink, and it's neither from its implications.

And Phlegm is something that causes distress and the Ummāh is in need of knowing its ruling, so if it broke the fast, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would have clarified that with a general statement, so if there's no report mentioning that, it becomes known that the statement which mentions that it breaks the fast is not correct.

And Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) said in the Riwayah of Al-Marwazī(رحمه الله): "You do not have to make up a day if you swallowed Phlegm while you are fasting"

Sometimes I ask myself, why do people get angry? Being angry for the sake of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) is necessary, but angry for the sake of this pathetic Dunyā? It makes no sense at all...ﷻ I can't believe people can be angry 24/7, like is that a mental illness or something? Can't you just cheer up for once in your life, Lā Hawla walā quwata ilā Billāh.

Some Ahādīth that we all need to reflect upon:

On the authority of 'Abdullāh ibn Mughaffāl(رضي الله عنه) that The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"Allāh is gentle and He loves gentleness. One is given for gentleness what he is not given for harshness"

On the authority of Anas ibn Mālik(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"Make things easy and do not make them difficult. Calm people down and do not alarm them"

On the authority of 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) that she said:

"I was on a camel that was somewhat troublesome and I began to beat it. The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said, "You must be gentle. Whenever there is gentleness in some matter, it adorns it and whenever it is taken away, that disfigures it."

On the authority of Al-Barā' ibn 'Āzib that the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"Ingratitude is evil"

I really miss studying from Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله), he would always put a smile on my face. Even Wisāl [ENG] used to broadcast his lectures such as Ahl al-Sunnāh in Irān. He was so staunch against the Rāfidah and flip floppers, some things I won't mention 🙏

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) mentioned that over 1000 verses of the Qur'ān is about al-Walā' wal-Barā', unfortunately very few Scholars call towards the pure Manhaj that I'm upon 🙏

The Shaykh actually explained that al-Walā' wal-Barā' doesn't need any evidence at all, search for it on youtube, he gives a nice talk about the Fitrah of having walā' & barā' to Lā ilāha ilā Allāh.

Hold onto the sincere 'Ulemā' and love them, because they are some of the most rarest gems of this dunyā 🙏

Brothers & Sisters, we're almost half way through Ramadān. You know it's amazing how, just about 2 weeks ago, we were having meals in the day & when the blessed month of Ramadān came, we just stopped everything, that's what we're learning from this Month, true discipline, patience and reformation🙏

Today is the blessed day of Jum'ah, so ensure that you've made Ghusl, always wear nice clothes and smell nice when you go outside the house brothers. Always smile and actually interact with your brothers in Islām, don't just go to the mosque & come back home as if you didn't learn anything.

Even when you're breaking with your fast with your family [for most people], always be positive & have beneficial discussions. Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) was asked about whether it's better to remain silent or talk when eating, but he said it's best to talk if there is benefit, so make use of this blessed month to unite your families together and get as close as possible.

Remember that Ramadān is a month of multiplied deeds, so recite the Qur'ān as much as you can, don't let FB eat up most of your time. It's also a month of glad tidings & great news for the believers, may Allāh(جل وعلا) give us victory!

Inshā'Allāh you can all come out of this month with a rectified heart & continue changing for the better after Ramadān finishes, Bārak Allāhu feekum.

There will always be in this Ummāh, always, a Tā'ifah, but what is happening is sometimes people try to find a way out of responsibility, they would blame it on the 'Ulemā' when there are 'Ulemā' who are telling you otherwise, they might be in Jail, they might be killed, they might be underground, they might not be famous because no TV station would broadcast their Khutbāh, but they are 'Ulemā'. Another issue is that Ya'nī we're living in an interesting time when the 'ilm of a person is in accordance to how famous he is, and that's not a right standard, that's not the correct standard for 'ilm, we need to follow al-Haqq, wherever it is

2. Shaykh al-Muhaddīth 'Abdullāh al-Sa'd(حفظه الله).

This is a detailed response by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) regarding the fabricated Hadīth on Ribā *taken from his Sharh on al-Dhahabī's Mūqīdha*.

#Fabricated_Hadīth "Ribā has 70 odd branches, the lowest is equivalent to a man committing adultery with his Mother"

A group among the later scholars have gone towards the authenticity of this report, and what's correct is that its first part is authentic "Ribā has 70 odd branches", but as for "And the lowest is equivalent to a man committing adultery with his Mother", then this is a #Lie upon the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and goes against the General and Specific Principles [of the Sharī'ah], and contradicts the Authentic Hadīths, and is Clear & distant from the intellect, and some of the reasons for this:

1. That Zinā is greater in Harām than Ribā in both its types: Debt and Remnants.
2. That committing adultery with Mahrams is from the biggest of Harām, and from the greatest of sins, and a group among the Scholars have gone to say that whoever commits adultery with a Mahram of his is to be struck with the sword, even if he was not Married, and that is because of the severe matter of Zinā, but the Majority of the Scholars went to say that he's lashed like others, and it's completely fine to whip him[Ta'zīr].

And thereupon, how can you make the Ribā dealings, and the lowest level of Ribā greater in prohibition in the sight of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) than a man who commits adultery with a Mahram of his?!! Rather, he committed adultery with his Mother, wal-Iyāthū Billāh?!!

3. That the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said in the Hadīth "The most prevalent kind of Ribā is going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour." So the outward meaning of this Narration is that the most severe Ribā in the sight of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) is going into length in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour, and what kind of elongation is more severe than having a slave[of Allāh] commit Zinā with his Mother, this is the greatest type of elongation[going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour]

So it's understood that the last Hadīth contradicts the first [Hadīth], because if he said "And the lowest is a man committing adultery with his Mother, & The most prevalent kind of Ribā is going to lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour.", it is as if this report doesn't consider committing adultery from going into lengths in talking unjustly against a Muslim's honour, and sufficient is the gruesomeness and atrociousness of that.

And this matter is picked up by the intellect, and is understood by the text, and no one can stubbornly contend with it, and that's why Imām Abū Hātim(رحمه الله), Ibn al-Jawzī(رحمه الله) and a group of Scholars have judged upon this report as being Fabricated and a Lie, and the statements of whoever authenticated it isn't taken into account at all.

And this reaffirms the meaning which we stress on always returning back to the words of the Imāms of the Salaf, and not being confined to authenticating reports based upon the outwardness of the chains, or simply relying upon the statements of the Later Scholars.

~ Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله)

Note: I'm translating بضع وسبعون as "70 odd", but there's a difference of opinion regarding what "بضع" is, however if you refer back to Fath al-Bārī by Ibn Rajab(رحمه الله) on his explanation of Sahīh al-Bukhārī, chapter of Ēmān, he has mentioned several opinions, and what seems to be most correct according to most scholars is that "بضع" is any number between 3-9.

#Authentic_Hadīth "Salāt in Masjid al-Harām is equal to 100,000 Salāh" narrated by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) from the Hadīth of Ibn al-Zubayr(رضي الله عنه) and its chain is good.

#Weak_Hadith "Whoever prays 6 Rak'āt after Maghrib..." this Hadīth is Munkar, it revolves around 'Omar ibn Abī Khath'am, and Abū 'Isa al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) weakened him. And Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) said that 'Omar ibn Abī Khath'am is Munkar, therefore his Hadīth is discarded.

#Defected_Hadīth "May Allāh(جل وعلا) have mercy upon the one who prays 4 Rak'ahs before 'Asr" This Hadīth comes from the narration of Muḥammād ibn Maymūn ibn Mahrawān from his grandfather from ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), and this report is defected, it has Tafarrūd, and Imām ibn Abī Hātim(رحمه الله) has mentioned in al-'Ilal from Abī Dāwūd al-Tiyālīsī(رحمه الله) that he said "Stay away from this". This was mentioned by Imām Abū Zur'at al-Rāzī(رحمه الله) and others from the Hufādh.

HOWEVER, there's a #Strong_Hadīth which is narrated in al-Tirmidhī, Abū Dāwūd & a group from the narration of Abī Ishāq al-Sabī'ī from 'Āsim ibn Damrah from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) that he said: "The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) used to pray 4 [Rak'ahs] before 'Asr" This Hadīth is #Good, and 'Āsim ibn Damrah as Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) said in his Jāmi', he is Trustworthy among the Scholars of Hadīth and he has heard from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه), so this Hadīth is Good. Therefore praying 4 [Rak'ahs before 'Asr] is Authentic from the actions of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), not from his sayings.

The Shaykh replied by saying: Yes, Salāh behind him is permitted, because the innovator, if his prayed behind Bid'ah was not a Mukaffirah, then he can be prayed behind, Ibn Mas'ūd prayed behind al-Hajjāj, and that's what the Salaf(رضي الله عنهما) al-Walīd ibn 'Uqba, and Ibn 'Omar did, except if you see that refraining from Praying behind him is better and brings more benefit than harm, and you have consulted with the Scholars of Ahlāl Sunnāh in your land regarding that and said: {and (سبحانه وتعالى) they see a Benefit in abandoning Salāh behind him, then that's fine, Allāh whose affair is [determined by] consultation among themselves}. Unless refraining from praying behind him results in abandoning Jum'ah or 'Īd or the Masjid, then no. Been spending way too much time on FB, okay I'm not logging back in until Ramadān finishes because I get so distracted. What I can recommend during the Month of Ramadān is to recite Qur'ān day & night, fall in love with the Qur'ān & read its translation & tafseer. Don't forget to remain sensible, be patient, don't raise your voice at anyone, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) increase you all in Ēmān & Taqwā.

السلام عليكم ورحمة الله وبركاته 🙏

Sisters, be warned! Especially my revert sisters! Do not ever marry a Madkhalī! These people distort the sayings of the Salaf & claim they can marry with the intention of DIVORCE! This is nothing new, even Madkhalī shaykhs in the US have stated that they won't be marrying new Shahādah women to them, because there are many cases of Madkhalī's marrying reverts with the intention of Divorce!

These People who marry with the intention of divorce as we call in arabic بنية الطلاق are even worse than the Shī'a Rāfidhī Mushriks who do Mut'ah prostitution, because it's well known that the religion of the Rāfidah is based upon Zinā, they are open & even proud of being Rāfidhī children of Mut'ah. Whereas the Person who marry's with the intention of divorce is doing it in the name of deceit and betrayal! The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has cursed such people who are deceitful!!

Now for you sisters who have never heard of "Marriage with the intention of divorce" and what some filthy low lives are doing, they basically take the sayings of the Salaf out of context.

So in short, I'll explain the issue of "Marriage with the intention of divorce" which was differed upon among the Salaf and the Madhāhib. It's important to mention that some scholars permitted it and others prohibited it, so there are 2 views among the Early Imāms, BUT the circumstance of this would be in a context where a brother is travelling to another land for Business, Seeking proper knowledge, treatment, or for an important need, then afterwards he might be subjected to Fitna, and he fears committing Zinā, so he would marry with the intent of divorce, he might remain with her or not, and they would have a proper marriage with all the conditions, but the husband has this intention, he looks for a woman of deen, good lineage, beauty, and it's not mentioned at all from the Early Scholars that he would marry her for fun, rather he gets married in fear of Zinā, so some scholars permitted it, whereas others prohibited it.

Those that prohibited it say that this goes against the purpose of Marriage, and they say "Why did the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) curse the one who marries a divorced woman with the intention of making her lawful for her former husband and upon the one for whom she is made lawful." [Refer to Sunan Abī Dāwūd - Authentic]. So they use this Hadīth as proof to curse the one that has the intention of divorcing his wife, because this goes against the purpose of Marriage.

The purpose of marriage is 3: Reproduction, Chastity, Love & Mercy as mentioned by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) & he mentioned several Āyāt & Ahādīth. And this person who married with the intent of divorce in such circumstance, even if he said it was in fear of Zinā didn't fulfil any of these 3 purposes, he says he's fearing Zinā, but in reality he's just enjoying and playing around with the daughters of the Muslims. But some scholars said it's permitted, but anyways this is what the Salaf meant when they talked about Marriage with the intent of divorce, this was the scenario. But even in this scenario it's not permissible to do so.

As of our times, this isn't called Marriage with the intent of divorce which was known in the time of the Salaf, rather in our times these Madkhalī's and other low lives gather wealth and go on holidays to play around, marrying with the intent of divorce. And they don't care how many they marry or who they marry, they even marry 4,5,6,7,8 because all they think about is their filthy desires, this is their main goal!

So the person must know the reality before they give any Fatwa! Some scholars permitted it in a specific scenario, whereas what you call this is pure filthy and playing around, and he marry's with the intent of divorce, and doesn't care which woman he's marrying, she might be improperly dressed, she has friends etc...but this idiot doesn't care.

Wallāhi anyone who says that it's allowed to marry with the intent of divorce is a pure Jāhil who doesn't understand anything, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) destroy these people. Such people are just as bad as the Rāfidah doing Mut'ah as mentioned by Shaykh ibn 'Uthaymīn(رحمه الله), infact Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) says it's worse and more deceitful because Mut'ah is well known, both parties agree, whereas marrying with the intent of divorce is done out of pure deceit.

Brothers, it's the blessed day of Jum'ah, the day of Cleanliness. Whether it's Obligatory or Sunnāh Mu'akkīdah, perform Ghusl & put on some perfume to smell really nice. And don't forget to wear your best clothes & always have a smile on your face :))

Note: If you have a shower on Jum'ah without performing wudū', it's not permissible for you to pray, because performing Ghusl Mujzi' doesn't render you in the state of Wudū', the only exception given is if you performed the Complete Ghusl from Janābah. So always ensure you do the steps of wudū' whether you're in the shower or outside of the shower, because the obligatory steps of wudū' isn't nullified by Partial Ghusl.

Alphabet comes from the word Alpha/Beta [Roman/Greek].

But actually Alpha/Beta comes from the Muslims - Alif, Ba, Ta.

Likewise Hawaii was named by the Muslims "Juzr al-Hawa" and it's spelt as هَوَئِي "Ha,Wa,Ya", all you gotta do is put a Kasra & it says "Ha,Wa,Yi"

So you got the First 3 letters "Alif,Ba,Ta" and you also got the Last 3 letters "Ha,Wa,Ya"

What has become prevalent among some students of knowledge is the reliance upon the sayings of some contemporary scholars regarding the grading of a Hadith, and abandoning the sayings of the Early Imāms, that even some of them narrate a Hadīth from al-Tirmidhī (رحمه الله) & mentions the grading of it from the sayings of some of the contemporary scholars, and leaves off the grading of al-Tirmidhī (رحمه الله) on his own Hadīth, or that the Hadīth might be reported by the people of Sunan, and it was authenticated for instance by Ibn Khuzaymah (رحمه الله) or Ibn Hibbān (رحمه الله), and he doesn't give heed to any of this at all, and he goes searching for the statements of some Scholars regarding the grading of this Hadīth, and this is wrong, and what's necessary is being concerned/occupied with the sayings of the Early Imāms, and benefitting from the sayings of the Contemporary Scholars.

Shaykh al-Muhaddīth 'Abdullāh al-Sa'd (حفظه الله) said: "The transmitted Hadīths regarding the virtues of the middle night of Sha'bān, nothing is authentic from it according to the majority of the scholars of Hadīth, and these Hadīths are not strengthened with all of its chains, and that is for two reasons:

1. It is either extremely weak[from its Isnād]
2. It is either weak because of defects.

Therefore, it is a night like the rest of the nights, it doesn't have any virtue, and it's not specified for du'ā, nor Dhikr[remembrance of Allāh], nor is its night for Prayer[Qiyām], nor is its day for Fasting[Siyām]".

was asked: What is the brief explanation regarding the third (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd "nullifier "Whoever doesn't make Takfeer upon the Mushrikeen & doubts in their Kufr

:The Shaykh responded by saying: The brief explanation is divided into 4 types

Whoever's Kufr is Aslī such as the Jew or Christian: So whoever doesn't make Takfeer upon him . 1 or refrains from performing takfeer upon him, then he's a Kāfir because he hasn't disbelieved in Tāghūt, because Tawhīd must be accompanied with two things "Disbelieving in the Tāghūt, and "believing in Allāh

Whoever apostates from Islām and openly proclaims in leaving it for Judaism or Atheism & . 2 .similar to that: Then he is like the First Type

Whoever apostates by committing an agreed upon Nullifier such as Insulting[Allāh & .3 His Messenger], but claims that he's a Muslim: So whoever affirms that his statement or action is Kufr[in General], however he refrained from performing Takfeer upon him[in Specific], then he .doesn't disbelieve because he didn't reject the text[Qur'ān & Sunnāh] or Ijmā

Whoever apostates by committing a Nullifier that is differed upon such as Abandoning Salāh: So .4 whoever doesn't make takfeer upon him doesn't disbelieve, even if he disputed in the core root of .knows best (جل وعلا)the matter, because it's differed upon, and Allāh

Asalāmu 'Alaykum, I just want to say 1 thing & Wallāhi, Wallāhi, Wallāhi, I fear hypocrisy in myself for saying this, but I just want these words to be heard, and I'll leave what's in my heart to Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى).

O my beloved Brothers & Sisters, sometimes our souls can't take the humiliation & oppression no more, and remaining silent only builds up stress and depression and procrastination from that humiliation we are facing. Now I'm not talking about personal humiliation & oppression, that is hard without a doubt and even though I tell people to remain patient and have humility, they just can't stand it and enough is enough, especially when oppression and humiliation reaches a level of what we see in front of our very eyes, in both the Personal and Collective sense. Now, don't listen to those who say "Worry about yourselves before anyone else", even though there might be some truth in this statement, that in order to help others, you yourself need to be in a good state, but what I want you guys to understand is that you must feel the pain of the Ummāh just like the way you feel when you go through a difficulty on a personal level. The Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "We are one body", therefore whatever you feel, I must feel, and whatever I feel, you must feel, and whatever every other muslim is going through, you must try and feel them in a spiritual sense.

I want to address 1 main issue of why our Ummāh is going through this humiliation and disgrace. You might consider this a rant, Madkhali's might say it's emotional rhetoric, but I don't care what they think, having emotions & caring about the Ummāh is a must, and these madkhali's are cowards, either way, the following is what I have written about them & I believe it's important to warn against them as their da'wah is spreading everywhere, even my close ones in Europè are affected by their evil & I had a debate with some family members overseas about this :((

So one of the biggest Fitnā's in the time of the Salaf and our times is that of the Murji'ah, AKA the madkhali's of our time, and these people are one of the biggest problems in our Ummāh because they attribute their Jahmī beliefs to our beloved Salaf. Some of them define Ēmān exactly like the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah, however many of them define Ēmān according to the definition of Ahlāl Sunnāh wal-Jamā'ah, but do so out of Tadlees. So they define Ēmān as belief, speech & actions, but when it comes to applying it into practise they are from the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah. Let me give an example to clear things up & the reason why I'm stressing on 'Aqidah is because you guys must know this. Okay, so Ēmān is Belief, Saying & Actions, we agree. But what's the opposite of Ēmān? Kufr, right? Therefore just as Ēmān is Belief, sayings & actions, you can commit Kufr from belief, sayings & actions. However, when it comes to these Madkhali's, they limit Kufr & Nullifiers of Islām to Belief alone! See how they deceive you in the name of Salafiyyāh? For instance, whoever insults Allāh(جل وعلا) is a Kāfir, but Wallāhi these Madkhali heads have said "The insulter of Allāh is only a Kāfir if he believes that it's Halāl in his heart", and there are different types of Madkhali's, some have stated that even if you prostrate to the sun or grave, you don't become a Kāfir, unless you believe it's permissible, they have even went further in deviance than the Ghulāt al-Murji'ah and Jahmiyyāh of the past. These Modern day Madkhali's add false conditions to the Nullifiers of Islām by saying "If you ally with the disbelievers against the Muslims, you only disbelieve if you love the disbelievers for their Shirk or consider it Halāl", they say replacing the Sharī'ah & abandoning it and ruling by a completely separate man made law is only a Minor Kufr, and a person only disbelieves if he believes it's permissible or greater than the law of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) limiting it to mere sins like drinking alcohol and eating pork. Whereas Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) called these rulers who rule by other than the law of Allāh(جل وعلا) as Kāfireen and Mushrikeen. They commit shirk in all forms of Tawhid, yet the Madkhali's consider them as Muslims who must be obeyed. They even quote the addition "Obey the ruler even if he hits your back & takes your wealth", even though the Muhadithīn have weakened it and I don't want to get into the talk regarding this weak {addition}.

And you can never stop speaking about these Madkhali's, the reason why they are so evil is because as I mentioned, they claim to follow the Salaf and their Da'wah is spreading everywhere in the Ummāh, it might not be as widespread in Australia, but they are definitely spreading in Canada & the States, especially in Europè and I can confirm this as I have family in Europè and the Dā'iyyah's over there are all spreading Madkhali beliefs immensely...ask any europèan and they will tell you about it, and as a result of these Ghulāt Murji's, you have Ghulāt Takfeeri's, i.e. Hāzimī's who haven't spared anyone in this Ummāh from their evil chain Takfeer.

Now as you guys can see what's happening [around you], the Madkhali's undermine the importance of caring about the Muslims, yet they are the first ones to issue Fatwa's left and right about the situation of the Muslims. These Madkhali's claim to love Islām and the Salaf while they call our brothers and sisters dogs of the hellfire. Listen here O madkhali, if you ever read this, before you slander & find all the faults in the world in our brothers and sisters, what about your leaders that you defend day and night, what do you say about them? Your leaders are nothing but dogs to the enemies, while they are vicious lions against their own people. May Allāh(جل وعلا) disgrace you in this life and the hereafter, you piss me off, I hate you, I hate you, I hate you so much! You infected the Ummāh with Irjā' in the name of our beloved Salaf. You claim that we are distorting Islām and giving Islām a bad name, well what kind of Islām are you giving? Why don't you defend your own sisters just like you defend your rulers, why is it prohibited to backbite the rulers & permissible to backbite our sisters? I will never forget you dogs mocking our sisters in Buraydah who were simply calling for their rights. If you say our brothers & sisters are not representing the true Islām, tell me what Islām your leaders are presenting, other than playboy princes who get offended with a western woman wearing Hijāb/Niqāb in his Palace, the secularist liberal dog al-Waleed, who is close to the king. Okay, let's start with Āl Salūl, those who control Bilād al-Haramayn, let's talk about what kind of Islām they have. The rulers of Saudi Arabia who don't rule by the Sharī'ah, they go to the UN, legislate laws which contradict the Qur'ān and Sunnāh, they permit Ribā Banks, they imprison people without charge, they lock up 'Ulemā', they oppress our brothers and sisters who speak 1 word against the filthy king, they leave alone the Rāfidah Mushrikeen to insult the Sahābah while they act like vicious lions against our sisters & their infants, they give the Saudi Rāfidhī mushrik more rights than the Afghānī or Kashmīrī Muslim because of him being a saudi citizen, they promote nationalism & celebrate these ignorant festivals, they have no wala' and bara'. Saudi lets the disbelievers roam around, not only that, they meet with the heads of Kufr and award them and show love to them, and on top of that, they ally with them against Muslims. The King 'Abdullāt said to unite all the religions as 1 religion, he congratulated the disbelievers on their nationalistic holidays and held hands with Tyrants just like himself.

O Madkhālī, is this what you call Islām? You say it's compulsory to obey criminals like al-Qadhāfi of Libya, the one who openly distorted the Qur'ān with the green book, and ruled by a completely clear Kufr constitution pleasing his Italian friends. You prohibit people to revolt against such a criminal, you call them Khawārij? Wallāhi you don't know what Khawārij means, because in order to call someone a Khārijī, he must believe in the Usūl of the Khawārij, and if you consider them Khawārij for going against the rulers, but who did our brothers & sisters revolt against? They revolted against Tyrant Kuffār! And even if they were Muslim rulers, revolting against them doesn't render someone a Khārijī, if this was the case, what about Al-Hussein(رضي الله عنه) who revolted against the Fāsiq Yazīd? What about Sa'eed ibn Jubayr(رحمه الله), what about 'Abdullāh ibn al-Zubayr(رحمه الله), what about Imām Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله) being against those Tyranical 'Abbāsi rulers, what do you call him? Infact Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) called those who revolted against the rulers Shuhadā', so where did you get this Khārijī label from. Infact, you're closer to the Khawārij more than those you accuse of being Khawārij as you're harsher on the believers & soft with the disbelievers. And even if we were Khawārij, the Salaf would call the Khawārij for a debate, but all you do is run away to the filthy leaders and silence us, and where are you from the guidance of Abū Bakr al-Siddīq(رضي الله عنه) who made du'ā for the Romans to beat the Persians. Now why did he do that for? Both the persians and romans are mushrikeen, what benefit do we have from the Romans? The point is that the romans are closer to the Haqq, so what about your own brothers & sisters? Even if they were the most deviant of people, aren't they closer to you than the other filthy oppressors & Mushrikeen?

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) destroy the Madkhālī's, Rāfidah & Mushrikeen and humiliate them in the Dunyā and Ākhirah, and may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) return the muslims back to their deen, especially in this blessed month of Ramadān. Worship Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) by reciting the Qur'ān & Fasting, and just because you can recite the Qur'ān very good, this doesn't make you a Khārijī as these Madkhālī low lifes say, and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best!

was asked: What is meant by 'inability to understand' with (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd ?regards to establishing the Hujjāh

:responded by saying: Inability to understand means two things (حفظه الله)The Shaykh

Unable to know the meanings of the words: So this is an excuse with regards to establishing the .1 Hujjāh, so the individual must know the meanings, such as the non-Arab for instance if he was .addressed in the Arabic language has sealed upon the hearts of the Kuffār and their inability to understand these (جل وعلا) Allāh .2 has set a seal (سبحانه وتعالى) words as being the truth: Then this isn't an excuse at all, rather Allāh upon their hearts so that they will not understand, and from the most explicit proof is Allāh's statement: "Had Allāh known any good in them, He would have made them hear." meaning: He said: "And if He had made (جل وعلا) allowed them to see the truth of what reached them, then He them hear" meaning: And even if we made them see it as the truth "They would [still] have turned in speech?!" So (سبحانه وتعالى) away, while they were refusing.", and who is more truthful than Allāh has set a seal (جل وعلا) mentioned that the ignorance of the Kuffār whom Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) He upon their hearts, that even if their scholars came to realise the truth of what reached them, they would remain upon their disbelief, does anything after this require an explanation?! And Allāh .knows best (وتعالى) was asked: The issue of 'uluw[Allāh being above the 'Arsh] has (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd stated, so is it from the Apparent/Clear Matters (رحمه الله) more than 1,000 proofs as ibn al-Qayyīm where it is sufficient to recite the text with the opposing deviant sects? And if it was not ?Apparent/Clear, then how can it be from the Hidden/Unclear Matters and it has all these proofs

:responded by saying (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd

There are matters which differ in clearness & unclearness depending on the time and place and reality, such as some of the texts on the Attributes[of Allāh], and the Fundamental Rule in this is: If the innovator belied or rejected the text, then he's a Kāfir, or else he doesn't disbelieve, so the texts on "al-'uluw" for example was Clear in the time of the Salaf, and that is why they made Takfir upon whoever negated or interpreted it, then it became Unclear after the misconception was spread between the Muslims after the Best Generations[i.e. The Salaf], that is why you see those ascribed to the people of knowledge who interpret it, are most of the time exalting the texts, he doesn't bely it or reject it, however this misconception has appeared to him of which the Mutakalimeen spread between the people, so the Clear Matters aren't upon one level, just like the Unclear Matters aren't upon one level as well, so some of the Clear Matters can become Unclear, and vice versa, and .knows best (سبحانه وتعالى) Allāh was asked, what is the meaning of Democracy? And what is the (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd difference between Democracy & Shūrah? And what is the ruling regarding the entering of ?Parliaments responded by saying: Democracy is the rule of the people, and it means (حفظه الله) The Shaykh that the legislation and permitting & prohibiting is for the population itself, and it was existant in then it developed further after the English Revolution, (عليه السلام), Greece, before the Birth of 'Īsa .[then the French[revolution], until it reached what it reached[i.e. Today with no partners (سبحانه وتعالى) And it's purely Kufr, because the judgement/ruling is for Allāh says: "He makes none to share in his Decision and His (سبحانه وتعالى) ascribed to him, as Allāh rule", and it differs to Shūrah more than the way Fornication differs to Marriage, and that is because :of [several] aspects

The Shūrah is only for the Ijtihādī matters, where there is no explicit text regarding it, as for the .1 ruling being clear/apparent, then there's no Shūrah regarding it, but as for democracy, then it's .included into everything without exception

The Shūrah is for a Group among the Ahl al-Hal wal-'Aqd, who are well known for their justness & .2 righteousness & religiousness. As for Democracy, then it's for a group of people who are elected by the people according to their desires, and what brings benefit to them, even if they were from the .most evil of people

The judgement made in the Shūrah is not compellable upon the correct view, so the Just Leader .3 .is not compelled to take it if he views benefit opposing it, as for Democracy, it's compellable

In the Shūrah, they do not come up with rulings & laws which are imposed upon the population, .4 .as for Democracy, they impose that by force

Including other than that from the differences. There are books which aren't that bad regarding this .issue, which would be good to return back too

:And entering parliaments is a great Munkar[evil] from several aspects

A) That there is acknowledgement for the judgement of the population, because parliament is a legislative gathering which comes up with laws, so by him entering it, he is acknowledging a and this is Kufr, and even if the Islamists rule over (سبحانه وتعالى), Lawgiver besides Allāh parliament for instance and they made the constitution islamic, then this is not the judgement of rather it's the judgement of the population, that's why if the members of parliament (جل وعلا), Allāh were changed, laws change, and similar to this, so this isn't ruling by Sharī'ah, the Sharī'ah rules by power, and whoever refuses it from the people is hit with a sword and thrown in the rubbish bin, and .we do not look at the number of voters, the For and Against

B) That it's obliged for the person entering Parliament to take an oath to respect the consitution, and the consitution is originally Kufr, and it has many uncountable Mukaffirāt, and respecting it is !Kufr, so how can you take an oath by that

C) Those that are called the Islamists step down on many things in their path to reach towards Parliament, then they do not achieve a portion of what they provided from their stepping down, and .look at our current situation today, you would know that very well in 'Umdat al-Tafsīr regarding Allāh's statement "and consult (رحمه الله) And Shaykh Ahmad Shākir them in the matter" has very beautiful words in comparing Democracy and Shūrah together, and the reply against whoever considered Democracy to be from the Shūrah, and whoever calls towards the .elections, so refer back to it, because it has words which should be written in Gold Ink

narrates a Hadīth in his book but doesn't comment on it, this is (رحمه الله)When Imām Abū Dāwūd .considered a Sālih(acceptable) hadīth as he mentioned in his introduction

(رحمه الله)mentions in al-Majmū'(7/168) that what Imām Abū Dāwūd (رحمه الله)Imām al-Nawawī .(meant by Sālih(acceptable) is that the Hadīth is Hassan(sound has shown by examples that this is not the correct (رحمه الله)However al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr mentioned in al- (رحمه الله)approach. So ibn Hajr (رحمه الله)interpretation of Imām Abū Dāwūd's meant by Sālih(acceptable) was that the Hadīth was (رحمه الله)Nukat(1/435) that what Abū Dāwūd acceptable to be used as supporting evidence or to be supported by another narration. Hence, it .was not actually very weak also has his own terminology on the Hassan Hadīth. Usually (رحمه الله)Imām Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhī Hassan is a level below Sahīh, but the narrators are of a slightly lesser degree because of their mentions Hassan, this means that (رحمه الله)Dabt(precision), however whenever Imām al-Tirmidhī the Hadīth is weak, but it could be used as supporting evidence where it has several other chains to strengthen its meaning. So it basically doesn't have any Shuthūth(irregularities), and this has been has written a long (حفظه الله)mentioned by several scholars, and Shaykh 'Abdūl 'Azīz al-Turayfī .knows best (جل وعلا)article on this subject, and Allāh

Now, the scholars of Hadīth collected & recorded down weak Hadīths for many reasons, that he (رحمه الله)consideration, supportive evidence, it's even narrated from Imām Abū Dāwūd .preferred a weak Hadīth over the opinion of a man

But just because the Scholars of Hadīth recorded down weak Hadīths, it doesn't mean that they are .used as proof or to be acted upon Seeking knowledge can make you a better person or an even worser person. Renew your intentions and remain sincere in what you're doing for the sake of Allāh(جل وعلا) and inshā'Allāh your knowledge will help you change for the better, not for the worse. What I mean by worse is become arrogant, disrespectful, gaining victory against others in arguments, belittling others, showing off etc...

One of my favourite du'ās is to seek refuge from non-beneficial knowledge. Say the following:

Allâhumâ inī A'ûthu bika min 'ilmin Lâ Yanfa'

اللهم إني أَعُوذُ بك من علمٍ لا ينفع

i.e. "O Allâh, I seek refuge in You from knowledge that does not benefit"

If a child breaks something in the house, so you ask him "Did you break this?", and he says "No, I don't know who did that :))" Now, is the child sinful for lying? And why or why not?

*Is the Authenticating & Weakening of the Hadīths by Shaykh al-Muhaddīth al-Albānī(رحمه الله) accurate or not?*

Shaykh al-Islām al-Muhaddīth Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) responds by saying:

The brother says that a group of people say that the authenticating of al-Albānī(رحمه الله) isn't accurate in comparison to the early scholars. And this is True, whether he authenticated the Hadīths or weakened the Hadīths, because the Usūl that he follows in his authenticating and weakening is upon the Usūl of the Later scholars, upon the Usūl of ibn al-Salāh(رحمه الله), upon the Usūl of al-Hāfidh al-'Irāqī(رحمه الله), upon the Usūl of ibn Hajr(رحمه الله), he doesn't follow in his Usūl, the Usūl of Yahyā ibn Sa'īd al Qattān(رحمه الله), the Usūl of ibn Mahdī(رحمه الله), the Usūl of Imām Ahmād(رحمه الله), the Usūl of al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله), Usūl of Muslim(رحمه الله), or upon the Usūl of the early scholars, so he goes along the Usūl of the later scholars, not the Usūl of the Early scholars, and if those were the means that he goes along, it is considered a weak means, so usually the end result would be inconsiderable. So consequently, he has many things that he authenticates which goes against the Methodology of the early scholars, or he weakens that which has a clear difference to the Methodology of the early scholars, because the differences between the early & the later scholars are many, I'll mention the most important of those differences to clarify the intent and meaning.

So from among that, al-Tadlees[covering up a break in the chain], whenever al-Tadlees is proven in the Hadīth, then it's a 'ila(hidden defect), and there's no dispute in this, whereas the later scholars consider the "an 'ana"[i.e. narrates by using the term "an"(from)] of the person described with Tadlees as "Tadlees", and this hasn't been stated by any of the early scholars, and al-Albānī(رحمه الله) follows this principle, of the Usūl of the later scholars, not the Usūl of the early scholars. So he says about the hadith that it has 'an 'ana of al-Hassan(رحمه الله), it has 'an 'ana of Qatādah(رحمه الله), there is 'an 'ana of Abī Ishāq al-Sabī'ī(رحمه الله), there is 'an 'ana of al-A'mash(رحمه الله), there is 'an 'ana of ibn Jurayj(رحمه الله), there is 'an 'ana of ibn al-Zubayr(رحمه الله) and he defects the Hadīths in this way, he has weakened Hadīths in Muslim upon this way, and none of the early scholars were upon this Manhaj, and it's not known from any of the Imāms that they defected a Hadīth by 'an 'ana of a Mudallis or the person described with Tadlees, rather the early scholars say "Dalas", and they do not say "an 'an", so if it's proven that he "Dalas"[cheated], we will defect the Hadīth because this is a disconnection, and if he 'an 'an and he didn't "Dalis", merely a 'an 'ana, this doesn't affect[the Hadīth], and this is what the early scholars are upon, and this is from the enormous differences between the early and the later scholars.

The second matter: Ziyādat ul-Thiqah[The addition of a trustworthy narrator]. The Madhab of the Fuqahā' and Mutakalimeen is that the addition of a trustworthy narrator is accepted in all cases, and many of the later scholars have followed this, so ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) says in al-Nukhbā "and the addition of its narrator is accepted, as long as it doesn't go against that whom is more authentic" and this is not the Manhaj of the [early] Imāms, and he has determined/stipulated the Manhaj of the Early scholars in Kitāb al-Nukat upon the book of ibn al-Salāh, and in that book, he has overlooked/neglected in determining the Usūl of the early Imams in this matter, so some of the later scholars or a group of later scholars as it's the statement of the Fuqahā' that the addition of a trustworthy narrator is accepted and this is well-known in the authenticating of the later scholars, "This is an addition of a trustworthy narrator, therefore it's accepted". The early scholars do not give the addition an absolute/general ruling, so at times they would accept the addition and sometimes they would reject the addition, and they do not give an absolute/general ruling.

The third matter: Raising weak Hadīths to Hassan by Shawāhid(finding supporting narrations), the early scholars do not expand in that, and among the later scholars, there is severe expansion, that most of their authentications & Hassan gradings is when the Hadīth comes from different chains. And that is why the authentications by the later scholars have exceeded 50,000 Hadīths, and this is an exaggeration in the authenticating of Hadīths, and many of that is Munkar, it has no basis to it, the issue is not a Hadīth or 2 Hadīths, when the Hadīths reach 5,000 hadiths, 4000 are all Munkar[Denounced]. The early scholars did not call a Hadīth "Hassan" by Shawāhid except by well known conditions and guidelines as a methodology among them, so from that, they don't call a Hadīth Hassan by Shawāhid in the Usūl[can't be the main hadīth which Fiqh and rulings are derived from the hadīth] and they do not accept it. And from that, is that they don't call a Hadīth Hassan by Shawāhid if it goes against an authentic Hadīth. And from that, is that they don't call a Hadīth Hassan by Shawāhid if there's a liar or a person accused of fabricating or a fault or a Nakārah(discrepancy) in the Isnād(chain).

The fourth matter: Al-Tafarrūd(singular narrations), the early scholars would consider the issue of Tafarrūd a great concern, and they would sometimes not accept the Hadīth of the Mutaffarid even if he was Trustworthy(Thiqah), and usually as a methodology that they had, they would reject the Hadīth of the Sadūq in the Usūl, and this isn't taken into consideration by the later scholars, and they do not differentiate between what is in the Usūl[the main hadīth which Fiqh and rulings are derived from the hadīth & chapter] and what is in other than the Usūl, and by the end result of the inability to apply this methodology, they authenticate many Munkar Hadīths. Because the Hadīth of the Sadūq or the Hadīth of a Thiqāh who doesn't narrate a lot of Hadīths, and isn't known by many singular narrations, if he makes Tafarrūd in an Asl, then this is a place of dispute, so from that, the hadith that was narrated by Ahmad(رحمه الله) and Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) in his Sunan from the chain of Muhammad ibn ishāq from Abī 'Ubaydah ibn 'Abdillāh ibn Zam'ah from his father from his mother from Umm Salamah that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"On this day you have been allowed to take off ihram when you have thrown the stones at the jamrahs, that is, everything prohibited during the state of ihram is lawful except intercourse with a woman. If the evening comes before you go round this House (the Ka'bah) you will remain in the sacred state (i.e. ihram), just like the state in which you were before you threw stones at the jamrahs"

And this report is Munkar, it's not possible to accept the Tafarrūd of ibn ishāq in it, and even if the Tafarrūd of ibn Ishāq was accepted, it's not possible to accept the Tafarrūd of Abī 'Ubaydah, and this is a followed principle among the early scholars, that in such a situation, the Tafarrūd of the Sadūq is not accepted who is not known with precision/accuracy and itqān(firmness/minimal errors) and a person who narrates many Ahādīth, and this is merely an example, for the examples are many. The later scholars do not look except at what seems to be apparent of the chain and what ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) said in al-Taqrīb "Thiqah" or "Sadūq" and in the end he says "its chain is authentic".

And this is the fifth matter; that the later scholars go by the apparent look of the chains, they authentic based upon this, as for the early scholars, then no. They look at the chain and look at the matn(text), and when they look into the Isnād(chain), they look at several aspects:

The first aspect: The trustworthiness of the narrators.

The second aspect: Al-Sama'āt[Whether the narrators have met], they stress on the Sama'āt a lot.

The third aspect: Al-Tafarrūd[the narrator is alone in narrating a hadith], they stress on the chain and the Tafarrūd.

The fourth aspect: Al-Mukhālafah[The differences/oppositions between the narrators], they look at this very deeply.

The fifth aspect: al-Ikhtilāf[inconsistencies in who he's narrating from], they look into it very deeply, sometimes they would rule upon it with Iḍtirāb(shakiness).

The early scholars would consider this a very great concern; they wouldn't be heedless to any of these aspects.

The sixth matter: The Majhūl(unknown) Hadīth, the later scholars weaken the Hadith of Majhūl al-'Ayn, or before that, they settled upon categorising Majhūl into two types, Majhūl Hāl[unknown situation - whose integrity is unknown but there's nothing negative attributed to him] and Majhūl 'Ayn[Completely unknown]. So they weaken the Hadith of Majhūl al-'Ayn and some of them weaken the Hadith of Majhūl al-Hāl, and some of them authenticate it, but as for the early scholars, then no. They mention conditions for a man whenever he would be considered Majhūl and whenever he wouldn't be considered Majhūl. So if he narrates from a narrator who's trustworthy many times, who is not known to narrate from the weak narrators, nor from the Unknown, then this would cause his Jahālah[unknownness] to be raised by the one who he narrated from. And they stipulate that his narrator must be consistent and not make Tafarrūd in an Asl, and that he doesn't go against the trustworthy narrators, and this isn't taken into consideration among the later scholars. And it's narrated from the early scholars that if a narrator narrates from a group of trustworthy narrators, his Jahālah[unknownness] would be raised from him, and by this, they make the issue of Tafarrūd as an issue of Mukhālafah.

So these are the differences or some of differences between the Early & the Later scholars, and by applying these principles, your Usūl[Foundations] would become upright, and if the Foundation is upright, the branches would follow, and the end result would be stable/good, and by the deficiency of applying these principles, you will destabilise the Usūl, and if you've destabilised the Usūl, shakiness/destabilisation would be found in the branches, giving the poor end result.

IF A PERSON WHO DOESN'T PRAY PERFORMS HAJJ, IS HIS HAJJ ACCEPTED?

Answered by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

The brother asks that there's a brother who doesn't pray and he performed hajj at a particular time, will his Hajj be valid?

We would say, did he pray at Hajj or not? If he prayed at Hajj, then he has entered into Islām and become a Muslim and his Hajj is valid. And if he abandoned Salāh afterwards, we would call him a disbeliever, however if he returns back to Islām, his deeds would return back to him.

This is according to the most correct opinion amongst the scholars, because Allah(جل وعلا) said "And whoever of you turns away from his religion(to disbelief) and dies while being a disbeliever"

The meaning of this Āyah is that if he returns back to Islām, his deeds will return back to him, and the deeds aren't nullified except if he died upon disbelief, and this is one of the two sayings from Imam Ahmad(رحمه الله) and that was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله).

We live in a time where the evil is not just considered okay, but it's also promoted everywhere we go. So as muslims, we must always remember that if we can't stop evil with our hands, speak against it, and if we can't speak against the evil, the least of Ēmān is to hate it in your heart. 🔴 #Gems from Bulūgh al-Marām [?]

503 – And it's narrated from Umm Salamah(رضي الله عنها) that she said: "The messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) entered upon Abī Salamah(رضي الله عنه), when his sight had become fixed[soon after he died]. He(صلى الله عليه وسلم) closed them (the eyes) for him and said, "When the soul is taken away, the sight follows it." Some people began to weep. He(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Do not supplicate for yourselves anything but good, for the angels say 'Āmin' to what you say." Then he(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said, "O Allah! Forgive Abū Salamah, and raise his rank among the rightly guided servants. Make his grave spacious for him and give him light in it." Related by Muslim.

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

This report is narrated by Imām Muslim(رحمه الله), Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) and ibn Mājah(رحمه الله).

Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) said "It was narrated to us by Zuhayr ibn Harb(رحمه الله), he said Mu'āwiyah ibn 'Amr(رحمه الله) informed us, from Abī Ishāq al-Fazā'ī(رحمه الله) from Khālid al-Hithā'(رحمه الله) from Abī Qulābah(رحمه الله) from Qabīсах ibn Dhu'ayb(رحمه الله) from Umm Salamah(رحمها الله) similar to it.

And al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) summarised part of it, and he placed some sentences earlier and put some at the end.[i.e. Rearranged the order of the Hadīth & left some parts of the Hadīth out].

And it was narrated by Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) and ibn Mājah(رحمه الله) from the chain of Abī Ishāq al-Fazārī(رحمه الله) similar to it.

Umm Salamah's saying:{When his sight had become fixed} meaning that his eyes were opened, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) closed his eyes, so in this Hadīth is a recommendation of closing the eyes of the dead.

Umm Salamah's saying:{Some people began to weep} meaning that some people from the family of Abī Salamah(رضي الله عنه) wept when he passed away, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) prohibited them from doing this, and ordered them to only supplicate with good, because the angels say Āmīn to your du'ā, and this is not exclusive to them, for indeed the angels say Āmīn in every supplication made from the supplicator, so it's possible that a person supplicates for something bad, so his du'ā would be answered and he will be ruined/destroyed, so he must supplicate with what is good and beneficial for his religion and worldly affairs, it's possible that his du'ā would be answered, so misfortune comes about by this du'ā in this world & the hereafter.

The Prophet's saying:{O Allāh forgive Abī Salamah} It gives a recommendation of making du'ā for the deceased before burial.

The Prophet's saying:{And raise his rank among the rightly guided servants} It establishes intercession in raising the ranks of the people who entered Jannāh.

And intercession is of [many] types:

1. The intercession of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) for Ahlāl Mawqif[The people in the position of standing on Yawm al-Qiyāmah], to rule between them.[i.e. Who he grants intercession for, note: All intercessions are done with the permission of Allāh]

2. The intercession of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) for the people of Jannāh[i.e. The Believers] to enter Jannāh.

3. The intercession of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) in raising the ranks of some of the people of Jannāh, and this is a type from among the types of intercession which the hadīth of this chapter refers too, verily the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:{And raise his ranks among the rightly guided servants}.

4. His intercession for the people entitled to go to the hellfire, that they don't enter it.

5. His intercession for the people that entered the hellfire, to get out from it, and this type is from the types of intercession which the Khawārij & Mu'tazilāh reject because they view that the Major sinners will abide eternally in hellfire, and we answer them by the saying of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى):{He forgives what is besides that[i.e. Shirk] to whomever He wishes} and other than it from the evidences.

6. His intercession with regards to lessening the punishment for his uncle Abī Tālib.

The Prophet's saying:{And grant him a successor from his descendants who remain behind, and forgive us and him, O lord of mankind}. This is what al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr(رحمه الله) left out from the Hadīth, and this is present in Sahīh al-Imām Muslim(رحمه الله). We take from this, the recommendation of making du'ā for the descendants, that perhaps Allāh(جل وعلا) will bless them.

The Messenger's saying:{And forgive us and him}. It gives a recommendation of beginning with ourselves before others in du'ā.

Then the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:{Make his grave spacious for him and give him light in it}. Because the grave is either a garden from the gardens of Jannāh or a pit from the pits of hellfire.

And in the Hadīth is an evidence that the grave could be lightened up for its companion, and it could be darkened as it's mentioned in Sahīh Muslim that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:{Verily, these graves are filled with darkness upon its companion, and verily Allāh lightens it up by my prayers}. And it's defected by Irsāl[The Shaykh will later come to this and prove why it's Shāth, Thābit al-Banānī narrated it from the Prophet as Mursal, whereas others narrated it without this addition], and in the Hadīth is a proof upon the recommendation of [performing] du'ā by what he's able to perform for the dead, and it's preferred to choose a combination of du'ā, and the Hadīth is explicit that the du'ā occurred before burial.

And it can be taken from the generality of the Hadīth, a recommendation of bringing joy to the family members of the deceased, because when the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) made du'ā for him, he also made du'ā for them, by saying {and grant him a successor from his descendants who remain behind}, so he entertained them by this and made their hearts feel at ease.

And the main focus from the context of the Hadīth for the chapter of Funerals, is Umm Salamah's saying: {So he(صلى الله عليه وسلم) closed his[Abū Salamah's] eyes}.

It gives a recommendation of closing the eyes of the dead, because when slave of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) dies, the sight follows the soul[i.e. Gets taken away], and we could benefit from this phrase that the soul is a body-part of the body[i.e. Connected to the body], Imām ibn al-Qayyim(رحمه الله) said in his book Kitāb al-Rūh, "However its connection[to the body] is different to the rest of the body-parts" would say "Wretched is the slave[of Allāh] that doesn't know his Lord, (رحمه الله) Bishr al-Hāfī except in his food & drink" i.e. It's incumbent upon you to know your Lord with what Allāh has blessed you with, the blessing of Islām, the blessing of Steadfastness, the blessing of (وتعالى) .Tawhīd, the blessing of 'Aqīdah, this is much greater than the blessing of food & drinks and his (سبحانه وتعالى) from his strong reliance upon Allāh , (رحمه الله تعالى) Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal when he entered upon al-Mu'tasim, and he had chains in (سبحانه وتعالى) close connection with Him his hands & feet, and he was walking slowly, so al-Mu'tasim said to him: "Speak O Ahmad, and said: "Be scared!! Wallāhi I have entered upon you (رحمه الله) don't be scared", So Imām Ahmad and there's not an atom weight of fear in my heart", however he[al-Mu'tasim] did not see that, and he pointed towards his hands and feet from the chains & added weight onto it[to heavier the burden .[on Imām Ahmad was asked, if a woman prayed Salāt al-Jum'ah behind the (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān Imām in the Masjid, should she pray 2 Rak'ahs just like the Salāh of the Imām or should she ?continue to pray 4 Rak'ahs[all up] after the Imām gives Salāms

(رحمه الله) responded by saying: Imām ibn al-Mundhir (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān mentioned in his book "Al-Ijmā'" that the Scholars have agreed that if the women followed the Imām .& prayed with him, that is sufficient for them

And if she followed a Rak'ah from Salāt al-Jum'ah, then she will pray on top of that another[Rak'ah], and her Salāh will be valid, and if she didn't follow a Rak'ah or she prayed in her home, then she .[should pray 4[Rak'ahs and ibn 'Omar (رضي الله عنه) And it's narrated from the authority of 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd that they said: "If she followed a Rak'ah from Jum'ah, then she should complete the (عنهما) other[Rak'ah], and if she followed them sitting[i.e. Entered in Tashahhūd], she should pray ".[4[Rak'ahs

mentioned a Consensus that whoever misses Jum'ah from the (رحمه الله) And Imām ibn al-Mundhir .Residers, that they should pray 4 Rak'ahs

and a group of scholars that if he entered into the (رحمه الله) And it's narrated from Abī Hanīfah Jum'ah prayer before the Imām gives Salāms, then he should pray 2 Rak'ahs, and if he did not .follow the Imām in his Salāh, then he should pray 4 Rak'ahs by the agreement of the scholars

(حفظه الله) is weak, as Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān (رحمه الله) Note: The view of Imām Abū Hanīfah said "Whoever follows a rak'ah of (صلى الله عليه وسلم) mentioned elsewhere. Because the Prophet Salāh, then he has followed the Salāh" so if you entered in the Tashahhūd, you should pray 4 Rak'ahs, not 2, because you haven't followed the Salāh والله اعلم

was asked, what is the ruling on performing Wudū' after (حفظه الله) Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān ?[eating] camel meat that (صلى الله عليه وسلم)The Shaykh responded by saying: It's proven from the Messenger of Allāh he commanded [the performance of] Wudū' after [eating] camel meat, and this has been mentioned that a man asked the Messenger (رضي الله عنه)in Saḥīḥ Muslim from the chain of Ja'far ibn Sumrāḥ (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Shall I perform wudū' after [eating] mutton", He", (صلى الله عليه وسلم)of Allāh said "If you wish, perform wudū', and if you wish, don't perform wudū". He said "Shall I perform said "Yes, perform wudū' after [eating] (صلى الله عليه وسلم)wudū' after [eating] camel meat", He ".camel meat

it was (رضي الله عنه),And similar to this has been mentioned from the Hadith of Al-Barā' ibn 'Āzib (رحمه الله)ibn Mājah (رحمه الله),al-Tirmidhī (رحمه الله),Abū Dāwūd (رحمه الله),narrated by Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله)and it was authenticated by ibn Khuzaymah (رحمه الله),ibn al-Jārūd & (الله) (رحمه الله)and ibn al-Mundhir (رحمه الله)Hibbān and this Fatwā was given by Imām (رضي الله عنهما),And this is the Madhab of ibn 'Umar and (رحمه الله)and Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله)Ishāq ibn Rāhawayh (رحمه الله),Muhammād ibn Ishāq (رحمه الله)'said "There are two authentic Hadīths regarding it, the Hadīth of al-Barā (رحمه الله)he (رحمى الله عنه)and the Hadīth of Jābir ibn Sumrah

(رحمه الله)Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāḥ (رحمه الله),And that was [also] said by Imām ibn al-Mundhir (رحمه الله)and others (رحمه الله)ibn al-Qayyīm (رحمه الله)

Whereas the majority of the scholars went towards the view that Wudū' after [eating] camel meat is (رحمه الله)al-Shāfi'ī (رحمه الله),Mālik (رحمه الله),not obligatory, and this is the Madhab of Abī Hanīfah mentioned it from Suwayd ibn (رحمه الله)ibn al-Mundhir & (رحمه الله)And ibn Abī Shaybāḥ (رحمه الله). (رحمه الله)and Mujāhid (رحمه الله)Tāwūs (رحمه الله),'Attā' (رحمه الله),Ghufīlah

And some of the scholars have mentioned it from some of the Rightly Guided Khulafā', and this is disputable, as it's not proven from any of them that they refrained from performing Wudū' after [eating] camel meat

al- (رحمه الله),And the people of this view used as proof what was narrated by Imām Abū Dāwūd from Muḥammād (رحمه الله)and others from the chain of Shu'ayb ibn Abī Hamzāḥ (رحمه الله)Nasā'ī he said: "The last two matters (رضي الله عنهما),from Jābir ibn 'Abdillāḥ (رحمه الله)ibn al-Munkadir was to abandon the Wudū' by that which is (صلى الله عليه وسلم)from the Messenger of Allāh "[touched by Fire[i.e. includes Camels

And this report isn't valid to be used as proof upon giving a permit in abandoning Wudū' after :[eating] camel meat, and that is because of two reasons and Jābir ibn (رضي الله عنه)'That it's general, and it could be specified by the Hadīths of al-Barā . 1 especially if we knew that performing Wudū' by that which is touched by (رضي الله عنه),Sumrāḥ (رحمه الله)Fire[i.e. Camels] was obligatory

That this report is weak, and its meaning isn't authentic, and this is the view of the people of this . 2 said: "This Hadīth is Mudtarib[shaky/weak] in (رحمه الله)matter[i.e. Muḥadithīn], Imām Abū Ḥātim ate mutton and didn't perform wudū", likewise (صلى الله عليه وسلم)meaning, infact he, the Prophet from (رحمه الله)the Thiqāt[trustworthy narrators] narrated it from Muḥammād ibn al-Munkadir narrated it from his memory and erred in (رحمه الله)and it's likely that Shu'ayb (رضي الله عنهما),Jābir (رحمه الله)it said in his Sunān, "And this is summed up by the first", meaning (رحمه الله)And Imām Abū Dāwūd ate bread and meat, then he (صلى الله عليه وسلم)that the Prophet (رضي الله عنه)the Hadīth of Jābir . 'got up for the Salāḥ & didn't perform Wudū

was asked, what is the correct view with regards to the (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān ?ruling on the Sāhir

responded by saying: Al-Sihr in all of its forms is Harām in every Sharī'ah, (حفظه الله)The Shaykh and is agreed upon regarding its prohibition and the prohibition of learning it. And it goes against came with, and contradicts the purpose of what the (عليهم الصلاة والسلام)what the Messengers .books[revelations from Allāh] were sent for

And the majority of the scholars adopted the view that the Sāhir is a Kāfir, and it's compulsory upon .the leader of the muslims to kill him said "It was not Sulaymān who disbelieved, but the devils disbelieved, teaching (سبحانه وتعالى)Allāh "(people Sihr(magic

said "But [the two angels] do not teach anyone unless they say, "We are a (سبحانه وتعالى)and Allāh .trial, so do not disbelieve", i.e. [do not disbelieve] by doing Sihr, so it's evident that this is Kufr

And most of the Fuqahā' from the Shāfi'iyyāḥ adopted the view that the Sāhir doesn't disbelieve, unless he believes the permissibility of Sihr or believes similar to what the people of Bābīl believe, .from getting closer to the 7 stars

.[And this is disputable, and there's no evidence to condition "Belief" [for Sihr to be Kufr

And what's correct is that the Sāhir is a Kāfir, whether he believes it's Harām or not, so simply performing Sihr is Kufr, and this is what's clear from the evidences, and there is nothing in the other .texts which opposes this

And when the description/title of Sihr is established upon an individual, he is to be killed, as that has been proven from a group of the Sahābah, however it's not allowed for anyone among the people to apply the Punishments without the command of the Sultān[Chief/Leader] or whoever holds his place, because applying the Punishments without the command of those in authority will result in corruption, and destabilisation for the safety[of the country], and the consideration of the [Sultān will disappear.[Basically becomes chaos, everyone taking it into his own hands

I have a message for my #Special Brothers & Sisters. You guys are so Awesome, Allāh Allāh, how blessed are you! We understand each other, so I hope you can understand my message & ponder over the meanings for yourself.

Brothers & Sisters, what I want to speak about is about the Da'wah we're giving. What we must understand first of all is that the Da'wah of the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) was a call to pure Tawhid, and disbelief in the Tāghūt, i.e. what's worshipped besides Allāh(جل وعلا), and there was no compromise in that as we know from the Sirah. Secondly, renewing our Niyyāh is so significant, as Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله) said, Renew your Niyyāh every day, not just every day, but many times a day, before you say or do something, always! Thirdly, we must have a strong heart, keep calm & remain patient, the last thing you want to do is to get angry because of a word someone else said or accused you of, don't let them affect you & stay firm on the Haq without swearing, insulting, personal attacks, because the Haq doesn't prevail in such a manner. The next thing we must understand is the wisdom of Da'wah & how we interact with people, whether muslim or non-muslim. The way we address people, if they are children, teens, young adults, the elderly etc...Talk to everyone on their own level in which they are able to understand, and speaking to somebody on their own level isn't considered watering down the religion. Before I start giving examples, please my brothers & sisters, don't let anything stop you from learning about Islām, especially things which are out of your hands. The people of righteousness do not waste their time, they are aware & at the same time learn more, not remain frozen & let things restrict them. Don't just focus solely on 1 thing, have back up plans & look at yourself.

Now, I know it's hard to give Da'wah to some people, many have come up to me and said "But it's so hard to explain it to them, they won't listen, they won't change, they are so ignorant", I completely understand what you mean, and I'm sure it upsets you when nobody understands you, but think about it in a positive way, do you know why? Because you are extremely blessed & special, do you not see that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has given you something more precious than anything in this complete dunyā? You have Ēmān, and that's the most amazing gift which so many people are missing out on, so Alhamdulillah, always thank & praise Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) for giving you Faith & keep making du'ā to Allāh(جل وعلا) to keep you steadfast. The way you see things is a blessing, others are either worried about the world or carried away with other things or are sincerely searching for the truth, but cannot find it. Don't feel let down because they don't understand you, Allāh(جل وعلا) is sufficient for you, He understands you more than me or anyone else. Many parents consider the Jilbāb extreme, let alone the Niqāb! So to you sister that wears to Jilbāb, glad tidings to you, to you sister that covers her face & hands & feet, glad tidings to you for following the Mothers of the Believers and Sahābiyyāt of Rasūl Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم). I ask Allāh(جل وعلا) that Umm al-Mu'minīn 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) will stand besides you & hold your hand into Jannāh for the efforts you went through in this Dunyā to please Allāh(جل وعلا) by following the footsteps of your Mother.

Now, if you cannot convince someone of an issue, don't get angry, give someone else a chance to convince them or simply make du'ā for them in your heart, always remain well-mannered and smile & be respectful. Did not our Father, the Shaykh al-Millāh Ibrāhīm(عليه السلام) want his father to become a Muslim like himself upon the Hanīfiyyāh? Didn't our beloved Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) want Abū Tālib to enter into Islām, so don't think that you are responsible for the beliefs or actions of others, and don't let it be a burden on you. And if something happens to you, always remember Allāh(جل وعلا), subhānAllāh even Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) when the ruler imprisoned him, what did ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) say? He said "O Allāh keep me firm" subhānAllāh! He didn't say "O Allāh free me", it's so important to ask Allāh for Thabāt, because how many people do you see who get imprisoned then come out as Fussāq, Zanādiqah & the worst of people to walk the face of this Earth. Yes it's permissible to ask Allāh(جل وعلا) to free you, but the point of this is to ask Allāh(جل وعلا) for steadfastness, so that you become free upon the correct 'Aqīdah, free from deviance & no change at all.

Sorry for the long post, it was something I wanted to speak off my mind, and Inshā'Allāh it was beneficial to whoever read it - May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) keep us all steadfast & guide us to the straight path.

Some of the Salaf said: "The main concern isn't to simply love[Allāh], this is obligatory upon you, rather the main concern is to be loved[by Allāh]"

ليس الشأن أن تُحب - هذا فرض عليك - إنما الشأن أن تُحب

Because if Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) loves you, this means that he's pleased with you and will allow you to enter his Jannāh.

And yes, we affirm the quality/attribute of Mahabbāh to Allāh(جل وعلا) without Tamthīl or Tahrīf, there are hundreds of verses in the Qur'ān which tells us that Allāh(جل وعلا) loves 🤗

Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) loves the Obedient, He loves the sincere, He loves those that ordain the good & forbid the evil, He loves the Muhsinīn, He loves the Mutaqīn & Mutatahirīn & Sābirīn & many others.

"Indeed, Allah loves those who fight in His cause in a row as though they are a [single] structure joined firmly." [61:4]

May Allāh(جل وعلا) make us from among those who love him and are loved by Him 🤗 was asked, is Bulūgh al-Hujjāh[having the evidence reach him] (حفظه الله) Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd ?a condition to apply Kufr

:The Shaykh responded by saying: Kufr is of two types with regards to applying it

It could be applied to mean "General Kufr": and it is every person who doesn't follow the religion .1 .of Islām, whether the Hujjāh has been applied or not

It could be applied to mean "Specific Kufr": and it is rejecting the truth and denying it after the .2 Bulūgh[evidence reaching you], and this is specifically for the one that the Hujjāh has been applied [...on, and this is the Kufr that's punished for.[i.e. The rulings that deal with apostasy etc

As for the "General Kufr" - #1 - Ahlāl Fitrāh & others are entered into it, of those who the Hujjāh hasn't been applied on, and even though they are called Kuffār, however they aren't punished[for apostasy] except after applying the Hujjāh, and from this you can explain the saying of Imām with regards to his refraining on performing Takfīr upon (رحمه الله)Muhammād ibn 'Abdūl Wahhāb whoever worshipped the dome of Kawāz & 'Abdūl Qādir & similar to them because of their ignorance, so he intends by that the "Specific Kufr", which is conditioned by applying the Hujjāh, .not the "General Kufr" that's contrary to [the religion of] Islām was asked about the authenticity of the Hadīth "Do not fast (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān "on Saturday, except that which is obligated upon you

The Shaykh responded by saying: This report is Munkar, [both] its chain & meaning. Imām mentioned it from him in his (رحمه الله)said about it, "This is a lie", Abū Dāwūd (رحمه الله)Malik .Sunan said: I have still remained silent about it, until I saw it spread, meaning (رحمه الله)Imām al-Awzāī .the Hadīth of ibn Bisr, this is regards to fasting on Saturday said: "None of you should fast on the day of Jum'ah, unless (صلى الله عليه وسلم)And the Prophet and it (رضي الله عنه)he fasts the day before or after it" Agreed upon from the Hadīth of Abī Hurayrāh (جل وعلا)is an evidence to fast on Saturday, and the Hadīths regarding that are many, and Allāh .knows best Sulaymān al-Taymī(رحمه الله) and this chain is Majhūl[Unknown].

And Imām al-Dāraquṭnī(رحمه الله) said its chain is weak, and there's not a single authentic Hadīth from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding this, and it can also be said that there's not a single authentic from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding the virtues of Yāsīn, for all the narrated Hadīths regarding Yāsīn are weak, and the most weak of them is what is commonly known upon the tongues that:{Yāsīn is for that for which is read[i.e. May cause your needs to be met & make things easier for you]}, and this has no basis from the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and some of the ignorant[people] have even gone further in this issue, and started reciting “Yāsīn” near the graves of the dead, [both] men and women, so they committed several prohibitions from doing that.

The first prohibition: That they acted upon a weak Hadīth in the Ahkām al-Shar'iyyāh[Islamic Rulings], opposing the way of the Imāms of Hadīth.

The second prohibition: That they innovated in the religion, by reciting the Qur'ān in the graveyards, and this is Harām and isn't permissible, because graveyards weren't built for this.

The third prohibition: [Having] their women enter the graveyard, and women are prohibited from following the Janāzah prayer, let alone visiting the graves as it's mentioned in the Hadīth of ibn 'Atiyyāh in the Sahīhayn.

And the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has cursed the women that visit the graves. It's a Hassan Hadīth narrated by al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) from the chain of 'Amr ibn Salamah(رحمه الله) from his Father(رحمه الله) from Abī Hurayrāh(رحمه الله) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

And some of them also recite in gatherings, and on top of that, they place flowers and roses upon the grave of their dead. Indeed, an innovation turns into other innovations.

The conclusion: That the Hadīth of this chapter is a weak Hadīth, and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) held it upon reciting it near the deathbed and this is if the report was authentic, but as for it being weak, it's not prescribed to worship[Allāh] by reciting it, neither near the deathbed, nor other than that.

“And the best of matters is what preceded us in guidance***And the worst of matters are the newly invented ones” [Poetry]

And the muslim must follow[the authentic proof], not innovate, and the student of knowledge must dedicate all his efforts towards acting upon the Authentic Hadīths and abandoning the Weak & Feeble Hadīths, and he must inform the Laymen and whoever has no understanding with regards to the rulings of Hadīth by its authentic from the weak and feeble, until they act upon the Authentic text & leave off the weak Hadīths, or else innovation would prevail between them, and they would be blinded to ignorance and misguidance, as it is the reality today, and the reason for this is because of laxation with regards to acting upon the Weak Hadīth, and what's correct is that the Weak Hadīth isn't acted upon in all cases, neither in Fadā'il[virtuous deeds] nor other than it, because all of it is the Sharī'ah from Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), knowingly that there's not a weak Hadīth in Fadā'il except that it has a connection with the unseen, so we must be aware of this issue, and the successful is whoever Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) gave success to, and Allāh(جل وعلا) is the guide towards the path of correct guidance.

[?]/#GEMS from Bulūgh al-Marām

501 - And it's narrated from Abī Sa'īd al-Khudrī(رضي الله عنه) & Abī Hurayrāh(رضي الله عنه) that they said: The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Remind your dead[dying ones] to say, Lā ilāha ilā Allāh". Narrated by Muslim(رحمه الله) and the "Four"[i.e. Sahīh Sittāh except for Bukhārī].

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

This report is narrated by Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh, so he said "Abū Kāmil al-Fudhayl ibn Hussayn(رحمه الله) narrated to us, he said we were informed by Bishr ibn al-Mufaddāl(رحمه الله), he said it was narrated to us by 'Amārah ibn Ghazyah(رحمه الله), he said it from Yahyā ibn 'Amārah(رحمه الله) from Abī Sa'īd al-Khudrī(رضي الله عنه) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم)."

And Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Sahīh from the chain of Yazīd ibn Kisayān(رحمه الله) from Abī Hāzim(رحمه الله) from Abī Hurayrāh(رضي الله عنه) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

And Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) and the Ahlāl Sunan all narrated it from the chain of 'Amārah ibn Ghazyāh(رحمه الله) from Yahyā ibn 'Amārah(رحمه الله) from Abī Sa'īd(رضي الله عنه).

The Prophet's saying: {Remind your dead to say} This is a command, and by principle, commands are taken as obligations, except that the people of knowledge took this report upon recommendation, except that an Ijmā' has been agreed upon in this, or else it would've been taken as an obligation, and the people of knowledge differed regarding this reminder, it's said that this reminder is when he's on his death bed, and this is the saying of the Majority of the Muhaqīqīn from the people of knowledge, and some of them said that this reminder is after burying them, to say lā ilāha ilā Allāh, so he remembers what he died upon, and this saying has weakness to it, and what's correct is the first saying. What affirms this is what has been narrated by ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh "So whoever's last words were Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, he will enter Jannāh", so this affirms and supports the first saying, and that it's to be said on his deathbed, so that the one on his death bed can benefit from this and say this great word, and as for saying it after he dies, then this is an innovation in the religion according to the correct saying, and by the will of Allāh(جل وعلا), we will go through this issue in its proper place.

And some of the scholars recommended refraining from ordering the one on his death bed to say these words, so it shouldn't be said to him "Say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh", rather you should remind him of it, so that it can be seen to him, or to remind him of some of the narrated Hadīths regarding the virtues of whoever says it. And the reason for this is so it doesn't worry him, and the one present with him doesn't shock him, by not saying it.

As for the Kāfir, if he was upon his deathbed, it can be said to him "Say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh" as the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) did with his uncle Abī Tālib, in the Saḥīhayn & other than it from the Hadīth of Sa'īd al-Musayyib(رحمه الله) from his father, he said "when I was present with Abā Tālib on his deathbed, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) came to him and with him was 'Abdullāh ibn Umayyāh & Abū Jahl, so he said to him: {O uncle, say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh....till the end of the Hadīth}"

So the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) ordered him to say it, because if he died without saying it, he would eternally remain in the hellfire for eternity, and this is the reality regarding Abī Tālib, we ask Allāh(جل وعلا) for peace and good health.

With regards to a muslim, then it differs to the Kāfir in this issue, because if you ordered him to say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, it's possible that he would grief/worry from that, taking away his comfort by a sin, and what's necessary is benefiting him, not harming him, and benefit occurs by reminding him of Lā ilāha ilā Allāh or mentioning the narrated Hadīths regarding its virtues near death.

And in the Hadīth is an evidence regarding the virtues of Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has made it the tenet, of which Imām Anmad(رحمه الله) narrated in his Musnad with an authentic chain from the chain of al-Nahawī(رحمه الله) from Ash'ath ibn Abī al-Sha'thā'(رحمه الله), he said it was narrated to me from a man of the children of Mālik ibn Kinānah(رحمه الله) that he heard the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) going down the tracks in the market, he intervened saying:{O people, say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, that you may become successful}, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has made it the utmost degree, so he said:{Remind your dying ones to say Lā ilāha ilā Allāh}, so that the life of the muslim can be built upon Tawhīd and built upon the light of Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, and for the muslim to know the significance of turning towards Tawhīd, and to know the importance of Tawhīd [that needs] to be installed within the souls of mankind, verily Tawhīd takes the slaves[of Allāh] from being enslaved to the creation towards the mandated servitude[towards the worship of Allāh].

And also the Hadīth has another proof regarding the virtues of saying this great word on the deathbed, and we extract from the Hadith that even if there was a word to be said on the deathbed which is greater than Lā ilāha ilā Allāh, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would've said it, which is why it has been narrated in al-Tirmidhī from Jābir(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: {The greatest remembrance is Lā ilāha ilā Allāh}. And ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) also narrated it in his Saḥih.

And the Hadīth of the companion of the Batāqah[card] is a famous Hadīth narrated by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Saḥīh with an authentic chain upon the condition of Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) from the Hadith of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Amr ibn al-'Ās(رضي الله عنه) and it mentions:{There's nothing heavier/greater than the name of Allāh}, and what is meant by the name of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) here is "Lā ilāha ilā Allāh".

#Forgotten_Sunnāh

The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) used to get up in the night & walk outside of his house and look to the sky & say "Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and earth" - It's a great feeling, and there is wisdom behind everything we do whether we perceive it or not :)

Note: If you are going through hardships, do not ask unnecessary questions like "Why is Allāh doing this to me" because there is wisdom from every trial you go through, at times you can see it, and at other times, it will be shown to you in the future, and sometimes you won't know the wisdom of it. Have patience and humility, and know that everything has been written down, so just accept the good & bad of destiny.

500 - And it's narrated from Buraydā(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "The believer dies while his forehead is sweating". It was reported by the "Three", and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) authenticated it.

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

The author says this report was narrated by the "Three"[Imāms, i.e. Abū Dāwūd, al-Tirmidhī, al-Nasā'ī], all of them narrated it from the chain of Qatādah ibn Da'āmah al-Sadūsī(رحمه الله) from 'Abdūllāh ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله) from his father(رحمه الله) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله) says in his Jāmi'[i.e. Sunan al-Tirmidhī]: And some of the Scholars said: "We do not know if Qatādah heard from 'Abdūllāh ibn Buraydāh", and Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) mentioned in al-Tārikh al-Kabīr that Qatādah(رحمه الله) didn't hear from 'Abdullāh ibn Buraydā(رحمه الله), and there's no doubt that Qatādah(رحمه الله) lived in the same time as ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله), for around about 44 years, since ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله) passed away in the year 105AH, whereas Imām Qatādah(رحمه الله) was born in the year 60AH, so thereupon some of the scholars said: "Qatādah not hearing from ibn Buraydah is held upon the Madhab of Imām Bukhārī by not accepting them being alive in the same time, and it must be proven that they met, even once" and this is disputable, and what's clear is that al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) doesn't intend by this disconnection, this [quoted] view, and the narration has come through al-Nasā'ī from the chain of Kahmas(رحمه الله) from 'Abdullāh ibn Buraydāh(رحمه الله) from his father(رحمه الله), and this chain is connected & authentic, and thereupon ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) authenticated it in his Sahīh.

The Prophet's saying: {The believer dies while his forehead sweats} This is understood upon either one of the two ways:

1. That the believer dies by the sweat of his forehead, [meaning] when he is experiencing/undergoing hardships in his search for Halāl wealth, for indeed seeking lawful wealth requires tiredness, effort/discomfort and hardship.
2. That when the believer is experiencing a severe phase & is overcoming death, he dies while his forehead sweats, and this saying is possibly closer[to the truth] than the first saying, because the severe agony of death is an established matter in which there's no doubt about, and it has been narrated in the Sahīhayn from the Hadīth of Hilāl al-Wazān(رحمه الله) from 'Urwāh(رحمه الله) from 'Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) that she said:{When the last moment of the life of Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) came he started putting his 'Khamīsah' on his face, and when he felt hot and short of breath he took it off his face}. [till the end of The Hadīth where the Prophet cursed the jews & christians for building places of worship on top of the graves of their Prophets]

So the agony of death is found within every person's last moment of life, except that some of them have the pain[of death] lessened upon them, and others have it intensified upon them.

499 – And from Anas(رضي الله عنه) that he said: The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said “Let not one of you wish for death because of a harm that afflicted you, and if you really must wish for it[i.e death], then say: “O Allāh keep me alive, if life is better for me, and make me die, if death is better for me” Agreed upon.

Sharh of Shaykh al-‘Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-‘Alwān(حفظه الله):

This report is agreed upon, al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) said “ibn Salām(رحمه الله) narrated to us, he said we were informed by Ismā‘īl ibn ‘Aliyyāh(رحمه الله) from ‘Abdūl ‘Azīz ibn Suhayb(رحمه الله) from Anas ibn Mālik(رحمه الله)”

Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) said “ibn Harb(رحمه الله) narrated to us, he said Ismā‘īl(رحمه الله) narrated to us, so he mentioned it[i.e. The Hadīth]” and Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله), and al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله), all of them narrated it from the chain of Ismā‘īl(رحمه الله). And Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) and al-Tayālasī(رحمه الله) narrated it from the chain of Shu‘bāh(رحمه الله) from ‘Abdūl ‘Azīz ibn Suhayb(رحمه الله).

And Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله), Muslim(رحمه الله), Ahmad(رحمه الله) and others narrated it from [several] chains from Thābit al-Banānī(رحمه الله) from Anas ibn Mālik(رحمه الله).

The Prophet's saying: {Do not wish} “Lā Mutamannīyan”, the “Lā” [i.e. Don't] here is a prohibition, and we have previously mentioned that prohibitions by principle, means that it's Harām, just like commands by principle, necessitates obligation, and we do not leave this principle except with proof, either an indication to divert the command from its obligation towards a recommendation, or a prohibition of Harām to being disliked, or another Hadīth is reported to affirm what was mentioned/intended.

The Prophet's saying: {Because of a harm that afflicted you} This a general description[the most common case], and even if there was no affliction of harm/distress, and he wished for death, he's prohibited from this, however for the most part upon the souls, is that it wishes for death when an affliction befalls it, like a sickness & similar to that, and you find some of the people have very little patience when a disaster strikes them in a difficult moment, they wish for death, and he does not know that it's possible if he dies in this moment, he would be from among the gravel of the hellfire.

And that is why the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "The best of you are those who live long and do good deeds", for indeed it's possible for the slave[of Allāh], if his life extended, that he would do more good[deeds], so there's no reason thereupon to wish for death, and it's likely that he would die upon a bad ending[if he wished for death] , however it's incumbent upon the slave[of Allāh] to ask Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) for success and correctness, and a good ending, for indeed the [most important] deeds are by their endings, but it has come through[i.e. been narrated from] some of the Sahābah that they used to wish for death in fear of al-Fitan[trials & tribulations], and this was made permissible by some of the Scholars, and this is a good way to look at it, because he's fearing for his religion and fears for his Islām, however as for simply being afflicted with a sickness or a hardship/distress during the stressful times, like an accident or the death of a beloved one, and similar to that, so he wishes for death, then this is wrong, knowingly that some of the scholars went towards acting upon the apparent [meaning] of the Hadīth, so they said "It's not prescribed to wish for death, even for fear over your religion, and it's likely that Allāh will bring benefit to it[by this trial], as the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to Sa'd(رضي الله عنه) and the Hadīth is in the Sahīhayn {Some people may benefit from you & others may be harmed by you}"

So that's why the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) guided us towards manners/discipline in extremely stressful situations when the slave[of Allāh] is afflicted by the world, that he says "O Allāh keep me alive, if life is better for me, and make me die, if death is better for me ".

#Gems from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān's commentary on the book "Bulūgh al-Marām". Amazing knowledge regarding the Isnād & Matn of the Hadīths.

Chapter of Funerals[Bāb al-Janā'iz]:

The author, may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon him, began this chapter with the Hadīth of Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه), that he said:

#498 – The Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: “Remember, as much as you can, the destroyer of pleasures: al-Mawt[Death].” Reported by al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله), al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله) and it was authenticated by ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله).

Sharh of Shaykh al-'Allāmah Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله):

And this report was narrated by Imām al-Tirmidhī(رحمه الله), ibn Mājah(رحمه الله) and ibn Hibbān(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh from the chain of al-Fadhal ibn Mūsā(رحمه الله) from Muḥammād ibn 'Amr ibn 'Alqamāh ibn Waqqās al-Laythī(رحمه الله) from Abī Salamah ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān(رحمه الله) from Abī Hurayrah(رضي الله عنه).

Al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله) narrated it in his Sunan from the chain of Muḥammād ibn Ibrāhīm(رحمه الله) from Muḥammād ibn 'Amr(رحمه الله), and Muḥammād ibn 'Amr(رحمه الله) is differed upon, he was authenticated by al-Nasā'ī(رحمه الله) and Yahyā ibn Ma'īn(رحمه الله), and from Yahyā ibn Ma'īn(رحمه الله) that he said “The people are still taking/accepting his Hadīths”, and reflecting upon the words of the scholars of Jarh wal-Ta'dīl[science of differentiating between the authentic & weak narrators] regarding Muḥammād ibn 'Amr, you find that the person is trustworthy, however he confuses himself and commits mistakes at times, especially from the Hadīth of Abī Salamāh ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān, and that's why he isn't to be accepted when he reports on his own in the Usūl[the main hadīth of the chapter], which the Ummāh is in need of.

And the Hadīth has a Shāhid[narration to support its meaning] with al-Maqdisī in al-Mukhtārah from the chain of Mu'mal ibn Ismā'īl(رحمه الله) from Hamād ibn Salamah(رحمه الله) from Thābit al-Banānī(رحمه الله) from Anas ibn Mālik(رحمه الله) from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) similar to it[the previous Hadīth], and some of the later scholars claimed that this report is upon the condition of Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) and this is feeble and wrong, because Mu'mal ibn Ismā'īl is not from the narrators of Imām Muslim(رحمه الله) of those who's Hadīths he relied upon in the Usūl[the core hadīths in his Sahīh], and Mu'mal ibn Ismā'īl is weak in memory, as it was mentioned by more than one scholar from the Muhadithin, and the conclusion is that the Hadīth of this chapter is “Hassan”.

The Prophet's saying: {as much as you can} This is a command, and by principle, commands are taken as Obligations, as long as there's no obstacle which prevents that [from being obligatory].

The Prophet's saying: {Remember the destroyer of pleasures} It's reported[the word Hādim] with a “dāl” with a dot[ذ] & without a dot[د], and it is Death, indeed the remembrance of death, and increasing in its remembrance saves the soul from falling into the Muharrāmāt[prohibited acts] such as Ghībāh[backbiting], Namīmāh[gossip], falsely eating the wealth of the people[i.e. Ripping them off], stealing, usury, and similar to that from the prohibited acts, for indeed remembering death protects the soul from all ugliness[i.e. Bad things], and brings life to the heart, so that's why it's prescribed for the muslim to increase in the remembrance of death, so that he can protect himself from falling into the Muharrāmāt, and also because increasing in the remembrance of the destroyer of pleasures gives the slave[of Allāh] motivation to do an abundant amount of deeds for the Ākhirāh, and brings life to the hearts, and removes all kinds of arrogance and self-conceit from the soul, so it's not allowed for a slave to be heedless/forget about death, or else his heart will become darkened and disobedient and he would do al-Fawāhish[indecent acts] and Muharrāmāt[prohibited acts], until it's formed/stuck upon his heart and it becomes like a covered/overwhelming seal upon him, and that's why it's prescribed for a muslim[man] to visit the graves, so he can remember the hereafter, as it will[shortly] be mentioned inshā'Allāh in the Hadith of Abī Sa'eed al-Khudrī(رضي الله عنه), related in Sahīh al-Imām Muslim(رحمه الله).

Inshā'Allāhî Ta'ālāh, I'm going to go through the book "Bulūgh al-Marām" with you guys, and Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) has done a Sharh on many chapters from the book where he explains the Chain of Narration and the Meanings of the Hadith. Inshā'Allāh we can go through hundreds of Hadīths & grasp a good amount of knowledge.

The chapter I want to translate is the Funeral Prayer, which is the last sub-topic in the chapter of Salāh, because the Janā'iz is the last part of life, and a person enters into a different world, which is no doubt the world of the afterlife, and that comes by death. There are two worlds, the world of this Dunyā and the world of the Ākhirāh.

And the first Hadīth in this chapter is the Hadith of remembering the destroyer of pleasures, i.e. Death! So inshā'Allāh, I'll go through as many Hadīths as possible & may Allāh(جل وعلا) accept it from me & you, and may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) bring benefit from what we're doing.

Amazing answer by al-Hassan(رحمه الله) regarding the meaning of this Hadīth "Whosoever I am his Mawlā, 'Alī too is his Mawlā" - Great refutation against the Rawāfidh 🙏

Imām al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said: Shubābah ibn Siwār(رحمه الله) narrated from al-Fuḍayl ibn Marzūq(رحمه الله) who said: "I heard al-Ḥassan ibn al-Ḥassan(رحمه الله), the brother of 'Abdullāh ibn al-Ḥassan(رحمه الله) while he was saying to a man who was among their lovers" and he mentioned the story, then he(رحمه الله) said: "The Rāfidhī said to him, "Didn't the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) say, 'Whosoever I am his Mawlā, 'Alī too is his Mawlā'?" So, he[al-Hassan] replied, "I swear by Allāh, if the Messenger of Allāh(صلى الله عليه وسلم) had intended with that authority and government over the people after him, he would have stated it more clearly, as he stated to them clearly about Ṣalāt, Zakāt, the fasting of Ramaḍān, and the Ḥajj of the House. He would have said to them, 'Verily, this one is your walī al-amr after me. Therefore, listen to him and obey him..."

buried at Night time & is it true that she was angry with Abū Bakr al-(رضي الله عنها)Was Fātimāh and didn't speak to him again? #Very_Important ~ I have written a detailed (رضي الله عنه)Siddīq .response inshā'Allāh had a piece of land (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Bismillāh, firstly I would like to mention that the Prophet wanted to take her (رضي الله عنها)died, Fātimāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم)called "Fadak" and when he told (رضي الله عنه)however Abū Bakr al-Siddīq (صلى الله عليه وسلم),inheritance from the Prophet leaves behind is charity, it's not to be inherited, (صلى الله عليه وسلم)her that whatever the Prophet .this is an explicit Hadīth

However, there's a narration that says "Al-Zuhri narrated from 'Urwa that narrated 'Aisha: Fatima and Al 'Abbas came to Abu Bakr, seeking their share from the property of Allah's Messenger and at that time, they were asking for their land at Fadak and their share from Khaibar. Abu Bakr said to them, " I have heard from Allah's Messenger saying, 'Our property cannot be inherited, and whatever we leave is to be spent in charity, but the family of Muhammad may take their provisions from this property.'" Abu Bakr added, "By Allah, I will not leave the procedure I saw Allah's Messenger following during his lifetime concerning this property." He said: Therefore Fatima left ".Abu Bakr and did not speak to him till she died was most famous in doing (رحمه الله)Now for those who know the science of Hadīth, al-Zuhrī "Mudraj": meaning, that he would explain the Hadīths & add his own commentary. And how do we .know if it's his addition or not? By looking at all the chains of narrations & it will be shown to you in (رحمه الله)So with this hadīth I posted, read the last line, "He said" this is an addition by al-Zuhrī since it says "He said", not "She said" , (رضي الله عنها)the Hadīth & this can't be the words of Ā'isha and the Hadīth is narrated in several books, so the script is not mistaken. This is what we call an .addition to the Hadith by a narrator said "Therefore Fātimah left Abū Bakr & did not speak to him till she died" (رحمه الله)So al-Zuhrī Now, the understanding of this addition must be looked at, the context clearly shows that Fātimāh (رضي الله عليه وسلم)and accepted that the Messenger (رضي الله عنه)was pleased with Abū Bakr doesn't inherit worldly things, and Fadak is land, i.e. Dunyā. So this Hadīth proves that Fātimāh again regarding the issue of Fadak again. And this is (رضي الله عنه)didn't speak to Abū Bakr .supported by other narrations as it mentions

He said: Therefore Fatima left Abu Bakr and did not speak to him about this property till she died."" .in his Musannāf (رحمه لله)And this is narrated by ibn Abī Shaybah are (رضي الله عنه)was angry with Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنها)And the Rāfidah that claim that Fātimah is clear, and secondly this is (صلى الله عليه وسلم)twisters & liars. Firstly, the Hadīth of the Prophet where they portray her as being a person that cares about the (رضي الله عنها)an insult to Fātimah Dunyā wal-'Iyāthubillāh, even though she is one of the Greatest Women to walk the face of this !Earth that inherit, such as (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Also, what about the other family members of the Prophet became the (رضي الله عنه)'Alī, al-Hassan, al-Hussein etc...The 3 Khulafā' passed away and 'Alī and distribute the shares (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Khalīfah, how come he didn't inherit from the Prophet (رضي)to the family of the Messenger of Allāh? This shows that he agree's with Abū Bakr al-Siddīq !knows that the Inheritance of Rasūl Allāh is left for charity only & (الله عنه) died upset with (رضي الله عنها)Anyways, inshā'Allāh this is clear & there's no proof that Fātimah rather these are lies propagated by the Rawāfidh that want to , (رضي الله عنه)Abū Bakr al-Siddīq .(صلى اله عليه وسلم)attack the Companions of our beloved Messenger was she buried & (رضي الله عنها)Okay, so now I want to touch on the topic of the burial of Fātimāh at Night time? Yes, this is mentioned by several Scholars that she was buried at night time, just was buried at night & many Sahābiyyāt were buried at night. Infact the (رضي الله عنها)like Ā'isha was buried at night as I have mentioned in my previous post. There's (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Prophet .no shame in being buried at night was very shy & this is famously related from her & everyone knows (رضي الله عنها)Infact, Fātimāh this. And the women would prefer to be buried at night where no men can see her being carried as it's famously related by Fātimāh that she told Asmā' bint 'Umayy how can I be carried above in front of men where my body shape would be shown. So Asmā' bint 'Umayy gave her a suggestion of what they do in Habasha, that they place her in a box where it covers her & doesn't reveal the .shape of her body, so Fātimah replied, this is excellent, if I die, do this for me burying her in the grave alone, this is unlikely that 'Alī did so on his (رضي الله عنه)And as for 'Alī own, wouldn't be able too. Rather, her sons participated in the burial, likewise her nephews, the .others (رضي الله عنه), (رضي الله عنه)al-'Abbās sons of her uncles, 'Alī

As for the claims that her grave is not known, this is also another myth, her grave is in al-Baqee' according to some scholars, but to know where her grave is exactly, such as this is her grave and and her sons (رضي الله عنه)this is Ā'ishā's grave, it's not known to that extent for us, however 'Alī definitely knew where her grave was. Just like 'Alī's grave is not known exactly, and the claims that it's in Najaf is another lie, but this is another topic. Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān has written a booklet on where 'Alī's grave is & the scholars mentioned some areas, but in other areas, it's .unlikely since the Khawārij would've done something to his grave

(رضي الله عنها)was washed & covered up by Asmā' bint 'Umayy (رضي الله عنها)Either way, Fātimāh and she was buried at night time according to the Scholars of Seerah which isn't any shame as I've mentioned. But the claims of the Rawāfidh are false & I usually don't respond to the Rāfidah, .knows best (جلا وعلا)however I felt like writing this post & may it be beneficial for you & Allāh

#Misconception regarding covering the face at Hajj ~ #Important 🍷

Bismillāh, firstly I would like to bring an Ijmā' regarding covering the face at Hajj with the presence of men around, so Imām ibn 'Abdīl Barr(رحمه الله), ibn Qudāmah(رحمه الله) & many others have mentioned this consensus.

Imām ibn 'Abdīl Barr(رحمه الله) said "They[the scholars] have agreed that a woman wears all the Makhīṭ[clothes that covers her body], and socks, and [it's Wājib] for her to cover her head, and cover her hair, except her face, so she lowers upon herself a fabric garment, a light veil which covers her face from the onlooking of the men"

Refer to al-Tamhīd(15/108) & al-Istidhkār(11/28-29) by Imām ibn 'Abdīl Barr(رحمه الله) and Imām ibn Qudāmah(رحمه الله) said "We do not know any difference of opinion regarding it" Refer to al-Mughnī(5/154). If you want more sayings, just let me know inshā'Allāh.

This is just to show you that the Salaf didn't disagree regarding the obligation of covering the face in the presence of men, for a free woman. Now, there are two issues we need to understand at Hajj, because Allāh(جلا وعلا) has prescribed certain dresscodes at Hajj, just like a man is prohibited to only wear 1 Garment in Salāh. So we can divide the two issue into the following:

1. It's Harām for a woman to wear Niqāb at Hajj and the Hadīth of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) is explicit regarding this.
2. It's compulsory for a woman to cover her face in the presence of non-Mahram men in Hajj, and I've mentioned the consensus of the Salaf regarding this issue.

What we need to understand is that Allāh(جلا وعلا) has forbidden certain clothes for women and men to wear at Hajj. For e.g. It's Harām for a man to wear Khuff(leather socks), regular clothes like shirts & shorts, undergarments etc...Likewise it's Harām for a woman to wear the Niqāb & Quffāz[gloves].

However, this does not mean that because wearing a Niqāb & Gloves at Hajj is Harām, it means that it's permissible to show the body parts that those material covers up. Because the ruling deals with the clothing, not what's beneath it.

So a man can cover up his feet, but he's prohibited to wear the Khuff, and likewise he covers all his body parts, specifically in those areas that are prohibited to wear the specified clothes. He covers all his body except his head, and doesn't wear a shirt or underwear etc...And we can't say that he must reveal his bodyparts from where Allāh(جلا وعلا) has forbidden to wear separate clothes in those areas.

Likewise a woman can cover her hands with some fabric & she won't be sinful at all, however if she wears Gloves, she will be sinful, so the prohibition is regarding the specific cloth, not the body part. Therefore the ruling of covering the body parts of a man & woman remains, and they must cover the specified areas where certain clothes are prohibited depending if it's considered 'Awrah or not. So if it's an area which must be covered, and the state of Ihrām doesn't change the ruling of covering your 'Awrah. And the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) never prohibited a woman to cover her face, rather he prohibited her to wear Niqāb in specific that's connected to her clothing.

So those that say she must show her face because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) prohibited the Niqāb is indeed false. Because if this was the case, then the man would have to show his private parts, since the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) prohibited him to wear undergarments. This is in the same context & same rules apply.

It's reported in Bukhārī(134) & Muslim(1177) by 'Abdūllāh ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما) that:
"A man said, "O Allah's Messenger (ﷺ). What type of clothes should a Muhrim wear Allah's Messenger (ﷺ) replied, 'Do not wear shirts, turbans trousers hooded cloaks or Khuffs (socks made from thick fabric or leather); but if someone cannot get sandals, then he can wear Khuffs after cutting them short below the ankles. Do not wear clothes touched by saffron or wars (two kinds of perfumes)."

The Sahābah(رضي الله عنهم) differentiated between the two matters, regarding the prohibition of the Niqāb & covering the Face, and it's Authentic from 'Attā'(رحمه الله) from Abī al-Sha'thā'(رحمه الله) from ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) that he said "She places[hangs down] the Jilbāb over her face, and she doesn't put it forth, I said: And what is "She doesn't put it forth"? So he showed me how a woman wears the Jilbāb, then he showed me: What is upon her cheeks from the Jilbāb, he said: She turns it around & places it upon her face, just like it's hanging upon her face"

This was narrated by Imām al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) in his Musnad(1/303 - #788) and in "al-Umm" (3/370-371), and it's narrated by Imām Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) in "Masā'il al-Imām Ahmad" (#732) & Imām al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) didn't mention Abī al-Sha'thā'(رحمه الله).

This is supported by another Authentic narration which was reported by Tāwūs(رحمه الله), he said: "The woman in the state of Ihrām[i.e. at Hajj] hangs her fabric garment upon her face, and she doesn't wear Niqāb"

Refer to Kitāb al-Umm(3/371) as it was related by Imām al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله), and refer to the Musannāf of ibn Abī Shaybāh(رحمه الله) Hadīth #14540.

You will also see the sayings from the Imāms of the Madhabs that a woman should make Tawāf at night, so no men can see her, clearly indicating the obligation of Niqāb, however the Sahābiyyāt in the state of Ihrām would not wear the Niqāb, rather they will veil themselves with something else.

There's an Authentic narration from Fātimah bint al-Munthiri(رضي الله عنها) that she said: "We would veil our faces while we we Muhrimāt(in the state of Ihrām), in the company of Asmā' bint Abī Bakr(رضي الله عنها)"

Refer to al-Muwattā'(1/328) by Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), and it was also narrated by the great Imām Ishāq ibn Rāhawayh(رحمه الله) in his Musnad(2255).

So to conclude, I have posted evidences in the past regarding the obligation of covering the face in the presence of men, but some sisters had a misconception regarding Niqāb at Hajj. So what I say is that if there are men around, a woman is obliged to cover her face, just like if she was in Salāh. And the prohibition of Niqāb doesn't mean she must show her face, rather she can cover it with another material. Even her hands, her garments can cover it, but she can't wear the specific gloves that the Prophet Muḥammād(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has made Harām.

The scholars say, if a woman purposely shows her face to non-Mahram men at Hajj, she's sinful. And she's also sinful if she wears the Niqāb at Hajj. However, if she does this, there is no Fidyā(expiation) upon her according to the correct opinion, except that she is sinful as mentioned by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) & others.

And Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best – Inshā'Allāh this was helpful for you.

was asked about the ruling of kissing the Mushaf, so he (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān :replied by saying and it's not proven from any of the (صلى الله عليه وسلم)This has no basis, neither from the Prophet is weak, however whoever kissed it for a reason or (رضي الله عنه)Sahābah and the report of 'Ikrimāh a sudden accident such as the Mushaf falling from him, so he grabbed it and kissed it & similar to this, there's nothing wrong with that, however as for kissing it as a means of getting closer [to Allāh] such as kissing the Hajr al-Aswad[the Black Stone] or kissing it every time you pick up the Mushaf, then this is a newly invented matter, and if it was a means of getting closer to Allāh, the would've rushed to act upon this, and it's not (صلى الله عليه وسلم)companions of Muḥammād .proven from any of them that they kissed it said "It's not known by any Imām from the Imāms of the Muslims at (رحمه الله)Imām ibn al-Qayyīm until we (صلى الله عليه وسلم), all, who said to not act upon the hadīth of the Messenger of Allāh ".know who acted upon it

Note: This means that if there is an Authentic or Hassan hadīth, we should act upon it & we shouldn't stop and say "Which scholar acted upon this hadīth, so I can act upon it" or "This shaykh doesn't do this, so I'm not going to do it either". Let's say there is a person who doesn't use the did, not what such (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Siwāk before Salāh, we go along with what the Prophet .person & Fulān did

This excuse is also common among the people of innovation, there is a weak hadīth, but many people act upon it, so they act upon it because "this shaykh did it, so I'm going to do it". Now this did, not (صلى الله عليه وسلم)is another extreme, so we go back to what the Messenger of Allāh علم الله والله what some Shaykh did, no matter how great he is Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd was asked: What is the ruling on the one who says: "O messenger of Allāh, call upon Allāh to forgive me"? And is this like saying: "O messenger of Allāh, intercede for me"? And what's the ruling on the one who says that this saying[#1] is a bid'ah and isn't major shirk?

Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd responded by saying: This issue has details[i.e. Requires a detailed explanation], so it's divided into two categories:

1. If he supplicated with this du'ā & he is far away from his grave[i.e. The Prophet's grave], then this is Major shirk without any doubt, because there's no misconception in that.

2. If he supplicates near his grave, then he is also upon two categories:

A) That he asks for his intercession or help or victory & similar to that, then this is also Major Shirk.

B) That he says "Ask Allāh for me" or "Intercede for me by [the permission of] your Lord" and it's from the same type[both sayings are the same], so the people of knowledge have two sayings regarding this:

- So the Imāms of the Da'wah al-Najdiyyāh view it as Major Shirk, from among the types of Shirk that Quraysh used to do "These are our intermediaries with Allāh", "Except that they bring us closer to Allāh in position"

- And among the later scholars who viewed it as a [Great] innovation & [Great] evil & a means to Shirk, however it's not disbelief, because they have a misconception which is his life in the grave[i.e. He's alive in the grave] & that he hears the Salām for whoever gives him Salāms & similar to that, so according to themselves they aren't calling upon the absent[Ghā'ib] or an incapable person[i.e. Dead etc.], and they do not call upon him by anything from the Attributes of Divinity like asking for help, intercession & similar to that, so [according to him] it's just like asking for a supplication from him during his life, and this isn't Shirk by ljmā', and he is right now alive in his grave, so this is their misconception.

And what appears to be most correct in my view is that it's Major Shirk, however he is excused from this by ignorance & ta'wil[interpretation], because of their strong shubhā[misconception] in this situation, and Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best.

Note: Even though Shaykh Nāsir doesn't give excuse of ignorance in Major Shirk, there are some instances where a person can be excused, because this type of act is not agreed upon by all scholars as being Shirk, as we have Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) saying it's one of the greatest innovations, but doesn't reach the level of Shirk والله اعلم

Shaykh Nāsir was asked, It's mentioned in the authentic ḥadīth: "Whoever says to his brother O kāfir, then surely one of them is such" so is this from the Nullifiers[of Islām]?

Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd responded by saying: Takfeer of a muslim which appears to me, and Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best, is upon three categories:

1. The one who had ta'wīl[a valid interpretation] in his speech[of calling a muslim, Kāfir], there's no sin upon him, rather he could be rewarded as it was considered by more than one[scholar i.e. Such as ibn al-Qayyīm], and this is indicated by 'Omar's(رضي الله عنه) saying to Hātib(رضي الله عنه): "Allow me to strike the neck of this hypocrite" and the saying of Usayd(رضي الله عنه) to Sa'd ibn 'Ubādah(رضي الله عنه) "Indeed you're a hypocrite, you argue on behalf of the hypocrites" and other than that, And al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) has written a chapter in al-Adab al-Mufrad "The chapter of whoever doesn't view the disbelief of one who said that[takfeer] out of interpretation or ignorance"

2. Whoever said it with the purpose of oppression/injustice, and enmity of opposition & accusation, while he views him[his opponent] in his innerself as a believing monotheist, then this person is in danger, however it doesn't appear [to mean] and Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best, that his kufr is major kufr, rather he could've fell into an enormous sin & minor kufr, and this is what the majority of the people of knowledge are upon.

3. Whoever made takfeer upon him without an interpretation or misconception, so here he becomes a kāfir because he made Ēmān as Kufr, and upon this al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) named a chapter "Whoever makes takfeer on his brother without ta'wīl, then he is like what he said" and he mentioned some texts[evidences] regarding this "Whoever says to his brother...[till the end of the ḥadīth]"

Pay attention: The difference between the first[case] and the second[case] is that the first[case] is a ta'wīl based upon a valid[sharī] interpretation by using evidences from the texts[Qur'ān & Sunnāh], and with the purpose of establishing[the truth] for [the sake of] Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), and ordaining the good & forbidding the evil, and as for the second[case], then his interpretation is not a valid[Sharī] interpretation, even if he used evidences from the Sharī'ah with the purpose of enmity against his opponent, oppression/injustice and gaining victory for himself, and Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best.

Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd was asked to briefly explain the issue of Tawāf. [He talks about whether it's harām or kufr]

So he responded by saying: Tawāf has two aspects, Intent & the Place. So the prescribed Tawāf is what was done for Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى), and around the Ka'bah. And as for Tawāf to other than the Ka'bah, it's divided into [the following categories]:

1. If he made Tawāf in any place to get closer to other than Allāh (جلا و علا), there's no doubt regarding his kufr.
2. If he made Tawāf around a place other than the Ka'bah, like some of the areas of Makkāh in Minā or 'Arafāh or Muzdalifah, or around the Prophet's Mosque, or around Bayt al-Maqdis & similar to that, so if his Tawāf was for Allāh (جلا و علا), then he's a misguided innovator, however he doesn't become a disbeliever. And why shall he become a disbeliever? If you said: "Because he made Tawāf to other than Allāh", it would be said to you: "He made Tawāf for Allāh" And if you said: "Because he made Tawāf to other than the Ka'bah", it would be said to you "Tawāf is not for the Ka'bah, rather the Ka'bah is the place for performing this act of worship", this is why he's a misguided innovator in his actions, just like if he prayed to Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) in a prohibited place for Salāh to be held in, or during the prohibited times, verily he doesn't become a disbeliever, even though he's doing a prohibited act & isn't in the [correct] place for Salāh.
[so] If it's said: "Tawāf is not prescribed except in a single place, unlike Salāh", he would say: "Indeed, the speech here is referring to the place that the legislator has prohibited, and the speech regarding this is within a single context, so just as He (سبحانه وتعالى) prohibited Tawāf in other than the Masjid al-Harām, likewise he prohibited the Salāh in [particular] places and known times." [Note: So this person thinks it's allowed to make Tawāf around other than the ka'bah based upon these misconceptions]
3. And if he made Tawāf around a grave of a saint from the Awliyā' or his house & similar to that, here is the problem, because he didn't make Tawāf around this saint except to exalt him, so this Tawāf even if he said it was only for Allāh, indeed the situation indicates that it's not for Allāh (جلا و علا), rather it's getting closer & exalting this saint, and I think that this is a matter of perspective outlook/reasoning. And I was debating one of the honourable brothers in the year 1419AH and I mentioned to him that whoever makes Tawāf around the grave is a Mushrik, and he considered/determined him to be an innovator if his Tawāf was for Allāh (جلا و علا).

So I said to him: I think that our difference has no weight at all, because I believe that you will not find a person who makes Tawāf around the grave, except that he is indulging in other acts of Shirk [I said this] in his ear, from making Du'ā [to other than Allāh], a vow [dedicating yourself to obey other than Allāh] & other than it. So if there's a man who truly perfects tawheed in all of its matters & showed enmity from all kinds of shirk, and doesn't indulge in it, except that he makes Tawāf around a grave to get closer to Allāh (جلا و علا), so when that happens we will continue the debate, and you will not find him [a person like that], and Allāh (جلا و علا) knows best, always.

#Clarification I posted a video of Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl (حفظه الله) saying Sujūd to other than Allāh (جلا و علا) is shirk automatically.

However, after reading Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd's Fatwā, I must disagree with Shaykh Ahmad on the issue. Because, how can Shirk be allowed in the previous Ummāh's, but not in the Ummāh of Muḥammād (صلى الله عليه وسلم), because Tawḥīd cannot change from one nation to another, it remains the same as this is 'Ibādah. [This proves that Sujūd al-Tahiyyāh is not 'Ibādah]

This gives the christians to give the excuse that "All the Prophets called their people to worship Allāh (جلا و علا) alone, but Īsā (عليه السلام) called his people to worship him besides Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى)"

And we seek refuge from the sayings of the Christians as they ascribe a son to Allāh (جلا و علا).

Note: Sujūd is only to Allāh (جلا و علا) and this is clear from the Qur'ān & Sunnāh, however someone might ask me, you said "Sujūd al-Tahiyyāh is harām, so why did Allāh order the angels to prostrate to Ādam?"

The answer to this is that Allāh (جلا و علا) ordered Iblīs & the Angels to prostrate to Ādam (عليه السلام), and Allāh (جلا و علا) can do what He likes.

However, if someone prostrated to the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) out of respect, we say this is harām, but he's excused for not knowing it's harām, we don't say "He's excused for not knowing that it's shirk" We seek refuge from Allāh by this statement!

Sujūd al-Tahiyyāh is clearly proven in the Qur'ān, however for our Ummāh, it's not permissible. But we don't say it's Shirk, because this means we're saying the previous Ummâh's did Shirk a3ûthubillâh.

(and they fell down before him prostrate.) Yusuf's parents and brothers prostrated before him, and they were eleven men,

So I personally believe Sujūd al-Tahiyyâh is harâm, but if Allâh ordered someone to make Sujūd, it's a command that must be obeyed. Inshâ'Allâh it's clear & Allâh(جلا وعلا) knows best.

What is the ruling of Prostrating to other than Allâh(جلا وعلا)?

Shaykh Nâsir ibn Hamd replied by saying: Sujūd[Prostration] to other than Allâh(جلا وعلا) in our Sharee'ah has two sayings:

1. That it's shirk unrestrictedly [in all cases]
2. Differentiating between Sujūd al-Tahiyyâh[Prostration of respect/salutation] and Sujūd al-'Ibādah[Prostration of worship], so if the intent was the first [type i.e Respect], and it is [what is directed] to a noble[person] or elderly[person] or president & similar to that, so this is Harâm & isn't Shirk, and if it was to a Tree or Rock or Grave or Idol or for an elderly person with the intent of submission in worship, or [if] it was legislated[to prostrate to anyone], that's shirk & major kufr.

And the proof for this differentiation is what is authentic from the prostration of the angels to Ādam(عليه السلام), and the prostration of the brothers of Yūsuf(عليه السلام) to him[Yūsuf], and other than this from the texts[evidences], And it's not [allowed] to say that this was the Sharee'ah from before us, because the Prophets agree upon Tawhīd, even if the details of their Sharee'ah differed, [you can't say] it was made harâm for this Ummâh because of its perfection/completeness, and I believe Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyâh(رحمه الله) differentiates between the two matters.

And from before[in the past], I used to adopt the first view that it's all Shirk, however when I pondered/reflected over the evidences of the second saying, I went towards it and Allâh(جلا وعلا) knows best.

I will argue my point to prove what's most correct in Fiqh differences, but I would never force anyone to follow my view or the view of a particular Scholar. This is what the Imāms of Salaf would warn us from.

However, if there is a clear text in the Sunnâh, such as making wudū' after eating camel meat, I would reject the Māliki opinion & follow what's correct that goes in line with the Qur'ān & Sunnâh.

At times, the scholars can make mistakes, which is why we always return back to the Book of Allâh and the Sunnâh of our beloved Messenger. Fanaticism towards the madhabs is something the 'Ulemā' have condemned and spoken against throughout the centuries.

Unless there is a proper Ijmā' on a matter or extremely strong proofs, no one should compel anyone to follow their opinion. We love all the scholars, but every scholar makes mistakes & does good, so we should only accept what's correct & go back to the daleel.

A sister by the name of Jawād asked whether the word "Dayūth" can be applied to a sister, however I did not know the answer and after doing a bit of research, I found that islamweb gave a nice, summarized fatwa which I would like to translate & share with you all:

So the word ديوث [Dayūth] in the Arabic language as mentioned in al-Misbāh means: "The 'Dayūth', he is the man who does not have any jealousy for his family[i.e. wives, sisters, female Mahrāms]", and its Sharġ [Technical, Islamic] meaning coincides with the linguistic meaning, al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) has narrated in Shu'b al-Ēmān from 'Ammār ibn Yāsir(رضي الله عنهما) that the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "Three people will never enter Paradise: The Dayūth from among the men...[to the end of the hadīth]". And he(رحمه الله) has said in al-Mawsū'ah al-Fiqhiyyāh: "I knew about al-Diyāthah from its similar wordings which collectively give a single meaning, it's not seperated from its linguistic meaning, and it is "the absence of Ghīrah[Jealousy] over the Family & Mahārim[Relatives that are harām for you to marry]."

And upon this, the word "Dayūth" is not applied on a woman, even though she's commanded according to the Sharee'ah to condemn the Munkar[Evil] if she was able to condemn it & change it, so his[The Prophet's] saying: "Whoever from amongst you see's Munkar[evil]..." The Hadīth is general, it includes the male & female, because the word من ["Whoever"] is from the general phrases.

and Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best.

Do you guys remember the addition of "al-Mu'awwīthatayn" after reciting Sūrat al-Ikhlās in Salāt al-Witr in the Hadīths? Well, it came through the chain of Khasīf ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān & remember there was Inqitā' [Disconnection] in the chain because 'Abdūl 'Azīz ibn Jurayj never heard from Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) as mentioned by Imām Yahya ibn Ma'een(رحمه الله) & Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), al-Imām al-Uqaylī(رحمه الله) have said the addition of "al-Mu'awwīthatayn" is not authentic & isn't prescribed to be recited after Sūrat al-Ikhlās on the 3rd Rak'ah of Witr.

Khasīf ibn 'Abdūl Rahmān is a weak narrator as mentioned by Imām ibn 'Adī(رحمه الله). Abū 'Abdūl Rahmān(رحمه الله) has mentioned that the Majority of the Scholars have weakened him. Imām Yahya ibn Sa'eed al-Qattān(رحمه الله) said to stay away from his hadīth, and he was also weakened because of his poor memory by Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), ibn Khuzaymāh(رحمه الله) and others.

This book I'm reading from is not a Hadīth Book, rather it's a book that deals with the causes of revelation and where and why the verses of the Qur'ān were revealed, however the author Abī 'Abdūl Rahmān Muqbil ibn Hādī has spent alot of his time researching the authenticity of narrations and putting together this beneficial book.

The book is called Al-Sahīh ul-Musnad min Asbāb al-Nuzūl for those who are interested. But the point is, this narrator Khasīf is weak & he makes a lot of mistakes, especially with his memory, so we should stay away from his hadīth as the Muhadithīn have mentioned.

I've mentioned before in the past, a Mufasssīr must know hadīth because the Sunnāh explains the Qur'ān & usually when you read the books of Tafsīr, you will find the author mentioning authentic, sound, weak & fabricated narrations, including Isrā'īliyyāt, but the author at times references these.

I usually dream about Islām in my sleep. At times, I imagine myself in a situation where people are arguing/yelling & i'm completely silent, then I get asked about the ruling & explain it to them in a very low voice.

SubhānAllāh, I've been pondering over many hadīths or islamic rulings in my sleep, and I try to get up during the night and write stuff down. It's a blessing from Allāh, because Allāh(جلا وعلا) has given me an understanding of the religion which I didn't have a few years ago.

Note: I do not claim to be a Scholar of Islām, nor a Shaykh or Ustādh. I simply take from the scholars & choose the opinions which I believe are closest to the Qur'ān and Sunnāh. I'm trying my best to act upon everything, but as you guys know, it's not easy.

All I can say is give your heart to Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) and He will look after you 🤲

Oppressing someone in the name of Religion[i.e Islām] is from amongst the worst types of ظلم

[Oppression], because this could cause a person to apostate from Islām.

~ Spread love between your brothers & sisters and tell them that you love them for the sake of Allāh(جلا وعلا) because that's the Sunnāh :)

~ It's not permissible to say to the opposite gender "I love you" in specific[Fitna reasons ofcourse], but it's completely permissible to say "I love my sisters in Islām" in the general sense and ofcourse this is referring to spiritual love.

So it's Wājib[compulsory] to love all your brothers & sisters in Islām. I don't mean physically love ofcourse because that's impossible, everyone has different tastes & that's human nature.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) reward you all, we've all got so much to work on. May Allāh(جلا وعلا) forgive our sins & allow us to develop a spirit of love & tolerance for each other. This is very dear to me and Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

Oppressing your slave is Harām, infact the كفارة [expiation] of slapping him/her on the face is to free them, as mentioned in some authentic reports from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

Note: The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would tell people to call the prisoners of war as "your son, your daughter" instead of "slave" subhānAllāh.

In Bosnian, if you want to call someone stubborn, you say "Bukva". El-Bukva is a type of tree, but also in Lebanese, you can call someone "Mastool", for someone who's clumsy, now this word doesn't come from the english word "stool" but the arabic word "Satal" which means bucket 🪌

If a traveller prays a Rak'ah behind a Resider, should he pray the Salâh of a traveller[i.e. Shorten it] or the Salâh of a resider[i.e. complete it]? #Very_Important.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: If a person prays a Rak'ah with the Mutim[a person praying a complete Salâh], this is more general than [saying] Muqīm[a Resider], regardless if he was a Resider or not, however he completed[his Salâh], because sometimes a Traveller can perform ta'wīl[an interpretation], so he prays completely[without shortening], so upon this we say if the Traveller prays a Rak'ah or more[rak'ahs] behind a Mutim, we do not condition this to praying behind a Traveller, as what ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) did, ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) was a Traveller and would pray behind 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه), and 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه) was a Traveller, however he performed ta'wīl[interpretation] that he's a Muqīm[Resider], so 'Uthmān(رضي الله عنه) took the place of ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) and complete the Salâh behind him & he wouldn't shorten it, so in this situation, it's compulsory upon you to complete your Salâh and this is the saying of the Majority of the Scholars, from among the Sahābah such as ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه), ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما), ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما), and from the among the Tābi'een and from the Imāms that are followed after them, and this is what's correct in this issue.

However, if he[the traveller] enters the Salâh besides the Rak'ah, such as the one who enters in the final Tashahhūd, so what's correct in this situation is that he prays the Salâh of a traveller, not the Salâh of a resider, because he did not follow any part of the Salâh, and the Salâh is known by following a Rak'ah, because of the saying of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) "Whoever follows a rak'ah of Salâh, then he has followed the Salâh" and the proof for this is also, is "an opposing evidence" [daleel 'aks] as it's known by the Usūliyeen[Scholars of Usūl al-Fiqh], and it's the issue of Salâh al-Jum'ah.

If he joins in where the Imām is in the final Tashahhūd of the Salâh, how would he pray? He would pray 4[Rak'ahs for Jum'ah], and if he prays a Rak'ah[with the Imām], he prays 2 Rak'ahs[for Jum'ah], so that has proved that [the Salâh] is known by Rukū', and this is a proof against Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله) when he said that if he joins in the final Tashahhūd with the Imām, that he prays the same as him, and he'll be on the level of following the Salâh, and when he was given the evidences regarding Jum'ah, he contradicted himself and didn't say anything regarding Jum'ah, and he said it for the other Salâh[other than Jum'ah], so this is a proof against him in this issue. So what's correct in this issue is that if the Traveller prays a Rak'ah with the Mutim[the one who completes Salâh], he prays the Salâh of a Mutim, and if he joins in besides the Rak'ah[like in the final Tashahhūd], then he prays the Salâh of a Traveller.

Note: Daleel 'Aks according to the scholars of Usūl al-Fiqh means that if the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said the optional prayers in the night are by two's[i.e. Two rak'ahs], therefore we understand from this that the optional prayers of the day are by 4's, so you pray 4 rak'ah before Dhuhr & 'Asr. Btw there's also some difference of opinion regarding praying 4 Rak'ahs with 1 Salām, but the correct opinion is that it's correct.

Here is the Arabic I wrote down if you wanna read - English translation doesn't do justice at times والله اعلم

الأخ يسأل إذا ادرك المسافر ركعة مع المقيم

إذا ادرك المسافر ركعةً مع المتم، هذا اعم من المقيم، سواء كان مقيماً او غير مقيم لكنه اتم، لانه احياناً يتأول المسافر ويتم فعلى هذا نقول إذا ادرك المسافر ركعة او أكثر خلف متم لا نقيّد ذلك بخلف المسافر كما صنع ابن مسعود، ابن مسعود كان مسافراً وكان يصلي خلف عثمان وعثمان كان مسافراً لكن تأول انه مقيم فكان عثمان يأخذ مكان ابن مسعود ويتم خلفه ولا كان يقصر، فهذه الحالة يجب عليك الاتمام وهذا قول جماهير العلماء من الصحابة كابن مسعود وابن عمر وابن عباس ومن التابعين ومن الأئمة المتبوعين وهذا هو الصواب في هذه المسألة، أما إذا ادرك ما دون الركعة مثل ان يدرك بالتشهد الاخير فالصواب في هذه الحالة انه يصلي صلاة المسافر، لا صلاة المقيم لانه لم يدرك جزءاً من الصلاة والصلاة لا تدرك بركعة لقوله صلى الله عليه وسلم "من ادرك ركعة من الصلاة فقد ادرك الصلاة" والدليل على هذا ايضاً وهو دليل عكس يسميه عند الأصوليين وهو قضية الجمعة، ارايت لو ادرك الامام في التشهد الاخير من الجمعة كيف يصلي؟ يصلي اربعة، وإذا ادرك ركعة يصلي اثنتين فدل ذلك على ان لا تدرك الا بالركوع وهذا حجة على ابي حنيفة حين قال بانه إذا ادرك التشهد الاخير في الامام ان يصلي بصلاتك ويكون بمنزلة من ادرك الصلاة ولما عيس عليه دليل في الجمعة تناقض ولم يقول شيء بالجمعة وقال في بقية الصلوات وهذا حجة عليه في هذه القضية فلذلك الصواب في المسألة أن المسافر إذا ادرك ركعة مع المتم صلى صلاة المتم وإذا ادرك ما دون الركعة فانه يصلي صلاة مسافر

Combining prayers is only allowed when there is a need[not able to make the next prayer for specific reasons], regardless if you're a traveller or resider. The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) would travel and pray all his Salâh on time without combining, however he joined them in Tâbûk because there was a need to do so.

The Salaf would say that memorising the Qurʾān is the easy part, and memorising the Hadīths is what's difficult. Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) memorized over 1,000,000 hadīths, but not only that, he acted upon every authentic hadīth. At times, he wouldn't know how to apply a hadīth, so he learnt that from Imām al-Shāfiʿee(رحمه الله). Some people know so much hadīths, but don't know what it means or how to apply it, so that's the goal inshāʾAllāh.

Note: Over time, people start to rely on books, not memory. If you want to memorize, break the pen because the pen doesn't go hand in hand with memorizing :)

What's the ruling regarding raising the hands in du'ā during Salāt al-Qunūt? [i.e. Witr]

Shaykh Sulaymân al-'Ulwân(حفظه الله) responded by saying: The brother asks about the ruling of raising the hands for the Ma'mūm[the muslims behind the Imām] in Qunūt, and there are two sayings of the scholars regarding that:

The first saying: That raising the hands is what's prescribed. And this is the saying of 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb(رضي الله عنه), and the chain towards him is authentic, and this is the Madhab of Imām Mālik(رحمه الله), al-Shāfiʿee(رحمه الله) and Ahmad(رحمه الله).

The second saying: That this is not a prescribed act. Because there is no text[authentic hadīth] proven from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and every hadīth that's reported in this[issue] is weak, and this is what Imām Abū Hanifah(رحمه الله) went towards, and 'Abdūl Razzāq(رحمه الله) narrated from al-Zuhrī(رحمه الله) in an authentic chain, 'Abdūl Razzāq, from Ma'mar, from al-Zuhrī: He(al-zuhrī) said: "The hands were not raised in Qunūt during Ramadān"[1] and this chain is authentic towards al-Zuhrī(رحمه الله), and al-Zuhrī is born in the year 50AH, and he met a Jamā'ah and group from among the Sahābah, such as Anas ibn Mālik(رضي الله عنه), Sahl ibn Sa'd al-Sā'idi(رضي الله عنه), ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنه) and others, and here he's saying the hands were not raised in Qunūt during Ramadān, so this proves that the hands are not to be raised.

So these are the two sayings of the Scholars, so if the Imām raised his hands based upon the saying of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), who's the rightly guided Khalīfah, in which the muslims are commanded to follow his example, and Allāh(جلا وعلا) has gathered the truth upon the tongue of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), then there's no blame upon him, and whoever doesn't raise[his hands], then he also has an Asl[strong foundation/evidences] and that it's not reported from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and this is a 'Ibādah[act of worship], and whatever isn't reported from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) in worship, I won't do it, going along with the saying of Imām Muḥammād ibn Shihāb al-Zuhrī(رحمه الله), and he speaks from who he met from the Sahābah, the Tābi'een and the Giant Imāms, and he says "The hands were not raised" so it's like he's mentioning a consensus, he has lived and met[many Sahābah], so this is clear from him that he's made a strong Ijtihād.

And whoever also goes along the third saying, that he raises at times & leaves it off at other times, then this is also [another] saying.

What's the ruling on wiping the face with the hands after du'ā?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān said: There's not a single authentic hadīth from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and it's not proven from the Sahābah(رضي الله عنهم), neither in Qunūt or other than it, neither in Salāh nor outside of it. And some of the laymen have been accustomed to this act, and this is wrong. And others are accustomed to raising the hands after the optional Salāh and wiping the face without du'ā, and this is worse than the first[case], and the Sunnāh is to leave off the wiping completely during Salāh and other than it.

Imām Abū Dāwūd(رحمه الله) mentioned in his Masā'il[1]: I heard Ahmad(رحمه الله) get asked about a man who wipes his face with his hands if he finishes[Salāh], he(رحمه الله) said: "I've never heard of it". And he said once: "I've never heard of this at all". He[Imām Abū Dāwūd] said: "And I've never seen Ahmad do this" and Imām Mālik(رحمه الله) was asked about a man who wipes his face with his hands during du'ā? So he rejected that and said: "I don't know of it"[2]

Al-Hāfidh al-Bayhaqī(رحمه الله) said: "I haven't memorised it from any of the Salaf during du'ā al-Qunūt, even though it might be narrated from some of them during du'ā outside the Salāh, it has been narrated from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) a weak hadīth and it's used from some of them[3], outside of Salāh, but as for during the Salāh, then it's an action which isn't proven by any authentic report upon what the Salaf did, may Allāh(جلا وعلا) be pleased with them, of raising the hands without wiping them with the face in Salāh[4] وبالله التوفيق

says "And from [part of] the night, pray with it as additional [worship] for you; it is (جلا وعلا)Allāh [expected that your Lord will resurrect you to a praised station." [17:79

Now there's a weak narration regarding the tafsīr of this verse, infact it's Munkar. The saying of (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Mujāhid where he describes the praised station as meaning that Muḥammād This isn't authentic because of a narrator called (جلا وعلا).will be sitting on the Throne with Allāh .Layth

Rather there's a hadīth in Bukhārī explaining this verse as meaning the praised station will be the (صلى الله عليه وسلم)Shafā'ah of the Messenger

Note: The Istiwā' of Allāh above the throne is Mutawātir & mentioned in the Qur'ān & Sunnāh, but to .say that "Allāh is sitting upon the throne" this has no basis

#Niqāb important! Feel free to read the complete thing for evidences from Qur'ān & Sunnāh. Inshā'Allāh if anyone has any misconceptions, feel free to ask. I can't write everything down :)

The idnā'[lowering] of the Jilbāb has been explained as meaning to cover the face in the verses of the Qur'ān and other than it from the Sunnāh and the reports from a group of companions, it's narrated from ibn 'Abbās, Ā'isha and from the Tābi'een: It's authentic from 'Ubaidah al-Salmānī, Muḥammād ibn Sīreen, ibn 'Awn and I do not know anyone from the Saḥābah who has said otherwise.

1. The interpreter of the Qur'an ibn 'abbās(رضي الله عنه) said about the verse: { O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves their Jalābīb(garments)}: "Allah(سبحانه وتعالى) ordered the believing women if they left their houses for a need to cover their faces from above their heads with their garments and to leave one eye" This is narrated by ibn Ja'ir(19/181) and ibn Abī Hātim(refer to al-dur al-manthur 12/141) from the chain of 'Alī ibn Abī Talha from ibn 'Abbās. It was strengthened/authenticated by Imām Ahmad & al-Bukhārī(refer to Fath al-Bārī 8/438-439).

2. Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) said "The woman lowers upon herself her Jilbāb from above her head and over her face" Narrated by Sa'eed ibn Mansūr in his Sunan(refer to Fath al-Bārī 3/406) by an authentic chain. She also said that we would cover our faces(refer to bukhārī 4141,4750) and Muslim(2770) and it's also narrated from other saḥābiyyāt that they will cover their faces like in Hajj for instance.

3. 'Ubaidah al-Salmānī(الله رحمه الله) – ibn 'Awn narrated from Muḥammād ibn Sīreen, he said "I asked 'Ubaidah al-Salmānī regarding the statement of Allāh "They lower upon themselves from their Jilbābs", so he covered his face and head and closed his right eye" and this is the Tafsīr ibn 'Awn and Muḥammād ibn Sīreen made, narrated by ibn Ja'ir(19/181-182)

4. The Prophet Muḥammād(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "The woman is 'Awrah" and this is understood upon its general meaning because he did not give any exception, so all of the woman is 'Awrah even her fingernail as mentioned by Imām Ahmad(الله رحمه الله).

5. Allāh(جلا وعلا) has given an exception to the old women to show their face in the Qur'an, but it's still not permissible for her to wear makeup! Allāh(جلا وعلا) says "And women of post-menstrual age who have no desire for marriage - there is no blame upon them for putting aside their outer garments [but] not displaying adornment. But to modestly refrain [from that] is better for them. And Allah is Hearing and Knowing." So Allāh has given an exception to those old women to take the Jilbāb off their faces, with the condition that they don't display any adornments.

- It's authentic from Sa'eed ibn Jubayr(الله رحمه الله) that he said "She does not openly display adornments by putting aside her outer garment, so that her adornments can be seen from her" narrated by ibn Abī Hātim in his Tafsīr(8/2642), and as we mentioned the Jilbāb(outer garment) is what covers the face as mentioned by Ā'ishā & ibn 'Abbās & others. So this exception is given to the old woman, not the young woman who is obliged to cover the face as that's 'Awrah and the scholars have agreed that it's not permissible for an old woman('ajūzah) to show her hair, a consensus has been mentioned by al-Jassās(refer to Ahkām al-Qur'an 5-196) & ibn Hazm(Muḥallāh 10-32).

- It's authentic from 'Attā' ibn Abī Rabāh(الله رحمه الله) that he preferred a woman to cover her hair in the presence of her Mahrams, so he was asked about a man whether he can see a woman's head that's forbidden for him to marry, so he replied "Covering it is more beloved to me, and if they saw it, there's no problem" this is narrated by ibn Abī Shaybah(17566) from 'Abdul Malik from 'Attā' and it's authentic. It's also authentic that 'Attā' mentioned the same thing as Sa'eed ibn Jubayr that an old woman can put aside her Jilbāb, meaning what's on her face & as the Salaf used to say "Lower the Jilbāb from the face", so this is what's meant by put aside the Jilbāb.

- It's authentic from the famous Mufasssīr Mujaḥid ibn Jabar(الله رحمه الله) that he doesn't permit a woman to put aside her veil in the presence of a disbelieving woman, so how can we say that the "Apparent adornments" i.e. Face, hand, feet(according to aisha), The ring, make-up, pigments/hennāh etc.. is for the non-Mahram men of the mushrikeen and muslimen?!

Layth has narrated from Mujaḥid that he said "A muslimāh does not put aside her veil in the presence of a Mushrikāh, nor does she greet her" because Allāh(جلا وعلا) said "Or their women[you can unveil in front of muslimāhs]" and they[mushrikāt] are not from among our women" this is narrated by al-Bayhaqī(Sunan al-Kubrah 7/95) it's also collected by Sa'eed ibn Mansūr in his Sunan(al-Tafsīr/1576) and refer to ibn Hibān's "al-Thiqāt(7/331)".

And it's also authentic from Mujaḥid regarding the old woman that Allāh has give her an exception to uncover her face & has said the same thing as Attā, Sa'eed ibn Jubayr. This is mentioned in Tafsīr al-Tabarī(17/361,363-364) and it's in Tafsīr Mujaḥid(2/444), also refer to Sunan Sa'eed ibn Mansūr(al-Tafsīr/1617).

Al-Hassan al-Basrī was asked whether a brother can see his sister without a headcovering, so it's authentic from Hishām from al-Hassan, that he was asked about a woman putting aside her headcovering in the presence of her brother, so he replied "Wallāhi she isn't supposed to do that" narrated by ibn Abī Shaybāh and it's authentic(17568).

This is clear that the Salaf would ask about showing their hair to Mahrāms, not to the strangers because that was absolutely clear as the sun. So when Allāh(جلا وعلا) said "And tell the believing women to reduce [some] of their vision and guard their private parts and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof and to wrap [a portion of] their headcovers over their chests and not expose their adornment except to their husbands, their fathers, their husbands' fathers, their sons, their husbands' sons, their brothers, their brothers' sons, their sisters' sons, their women, that which their right hands possess, or those male attendants having no physical desire, or children who are not yet aware of the private aspects of women. And let them not stamp their feet to make known what they conceal of their adornment. And turn to Allah in repentance, all of you, O believers, that you might succeed."

^ That verse where it says “and not expose their adornment except that which [necessarily] appears thereof” so you will find many & many quotes of the Salaf that she can show her face & hands & makeup & even the hair, now this is referring to the Mahrāms, not the strangers! Which is why in the same verse Allāh prohibited her to reveal her adornments except to the Mahrāms mentioned, and the reason Allāh mentioned the husband is not because he can't see all of her but to specify that this verse is not referring to the strangers and the Mufasssireen say “The husband is given a preference for what he can see from her”, but as for the others, they can't see that except which the Salaf permitted for the Mahrāms to see.

Brothers & Sisters, we must be humble when someone asks us a question, even though it may seem "stupid" or "rude" or about "a harām matter", you should never insult, curse or belittle them. This is not the da'wah of our beloved messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم)

From my studies on the explanation of Sahīh al-Bukhārī, I have been learning more manners than knowledge subhānAllāh & Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān(حفظه الله) touched on a very important point, so he mentioned the following:

Now this hadīth I'm quoting is in the Musnad of Imām Ahmad and its chain is authentic from the hadīth of Abī Umāmah(رضي الله عنه), that a man came to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) in the presence of the Sahābah(رضوان الله تعالى عليهم), so the man said "O messenger of Allāh, allow me to commit zinā" and the Sahābah were troubled by what he said, so they said "go go" ya3ni get him away from us.

But the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) sat him down, and taught him & advised him 🙄 So the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to him "Would you accept it for your mother[to commit zinā]" so he said No, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "And likewise the people will not accept it for their mothers", the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Would you accept it for your daughter" so he said No, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "And likewise the people will not accept it for their daughters", would you accept it for your sister? Would you accept it for you aunty[dad's side]? Would you accept it for your aunty[moms side]? So every time the man is saying No! So likewise the people do not accept it for these people[our sister & mothers etc...], so if you don't accept it for these people, how can you accept it to the daughters of others, and they don't accept this for their daughters, then the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) placed his hands on his chest and said "O Allāh, purify his heart, guard his private parts & forgive his sins" so the man did not ever return back to this [filthy act] which is zinā wal-iyāthubillāh.

Now the point of this story is to touch on something very important, which is the adab derived from it. This man asks about a matter which is prohibited by the consensus of the Ummāh & a matter which is hated and despised by all the Messengers sent by Allāh(جلا وعلا) which is known by Fitrāh as being an evil thing, however the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) sat him down and taught him subhānAllāh - He did not belittle him, insult him or curse him because this is a time & place to learn, and then what would happen if you told him "May Allāh curse you, get away from us" what have we benefitted from that? He would most likely remain upon his Fujūr[indecent acts] & his sins and he would hate you and remain upon his sins, and we're in a need of giving people directions & to create awareness of our beautiful deen, not to deter people away from us by using filthy language, rude words, rude way in dealing with others.

Foul language doesn't support the truth, nor does it destroy falsehood, it just shows to the people that you have a bad character & sincere people respect a person with knowledge & character, not a person who gets angry & tries to force his opinion upon others by belittling them. Unfortunately when you read some books from the Scholars where they refute some deviant, they start off with "The heretic said, the Atheist said, the misguided innovator said" then he mentions the most disgusting language you would see in the language, belittling the other person physically without even refuting the arguments...

Brothers and sisters, if you are not able to refute the people of misguidance, give the opportunity to others, please do not result to swearing & be like them, especially filthy sects like the Rāfidah/Brelvī Sūfī's who will say a million F words because from the characteristics of Ahlal Sunnāh is manners & justice, being fair. We are in the middle path, we drop all types of arrogance.

SubhānAllāh, some people will not be able to refute you, so they just claim you're misguided, you're khawārīj, you're this, you're that so the laymen will stay away from you - Because they don't have the required knowledge to refute you, so they will exaggerate the issue & claim its a huge matter, so the laymen might think it doesn't need a response, whereas in reality the person is unable to respond.

When people don't have a strong foundation and a solid argument argument to refute you, they will start raising their voice, start insulting you & cursing you, whereas we are not like them. Our Salaf taught us to say "I don't know" because if we speak without knowledge, they can easily refute us, and we will be shaming the truth from our ignorance.

And never force someone to follow the opinion of some Shaykh, you can't do this especially in matters where the great scholars differed, yes you can tell them, this is more correct, here are my evidences, and you should follow this. But to raise a sword upon him and say "Oi, you must do this" as if the Haq is solely with you...He will give you 100 questions to answer, but he can't even answer 1 question. I have so much things to say, but this post is pretty long.

So let's go back to the way of our beloved messenger (صلى الله عليه وسلم) and respect the intellect of the people by giving clear proofs which back up what you say. May Allāh (جلا وعلا) keep us firm upon this deen وصلى الله وسلم على سيدنا محمد وعلى اله وصحبه اجمعين

Shaykh Nāsir ibn Hamd was asked, would it be possible for you, may Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى) preserve you, to mention for us a short summary regarding the issue of "Excuse of Ignorance" [in Major Shirk]?

The shaykh responded by saying: Excuse of ignorance is differed upon into 3 sayings:

1. Those who give excuse of ignorance completely [in all cases].
2. Those who don't excuse the people with ignorance in Tawheed[foundation of worship] completely [in all cases], regardless if it was regarding the "Asmā" [applying the name of Mushrik upon him] in this world or the ruling [upon him] in the afterlife, so they consider him to be in the hellfire eternally, even if the Risālah [Prophetic Message] didn't reach him, and they used the first covenant [Al-Mithāq al-Awwāl] as proof[the message of Tawheed sent to all mankind].
3. And this is the correct view, that there are some [types] of ignorance which can be excused, and other [types] which isn't [excused]:

A) So it would be excused in the Masā'il al-Khafiyyāh [Hidden/Unclear Matters], such as Qadar, Ēmān, Attributes[of Allāh] and in the likes of the apparent Ahkām al-'Amaliyyāh [Sharee'ah Regulations to do with Actions] which is other than Tawheed, like Salāh, Zakāt, the Prohibition of alcohol & other than that.

B) It would not be excused in Tawheed al-'Ibādah[Where you must single out Allāh in worship], because this is Asl al-Deen [the fundamentals of the religion] and the deen of all the messengers, like du'ā[to other than Allāh], slaughtering[to other than Allāh], a vow[dedicating yourself to obey other than Allāh] & other than that. This Jāhil is also upon two categories:

- A Jāhil who is not excused in this world & the hereafter, meaning that he will eternally remain in the hellfire, we seek refuge from Allāh from it [hell]. And he is the one who the Hujjāh has been established on by having the Risālah [Prophetic Message i.e Qur'ān & Sunnāh] reach him, no matter if he searched for it but didn't understand it, or he opposed it and didn't [bother] searching for it [the message].

- A Jāhil who's excused in the hereafter, not in this world: And he is the one who the Hujjāh hasn't been established on, like the one who grew up in a desert far away or was in a very tall mountain, or from the Ahl al-Fitrāh and other than them, so this person is dealt with as a Mushrik in this world, but as for the hereafter, the matter is left to Allāh (جلا وعلا), and the most correct of what has been mentioned regarding him is that he will be tested and Allāh (جلا وعلا) knows best.

On le questionna : Pouvez-vous nous faire, qu'ALLAH vous préserve, un petit résumé sur la question du 'Udr Bil Jahl (excuse de l'ignorance) ?

Il répondit qu'ALLAH le préserve: Il existe trois avis différents au sujet de l'excuse de l'ignorance :

1- (Un avis) qui excuse pour ignorance de manière générale (mouttlaqan).

2- (Un avis) qui n'excuse pas pour ignorance concernant le tawhid (base/fondement de l'adoration) de manière générale, que ce soit dans l'appellation (le fait de l'appeler kâfir) dans ce monde (dounya) ou son houkm (jugement final) dans l'au-delà ; (c'est un avis) qui le considère comme méritant l'enfer éternel même si le message prophétique (ar-rissâla) ne lui est pas parvenue, et (ce point de vue) s'appuie sur le pacte initial (Mithâq).

3- (Le troisième avis) et il est le plus probable (proche du haqq) : il y a ce qui peut être excusé pour ignorance et ce qui ne peut pas l'être:

a) (l'ignorant) peut être excusé concernant les questions subtiles (massâ'il khafiyya) telles que (les questions liées) au qadr (destin), au îmân (foi), aux attributs (d'ALLAH 'azza a jal), ainsi que le houkm des œuvres pieuses autres que le tawhîd telles que la prière, la zakât, l'interdiction du vin, etc.

b) (l'ignorant) ne sera pas excusé dans le tawhîd d'adoration ('ibâda) comme l'invocation (dou'â), le sacrifice, le vœu etc.; car ceci est le fondement de l'islam et de la religion de tous les Messagers. Puis, celui qui ignore cela est soit :

- Un ignorant qui ne sera pas excusé dans ce monde et dans l'au-delà, dans le sens qu'il ira en enfer pour l'éternité qu'ALLAH nous en préserve, et c'est celui à qui la preuve (houjja) a été présentée par le biais du message prophétique. (Il n'est pas excusé pour ignorance), qu'il ait recherché (la vérité) ou qu'il s'en est détournée, qu'il ait compris la hujja/la rissâla ou pas.

- Un ignorant qui sera excusé dans l'au-delà sans pour autant l'être dans ce bas monde, et c'est celui à qui la preuve n'a pas été présentée comme celui qui a grandi dans le lointain désert ou dans les hautes montagnes, ou comme les gens de la fatra (qui n'ont pas reçu de message prophétique), etc. Celui-ci sera traité dans ce bas monde comme les polythéistes (mouchrikîne) ; quant à l'au-delà, son cas revient à ALLAH soubhânnah. Il est plus juste de dire que les gens comme lui seront mis à l'épreuve, Wallâhou a'lam.

Raising the hands in Salâh before & after rukū' is a Sunnâh, it's not Wājib!

~ Shaykh Sulaymân al-'Ulwân (حفظه الله)

Note: Yes all the hadīths of the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) mention that he would raise his hands, but does this make it wājib? No, because by principle is that the actions of the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) are recommended, not obligatory unless we find the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) ordering the muslims to do so.

Just like the issue of washing the mouth in Wudū', it's a Sunnâh of the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم), however it's not wājib. As for wiping the ears, there is no authentic hadīth that the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) wiped his ears, all the sahābah described his wudū' without wiping the ears, but because we have another hadīth that says "The ears are part of the head" meaning it's perfectly fine to do so, but if a person doesn't do so, his wudū' is accepted. Ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī (رحمه الله) has mentioned an Ijmā', but there is a hanbalī opinion that it's compulsory to wipe the ears with the head, but infact the most correct opinion in Imām Ahmad's madhab is that it's not obligatory to wipe the ears.

This book "Al-Ibānah 'an usūl il-Diyānah" was written by Imām Abū al-Hassan al-Ash'arī (رحمه الله) and he has written the true 'Aqeedah of the Salaf in this book regarding the Attributes of Allāh (جلا وعلا).

Al-Imām Abī al-Hassan ibn Ismā'īl al-Ash'arī al-Basrī (رحمه الله) was a Scholar of his time which no one can deny, and inshā'Allāh I would like to share a story of this Imām and how he grew up as a Mu'tazilī by a Shaykh he loved so much, from seeing the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) in his dream which made him recant from the beliefs of al-'Itizāl & praising Imām Ahmad (رحمه الله), but the point of this post is to show that Abū al-Hassan al-Ash'arī (رحمه الله) recanted from his Ash'arī Ta'wīlāt of the verses of Allāh (جلا وعلا) in which he wrote & published this book in the end of his life.

Many of the Ashā'irah couldn't give up their beliefs like the Father of the Ash'arī sect did, in which he died upon the 'Aqeedah of the Salaf - So they had to deny this book, but this book was proven to be attributed to the Imām Abū al-Hassan al-Ash'arī (رحمه الله) by Imām al-Bayhaqī (رحمه الله) who is the famous author of "Sunan al-Bayhaqī". It was also proven by great Muhaqiqīn of the Ummāh such as al-Imām ibn 'Asākir (رحمه الله) the famous author of the book "Tārīkh Dimashq" which is a 70 volume history book with alot of very rare & beneficial knowledge! It was also proven by al-Imām ibn kathīr (رحمه الله) and Imām al-Dhahabī (رحمه الله) and we all know the status of these Imāms! And ofcourse, the Shaykh of these Imāms, who is no other than Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله) who has written a commentary on Imām Abū al-Hassan al-Ash'arī's (رحمه الله) book "Al-Ibānah 'an usūl il-Diyānah"

May Allāh (جلا وعلا) guide us to the straight path.

Please stop transgressing against others - Someone sent me a hadīth as a picture & it said "If you share this, Allāh will be pleased with you, and if you don't share this, Allāh will be angry with you"...

This is so offensive, who gave you the right to say that Allāh will be angry with me if I don't share it? Infact, I looked up the hadīth & it was fabricated, and sharing fabricated narrations is a big sin.

It's very important to know what you share on the internet, especially when you post knowledge. A person must be able to differentiate between the weak & authentic Fatāwah/Hadīths etc...But to transgress against others to make them feel bad, this is insulting and very rude.

says "Those whom we sent the scripture know it as they know their own sons" ~ (جلا وعلا) Allâh .Sûrat al-Baqarâh, Âyâh 146 is referring to (جلا وعلا)the Imâm of the Mufasssireen said, what Allâh (رحمه الله), Abû Ja'far al-Tabarî said (رحمه الله)in this verse, are the Rabbis of the Jews & the Scholars of the Christians, so he "These Rabbis from the jews, and the Scholars from the Christians know that the Sacred House[Al-Kab'bah] is their Qiblâh and the Qiblâh of Ibrâhîm & the Qiblâh of the Prophets from before, as they ".know their own sons

Here are some narrations regarding that, also refer to the context of this verse by reading the :previous pages which talk about the Sacred House narrated (رحمه الله)who said, Yazîd ibn Zarî (رحمه الله)It was narrated to us from Bishr ibn Mu'âdh the saying [of Allâh] "Those whom we sent (رحمه الله), from Qatâdah (رحمه الله)to us from Sa'eed said: They know that the Sacred (رحمه الله)the scripture know it as they know their own sons" he .House is the Qiblâh narrated to us, who said (رحمه الله)who said, Ishâq (رحمه الله)It was narrated to us from al-Muthnâh regarding the (رحمه الله)'narrated to us from his father from al-Rabî (رحمه الله)'Abdûllâh ibn Abî Ja'far Those whom we sent the scripture know it as they know their own" (عز وجل)statement of Allâh .sons", meaning: The Qiblâh

(رحمه الله)who said, ibn Abî Ja'far (رحمه الله)It was narrated to us from 'Ammâr ibn al-Hassan his saying "Those whom we sent the (رحمه الله), 'narrated to us from his father from al-Rabi scripture know it as they know their own sons", They knew that the Qiblâh of the Sacred House is .the Qiblâh that they was prescribed for them, just like they knew their own sons who said, ibn (رحمه الله)'narrated to me, he said, I was informed by ibn Wahab (رحمه الله)Yûnus said about His saying "Those whom we sent the scripture know it as they know (رحمه الله)Zayd .said: The jews know that it's the Qiblâh, i.e. Makkâh (رحمه الله)their own sons", He (سبحانه)changed the Qiblâh from al-Quds to al-Haram? Allâh (جلا وعلا)Now, what is the reason Allâh says "And thus we have made you a just community that you will be witnesses over the (وتعالى) people and the Messenger will be a witness over you. And We did not make the Qiblâh which you used to face except that We might make evident who would follow the Messenger from who would turn back on his heels. And indeed, it is difficult except for those whom Allah has guided. And never would Allah have caused you to lose your faith. Indeed Allah is, to the people, Kind and [Merciful." The Sunnāh for whoever hears the Mu'athān calling for the prayer is to say exactly what he says, except in the 2 Hayyā's [Salāh & Falāh], so he says "Lā Hawlā walā Quwwāta ilā billāh". 'Ayyâsh similar to the narration in Bukhârî, and it was narrated by Muhammâd ibn 'Awf from 'Alî ibn

'Ayyâsh and he added onto the ending "Innâka Lâ Takhluf al-Mî'âd" it was collected by al-Bayhaqî in .[Errent, not authentic] شاذة his Sunân [1/410]. And this addition is and a group of (رحمه الله)al-Bukhârî, (رحمه الله)Ahmad, (رحمه الله)The Hufâdh 'Alî ibn al-Madîni

.scholars have agreed upon the narration from 'Alî ibn 'Ayyâsh without this addition

And the Taffarrûd [Singular Narration] of Muhammâd ibn 'Awf from 'Alî ibn 'Ayyâsh is not accepted.
!And where does his narration fall compared to the narration of these Hufâdh

And the authenticating from some of the contemporary scholars to this hadîth with its addition is rejected, and the call that it's an addition from a Thiqaḥ [Trustworthy narrator] and the addition of a Thiqaḥ is accepted isn't correct, because the Imâms of Hadîth who examined/devoted their efforts in the 'ilal [hidden defects] of the reports, those who specialise in that do not accept the addition of a Thiqaḥ in all cases, and they do not rule upon this matter by an absolute ruling, generalizing every hadîth, rather they rule upon it as a combination, and rule upon every addition with what it deserves
[They research the matter & it's context, at times the addition is accepted & at times the addition is .[rejected]

and others agree upon (رحمه الله)Bukhârî, (رحمه الله)Ahmad, (رحمه الله)And when 'Alî ibn al-Madîni was asked about the ruling regarding scratching the head for (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymân al-'Ulwân

The Shaykh responded by saying: There's nothing wrong with that, even if some hairs fall off, Imâm

(رحمه الله)Mālik al-Zarqānī] with an authentic chain from (رحمه الله)lqīmāh ibn Abī 'lqīmāh from his mother that she said "I heard Ā'isha, the wife of the Prophet get asked whether a Muhrīm can scratch the body, so she said 'Yes, he can scratch (الله عليه وسلم) it & do so harshly, even if my hands are tied up & I do not find anything except my feet, I would "...scratch that he bathed while he is a Muhrīm[in the (الله عليه وسلم)And it's proven from the Prophet state of Ihrām], and the hadīth is in the Saḥīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] from the hadīth of Abū Ayyūb al-Ansārī. And bathing habitat's hairs to fall off, and there has been no statement mentioned .prohibiting that

Infact, it's mentioned in the Saḥīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] from the chain of 'Attā' from Tāwūs from .did cupping while he is Muhrīm (الله عليه وسلم)ibn 'Abbās that the Prophet

And a group of scholars have permitted cupping for the Muhrīm, even if that results in cutting .something of the hair

And others have said, he must pay the Fidyāh, to feed 6 poor people or slaughter a sheep or fast 3 days, and this Fidyāh is upon choice[meaning a person must pay the Fidyāh, but he can choose (الله عليه وسلم)which one to pay]. But what's correct is that there's nothing upon him, because the Prophet did not mention in that any Fidyāh and delaying the message from its (الله عليه وسلم) .prescribed/necessary time is not permissible

However, if the Muhrīm shaves all of his head for an excuse or other than that, then it's compulsory upon him to slaughter a sheep or fast 3 days or feed 6 poor people, for every poor person receives .and this is from the agreed upon matters between the scholars [نصف صاع]half of 3KG's said "And whoever among you is ill or has an ailment of the head [making (سبحانه وتعالى)Allāh .shaving necessary must offer] a ransom[Fidyāh] of fasting [three days] or charity or sacrifice was asked about a woman who broke wind during Tawāf, so (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān :the Shaykh responded by saying

The Tawāf of the woman is correct and there's nothing upon her[No need to make it up], and the minor impurity does not prevent one from making Tawāf around the House [al-Ka'bah], and it's not that he prohibited Tawāf[for someone without wudū'], (الله عليه وسلم)proven from the Prophet .and delaying the message from its prescribed/necessary time is not allowed

And the famous hadīth "Tawāf in the house[al-Ka'bah] is [like] Salāh, except that you can talk in it" .(الله عليه وسلم)is not authentic to be attributed/raised to the Prophet

said in his Jāmi' [Sunan al-Tirmidhī] after the [above mentioned] (رحمه الله)Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhī narrated hadīth [#970] "This hadīth has been narrated by ibn Tāwūs & others from Tāwūs from his father from ibn 'Abbās [Mawqūfan]", and this is what's memorized, and 'Abdūl Razzāq has narrated in the Mussanāf [#9789] from Ma'mar from ibn Tāwūs from his father from ibn 'Abbās [Mawqūfan], and he narrated it [#9790] from ibn Jurayj who said I was informed by Ibrāhīm ibn Maysarāh from .Tāwūs from ibn 'Abbās

And 'Attā' ibn al-Sā'ib raised/attributed it[the hadīth] to the Prophet from [the chain of] Tāwūs, this is present in Jāmi' al-Tirmidhī and al-Muntaqāh by ibn al-Jārūd and Saḥīh ibn Khuzaymāh & ibn and what's correct is (الله عليه وسلم), Hibbān and there is dispute in raising it to the Prophet from Tāwūs from ibn 'Abbās [Stopped at ibn 'Abbās i.e. Mawqūfan] and 'Abdullāh ibn Tāwūs from his father is more authentic than 'Attā', so his narration would be given preference over the narration .of 'Attā

And Shu'bah ibn al-Hajjāj has said "I asked Hamād and Mansūr and Sulaymān about a man who performs Tawāf around the House[Ka'bah] while he's not upon Tahārah[Wudū'], so they did not see anything wrong with that" Narrated by ibn Abī Shaybāh in the Musannāf [3/295] and that's what .[chose [Al-Fatāwah 26/199 (رحمه الله)Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh that the (رضي الله عنها)And it has been mentioned in the Saḥīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] from 'Ā'ishā performed wudū' for Tawāf. So this is a proof regarding the Sunnāh of (الله عليه وسلم)Prophet .performing wudū' [for Tawāf], and there's no difference [of opinion] regarding that

And the dispute is only regarding its obligation, and I do not find any evidence for that except in the (الله عليه وسلم)Major impurity, as it has been mentioned in the Saḥīhayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] that the Prophet said to Ā'ishā "Do what the pilgrims do, except that you don't perform Tawāf around (الله عليه وسلم) "the house[al-Ka'bah] until you are purified

Shaykh Muḥammad ibn Sālih al-'Uthaymeen(رحمه الله) was asked: "Is the Dajjāl from the children of Ādam?"

So the Shaykh responded by saying: The Dajjāl is from the children of Ādam(عليه الصلاة والسلام), and some of the scholars said that he's a Shaytān, and others say that his Father is Human and his Mother is from the Jinn, and these sayings aren't correct, and what's apparent is that the Dajjāl is from the children of Ādam(عليه السلام), and that he is in need of food and drinks and other than that, and this is why Īsa(عليه الصلاة والسلام) will kill him normally, as he would kill [other] humans.

was asked about the Dajjāl, so he was asked "Why did the (رحمه الله)Shaykh ibn 'Uthaymeen"?Prophets warn their people against him, even though he won't appear except in the end of times

So the Shaykh replied by saying: The greatest Fitna [Tribulation] upon the face of this Earth since (صلى الله to the final hour is the Fitna of al-Dajjāl, as the Prophet (عليه السلام)the creation of Ādam (عليه وسلم)has said, and that's why there was not a Prophet from Nūḥ (عليه وسلم) except that he would warn his people from him[al-Dajjāl], alluding (صلى الله عليه وسلم), Muhammad .towards his significance and his great importance, and warning from him knows that he will not appear except in the end of times, (جلا وعلا)And nevertheless, Indeed Allāh but He commanded the messengers to warn their nation from him for the sake of showing his great (صلى الله عليه)importance & enormity, and that has been authentically narrated from the Prophet and he said "If he appears and I'm amongst you, then I will dispute with him on your behalf", (وسلم), meaning I will be sufficient to repel him, and if not [if the messenger isn't present], "then you must dispute with him on your own and Allāh is my Khālifah[Protector] over every muslim" How excellent is the Protection of our lord, His Majesty & Highness

So this Dajjāl, his significance is great, rather he is the greatest fitna as was narrated in the ḥadīth till the [final] hour occurs, so it was more (عليه السلام)created Ādam (جلا وعلا)since [the time] Allāh deserving to single him out from amongst the Fitan of the living, in seeking refuge from his Fitna in the Salāh "I seek refuge in Allāh from the punishment of hell, and from the punishment of the grave, "and from the Fitna of the living and the dead, and from the fitna of al-Masīḥ al-Dajjāl

And as for al-Dajjāl, it is taken from [the word] "Al-Dajal" which is al-Tamweeh [To disguise & deceive], because this is deception, infact it's the greatest deception and he's the most severe of .all people in deceiving

Radwan Dakkak posted in ICYC Islamic Care Youth Crew.

I will make this a short post regarding the names & attributes of Allāh(جلا وعلا):

Okay, so what's the difference between a "Name" & "Attribute". An Attribute [صفة] is derived from an إسم [Name], so every "Name" must have an "Attribute" come from it.

Secondly, calling someone "the servant of ..." can only be done by "Names" of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), not by His "Attributes", as long as the Names do not reach the Essence[ذات] of Allāh, so it's not permissible to say "Abdūl Wajh" [The servant of the Face of Allāh], because the Face is an "Attribute" from the Attributes of Allāh(جلا وعلا) and isn't a "Name" of Allāh(جلا وعلا).

Note: Every name of Allāh must be praiseworthy, if there is a Name which is not praiseworthy[Like "the speaker" since this contains good & bad], then it doesn't belong to the Names of Allāh(جلا وعلا) - There is a beautiful quote of Poetry Imām ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله) mentioned which I will never ever forget. He said "All of His names are filled/described with praise, derived to hold meanings" I'm pretty sure this is a good translation of أسمائه أوصاف مدح كلها***** مشتقة قد حملت لمعان

These shī'as asked me, why do you guys call shī'a kāfir? I basically proved why they are kāfir in less than 2 minutes.

So I replied to them, the reason being is because shī'atism is founded upon shirk & kufr & I mentioned some of their beliefs which they agreed is true & infact admitted in believing in it, but the main point I wanted to stress on was Shirk.

So I told them, asking help from 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) is shirk, and one of them responded to me, so she said "Yeah, but let me explain it for you, if you have a boss, are you going to contact him directly, or go through a supervisor who will reach the boss" So I replied, "Yeah true, of course I would go through the supervisor, However does Allāh(جلا وعلا) require someone to reach him, or can we simply ask him directly?"

So, they all went silent for atleast 5 seconds and she said "Yeah, true that's a strong point...but it depends how you look at it" I smiled and quoted the clear verses in the Qur'ān such as where the dead can't hear you, and even if they did, they can't respond to you!

So they said, "well, we don't really ask 'Alī" but I'm like don't you guys say "Ya Alī Madad(help us)" and they are like "...yeah but it depends how you translate it" Lol, but anyways, I ended the conversation by saying "Well, this is why I call you guys Kāfir" and they replied "Well, yeah I respect you & I see what you're saying"

So yeah, I'm like, let's go back to the Qur'ān & follow what the Qur'ān says inshā'Allāh, "have a nice day" 🌞🌞🌞 [No salāms ofcourse]...

If you know anyone with the name "Rahmān" tell them to change it, because this name only belongs to Allāh(جلا وعلا) - You can be called 'Abdūl Rahmān or even Rahīm [This is a name of Allāh, but it's permissible to be shared with his creation], however his mercy is not like ours.

Also, I ask many people what's the real name of Musaylamāh al-Kadhāb & they don't know. The reason why is because Allāh(جلا وعلا) has disgraced him till the day of judgement & he will be known as Musaylamah the Liar, because he called himself "Rahmān al-Yamāmah" giving himself the name of God over the city of Yamāmah.

Whoever rejects Āhād ahādīths is misguided, infact a group of scholars including ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) said that it's disbelief to reject Āhād hadīths, because the Sahābah acted upon it by Ijmā'.

Note: The Ashā'irah reject Āhād hadīths in 'Aqeedah, but this is misguidance. The first hadith in Bukhārī "Verily actions are but by intentions" is a hadīth Āhād which was only narrated by 1 Sahābi [Omar], yet the Ummāh has agreed upon its acceptance in 'Aqeedah.

I'll simplify it for you guys, let's say Abū Bakr al-Siddīq(رضي الله عنه) came up to you and said "RasūlAllāh said this..." The Ashā'irah & other deviant sects would not accept his hadīth, unless they hear it from other companions. Even though in the Makkāh stage, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) was teaching 'Aqeedah & Tawheed, and most of the hadīths from Makkāh are Āhād i.e. Only narrated by 1,2,3,4,5 companions etc....And these hadīths are regarding belief, so how can anyone reject it.

Also, a very beneficial point I want to make is that Imām al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) did not complete the full hadīth of "Verily, actions are but by intentions" so he didn't complete the hadīth that says migrating to Allāh & his messenger...The answer to this is that is because al-Bukhārī wanted to start his book by the hadīth of "Niyyāh" to show how important intention is, and migrating for a woman etc...has nothing to do with the first chapter of "How the wahī started being revealed to RasūlAllāh". So the benefit from this is that it's permissible to shorten a hadīth.

Many people deny the Sunnāh because of this false irrational thinking. Learn as much Ahādīths because they are weapons as the Salaf used to say "He(Muhammad) was sent to all of Brothers, don't you guys know that it's not allowed to raise your voices in the Masājid? Many times, a Shaykh would tell sisters to be quiet during a class, but it's really shameful when we have sisters telling brothers to lower their voices!

The Masjid is the house of Allāh (جلا وعلا), a place of worship and remembering Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى), not to have worldly conversations & laugh excessively [which is also prohibited].

Fear Allāh (جلا وعلا) in your Mosques & learn from your mistakes - Alhamdulillah the Masjid is a great place to be in, but use it to your advantage where you can memorize Qur'ān & Hadīths. Infact, sit with your friends and memorise with each other & test each other. This is far more beneficial than talking about marriage which I doubt you have any knowledge about besides the excitement. There's nothing wrong with discussing islamic issues in a sensible manner.

And everything I mentioned is advice for me first before everyone else. Wallāhi, from my experience, when I have acted upon what I've mentioned, everyone follows you subhānAllāh, and the whole Masjid becomes calm & quiet. Just like the verses of the Qur'ān would be sent down to rectify the situation of the Sahābah, we are imitating our Salaf by fixing our own situation, working on our mistakes :)

The Salaf would act upon Mustahab matters as if they were Wājibāt & would leave Makrūh matters as if they were Muharrāmāt, subhānAllāh & this is how their situation was rectified.

So many women are travelling without a Mahrām, and it's disgusting to see. Note, some of the scholars gave exceptions in Hajj alone, but what's correct is there is no exception.

There's no proof to say that Hajj must be hastened in Islām - Rather, the Prophet (صلى الله عليه) delayed his Hajj until the 10th year AH.

Also, by the agreement of the scholars, a man should not prevent his wife to go to Hajj, infact he should go with her & encourage her.

If a woman doesn't have a Mahram, most of the scholars have agreed that the obligation of Hajj drops from her. Also, should a woman obey her husband if he doesn't let her perform Hajj? There is a difference of opinion, but what's correct is if the husband doesn't want her to go in that particular year, she should obey him as there's no need to hasten Hajj, but if he doesn't want her to go this year or the next etc... & is very stubborn, then she can go without his permission with a Mahram & there's no sin in doing so because Hajj is Fard & her husband is doing something which is wrong according to the agreement of the Scholars.

Ibn Hazm (رحمه الله) mentions in al-Muhallāh that it's compulsory for the husband to go with her, but what's correct is what ibn Hajr (رحمه الله) mentioned which is the opinion of the Jumhūr, that there's no need to go with her husband if she has Mahrams.

Also I would like to mention some scenarios of a woman travelling to Hajj:

1. The woman performs Hajj without the permission of her husband in the compulsory Hajj, there's no blame upon her, with the condition that she went with a Mahram, so she won't be sinful from this.
2. If she performs Hajj without the permission of her husband and without a Mahrām, then her Hajj is accepted, but she is sinful for going without a Mahrām, not for abstaining from her husband's permission.
3. If she performs an optional Hajj or 'Umrah without the permission of her husband, then she is sinful for disobeying her husband and the absence of a Mahrām
4. That she performs Hajj or 'Umrah with the permission of her husband, however without a Mahrām, then she is sinful for not going with a Mahrām.
5. The opposite of point #4 [She travels with a Mahrām without the Husbands permission] What's correct is she is not sinful in the compulsory Hajj, but is sinful in the optional Hajj.

There is so much to mention regarding the topic, but inshā'Allāh this is enough regarding the travelling of a woman. What I posted is what I have learnt from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān in particular & have read many explanations of hadīths from other Shaykhs which touch on the topic.

I like balanced Scholars who know both sides of the arguments & then mention what is most correct - When you read the works of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh (رحمه الله), you can see how amazing he is subhānAllāh, and Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān reminds me of the classical scholars in his approach to many issues.

Can a woman travel without a Mahrâm? Very detailed response by Shaykh Sulaymân al-'Ulwân(حفظه الله) - So after mentioning the hadîths where the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) told a man[preparing for a Ghazwâ] to go perform Hajj with his wife & the hadîths that mention "A woman cannot travel except with a Mahrâm", the Shaykh mentions:

And from this, the majority of the scholars have stated that it's not permissible for a woman to make Hajj except with a Mahram, regardless if her Hajj was compulsory or optional, and regardless if the woman was young or old, and regardless if the travelling distance was long or short. And some of the scholars are of the view that a woman can make Hajj with a group of trustworthy women, infact Imâm Mâlik(رحمه الله) & al-Shâfi'ee(رحمه الله) said she is compelled to go to Hajj with a group of women, i.e. in the compulsory Hajj, and from al-Shâfi'ee(رحمه الله) is a second saying in the issue "that the woman goes out(for Hajj) even if she was with one woman that's trustworthy", and another group of scholars said "A woman can travel alone if the road was safe" and this is what ibn Muflih(رحمه الله) mentions from Shaykh al-Islâm ibn Taymiyyâh(رحمه الله), but what is present in the Fatâwâh(of ibn Taymiyyâh) is that the woman doesn't travel to Hajj, except with friends or Mahrams, so what's clear from this is that Shaykh al-Islâm ibn Taymiyyâh(رحمه الله) permits a woman to travel without a Mahram if she was with trustworthy friends i.e. trustworthy women, and the proof of this saying is what is mentioned in Sahîh al-Bukhârî Mu'allâqâ that 'Omar ibn al-Khattâb(رضي الله عنه) in the final Hajj he made, gave permission to the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) to perform Hajj, so he sent with them 'Uthmân ibn 'Affân(رضي الله عنه) and 'Abdûl al-Rahmân ibn 'Âwf(رضي الله عنه), so they(the scholars of this view) said "this is a consensus of the Sahâbah of the permissibility of a woman travelling without a Mahram if she was with trustworthy women and the road was safe".

And we could respond against this by saying that the wording of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) is explicit in this issue "A woman does not travel except with a Mahrâm" and this hadîth is Agreed upon [in it's authenticity], and he made his saying a general one, and numerous narrations have been mentioned regarding travelling, so a narration came from Abû Hurayrâh(رضي الله عنه) in Sahîh Muslîm "It's not permissible for a woman who believes in Allâh & the last day to go travelling for 3 days or more" and it's mentioned in Sahîh Muslîm from the Hadîth of Abû Hurayrâh "one night" and it's also mentioned in the Sahîhayn [Bukhârî & Muslim] from the Hadith of Abû Hurayrâh(رضي الله عنه) "A journey of one day & one night" and in Sahîh al-Bukhârî from the hadîth of Abî Sa'eed(رضي الله عنه) "A journey of two days" so when these narrations have differences that indicate a specific time, it's compulsory to take the unrestricted meaning [hadîths which mention no time period for the Journey - So it's harâm to go travelling without a Mahram fullstop], particularly the hadîth of ibn 'Abbâs(رضي الله عنهما) which isn't differed upon(in wordings from him).

In addition to this, the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) stated this in Hajj or in the end of his life, and it's possible that he said it in the 9th year AH in which Abû Bakr(رضي الله عنه), 'Alî(رضي الله عنه) and a group of Sahâbah made Hajj in, so taking the unrestricted narrations which are explicit in the topic is given preference to taking the restricted narrations [that mention 1,2,3 days etc...] that aren't explicit. Also, even if we take the restricted evidences for argument sake, no doubt Hajj takes more than 3 days, indeed Hajj exceeds more than 3 days, and it's not possible to finish Hajj in less than 3 days, so how can a woman travel this distance which would exceed 5,6 or 7 days and all the narrations do not mention anything above 3 days, rather it mentions three[days], two[days], one day & night, a journey of one day & a journey of one night.

Also the reply to the actions of the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) is that this was an Ijtihâd(educated guess) from them, and it could also be said that most of the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) had Mahrams, Hafsa(رضي الله عنها) in particular & others, except that this might be opposed/rejected for Safiyyâh(رضي الله عنها), so it could be said that the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) are unlawful to be married, so it's not possible that anyone would have temptations/desires for them, and neither would they tempt the men, so it's as if their situation is less than others, especially since they made Hajj with 'Abdûl Rahmân ibn 'Âwf(رضي الله عنه) and with 'Uthmân ibn 'Affân(رضي الله عنه) and with the Major companions, and they would look after them more than they would look after their own daughters.

In addition to this is that the wives of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) are the mothers of the believers, so these things(going to Hajj without a Mahrâm) could be justifiable for their actions, unlike other than them with the amount of corrupted ones, and perversion in the society, and Fitan(temptations), and being subjected to aggressors/attackers, and this is in particular with the presence of an explicit text "A woman cannot travel except with a Mahrâm", however what must be payed attention to, is that whoever permitted a woman to travel with trustworthy women in Hajj & 'Umrâh, do not permit this in every situation, and isn't permitted in every travel. What has been permitted from these Scholars is restricted to certain circumstances:

1. A kâfirah(disbeliever) that reverts to Islâm in dâr al-Harb, it's permissible for her to travel alone to the land of the muslims.
2. A prisoner which is free from the Kuffâr, it's permissible for her to travel alone.
3. If the woman & her friend separate from each other, she can befriend other than her if she was trustworthy/secure, or else she can travel on her own.

And it could also be said that the travelling of a woman without a Mahrâm has situations:

1. That she travels on her own without the road being safe, then this travelling is harâm by consensus, regardless if the travelling was for Hajj or 'Umrâh or for other than that.
2. That she travels on her own & she is secure/safe on the road, then this is harâm according to the Jumhûr [The majority of the Scholars]
3. That she travels alone with a group of trustworthy women, and this has been permitted by a group of scholars in Hajj and 'Umrâh, and as we have previously stated, it has been mentioned in Bukhârî Mu'allâqâ from the chain of Ibrâhim from his father from his grandfather who said "Omar ibn

صلی) the Prophet(ﷺ) in the final Hajj he made, gave permission to the wives of the Prophet(ﷺ) (رضي الله عنه)al-Khattāb (رضي الله عنه) to perform Hajj, so he sent with them 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān (رضي الله عنه) and 'Abdūl al-Rahmān ibn 'Āwḥ (رضي الله عنه)"

4. And a group of scholars have permitted a woman to travel in all cases if she was with a group of trustworthy women.

5. And another group of scholars have completed forbidden a woman to travel in all cases, except in what the scholars have agreed upon in the 3 situations mentioned above[if she reverted etc...], and this is the Madhab of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), and is more suitable/correlates with the apparent/clear text "A woman cannot travel except with a Mahrām". HOWEVER, if it occurs that the woman travels without a Mahrām, her Hajj is complete/accepted in Islām.

Note: I have mentioned in the past that the definition of "travelling" goes back to the 'Urf(customs) of the time - It's not permissible to use the hadīths "Travel for 3 days without Mahram" in today's sense where a person can basically travel the whole world in that specified time period. Rather, whatever is considered "Travelling in our times" even if it was 1 hour on a plane etc... is considered harām if it was without a Mahram والله اعلم

I have transcribed an important part of Shaykh al-'Ulwān's 27 series lectures on his explanation of al-Rawd al-Marba' in the book of Hajj - And this is regarding the ruling on a woman travelling without a Mahram. I'm translating as I speak(50% done) & should be done before Midnight inshā'Allāh. Here's the arabic [99.99% accurate].

وبهذا(بعد ما ذكر الاحاديث في نهي سفر المرأة بدون محرم) قال اكثر اهل العلم انه لا يجوز للمرأة ان تحج الا مع ذي محرم سواء كان حجهافرضا او نفلا وسواء كانت المرأة شابة او عجوزة وسواء كان السفر قصيرا ام طويلا وذهب بعض اهل العلم ان المرأة تحج فرضها مع النساء الثقات بل قال مالك والشافعي يلزمها الخروج الى الحج مع جماعة النساء اي في فرض الحج، وعن الشافعي قول ثاني في المسألة ان المرأة تخرج ولو مع امرأة واحدة اذا كانت ثقة وقالت طائفة اخرى "تسافر المرأة وحدها اذا كان الطريق آمنة" وهذا ما ذكره ابن مفلح رحمه الله عن شيخ الاسلام بن تيمية ولكن الموجود في الفتاوى ان المرأة لا تسافر الى الحج الا مع رفقاء او مع ذي محرم فظاهر هذا ان شيخ الاسلام يجوز سفر المرأة بدون محرم اذا كانت مع رفقاء ثقات اي نساء ثقات ودليل هذا القول ما جاء في صحيح البخاري معلقاً ان عمر رضي الله عنه اذن لارواح النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم في آخر حجّة حجّها فبعث معهنّ عثمان بن عفان وعبد الرحمن بن عوف قالوا وهذا اجماع من الصحابة على جواز حج المرأة بدون محرم اذا كانت مع نساء ثقات وأمنت الطريق، ويمكن ان يجاب عن هذا فيقال إن لفظ النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم صريح في المسألة "لا تسافر المرأة إلا مع ذي محرم" وهذا الحديث متفق عليه فخرح قوله مخرج العموم وقد جاءت عدة روايات في السفر فقد جاءت رواية ابي هريرة في مسلم "لا تحل لامرأة تومن بالله واليوم الآخر ان تسافر سفر يكون ثلاثة ايام فصاعدة" وجاءت في مسلم ايضا من حديث ابي هريرة "مسيرة ليلة" وجاء ايضا في الصحيحين من حديث ابي هريرة "مسيرة يوم وليلة" وفي البخاري من حديث ابي سعيد "مسيرة يومين" فحين اختلفت هذه الروايات الدالة على التقييد وجب الاخذ بالمطلق ولا سيما ان حديث بن عباس لم يختلف فيه، زيادة على هذا ان النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم قاله في حجة او في اخر حياته ويحتمل انه قالها في السنة التاسعة التي حج فيها ابو بكر وعلى وجماعة فالأخذ بالمطلق الروايات التي هي صريحة في الباب اولى من الاخذ بالتقييد الذي ليس صريحاً، ايضا لو فرضنا الاخذ بالتقييد فان الحج تجاوز ثلاثة ايام، فان الحج يتجاوز ثلاثة ايام، ولا يمكن ان يريد حج اقل من ثلاثة ايام، فكيف تسافر المرأة هذه المسافة التي تتجاوز خمسة يوم وستة يوم او سبعة ايام والروايات كلها لم يرد اكثر من ثلاثة ايام انما جاءت ثلاثة وجاءت يومان ويلة وجاء فيها يوم وليلة وجاء مسيرة يوم ومسيرة ليلة والإيجاب ايضا عن فعل نساء النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم أن هذا اجتأذ منهن ويمكن ان يجاب ايضا فيقال ان معظم زوجات النبي كان لهن محارم ولا سيما حفصة ومجموعة إلا أن هذا يمكن إعتراض عليه بصفية فيجاب يقال إن نساء النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم محرمات على التأييد فلا يمكن ان يصنع فيهن احد او يتشرفن للرجال فكان امرهن اخف من غيرهن ولا سيما انهن حججن مع عبد الرحمن بن عوف ومع عثمان ومع اكابر الصحابة وهم يحافظون عليهن اعظم لحفاظهم علي بناتهم، زيادة على هذا ان ازواج النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم امهات للمؤمنين فهذه الاشياء قد تكون مبرراً لفعلهم، بخلاف غيرهن مع كثرة الفساد وانحراف المجتمع والفتن والتعرض للمغريات ولا سيما مع وجود النص الصريح "لا تسافر المرأة الا مع ذي محرم"، طبعاً هذه المسألة كما سمعت من المسائل الخلافية الاجتهادية ولكم مما ينبغي التنبيه له أن من قال برخصة سفر المرأة مع الرفقاء في الحج او في العمرة لا يرخص في ذلك كل الاحوال ولا يرخص في كل سفر فالرخصة من هؤلاء الأئمة قد خرج مقيدة في حالات:

١. الكافرة تسلم في دار الحرب، فيجوز لها أن تسافر وحدها لبلاد المسلمين
٢. الأسيرة تخلصت من الكفار، فلها أن تسافر وحدها
٣. اذا انقطعت المرأة من الرفقة، فلها أن تصاحب غيرها إذا كان مأموناً، أو أن تسير وحدها

ويمكن أن يقال إن سفر المرأة بدون محرم له حالات:

١. أن تسافر وحدها ولا تأمن الطريق فهذا السفر محرم بالإجماع سواء كان سفر لحج او لعمرة او لغير ذلك
٢. أن تسافر وحدها وهي تأمن الطريق، فهذا محرم عند الجمهور
٣. أن تسافر وحدها مع نساء ثقات وهذا قد رخصة فيها جماعة في الحج والعمرة وكما تقدم جاء في البخاري معلقاً من طريق ابراهيم عن ابيه عن جده قال اذن عمر بن الخطاب لازواج النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم في اخر حجة حجها فبعث معهن عثمان بن عفان وعبد الرحمن بن عوف
٤. وقال جماعة يرخص في ذلك في كل الاسفار اذا كانت المرأة مع نساء ثقات
٥. وقال جماعة آخرون يمنع من ذلك مطلقاً إلا في ما اجمع العلماء في المسائل الثلاث المتقدمة، وهذا مذهب الإمام احمد رحمه الله تعالى وهو اسعد بظاهر النص "لا تسافر المرأة إلا مع ذي محرم" ولكن لو حدث المرأة بدون محرم اجزئ حجها عن حجة الإسلام

What are your thoughts in calling a disbeliever "brother" - I just heard Ustādh Muḥammād al-Bizry say "lā yajūz(it's not permissible)" using the verse "Indeed the believers are BUT brothers" since the word "Ināma" is used which indicates exclusiveness, and brotherhood [ikhwā also includes sisterhood according to the arabic language] is only something exclusive to the muslims.

Do you guys know that Pharaoh, the evil, oppressive tyrant used to kill infant boys as mentioned in many places in the Qur'ân. "They would kill your infant boys & leave your girls alive" the Mufasssireen say, Fir'awn would allow the women to live!

Unlike the Râfidah & Nusayriyyâh, they do not care who they kill, whether man, woman or child! The Shī'a Râfidah are gang raping our sunnī sisters in Syria, Irâq & Yemen!!! They have blown up thousands of mosques!!! How dare anyone remain silent & act like they are muslims. What Islām have you learnt You are upon the path of the Shayâteen with your interfaith da'wah.

May Allâh (جلا وعلا) give victory to the muslims against the Râfidah & their allies, the Crusaders & Zionists! O Allâh, guide our Ummâh to the straight path & purify it from the hypocrites & oppressors! O Allâh, keep our beloved 'Ulemâ' steadfast & grant them Jannât al-Firdaws. O Allâh, allow us to see the truth in times of Fitna. O Allâh, unite the hearts of the believers - And Peace & Blessings be upon your beloved Messenger Muhammad, and upon all his family & companions.

Note: In the Sharee'ah, a man can be punished with immoral behaviour for harming his wife, such as doing what's harâm without the women's choice, especially sodomy astaghfirallâh or her menses, a woman can seek a divorce from her husband & he'll be lashed & dealt with by the ...[Judge/prosecutors [Won't be killed

"The Shī'a Râfidah are mushrikeen, both their scholars & laymen"

~ Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله)

20 February 2016 18:16

Radwan Dakkak posted in ICYC Islamic Care Youth Crew.

#Important The Râfidah are mushrikeen, both their scholars & laymen [Ahmad Jibrīl wanted to write a book about this] I will also mention some things about the excuse of ignorance with regards to shirk(akbar), many reject this rule altogether & other scholars apply this rule to muslims ONLY,

not apostate sects like the Rāfidah which commit clear kufr that are known by necessity in the Qur'ān, or other misguided religions. There is no excuse for such people, infact the Tawheed of the Rāfidah is the same Tawheed as the Mushrikeen, there's absolutely no difference between the two, or else we will excuse idol worshippers. But anyways, feel free to have a read inshā'Allāh...

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) makes takfeer on the Scholars of the Rāfidah & their Laymen & they are dealt as apostates from Islām - He says "Anyone who has read the verses where Allāh promised the Sahābah Jannāh & is pleased with them as Believers, and still goes ahead to insult them, such a person is a kāfir without any excuse" and the Shaykh mentions, this is also with the shirk they commit by calling other than Allāh & all their other kufr beliefs which is known by necessity in the religion, so what excuse can be given to such people!

Ibn al-Qayyīm mentions "Whoever is able to seek knowledge & doesn't learn, then the Hujjāh has been established upon him" and Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān says "These Rāfidah have studied and learnt tawheed" so there's no doubt the Hujjāh has been established upon them.

HOWEVER, Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān says "If someone hasn't read the Qur'ān & Sunnāh, then he has a different ruling"

Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl said If a shī'a really didn't believe in their books, then he has an identity crisis - As Ahmad Jibrīl said "We don't base rules on exceptions", so by default we consider the Rāfidah mushrikeen, however if there are specific cases where a Rāfidhī doesn't believe in their own books, we need to get his title changed & show him True Tawheed.

But I'll like to mention a quote many people use and that is Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdul Wahhāb(رحمه الله) said "We don't make takfeer on the grave-worshippers until the Hujjāh has been applied on them"

Now some scholars understand from this(and many other quotes of the scholars, also both sides use the verses of the Qur'ān to prove their point) that if a MUSLIM seeks help from a grave, but was ignorant & thought what he was doing is correct(ta'wīl of the verse of Allāh), then he is excused until the hujjāh has been established on him. Meaning, if you show him the proof, he will say "I will reject this grave-worship & disbelieve in it". It's important to mention, these scholars say "if an ignorant muslim who's Islām is established seeks help from a grave, we don't make takfeer upon him by that unless he opposes it" This obviously doesn't refer to christians, jews, distorted sects like the Nusayrī's & Rawāfīdh, since they are apostate sects from Islām who commit clear kufr which is known by necessity in the Qur'ān.

Other scholars say, the words of Shaykh Muḥammād refers to takfeer on the "hukm" [ruling, being punished etc...] not on the "ism" [So we judge him as a Mushrik in this dunya], meaning, they are mushrikeen, but the rules of takfeer(punished for riddāh etc...) are not applied upon them until the evidences have been established upon them(show them why it's shirk, if they refuse to repent, they are executed).

There's also a difference of opinion regarding establishing the Hujjāh, ibn al-Qayyīm says "Whoever is able to get knowledge & doesn't learn, then the Hujjāh has been established on him"

However other scholars say "No, we must show him the proof & explain to him the issue & why it's shirk/kufr for the Hujjāh to be established upon him" & this is what Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān follows.

So those scholars who say the Hujjāh is merely having the revelation of the Qur'ān & Sunnāh reach you - Meaning, if it reaches you, it's up to you to learn Tawheed & Shirk & you won't be excused for committing shirk because of lack of knowledge/ignorance.

Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best - There is a reason why I don't give my own opinion because I am no where near the level of disputing which is more correct. So I have respect for both sides & even if I might disagree with Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān on this issue, to make takfeer on him because of this is absolute stupidity. This is a well known view from many Shaykhs, even some students of Shaykh Muḥammād ibn 'Abdul Wahhāb(رحمه الله), but understanding their words is where the scholars differed I guess. Also Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) & Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) would make takfeer on the sayings of the Jahmiyyāh, but they would abstain from making takfeer on their individuals until the Hujjāh has been established upon them. Many Imāms differed with this & said the Jahmiyyāh aren't excused at all because they have disbelieved in what's known by necessity of the deen, but they didn't make takfeer on each other, let alone call each other names!

Note: The issue is not about whether grave worship is shirk or not, but the issue is with regards to excusing someone(INDIVIDUALLY) for committing shirk because of ignorance - And only ignorance which is valid(ta'wīl, jahl etc), not an ignorance of arrogance/opposing the evidences, such a person is a kāfir without a doubt.

Bragging about zinā renders one an apostate, this is what Shaykh ibn 'Uthaymeen(رحمه الله) said:

Shaykh Ibn 'Uthaymeen (may Allaah preserve him) said: there is a third kind of immoral, rebellious, promiscuous person, who speaks in a boastful manner about zinaa (fornication, adultery) – we seek refuge with Allaah – and tells people that he travelled to such and such a country and committed immoral acts of zinaa with a number of women, and so on, and he shows off about that. Such people should be asked to repent, and if they do not they should be executed, because when a person boasts about zinaa, this implies that he thinks it is permissible – Allaah forbid – and the one who thinks that zinaa is halaal is a kaafir. Watching soccer/footy is Shirk? I am stunned from this quote, must read

Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) & ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله) said "Whoever loves something which Allāh hates, or hates something which Allāh loves, has fallen into a branch of Shirk"

This is so scary! Imagine those muslims who build up so much love for soccer/footy players, giving their walā' to Fāsiqs/Kāfirs, wasting hours a day watching them & cheering for them instead of having walā' for Islām & the Ummāh of Prophet Muḥammād(صلى الله عليه وسلم). No doubt Allāh(جلا وعلا) hates the evil in soccer where they rule by man made laws & distract the youth from doing good.

Note: There's a difference when we call a person a Mushrik and say "He has a branch of Shirk" just like in the authentic ḥadīth of whoever doesn't have intention to strive fe sabeelillah has a branch of hypocrisy. It doesn't mean he's a "Complete hypocrite" والله اعلم was asked about establishing the hudūd(punishments) in (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulayman al-'Ulwān :[the land of Battle [where fighting is taking place responded by saying: Firstly, there is no difference among the scholars, (حفظه الله)The Shaykh have mercy upon them on the obligation of establishing the (جلا وعلا)may Allah hudūd(punishments), and that it is not permissible to deny and leave it off completely, and everything that goes against this fundamental rule returns back to this fundamental rule and the .differed upon returns back to the agreed upon to remove the confusion/doubts researched this matter in his book al-Jāmi' (رحمه الله)Secondly, the Imam Abu 'Eesa al-Tirmidhī (kitāb al-hudūd) and he mentioned from some of the scholars that the hudūd(punishments) aren't apply in the Battle, and this was said by a group among the scholars, and it's understood from some of the later scholars from this that the punishment is removed in its entirety, and that whoever steals from the land of war or fornicates, then the punishment is removed from him and this is wrong, and what was intended by whoever said that the punishment isn't applied, means that it is delayed so that it doesn't cause the muslim(usually the new muslim) to join the land of the enemy, so he changes his religion from Islām to Kufr(disbelief), and with respect to this cause of harm, it would be appointed [chosen by the Imām] to delay the punishment and this is what is .”meant by the statement of who said: “that the punishments aren't applied in the land of war

And as for the statement that the punishment falls (is removed) completely, then this is wrong and it's not permissible to say this!!! And with that (being said), establishing the punishments in the land :of war is differed upon, and that is upon two sayings

The first saying: A group of scholars went to say that the punishments are to be applied whatsoever, and there's no difference between the land of war or other than that, or the land of .battle or other than that

And the second saying: What is to be put forward is weighing between the benefit and repelling the evil [The Maslahah], and because there is nothing in the Sharī'ah which prevents us from delaying the punishment, and the evidence has been reported on the impermissibility of leaving off the punishment and nothing has been reported about the impermissibility of delaying the punishments, there's a difference between the two matters, so for the following, if the leader of the army or the leader of the battalion see's a benefit in delaying the punishment then he delays it, and if he sees a benefit in hastening the punishment then he hastens it, and the scholars that are present have the ability to determine the benefit and what repels the harm, so whenever it would cause fear for this muslim and that he will soon hear that he will get his hand cut off or get stoned, he will [choose to] join the land of the enemy, so then the punishment is delayed, until the muslims return to their safety, and whenever this harm has been expelled, then the punishment would be applied on him in ".the land of the battle

#Clarification regarding Ghusl & Wudū'

I want to make this as clear as possible - Whoever does Ghusl Mujzi' (pours water over their whole body) without making wudū' does not have wudū' !!!

HOWEVER, if you make ghusl from Janābah (whether you do wudū' in ghusl or not), you are in a state of wudū', because there is specified evidence regarding this, and if it wasn't for the hadith in this issue, no one would have said there's no need to do wudū' & it's not permissible to generalize the hadīth into all types of "ghusl" - Because the steps of wudū' are wājib & aren't removed in any case, except in this specific case(ghusl of Janābah).

So in my previous post, I was talking about making ghusl for Jum'ah while you are not in the state of Janābah - So I'm clarifying here that a person only has wudū' if he did ghusl from Janābah. If you did ghusl without being in a state of janābah(such as shower on Jum'ah), you must make wudū' afterwards or in the shower & this is what I was referring to. Inshā'Allāh it's clear...

"I seek forgiveness from Allāh & repent to Him"

Try your best to say this at least 100 times a day - Always remember Allāh(جلا وعلا) from every saying/act you do - Always ask for forgiveness from Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) whether you remember committing a sin or not, because if the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) was ordered in Sūrat al-Fath to seek Allāh's forgiveness, then what about us.

Is the marriage contract valid if a woman was menstrating? [Shaykh also mentions his view on divorcing a woman on her menses]

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: By default, that is considered permissible, and the prohibition isn't present from the Qur'ān, Sunnāh, Ijmā', saying of a Sahābī or valid Qiyās(analogy). And I do not know anyone from the scholars who prohibited or disliked that. Besides that some of the Fuqahā' disliked a woman to arouse her husband during menses, so that he doesn't fall into sin from doing anything further. [Note: You can do everything together, except Jimā]

And some of the layman can mix up the ruling of this issue with the ruling of divorce during menses, however there isn't any correspondence between the two.

So the marriage contract while she's menstruating is permissible by the agreement of the scholars, and divorcing her during her menses is harām by the agreement of the scholars.

And there are 2 sayings whether the divorce takes place or not(during her menses):

1. That it occurs with it being harām and this is the saying of the 4 Imāms and the majority of the scholars.
2. That it doesn't occur, which is the madhab of the Dhāhiriyyāh which was supported/chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) and ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله).

And every side from the 2 groups have mentioned their evidences with textual proof and reasoning, and after researching the evidences of both sides, and searching for the core evidences, and pondering over the Madhāhib(opinions) of the contemporary & classical scholars, and reading lengthy & summarised books regarding that, I saw strength(stronger proofs) in the second Madhab(opinion), and that it has better proofs which correlates with the fundamentals of the sharee'ah.

And I have concluded that the Hadīths which are narrated to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) don't have anything from it which is clear regarding the issue, even though what's apparent from it(the hadīths) in my view shows that it doesn't count as a divorce.

And the Mawqūf reports to ibn 'Omar(رضي الله عنهما) are contradictory and most of it isn't authentic, with the chances that it's referring to the latter view[the hadīths show that divorce doesn't occur], and Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best.

I don't like it when people say "This land belongs to Aborigines, no one else" or other similar statements.

Muslims only see the land belonging to Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) regardless of whoever lives in the land or "claims to own it" - Allāh(جلا وعلا) is the one who owns the Heavens and the Earth & this Earth only deserves to be ruled by the laws which Allāh(جلا وعلا) sent down. The Sharee'ah of Muhammād(صلى الله عليه وسلم) has abrogated the previous laws, and therefore Muslims are ordered to rule the land by the final revelation sent by Allāh(جلا وعلا).

Don't we say in our du'ā:

"اللهم ان الارض ارضك والسماء سمانك والبحر بحرك"

"Allāhuma īna al-Ard Arduk wa-Samā'a Samā'uk wal Bahra Bahruk"

"O Allāh, verily the land is your land , and the sky is your sky, and the ocean is your ocean"

What is the ruling on the divorce of a drunk person?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān(حفظه الله) responded by saying: The known divorce is what is upon "Watar", meaning with an intention from the one giving divorce for it to occur, and the one who doesn't know what he's saying, or doesn't have any intent in divorce, his divorce isn't valid and his statement doesn't mean anything, in the Sahīhayn(Bukhārī & Muslim) from the hadith of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Indeed, actions are but by intentions, and for every man is what he intends"

'Uthmān ibn 'Affān(رضي الله عنه) said "There is no divorce from a madman or drunk man" narrated by al-Bukhārī(رحمه الله) in his Sahīh Mu'allāqan(as a hanging narration - Without the complete Isnād mentioned), and ibn Abī Shaybah has the competed chain, and its Isnād is authentic.

Ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) said "Divorce from a drunk & coerced man isn't permissible" Bukhārī hanged it بصيغة الجزم (meaning that he's absolutely assuring that ibn 'Abbās said it) and ibn Abī Shaybah & others have gathered the complete Chain.

And ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما) also said "Divorce is upon Watar" Al-Bukhārī narrated it(Mu'allāqan), with absolute authenticity.

And "al-Watar" with two Fatha's(ّ) [on the و & ط] is an intent/purpose towards something, and the drunk person doesn't have a "Watar" and this is the Madhab of al-Layth ibn Sa'd(رحمه الله), Ishāq(رحمه الله), Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) in the last of his Riyāwah's from him, and it was supported by أهل الظاهر (The Dhāhiriyyāh), ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله) and others.

And it is what the Qur'ān and Sunnāh & the Fatāwah of the Sahābah have indicated/pointed out towards, since being drunk takes away your mind, and therefore he's not aware of what he says, and ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) has mentioned in al-Muhallāh in Ahkām al-Talāq "that 'Omar ibn 'Abdul 'Azīz(رحمه الله) met with a drunk person who divorced his wife who swore by the one who there is no god except Him(Allāh), that I have divorced her, while he didn't have his mind, but he swore by Allāh(جلا وعلا) - So 'Omar ibn 'Abdul 'Azīz(رحمه الله) returned him back to his wife and flogged him with the punishment(of khamr)..."

And Allāh(جلا وعلا) has made his(the man's) statement inconsiderable as He(سبحانه وتعالى) said "O you who believe, do not go near the Salāh while you are drunk until you know what you will say"

And the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) did not hold Hamzah(رضي الله عنه) responsible for his saying when he was drunk "And are you not except slaves to my father..." Narrated by al-Bukhārī [#4003] & Muslim [#1979] from the chain of 'Alī ibn al-Hussein that Hussein ibn 'Alī informed him from

(رضي الله عنه) 'Alī

And from the principles of the Sharee'ah, is to raise the accountability from forgetfulness, mistakes from the tongue, ikrāh(coercion), and the speech that occurs from the tongue without intending it.

Allāh(جلا وعلا) said "Allah does not impose blame upon you for what is unintentional in your oaths, but He imposes blame upon you for what your hearts have earned." and in Saḥīḥ Muslim [#2747] from the hadith of Anas(رضي الله عنه) regarding the story of a man who lost his mount in a deserted land, and it had his food and drinks, so he was in despair from that, so when he saw it standing next to him, he said "O Allāh you are my slave and I am your Lord" he made a mistake from his immense joy. It's also narrated by al-Bukhārī [#6309] and Muslim [#2747] from another chain without its ending.

And in this issue is a second saying, which necessitates the occurrence of divorce from a drunk man and that is what's narrated from Mu'āwiyāh(رحمه الله), Sa'eed ibn al-Musayyib(رحمه الله), al-Zuhri(رحمه الله), al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) in one of his 2 opinions, Mālik(رحمه الله) and others. And they have proofs for that...

The strongest[of their proof] being is that he is held responsible for crimes, so likewise with divorce, but this isn't correct because the statements/sayings differ from the actions. So if it's said, the divorce of a drunk person isn't valid, it doesn't mean we drop the Qisās(retaliation punishment) from him, because pardoning from giving Qisās & Hudūd(punishments) is a means to spread corruption, and a call for abandoning the hudūd(punishments) and the Ahkām(rulings), unlike the divorce, he doesn't hold responsibility for anything from that(since he isn't aware of speech, unlike actions).

And from this, the Major Sahābah differentiated between the 2 matters, so they enforced the Hudūd(punishments) & Qisās(retaliation) without [taking into account] the Divorce والله اعلم

After Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) spoke about the woman showing her adornments to her husband & mahrams & how she must veil herself in Salāh even if she is alone at home as that is the right of Allāh, so ibn Taymiyyāh further said:

"And as opposed to that: The face, the hands and the feet, she is not permitted to reveal that to the strangers(i.e. Non-Mahrams) according to the most correct of the 2 opinions, unlike how it was before it was abrogated(before the Āyah of Hijāb came down), rather she doesn't reveal anything except her clothes. And as for covering that in the Salāh, it's not obliged according to the agreement of the muslims, rather it's lawful for her to show both of them(face & hands) in the Salāh according to the majority of the scholars, like Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) & other than them, and it is one of the 2 narrations from Ahmad(رحمه الله). Likewise it's permissible to show the feet according to Abū Hanīfah(رحمه الله), and it's the stronger view, as Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) considered it to be from the apparent adornments, she said "And to not reveal their adornments except what appears from her" [Al-Nūr:31], she said: "al-Fatkh" a silver ring that is in the toes of the feet, Narrated by ibn Abī Hātim. So this is an evidence that the women used to show their feet first of all, as they would show their face and hands, they would loosen the end of their feet(to relax), so if she walked, her feet would show, and they wouldn't walk in leather shoes or closed shoes, and covering this in Salāh has severe difficulty. And Umm Salamāh(رضي الله عنها) said: "A woman prays in a completely covered thobe, it covers the top of her feet, and when she prostrates, the bottom of her feet might show"

And in general, it has been proven through the text(Qur'ān & Sunnāh) and Ijmā' that it's not required for her to wear a Jilbāb in Salāh that covers her if she was at home, but rather that's if she left the house. Therefore, she would pray in her home, even if her face, hands & feet would show, as they used to walk in the beginning before the command of drawing the Jilbāb upon themselves, so the 'Awrah in Salāh is not aligned with the 'Awrah of looking, without issuance nor contradictions/opposements.

And ibn Mas'ūd(رضي الله عنه) when he said: The apparent adornments is the clothes, he didn't say "All of her is 'Awrah, even her fingernail", rather this is the saying of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), meaning that it's conditioned in the Salāh, so the Jurists call that: "The chapter of covering the 'Awrah" and this isn't from the sayings of the Messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and there's nothing in the Qur'ān & Sunnāh that whatever a Musallī(a person praying) is covering is considered a 'Awrah, rather Allāh(جلا وعلا) said "Take your adornments at every mosque" [Al-I'rāf:31]."

Note: Covering in Salāh doesn't mean it's 'Awrah & ibn Taymiyyāh is of the view that the fingernail of a woman is 'Awrah however what ibn Taymiyyāh is saying is that we don't say covering something in Salâh means it's 'Awrah - For e.g. The prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) prohibited a man from showing his shoulders in Salâh, it doesn't mean it's 'Awrah. Also a woman must cover her hair in Salâh, but it doesn't mean she has to cover her hair for her Mahrams & Husband. So there is something called the right of Allâh(علا وعلا), so it's not permissible for anyone to make Tawâf around the Ka'bah naked at night, even if you were alone, the same with Salâh & the evidences of this are many والله اعلم

:was asked regarding the ruling on urinating while standing (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān

The Shaykh replied by saying: The most correct opinion in this matter is the permissibility of .urinating while standing without it being disliked went to the dumps of some people, (صلى الله عليه وسلم)said "The Prophet (رضي الله عنه)Huthayfa so he urinated standing, then he asked for water, so I brought water to him & he made wudū" hadīth #224, from the chain of Shu'bah from al-A'mash from Abī (رحمه الله)narrated by al-Bukhārī narrated it [Hadīth #273] from the (رحمه الله)and Imām Muslim (رضي الله عنه)Wā'il from Huthayfa wrote a sub-heading for it "The (رحمه الله)chain of Abī Khaythama from al-A'mash, and al-Bukhārī "chapter of urinating while standing & sitting

And this is the practise of the early arabs, they would urinate standing & al-Islām has accepted urinated while standing to show that it's permissible, and (صلى الله عليه وسلم)that, as the Prophet and 'Urwa ibn al- (رحمه الله)this is what a group from his Sahābah adopted, and ibn Sīreen .from the Tābi'een (رحمه الله)Zubayr

(رضي الله عنه)Some of the scholars have abstained from acting upon the hadith of Huthayfa .because it's abrogated, and this is wrong

And a group of scholars have said, rather he urinated standing because of an injury in the back of .his thigh(enclosed space between the knee) & there's a hadith regarding this, but it's not authentic

And another group of scholars have said, rather he urinated standing because he couldn't find a .place to sit

(صلى الله عليه وسلم)has said "Whoever informs you that the Prophet (رضي الله عنها)And Ā'isha would urinate standing, do not believe him, he would not urinate except sitting" This was narrated Hadith #12] from the chain of Sharīk from al-Miqdām ibn Shurayh from] ... (رحمه الله)by al-Tirmidhī and it contains Sharīk who is weak in memory, Sufyān has (رضي الله عنها)his father from Ā'isha (رحمه الله)also narrated this hadīth(same meaning & wording) which has been narrated by Ahmad [and others.[So this hadith gets raised as Hassan because of this follow up

(رضي الله عنه)And there's no proof in the report to say it's disliked to urinate standing, indeed Ā'isha is reporting from her knowledge(that the prophet would only urinate sitting), while others have .memorised what is hidden from her saw me while I was (صلى الله عليه وسلم)said "The Prophet (رضي الله عنه)And 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb urinating standing, so he said 'Ya Omar, do not urinate standing', so I did not urinate standing after this" and this is agreed upon its weakness, and there's no hadīth Marfū'(from the Prophet) to be .used as proof to prohibit urinating while standing has done so, and a (صلى الله عليه وسلم)What's correct, is that it's permissible, as the Prophet group from among the Sahābah have done so, however urinating while sitting is better because it's knows (جلا وعلا)in his urinating and Allāh (صلى الله عليه وسلم)what is mostly done from the Prophet .best

I want to share a nice story with regards to the word "Al-Qist" which means Justice[al-'adal] & how al-Hajjāj ibn Yūsuf al-Thaqafī, the famous tyrant reacted when he was called a "Qāsīt":

So Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) has mentioned in the Qur'ān "وأَقْسِطُوا" [Wa Aqsitū] meaning "Be Just" and Allāh(جلا وعلا) further mentioned "إِنَّ اللَّهَ يَحِبُّ الْمُقْسِطِينَ" [Truly, Allāh loves the Muqsiteen] and al-Muqsiteen means "those who are just".

But there's another word which is "الفاسط" [al-Qāsīt] which means a "Tyrant/oppressor", but many people confuse this word as meaning "Just/Fair", and this is the authentic story I wanted to share below:

So al-Hajjāj told some of the Imāms: "What do you say about me? One of them responded by saying "You're a Qāsīt(tyrant) leader", so al-Hajjāj said to the people next to him: "What does he mean", so they said: "He praised you O leader", al-Hajjāj said 'He didn't praise me, he degraded me, haven't you heard of Allāh's statement "And as for the Qāsītūn, they would become the firewood of the hellfire" unlike the Muqsīt, he is the 'Ādil(the just one)..." SubhānAllāh!

So al-Hajjāj was aware of that, and he knew that this person didn't praise him, however many others wouldn't pay attention to this, so it's very important to understand the difference between فاسط and مقسط and Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best.

Note: Sell Islām means to abandon it, for those who might've gotten confused - Dunyā over Deen is how it goes for some people. Look at how many people deal with ribā, it's a shame that there is so much deviance and distortion in the Ummāh.

Side Note: Because of the lack of True 'Ulemā' in our times, we have those who allow muslims to get ribā loans from the Shaytānic banks. We have laymen who see this, but unfortunately they don't have the required knowledge to help the rest of the Ummāh who are being led astray by the Shayātīn.

What is intended by Najd in the Hadīths, is it Najd al-Yamāmah or Najd al-Irāq by Shaykh Sulaymān al-Ulwān(حفظه الله), written & translated by Brother Radwān Dakkāk.

The questioner says that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "O Allāh, bless us in our Shām and in our Yemen", the famous hadīth and when they said "In our Najd", the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "Over there(Najd) is Earthquakes and Fitan", the questioner says, many people avert the wording from its apparent meaning, they say Najd al-Irāq, then leave off Najd al-Yamāmah from the Hadīth, he(the questioner) asks, what is the correct understanding for that, because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) meant this Najd(as if the questioner is saying it's Najd al-Yamāmah).

The Shaykh replied by saying, the understood wording that was reported is a narration from Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) that Najd al-Irāq is intended, and this is a narration in [the Musnad] of Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), however it's شاذة [not authentic], and nevertheless there's a well known difference between the Scholars, the Scholars did not agree upon an opinion, and there are 3 sayings for the 'Ulemā'(الله رحمهم الله):

1. That Najd al-'Irāq is what's intended and they took this from the narration that was present in [the Musnad of] Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), and they also used as evidence, that when the Fitna in 'Irāq occurred, Sālim & others used to apply the ḥadīth[regarding Najd] upon the people of 'Irāq, so this is the first saying.

2. That Najd al-Yamāmah is what's intended, because a narration came in the Sahihayn [Bukhārī & Muslim] that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "From Rabi'ah and Mudhar" and the tribes of Rabi'ah and Mudhar has a larger presence in Najd al-Yamāmah compared to Najd al-'Irāq, so the Prophet's(عليه الصلاة والسلام) saying "From Rabi'ah and Mudhar", this is an explicit evidence in knowing what is Najd, and they also used as evidence that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "O Allāh bless us in our Shām" and he mentioned [afterwards] "And our Najd...", and Najd al-'Irāq wasn't opened in that time, al-'Irāq wasn't conquered at all, except in the era of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), it wasn't conquered in the era of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), nor Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه), it was only conquered during the era of 'Omar(رضي الله عنه), so when a man said(a man who came from Najd), he said "And in our Najd" and this Najd is Muslimāh under the authority/obedience of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), so he was ordered/asked to make du'ā for it, so he said "The earthquakes and tribulations will be here", so a group [of scholars] say that the questioner asked about Najd al-Yamāmah, he didn't ask about Najd al-'Irāq because Najd al-'Irāq wasn't opened [for the muslims] to begin with.

3. That the ḥadīth includes both, it includes Najd al-Yamāmah & Najd al-'Irāq, because everyone who is found to be from the city of Najd, is called Najdan[a person from Najd, regardless if he's in 'Irāq or Yamāmah].

However, I want to bring attention [towards something important] regardless of these differences and which is the most correct[opinion], I want to mention that there's a group among the people from أهل الضلال [The people of Misguidance], and from المنحرفين [Those who have deviated from the right Manhaj], they usually use this ḥadīth upon Najd al-Yamāmah, not for Fiqh reasons, because there's nothing wrong with that, the issue is an intellectual Fiqh matter and the person chooses what he views stronger/closer to the truth, and there's nothing wrong with this & there's no blame upon the Mujtahid regarding these issues, even the Early Scholars researched matters and differed, however there's a group [of deviants] who claim it's [referring to] Najd al-Yamāmah for their hatred towards them in their religiousness & righteousness, so that's why you see the refutations against Shaykh Muḥammad ibn 'Abdul Wahāb(رحمه الله) and refutations against them for their Da'wah al-Najdiyyāh, they attack them because they are from the people of Najd and this is a place of Fitān, because it has Tawḥeed and 'Aqeedah. So they use these ḥadīths as proof in this way, so we must be cautious from this absolute ignorance, meaning whenever you make Ijtihād upon another issue, to be aware that there's no connection between the country[and the Fiqh matter], even if we said that this land Najd, it's a land of Earthquakes and Fitān or other than that, does this mean that they [the people] are upon Falsehood?

I'll give you all an applicable, intellectual example which is agreed upon, the scholars do not differ that 'Irāq is a land of Fitān, and this is agreed upon, when 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) was fighting the people of Shām, where was he? Where was he, in Makkāh or in Madīnah? The first one who moved the Khilāfah to 'Irāq was who? 'Alī(رضي الله عنه), and he was upon the truth by Ijmā' [Consensus]! With the virtue of Shām, does this mean that we use the Land as evidence to say that a certain people are upon the truth? This has no basis! Do we use as proof that the people of Shām were upon the truth because of the reported ḥadīths regarding al-Shām? And to say that they('Alī & his followers) were upon falsehood, while 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) was upon the truth by Ijmā' which was mentioned by more than one Scholar, and the Ḥadīths are explicit regarding this to begin with, we claim that he was in 'Irāq to mean he was upon Falsehood? This isn't correct, therefore we only use as evidence upon knowing the truth from falsehood by the proofs, so the existence of a man who resides in Najd, even if it was intended in the Ḥadīths, this doesn't mean that this is the man of Fitān or misguidance, and Shaykh Muḥammad ibn 'Abdul Wahāb(رحمه الله) has proven against his opponents that they were grave worshippers, they were from the Distorters and people of innovation & misguidance, so there's absolutely no significance regarding the situation of a person residing in a Land.

The Earth as Salmān al-Fārisī(رضي الله عنه) said when some of the Sahābah wrote to him, we shall enter the blessed land[al-Shām], he wrote to them & the chain is authentic, he said "Verily, the blessed Land[Shām] doesn't bless anyone, it only blesses a person's actions", a person could reside in Makkāh or Madīnah and be from the worst of creation, right now who resides in Makkāh? Isn't there Sūfiyyāh, isn't there grave worshippers? Who's Residing in Madīnah, isn't there Rawāfidh, and people of misguidance & Munharifīn? Also in the era of ibn taymiyyāh(رحمه الله), when he spoke he said "Islām is not known today except from the people of Shām and Masr" and he is speaking about his time, then he spoke about Hijāz & other Lands, then a time came where the Religion & righteousness and goodness was not known except in this Jazīrah[Hijāz] and the situation can change, So a person shouldn't look at the situation of a country that it's upon the truth or misguidance, this is upon the saying that the meaning here is identified(as being Najd) so what I'm trying to point out towards is that some people usually assume that when someone is from Najd, a land of fitan, he would attack him, [the deviants say], originally this is a land of Fitān, they have strictness and extremism, so if he[the deviant] adhere's upon this saying, he should also adhere to when 'Alī(رضي الله عنه) fought the people of Shām, he was in 'Irāq and he was upon the truth, and the others were in Shām with the Mutawātir narrations from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) regarding Shām, "O Allāh, bless us in our Shām", "If the people of Shām become corrupt, there is no good in you", and other than that from the proofs, while Abū Muḥammad ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) has mentioned something in the end of al-Muḥallāh in al-'Iṭikāf.

It's a good benefit, Abū Muḥammad ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) has mentioned in al-'Iṭikāf, when he spoke about the Prophet's(عليه الصلاة والسلام) saying "Madīnah is better for them, only if they knew" and similar to these Ḥadīths, he said it's not possible that this ḥadīth is understood generally[for all times], rather the ḥadīth is time-bound he says, the ḥadīth is time-bound, it can be from time to time, as for it being upon the general meaning, ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) rejected it to be like that, also the Prophet's(عليه الصلاة والسلام) saying "Its filth is removed , just as the blacksmith(الكبير) removes the filth/impurities of the Iron", We know the Sahābah avoided the Pre-Seminal fluid, was the filth/impurity removed when they avoided it? No, and right now with the presence of the Rawāfidh & Mushriken in this Land, does that mean that they are upon the truth because they're not removed, meaning they aren't filth? This isn't said by any muslim! Therefore, as Abū Muḥammād ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) said Removing the filth/impurities occurs from time to time, from era to era, this was also mentioned by others besides Abū Muḥammād(رحمه الله) as well, but Abū Muḥammād ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) is the one who spoke about it clearly in his book al-Muhallāh in the end of the book of Fasting.

I have transcribed word to word, Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān's lecture regarding what is intended by Najd in the Hadīths, so inshā'Allāh I will post it here for those who can read/understand arabic - I will start translating it in English for the rest of you, I usually understand 95-99% of all Arabic texts/audios Alḥamdulilāh, so here's the Arabic first:

ما المقصود بنجد في الأحاديث، هل هي نجد اليمامة ام نجد العراق؟ للشيخ العلامة سليمان بن ناصر العلوان كُتِبَهِ الأخ رضوان الدقاق

الاخ(السائل) يقول ان النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم يقول "اللهم بارك لنا في شامنا ويمنا" الحديث المشهور لما قالوا في نجدنا قال "هناك الزلازل والفتن" يقول(الاخ) كثير من الناس يصرف اللفظ عن ظاهره، يقول المقصود نجد العراق ثم يخرج نجد اليمامة هذه من الحديث يقول ما هو مسوغ لذلك مع ان النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم (كان الاخ يقول) قصد نجد هذه(اليمامة)، اللفظ المسوغ التي وردت رواية عند الامام احمد ان المقصود نجد العراق وهذه رواية عند الامام احمد لكنها شاذة ومع ذلك الخلاف مشهور بين العلماء لم يتفق العلماء على قول وللعلماء هناك ثلاثة اقوال:

القول الاول: أن المقصود نجد العراق واخذ بالرواية الموجودة عند الامام احمد واستدلوا عليه ايضا بان سالم وغيره لما وقع الفتنة في العراق كانوا يستدلون بالحديث على اهل العراق، هذا القول الاول.

القول الثاني: المقصود نجد اليمامة، لان جاء في رواية في الصحيحين قال "حيث ربيعة ومضر" وقبائل ربيعة ومضر هي موجودة في نجد اليمامة اكثر من وجودها في العراق فقوله صلى الله عليه وسلم "حيث ربيعة ومضر" اشارة الى مقصود نجد اليمامة لان النبي قال "حيث ربيعة ومضر" فهو نص صريح في بيان المقصود ما هي بنجد، وايضا استدلوا بان النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم قال "اللهم بارك لنا في شامنا" وقال... "ونجدنا"، لم تكن نجد العراق مفتوحة في ذاك(الوقت)، العراق ما فُتِحَتْ أصلاً الا في عصر عمر، لا فتحت في عصر النبي ولا فتحت في عصر ابو بكر، إنما فتحت في عصر عمر فلما قال الرجل(انى رجل من نجد)، قال وفي نجدنا وكانت هذه نجد مسلمة تحت طاعة النبي فأمر ان يدعوا لها قال "هنا يكون الزلازل والفتن" ففرع يقولون أن السائل سأل عن نجد اليمامة ما سأل عن نجد العراق لان نجد العراق ما فتحت اصلاً.

القول الثالث في المسألة: أن الحديث يشمل النوعين، يَشْمَلُ نجد اليمامة ويشمل نجد العراق، لان كل من أَجَدَّ عن المدينة سَمَّى نجداً.

فإذا إلتزم هذا القول عليه أن يلتزم حين قائل عليّ أهل الشام كان في العراق وكان على الحق وكان هؤلاء في الشام مع ما تواترة عن النبي من الأحاديث الشام "اللهم بارك لنا في شامنا". "إذا فسد أهل الشام فلا خير فيكم" وغير ذلك من الأدلة مع أن أبو محمد بن حزم في آخر كتاب المحلى في الإعتكاف

وهي فائدة ذكر أبو محمد بن حزم في الإعتكاف، لَمَّا تكلم على قوله صلى الله عليه وسلم "المدينة خيرُ لهم لو كانوا يعلمون" ومشابه هذا الأحاديث، قال هذا الحديث لا يمكن أن نحمله على المطلق، إنما الحديث وقتية يقول، إنما الحديث وقتية قد تكون في وقت أو وقت، أما على وجه الدوام فأنكر بن حزم ان تكون كذلك، كذلك قوله صلى الله عليه وسلم "تنفي خيئها كما ينفي الكير خيث الحديد" نحن نعلم أن الصحابة فارق المذي، هل نفى خيئها لما فارقوه؟ لا، وهل الآن لما يوجد الروافض والمشركين في هذا البلد هل يعني ذاك أن هؤلاء على حق لان ما نفتنهم، يعني هم ليسوا من الخيئ؟ هذا لا يقوله مسلم! اذن كما قال ابو محمد تنفي خيئها يكون في وقت ووقت، في عصر دون عصر وهذا قال غير واحد ايضا غير أبو محمد لكن أبو محمد هو الذي يتحدث بوضوح في كتاب المحلى في آخر كتاب الصيام

What's the meaning of the hadīth "There's no Migration after the conquest"

Bin bāz said "And the meaning of this hadīth according to the scholars is that there's no migration after Allāh opened Makkāh to His Prophet, and it doesn't mean migration is cut off completely! No, rather the meaning of "no migration after the conquest" means from Makkāh to Madīna, because Allāh made it a land of Islām after its conquest, so there's no need for the muslims to migrate from it, rather they can stay in Makkāh...."

Note: Some claim Makkāh will remain under Dār Islām forever, however this is a completely wrong understanding of the hadīth & none of the early scholars have said this. I've heard it only from some contemporary shaykhs. Al-'Alwān said, migration keeps going until the day of Judgement & the hadīths are clear regarding this.

Make du'â for me - I have been doing structured Islamic studies(courses etc...) for a very long time. There is so much material & I am learning so much everyday. I sacrifice my nights to memorise, read and understand. With minor exceptions(sleep, FB), there isn't a time I am not studying or talking about Islām, this is my life.

This post is not for Riyā' ma'ādhAllāh, but it's to mention how important knowledge is to me. InshāʾAllāh, I continue on the path of the sincere Scholars & keep doing what I do best. May Allāh(جلا وعلا) accept from us, the Ummāh really needs 'Ulemā' who are upon the correct 'Aqeedah & speak the truth. Ask Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) to increase our Ummāh with sincere scholars & seekers of knowledge, who study the deen for the sake of Allāh(جلا وعلا) and not to argue or belittle others.

said he became famous in the science of Hadīth, however (حفظه الله)Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān he said that he has studied every islamic science. He has memorised the main books of the 4 Madhāhibs & studied them in detail & knows their differences and knows which is the strongest/most correct opinion in each issue. He put alot of effort in the science of Nahū, Arabic .Grammar & Tafsīr & many other things

Many call him Shaykh al-Islām of our time, because of his immense knowledge and profound understanding of the religion. He has mistakes, without a doubt, however when you compare him to other Shaykhs, his mistakes are minimal & very few. You would rarely find any contradictions or الحمد strange opinions in his Fatāwah, because he has always remained upon the same 'Aqeedah لله Allāh (جلا وعلا)May Allāh give him Jannāt al-Firdaws, there is too much to say about this amazing

Chapter 244: The person who dislikes visitors looking at other things in the house.

Hadīth #531 - 'Abdullāh ibn Abī al-Huthayl said "Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd went to visit a sick person with some other people. There was a woman in the room and one of the men began to look at her. 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd said to him 'It would have been better for you if your eyes had been gouged out!...' ~ Authentic Chain.

Commentary: Dislike mentioned in the chapter heading is of prohibition based on the statement of Ibn Mas'ūd (رضي الله عنه), the like of which is authentically reported from the Prophet (صلى الله عليه وسلم) about a person unlawfully looking around the house. Since the eyes were contradicting the essence of their creation: Obedience and not disobedience to Allāh (جلا وعلا), it would have been better if they were gouged out than being employed for sin!

My beautiful جَمص is completely destroyed, but الحمد لله a muslim never complains about anything 🙏 It's good to have emotions, but you must have a solid foundation of 'Aqeedah, because emotions come and go, whereas true 'Aqeedah stays forever 🌟

What's required from a muslim is to have the emotions strengthen your Ēmān to push you forward, and not to solely rely on emotions alone, because you would go nowhere by that. May Allāh(جلا و علا) open our eyes to what's happening & give victory to the muslims!

Being kind and treating your parents nicely is an obligation upon every muslim - Please do not say "My parents are Jāhil & annoying" and even if they were, it doesn't give you any right to be rude to them or yell at them. Be the better person inshā'Allāh :)

Prophet Ibrāhīm's(عليه السلام) father was a kāfir subhānAllāh, regardless of his "Jahl" of worshipping idols, listen to what our beloved Prophet Ibrāhīm(عليه السلام) told him in this amazing verse:

"[Mention] when he said to his father, "O my father, why do you worship that which does not hear and does not see and will not benefit you at all?" [Sūrat Maryam - verse 42]

SubhānAllāh, Ibrāhīm(عليه السلام) would address his mushrik father by saying "O my father". I love pondering over manners in any verse, hadīth or even Fatwa. It's something which must be stressed on, and I believe many knowledgeable brothers don't stress enough on Islamic Adab.

Note, I would like to bring something up regarding the verse I quoted from Sūrat Maryam & that is the Creed of Ahl al Sunnāh Wal Jamā'ah.

Ibrāhīm(عليه الصلاة والسلام) said to his father "O my father, why do you worship that which does not see and does not hear?", this is clear proof that Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) is the all-Hearing and the all-Seeing, and he has the attributes of hearing & seeing, unlike what the Mu'tazilah & Jahmiyyāh claim. The Mu'tazilah say Allāh is the all-Seeing, but cannot see. The Jahmiyyāh reject calling Allāh(جلا و علا) the "all-Seeing" and say he cannot see, infact a group of Imāms from the Jahmiyyāh said "If we were able to remove these verses from the book of Allāh, we would have" SubhānAllāh! This is because they think if they affirm the names & attributes of Allāh(جلا و علا), they will fall into Tajsīm & Tashbīh.

Allāh(جلا و علا) can see and hear, and the creation can hear & see, however there is no likening between our hearing & Allāh's hearing, because we are the creation & He is the creator!

So this verse proves that we affirm the names & attributes of Allāh(جلا و علا) without distorting its meanings, likening it to the creation or rejecting it. This is what all the Prophets(عليهم السلام) have agreed upon.

Anyways, 'Aqeedah is so important & I can speak all day about it, but what's just as important is your character as we know from the ahādīth of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and Islamic Adab is one of the most beloved things to the Rasūl(عليه الصلاة والسلام).

May Allāh(جلا في علا) increase our Ēmān & keep us steadfast upon the 'Aqeedah of the Prophets(عليهم السلام) and allow us to speak with the most beautiful of tones & character.

Final thing inshā'Allāh: If someone is an apostate, he is given 3 days to repent in the Sharee'ah, however in a society like ours, we are not able to implement this. So for those who deal with apostates, make du'ā that Allāh(جلا وعلا) returns them back to Islām & know that it's an obligation to return them back to Islām(get a Shaykh), but if they don't return & want to disbelieve in arrogance, then you can't do anything about it, so just uphold your deen & declare you innocence from kufr والله اعلم

#Very_Important

If you are in a Sunnāh prayer and your mother or father calls you, it's obligatory upon you to leave the Salāh and answer their call.

The reason being is because answering the call of your parents is Wājib & it takes precedence over a Sunnāh. However, if you are praying a Wājib Salāh, it's obligatory upon you to remain in the Salāh & say SubhānAllāh, so they know that you're in Salāh.

Keep the wonderful people of Yemen in your du'ā - The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) loved Yemen so much and used to make du'ā for them, wallāhi I do not a people who can compete with them in manners & dealing with people, I have learnt so much from them Alhamdulillah.

My friends Grandfather's house was hit by some rockets from the Houthī Shī'a militias, but Alhamdulillah no one was hurt. These shī'a criminals have been killing & raping Sunni's for years, but no one is paying attention. May Allāh(جلا وعلا) guide the muslims of Yemen back to their deen.

Note: The Houthī's were originally Zaydī in 'Aqeedah, but because of Irān's support, funding & influence, they are now Ithna 'Asharī in 'Aqeedah. They believe in Tahreef al-Qur'ān, meaning the Qur'ān has been distorted & infact they have blown up Qur'ān schools & are openly spreading their Kufr 'Aqeedah, but Alhamdulillah, the Yemenī's are strong & will repel these disbelievers & inshā'Allāh not get bitten in the same hole again.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) punish the Fitna makers in the Ummāh, especially those who call for unity between Ahlal Sunnāh & the Rāfidah. This is like calling for unity between Tawheed & Shirk, may Allāh(جلا وعلا) protect the muslims from this filthy message.

How many Rak'ahs should we pray our Sunnâh prayer after Jum'ah?

There's an authentic hadīth from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) that he would pray 2 Rak'ahs at home after he finishes from Jum'ah.

And there's another authentic hadīth that the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said "If any of you have prayed Jum'ah, then pray 4 Rak'ahs afterwards."

And there's no contradiction between the two hadīths, rather the First hadīth is applied to praying at home & the Second hadīth is applied to praying in the Mosque.

And this is what Imām Ishāq ibn Rāhawayh(رحمه الله) said which al-Tirmidhi(رحمه الله) mentioned from him. So if the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) went home after Jum'ah, he would shorten his Sunnâh to 2 Rak'ahs & if he stayed in the Masjid, he would pray 4 Rak'ahs والله اعلم

Note: Some add 2+4 and pray 6 Rak'ahs, but the strongest view is what I have previously mentioned and Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best.

This is a story of an Arab girl who was loved by everyone.....but who married her?
[#ENGLISH_TRANSLATION]

A boy said to his father, I want to get married to a girl I saw, her beauty and charming eyes attracted me, so he(the father) replied to him while he was happy & excited, and said "Where is this girl, so I can marry her to you, O son"

...

So when they went, and the father saw this girl, he was attracted to her and said to his son "Listen O son, this girl is not for you, and you are not fit for her, she needs a man like me who has experience in life and can be relied on."

The son was shocked from the words of his father & said to him "No, rather I will marry her O father, and not you"

So they disputed and went to the police station to solve their problem, and when they told the Officer what happened, he said to them "Bring the girl so we can ask her who she wants, the boy or the father"

And when the Officer saw her, he was flattered from her goodness & glamour, so he said to them(the father & the boy) "She is not fit for both of you, rather she is fit for a person who's eminent of status in the country like me.

And all three of them disputed, so they went to the minister to resolve the issue between them, and when the minister saw her, he said "No one marries her, except the ministers like me" and they also disputed over her until the matter reached the king, the ruler of the country.

And when they got together, he(the king) said "I will resolve the problem between you all, bring the girl" so when the king saw her, he said "No one marries her except a king like me, and I will be marrying her" so they all differed and argued.

So the girl said "I have the solution" !!!! I will run, and you run behind me, and whoever grabs me first, I will be his Naseeb and he can marry me.

And she literally ran, so they all ran after her - The boy, the father, the officer, the minister and the King.

And suddenly, while they were running after her, the five of them fell in a deep ditch, then she looked at them from top and said: "Do you know who I am"...?? "I am the dunyā(the world)"!!!!

I am the one that gets chased behind from all the people and they compete with each other to have me. They let go of their deen to chase me, until they fall in the grave, and they won't be successful from me. So is there anyone who has benefitted from this lesson???

#END.....

SubhānAllāh, may Allāh(جلا وعلا) save us from the Dunyā and its evil temptations & return us back to the straight path!

The biggest Shaykh of Ahmad Jibrīl(حفظه الله), Hamūd ibn 'Uqlā'(رحمه الله), the Imām of Tawheed has mentioned something about his student Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) which made me fall into tears.

Shaykh Hamūd al-'Uqlā'(رحمه الله) said: "I have met with many of the memorisers, but I did not see a person who gathered between memorization and understanding except for Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān, for indeed I do not know anyone in the kingdom who can compete with him in that."

But this is what made me cry subhānAllāh, when a great Imām says this:

Shaykh Hamūd(رحمه الله) further mentioned "Every Shaykh in Qaseem, I am their Shaykh, except for al-'Alwān, for he is my Shaykh"

Allāhu Akbar, and al-Qaseem is a province in Saudi where Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) is from ♥ This is how much love the 'Ulemā' have for each other, may Allāh(جلا وعلا) grant them al-Firdaws al-'Alah 🤲

What is the meaning of Taqwa?

In so many places in the Qur'ān, you will find Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) saying "إن الله يحب المتقين" [Indeed, Allāh loves the Muttāqīn] and it's often translated as "the pious ones" which is correct in meaning, but what does it mean exactly?

Basically, التَّقْوَى means to act upon what's prescribed by Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) and to abstain from what's prohibited by Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى).

Talq ibn Habīb(رحمه الله) said: "Taqwa is to act in obedience to Allāh, upon a light(نور) from Allāh, hoping for the reward of Allāh, and to leave off [acts which involve] disobedience to Allāh, upon a light(نور) from Allāh, fearing the punishment of Allāh"

Al-Imām ibn al-Qayyīm(رحمه الله) commented on this by saying "Upon a light from Allāh" points to the first foundation, and it is الإِيمَانُ (Al-Ēmān) which is the source of action and the primary cause for doing them.

And He also mentioned that "Hoping for the reward of Allāh" points to the second foundation, and it is الإِحْسَابُ (Al-Ihtisāb), which is the goal that one works towards and intends from it.

So Taqwa is doing what's Halāl and abstaining from what's Harām, and it also has other similar meanings which are close to it والله اعلم is an ocean of knowledge subhānAllāh - He would read books and study (رحمه الله)Imām Al-Nawawī!from his teachers & he didn't start writing books until he was 40 years of age

Knowledge requires patience, true 'Ulemā' read & read & read, not just read, but read & understand! .We must learn before making Ijtihād & giving out Fatwa's left and right

By the way, reading books on Fatāwah is very good, but if you just want to find a quick answer to .something without memorising the Usūl, then this is ignorance

Learn the basics, study with a shaykh/teacher. If you're a student of knowledge inshā'Allāh & studied usūl al-Fiqh, then go have a read of all the Fatāwah books out there. Especially ibn taymiyyāh's Majmū' al-Fatāwah which takes like 6 months to finish, and the scholars say, when you is (رحمه الله)compare ibn Taymiyyāh's writing to others, you see how great ibn Taymiyyāh .subhānAllāh

Seeking knowledge requires a lot of passion & effort, especially with the memorisation & I personally find it very easy to read thousands of pages of books in a week, but when it comes to has blessed every individual with (جلا وعلا)trying to memorise, I struggle to remain focused. Allāh his memorisation, memory and understanding, some are excellent at all 3, and some lack one .besides the other make seeking knowledge easy for you all, and always make du'ā to (سبحانه وتعالى)May Allāh (جلا وعلا)Allāh to make it easy for you and He will surely help you

This is not referring to those who add "Jesus is the messenger of Allāh", when they take shahādah...

But there's no need to add "And Jesus is the messenger of Allāh" because "Lā ilāha" means there is no one worthy of worship(including jesus), "ilā Allāh" except Allāh(جلا وعلا), but if you want to add Jesus for extra emphasis, then that's your choice, but idk if messenger(صلى الله عليه وسلم) did that. SubhānAllāh I came across the ḥadīth Ustādh Muḥammad al-Bizrī mentioned in al-Tuhfat al-Aḥwathī, the explanation of Sunan al-Tirmidhī - The ustādh was talking about Sadaqah & how giving charity doesn't decrease your wealth. This is the ḥadīth:

حَدَّثَنَا مُحَمَّدُ بْنُ تَبَّارٍ، حَدَّثَنَا يَحْيَى بْنُ سَعِيدٍ، عَنْ شُعْبَانَ، عَنْ أَبِي إِسْحَاقَ، عَنْ أَبِي مَيْسَرَةَ، عَنْ عَائِشَةَ أَنَّهَا دَبَّحُوا شَاةً فَقَالَ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ: "مَا بَقِيَ مِنْهَا؟" قَالَتْ مَا بَقِيَ مِنْهَا إِلَّا كَتِفُهَا. قَالَ: "بَقِيَ كُلُّهَا غَيْرَ كَتِفِهَا".

قال أبو عيسى: هذا حديث صحيح.
وَأَبُو مَيْسَرَةَ هُوَ الْهَمْدَانِيُّ اشْتُمُهُ عَقَرُوهُ بْنُ شُرَّحِبِيلَ.

Muḥammād ibn Bashār narrated to us, from Yahya ibn Sa'eed, from Sufyān, from Abī Ishāq, from Abī Maysarah, from Ā'isha(رضي الله عنها) that they slaughtered a sheep, so the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "What has remained of it?" So she said, nothing has remained of it except its shoulder. He(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "All of it has remained except its shoulder"

Abū ʿĪsa [al-Tirmidhī] رحمه الله said: This is an authentic ḥadīth.

And Abū Maysarah is [Abū Maysarah] al-Hamdānī, his name is 'Amr ibn Shurahbīl.

Brothers & Sisters, I would just like to remind myself and everyone that the purpose of seeking knowledge is to please Allāh(جلا وعلا) first and foremost. Our intention is to help the Ummāh of Muḥammād(صلى الله عليه وسلم) and benefit them from the sayings of the Scholars.

If your intention is to seek knowledge, so you can argue & refute others, then such a person doesn't see the bigger picture. Especially if you haven't mastered the Arabic language or studied concise texts. I'm not saying that we should unite or keep quiet about the innovators, rather Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) said that it's a must to warn against the innovators! But we need to understand what brings most benefit to the Ummāh & there must be wisdom in our Da'wah, especially living in a time like today. What's worse is when people attack the scholars of our own Ummāh because of the differences in Fiqh, or even mistakes from their own Ijtihād in 'Aqeedah.

Since I mentioned Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله), let me share something which might be of benefit to you all. There's a scholar by the name of Dāwūd ibn 'Alī al-Dhāhirī(رحمه الله) who is the Imām of the Dhāhirī Madhab, and the famous Mufasssir Muhammad ibn Jarīr al-Tabarī(رحمه الله) praised him and said "Dāwūd ibn 'Alī is more knowledgeable in Fiqh than Imām Ahmad", now this was his opinion & Allāh(جلا وعلا) knows best, but Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) didn't say anything bad about his Fiqh, rather he only spoke against him for saying the Qur'ān was created, that's all. What we must understand is just because a scholar makes a mistake, it doesn't mean we completely reject him. Or else we're going to reject almost all of the scholars in the Ummāh, no one is infallible except the Messenger of Allāh.

It's also important to mention that Dāwūd ibn 'Alī & Ibn Hazm are 2 different scholars & many people falsely attribute Ibn Hazm's statements to 'Alī, rather the Fiqh of Dāwūd is much more precise & accurate with only a few errors, unlike Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله) who had some strange rulings, but he is a great Imām which no one can deny. Unfortunately there isn't much information from Dāwūd ibn 'Alī from his words, so alot of the things we know from Dāwūd ibn 'Alī is what other scholars quoted from him.

Either way, I got carried away again, the point I'm making is even the Dhāhiriyyāh which many people attack because they reject Qiyās & understand the text in a literal way(btw they are not Mujassimāh), so they go by the clear meanings of the Qur'ān & Sunnāh & the Lughā. This is there Madhab, and when I see people make fun of Ibn Hazm(رحمه الله), it's very sad. The flesh of a scholar is poison, so stay away from it! Yes he has some strange rulings, but who are we compared to the great Imām Abū Muḥammād ibn Hazm al-Andalūsī(رحمه الله)...?? He was a poet and an expert in many islamic sciences, even though he was affected by the Mu'tazilah, it doesn't negate the fact that he's an amazing scholar who must be respected, just like Imām Ahmad respected Dāwūd ibn 'Alī.

Inshā'Allāh one day if you become a scholar, you can refute some of the mistakes he made by being just and respectful in your reply, just as the scholars of the past did. Ahlal Sunnāh wal Jamā'ah are fair, they speak the truth and do not lie against their counterparts, let alone brothers in the deen.

May Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) guide us all to the straight path and I ask Allāh(جلا وعلا) by his beautiful

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'alwān was asked regarding reciting Qur'ān over the deceased in the grave:

The Shaykh replied by saying: There's a difference of opinion whether the reward of reciting the Qur'ān reaches the deceased person in the grave. Al-Imām ibn al-Qayyīm was of the view that it does reach the dead, whereas other scholars rejected that.

However, what some people are doing around the world by getting a Qāri' to recite the Qur'ān over the dead or having the family members recite 1/5 of the Qur'ān each etc...This has no basis, and it's strange that most of the people who do this are Shāfi'yyāh, whereas Imām al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) completely rejected the fundamental basis of reciting Qur'ān over the dead, let alone the branches on the issue.

But if someone is of the view that the reward of the Qur'ān reaches the dead, then such a person should recite it between him & Allāh, like there is nothing wrong with reciting the Fātiha and making du'ā for the deceased. But, it's best to go along with what's agreed upon by all the scholars and that is to make du'ā for the deceased, and this reaches him without a doubt, since the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to make du'ā for your brother.

Another innovation which has been commonly widespread as well is where the Imām tells the believers to recite Sūrat al-Fātiha after the Janāzah prayer, this has no basis at all...Rather the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said to make du'ā for him, not to recite al-Fātiha والله اعلم

Ahlal Sunnāh wal Jamā'ah agree that Ēmān increases and decreases, however what causes our Ēmān to increase and decrease?

Shaykh Muhammad ibn Sālih al-'Uthaymīn(رحمه الله) has mentioned some of the causes that increase our Ēmān - I won't mention what decreases because it's basically the opposite of what is mentioned below:

1. Knowing Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى), by his names and attributes, because whenever a person knows more about Allāh(جلا وعلا), by his names & attributes, his Ēmān will increase without a doubt, and this is why you find the people of knowledge, those who know the names & attributes of Allāh, which others don't know, you find them stronger in Ēmān compared to others from this aspect.

2. Looking into the universal signs of Allāh(جلا وعلا), and the religious signs, because whenever a person looks into the universal signs, which is the creation, his Ēmān will increase, Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said: "And on the earth are signs for the certain [in faith], And in yourselves. Then will you not see?" and the verses which prove this are many, I mean the verses which prove that the person who contemplates and ponders over this universe will increase in his Ēmān.

3. Lots of obedience, because whenever he increases in obedience, his Ēmān will increase because of that, no matter if these acts of obedience were speech, or actions, and making ذكّر (remembrance of Allāh) increases Ēmān in Magnitude and keeps you in a good state, and Salāh & Fasting, and Hajj increases your Ēmān as well in magnitude & keeps [your Ēmān] in a good condition.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Alwān was asked whether the voice of a woman is 'Awrah.

The Shaykh replied by saying: There's a difference of opinion among the Fuqahā', some have said the voice of a woman is 'Awrah, however this is not correct and there is no proof for it! [The hadīth they used is very weak].

The second saying is that the voice of a woman is Fitna, and this is the view of the majority of the scholars. This is the reason why a woman is asked to clap in the Salāh if the Imām makes a mistake, instead of speak because her voice can cause Fitna to the men.

And if we were to say that the voice of a Woman is 'Awrah, then that means it's completely forbidden for them to talk with the opposite gender except for a necessity, and this is isn't correct, rather a woman is permitted to talk with a man as long as he & she are safe from any Fitna(they can't talk alone), and they should only speak of what is required والله اعلم

A man insulted Imām Ahmad ibn Hanbal(رحمه الله) and Imām Ahmad(رحمه الله) said "He is a pious man!"

SubhānAllāh, Imām Ahmad said he was mistaken in what he said, but he's still a righteous man, rather it is possible that he has more Taqwa than you! Now how many of us would say that to those who slander us or insult us?

What's amazing is that Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) said "What's amazing is that two people can call each other kāfir and on the day of judgement, both of them will be from the Pious slaves/Allies of Allāh!"

Now this is not to promote takfeer wal-iyāthubillāh! However, it shows that if someone is mistaken and has Ikhlas(pure sincerity for the sake of Allāh), he will be forgiven in the eyes of Allāh, not only that, but be from the Awliyā' of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى).

Even great Imāms like Al-Subkī, al-Bakrī, al-Akhnāf etc...They lied against Ibn Taymiyyāh by claiming he said Allāh descends like a human & he's a Mujassimah etc...to the extent where some claimed "ibn taymiyyāh insulted the Prophet", but in reality he told the people to not to ask from the dead. He was famous for his Fatwa "3 divorces in 1 sitting only counts as 1 divorce" & was imprisoned for it, and if someone divorces their wife on her menses, it doesn't count as a divorce. Now the 3 divorces in 1 is famous nowadays and is the correct opinion, but back then it was not seen that way. Ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله) refuted everyone which is why he received so many enemies to the extent where scholars would praise him for his knowledge and admit he's more knowledgeable than themselves, but because of their envy & hatred against his teachings, they would sometimes insult and slander him. He knew the science of Philosophy & allowed a few students to learn it to refute ahlal Kalām, but forbade the rest of his students, because the harm was more than good.

In the middle centuries, the Ash'arī 'Aqeedah was enforced upon the population, where those who affirmed the Names & Attributes were considered "Mujassimah" including ibn taymiyyāh & his students ibn kathīr & ibn al-Qayyīm. Many great Imāms like al-Qurtubī thought the Ashā'irah were Ahlal Sunnāh, so whenever he mentions Ahlal Sunnāh in his tafseer, it means the Ashā'irah. Just like ibn Hajr, al-Nawawī and other great giants were affected by the Ashā'irah in some aspects, it doesn't negate the fact that they were great Mujtahideen of the Ummāh. And it's not correct to claim ibn Hajr is Ash'arī in all aspects, rather he agreed with them on the names & attributes & some other 'Aqeedah issues, but not in the issue of Ahād hadīths & the viewpoint of the Sahābah & many other things.

This was a long post and I did get carried away with the last few paragraphs, but my intention is to say that we must forgive our brother, whether he slanders us or backbites against us. Just because someone insults you, it doesn't mean he's not pious, rather he can be better than you. May Allāh(swt) soften our hearts towards our muslim brothers and protect us from any branch of hypocrisy/arrogance والله اعلم

Radwan Dakkak Btw, I forgot to say, Bizry did respond in the morning and said it's proven on the Prophet & his companions that they raised their hands in Qunūt... However I disagree with "proven on the Prophet" because al-Zuhri in an authentic chain said the hands weren't raised in Ramadān, so it's not proven on the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) والله اعلم

Radwan Dakkak I don't deny that - But there's not a single authentic hadīth where the Prophet made Qunūt in Ramadān as mentioned by Imām Ahmad & others, let alone raise the hands. Rather, the scholars took the saying/actions from Omar. Either way, it's all good Alhamdulillah.

What is a Mawqūf hadīth and when does it get raised as a Marfū' hadīth?

Firstly, the science of Mustalah al-hadīth has explained the meanings of these terms in deep detail, but in short:

Marfū' means a hadīth that is raised to the Prophet(comes from the word رفع) - Basically it's any hadīth that mentions "The prophet said this", "The prophet did this", "We were taught from the Prophet" etc...And this hadīth is acted upon as proof because it's from the Prophet(saw).

Mawqūf means a hadīth that is stopped to a companion(comes from the word وقف) - Basically it's any hadīth that mentions "Abū hurayrah told us", "Abū Hurayrah said" without mentioning "The prophet said", so it's a statement of a companion, not the Prophet.

However, there are many cases when a Mawqūf hadīth gets raised to a Marfū' hadīth, and how do we know this? The scholars have said "If the companion speaks about matters of the unseen, such as rewards, punishments or matters of the future, then he must've heard it from the Prophet & it can't be his own words" so let's just say for e.g. Abū Sa'eed al-Khudrī said "Praying Salāh in Jamā'ah is better than 25 Salāh on your own"

Even though this is a Marfū' hadīth, let's assume that's it's a Mawqūf hadīth for the sake of explanation - The scholars would say this hadīth gets raised to the level of Marfū' (i.e. It's on the level of saying "The prophet said ...[the hadīth]" & is acted upon as proof) because it's impossible that Abū Sa'eed would have come up with it on his own without hearing it from the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم).

But the question arises, why wouldn't Abū Sa'eed al-Khudrī(رضي الله عنه) say "The Prophet said...Praying Salāh in Jamā'ah is better than 25 Salāh on your own" The answer to this question is that, it's possible that Abū Sa'eed(رضي الله عنه) was in a discussion with some companions & told them "Praying Salāh in Jamā'ah is 25 times greater" without mentioning "The prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم)".

وسلم said so" and this is normal, even in our everyday conversations, I sometimes say "This hadīth is weak brother", and you'll be like "Are you a shaykh, how would you know", but then I'll clarify that "Imām al-Bukhārī, Imām Muslim & others weakened the hadīth" and you would be like "ohh okay", so at times, we share knowledge without referencing it to those who we learnt it from.

Inshā'Allāh it's clear, because at times I feel that there is a need to explain these simple matters, because I do mention these terms alot and many people are unfamiliar with it - And Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) knows best.

I'll like to share something with regards to War, Rape, Retaliation, Slavery, Ruling the land by Islām etc... I have brought the rulings on Qisās, Rape & Summarized some other points. If you have any questions, don't feel shy to ask. The way of the Prophets is to address the problems of their times, and this is why many people hated the Prophets & tried to kill them, even the sincere scholars like ibn taymiyyāh & Muhammad ibn abdul wahāb who discussed very controversial issues of their times, they were subjected to insults even till this very day. I just wrote it up now, and inshā'Allāh it has some benefit, so feel free to have a read and Allāh(swt) knows best:

So whenever the kuffār take over countries, they kill innocent civilians, rape MEN and WOMEN, enslave the population and spread corruption on Earth. Whereas, when the muslims take over countries to spread & rule by Islām, they don't even cut down trees & plants, let alone kill & massacre civilians. Muslims do not kill or rape women, rather the leader would punish the muslims for doing so.

With regards to slavery, yes the muslims do enslave the men, women and children of the disbelievers who they capture, however it doesn't mean the whole population is enslaved, rather the rest of the population, if they were from the People of the Book or Majūs, they would pay the Jizyah(A tax which they have to pay that ensures they will be protected by the Muslims - The amount they pay differs depending on the working class they are in, and in some cases, the elderly have the tax dropped off as we know from 'Omar). So the muslims protect the non-Muslims and believe it's an obligation to do so, which is why you find non muslims being treated better in our countries than their own countries, during the past muslim empires.

Now, slavery in islām cannot be compared to the institutionalised slavery of the kuffār, because a slave in islām has rights, just like any free man/woman. The reason why they are enslaved is because of fighting against Allāh & His messenger - yes, we cannot deny that Allāh(swt) has permitted a man to sleep with his slave woman, and to treat her nicely, give her da'wah etc...And it's recommended by the Prophet(saw) to free slaves, that's why in many sins a Muslim commits, he is asked to free a slave as recompense. Even if a Muslim hits a slave man/woman on the face, the expiation is to free them as mentioned in an authentic hadīth by the Prophet(saw) in Al-Adab al-Mufrad by al-Bukhārī. So islām did not completely abolish slavery, but limited it to one case(can only be enslaved from war) and modified it to suit society, but no one can claim that it's the same kind of slavery the disbelievers have, where they kidnap millions of africans, treat them like animals and torture/kill them...Such a person must be ignorant to claim such a thing, and hasn't learn that many great Scholars of Islām were born from a Slave mother who was thereafter freed, usually many would become muslim. The prophet(saw) objected to a person who said "is that your slave" rather he told the man to say "don't say they are your slaves, Say they are your sons, your daughters, your brothers, your sisters"

With regards to a Muslim who rapes a woman whether she is a free woman or a slave woman, then it depends on the situation. If he kidnapped her or threatened her with a weapon, then this is considered Hirābah by Consensus, whether he rapes her or not. The punishment for hirābah is mentioned in the following verse, of which the Qādhī decides which one is more suitable of being applied. Allāh(swt) says: "The recompense of those who wage war against Allaah and His Messenger and do mischief in the land is only that they shall be killed or crucified or their hands and their feet be cut off from opposite sides, or be exiled from the land. That is their disgrace in this world, and a great torment is theirs in the Hereafter" [al-Maaidah 5:33]

With regards to a Muslim who rapes a woman without the use of any weapons, but simply forces her to commit zinā, then the scholars differed regarding his punishment & this is a matter of Ijtihād among the Fuqahā'. Some scholars have said, his punishment is the punishment of zinā & must pay her a dowry, meaning if he's married, he is stoned to death + pays dowry, and if he's a virgin, he gets lashed 100 times + pays dowry & is exiled from the land. Other scholars have mentioned that he is punished with zinā, but doesn't have to pay the dowry, but this is a weak view since Imām Mālik said just like the Thief must have his hand cut off, he must also return what he stole, so the rapist is punished with zinā, and must give a dowry since that is her right that he stole from her. Other scholars mention that the rapist is executed in public regardless if he is a virgin or Muhsin(married etc...).

Either way, most of the time a rapist is considered a Muhārib and is executed in public by the Imām - And there is an Ijmā', a consensus that the raped woman is not punished. Rape is a crime and a forbidden act which no one can imagine, Allāh(swt) has criminalised & forbidden transgressing against the disbelieving women, let alone the believing women! Allāh(swt) says "And fight in the cause of Allāh those that fight you, and do not transgress, verily Allāh does not like the transgressors"

Also a point worthy of being mentioned is that in the rulings of Qisās(retaliation), there are limits to it, for e.g. If the disbelievers rape the muslim women, it's not allowed to rape their women, because this is harām in its essence & is the right of Allāh(swt) and no scholar has permitted it. I have heard some scholars say "If they kill our women & children, we can do the same to them" however this is from some of the contemporary scholars and is a Strange fatwa which cannot be relied upon, because none of the scholars of the past permitted killing the women and children of the kuffār, this is the right of Allāh which has been made harām in all situations just like zinā, however if the women are fighting the muslims, then she is to be fought, or if the women and children are mingled among the fighting men, then they were killed unintentionally along with the men, but it's forbidden by the agreement of the scholars to intentionally target children & women!

Muslims have morals of war, which is why Islāmīc conquests are the most merciful. Even though mistakes happen in the Muslim armies, they happened, even among the companions of the Prophet(saw), but generally there is a severe warning to those who transgress or commit crimes & they are punished and brought to justice.

In the end, always remember that this Earth belongs to Allāh(swt) and the Muslim empires of the past conquered lands to rule by the law of Allāh, this is the main intention to raise the word of Allāh the highest, not to receive war booty or slave women, these are dunyā things which a Muslim doesn't look up too, even though it's permissible and there's nothing wrong with it. The purpose of islām is to remove tyranny on Earth, to spread the guidance of the Qur'ān and to rule the land by Allāh's law والله اعلم

Do we call those who die in Car accidents Shuhadā' [Martyrs]?

The Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said: "The martyrs are five: Those who die of the plague, stomach illness, drowning, being crushed, and the martyr in the cause of Allah"

Shaykh ibn Bāz said "And along with them are those who die in overthrown/toppled cars or in car crashes, verily this resembles/imitates the death of being crushed, and we desire for them Martyrdom...However they are washed and prayed over, just like the one who dies from a stomach disease & drowning"

~ [Nūr 'ala al-darb 3/1426]

Note: I'm not sure if a person who was recklessly speeding can be considered a Martyr, I personally don't think his death would be considered Martyrdom & at the same time, I don't think his death would be considered suicide, unless he had the intention of killing himself. But it all depends on the situation, for e.g. If someone is speeding for a necessary reason & dies, then such a person can be considered a Martyr. However, I was talking about "reckless driving" without a reason والله اعلم

Alhamdulillah, after speaking for several years, a sincere brother leaves Shī'aism - He told me "You were very harsh on me & I used to avoid you, but what you said was the truth. I have blind followed my religion without really looking into it & I always had a bad feeling about Mut'ah & hitting myself."

SubhānAllāh, this brother was absolutely ignorant of the Qur'ān & the Prophet & didn't even know the names of the companions, yet he claimed the Imāms were greater than the Prophet(saw)...I was shocked and told him, you're going against your own religion because the Imāms are greater than every Prophet, except Muhammad(saw) in your religion.

But Alhamdulillah, it's great news, but he is hiding it from his family, because it's a very bad thing when you become a "Wahābī", they scare you and say "You left the path of the Ahl al Bayt!! You went to the enemies??"

He has repented from Shirk, and I don't believe he is practising Taqiyyāh, I have known many Rawāfidh and I can tell this brother is sincere & isn't deceiving me, but I'm aware of the tricks of the evil ones.

Now, someone might say, but wouldn't a sunnī family say the same thing if someone becomes a shī'a, don't we call them apostates. Yes, a person who leaves Islām must come back to Islām, however a person who leaves Shirk and enters into the belief of Tawheed, such a person is a Muslim, not an Apostate, so it's not correct to compare between the two. Islām is the only truth, therefore it's not allowed for anyone who has tasted the sweetness of Ēmān to leave it. Part of being a Muslim is to die upon Islām, whereas if you die upon Shirk, you will be in the hellfire forever. If someone has doubts about Islām, give them da'wah because Islām has an answer to everything.

And ofcourse Allāh(swt) knows best & His wisdom is greater than what I understand of the deen - But no doubt Islām is superior to every religion and this is what muslims must understand. If someone leaves islām, it means there is a problem with the individual, unlike when a person reverts to the truth, accepting the message all the Prophets came with! Such a person has realized the corruptness of his previous religion & the truth of Islām والله اعلم

The Shaykh al-Muhaddith Sulaymān ibn Nāsir al-'Alwān(حفظه الله) said in his explanation on the book of Ēmān from Saḥīḥ al-Bukhārī:

The scholars may Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) have mercy upon them differed over which is greater, the last 10 days from Ramadān or the first 10 days of Dhil Hijjāh. So a group of scholars from the Fuqahā' said: "That the last 10 days of Ramadān is greater", and a group of scholars said: "Verily, the first 10 days of Dhil Hijjāh is greater", and a group of scholars explained it in further detail by saying: "Verily the 10 'nights' of Ramadān are greater than the 10 nights of Dhil Hijjāh, and the [10] 'days' of Dhil Hijjāh are greater than the [10] days of Ramadān" and this is the chosen view of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(رحمه الله). And this view needs to be looked at as well [there is dispute], because the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said and the ḥadīth is in Bukhārī from the ḥadīth of ibn 'Abbās(رضي الله عنهما): "[And there are no days...(greater than the first 10 of dhil hijjah)]" And it's generalised as "al-Yawm" which includes the night and the day, and what's more correct of being said is: "Verily the first 10 of Dhil Hijjāh is greater than the last 10 from Ramadān" and there's no difference between the night & the day, and Laylat ul-Qadr [the night of Power] whenever it occurs is greater than the 10 [Days & Nights!] of Dhil Hijjāh, therefore this night on its own is greater than the 10 [days & nights] of Dhil Hijjāh & as for the rest of the nights, then they are not(greater).

Some tips for the traveller:

1. It's recommended to shorten your Prayers while being in the state of Travelling. The majority of the scholars say you must travel 80+ KM's to shorten your prayers, however this is a weak saying - Since there is no proof from the Qur'ān or the Sunnāh or the Arabic Language, so we go by the customs('urf) to determine what is considered travelling, and this is what Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(rah) said, meaning there is no specified distance to be considered a traveller, and a traveller is someone who isn't residing or living in a land.

Note: The rules of Usūl al-Fiqh say "If there is nothing in the Qur'ān & Sunnāh, we go by the Lughā(language)" The Madhab of Imām Mālik is that they go by the traditions/customs & this would solve this particular issue. The Madhab of Imām Ahmad is that they go by the Language, and that's not possible as in this case, so we go by the 'Urf(customs).

2. Joining prayers is permissible, however it should only be done if there is a need, such as not being able to pray the next prayer on time. There's a difference of opinion whether you can join Jum'ah with 'Asr. Ibn Hazm & the Khurasānī Shāfi'ee's say it's permissible but their arguments are weak, and the Majority of the scholars, including the 4 Imāms say that it's not permissible because Jum'ah is a separate prayer on its own like Salāt al-Fajr & the Prophet(saw) never joined them with the capability of doing so. Note: The prayers that can be joined is Dhuhr with 'Asr & Maghrib with 'Ishā'.

3. If you're on a plane, they usually tell you what time it is and when to pray, so this shouldn't be a big issue inshā'Allāh - Otherwise you just try your best to work out the timezone you're in and pray & Allāh will accept your Niyyāh.

And Allāh(swt) knows best.

Radwan Dakkak Even if you don't repent from zina or alcohol, Allāh's mercy and intercession will allow you to enter Jannāh. However, if you repented from Zinā, Allāh will lessen your punishment and indeed Allāh loves the Tawābeen! The only sin that doesn't get forgiven is Shirk. However if you made Tawbah from Shirk, Allāh will forgive you and you will be rewarded inshā'Allāh.

Radwan Dakkak Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān was asked about the Muslim who apostates, then returns back to Islām, does his good deeds come back as well? The Shaykh responded by saying: Such a person is a Kāfir, but if he returns back to Islām, his good deeds/actions come back to him as well. And this is the most correct opinion amongst the scholars, because Allāh(swt) says "And whoever of you turns away from his religion(to disbelief) and dies while being a disbeliever" - The meaning of this verse is that if he returns back to Islām, his good deeds will return back to him. And the good deeds will not be nullified, except when a person dies upon disbelief. And this is one of the two statements in the Hanbalī Madhab which was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(rah).

The difference of opinion occurred many centuries later, and became famous where people say "the origins of meat is prohibition" however, there was Ijmā' of the Sahābah on the issue that it's halāl & the Qur'an is very clear. As for your question regarding hand slaughtering the chicken, this is a must according to the majority of the scholars. This is mentioned by Imām Abū Hanīfah, al-Shāfi'ee & Imām Ahmad may Allāh have mercy upon them all. So it's not permissible to drown them or use any other method besides hand-slaughter according to what is closer to the truth والله اعلم

The Jewish Madhab is famous for questioning Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) - I've been talking to a few brothers who have been frequently telling me "Why is this harām"... "Why this punishment" etc...No doubt there is wisdom behind why something is harām, but only Allāh(swt) truly knows best, so let's not fall into the same trap the Yahūd fell into, especially asking questions that only Allāh(swt) knows i.e. Knowledge of the Unseen.

SubhānAllāh I have a christian friend who is so sincere, but up until this day, he hasn't converted to Islām. He is the nicest guy you'll ever meet, I swear he is so humble that he makes me cry.

May Allāh(swt) bless my parents for raising me upon deen since a very young age. I used to speak about deen to friends since Kindergarten SubhānAllāh & used to deny Santa Clause and tell them "he's not real" lol 🙄 but SubhānAllāh, this friend of mine, we would spend hours together talking about deen, playing sport or even games & I just want Allāh(swt) to guide him. Inshā'Allāh this is only said for the benefit of sharing, but I literally made thousands, possibly a million du'ās for him :((

I remember in class, we used to finish our work, then read islamic books like "The islamic view of Jesus" by ibn kathīr and many other books and learn together, I just want to get this off my chest and don't want him to see this post, but I just wish Allāh(swt) answers my du'ā, I miss all the good memories we had ﷺ I just wish he comes to the beautiful deen of al-Islām which is free from any kind of Shirk, just pure Tawheed of the Anbiyā' - Please make du'ā for him, possibly Allāh will answer my call faster.

These guys think they are tough hitting a woman! And they say Arabs are violent against women...

Well let me share something with you all regarding the arabs, even in the time of ignorance before Islām, there was a man called Hātim al-Tā'i, when a woman slapped him on the face, what did Hātim say? He said "If you were a man, I would've returned the slap, but you are a woman, you are a woman!" so he refrained from hitting her back because she is a woman, he then walked away without doing anything to her...

Let alone in Islām, Allāh(swt) has forbidden transgressing against the disbelieving women, let alone the believing women! Allāh(swt) says in the Qur'ān "And fight in the cause of Allāh those that fight you, and do not transgress, verily Allāh does not like the transgressors" Al-Imām al-Qurtubī(rah) mentioned some of the images of transgression which include "killing children, women, the elderly, priests etc...."

Infact, in one of the battles of the Prophet(saw), where he saw a disbelieving woman killed on the ground, he was angry and prohibited it! And in a narration he said "She was not supposed to be fought"...

May Allāh(swt) punish the criminals and transgressors!

المراة عورة في الصلاة وفي غير الصلاة ولا يسقط فريضة الحجاب عنها في اي حال من الاحوال فهذه مصيبة كبيرة حينما ترى بعض النساء يكشفون عورتهم بسوء فهم النصوص المتواترة عن رسول الله صلى الله عليه وسلم وكما قال في الحديث الصحيح "المراة عورة" ولم يستثن منها شيء - لابد ان نرجع الى فهم السلف الصالح لانهم يفقهون الدين اكثر ممن جاء بعدهم والقول بأن الوجه والكفين ليس بعورة فهذا من كلام بعض الفقهاء ولم يثبت عن احد من الائمة الاربعة فضلا عن الصحابة والتابعين بانهم اجازوا كشف الوجه والكفين بل العكس هو الصحيح حينما تقرأ كتبهم ستجد انهم يعتقدون بوجوب تغطية الوجه

SubhānAllāh, at times I feel like I have some kind of hypocrisy in my heart because any person can share knowledge on a group, but what's most important is acting upon the knowledge I share - And I feel like an absolute hypocrite when I look at myself...I promise myself many things and can't stick to it. I look at my actions and don't believe they are completely sincere to Allāh. I claim to ...love the Ummāh, but don't see that I'm doing enough for it

Wallāhi I am so grateful to be a muslim, but I feel that being a Muslim alone is not enough to get into Jannāh, especially when I am not perfecting my heart and actions purely for the sake of Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى).

Listen to what Imām al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) told you over 1000 years ago, so let's not be deceived by false slogans from disturbed mushriks.

Imām al-Shāfi'ee(رحمه الله) used to condemn the Rāfidah(shī'a) severely, whenever they were mentioned, he said: "They are the worse bunch of people"

SubhānAllāh, and ibn taymiyyāh & Al-Qahtānī & ibn Kathīr have even spoken harsher against them, but let me tell you that the Rāfidah of today are much worse in their shirk than the Rāfidah of the past, even though their Usūl(Fundamental beliefs) is one.

Inshā'Allāh I'll be much more mindful of my posts - I will post less and learn more & try my best to avoid any problems. From time to time, I like to share some knowledge regarding the weakness of ahādīth, especially those which are famously spread around and are known for their weakness, and I'll make sure to elaborate on the post bi ithnillāh.

For e.g. The hadīth "seek knowledge as far as China" is fabricated which has been mentioned by more than 1 scholar - The reason I share posts about weak hadīths or fabricated hadīths is so we don't ascribe them to the Rasūl without knowledge, as that's a sin. Now, even though the meaning of this fabricated narration is correct, we cannot ascribe it to the Prophet(saw).

Many people don't know the rulings & differences of hadīth narrations, so I think it would be much more beneficial to post other things and go step by step. May Allāh(swt) forgive me for my shortcomings and guide our hearts to the straight path.

I've been really busy recently, so for the mean time I'll just like to share a portion of Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān's lecture regarding Tawbah[repentance] - Inshā'Allāh it is of benefit to whoever reads it, and there will be more to come later on الله ان شاء الله )

and His saying "Truly, Allāh(عز وجل) loves al-Tawābeen[those who turn towards Him in repentance] and He loves al-Mutatahireen[those who keep themselves pure & clean]" Al-Tawābeen came as a hyperbole, meaning lots of repenting, and the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"Allah, will continue to stretch out His Hand in the night so that the sinners of the day may repent, and continue to stretch out His Hand in the daytime so that the sinners of the night may repent, until the sun rises from the west" [Muslim]

Tawbah is praiseworthy, in all cases, regardless if he was recalling a sin or didn't recall a sin, because no matter what kind of servant he is, he has some kind of deficiency, so it doesn't mean that a person won't say "I ask you[Allāh] for forgiveness & repent to you[Allāh]" unless he recalls a sin, because this is self-conceit, whoever see's this in himself is self-deficient, he must change his heart, truly his heart is sick...

Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه), and he is Abū Bakr(رضي الله عنه), and sufficient for you in his might & dignity, and he is from the people of Jannāh by the Ijmā'[consensus] of the Muslims, and the greatest of all mankind after the Messenger of Allāh in this Ummāh, when he said O messenger of Allāh, teach me a du'ā that I can supplicate in my Salāh, he (صلى الله عليه وسلم) said:

"Say, O Allāh, indeed I have wronged myself so much, and there is no one who forgives the sins except you, so [please] bestow your forgiveness upon me and have mercy on me, verily you are the Most Forgiving, Most Merciful" [Bukhārī]

And even the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم), and he is the greatest to walk on the face of this earth, this is what he used to say after he finishes his Salāh "I seek forgiveness from Allāh(3x), O Allāh, you are the bestower of peace, and peace comes from you, Blessed are you, O possessor of glory and honour" [Muslim]

And Allāh(سبحانه وتعالى) said to his Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) "When the help of Allāh has come, and the conquest, and you see the people entering into the religion of Allāh in multitudes, Then glorify your Lord with praises and ask for His forgiveness. Indeed, He is Oft-Returning(in Grace & Mercy)" [110:1-3]

So Allāh(عز وجل) ordered his Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) to ask for His forgiveness, "Then glorify your Lord with praises and ask for His forgiveness, Indeed, He is Oft-Returning(in Grace & Mercy)"

I would like to share some beneficial information regarding Salāt al-Witr from Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān's book "The rulings regarding the Night Prayer[Taraweeh or Qiyām al-Layl]"

- The Witr Prayer is a recommended Sunnāh which is what the majority of the scholars from the Sahābah & the Tābi'een are upon and it is the view of Mālik & al-Shāfi'ee & Ahmad and the reports concerning this are numerous.

- Abū Hanīfah considered the Witr Prayer compulsory, and others have said it's compulsory upon the memorizes of the Qur'ān, but what's correct is the saying of the Majority of the scholars and that it's a Sunnāh upon all the muslims

- The hadīth of Abū Ayyūb attributed to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) "The witr is a duty upon every muslim" isn't authentic except as a Mawqūf report(to Abū Ayyūb, not the Prophet)

- The hadīth of Buraydah attributed to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) "The witr is a duty, so whoever doesn't pray Witr is not from us" This report isn't authentic.

- The hadīth of 'Alī attributed to the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) "O people(memorizes) of the Qur'ān, pray Witr for verily Allāh is Witr(one) and loves Witr(since it's an odd number)" there is dispute(requires a further look into it) regarding its authenticity.

- It's best for the Night Prayer to be in the last third of the night because it is the time where Allāh(جلا وعلا) descends.

- Most of the scholars adopt the view that the Witr is to be prayed after the 'Ishā' prayer, regardless if it was joined in advance with connecting the Maghrib, or delayed until half the night.

- Whoever overslept his Witr or forgot it, he can pray it after the sun rises and before the Fajr prayer because of the Prophet's saying "Whoever overslept his Witr prayer or forgot it, let him pray it when he remembers" and this saying is narrated from a group among the Sahābah & the Tābi'een and it's the saying of Mālik & Al-Shāfi'ee & Ahmad.

- What has been said that the people used to establish 23 Rak'ah's in Ramadān during the time of 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb, this isn't authentic.

- What has been said that 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb gathered the people in Ramadān behind Ubayy ibn Ka'b and Tamīm al-Dārī upon 21 Rak'ahs, this report hasn't been memorized(it's not known by the Hufādh)

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān said Mercy is two types:

The first type: A created mercy and it is mentioned in the saying of the Prophet(صلى الله عليه وسلم) "Indeed, Allāh created 100 [types] of mercy, He sent down 1 [to earth] & kept with Him 99"

The second type: The mercy which is an attribute from the attributes of Allāh(جلا وعلا), whoever says it is created is indeed a Kāfir, and it is an attribute of perfection/completeness.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān was asked about the Muslim who apostates, then returns back to Islām, does his good deeds come back as well?

The Shaykh responded by saying: Such a person is a Kāfir, but if he returns back to Islām, his good deeds/actions come back to him as well. And this is the most correct opinion amongst the scholars, because Allāh(swt) says "And whoever of you turns away from his religion(to disbelief) and dies while being a disbeliever" - The meaning of this verse is that if he returns back to Islām, his good deeds will return back to him. And the good deeds will not be nullified, except when a person dies upon disbelief. And this is one of the two statements in the Hanbalī Madhab which was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(rah).

There's a difference of opinion whether is included as a verse in Sūrat al-Fātihah - Ustādh Muhammad al-Bizry(May Allāh protect him) is of the view that it's not included as a verse, because when the Prophet(saw) told the companions to recite the Fātiha, they started with "Alhamdulillah Rabi al-'ālaameen" والله اعلم

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān said there are 3 different levels of looking for both men & women:

1. A man looks at a woman with desire or vice versa, this is harām by the agreement of the scholars.
2. A man looks at a woman or vice versa without the intention of looking at their features, like the man looking at the woman who is selling him something, and he looks at her without imagining her features etc...Also they mention the hadīth where Ā'isha watched the Habasha play sport. This is Halāl, and some scholars have mentioned an agreement of the scholars on this.
3. A man looks at a woman's features without desire, now there's a difference of opinion between some scholars, but what's correct is that it's harām, whether he looks at her with or without desire because Allāh(swt) ordered the believers to lower their gaze, and there's no mention of lowering the gaze from looking with or without desire, so this means you must always lower your gaze, even if you say you're not looking at her with desire. And the hadīth in Bukhārī "A woman should not describe another woman to her husband, coz it is like he is looking at her" and this along with many other proofs the Shaykh mentioned are used as strong evidence to prohibit someone looking at the opposite gender, and the famous saying of the Prophet "You have the first(look), but not the second" & the Prophet telling the Sahābī to lower his gaze & not to look at Fujā'ah and there was no desire, and there's no proof that the Prophet(saw) permitted looking at a woman without desire, but rather we take from the general meaning of the Qur'ān & Sunnāh to lower our gaze in all cases, because no exception has been given والله اعلم

Sometimes, I learn more manners from a Fatwa than actual knowledge - What hits my heart the most is reading about the beautiful character of the Prophet(saw) ﷺ

My advice[it's really the advice of the scholars] is to learn Islamic adab(etiquettes) before learning knowledge - SubhānAllāh, this is the way the Salaf would teach their children. Some of the Pious Predecessors would learn manners for 20-30 years before learning the sciences of Islamic knowledge.

Interesting read - She made a great point about being grown up as a muslim without really understanding what Islām is, because people would consider her questions as blasphemy, and this is a christian thing, not a muslim thing.

So she realised that her main problem was judging Islām by the muslim society, and once she learnt more about islām, she realized the truth which she didn't see from before - It gives all parents a lesson of teaching their kids about Islām, okay you don't have to go into deep details of the wisdom behind why alcohol is harām to a 5 year old, but you can simply say "Allāh made it harām & alcohol damages your brain" but once they get older, it's really recommended that you have Islamic Discussions in the house where you talk about the wisdom behind Hijāb and Salāh and Siyām.

Knowledge is very important, and we are not blind followers like the other religions that blind follow the religion of their parents, but rather a religion that discusses issues with the family and is open to questions, so we can reach the truth and enter Jannāh Inshā'Allāh. If your kids are raised upon a sound 'Aqeedah and understand the fundamental basics of Islām, you will not have this problem of them being confused or having an identity crisis.

So it's recommended upon us all to refute all the doubts/misconceptions against islām which the kuffār are using to attack us. The last thing you want is kids having doubts in their lord or listening to the propaganda of the disbelievers - Rely upon Allāh(swt) and if you are a good parent who fears Allāh(swt), inshā'Allāh your kids will turn out to be the same والله اعلم

Some people are really rude and disrespectful - Do you guys know how bad I feel if I recite a verse from the Qur'ān or narrate a hadīth of the Prophet(saw) out of fear of being called a Show Off or being called a "Shaykh" in a rude way. This pisses me off so much because it happens far too often.

Some people give me advice to stop learning about Islām because "it's pointless"...Yet, whenever they want to speak about Islām, they will speak based upon their own desires & possibly mention a weak hadīth. And if I respectfully correct them, they will claim I am wrong and have no knowledge...I just can't stand such people, especially those who are always negative! They will talk bad about you 100% of the Time, literally, without mentioning anything good about you. ☹️ Life is tough at times, may Allāh(swt) make it easy for everyone, and I didn't even mention 1% of the stuff I go through. But always remember if Allāh(swt) loves you, the more He tests you.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān was asked about his view in classifying Shirk into 3 categories, Major, Minor & Hidden(Khafi).

He responded by saying: This classification was mentioned by a group of scholars and this is disputable, but what's correct is that Shirk is 2 types:

1. Major
2. Minor

And the hidden shirk, from within it, is Major like Major Hypocrisy, since the Hypocrites openly show their Islām and conceal their Shirk. And from within the hidden shirk is Minor and this includes various levels, and I have read from some of the later scholars that divided Shirk into 3 types say, the Hidden Shirk is under the Minor.

And this generalisation without any guidelines is not correct, and we have previously stated that within the Hidden Shirk is Major Shirk and its doer will not have Allāh's intercession or mercy reach him.

Allāh(swt) has written for him eternity in the blazing hellfire, the Most High said: "Indeed, whoever commits Shirk with Allāh, Allāh has forbidden for him Jannāh and his refuge is in the hellfire. And there aren't any helpers for the oppressors"

And the Most High said "Verily those who disbelieved from the people of the Book and the Polytheists, their abode is in the hellfire, and they are the worst of creation"

And the Major Shirk is making other than Allāh equal to Allāh in something from the characteristics of Allāh.

And the Minor Shirk is what has come through religious proof as being named as Shirk, but doesn't reach the level of Major.

And it's said that this Shirk(Hidden) isn't forgiven, and the doer must go through punishment, however he doesn't remain in hellfire for eternity, this was mentioned by ibn Muflih in al-Furū' from Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(rah), and he has pointed out to this issue in his reply to al-Bakrī.

And the second saying: That the doer of this Shirk(Hidden) is under Allāh's will, and this is the saying of the Majority of the Scholars and is most correct.

Verily Allāh(swt) says "Indeed, Allāh does not forgive associating partners with Him" meaning, the Major Shirk.."and He forgives what is besides that to whomever He wishes" what is meant here is Minor Shirk, and Allāh(swt) knows best.

Is it permissible for a Father to force his son into marriage with a girl he doesn't desire?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān responded by saying: It's not allowed for either parent to compel their son into marriage with someone they don't want or love because the result of this marriage might end in a divorce or a miserable life for both of them. And it's not compulsory upon the son to obey them in this and it wouldn't be considered disobedience in doing so. However, it's a must upon the son to be gentle in his rejection and to not raise his voice upon his parents or let them hear any bad words.

Whenever I read the Qur'ān, I try my best to ponder over every verse and understand it completely. What I do is write down the verse, read it to myself and think really deeply about its meanings while trying to derive what message Allāh(swt) is trying to give us, so I can implement it in my actions, not just memorise the book of Allāh. Then I have a look at the Tafsīr of the verse and learning what the scholars have derived from its meanings, making me think further. I also don't mind opening up 3rd grade books which explain the words of Allāh in a simpler language, which also ask questions about the theme of the Sūrah and what "this" verse is about etc...I like to ask my friends what comes to their minds when they read such a verse and possibly they can pick up something I missed, as we all have different minds which we can learn from. And ofcourse, the most enjoying part is when I study the Tafsīr of the verse in detail from a Shaykh who goes through it beautifully 🌹

May Allāh(swt) forgive me and the brother, but this is completely the wrong approach - Firstly, how can we claim those who celebrate Mawlid do so because they love the Prophet(saw)...?? Loving the Prophet(saw) means to follow his way, not to innovate things in the religion.

Secondly, I would like to touch on a very important point and this is the saying of Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyāh(rah) where he said "The innovator can be rewarded for his intention". Now what ibn taymiyyāh meant to say is the innovator can be a Mujtahid and have a valid interpretation, for e.g. The Prophet(saw) said his birthday is on a Monday and he fasted that day, so this person would interpret that it's permissible to celebrate the Prophet's birthday. So Shaykh al-Islām see's that such a person is rewarded by his intention, but not by his ACTION! Also, this is only applicable for the minor bid'ahs, not the major bid'ahs and shirkīyyāt such as doing Tawāf around the graves and ruling by other than the Sharī'ah[such a person is not excused from kufr unless it was some specific part of the Sharī'ah where he left out based on some valid excuse, but this is unlike what we see today from those who rule by the law of Shayṭān]. It's also important to know that ibn taymiyyāh meant the person who has knowledge is rewarded for his intention and Ijtihād, not the Jāhil who says things without proof or the blind follower and the Blind follower will not be excused for following his Shaykh on the day of Judgement. So when the brother said "Most people celebrate Mawlid because they love the Prophet" this is not acceptable at all.

Thirdly, the brother is making it out to seem that there are 2 valid opinions on the issue subḥānAllāh and this kind of lenience to innovations in the deen shouldn't be tolerated. I beg to differ that we should unite truth with falsehood or else you could apply this same logic by uniting with the Rāfidah, and I've always said that we don't unite upon falsehood, no matter what kind of benefit comes out from doing so, and I don't see any benefit in uniting with shirk and bida', rather the mushrikeen and muḥtadī'ah are the ones who benefit from "unity" and we can see that in the political arena where the innovators can't wait to destroy islām.

Finally, I do agree with the point he stressed on which is speaking with manners without insults and curses, but be honest, who do you think benefits most from this video? Have you see the pics and vids where crazy sūfī's have placed replicates of the Prophets mosque on the top of their cars and dancing like its some crazy festival. Anyways, this is my opinion and Allāh(swt) knows best, but my approach is to destroy the beliefs of the innovators, while at the same time be humble and nice towards the sincere among them, hoping that they are guided to the true path. No innovation should be taken lightly والله المستعان

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān has said there are 8 weak ḥadīths in Al-Nawawī's collection[Al-Arba'in al-Nawawīyyāh] and has explained the weakness of those ḥadīth, however he has stated, even though some hadīths are weak, they are correct in meaning and supported by verses from the Qur'ān - Some scholars have also said "We prefer a weak hadīth instead of a saying of a scholar"

Ibn Juzayy al-Kalbī states that the key to attaining Taqwa [God consciousness] revolves around ten matters. If a person takes these matters seriously the result should be a true taqwa in his heart:

- 1) Fear of punishment in the Hereafter
- 2) Fear of punishment in this world
- 3) Hope for reward in this world
- 4) Hope for reward in the Hereafter
- 5) Fearing the reckoning and accounting of one's deeds
- 6) Feeling shameful that Allāh should see oneself performing deeds that are displeasing to Him
- 7) Being thankful and feeling grateful for all of the bounties that Allāh has bestowed on the person
- 8) The true knowledge of reality, of Allāh, His names and attributes, as Allāh says "Those who truly fear Allāh among His servants are only the people of knowlege" [Fātir:28]
- 9) Having a great deal of respect for the greatness of Allāh
- 10) Being sincere and truthful in one's love for Allāh

~ Part of the explanation of the hadīth "Fear Allāh wherever you are" [Refer to the explanation of hadīth #18 of Al-Nawawī's Forty Ahādīth for further details about Taqwa]

The Rāfidah are the biggest liars to ever exist - Do not ever be deceived by what they tell you. Those who pay attention to 'Aqeedah and Politics will clearly see that. To those that love to mix and unite with the Rāfidah, you can put your head down in shame and stay out of the Da'wah field, no one wants to hear your rubbish.

What is a muslim obliged to memorise from the Qur'ān al-Kareem?

The scholars have unanimously agreed that it's compulsory upon every single muslim to memorise the Mother of the Qur'ān which is Sūrat al-Fātihah, but they differed regarding the obligation of memorising more than that. Either way, it's definitely recommended to memorise as much Sūrah's [Suwar 🕌] as you can to be on the safe side 🙏

What is the language of the people of Paradise?

Most of the scholars try to use reasoning to hint that Arabic is the language of Paradise, however as Imām ibn Hazm(rah) has stated in al-Ahkām "There is not a single authentic hadīth on the topic" and the famous hadīth "The language of the people of Jannāh is Arabic" is completely fabricated.

I know it's the mawlid bid'ah season at the moment, but I humbly suggest that we should move on from talking about it too much - There are enough articles and books out there for the sincere to read from & if they want to go along with their own desires, then that's their loss. I will keep seeking knowledge and will not let the innovators distract me from that. I'm not having a go at anyone and you don't have to agree with me, it's simply my own opinion that I've learnt from the Mashāyikh and Allāh(swt) knows best.

Some of the Salaf said "Whoever does an act of obedience will enter the hellfire and whoever commits a sin will enter the paradise" and they were asked how is this so? So they replied: "He does the act of obedience out of self-pride which will be the cause of him entering the hellfire. And he who commits a sin will be deeply affected by it and fears that it might destroy him, so he seeks Allāh's forgiveness, fearing the sin he committed until it becomes the cause of him entering paradise."

Imām al-Bukhārī(rah) was blind as a child and his father passed away when he was a baby - He was raised by his mother and she used to make du'ā and cry to Allāh(swt) for her son. Just look at the miracles of Allāh(swt), the mother of Imām al-Bukhārī(rah) kept crying and making du'ā to Allāh(swt) until one day she had a dream where Ibrāhīm(as) came to her and said "don't worry about it, your sons eyesight will be coming back" and she woke up the next morning and al-Bukhārī's eyesight came back by the Maghrib of that day.

SubhānAllāh, this is an authentic story and not only did Allāh(swt) give him his eyesight back, but also gave him the mind of a genius that no one ever after him had. The general rule is legends bring birth to legends and cowards bring birth to cowards, even though there are exceptions but we don't base rules on exceptions. His father was a very rich merchant and never dealt in harām ways subhānAllāh, but also a lesson for the sisters is that many of these great Imāms like al-Bukhārī, Ahmad ibn Hanbal, Imām ibn taymiyyāh had their father die when they were kids, but their mothers raised them as legends.

What's the ruling on hanging a Qur'ān in the car?

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān has said this requires an explanation - If someone put up the Qur'ān with the intention of honouring/blessing the words of Allāh, this is not a known act and it takes the ruling of Amulets and the Prophet(saw) warned against Amulets completely. However if someone put up the Qur'ān with the intention of protecting him from accidents or troubles, then this is even worse than the previous case. And this is clear, whoever holds onto something besides Allāh has committed Shirk, and Amulets are completely prohibited, even if it's the Qur'ān because the Qur'ān is used for Ruqya, not for being an amulet.

When some brothers or sisters die on the BF, some families invite people for a gathering to celebrate their sons death etc...With a cake and all sorts of things, however this is an innovation that was not known in the time of the Prophet(saw). When Hamza(ra) died, the Prophet(saw) became very sad and mourned his death and he wouldn't accept anyone that rejoices his death, but rather accepted the mourners only, just like the Sahābah at Uhud, he was very upset, he never got a gathering to celebrate or rejoice the death of these martyrs. The sunnāh is to mourn the dead, not to celebrate and rejoice. However, there's nothing wrong with saying to the parents, be happy that he's a shaheed and that's a good thing because he gets the rewards of a shaheed etc...So how can we rejoice someone who died, yes we can rejoice someone who is free from Prison, but not the death of a muslim, rather we say he was on the path of 'izzāh and inshā'Allāh be happy that he can intercede for you on the day of Judgement.

Non muslim women need to stop giving me the evil eye - I don't get what's the big deal with blue eyes, why does everyone gotta talk about eyes, including random people who praise you and then ask you where you're from. Secondly, I'm a muslim who can't shake hands with the opposite gender, and these non muslim women know it, but they don't get the message and they think it's fun to come from behind and hug me. This supervisor gets offended because I don't maintain 100% eye contact with her or shake her hand.

Would this be considered harassment? These women don't understand my religious views and take it as a joke - I'm like I can't stare at women and they're like "Then don't look at me" 🙄 Next minute they get offended when I don't look at them...or even worse they will hug me and say "Ohh I'm cold" What is this culture...

#Arabic_Linguistics - I would like to share something about the word كل (kul) in the arabic language and refuting those who say there is good bid'ah. This word كل is often translated as "every", however the word كل can also mean "most".

So let me bring a good example from the hadīth of the Prophet(saw) "Every(كل) newly invented matter is a bid'ah and Every(كل) bid'ah is misguidance and Every(كل) misguidance is in the hellfire". Now some people claim the word كل in this hadīth refers to "many" instead of "every" however I'll refute them using fundamental Sharī and linguistic principles inshā'Allāh.

Firstly, with regards to the hadīth of the Prophet(saw), he has spoken it in general form and it's not permissible to exclude anything from the word "كل" unless there is another hadīth where the Prophet(saw) has given an exception that there is a good bid'ah or statements from the Sahābah(as long as other Sahābah didn't differ with them). Therefore, the word كل holds a general meaning until an exception has been given, so the burden is upon you to prove that the Prophet or his Companions have given an exception where "some" bid'ah is not misguidance. Just like the general statement المرأة عورة (the woman is 'Awrah) and the Prophet did not give any exception of showing the face and hands, rather this is from the words of some of the Fuqahā', which differ to the understanding and practise of the Sahābah who say that she must cover everything except the eyes to see the road.

Secondly, even if we accept that كل means "Most" in this situation, you must read the context of the full hadīth and it mentions "Every(كل) misguidance is in the hellfire", so the context of the hadīth supports the general statement that كل means "every" and not "most" unless you are disagreeing with the Ijmā' and say "Some misguidance is not in the hell-fire" and this is a very dangerous statement! Also, let's say it means "MOST bid'ah is misguidance and EVERY misguidance is in hellfire" - I would reply by saying, why would the Prophet use the same general wording(كل) in every single hadīth when he is warning against bid'ah, so the previous rule of "giving an exception" is needed, which is lacking. Also, how can the same word(كل) in the same context mean 2 different things, this doesn't make any sense and how would you know which كل means "every" and "most" - That's why I love to stress on the point that we accept it as a general statement, unless there is an exception given by the Prophet(saw).

Finally I would like to finish off this issue with a statement of a Sahābī which demolishes the idea of good bid'ah which we know of no differing of opinion from other Sahābī's, so Abdullah bin 'Umar(ra) said, "Every innovation is misguidance, even if the people regard it as GOOD." And this narration is authentic and reported in Sunan al-Dārimī, so we should avoid every innovation, even if you regard it as good because the Prophet and his Companions would've been the first to do it if they thought it was good والله اعلم

Note: Egypt was ruled by these Heretics for 150 years - Until the true Muwahideen stood up against them such as Abū Bakr al-Nabilsī(rah), the one who had the courage to insult the ruler in his face. This person is the one with the famous quote "If i had 10 arrows, i would throw 9 at the Shī'a and 1 at the romans" but when he was summoned to the mushrik ruler, the ruler asked him, did you really say this, so he replied "No way, if I had 10 arrows, I would throw 9 at the shī'a and 1 at YOU" - After the mushrik ruler got owned, he ordered that he be crucified and they cut his body one by one :( Not only that, they got a jew to slice his skin from head to toe!!

A quiz about the Prophet's Birthday:

The first question: How many times did the Prophet(saw) celebrate his birthday?

The second question: In what place did the Sahābah(ra) hold the first celebration of his birthday?

The third question: What are the types of sweets that were spread on his birthday?

The fourth question: What is the most popular nasheed that was played during the celebration?

Take note: The answer must come from the Qurʾān and the Sunnāh or the narrations of the Sahābah and the Tābiʿeen.

What's the ruling on reciting Sūrat al-Kahf on a Friday?

I'll try my best to summarise it completely inshāʾAllāh, because it is a long discussion - Firstly, the most authentic hadīth on the issue is the Prophet(saw) saying "Whoever memorizes the first 10 verses from Sūrat al-Kahf will be protected from the fitna of al-Dajjāl" - Some scholars differed whether it was the first 10 verses or the last 10 verses of Sūrat al-Kahf, but the majority who narrated it from Qatādah mention the first 10 verses which is more correct.

Either way, there's a hadīth which is authentic on Abū Saʿeed al-Khudrī where he said: "Whoever reads sūrat al-Kahf will have a light that will stretch between him and the Ancient House(the Ka'bah)" - And this hadīth was narrated by Abū Hāshim which has been narrated by Sufyān al-Thawry, al-Shu'bah and other great giants, so this hadīth gets raised to the level of Marfūʿ(So it's on the level of saying "The Prophet said [the hadīth...] which is acted upon and used as proof as mentioned by al-Hāfidh al-ʿIrāqī & others). So this means whoever reads sūrat al-Kahf at any time will have a light that stretches between him and the ka'bah, without specifying a particular day to read it, infact it's Mustahab to read it everyday.

However, there's a narration reported by Al-Dārimī from the narration of Hushaym ibn Bashīr that differs with the narrations mentioned by al-Shu'bah and al-Thawrī which says "Whoever reads sūrat al-Kahf on the day of Jum'ah will have a light that will stretch between him and the Ancient house" - But the narrations mentioned by al-Shu'bah and al-Thawrī are much stronger than the narration of Hushaym ibn Bashīr, and they didn't include this addition of "The day of Jum'ah" and the narration of Hushaym is differed over regarding his authenticity for starters. I would also like to say, even if the narration is authentic, it would be considered Shādh(errent - this means that it is an authentic narration, but differs with another authentic narration which is much stronger than it). Imām Ahmad knows his Shaykh Hushaym more than anyone else with regards to his hadīth and he has said Hushaym never met Abū Hāshim(there is Inqitā' a disconnection), meaning it's ma'lūl(weak) and this is mentioned in his book al-'ilāl where his student Abdullāh quotes it from Imām Ahmad(rah).

It was also narrated by Al-Hākim through the narration of Hamād ibn nu'aym al-Khuzāī and it includes the wording "on the day of Jum'ah" and he also attributed it to the Prophet(saw) and this narration had 2 'ilā's(hidden defects). Firstly, what's correct is the narration stops and is authentic on Abū Sa'eed al-Khudrī and takes the ruling of marfū' as mentioned earlier, and Secondly it has the wording "on the day of Jum'ah" and Hamād ibn nu'aym al-Khuzāī is weak in memorization, the Imām yahya ibn mu'een(rah) said he is trustworthy in his religion, but weak in his memory and Al-Nasāī singled him out by saying he differs a lot with the well known Imāms and his narrations are not to be taken as proof.

So what we should know about this hadīth is that it's not proven the Prophet(saw) said it, but rather it's authentic on Abū Sa'eed al-Khudrī without the addition of "on the day of Jum'ah" as mentioned by Imām Ahmad and others, but it gets raised as a Marfū' hadīth and is acted upon as proof - You guys can read about acting upon the Mursal narrations as well, which you should read from the early scholars, since I don't know the rulings with regards to acting upon the Mursal narration in detail, I have only mentioned what the scholars say on the issue. What is memorised from the Prophet is the hadīth of memorizing the first 10 verses of Sūrat al-Kahf which protects you from al-Dajjāl.

However, in saying all this, it's definitely recommended to read Sūrat al-Kahf at any time and we shouldn't just apply it to Friday, but if someone does blind follow the opinion that it's authentic from some scholars who viewed the above hadīths authentic, then there's no blame on him, but I would recommend that you read Sūrat al-Kahf at any time and not specifically on Jum'ah والله اعلم

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān was asked is it permissible to wipe over socks that have holes in them while making wudū'?

The Shaykh answered:

Praise be to Allah.

The correct view is that it is permissible to wipe over khuff (leather slippers which cover the foot and ankle) or socks that have holes in them. The Prophet ﷺ allowed wiping over khuff and he did not stipulate any condition that they should be whole and free of holes or tears, especially since the khuff of his companions were not free of holes or tears. If this had any effect on whether one could wipe over them, the Prophet ﷺ would have stated that clearly, for one of the basic principles of usool al-fiqh is that it is not permitted to delay explaining something when it is needed.

Imam Sufyaan al-Thawri, may Allah have mercy on him, said:

قال الإمام سفیان النوري رحمه الله: "امسح عليها ما تعلقت به رجلك وهل كانت خفاف المهاجرين والأنصار إلا مخرقة مشققة مرفعة." رواه عبد الرزاق في المصنف 1 / 194

"One may wipe over the khuff so long as it is still clinging to the feet. Were the khuff of the Muhaajireen and Ansaar anything but full of holes and tears?" [Narrated by 'Abd al-Razzaaq in al-Musanaaf, 1/194]

Sheikh al-Islam ibn Taymiyah, may Allaah have mercy on him, said:

قال شيخ الإسلام ابن تيمية رحمه الله: "فلما أطلق الرسول صلى الله عليه وسلم الأمر بالمسح على الخفاف مع علمه بما هي عليه في العادة ولم يشترط أن تكون سليمة من العيوب وجب حمل أمره على الإطلاق ولم يجر أن يقيد كلامه إلا بدليل شرعي . وكان مقتضى لفظه أن كل خف يلبسه الناس ويمشون فيه فلهم أن يمسحوا عليه وإن كان مفتوقاً أو مخروفاً من غير تحديد لمقدار ذلك فإن التحديد لا بدّ له من دليل." الفتاوى 174 / 21

"When the Messenger of Allaah (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) gave the command to wipe over the khuff, he knew what the normal state of affairs was, and he did not stipulate the condition that the socks should be whole and free of any faults. His command should be taken as general in meaning and it should not be restricted unless there is any shar'i evidence for doing so. What is implied by the wording is that any khuff that people wear and walk about in may be wiped over, even if they have holes or are worn out, without defining the acceptable extent for these holes and tears, because even such a definition would require evidence." [Majmoo' al-Fataawa 21/174]

This is also the view of Ishaq, Ibn al-Mubaarak, Sufyan Ibn 'Uyaynah and Abu Thawr may Allah be pleased with them all.

Imam al-Shaafa'i and Ahmad – according to the well-known views narrated from them – said that it is not permissible to wipe over the khuff or socks so long as there are any holes or tears in the place where it is obligatory to do wudoo'. Abu Hanifah and Maalik differentiated between small holes and large holes.

But the correct view is the first view quoted above, which is that it is permissible to wipe over the khuff or socks so long as they are still clinging to the feet and it is still possible to walk in them.

It is also correct to wipe over socks through which the skin can be seen, because the permission to wipe over socks is general and no report of any restriction has been narrated. This implies that any socks which people wear may be wiped over. This is what is implied by those who say that it is permissible to wipe over khuff that are worn out, so long as it is still possible to walk in them.

Imam an-Nawawi, may Allah have mercy on him, mentioned in al-Majmoo' (1/502) that even if a person were to wear khuff made of glass, if it were possible to walk in them then it would be permissible to wipe over them, even though the skin beneath them would be visible.

Some things I would like to share about the methodology of the early scholars compared to the later scholars in the science of hadīth and about some people who talk in such a harsh tone against the giant scholars.

I won't confuse you all, but I would like to say not every scholar of hadīth is an expert in 'ilal(hidden defects) of a hadīth and they would leave it to the experts(even though they are muhadithin, so what about others who talk on the issue) - I've seen some people say "Why did Imām al-Bukhārī say this hadīth has a 'illā(hidden defect), who's the liar in the hadīth" Firstly, the scholars like Imām al-Bukhārī deserve to be talked about with respect and they know hadīth as that's their expertise. Secondly, the scholars of hadīth wouldn't say the hadīth has a 'ilā if there was a liar(Kathāb) in it, because they would reject the hadīth automatically, a 'illā is something which is hidden where only the experts can examine it.

Also, the manhaj of the early scholars differs with the manhaj of the later scholars - Now, there's a famous book on the science of hadīth called "Al-Muqadimmāh" by ibn al-Salāh a great Qādī and Imām, however his expertise was in Fiqh and Usūl, even though he spent alot of effort in hadīth, he cannot be compared to someone like al-Dāraqutnī who is the father of hadīth and has it in his blood. So it's best to follow the manhaj of the early scholars like yahya ibn sa'eed, ali ibn al-madeeni, al-Dāraqutnī, abī hātim, Imām Ahmad, Imām al-Shāfi'ee, abu eesa al-Tirmidhī, Abū Dawūd etc...who know better than anyone else on the issue.

For e.g. With regards to addition of the trustworthy narrator(he might add a word or two to the hadīth), the early scholars authentic this hadīth and say there's nothing wrong with it, infact they have said it's knowledge etc and have written so much on the topic and sometimes the addition is rejected and sometimes it can be accepted depending on the circumstances etc...But the later scholars say, we don't accept the addition of a trustworthy narrator at all and Imām al-Nawawī said this is the view of the Majority of the scholars! Yes, the majority of the Fuqahā who adopt your manhaj of hadīth, but not the manhaj of the muhadithin, rather the opposite is correct, and we can't just talk about another field of the Muhadithin and reject their knowledge where they have written books about and explained in detail.

This is a very big topic, but Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyāh would adopt the manhaj of the early scholars at times in some of his books where he replied to others, and at times adopt the manhaj of the later scholars. Imām ibn 'abdul barr is upon the manhaj of the early scholars completely and a great muhadith, but you have ibn hazm who's upon the manhaj of the later scholars, so we shouldn't rely on his authenticating and weakening, but we can still benefit from his words on the topic. So the same with al-Albānī, he's upon the manhaj of the later scholars, and this involves more inaccuracies with regards to authenticating and weaking hadīth, so that's why we can benefit from his knowledge and apply his knowledge according to the manhaj of the early scholars, but we shouldn't rely on his authenticating and weakening in general.

But anyways, we should speak with knowledge and sometimes you might see a hadīth which is authenticated by Al-Albānī and I will tell you it's weak, because the early scholars such as Imām al-Bukhārī, Imām Ahmad have weakened it, people must understand the differences in the manhaj of the early scholars and later scholars with regards to hadīth, but in saying that, both scholars are respected and we don't insult either of them or call them deviant because this is all based on 'ilm, we simply turn towards the truth and don't act zealously towards a particular scholar and Allāh(swt) knows best.

Must watch - Such a good explanation of Al-Walā' wal-Barā' and Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl has mentioned in other lectures that he visited his family in Jordan, so that's what makes me think he's Jordanian, also because his accent is Shāmī (He speaks fus7a like the Saudi's, but if you analyse his accent, there's some Shāmiyyāh behind it) 🇸🇦

Either way, the most important part of the video is teaching al-Walā wal barā and the environment you raise your kids - You don't want your future kids to be non muslim. Infact, Many mosques that were established in America were by Muslims, but later became christians subhānAllāh and the same with their ancestors. May Allāh(swt) protect us.

Where are our feelings for one another? When Omar(ra) saw the Prophet(saw) crying, he would want to know why he is crying so he could cry with him and if it doesn't make him cry, he would force himself to cry and that's Omar!

If you laugh, I want to laugh with you.
If you're sad, I want to be sad with you.

The Messenger of Allāh said in the authentic hadīth: "I'm the Prophet of Mercy, and the Prophet of War"
~ [Musnad al-Imām Ahmad]

There is no contradiction in this hadīth, rather your inferiority complex and ignorance is making it contradictory - The Prophet(saw) would show mercy to everyone, even to those that oppressed him! He would forgive and smile to those that wronged him, he would become very angry if he saw any innocent person killed, he even forbid his companions from cutting down a tree at War, let alone an innocent human being!

However, with regards to the enemies of Islām, he will fight them and humiliate them, however if they surrender, he will accept it from them and forgive them and take them to a place of safety so they can hear the words of Allāh - Which is why he was upset when Usāma ibn Zayd killed the man who said the Shahādah and the Prophet asked him "Did you open to see what's in his heart" and Usāma regretted it so badly that day after the condemnation of the Prophet.

Whoever says the Shahādah is to be taken to safety and let them prove that they are muslims who are praying and fasting - However the rulings with apostates are different, especially if they are from the distorted sects, those that apostated from islām like the Taqiyyāh sects, some don't accept their Tawbah, however if they make Tawbah before they are captured, you should accept it from them, but keep an eye on them. However if it is other apostates such as rejectors of Zakāt, then they are given the choice to repent from what they disbelieved in or else they will be fought without accepting their Shahādah at all. Ibn Kathir has praised a couple of companions that apostated, but returned back to islām and called them courageous warriors etc....Because Allāh(swt) forgives every sin, including shirk if you make Tawbah.

May Allāh(swt) guide us to the straight path and this is the Prophet(saw) talking about himself in the authentic hadīth I mentioned, so no one should feel shy about it and only mention the first part and Allāh(swt) knows best.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān has said the hadīth "Whoever marries has completed half his deen, so he should fear Allāh with regards to the other half" is mentioned by al-Hākim and its Sanad is differed over its authenticity.

However there's no doubt that marriage is the Sunnāh of the Prophets(as) and a part of Islām and the Shaykh quotes Imām Ahmad saying "Whoever calls you to other than marriage has called you to other than islām" and Imām Ahmad has also said "Celibacy has nothing to do with islām" - Celibacy is living a life where you are deprived from the blessings of marriage like the christian priests.

Some brothers think that if they get married, they cannot study islām which is incorrect and the Shaykh encourages the young ones to get married as marriage gives you chastity.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'Ulwān was asked is it permissible for a woman to dye her eyebrows and he replied: "There's nothing wrong with it, as long as she doesn't dye it the same colour as her skin colour to the extend that it looks like it has been plucked, then there's nothing wrong with it.

SubhānAllāh - The Prophet(saw) said that wealth is one of the greatest fitna's for our ummāh. Some people come to the west to make money and live a nice life which is so wrong. The Shaykh narrates a story of a man who went to the west and married a beautiful wife and got kids from her and worked very hard to get a nice house. Once his kids were 15, they would have BF's/GF's and he hit his son when he saw him with a girl, and he knew his children were doing harām, but after warning his kids and wife, his wife called the cops on him and he got imprisoned for 3 years for "preventing freedom and assault against his kids". None of his family visited him and the laws are in favour of the woman and she took everything from him, no matter how hard he worked, then he realised that it was his fault for what he initially did. He doesn't even consider his children on the deen, they can't even recite Sūrat al-Fātiha properly. SubhānAllāh, there's so much more to say, but this is sufficient inshā'Allāh.

It is possible to commit "Shirk al-Mahabbāh" - The Shirk of Love by abandoning your Salāh because you are basically telling Allāh(swt) that you would rather focus your time on other things instead of praying to your creator.

And as Ustādh Muhammad al-Bizry told me "If you find yourself spending alot of time on something, whatever it may be - It means you care about it" Therefore, if you are neglecting your Salāh, it's possible that you're telling Allāh that you care about the dunyā more than praying to the one who created the creation and the dunyā for the sake of worshipping Allāh. May Allāh(swt) guide us all to the right path and make it easy for the abandoners of Salāh to start praying again without being on & off inshā'Allāh.

The = ال = Al

Sun = شمس = Shams

The Sun = الشَّمس = A-Shams

The "L" in "Al" is removed because Shīn (ش) is a Solar letter, however the "L" must be pronounced if it was a Lunar letter like ب for e.g. ["Al-Bayt" - 'The House']. The solar and lunar letters are shown in the picture below:

The saying "Jum'ah Mubārak" doesn't make any sense in the Arabic language, and the person who says this lacks knowledge in Arabic Grammar and it's correctly said as "Jum'ah Mubārakah" because both words must be feminine, you can't say هذه الشجرة you must say الشجرة هذه or if I can explain it better in english, Jum'ah Mubārak is like saying "She's a Man".

What is the ruling on dying your hair black?

There are 3 different opinions on this issue and I have given my preferred view in the final paragraph, so feel free to read inshā'Allāh:

Opinion #1. It is harām and this is one of the opinions in the Madhab of Imām al-Shāfi'ee(rah) and a group of scholars. The proof they used was the hadīth in sahih muslim where Jābir ibn 'Abdullāh reported that Abū Quhāfah was brought on the day of فتح مكة (the conquest of makkāh) and his head and beard were white like thaghāmah(a plant whose flowers and fruit are white). The Messenger of Allāh said: "Change this (your hair) with something, but avoid black" The second proof they used was the hadīth reported by Imām Ahmad where ibn 'Abbās said: The Messenger of Allāh said: "At the end of time, there will be a people who will dye their hair black like the crops of pigeons. They will never even smell the fragrance of Paradise". These are the two main hadīth's used to prove that dying the hair black is harām.

Opinion #2. It is Makrūh(disliked) and this is mentioned by Imām Mālik and is the opinion of the majority of the scholars. The proof they used was البراءة الأصلية "Original Disassociation" [Everything is Halāl until proven Harām with an authentic text from the Qur'an and the Sunnāh] and that is lacking here. And with regards to the hadīth in Sahih Muslim, there's a difference of opinion among the scholars whether the words "avoid black" is the Prophet's words or if the narrator added these words. And they have said, even if it's the Prophet's words, then this doesn't prove that dying the hair black is harām, because if we look at the words in the hadīth carefully, the Prophet says "change this" which is an order and the words "avoid this" is also an order by the Prophet, however "change this" doesn't mean that it's compulsory to dye your hair and "avoid black" doesn't mean it's harām to dye it black, but rather "change this" means it's recommended to dye your hair and "avoid black" means it's disliked to dye your hair black. And they have responded to the hadīth mentioned in the musnad of Imām Ahmad where the Prophet said: "At the end of time, there will be a people who will dye their hair black like the crops of pigeons. They will never even smell the fragrance of Paradise", so they have stated that this hadīth is differed over it's authenticity and even if the hadīth was authentic, it doesn't prove that dying the hair black is harām because if you read the hadīth carefully, the Prophet is talking about a group of people who will come in the end of times who will have their hair dyed black and they will never smell the fragrance of Paradise, so they will be known as having dyed their hair black, however the reason why they won't smell the fragrance of Paradise is because of their deviant beliefs and bad actions, not because of dying their hair black. To prove this is because the Prophet warned against the Khawārij and said a group of people will come and they will have their heads shaved(the Khawārij) and they will be the worst of creation and will be the dogs of the hell-fire. However, this doesn't mean that the person who shaves his head will be in the hell-fire, but rather the Prophet is describing their characteristics and qualities. So therefore, we say that there is no proof that dying the hair black is harām and it's proven from several companions of the Prophet that they dyed their hair black, and they would understand the Prophet's statements better than those who came after them.

Opinion #3. It is completely halāl and this is the statement of al-hassan and al-hussein and 'uthmān ibn 'affān and one of the opinions in the Hanafī madhab which is the view of Abū Yūsuf and a group of scholars, and they have also used the proof of البراءة الأصلية "Original Disassociation" that there is not a single hadīth on this topic that is authentic where the Prophet(saw) prohibited dying the hair black. They have stated regarding the نهى (prohibition) that either the hadīth is authentic, but it's not clear and this is only 1 hadīth reported by Imām Ahmad and Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān has rejected this hadīth because Abdul al-Karīm al-Jizrī never saw Sa'eed ibn jubair to narrate from him. However there was a dispute concerning this hadīth and some scholars have used it as proof to prohibit dying the hair black, however ibn Abī 'āsīm said "There's no proof that it's disliked to use black dye, rather it is a description of a people who have this attribute". They have also stated that the نهى (prohibition) in the hadīths is clear, but not authentic and there are about 15 hadīths on the topic, the most authentic of them is the hadīth in Sahīh Muslim and the prohibition is not authentic that the Prophet(saw) said so, but rather the narrator added it in - The hadīth has come through the narration of Abī al-Zubayr from Jābir ibn 'abdillāh, and there are 7 different narrators that Abī al-Zubayr narrated from and the wording "avoid black" comes in 5 narrations:

1. Ibn Jurayj (and he did not say(or declare) that he heard it from Abī al-Zubayr)
2. Ayūb al-Sakhtiyānī, and the narration isn't authentic on Ayūb
3. Layth ibn Abī salīm, and his situation is well known, and there's a consensus mentioned upon his weakness - Some of the contemporary scholars thought he was Layth ibn sa'd which isn't correct.
4. Al-Ajlāh ibn 'abdillāh al-kandī, and he has been spoken against by the scholars such as Imām Ahmad and others, and he's not to be used as proof.
5. Matr al-Warāq, and he's weak and the path towards him is even weaker!

So what's dependant on is the narration of ibn jurayj alone. And the ones who didn't mention the wording "avoid black" are 2 narrations:

1. Zuhayr ibn Mu'āwiyah, and 7 narrators have narrated from him, and he's not disagreed upon, and in his narration he said: I asked Abī al-Zubayr: Did Jābir say "avoid black", he replied: No.
2. 'Uzra ibn Thābit, and the Isnād(chain) towards him is authentic and he narrated this hadīth without adding the wording "avoid black".

So what's proven here is that the addition "avoid black" is not authentic on the Prophet and how can anyone claim that ibn jurayj heard it from Abī al-Zubayr when it's proven that ibn jurayj dyed his hair black, and it's also authentically proven on 10 companions that they dyed their hair black, among them are:

1. 'Omar ibn al-Khattāb
2. 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān
3. Sa'd ibn Abī Waqās
4. 'Uqba ibn 'āmer
5. Al-Mughīrah ibn Shu'bah
6. Jarīr ibn 'Abdillāh
7. 'Amr ibn al-'ās
8. Al-Hassan ibn 'Alī ibn Abī Tālib
9. Al-Hussein ibn 'Alī ibn Abī Tālib
10. 'Abdullāh ibn Ja'far

And it's not authentically proven that the companions differed with them in this - It has also been proven that 29 Imāms from the Tābi'n(successors) or even more dyed their hair black whose names were mentioned by ibn al-Qayyim in Zād al-Ma'ād(4/337) and al-Baghawī in Sharh al-Sunnāh(12/94).

So I personally believe that the strongest opinion is that it's permissible to dye your hair black, however it's probably safer to avoid doing so even if it's not harām, since the majority of scholars disliked doing so - But this is not democracy here, we are muslims who follow the evidence. I would also like to mention that there is ljmā' that it's forbidden to dye your hair black if you are trying to make yourself look younger for marriage as that is deceit, and ibn hajr al-'Asqalānī has mentioned an ljmā' that it's permissible to dye your hair to terrify the enemies at war. So this is the view of the scholars and Allāh(swt) knows best.

The greatness of a scholar over a" فضل العالم على العابد كفضل القمر على سائر الكواكب The hadīth layman is like the greatness of the moon over the rest of the stars" is differed upon regarding its authenticity - I believe it's weak, however there is no doubt that the scholar is greater than the layman, but this doesn't apply to every scholar, it only applies to the scholar who acts upon his .knowledge and mixes it with worship as mentioned by Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān

Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl would tell you it's a close call and many of his students would talk about ahādīth and he would respect their view and how strong they see the narration - Authenticating and العلم weakening is based upon knowledge, not desires

This shī'a dog is the one who wrote the book "A'isha the adulterous" - I wish I can get my hands on him and bash him until he dies.

Either way, this video proves that the shī'a can't even prove the fundamental belief in their own religion - Tawheed and Shirk in the shī'a religion revolves around the Imāms, not Allāh like in Islām.

The shī'a have a lot of kufr which is easy to refute, however instead of debating them on other issues, simply ask them "Give me a clear verse from the Qur'ān that says 'Alī is the Imām" Wallāhi they won't be able to and shī'as who I know in real life have told me "I don't know, I'm not a scholar" subhānAllāh - Even your scholars don't know ya miskeen, they are just deceiving you.

Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān was asked: Is it permissible to make takfeer upon the abandoner of Salāh individually?

He answered: If it's proven that he's not ignorant, and I believe that the abandoner of Salāh is a Kāfir, and you showed him the ruling and he refused to abandon it, then there's no prevention from calling him a Kāfir if it's proven to the person with absolute proof, and the people of knowledge differentiate between ruling upon the individual and between ruling upon in general, so Ahl al Sunnāh rule upon generally and do not rule upon the individual, until the conditions have been met and the preventions(of takfeer) have been removed, so if the conditions have been met in this issue and the preventions(of takfeer) have been removed, and the person views that the abandoner of Salāh is a Kāfir, then there's no prevention from ruling upon this man that he's a Kāfir, knowing that he doesn't pray and views the abandoner of Salāh as a Kāfir"

It's recommended to sleep on your right side as mentioned that the Prophet(saw) used to do so in the Sahīhayn, however it's completely permissible to sleep on your left side, back side or on your stomach as there is no authentic hadīth which forbids doing so.

As for the hadīth where the prophet(saw) said that the person who sleeps on his stomach is considered the sleep of the people of hell-fire, some scholars have authenticated this hadīth, however what's correct is this hadīth is weak as it was pointed out and mentioned by al-Imām al-Bukhārī and al-Imām al-Dāraqutnī in the books "al-īlal" and in the chain of the hadīth is a person called Yahya ibn abī kathīr and the chain contains defects(there's no stability - weakness). Therefore sleeping on your stomach is permissible without it being disliked as there is not a single authentic hadīth which prohibits it والله اعلم

A muslim should not say "Why did Allāh reveal this", "Why did Allāh command the women to wear the Hijāb etc..." Shaykh Sulaymān al-'ulwān was asked: If the abandoner of Salāh repented, is it a must upon him to catch up on what he previously missed from the prayers?

The Shaykh answered: If he repented, he should ask Allāh(swt) for forgiveness, and increase in his obedience and seeking of forgiveness, and to draw himself closer to Allāh(جلا وعلا) what he is able too, so this can be an expiation of what has passed, and there's no need for him to repeat what was missed from the prayers, and if he made Hajj, there's no need to repeat his Hajj, or to repeat his fasts, or other than that, but rather if he repents for example in the time of dhuhr, he would pray Salāt al-Dhuhr, and if he repented after 'Asr, he would pray Dhuhr and 'Asr, according to the view of the majority, if he repented after 'ishā', he would pray Maghrib and 'ishā', according to the view of the majority, and does he renew his marriage contract? What's correct: That he doesn't renew the marriage contract, because there is no proof of this.

If the Shayātīn were shackled throughout the month of Ramadān, why are there still sins in Ramadān?

Some scholars said it's because only the heads of the Shayātīn are shackled! Others have said, even if all the Shayātīn were locked up, the human-self is inclined to evil in itself. When ones devil is shackled in Ramadān yet he is evil or worse during Ramadān, then he is worse than his own Shaytān!!

I have brought 14 Tafseer's(There was 41 I wanted to translate, but this should be enough atm) from our great 'ulemā' who have said that the Niqāb is compulsory - I was going to write a long article regarding Niqāb how it's proven in the Qur'ān, Sunnāh and the actions of the Sahābah and answering some questions regarding the misconceptions of those who say you can show the face, but I have decided to just bring the words of the scholars for the mean time and come back to this topic another time inshā'Allāh because I've been busy with other things, so you are free to have a read:

1. The interpreter of the Qur'an ibn 'abbās(rah) said about the verse: { O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves of their Jilbab(garments)}: "Allah(swt) ordered the believing women if they left their houses for a need to cover their faces from above their heads with their cloaks and to leave one eye" [Al-Tabari(19/181)]. More to come soon(from Al-Tabari).

2. The mufasssir Yahya ibn Salam al-taymi al-basri al-Qayrawani(rah) :[Died 200AH] said about the tafsir of Allah's statement: { O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves of their Jilbab(garments). That is more suitable that they will be known and not be abused. And ever is Allah Forgiving and Merciful.} He(rah) said: "And the Jilbab: is the loose outer garment that's used to cover (her body with), and to(also) cover the right part of her face, her right eye and her nose"

3. The Imam of the Mufasssireen al-Imam Abu Ja'far al-Tabari(rah) :[Died 310AH] said in his tafsir of the words of Allah: {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the women of the believers to bring down over themselves of their Jilbab(garments). That is more suitable that they will be known and not be abused. And ever is Allah Forgiving and Merciful.} He(rah) said: "Allah(swt) says to remind his prophet Muhammad(saw): { O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women} to not imitate the slave women in their dresscode if they leave their houses for their needs, so that they reveal their hair and faces, but rather to bring down over themselves of their garments, lest they get afflicted by a Fasiq if he knew that they were free women from harmful words. Furthermore, the people of interpretation have differed on the description of the covering that Allah(swt) ordered, so some have said that it's to cover their faces and heads, and not to reveal from them except one eye. He mentioned who said this: Ali narrated to me who narrated from Abu Salih who narrated from Mu'awiyah from Ali from ibn 'abbas about the verse {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves of their garments} "Allah(swt) ordered the believing women if they left their houses for a need to cover their faces from above their heads with their cloaks and to leave one eye". Ya'qub narrated to me who narrated from ibn 'ulya from ibn 'awn from Muhammad from 'ubaidah about the verse: {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the women of the believers to bring down over themselves of their garments} "so ibn 'awn demonstrated infront of us, he said: and it was worn by Muhammad. Muhammad said: and 'Ubaidah wore it infront of us. He said ibn 'awn demonstrated, so he covered his nose, and his left eye, and left his right eye(to see), and lowered his garment from the top until it was near his eyebrows or on the eyebrow". Ya'qub narrated to me who narrated from Hushaym who was informed by Hisham from ibn Sireen(rah) who said: I asked 'Ubaidah(rah) about the verse {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the women of the believers to bring down over themselves of their garments.}: So he demonstrated by his clothes, so he covered his head, and his face, and he placed his clothes over one of his eyes" And others said: "Rather they(the women) were ordered to tighten their garments over their foreheads" End Quote...He afterwards mentioned who said this. [Jam'i al-Bayan fi Tafseer al-Qur'an (19/180-182)]

4. The mufasssir al-'Allamah Abu Bakr ibn 'Ali al-Razi(rah) :[died 370AH] He said about the tafsir of the verse {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the women of the believers to bring down over themselves of their Jilbab(garments).} He mentioned some of the previous narrations from ibn 'Abbas(rah) and Umm Salamah and 'Ubaidah and al-Hassan and afterwards said: Abu Bakr said: "There is proof from this verse that the mature woman is ordered to cover her face from the strangers and revealing what's covered and her chastity while she goes out, might tempt the people of suspicion about them(the women), and this is proof that the slave women is not supposed to cover her face and hair because of Allah's statement "And the believing women" is apparent that he intended the free women, and it's also narrated in the tafsir, lest they become like the slave women, who are not ordered to cover the head and the face, so he ordered the covering to differentiate between the free women from the slave women" End quote [Ahkam al-Qur'an (5/244-245)]

5. The Mufasssir al-Imam Abu al-Muthafar al-Sam'ani(rah) [died 489AH]: He said: "And the statement of Allah(swt): { bring down over themselves of their Jilbab(garments)} Yes: To cover herself with the Jilbab, and the Jilbab is the loose outer garment, and it is the sheet that the woman covers with over her torso(chest) and Khimar(veil). 'Ubaidat al-Salmāni said: The woman covers up with her Jilbab, so that she covers her head and her face and all of her body except one eye" End Quote [Tafsir al-Qur'an (4/306-307)]

6. The Mufasssir, the Jurist 'Emad al-deen al-Tabari(rah) [Died 504AH]:
He said: { O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves of their Jilbab(garments)} "The Jilbab: it is the loose outer garment, so he ordered them to cover their faces and their heads and he didn't command the slave women to do that" End Quote [Ahkam al-Qur'an (4/354)]

7. The Mufasssir al-Imam al-Baghawi(rah) [Died 516AH]:
He said: { O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves of their Jalābīb(garments)} "The plural of Jilbab, it is the sheet that the woman covers with over her torso(chest) and Khimar(veil), and ibn 'Abbas(ra) and Abu 'Ubaidah(ra) said: The believing women were ordered to cover their heads and their faces with the Jilbab, except one eye to know that they are free women { That is more suitable that they will be known} that they are free women { and not be abused} so they aren't exposed to being subjected." End quote [Tafsir al-Baghawi (3/586)]

8. The Mufasssir al-'Allamah Abu Bakr ibn al-'Arabi al-Maliki(rah) [Died 543AH]:
"The people differed over the Jilbab based upon similar wordings for its purpose: That it's the clothing that covers the body, however they divided it here to be said: That it's the loose outer garment, and it's said: That it's the face covering. Allah's saying {to bring down over themselves} it's said: It means to cover her head over her Khimar(veil). And it's said: To cover her face until nothing is shown except one eye. And what made them categorize it, is that they saw the covering and the Hijab in which was previously firmly established in its meaning, and this addition came on top of it and has been associated with the evidence that comes after it, which makes it clearer and it's the saying of Allah(swt) { That is more suitable that they will be known} and what's apparent: is that this deprives the meaning of covering alot, so it's proven that he meant to differentiate them from the slave women who walk around uncovered or with a single veil who are subjected to by the men, so they uncover them and talk to them, so if she wore a Jilbab and covered herself, that would be a protection between her and between the subject of (bad) words and the one who relies on inflicting harm" End Quote [Ahkam al-Qur'an(3/1586)]

9. The Mufasssir al-'Allamah ibn 'Attiyyah al-Andalusi(rah) [Died 546AH]:
He said about the tafsir of Allah's saying: {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves their Jilbab(garments)}. That is more suitable that they will be known and not be abused. And ever is Allah Forgiving and Merciful.}. He said: "When the customs of the arab women was despised & degraded in the meaning of their Hijab(covering), and they used to reveal their faces just like the slave women do, and that used to be an invitation for the men to glance at them and to diverge them to thinking about them, Allah(swt) ordered his messenger(saw) to order them to bring down over themselves their Jilbab so that they can be covered and to clearly differentiate between the free women and the slave women, so the free women are known to be covered, to prevent being subjected from those flirts or young men and it's narrated that there was in Madina a group of people who would sit on the mounts to look at the women and subjecting them and propositioning them, so the verse was revealed about that, and the Jilbab: (is) A cloth bigger than the veil, and it's narrated from ibn 'Abbas and ibn Mas'ud that it is the outer loose garment and the people differed over its picture of covering, so ibn 'Abbas and 'Ubaidah al-Salmāni said that is what a woman wears until nothing is shown from her except one eye to see, and ibn 'Abbas and Abu Qatadah also said and that is to be worn over the forehead and to tighten it, then curve it around the nose, so that her eye is shown, however she covers the chest and the majority of the face and Allah's saying {That's more suitable that they will be known} yes, being totally different, so that they don't get mixed up with the slave women, so if she is known, she won't be subjected to harm from the opposition who will see her as a noble free woman, and(this verse "more suitable to be known") it doesn't mean to know who the identity of the woman actually is, and whenever Omar used to see a slave woman who covered her head, he would hit her with a stick to uncover her head to preserve the dresscode of the free women, and the rest of the verse is aspiration and gentleness and incitement(urge) for Tawbah(repentance) and having hope in the mercy of Allah" End Quote [Al-Muharrar al-Wajeez fi tafseer al-kitab al-'aziz (13/99-100)]

10. The Mufasssir al-Hafidh Abu Faraj ibn al-Jawzi(rah) [Died 597AH]
He said about the verse of Allah(swt) { O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves their Jilbab(garments).}: "The cause for its revelation was because the Evil-Sinners used to harm the women if they went out at night, so if they saw a woman that has a head covering, they would leave her and said she's a free woman, and if they saw her without a head covering, they said she is a slave woman, so they harmed her, so this verse was revealed, Al-Sudi said, and the statement of Allah: { to bring down over themselves their Jilbab(garments).} ibn Qutaibah said: They wear the Robe, and others said: They cover their heads and their faces, to know that they are free women. {That's more suitable} Yes, more appropriate and closer {That they be known} that they are free women {So they aren't harmed}..." End Quote [Zaad al-Maseer (6/422)]

11. The Mufasssir al-'Allamah al-Mufasssir al-Fakhr al-Razi(rah) [Died 606AH]
He said about the verse of Allah (swt): {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves their Jilbab (garments).}He said: "In the days of ignorance, the free women and slave women used to go out uncovered, exposing their adornments, so accusations fell (upon them), so Allah (swt) ordered the free women to cover up and his saying { That is more suitable that they will be known and not be abused} It's said: To be known that they are free women, so they aren't exposed, and it could also be said: The meaning: To be known that they don't show off their adornments, because whoever covers her face without(believing) it being a 'Awrah, it won't come to her mind that she is revealing her 'Awrah("the adornments" because the Niqab is covering it), so she will be known to be covered." End Quote [Tafsir al-Kabir (25/230)]

12. Al-Mufasssir al-Imām al-Khāzan(rah) [Died 741]
He said: {O prophet say to your wives and your daughters and the believing women to lower} meaning to lower and cover {upon them with their Jalābīb} the plural of Jilbāb, it is the sheet that the woman covers with over her torso(chest) and Khimār, and it's said that it is the sheet, and everything that is used to cover with from a cloak or other than it. Ibn 'Abbās said: "The believing women were ordered to cover their heads and faces with the Jilbāb except one eye, to know that they are free women and it's the saying of Allah(swt) {That is more suitable that they be known and won't be harmed} meaning that they don't get subjected. End Quote [Tafseer al-Khāzan(3/478)]

13. The Mufasssir al-Imam al-'izz ibn 'Abdul Salam(rah) [Died 660AH]
He said: {Al-Jalabib} The Jilbab: is the outer loose garment or the veil or every cloth that a woman wears above her clothes and lowering it to include her head and to put it above the Khimar until no opening is seen from her neck or to cover her face until nothing is shown except her left eye {To be known} from the slaves with the free women or from the Mutabarijjat(those who go out uncovered) with the covered up women. Qatadah said: If the slave woman passed by, the hypocrites used to afflict harm on her, so Allah(swt) prevented the free women to imitate them" End quote [Tafseer al-'izz ibn 'abdul Salam(2/590)]

14. The great mufasssir al-Imam al-Qurtubi(rah) [Died 671AH]
He said: {O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the believing women to bring down over themselves their Jilbab (garments).} "When the customs of the arab women were despicable and they used to show their faces just like the slave women and that was an invitation for the men to look at them and to diverge them into thinking about them, Allah (swt) ordered his Messenger (saw) to command the lowering of the Jilbab upon them if they wanted to leave for their needs and they used to disappear in the desert before they used to cover up, so there would be a difference between them and the slave women, so the free women would be known by covering, to resist from subjectors who was a flirter or a young man and the woman was from the believing women before this verse was sent down, they used to go for their needs and would be subjected by some of the evil doers who thought she was a slave woman, so she yells at him so he goes away, so they asked about that to the prophet(saw) and the verse was revealed for that reason, and al-Hassan and others have said the meaning of; thirdly the statement of Allah {their Jilbabs} The Jalabib is the plural of Jilbab and it is the cloth which is bigger than the Khimar, and it's narrated on ibn 'abbas and ibn mas'ud that it's the outer loose garment and it's said that it's the face covering, and what's most correct is that it's the garment that covers all of the body" End Quote [Tafseer al-Qurtubi (14/243)]

'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd(rah) said: The Prophet(saw) said, "You must be truthful. Truthfulness leads to dutifulness and dutifulness leads to the Garden (الجنة). A man continues to tell the truth until he is written as a Siddiq (Most truthful) with Allāh. Beware of lying. Lying leads to error and error leads to the Fire. A man continues to lie until he is written as a liar with Allāh."

Commentary: With regards to the word Al-Birr (البرّ) translated as dutifulness(or righteousness), Al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr al-'Asqalānī(rah) said "Basically, it is being extensive in doing good deeds; it is a word that is employed for all good deeds but particularly used for a continuous pure deed." So, truthfulness leads to deeds that are free from fault and is continuous, upon which the person dies. May Allāh(swt) grant us this out of His favour and mercy. He is written as a Siddiq (صديق) which refers to truthfulness becoming from his innate disposition as lying becomes from the instinctive disposition of the one who lies until he is written with Allāh(swt) as a liar. This hadīth clearly warns against lying - May Allāh(swt) protect us from lying and make us from among the Most Truthful!

I love this hadīth so much that I recite it to myself almost every day - The prophet(saw) said "Show mercy and you will be shown mercy. Forgive and Allāh will forgive you. Woe to the people who merely catch words but do not remember them (and follow them). Woe to those who persist, who knowingly continue in what wrong they are doing."

I would like to share something about some of the flaws in western education - Schools in the west teach and encourage students to have an opinion on every topic they write/talk about. Now, there's nothing wrong with asking students questions(testing them etc...) and getting them to think, however asking students to write essays about a topic they haven't researched or have any qualifications about is really stupid.

They want everyone to have an opinion, whether it is right or wrong, they say "Keep trying again and again until you get it right" whereas in Islām we do not encourage people to speak without knowledge and encourage them to make mistakes until they get something right. There are engineers who have specialised in some fields of studies and just imagine if they hear some student giving his own opinion from a small excerpt he read in class that his teacher asked him about - Heck, even the information mentioned in those articles aren't always accurate, let alone having a student that knows nothing about Surgery and Engineering talking about things that the latter specialise in.

So I definitely think it's completely wrong to allow anyone give his opinion on an issue and make them feel like their opinion matters when they are absolutely ignorant - This also applies to deen, where you should only speak about things you know about and give your opinions based upon evidence from the Qur'ān & Sunnāh. Mathematicians go back to formula's and methods to solve a problem, so the same with Islām, different methods can lead to the right path with certain matters of Islām, but our original source is the Qur'ān and Sunnāh to go through such methods and Allah(swt) knows best.

I would like to share something about "Judging by the apparent" and some of the dangers on making takfir.

If a muslim is wearing a shirt that has a cross(صليب), that's harām and the shirt should be torn, but it's not kufr according to al-'ulwān - However wearing the actual cross is kufr as you are agreeing with the shirk behind it. It would also be shirk if you wore the shirt for that reason, but it's not kufr if the shirt already had it there and you just wore it as a shirt.

We are a nation of verification, not a nation of doubts - Just because muslims are committing sins that a kāfir does, it doesn't mean we can say "The apparent is that they are kuffār" because this leads to making takfir upon major sins. We can't assume things like "They seem to be more christian than muslim" Since when did judging by the apparent be a doubtful matter that anyone can make Ijtihād on without verifying who the people are and what are their motives behind them.

If someone is worshipping a grave, no one would disagree that such a person is a kāfir - However, the problem is when you claim others are kuffār when you are not 100% certain. Before making takfeer, you must have clear verification and clear proof. There are preventions on making takfeer upon an individual and we must follow these guidelines carefully or else we will fall into clear deviation and Allah(swt) knows best.

I read an article written by a student of Shaykh Ahmad Jibrīl who transcribed a lecture from the Shaykh and it says that "Suicide is kufr" on one of the Shaykhs websites - I've heard the same thing from ibn uthaymeen that the person who commits suicide will be stabbing himself forever in hellfire, but I'm confused because I've heard others say it's a major sin and only becomes kufr if you make it halāl.

I haven't researched the issue, but if someone here has, could they help out inshā'Allāh - Jazākum Allahu Khayran.

The ruling on a woman entering the Masjid during her menses has three different opinions regarding this issue:

1. It's not permissible for her to enter the mosque, and this is what's most known on the Madhab of Imām Mālik and al-Shāfi'ī, and the اهل الرأي (Hanafī's) and one of the sayings in the madhab of Imām Ahmad, and they used as evidence the prophet's saying "I do not permit the menstrator or junb(post sexual state) to be in the mosque" and the prophets saying to Ai'sha(ra) "perform what a pilgrim does, except that you don't do Tawāf" and the hadīth is agreed upon its authenticity, and they used as proof that the prophet(saw) "Prevented the menstrator to be present at the Eīd prayer" and the hadīth is agreed upon its authenticity.

2. It's permissible to enter the mosque for a need and a necessity, and this was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyāh(rah) with proof that the prophet(saw) "placed a tent(covering) for the black woman" which was narrated by Al-Bukhārī, and the scholars have said, this woman must've been menstrating, and the prophet(saw) did not prevent placing a covering for her in the mosque, and we can derive from this that the menstrator can attend gatherings and studies of knowledge and other than it.

3. It's permissible to enter the mosque as long as she abstains staining the floor, and this is the Madhab spoken from Mālik and one of the 2 sayings in the Shāfi'ī madhab, and Ahmad, and this is the saying of the Dhāhiriyyāh, chosen by ibn hazm(rah), and it has strength with the proof of the saying of prophet(saw) to Ai'sha(ra) "Get me the mat from the mosque.' She said: 'I am menstruating.' He said: 'Your menstruation is not in your hands.' " narrated by Imām Muslim(rah), and these scholars use the proof of البراءة الاصلية "Original disassociation"[everything is halāl until proven harām] in that there is not a single authentic hadīth which proves it's not allowed, and the reply to the narration "I do not permit the menstrator or junb(post sexual state) to be in the mosque" is a report which isn't authentic and the reasons to prove its weakness are many...ibn hazm(rah) said the hadīth is false.

And my answer to the hadīth of 'Ā'isha[not allowed to make tawāf] is that this is reported about Tawāf and has nothing to do with entering the mosque, and this is apparent. And my answer to the prevention of the prophet(saw) for the menstrator to move away from the musallāh of the muslims, the Musallāh meaning the place that people are praying in and not the actual mosque itself, so the menstrator would be far away from the Musallāh that people pray in, so that the praying women don't get disturbed and or cause a problem for them, or similar to it, and Allah(swt) knows best.

There's a difference of opinion regarding Smoking in Islām, so bare with me Inshā'Allāh:

There's a difference of opinion among the scholars regarding this issue of smoking. Al-Imām al-Shawkāki[rah] says it's Halāl. A group of scholars have said it's Makrūh(disliked). And other scholars have said it's Harām.

The correct opinion is that it's Harām because there are medical research and studies which prove that smoking is bad for your body, therefore many scholars have said "Anything that causes harm to your body is Harām".

Others have said it's harām because it's considered as إسراف (excessive spending), however this is not correct as there is a difference between تبذير (spending upon something that's not needed) and إسراف (excessive spending). Many people spend upon things which are not needed, however we cannot derive a حكم (ruling) out of this and call it "excessive spending" or else we're going to call many things in the Sharī'ah that are Halāl into Harām based upon this reasoning والله اعلم

In my eyes, I can see that the muslims are uniting more and more everyday. This is not just any type of unity, but a unity of Tawheed, uniting upon the Qur'ān and the Sunnāh. Nothing enrages them more than seeing the muslims being united upon ordaining the good and forbidding the evil. Their evil actions is what unites us even more. You don't know how happy I am seeing the hearts of the believers reunite for the sake of Allah(swt) 🤗 The messages I've been receiving lately from brothers telling me that they want to start practising the deen makes me cry, because they've realised the true meaning of happiness and success. And what makes me even more happier is having Allah(swt) accept the du'ā I made for my brothers and sisters and seeing them return back to Allah(swt). Be happy and don't ever lose hope in Allah(swt) because Allah(swt) has something special for all of us. Remain patient and see the glad-tidings of Allah(swt) come right in front of your eyes 🤞

Brothers and Sisters - Always remember to renew your niyyah(intentions) for fasting, because without it, your fast is Bātil(invalid)!

There's also no need to say your intentions loudly - Because the place for intentions is in the heart, and not on the tongue. This applies to all acts of worship such as making wudu', salāh, fasting, Hajj etc...

Openly saying your intentions is an innovation because the prophet(saw) used to fast, pray and make wudu' without saying "O Allah, I intend to fast"... "O Allah, I intend to pray"... O Allah, I intend to make wudu' etc...

"Say, Whether you conceal what is in your breasts or reveal it, Allah knows it. And He knows that which is in the heavens and that which is on the earth. And Allah is over all things competent." - Surat Aali 'Imran [3:29]

What's the ruling on saying Bismillāh before slaughtering an animal?

What's most correct from the sayings of the scholars is that there's a difference between the one who intentionally leaves out the Tasmiyah(Basmallah), which makes his slaughter unlawful and between the one who forgot to mention the Basmallah, so his slaughter becomes lawful and this is the opinion of ibn 'Abbās[rah] and I don't know any differing from the Sahābah, except a saying attributed to ibn 'Omar(rah) which isn't authentic. And this is the Madhab of Imām Abū Hanīfah, Mālik, and what's most known on the Madhab of Imām Ahmad.

And Al-Shāfi'ee[rah] said the Basmallah is recommended and isn't compulsory with proof from the hadīth of 'ā'isha[rah] that "A group of people said to the Prophet, 'Some people bring us meat and we do not know whether they have mentioned Allah's Name or not on slaughtering the animal.' He said, 'Mention Allah's Name on it and eat.'" She said: Those people were recently in the state of kufr, meaning they are converts" - Saḥīḥ al-Bukhārī.

Al-Khattābī said in al-Ma'ālīm(4/122) "There's proof that the Basmallah is not compulsory for slaughtering because the cattle is originally considered harām until it's completely slaughtered so it can't become lawful by a doubtful command(Referring to the Basmallah) regarding it, so if the Basmallah was a condition for slaughtering, it wouldn't be permissible to hold the matter to be well assumed(it should've been made clear cut by the rasūl) for it to be lawful to eat, just like if we place doubts on the same slaughtering, therefore we wouldn't know if the slaughtering is accepted or not, so it wouldn't be lawful to eat..."

And it was strengthened by al-Hāfidh ibn Hajr[rah] in al-Fath(9/635), he said: "This is what we go towards from the context of the hadīth where it happened to have the answer "So you say Bismillāh and eat" like it's being said that you shouldn't worry about it(whether the slaughterer said bismillāh), but what you should be worried about is you yourself mentioning the name of Allah and to eat and this is from the ways of wisdom, as it was pointed out by Al-Tibī[rah] which proves that there's no need to condition the words of Allah 'And the food of those given the scripture is lawful for you' so he made their slaughter lawful with the possibility that they might say Bismillāh or not" And Al-Muhlab[rah] said "This hadīth is the foundation that the Basmallāh over the slaughtering is not compulsory, and if it were to be compulsory, it would have been conditioned(ordered to be done) at all times"

And there is reasoning to this(previous view), and the hadīth is not clear in negating the obligation and its apparent meaning is evident that the matter of the muslims is carried upon authenticity, so if a muslim see's meat that was slaughtered by someone else and he doesn't know if he said Bismillāh, it's lawful to eat from it, because the slaughterer is a muslim and it's assumed that he said the Basmallāh.

And the third saying on this issue: That the Basmallah is a condition in all cases, so you don't eat the slaughtering without it, which was mentioned by Imām Ahmad[rah] in a narration and was chosen by Shaykh al-Islām ibn Taymiyyah[rah] in the Fatāwah(35/239) and he said this is the more apparent saying, for verily the Book and Sunnah has specified it to be lawful by mentioning the name of Allah(swt) in more than one place like his saying "So eat of what we catch for you, and mention the name of Allah upon it" and his saying "so eat from that which Allah's name was mentioned upon" and his saying "And why should you not eat of that upon which the name of Allah has been mentioned" and his saying "and don't eat from that which hasn't been mentioned the name of Allah on it"

And in the Saḥīḥayn(Bukhārī & Muslim) that he said "If the blood is shed and the name of Allah is mentioned, then eat from it"

And I respond against these proofs that none of the Sahābah have took the apparent sayings of these hadīth and ibn 'Abbās[rah] has given a fatwa opposing (this opinion) it.

And some of the scholars have applied it to intentionally leaving off the Basmallāh and what's correct is that the prevention on eating over that which hasn't had Allah's name mentioned over it, means something which has been slaughtered to other than Allah and what has been done in the name of the Gods and statues/idols or the Messiah or other than that. Al-Bukhārī[rah] said in his saḥīḥ "and ibn 'Abbās[rah] said whoever forgets the Basmallah, there's no issue(no problem forgetting)...and Allah(swt) said 'And do not eat of that upon which the name of Allah has not been mentioned, for indeed, it is grave disobedience' and the forgetful one is not called a Fāsiq"

And the saying of ibn 'Abbās[rah] was delivered by Sa'eed ibn Mansūr and al-Dāraqutnī and its chain is authentic and 'Abdul al-Razzāq narrated it in the Musannaf(8538) from ma'mar from Ayūb from 'Ikrimah from Ibn 'Abbas[rah] who said "...If anyone of you forgets to say the Basmallāh over the slaughter, say bismillāh(afterwards) and eat"

And al-Hāfidh ibn Jarīr[rah] said in his tafsīr(8/20) about the saying of Allah(swt) "And do not eat over that which Allah's name is not mentioned over it" And what's correct from the saying of this is that Allah(swt) is referring to those who slaughter to their idols and gods and what died and his slaughter is not considered a lawful slaughter"

And as for those who said: This is referring to what the muslim slaughtered and forgot to mention the name of Allah, such a saying is far from the truth by its bizarreness and is far away from what the congregation is upon from it's lawfulness from that(forgetting), and it's sufficient to realise that such a statement is based upon a corrupt understanding of the picture"

And Ibn al-'Arabī[rah] said in Ahkām al-Qur'ān(2/750) "And as for the one who forgets the Basmallah over the slaughter, verily it does not become unlawful because Allah(swt) said "and indeed it is great disobedience" and the forgetful one is not a Fāsiq by ljmā', so it doesn't become unlawful for him..."

And Ibn Qudāmah[rah] said in al-Mughnī(11/33) similar to that.

And he considered the Basmallah compulsory for hunting and not to be missed at any case, unlike the slaughtering and what's most correct is that there's no difference between hunting and slaughtering, so the forgetful one is excused from that, unlike the one who intentionally avoids the Basmallāh and the proofs of that are many and Allah(swt) knows best.

Whenever the word "brother" is used in the Kitāb and Sunnāh, it also includes sister from the eloquence of the arabic language, unless there is proof which excludes the sister. So for e.g. The hadith "None of you attain faith until you love for your brother what you love for yourself" refers to both brothers and sisters.

Some authors write in their books "Every muslim must know this matter", which refers to both brother and sister, however sometimes if the matter is very important they would say "Every Muslim and Muslimah must know this matter" putting extra emphasis that both men and women need to know these things.

Music is harām according to the consensus of the Sahābah, and none of the Sahābah said "Lahw al-hadīth" meant something other than music.

However, there's been made a special exception for Tambourines to be used by the prophet(saw) and it's only permissible in special occasions like weddings and Eid etc...The reason why we can't use it in other occasions is because these instruments drive people away from Allah(swt), and according to the most correct opinion of the scholars, musical instruments must be destroyed as I have posted on my previous post and Allah(swt) knows best.

Saying of the Imams Regarding Music.

1. The Madhab of Imam Abu Hanifa[rah]:

The Madhab of Imam Abu Hanifa is among the most critical and harshest quotes on music. Imam Abu Hanifa's students clearly declared musical instruments haram and anyone who listens to it is considered a fasiq whose testimony is not accepted.

Some went on to say that listening to music is fisq (astray) and enjoying it is kufr. They used a weak hadith to support that statement.

They also said one must strive not to listen to it if he passes by it or if its near him.

Abu Yusuf, one of Abu Hanifa's most famous teachers, said, "A house that music is heard from can be raided without permission because ordaining the good and forbidding the evil is fard, and if we require permission for entry in such situation then people would not be able to perform the fard of forbidding the evil."

2. The Madhab of Imam Malik[rah]:

Imam Malik (rahimahu Allah) was asked about those who play the drums and flute and those who enjoy listening to it as one passes by.

He said one must get up and leave unless he is sitting for something extremely urgent or cannot get up. If he hears it in his pathway then he should go back or speed forward.

He said music is something the fusooq (astray) do.

Ibn Abdal Bar (rahimahu Allah) said scholars agree by ijma3 on the issue of riba, that the dowry of the prostitution is taking payment for weeping over the dead, fortune tellers those who claim to know unforeseen and news of the skies, musical instruments, and all wrongful play.

3. The Madhab of Imam Shafi'i[rah]:

His students and those truly knowledgeable of his madhab clearly declared music and musical instruments haram and denied that he ever said it was halal.

The author of "Kifayat al Akbar", who is a Shafi'i scholar, considered musical instruments an evil that needed to be forbidden upon those who hear or see it. He said that a person is not excused if scholars who go with the flow are present (make a fatwa for it) or if they are poor (meaning the Sufis as that was one of their names back then). Because they are ignorant followers of everyone who barks. They never follow the brightness of knowledge but bend to every wind.

4. The Madhab of Imam Ahmad[rah]:

Imam Ahmad's son, Abdullah, asked his father about music. His father said, "It grows hypocrisy within one's heart and I dislike it." And, then he said Imam Malik's quote that only fusooq (astray) do it.

Ibn Qudamah, who is considered among the biggest Imam of the Hanbali Madhabs, said, "Musical instruments are haram like guitar, trumpets, flutes, drums and so on. Whoever continues to listen to it, his testimony is rejected.

And then he goes on to say, "If one goes to a wedding with prohibition like alcohol musical instrument and can forbid evil then he must otherwise he should not attend."

5. Ibn Taymiyyah[rah]:

He said, as evident with the four imam's Madhab, that all musical instruments are haram. As the prophet (sallah allahu alieih wasalam) said in AlBukhari that there will be those who make halal musical instruments and that they will be transformed into apes and pigs. He notes that none of the followers of the four imams mentioned a dispute amongst them on this matter.

Ibn Taymiyyah also said musical instruments are alcohol to one's soul, and it does to one soul more than what alcohol does.

6. More Scholars:

At-Tabary (rahimahu Allah) said the scholars of all countries have made ijama3 that music is hated and must be avoided. He mentioned quotes by Abul Faraj saying that "Alkafal, from our madhab, said 'that one who listens to music or dances, his testimony cannot be accepted, as we have shown it is not permissible. Therefore, taking salary for it is haram as well.'" AlQasem said, "Music is of evil."

Alhassan (rahimahu Allah) said if people invite u to a marriage that contains music then their invitation should not be accepted

Scholars on destroying musical instruments:

a. Ibn Taymiyyah (rahimahu Allah) said "It is permissible to destroy musical instruments according to most scholars, and it is the mathab of Imam Malik and the selected chosen two among the Hanbalis."

He also said it was not permissible to manufacture musical instruments.

b. Ibn Shaibah narrated that a man broke a musical instrument for another. They disputed the matter to a judge, and the judge found that the owner of the instrument receives nothing in compensation since it is a haram instrument with no value.

c. AlBahawy (rahimahu Allah) issued a fatwa in declaring all musical instruments haram and that they cannot be sold unless they are destroyed, They cannot be used for musical purpose but would be sold for its value of wood or metal.

The Rāfidah that have shirk and insult the prophets wives and companions aren't even part of the Ummāh, so let alone having them build a mosque, it's not pure and must be removed, so it's not permissible to pray in it. This is from what the scholars say, but as for praying in the places of worship for Ahl al Kitāb that live within the Ummah, then I don't know about the ruling.

The hadīth "Marriage completes half your deen" is narrated by Al-Hākim in al-Mustadrak and is differed upon regarding its authenticity. It's a close call, but I consider the chain to be good(hassan is among the authentic hadīths). But no doubt marriage is the sunnah of the prophets(as) and as this hadīth says, it completes half your deen, so fear Allah(swt) with regards to the other half and Allah(swt) knows best.

There are different types of Mursal ahādīth and I've heard many scholars in our time say Mursal is from among the weak hadīths, and I've heard vice versa.

So what I say is Allah(swt) knows best, because I haven't read much about it, so I recommend the person who is interested to have a look at the works of the early scholars like al-Dāraqutnī, ibn al-madīnī, Imām Ahmad etc...Btw Mursal means it has a disconnection in the chain in between the Tābaī and the prophet(saw), so the companion is not mentioned, it's a tābaī narrating from the prophet(saw).

I don't like it when people agree with me openly, but on the inside they actually don't. Now, I can't look at what's in their hearts, but as I explain some things to them, it seems like they are too scared to question me and I don't like it when people hide stuff from me.

You would be surprised at how many people used to backbite me a couple years back and now they come up to me and say they love me and tell me I was right and their people were really doing shirk. When you speak to people in a nice way, even if they might think you're a bit hardcore lol...they will have respect for you, well that's from my experiences and these brothers who used to think bad things about me, whereas right now they always come up to me, hug me like never before and are really open-minded, asking me questions. It really cheers me up, even though I can't answer every question, the company I enjoy being with such people who left arrogance and zealously is truly amazing 😊

Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyah(rah) prohibits a woman travelling with her brother if he's a Fājir(major sinner), so imagine if she is travelling with a stranger...And most men of our generation are not to be trusted, very few are honest and it's a serious issue with who a woman travels with.

"Man was created weak" the Mufasirīn say man was created weak in the presence of woman, even if you think that you are a pious brother, because there's a hadīth from the messenger(saw) which says that even a pious brother can be in danger with the fitna of a woman, so let alone a brother who isn't pious!

There are two different Manhaj's with regards to weakening and authenticating the hadīths:

1. The Manhaj of the Early scholars such as Imām al-Bukhārī, Imām Muslim, Imām al-Tirmidhī, Imām Ahmad, Imām al-Dāraqutnī, 'Alī ibn al-Madīnī and many other great muhaddithīn who can easily differentiate between the authentic and weak hadīths because it's in their blood and they lived their life studying it.

2. The Manhaj of the Later scholars such as ibn al-Salāh, ibn hajr, al-hāfidh al-'Irāqī etc...and the later scholars have a Manhaj which is very different to the early scholars and we cannot rely on the Manhaj of the later scholars in any way, because they have a lot of faults with regards to authenticating and weakening, and they have authenticated very weak hadīths in the THOUSAND'S which were rejected by the early scholars.

And Shaykh al-Albānī is upon the Manhaj of the later scholars, so we cannot rely on his weakening and authenticating. He's a great Imām, no doubt but he was very lenient on authenticating weak hadīths, and if Imām al-Albānī has weakened a hadīth, there's no need to check it up, because most of the time the hadīth is very weak, so it's more important to check the hadīths he authenticated mostly and he definitely made mistakes weakening the hadīths in Sahīh Muslim, but this is the problem with the Manhaj kf the later scholars which not a single scholar from the early scholars believed in. And some great scholars have accused Imām al-Tirmidhī for being lenient, but this is completely wrong and they have said so because of some Ijtihād al-Tirmidhī made, and al-Tirmidhī is from the greatest scholars of hadīth who is upon the correct manhaj of authenticating and weakening. And Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyah(rah) used to adopt to the manhaj of the early scholars at times, but would adopt mostly to the manhaj of the later scholars. However the Great Imām in his time ibn 'abdul hādī(rah) is upon the Manhaj of the early scholars and from his students students ibn rajab(rah) came along who never met ibn taymiyyah(rah), but ibn rajab was also upon the Manhaj of the early scholars.

So there's many differences with regards to both Usūl's and how they authenticate and weaken a hadīth which is pretty detailed to go through, but what we should rely on is the authenticating and weakening of the Early scholars, not the later scholars.

What's the ruling on acting upon the weak hadīth?

The weak hadīth is divided into two categories:

1. The scholars agreed upon its weakness - We don't act upon this hadīth, whether it's in Fadā'il al-A'māl(The virtuous deeds) or other than it.
2. The scholars differed upon its weakness - Just like the issue of calling the Azān over the ear of the newborn, al-Tirmidhī according to his Ijtihād said the hadīth is Hassan Sahīh, but no one agreed with him and the reason being is because in the chain of the hadīth, 'āsim ibn 'ubaidullah is very weak and rejected by many of the great scholars and we don't accept any of his hadīth because of his weak memory. So this hadīth is differed upon, and if someone follows the opinion of Abū 'Īsa al-Tirmidhī, then there is no blame on him acting upon it, however once it has been made clear to him that it's weak and majority of the scholars have weakened this hadīth, then he shouldn't act upon the hadīth. However with that being said, even if it has been made clear that the stronger view is that it's weak, and he still acts upon it because the weakening of the hadīth is assumed(not clear cut) and it's differed upon, then yes, some of the scholars have said it's permissible to act upon this hadīth with regards to the virtuous deeds, infact we can say most scholars have said it's permissible to do so in this image. However a group of scholars rejected that, because they see that there's no difference between acting upon a weak hadīth, whether it's with regards to virtuous acts or rulings, it's all the same and the weak hadīth shouldn't be acted upon, and I believe this is more closer to the truth and Allah(swt) knows best.

#Clarification: I retract my statement that "the majority of the scholars say that a wife doesn't have to serve her husband" - I will be honest, I just heard this from a few Shaykh's without researching the issue properly. So what made me research the issue was hearing a shaykh I trust say that "It is wrong to claim that the majority of the scholars say she doesn't have to serve her husband, because these scholars consider the majority of the scholars(jumhūr) to be the 4 imāms and this is completely wrong, infact some go further and claim that the majority of the scholars are the students of these imāms, whereas the majority of scholars include the Sahābah firstly, the Tābi'een, the 7 Jurists, the Mujtahideen of the Ummah, and the 4 Great Imāms, and there is Ijmā' that the Muqalid(follower of the Imām) is not counted from the scholars, because they are merely followers of their Imām"

So, just because the 3 out of the 4 Great Imāms have said that it's not compulsory to serve your husband, it does not mean that this is the majority of the scholars, but rather the majority of the scholars say otherwise(but as I mentioned before ibn al-Qayyim took a view which is in-between obligatory and not-obligatory).

May Allah(swt) forgive me for speaking based on what I hear without looking it up, inshā'Allāh, I'll double check everything before I post it up and Quality is better than Quantity. I'll speak less inshā'Allāh and spend more time learning, because I'm only a layman 🙄

Shaykh al-Islām ibn taymiyyah[rah] was asked:

Is the du'ā of the Imām and the Ma'mūm(those who pray behind the Imām) after the compulsory Salāh permissible or not?

So he answered: "Alhamdulillah, as for the du'ā of the Imām and all those behind him after the Salāh, it is an innovation, which wasn't present in the time of the prophet(saw), but rather his du'ā was within the Salāh, indeed the person in Salāh is directly conversing with his lord, so if he makes du'ā in such a situation, it would be much better off"

~ [Majmū' al-Fatāwah 22/519]

Note: If you wish, you can go through the whole chapter of making du'ā in his Fatāwah. The only thing I disagreed with Ibn Taymiyyah on this chapter is his weakening of a hadīth about reciting Ayat al-kursī after Salāh which was authenticated by many great scholars, but he tried to support his statement by saying this hadīth was not recorded in the Sahīhayn or the Sunān proving it to be weak, but this is wrong because there are authentic hadīths which Bukhārī and the others left out, it doesn't mean they are weak, but Khayr inshā'Allah. The main point is, Allah(swt) said to make Dhikr, not du'ā after finishing the Salāh. You could make du'ā after finishing dhikr or perform du'ā during the Salāh which is agreed upon by the Ummah. It's not permissible to add something after the Salāh except that which has proof such as reciting Ayat al-kursī and Allah(swt) knows best.

This is a good read and those who raise the hands and make du'ā after Salāh is a tradition which is not proven on the prophet(saw), nor his companions. May Allah(swt) guide us all to the right path.

#Clarification: I retract my previous post about making du'ā after Salāh, because the fundamental principle with regards to du'ā the scholars mention is that it's to be done before the Taslīm(Salams), which was supported by ibn taymiyyah(rah), ibn al-Qayyim(rah) and many others.

The prophet(saw) only made dhikr after the Salāh, astaghfirallah, alhamdulillah, subhānAllah etc...and then afterwards he used to make du'ā because it's recommended to make du'ā at all times. And the meaning of any hadīth that says "make du'a at the end of every Salāh" means just before the Taslīm(salams), and many commentators have mentioned دبر(the behind of an animal) is inside of him, not outside, so the same thing with دبر الصلاة(the end of the prayer), it's within the Salāh, not outside of it, unless there's proof that mentions otherwise such as the hadīth of reciting ayat al-kursi at the end of the Salāh, refers to after the prayer. There's much more to mention, but I'll be back tonight to explain some more issues inshā'Allah and may Allah(swt) protect us from speaking without knowledge.

Oppression is harām in all situations, whether the person is a muslim or non-muslim, even if it's an animal or plant! And the worst kind of oppression is when you oppress somebody in the name of religion, because that could push someone away from the deen. So fear Allah(swt) before you do such a thing and if you really feared Allah(swt), you wouldn't be oppressing anyone in the first place, so look to yourself first before looking down upon others.

Did you guys know that Allah(swt) has made it harām for himself to oppress, read the Qur'an and Sunnāh and you'll learn that there are things which are harām for Allah(swt) to do, even though he can do whatever he wants, but there is wisdom for us to learn about why Allah(swt) would tell us such a thing. The verses that speak about the oppressors are many, so would you want to be raised with them on the day of judgement in front of Allah?! So come back to your senses before it's too late.

It's not permissible to say "Bismillāhi al-Rahmāni al-Raheem" before eating and drinking because the prophet(saw) never did so. The prophet(saw) only said "Bismillāh", so it's not permissible to add "Al-Rahmāni al-Raheem".

Adding something to worship is considered an innovation. For e.g. If someone sneezes and says "Alhamdulillah and peace and blessings upon the prophet". It's a bid'ah to add "peace and blessings upon the prophet" because the prophet nor his companions ever did so. So after you say Alhamdulillah, you can say "Peace and blessings upon the prophet" a thousand times, but why does it have to be after you sneeze exactly?

Being hit with a calamity should increase your faith in Allah(swt), not push you further away from Allah(swt). This test from Allah(swt) could be what makes you enter Jannah, and just remember the more Allah(swt) loves you, the more Allah(swt) tests you! SubhānAllah and no one was tested more than the prophets(as), so people should deal with these trials from Allah(swt) in the right way, even though it's not easy to do so, but the reward in the end is so worth it.

I have done a translation to Shaykh Sulayman al-Ulwan's sharh on Tajreed al-Tawheed concerning the Madhab issue - Insha'Allah it is of benefit to whoever reads it.

"Whoever places a saying from other than the messenger over the saying of the messenger or puts forth the saying of a scholar over the saying of the Lord, then he is to be afraid and this is from the deviance and distortion, the most high says: "It is not for a believing man or a believing woman, when Allah and His Messenger have decided a matter, that they should [thereafter] have any choice about their affair. And whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger has certainly strayed into clear error." And the prophet said: "Everyone from my nation will enter paradise except for those who refuse, they said: O messenger of Allah, and who will refuse!! He said: Whoever obeys me has entered paradise and whoever disobeys me has refused" Narrated by Al-Bukhari from the hadith of Faleeh ibn Sulayman from Hilal ibn Ali from 'Ataa from Abi Hurayrah.

And it was said by Ibn Abbas about those who opposed him with the opinion of Abu Bakr and Omar and we know who they are in knowledge and religion, He(Ibn Abbas) said: "By Allah, I do not see you finished, until Allah punishes you, I tell you the messenger of Allah said and you say Abu Bakr and Omar said" Narrated by Imam Ahmad and Al-Khateeb and a group.

Imam Ahmad said: "I was surprised by a nation that knew the Chains (of narrations) and its authenticity who go towards the opinion of Sufyan, and Allah the most high says: "So let those beware from opposing his(the prophets) order, that a fitna will hit them or they will be hit with a painful punishment." Do you know what the Fitna is?! The Fitna: is the Shirk, perhaps if he rejected some of his (the prophets) saying, his heart will be inflicted with something which will cause him to deviate and be destroyed.

Those who act zealously towards the Madhab of Abu Hanifah, preserve a saying from some the sayings of the Imams: "That the people are in need of Abu Hanifah in Fiqh" and this is not an excuse or an acceptable justification for such blind zealousness and this far misguidance.

And the followers of the Maliki Madhab act zealously towards the Madhab of Malik, this is not for all of them, but this is for some and a group among the people, so some of the alleged followers of the Maliki Madhab show zealousness towards the Maliki Madhab with the proof that Malik was the one intended by the prophets saying: "It shall soon be that people are beating the livers of camels (meaning that they are hastening and traveling upon them – seeking knowledge). But they will not find a scholar who is more knowledgeable than the scholar of Madinah" Narrated by Imam Ahmad and At-Tirmidhi from the authority of ibn Jurayj from Abi al-zubayr from Abi Salih from Abi Hurayra from the Prophet.

And the followers of Imam al-Shafi'ee use the argument that al-Shafi'ee was a student and that Allah has gathered within him what's between Fiqh and Hadith and they use this hadith as proof: "Give precedence for Quraysh and do not give precedence over them" and this narration is weak and there's many Ahadith which they use as proof from this narration, which isn't in the place of dispute.

And the followers of Imam Ahmad say that Imam Ahmad is from the most knowledgeable of the people in hadith and its 'ilal (defects), Allah has gathered within him between Fiqh and Hadith and he has memorized more hadith than what the other Imams have memorized.

And these arguments don't benefit, it's possible for the truth to be with Ahmad and the truth to be with Al-Shafi'ee, and it could be with Malik and the truth could be with Abu Hanifah.

So when you look at the issue of touching a woman, we know that the 4 Imams are divided on this issue.

Abu Hanifah said that touching a woman doesn't nullify your wudu' (ablution) at all, whether it was with desire or without desire.

Whereas Imam al-Shafi'ee said that touching a woman nullifies your wudu' in all cases, whether it's done with or without desire.

Whereas Imam Malik said that if the touch was with desire, the wudu' is broken and if it was without desire, then it does not break the wudu' and on Imam Ahmad, there are three different narrations which agree with each of the previous Imams and the correct opinion on this issue is with Abu Hanifah.

And when we take from the Madhab of Imam Abu Hanifah on this issue, it does not prevent us from taking the stronger opinion on other matters which might agree with the Madhab of Ahmad, like the issue of breaking the wudu' from eating of the meat of camels, so on this issue, we take from the Madhab of Imam Ahmad, even if we don't affiliate ourselves to a particular Madhab or show zeal towards a certain Madhab, we turn towards the truth wherever it may be, and as for the nature of a person who lives in a country which has been prevailed with Madhabs, it does not mean that this person must affiliate with them(their Madhab) or blind follow them , as we do not affiliate ourselves to a madhab or show fanaticism towards a Madhab over another, all we do is turn towards the truth wherever it may be according to our ability, Ijtihad(educated guess) and the research we make on the texts.

So it's like if someone got up right now and wanted to collect all the sayings of Abu Bakr and create a Madhab, many would rise up against him and condemn him and that's Abu Bakr alSideeq, and if someone right now wanted to gather all the sayings of Ali and collect it and make it a Madhab, I would think that the people would call him a Rafidhi or they would say that he is a Shi'a and that's Ali in his knowledge and power and greatness, so how is it that we justify to the people or order the people to follow these Madhabs and compel them with it, and the person who doesn't(follow these madhabs), is considered misguided, ignorant, deluded or other than that from the excuses.

The layman, it's correct that he doesn't have a Madhab, his Madhab is the Madhab of his Mufti(Teacher), however the student of knowledge who is completely familiar with the tools to be able to make Ijtihad(educated guess) and has the ability of deducting principles from its sources, and has memorized a lot, while being able to take in from the hadith with an understanding in Fiqh and its fundamentals and understanding the language and its grammatically determined words(Tawabi' – 'ilm ul-nahw, sarf etc...), then this person should make ijtiḥad and not blind follow anyone, and if he affiliates himself to a particular Madhab, he shouldn't blind follow it.

They are most famous for defending apostate rulers who don't rule by the shari'ah and believe in the unity of all religions, all of them being on the truth, whereas Allah(swt) said the only religion acceptable is al-Islām.

Also beware from the Ikhwāni's who are famous preaches that want to please every audience they meet, because they are chameleons. They believe in democracy and their leaders such as Mohammad Morsi said "It's impossible that muslims and christians have 'Aqeedah differences, we are both the same" He has clearly disbelieved in the rulings mentioned in the Qur'an also and never ruled by the shari'ah.

As a muslim, you should look after your body. Go exercise, workout, play sports and get stronger. Now I'll admit, I used to go to extremes and play sport all day from 8am and come home at midnight. But for the last couple of years, I've just been reading islamic books without trying to be as fit as I was before. It's important to be balanced and live a healthy lifestyle.

I believe it's a very serious thing and Allah(swt) knows best, but if you don't care about your body especially in our times, then you could be committing a Major Sin. Always remember that المؤمن القوي أحب الى الله من المؤمن الضعيف "The strong believer is more beloved to Allah than the weak believer" Yes, this applies to both physical and mental strength and Allah(swt) knows best.

The scholars have differed over the terms كفر and شرك and whether they mean the same thing in the Shari'ah or they have separate meanings.

Some scholars have said that كفر and شرك mean the exact same thing, but are 2 different words, just as فرض واجب mean the same thing. Note: Hanafi's say that واجب is just under فرض but that's another issue altogether.

However the most correct opinion is that كفر and شرك mean 2 different things in the Shari'ah and not every Kāfir is a Mushrik, however every Mushrik is a Kāfir. This is proven by reading the verses in the Qur'ān, so it's important to mention that شرك means someone who associates with Allah(swt) and كفر means someone who disbelieves in what was revealed by Allah(swt). For e.g. Anyone who calls upon the dead has committed شرك and كفر. However the one who insults Allah(swt) or his Messenger(saw), then such a person has committed كفر but did not commit شرك and such a زنديق(heretic) is to be killed, even if he repents because the punishment still remains and we will leave the rest to Allah(swt) to have mercy on him in the Akhirah.

However, what some people have said that you cannot call the disbelievers كفار مشركين is completely wrong and whoever says this is rejecting the Qur'ān and if this is not kufr, then no doubt such a person is closer to kufr instead of Emān. May Allah(swt) protect us from this clear deviation.

This was supposed to be a reply to a post, but it seems like the post has been deleted, well I have talked about the origins of the shi'a and inshā'Allah it is beneficial to you all and if you ever have questions, you can ask me inshallah.

The word شيعة has many different meanings, but let's translate it to mean "follower" in this context. So according to this definition, we are all Shi'a of the prophet(saw). However, the word shi'a is also used during the Fitna between Mu'āwiyah(ra) & 'Ali(ra). So you had those who were on the side of Ali and those who were on the side of Mu'awiyah during the fitna and you also had those who avoided the fitna, but let's forget about them for a sec. I want everyone to understand this, so that's why I'm going to use simple terms inshallah and hopefully it makes sense.

A Sahābi by definition means someone who saw the prophet(saw), followed his teachings and died upon Islām, so all the Sahābah(companions) which were on either side of the Fitna are Sunni and shi'a of Ali or shi'a of mu'awiyah only carries a linguistic meaning, not a sharī meaning, but I'll get to that soon. The first person to claim Ali(ra) was infallible and has Allah's attributes and all these kufr beliefs was Abdullah ibn Sabā' who was originally a jew from yemen. Now Ali(ra) burnt his followers and those who called Ali divine.

Now, let's talk about the early shi'as and who are they. They are also known as the مفوضة which means those who prefer, and the earliest shi'as preferred Ali over 'Uthman. Now these "shi'as" are Sunni's in 'Aqeedah and everything is the same, except that they prefer Ali over uthman, and this is not considered misguidance or sinful according to the Imāms of Ahlal Sunnah, however the majority of scholars agree that Uthman is greater than Ali, so they merely say the preferers of Ali over Uthman are wrong, no more, no less.

Afterwards, the "shi'as" preferred Ali(ra) over Abu Bakr(ra) and Omar(ra), now this is when the scholars of Ahlal Sunnah have said the "Shi'a موفضة" have fallen into misguidance, and there are authentic narrations from Ali(ra) that he said whoever raises me above Abu Bakr and Omar, I would lash him(i.e. The punishment of slandering). However, ibn taymiyyah(rah) mentions that there is Ijmā'(consensus) that the shi'a مفوضة(those who prefer Ali over abu bakr and omar) are muslims, however they are misguided, and unfortunately many ignorant people take ibn taymiyyah's words when he refers to the early shi'as(calling them muslims), applying it on the shi'a Rāfidah that came afterwards and this is extremely ignorant.

However, let's continue, afterwards the shi'a started to insult Abu Bakr and Omar and rejected them as being Rightly guided Khulafā', so this is when many of the Imāms of Ahl al Sunnah made takfeer on the shi'a for insulting the Sahābi of the prophet Abu Bakr and said this is apostasy. Note: These shi'as didn't practise any shirk, all they did was insult the companions, so they were known as السبابة الشيعية or famously known as the Rāfidah. So there's a difference of opinion with regards to insulting the companions and if you guys want, I can share with you the ruling later on and it depends on the type of insult they use etc...but anyways, just clarifying that these "Early Rāfidah" if you wanna say did not have any shirk, except that they insulted the 2 companions of the prophet which I believe is shirk, but not in all cases such as calling the companions cowards etc...but like i said this is another topic altogether. So afterwards, the Rāfidah started to have shirk in Allah(swt) and were split into many different sects, today most famously the twelvers who are mushrikeen outside the fold of Islām by the ljmā' of the Ummah.

So hopefully this helps anyone who wants to understand how the shi'a started. It's such a big topic, that I can't touch on every single thing, but Insha'Allah khayr.

Does sleep nullify your wudū? There are 3 different opinions on this issue, so bare with me inshā'Allah:

Opinion #1. A group of scholars have said that Sleep doesn't nullify your wudū in all cases, and they use the hadīth of Anas(ra) "The companions of the messenger used to sleep, then pray and they didn't make wudū" which is recorded by Imām Muslim in his Sahīh. It's also recorded in the Sahīhayn from the hadīth of ibn abbas(ra) and said "The companions of the messenger used to fall asleep, then wake up, then fall asleep and then wake up and Omar said O messenger of Allah, the Salāh!(it's time to pray)" And it's mentioned that these great companions did not perform wudū and if sleep was a nullifier of wudū, the messenger(saw) would've ordered them to perform wudū, but he did not, therefore meaning that sleep is not a nullifier of Wudū.

Opinion #2. A group of scholars have said that sleep is a nullifier of wudū in all cases, regardless if it's a little or a lot and regardless if you were lying down or sitting down. They use the hadīth of Safwān as proof recorded in the Sunān "When we were traveling, Allah's Messenger would order us not to remove our Khuff for three days and nights, except for Janabah, but not for defecating, urinating, and sleep." So this narration proves that sleep is a nullifier from among the nullifiers of wudū. And they have also used the evidence that there is a consensus that unconsciousness is a nullifier of wudū. So the agreed upon is that unconsciousness nullifies your wudū and the differed upon is sleep, and sleep is a type from among the types of unconsciousness, so we return back to the agreed upon to remove the confusion according to the fundamental principle. So we say that there is no difference between falling asleep and falling unconscious, meaning that sleep nullifies your wudū in all cases.

Opinion #3. This group of scholars have said that sleep is not an occurrence of and within itself, but it's a thought of what would occur in the future. And the proof has come that sleep is a nullifier and there is proof that sleep doesn't nullify your wudū, so we learn from this that sleep is not an occurrence of and within itself like urinating and defecating, it's only a thought of what would occur. So if he has lost all his senses completely and fell unconscious, then his wudū has been nullified. However if he can still sense his surroundings and goes to sleep at times, and wakes up or sleeps, but is not completely unconscious and can feel whether he breaks wudū or not, then he hasn't lost his wudū because as we said sleep is not an occurrence of and within itself, but it's a thought of what would occur.

And the scholars who have researched the matter have said that Opinion #3 is the most correct out of them all, after gathering all the evidences because we can't reject an authentic text from another authentic text. So we must take from all the sayings from the prophet(saw), and on this issue all the hadīths that mention sleep breaking your wudū, then these hadīths are referring to deep sleep where a person is unconscious and all the hadīths that mention the companions(rah) used to sleep and then wake up and pray without performing wudū, then these hadīths are referring to sleep where a person hasn't lost all their senses i.e. is conscious. And the consensus that unconsciousness is a nullifier is correct, but it cannot be applied to ordinary sleep as there's also a hadīth from a prophet(saw) that says "Until their head drops" meaning until they fall unconscious, then they have lost wudū, so we must differentiate between نوم (sleep) and اغماء (deep sleep - falling unconscious) and that نوم is a form from among the forms of اغماء and Allah(swt) knows best.

Homosexuality is a bigger crime than zina according to most of the great scholars. Because Zina is halal within a contract, becomes halāl when you do Nikāh, whereas the act of the people of Lūt is harām in all cases. And most scholars say that the homosexual is to be killed, whether he is married or non-married, unlike the case with zina. The prophet(saw) ordered the killing of both homosexuals, however the companions differed over how he is to be killed and that's another issue altogether. There is no doubt that zina is a major crime and there is a scholarly consensus on the kufr of whoever makes something which is clear cut harām such as zina and homosexuality halāl, then such a person is an apostate. Shaykh al-Islam mentions that whoever makes the harām that is agreed upon halāl & vice versa or replaces the shari'ah with man-made laws, then such a person is a kāfir by the Ijmā' of the Jurists.

The majority of the scholars say that it's not compulsory for a woman to serve her husband except in which pleases Allah(swt) and for relationship purposes. This means that washing, cleaning, cooking is not compulsory on the woman to do and the husband should bring a servant to do this.

Some of the Tābi'īn have said it's compulsory to serve her husband as that's part of ordaining the good, however ibn al-Qayyim(rah) has took an opinion which is in-between and said that you need to look at the woman's situation. If she was served in her father's house, then the husband must bring someone to serve her in his house, so the situation remains the same before marriage and after marriage and the man should fear Allah(swt) and know that the Messenger(saw) served his wives and worked just like any other man.

So both spouses should fear Allah(swt) and help each other out. Don't ever put each other down or oppress each other. Can you imagine the kids growing up in such an environment where the husband and wife insult each other and oppress each other. May Allah(swt) bless every marriage out there and increase them in patience & renew the love. I hate it when people take quotes out of contexts from books such as Majmū al-Fatāwah by ibn Taymiyyah. Now if you haven't read the complete Fatāwah, then you shouldn't take quotes out of context which suits your desires. This is why you need proper scholars to break down the words of such scholars, even if you think you are an expert in Arabic, it's not enough. Now I'm not referring to the whole Fatāwah, a layman who understands Arabic can read it, but you must be careful from "Making up your own fatwa's based on what you misunderstood from ibn taymiyyah" Btw I really recommend reading his Fatāwah, that book is so addicting, and would take 1 month to read the whole thing depending on how busy your schedule is.

The hadith "Paradise lies under your mothers feet" is very weak and some have even said that it's fabricated.

However there's a hadith similar to it in Sunan Abi Dāwūd in a good chain that says "Go back and serve her(your mother), for there is Paradise(in doing so)"

This hadith stresses on the importance of being obedient and kind to your parents and it's one of the greatest deeds to get closer to Allah(swt). The hadith says that if you obey your mother, you will be granted Jannah and no doubt serving your mother is one of the many ways to enter Jannah and you can't even say "Uff" to her! So always speak to her in the nicest of ways as Allah(swt) ordered in the Qur'ān.

And as for the weak hadith "Jannah lies under your mother's feet" then this hadith is more general and broader in meaning, unlike the previous hadith and Allah(swt) knows best.

I never go to the mosque and listen to lectures because I'm studying at university and will feel guilty to go to the mosque and not focus on my studies. My parents really want me to do well and I stuffed up a few subjects and we're going through some really personal matters which is very difficult. My parents are religious and have always taken me to the mosque since I was a baby and I talk to them about deen, just like I post things about deen here, but my parents just want me to pray, not learn about deen until I finish university and get a full-time job.

Ever since I was 7 years old, I used to debate my christian friends, but my parents wouldn't know that I'm studying Islām or anything, even until now. So ever since my childhood, I've been hiding this from my parents because they want me to focus on Primary school, High School and University. I've got extremely strict parents and nothing can make them happy except good marks.

It's really difficult when all your friends go to the mosque and study Islām, but I tell them I need to focus on university studies to please my parents.

I've never owned a mobile phone until recently, so my parents don't call me if I'm out, and sometimes I come home alone at 1am from University etc...and they don't mind me going to places, but are very strict if I want to go to the mosque, so I never ask them can I go to the mosque because I know the answer will be no, pray at home.

So I find it really tough to wait until I finish my university degree, even though I'm half way through until I can start going to the mosque. I heard they do cool stuff at the mosques, I wish I could go without lying to my parents.

What do you guys think, should I go to the mosque behind my parents back or just wait until I finish uni? Ofcourse I pray Jum'ah, but I feel guilty to tell them that I'm going to pray jum'ah and I've never told them that I give Khutbah's, ever since high school and till this very day...Coz you guys know the arab parent reaction of not focusing enough on your studies. May Allah(swt) make it easy for us all.

If you really love your muslim brothers and sisters in Islām, then show that you love them by your actions. If you see a brother or sister enter the Mosque, then go up to them and smile at them, give them a handshake, hug them, even kiss them, why do many think this is embarrassing or shameful. If you see a brother or sister walk in to the mosque, they might be shy or uncomfortable, and wouldn't give Salāms, so why don't you go up to them and give Salāms and make them feel welcomed in the Mosque. When we have an environment where everyone loves each other, it makes it so much easier to make everyone sit down and have a chat and teach them Tawheed. It's compulsory to love every muslim brother and sister for the sake of Allah(swt). And just to make it clear, I'm talking about spiritual love, not physical love because if I introduce you to a sister who has deen, you'll probz be like...but I don't love her in that way, since there must be attraction and other things, not just deen for marriage. But anyways, there's no harm in saying to your brothers and sisters that you love them. Saying the obvious is encouraged, and don't think that the other person assume's that you love them, so that's why you should say it. Many non muslims know nothing about Islām, so there's nothing wrong with telling them that Islām means peace, maybe they've never heard that before. So spread the love around especially in muslim gatherings and Masājid's and don't bother arguing over pathetic Fiqh issues if it's going to cause more harm than good, because the main objective is to unite everyone upon Tawheed, then the Fiqh matters will become easier to explain. May Allah(swt) create love between the muslims and unite them upon sincere Tawheed!

Just a note: A brother shouldn't personally say to a sister that he loves her for the sake of Allah(swt) and vice versa for exceeding the permissible interaction between non mahrams in the shari'ah, so keep your statements general insha'Allah. It's important to clarify as some may not be aware, may Allah(swt) bless you all.

Muslims only unite with #Tawheed. Without Tawheed, there is no unity, because shirk and bid'ah is the biggest fitna in the society. Show love to the people of Tawheed because they are the #Ghurabā ☹

The reason why people like to claim something is an inside job is because they don't want to use their brains to think. Now, this is not always the case and I'm not against conspiracy theories with regards to some of the current events, however once you claim something is an inside job, you must back it up with solid evidences and tell your side of the story to try and convince me. However if you're just going to be a sheep and smoke Argīlā and claim something is an inside job and give a few reasons which a 5 year old can think of, then I'll kindly reject it. But no, it doesn't stop there, once you disagree with his theory, he will ask you to prove why it is not an inside job and start asking stupid questions like "how did this happen etc..." Now this just proves the weakness of his argument because the burden is on him to prove it's an inside job, but he's unable too, so he results to asking questions which only Allah(swt) can really answer...And then say "See you don't have an answer" and basically repeats things I already answered. It's like, is this guy even listening to what I'm saying or does he just wanna throw a million questions and expect me to answer every single one of them.

Did anyone visit a sick person today?
Did anyone feed an orphan today?
Did anyone give charity(or even smiled to someone) today?
Did anyone remember to fast today?

SubhānAllāh, the Messenger(saw) used to ask his companions these Questions, but not only that, he would ask them after Fajr and the companions will be like Ya RasulAllah, we just started our day, but Abū Bakr al-Sidīq(ra) would have already done everything because he is the first(Al-Sabbāq). The companions used to try compete with him without Abu Bakr(ra) noticing, but still wouldn't be able to catch up to him 🤔 If you compare the Emān of Abū Bakr al-Sidīq to the Emān of the Ummah, Abū Bakr al-Sidīq(ra) would outweigh the Emān of the Ummah.

So true

16 November 2015 17:20

Radwan Dakkak posted in ICYC Islamic Care Youth Crew.

Abu Bakr al-Sideeq(ra) wanted the Romans to beat the Persians which was a prophecy from the Messenger(saw). Now why would the muslims care about the Romans defeating the persians? Both the Romans and Persians will be in the hell-fire, so what is our benefit from such a war. The reason is because the Romans were closer to the truth than the fire worshipping Persians, so that's why Abu Bakr wanted them to win.

So if the Sahābah wanted the Romans to win against the Persians, knowing that the Romans are mushrikeen, so what about the muslims that are being fought against by the non muslims today. Even if those muslims were terrorists as they say, are they closer to the truth or are the disbelievers closer to Islām? So imagine when your muslim brothers who are fighting against oppression are upon the same 'Aqeedah as you and they are following the true path, will you ever side with the non muslims against your own brothers and sisters?

May Allah(swt) guide our ummah to the straight path!

It's funny when Shaykh's say "Don't pay attention to politics" and if something happens, they are the first to give a Fatwa on what's happening.

We live in a time where the ignorant speaks and the knowledgeable deceives people. The knowledgeable person is much more dangerous to the Ummah than the ignorant person because people look up to the scholar, not the layman.

Just remember that there were always govt scholars since the time of the Salaf until our times, but never did we come across a time where the scholars have sold their deen like in our times. Anyone who reads poetry will see some extremely harsh words against the govt scholars of the past, so imagine if those poets & scholars were alive today and what ibn hazm, ibn al-Qayyim, ibn taymiyyah would say, or what would ibn kathir would write in his history book if he was alive today! Strange times indeed and only the strangers can see through this fitna.

Wouldn't many ignorant muslims accuse the prophet(saw) of judging them and tell him "Let us do what we want, only God can judge us"...Whatever the prophet(saw) speaks is from God and Allah(swt) has entrusted the muslims to carry this duty of ordaining the good and forbidding the evil and if we stop obeying the commands of God, he will replace us with people better than us that will ordain the good and forbid the evil. There's no proof that scratching in the state of ihrām is harām. Read this hadith in the Muwattah of Imām Mālik and it has an authentic chain of narration.

Yahya related to me from Malik from Alqama ibn Abi Alqama that his mother said, "I heard A'isha, the wife of the Prophet, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, being asked whether some one in ihram could scratch their body or not, and she said, "Yes, he can scratch it and do so as hard as he pleases. I would scratch even if my hands were tied and I could only use my feet.' "

A good read on the fundamental principle that the origin of something is halal, until proven haram.

The origin of something is halal, until there is evidence that it is haram. For e.g. The domestic donkeys were seen as halal by the Ijma' of the Sahaba and they cooked it, until the messenger(saw) forbade that. The difference of opinion occurred in the middle era. Allah(swt) clearly says "He has explained in detail to you what He has forbidden you"

And why should you not eat of that upon which the name of Allah has been mentioned while He has explained in detail to you what He has forbidden you, excepting that to which you are compelled. And indeed do many lead [others] astray through their [own] inclinations without knowledge. Indeed, your Lord - He is most knowing of the transgressors.
[6:121]

He has only forbidden to you dead animals, blood, the flesh of swine, and that which has been dedicated to other than Allah . But whoever is forced [by necessity], neither desiring [it] nor transgressing [its limit], there is no sin upon him. Indeed, Allah is Forgiving and Merciful.

The foundation of the religion of Islam and its fundamentals consists of 2 things:

1. The command of worshipping Allah alone without associating partners onto him; and calling onto it, and giving victory to it, and disbelieving in whoever leaves it.

There are 2 sayings on the issue of divorcing your wife when she is menstrating:

1. It counts, but it's haram and this is the saying of the 4 imams and the majority of the scholars.
2. It doesn't count and this is the saying of the Dhahiri's which was also supported by Shaykh al-Islam ibn taymiyyah and ibn al-qayyim.

Shaykh Sulayman al-ulwan has read many books on this issue in really deep detail(a shaykh who studies atleast 15 hours a day) & has come to the conclusion that the second opinion is stronger than the first after weighing the evidences on both sides & has concluded that there is nothing clear from the hadiths of the rasul(saw) on this issue and the Aathaar on ibn omar(ra) aren't authentic & contradict each other. Lately I have been posting alot about shi'as and other deviants. Now, it has been a while since I have talked much about deviant sects, but I believe it's a must to warn the general masses from their beliefs.

Talking too much about the Shi'as or the Murji'ah is not a good thing. Too much of anything is unhealthy, and I suggest that we focus more on our own beliefs and forget about the deviants out there, unless someone has a doubt coming from them in which I or someone else will happily be able to refute. Other than that, I don't claim to be solely on the truth in everything, but what we are upon insha'Allah is the Qur'an, Sunnah, Ijma' & the Ijtihad of our pious predecessors with regards to our Deen, rejecting all kinds of deviations & innovations brought into the religion. May Allah(swt) keep us firm upon the truth and die upon it.

Radwan Dakkak The shi'a have fallen in 2 or even 3 types of kufr with regards to the Names & Attributes of Allah ALONE!: 1. They deny all the names & attributes of Allah(swt) mentioned in the qur'an like the Jahmiyyah. 2. They give the names & attributes that they deny for Allah(swt) to their infallible imams. The tafsir of the verse "And the beautiful names are for Allah, so call upon him by them" beautiful names(asma' al-husna) in the shi'a tafsir means the family of the prophet, so they believe in calling upon them besides Allah. 3. And this is for extra flavour, the shi'a go a step further and give Allah(swt) the attribute of Bada'(Ignorance) & say things like Allah forgets & Allah(swt) is scared to mention Ali's name in the qur'an or else the people will reject it etc...So they deny the attributes mentioned in the qur'an & then give Allah(swt) human attributes which is another kufr of alikening Allah to his creation. Ibn al-qayyim(rah) mentions that alikening Allah with his creation is kufr & alikening the creation with the attributes of Allah is also kufr. Subhanallah, if you research every aspect of shi'aism, you will find that they have fallen into atleast 100 Nullifiers of Islam, possibly more and Allah(swt) knows best.

#ENGLISH_TRANSLATION of Shaykh Sulayman al-Ulwan's sharh of Tajreed al-Tawheed concerning the madhab issue. If you have any questions regarding the topic of Taqleed or Ijtihad, let me know insha'Allah :) May you all benefit from reading this:

"Whoever places a saying from other than the messenger over the saying of the messenger or puts forth the saying of a scholar over the saying of the Lord, then he is to be afraid and this is from the deviance and distortion, the most high says: "It is not for a believing man or a believing woman, when Allah and His Messenger have decided a matter, that they should [thereafter] have any choice about their affair. And whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger has certainly strayed into clear error." And the prophet said: "Everyone from my nation will enter paradise except for those who refuse, they said: O messenger of Allah, and who will refuse!! He said: Whoever obeys me has entered paradise and whoever disobeys me has refused" Narrated by Al-Bukhari from the hadith of Faleeh ibn Sulayman from Hilal ibn Ali from 'Ataa from Abi Hurayrah.

And it was said by Ibn Abbas about those who opposed him with the opinion of Abu Bakr and Omar and we know who they are in knowledge and religion, He(Ibn Abbas) said: "By Allah, I do not see you finished, until Allah punishes you, I tell you the messenger of Allah said and you say Abu Bakr and Omar said" Narrated by Imam Ahmad and Al-Khateeb and a group.

Imam Ahmad said: "I was surprised by a nation that knew the Chains (of narrations) and its authenticity who go towards the opinion of Sufyan, and Allah the most high says: "So let those beware from opposing his(the prophets) order, that a fitna will hit them or they will be hit with a painful punishment." Do you know what the Fitna is?! The Fitna: is the Shirk, perhaps if he rejected some of his (the prophets) saying, his heart will be inflicted with something which will cause him to deviate and be destroyed.

Those who act zealously towards the Madhab of Abu Hanifah, preserve a saying from some the sayings of the Imams: "That the people are in need of Abu Hanifah in Fiqh" and this is not an excuse or an acceptable justification for such blind zealousness and this far misguidance.

And the followers of the Maliki Madhab act zealously towards the Madhab of Malik, this is not for all of them, but this is for some and a group among the people, so some of the alleged followers of the Maliki Madhab show zealousness towards the Maliki Madhab with the proof that Malik was the one intended by the prophets saying: "It shall soon be that people are beating the livers of camels (meaning that they are hastening and traveling upon them – seeking knowledge). But they will not find a scholar who is more knowledgeable than the scholar of Madinah" Narrated by Imam Ahmad and At-Tirmidhi from the authority of ibn Jurayj from Abi al-zubayr from Abi Salih from Abi Hurayra from the Prophet.

And the followers of Imam al-Shafi'ee use the argument that al-Shafi'ee was a student and that Allah has gathered within him what's between Fiqh and Hadith and they use this hadith as proof: "Give precedence for Quraysh and do not give precedence over them" and this narration is weak and there's many Ahadith which they use as proof from this narration, which isn't in the place of dispute.

And the followers of Imam Ahmad say that Imam Ahmad is from the most knowledgeable of the people in hadith and its 'ilal (defects), Allah has gathered within him between Fiqh and Hadith and he has memorized more hadith than what the other Imams have memorized.

And these arguments don't benefit, it's possible for the truth to be with Ahmad and the truth to be with Al-Shafi'ee, and it could be with Malik and the truth could be with Abu Hanifah.

So when you look at the issue of touching a woman, we know that the 4 Imams are divided on this issue. Abu Hanifah said that touching a woman doesn't nullify your wudu' (ablution) at all, whether it was with desire or without desire.

Whereas Imam al-Shafi'ee said that touching a woman nullifies your wudu' in all cases, whether it's done with or without desire.

Whereas Imam Malik said that if the touch was with desire, the wudu' is broken and if it was without desire, then it does not break the wudu' and on Imam Ahmad, there are three different narrations(riwayas from his students) which agree with each of the previous Imams and the correct opinion on this issue is with Abu Hanifah.

And when we take from the Madhab of Imam Abu Hanifah on this issue, it does not prevent us from taking the stronger opinion on other matters which might agree with the Madhab of Ahmad, like the issue of breaking the wudu' from eating of the meat of camels, so on this issue, we take from the Madhab of Imam Ahmad, even if we don't affiliate ourselves to a particular Madhab or show zeal towards a certain Madhab, we turn towards the truth wherever it may be, and as for the nature of a person who lives in a country which has been prevailed with Madhabs, it does not mean that this person must affiliate with them(their Madhab) or blind follow them , as we do not affiliate ourselves to a madhab or show fanaticism towards a Madhab over another, all we do is turn towards the truth wherever it may be according to our ability, Ijtihad(educated guess) and the research we make on the texts.

So it's like if someone got up right now and wanted to collect all the sayings of Abu Bakr and create a Madhab, many would rise up against him and condemn him and that's Abu Bakr al-Sideeq, and if someone right now wanted to gather all the sayings of Ali and collect it and make it a Madhab, I would think that the people would call him a Rafidhi or they would say that he is a Shi'a and that's Ali in his knowledge and power and greatness, so how is it that we justify to the people or order the people to follow these Madhabs and compel them with it, and the person who doesn't(follow these madhabs), is considered misguided, ignorant, deluded or other than that from the excuses.

The layman, it's correct that he doesn't have a Madhab, his Madhab is the Madhab of his Mufti(Teacher), however the student of knowledge who is completely familiar with the tools to be able to make Ijtihad(educated guess) and has the ability of deducting principles from its sources, and has memorized a lot, while being able to take in from the hadith with an understanding in Fiqh and its fundamentals and understanding the language and its grammatically determined words(Tawabi' – 'ilm ul-nahw, sarf etc...), then this person should make ijtiḥad and not blind follow anyone, and if he affiliates himself to a particular Madhab, he shouldn't blind follow it.

Do not post for likes or to please others. Do it only for the sake of Allah(swt) for "Verily the actions are by your intentions" - Imagine doing all these great deeds and in the end they are rejected by Allah(swt) because of your corrupt intention, so be sure to renew your Niyyah every day. Not just every day but many times a day, not many times a day but every step of your way, every act of your way. Every time you say a word, every time you type something, every time you go for a Da'wah event, any time, renew your Niyyah. That is how you get your strength for Sabr, when calamity hits you later on. If hard times pass you in this life and people turn away, do you think anyone is going to help you before Allah? Niyyah[the right intention] + Tawakkul[relying on Allah] is all you need in life.

I know it's part of human nature to want some sort of recognition for your efforts and attention/fame from others, but the best of you are those who do actions without seeking any praise for it. May Allah(swt) make us from among the humble 🙏

Unfortunately many of our sincere youth are very rebellious against their wiser parents. This is caused by many reasons, but I would like to touch on the "Being guided to the truth" reason. Alhamdulillah, when the youngsters like myself realise that there are cultural practises that our parents do which have nothing to do with Islam, we reject it completely. However, as soon as some people "get guided", they start to consider their parents who have raised them their whole life to be ignorant of islam and start being rude to them! Now even if our parents are mistaken on an Islamic Ruling, it doesn't give someone a right to be rude to their parents, let alone insult them or even make takfeer on them!

I'll give a common example, after personally studying and reading many books on whether the Beard in Islam is Sunnah or Obligatory, and my parents have always been saying that it's sunnah, I've learnt that there are different levels of sunnah, and I agreed with my parents that the beard is sunnah, but it is considered a Sunnah Wajib :) It's an order from the prophet(saw) to let the beard grow making it an obligation. So the point I'm trying to make is once you learn the truth on a matter which your parents or anyone for this matter is ignorant of, teach them in the best of ways. Heck, even if your parents are completely ignorant of Islam such as many muslim reverts, it doesn't give anyone a right to be disrespectful to them, regardless of them being muslim or not. Islam teaches kindness and respect, especially to your elders who have more wisdom and experience in life.

So in short, may Allah(swt) reward and bless those who have been guided to the true path, strictly following the Qur'an & Sunnah & Ijma', rejecting the wicked scholars who try and distort the true message of Islam, however let's remember to have patience and mercy for others. Always remember that Islam is about your manners and good character, subhanAllah even the Salaf used to tell their children to learn and study adab(islamic etiquettes) before studying knowledge of the Islamic sciences. Jazakum Allahu Khayran and Allah(swt) knows best.

I can bring 40+ tafsir's from our giant scholars who say the Niqāb is compulsory. Even though there's a difference of opinion on the issue, I personally believe that it's compulsory after weighing the evidences. The prophet(saw) said "The woman is 'awrah". He did not exclude anything from her body which means she is to be completely covered at all times. The prophet(saw) never excluded the hands or the face, but rather this is from some of the sayings of the Fuqahā' and Allah(swt) knows best.

There's a difference of opinion within the shi'a religion about the authenticity of the Qur'an which is really stupid, but this video sheds light on one of the most revered figures in the shi'a sect, Al-Majlisi who believes in tahreef(the distortion of the Qur'an). It's also a refutation to the shi'a hadith books, especially if anyone here understands hadith science, you will notice this, in which they have a choice between rejecting the Qur'an or rejecting the (fabricated) hadiths(which reject the quran so how could u follow both). Al-Majlisi follows the fabricated hadiths, even though their hadith science is flawed with so many contradictions, for e.g. A hadith with the exact same men of transmission is considered authentic in 1 place & considered weak in another place. Either way, I don't like posting too much about shi'as, but I believe there are some lessons we can learn and ensure that the average layman knows about their kufr & zandaqa.

Those who get married with the intention of divorce are worse than the Shi'a who do mut'ah, because the Shi'a do mut'ah openly, whereas the person who has the intention of divorcing is doing it in the name of deceit and betrayal! The prophet(saw) has cursed such people....!!

A scholar would explain this better than myself, but what is present from this act these days is not the same as what the salaf differed over in the issue of "marrying with the intention of divorce" which was in a certain context where a person is outside of his country for business or a need etc...and fears committing zina, so he would marry with the intent of divorce, he might stay with her or not, but what he did is not to marry her for fun...So some of the scholars permitted that, whereas other scholars forbade that saying it goes against the purpose of nikaah & said the prophet(saw) has cursed such a person in the hadith. Some have said the contract is correct, but the marriage is based on deceit and betrayal, however the person might change his mind after marrying her and Allah(swt) knows best.

Not what some have made it turn into today, collecting money to travel abroad to marry sisters and divorce her after a week, then jump from girl to girl playing with the honour of our believing sisters. Would anyone accept or be pleased with some rich guy marrying his daughter to enjoy her and then divorce her...Wallahi this is filth. There's even a shaykh in America who said he will not marry any new Shahadah woman to brothers because they marry new converts and divorce them after a week. This is mostly coming from Madkhali deviants who do this.

Also be careful from Shi'as because they are the worst of all traitors and filthiest of all. There are shi'a scholars in Lebanon and elsewhere who give fatwas that it's permissible to do mut'ah with sunni girls without the permission of their fathers. May Allah(swt) protect our honour and destroy those who play around with the believing women in the name of religion!

If someone has committed zina, should they go to the judge and ask for the punishment or conceal it.

Shaykh ibn uthaymeen(rah) has answered this question in detail:

If the person has made a sincere tawbah to Allah(swt) and regretted what they have done and know that they won't do it again, then what's best is not to go to the judge and expose himself, but rather keep it a secret between him/herself and Allah(swt), and whoever asks for forgiveness, Allah(swt) will forgive them.

And if the person fears that they haven't made a sincere tawbah, and fear that they will return back to commit the sin once more, then it's best in his or her right to go and confess to the judge who would apply the punishment on him/her.

The Messenger of Allah encouraged us to use the miswaak before the Salah, however the hadith "Prayer with a miswaak is greater than 70 prayers without a miswaak" and other similar narrations are all weak.

The following hadith has the exact same wording but it is understood in 2 different ways by the scholars(it's also translated in 2 different ways) as shown below:

The Messenger of Allah said, "When you hear a man saying, 'People are ruined,' then he is the one who ruined them." ~ Riyadh al-Saliheen.

The Messenger of Allah said, "When you hear a man say, 'The people are ruined,' he himself is the most ruined of them all." ~ Riyadh al-Saliheen.

The arabic word we are looking at is "فهو اهلكهم"(he's the most ruined OR he is the one who ruined them).

So the first understanding of the hadith is that he is the one who brought all the trials to the people & ruined/destroyed them. Because of the amazement of himself, he was a cause to the ruining of the people. And because some people say others have been ruined to show that they are something special & are amazed at their own actions, believing there is no pious one on this Earth except themselves, no one is saved except themselves & that the religion must revolve around them & without them the religion would be gone & there is no good except in them, so there's no doubt that this person is from the ruined.

As for the second understand understanding of the hadith, whoever says the people are ruined, then he is the most ruined from among them. However the scholars have said that if he says that the people have been destroyed relating to the matters of their religion, for e.g. "There is alot of deviance & distortion in our time" Then there is no harm in saying this, as long as he does not think that he is self-righteous & belittles others because glorifying & being proud of yourself is from the major of the major sins.

So in short: Even though the scholars have differed in the context of the wording & its tenses, they have agreed that belittling others & being proud of yourself is a cause to the ruining of the people & being from the most ruined of the people. This topic has much more to cover, but I tried to bring what I believed was beneficial and Allah(swt) knows best.
